MISS BODMAN ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. John Whittesey Bodman of Wedgemere avenue, this town have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Priscilla May Bodman to John Ashmead Rodgers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Hooker of Rye, N. Y.

Miss Bodman was graduated from Skidmore College in 1934. She was student president of college government during her senior year.

Mr. Rodgers was graduated from the Loomis School in 1929 and from Williams College in 1933. He is a member of St. Anthony Hall (Delta Psi) fraternity. He is now studying at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The wedding will take place in November at the Church of the Epiphany, Winchester.

REGISTER FOR STATE ELECTION

It is noteworthy of the recent primaries that the total Democratic vote was larger than the Republican, and this in a State whose Republicanism has been impregnable until within a very few years. For several years recently the Democrats have been systematically registering their supporters, and the Republicans have permitted their registration lists to fall below par. Too many Republicans have stayed away from the poling booths at the primaries and have content themselves with believing that things will come out all right in the November elections. In the present battle for governorship of this Commonwealth an outpouring of the "stay-at-homes" will make certain a Republican victory in November.

Men and women of this town who are not on the voting list will be given an opportunity next week to register, and the Registrars of Voters will be in session at the office of the Town Clerk, Town Hall, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 9 and 10, from 2 to 5 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9 p. m.

The Winchester Republican Town Committee has opened headquarters at 8 Mt. Vernon street and will be glad to furnish information regarding registration. Transportation to and from the Town Hall on the registration dates, both in the afternoon and evening, may be obtained by telephoning the committee's headquarters at Winchester 2350. Persons who are not registered on the voting list cannot vote at the State Election on Nov. 6.

RARE OPPORTUNITY OFFERED TO WINCHESTER

Great enthusiasm was shown by all those persons fortunate enough to attend the opening session of the Winchester Community School of Religious Education on Monday evening, Oct. 1. Professor Wildman, whose lectures on the "Life of Jesus" last year were very popular proved himself no less interesting on the subject of the Old Testament; this course appeals not only to the Church School workers, but to all lovers of literature, history and philosophy and Professor Wildman's long experience in teaching this subject at Boston University enables him to present it in a most attractive manner.

There is a rare opportunity for Winchester people to hear Dr. Sidney Weston discuss "Young People's Problems and How to Meet Them." No lover of youth could fail to be interested in the question of a "Single or Double Standard" for boys and girls which Dr. Weston considered in his first talk, and the topics for succeeding sessions are no less absorbing and vital. On Oct. 8, "Young People's Relationships" will be the subject and later he will talk on "Ideals of Love and Marriage," "The Beverage Use of Alcoholic Liquors," "War or World Brotherhood," "Why be Good?," "Conflicts of Loyalties," etc. Every parent and every teacher must face these problems with the younger generation and here and now is Dr. Weston to help in their solution. Can you afford to miss this opportunity?

Mrs. Miller's course on the "Teaching Work of the Church" may be somewhat more specialized but it has an appeal to all those who have at heart the welfare of church schools in these days of doubt and conflict: and Miss Doherty's wide experience in the field of Story Telling will surely prove invaluable to all parents and teachers of young children.

All persons, regardless of their church affiliations, are urged to avail themselves of this unusual opportunity for the nominal sum of one dollar. The courses may be taken merely as listening courses, or more intensively for the purpose of attaining credits at no additional cost. The second session of the school will be on Oct. 8 and they will continue every Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock through Dec. 3, at the Baptist Church.

MRS. PHELPS ANNOUNCES HOLIDAY DANCES

Mrs. Cora Corthell Phelps, a favorite teacher of dancing in Winchester for many seasons, has announced the dates for a group of invitation holiday dances to be held in Waterfield Hall from 8:30 until 11 on the evenings of Nov. 2, Nov. 30, Dec. 28, Jan. 25, Feb. 22 and March 29.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The Women's Republican Club held the first regular meeting of the club year on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 3, in the Fortnightly rooms in Waterfield Hall, with the president, Mrs. C. Harold Smith, in the chair. Mrs. Smith cordially welcomed club members and guests and spoke briefly of the work, which had been done in planning the fall campaign. She spoke especially of the splendid work, which had been done by the Registration Committee under the direction of Mrs. Kingman Cass, chairman. The president urged upon members their responsibility in seeing that all Republicans were registered and asked them to impress upon any, who claimed to be uninterested in politics as such, the fact that the home, school, worker and employer will each be directly effected by the kind of governor and the kind of government, which we have in this state. In closing Mrs. Smith said that this is the time for concerted action to add to our forces and to work for a Republican victory in November. The president then introduced Mr. Joel Eastman, guest speaker for the afternoon, who had for his subject "A Republican's Reaction to the N. R. A."

Mr. Eastman first touched very briefly on the State Election, Nov. 6 and said that the question which should now be uppermost in state politics is this—Can the state afford to elect the Democratic candidate? Every citizen of the Commonwealth, he said, should question, ponder and consider if, for the good of the state, it would be safe, prudent or wise.

Mr. Eastman spoke a few words in praise of the splendid work, which has been accomplished by the women's organizations and said that they are the most intelligent political instrument, which we have in the world today.

In speaking of the N. R. A., Mr. Eastman said that he had been interested in the National Industrial Recovery Act primarily for two reasons —first that it recognized the problem, which the universal use of machinery had caused and secondly that it recognized the fact that men might make contracts in the collective manner. Had the National Industrial Recovery Act been left free of political control it might have worked out beneficially but since the N. R. A. is politically controlled it has failed as an aid. With the president controlling the contracts and codes we have absolute autocracy, said Mr. Eastman, while, by subterfuge, a meaning is conveyed to the people, which is not there.

The whole nature of life is the seeking to create unhampered; yet the N. R. A. seeks to control our every action. The struggle, therefor Mr. Eastman asserted must be to maintain human liberty, which is the right to create that which is the soul's dream. Against human liberty stands the N. R. A., a movement of power, which seeks not to open the gates of opportunity but by penalties and coercion to exert the hand of control. The N. R. A. is a tremendous economic and political mistake but the contest for human liberty, said Mr. Eastman, make no mistake on this score, will be as great as ever faced a free people and can be determined only by the resolution and courage of a people.

This short resume can in no wise do justice to Mr. Eastman's brilliant, witty and humorous discourse, so pointedly illustrated by his own experiences and those of his clients. The club was indeed fortunate to secure so fine a speaker and one so well versed in his subject.

A business meeting followed with reports by the following chairmen:

Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, chairman of the Education Committee gave notice that next Monday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at headquarters, 8 Mt. Vernon street, the Education Committee would hold a Round Table Conference to explain and understand county politics, all club members are invited to attend. On Friday afternoon of this week at 2:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Education Committee at headquarters. Mrs. Kingman Cass, chairman of the Registration Committee and Mrs. Vincent Clarke, chairman of the Transportation Committee also gave reports of the work of their committees. Mrs. Jesse Wilson, chairman in charge of checking on Election Day, first wished the club a happy and successful year and, as president of the Fortnightly, welcomed this club to new quarters in the Fortnightly rooms; and then reported the work of her committee. Mrs. Theodore Godwin, chairman of the Membership Committee read the names of 39 new members, which the drive for membership had brought in to date.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by the Social Committee, Mrs. F. W. Aseltine, chairman; with Mrs. Edward Berry and Mrs. Herbert L. Wadsworth acting as hostesses.

MISS HILL ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Hill of Washington street announce the engagement of their daughter, Natalie to Mr. Willard Dalrymple Chandler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard D. Chandler of Webster street at an informal dancing party in their home Wednesday evening.

Miss Hill is a graduate of Winchester High School and is well known among the town's young people. Mr. Chandler was graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology with the class of 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Campbell of The Nutshell tudio have returned from a trip to New York and Chicago where they purchased new merchandise for their shop. They are now showing a complete line of greeting cards together with interesting new pottery, jewelry and bridge prizes. The wanted books are in their lending library.

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, Oct. 10 in Lyceum Hall. As the club wishes to compete in the annual State ritualistic contest, all officers are urged to attend rehearsals in order to perfect themselves in floor work.

Vice president Minnie A. O'Neill announces a costume party for the next social event. The date is Wednesday evening, Oct. 24 at 8 o'clock in Lyceum Hall. And it's up to the entertainment committee of about 30 members to put a regular Hallowe'en program on the "bill of fare." So-o "put on your old gray bunnit," your cherished antiques, or what-ever-you-call-'em rigs and join the gay parade. For there is going to be costume prizes and other surprises and a word to the wise is sufficient. The general public is invited to participate in this soiree and as in all Emblem Club affairs, those who attend will get their money's worth.

In response to an invitation from Esteemed Leading Knight Arthur J. Harty, the Emblem Club will assist the local Lodge of Elks at their charity entertainment on Nov. 15 in the Town Hall. The assisting committee is made up as follows: Mesdames G. H. Lochman, J. J. McCarthy, T. F. Fallon, B. E. Griffin and F. E. O'Neill.

Still pictures of the Passion Play at Oberammergau and music will feature the program which ought to go over big in Winchester where the general public is derived of motion picture shows.

The three day convention of the Supreme Emblem Club, U. S. A., at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, brought forth a large attendance of delegates. Even Balboa Canal Zone was represented, which shows the growth of the order all over the United States.

A reception to delegates was staged on Sunday evening. An entertainment made up from talented members of all clubs was the special attraction of the opening night.

Election of officers was held on Monday, after the regular business was transacted and Winchester Emblem Club was personally honored by having one of its brightest members, Mrs. Fred Scholl, chosen as second Supreme Marshal. A banquet and costume party were features of the evening's program. Installation of officers took place on Tuesday, at which time Mrs. Scholl was presented with a bouquet from the Winchester Club.

Among those who attended the convention from Winchester were President K. T. Griffin and past president A. W. Lowden; E. A. Scholl, C. L. Coakley, E. C. McCarthy and K. E. Fallon, Mrs. M. F. Flanders, Mrs. M. Goodhue, Mrs. F. Sullivan, Miss Alice Sullivan.

WINCHESTER YOUNGSTERS AT LONGWOOD

Winchester was well represented among the 132 boys and girls who participated in the 26th semi-annual one-set, one day tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club last Saturday. Intermittent showers and finally the afternoon downpour of rain caused Mrs. George Wightman, the referee and founder of the tournament, to call off play in the third and fourth rounds respectively of the boys' and girls' competition, and before any matches in mixed doubles could be run off. The tournament will be resumed this Saturday at 9 o'clock and there are several local youngsters ready to continue in the running for titular honors.

The feature match on the girls' side of the tourney was that between Polly Morrill, top seeded sister of Mrs. Marjorie Morrill Painter, formerly one of the select first ten and Dorothy Kleeb of Winchester, who gave her highly regarded opponent a real battle before yielding 6—5.

Among those from Winchester who competed were Russell Ellis, Elliott Peppard, Jack Corbin, Tone Pfeiffer, Bennet Wightman, Raymond Bancroft, Richard Sexton, Donald Waugh, Jr., Dean Carleton, Peter Scully, Leland Sosman, Harrison Lyman, Shirley White, Priscilla Blaisdell, Louise Barr, Dorothy Kleeb, Jeanne Drake, Suzanne Cunningham, Katherine Gilbert, Ruth Morrow, Margaret Greene, Dorothy Bruno, Suzanne Reed, Priscilla Jones, Ruth Bernnard, Dorothy Fitts, Edith Lyman, Jeanne Tufts, Mildred Ghirardini, Sally Sharon, Adele Joy, Lois Ladd and Barbara Kelley.

HARVARD PROFESSORS TO GIVE ILLUSTRATED LECTURES ON SCIENCE AND RELIGION

Under the auspices of the Protestant Churches of Winchester for six successive Sunday evenings, beginning next Sunday, Oct. 7 at 8 o'clock at the parish house of the First Congregational Church, the following illustrated lectures will be given.

Oct. 7—"The Universe Around Us"—Mr. Lincoln R. Thiesmeyer, A.M., Austin Teaching Fellow in Geology at Harvard.

Oct. 14—"How the World Was Made"—Mr. Thiesmeyer.

Oct. 21—"The Everlasting Hills"—Mr. Chalmer John Roy, A.M., also Austin Teaching Fellow in Geology at Harvard.

Oct. 28—"The Parade of the Living"—Mr. Fred B. Phleger, A.M., Assistant in Paleontology at Harvard.

Nov. 4—"The Coming of Mankind"—Mr. Phleger.

Nov. 11—"The Future of the Earth as the Abode of Man"—Mr. Kirtley F. Mather, Professor of Geology at Harvard.

Everybody is invited to these lectures. They have proved very popular and have drawn large audiences in surrounding communities.

A silver collection will be taken to defray the expenses.

Messrs. William L. Parsons and Frank E. Rowe, chairman and secretary respectively of the town planning board, attended the meeting of the Massachusetts Association of Planning Boards which opened Wednesday in Brookline.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

One of our former premier paddlers, "Jim" Newman, showed his heels to deck sailors from New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts last Saturday. On the Charles River basin in the morning and also in the afternoon "Jim" once more gave a jof his skill in handling the sailing craft with the hiking-seat. Saturday's races, best two out of three, were for the Union Boat Club trophy. Herman Dudley Murphy, also of Winchester Boat Club, skippered the races. Rain, wind and choppy water made the going rather nasty, but all entries weathered it.

On Sunday, our own Mystic trophy was sailed for in a very light breeze. "Jim" Newman like a true sportsman, gave way to a young, coming sailo, from Rhode Island, since the latter, had given "Jim" the use of his boat on the previous day. This same young man finished second. Commodore Ralph Britain of the American Canoe Association, won the event. Mr. Murphy of W. B. C., who is nearly 70 years of age, and still active in sailing, was third. Next year will see much more of this kind of sailing in local waters.

Volley Ball is still on the card every Tuesday night. There has been a slight falling off in attendance which may be due to the mistaken idea that its too cool to play now. Not so, in fact, the slight snap in the air makes for faster playing. Keep this in mind next Tuesday night.

Thanks to Bennett, "Bill" Locke and "Monk" Russell our new fill is all green-grassed and growing gaily!

Tomorrow night, Oct. 6. Regular club dance and free to all members in good standing. This ought to be a bang-up time. All the members will sure be there, and don't forget, friends of the club, you are welcome, too.

Save Friday evening, Oct. 19. The big fall sports smoker. Come and see movies of the 4th of July Canoe Marathon, etc. Entertainment, eats and a good time are in store for you, also bear in mind the annual Hallowe'en Party by the crew and for regatta expenses. Oct. 27, Saturday night. You won't miss that one any way! That is if you have been to the previous ones.

Let us mention tomorrow night once more. The regular club dance!

DEMOCRATIC ACTIVITIES

The registration committee of the Winchester Democratic Town Committee will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of William E. McDonald, Jr., chairman of the Town Committee, 10 Hill street.

Ex-Mayor Thomas H. Duffy, of Woburn, chairman of the Woburn Democratic City Committee and chairman of the Curley workers in the Sixth Senatorial District in the primary campaign, will be present and confer with the Winchester Town Committee workers.

The registration committee is the same one which did such effective work for the primary registration and is composed of a main or central committee of the following: Mrs. Mary L. Kelley, chairman; Mrs. Minnie O'Neill, Mr. Luke P. Glendon and Mr. William T. Bond. They will be assisted by the following captains of the precinct committees: Joseph W. Flaherty, Precinct 1; Frederic W. Fitzgerald, Precinct 2; Mrs. Katharine E. Doyle, Precinct 3; Daniel J. Daly, Precinct 4; Frances E. Sullivan, Precinct 5; and Elizabeth C. McDonald, Precinct 6.

The committee, working under the direction of Mr. William E. McDonald, Jr., and Mrs. Mary L. Kelley, chairman and vice-chairman, respectively of the Democratic Town Committee, will use the same machinery and prepared lists that were used before the primary.

They will welcome the offer of cars to be used on any or all of the following registration dates: Oct. 9, 10, 16, or 17.

An invitation has been extended to Mr. Whitfield L. Tuck, former chairman of the Democratic Town Committee to be present this evening at the registration meeting and give the workers any advice which will lead to the success of the Walsh-Curley ticket.

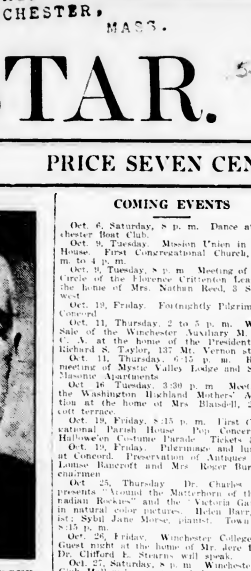

STEVENSON COREY BROADCAST FROM LITTLE AMERICA

Winchester friends of Stevenson Corey, youthful supply officer with the snow-bound Byrd Expedition in Little America, thrilled with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Corey of Governor's avenue, as his voice came to them through the air Tuesday evening in the weekly Byrd broadcast over Station WNAC.

"Steve" has been chosen to be one of the little party which is to go on from the main base for scientific study of the mountains discovered by Admiral Byrd. Tractors have pushed on ahead to break trail for the intrepid party, the members of which are to be equipped and supplied for 110 days, though the trip is expected to consume 90 days.

The Winchester boy's contribution to the broadcast was a brief summary of the part he is playing in connection with the trip and an important part it is. As supply officer of the entire expedition he has also outfitted and equipped the sub-party for their dash to the mountains, being responsible for the food, clothing and other necessities to life in that exposed spot.

In addition he is to drive a team of nine dogs, which he personally has been training all winter. "Steve's" voice and that of the other members of the expedition who spoke sounded fine, but the former's local friends listened in vain for some announcement as to whether he is still sporting the full beard in which he appeared in recent newspaper pictures.

DANIEL BRADFORD BADGER

Daniel Bradford Badger, for many years one of Winchester's prominent citizens and retired president of the E. B. Badger & Sons Company, one of the principal firms of coppersmiths in the country, died Wednesday, Oct. 3, at his home, 12 Prospect street, after a brief illness. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock in the First Congregational Church with the pastor, Rev. Howard J. Chidley, officiating. Interment will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Daniel Bradford Badger occupied a position of distinction in industrial circles. For many years he was president of E. B. Badger & Sons Company, which is one of theoldest metal manufacturing concerns in Massachusetts, having had a continuous existence of over 90 years. At the time of his death he was chairman of the Board of Directors of the Corporation.

A native son of Boston, he was born Aug. 25, 1850, his parents being Erastus B. and Minnie (Campbell) Badger. He acquired a grammar school education and in 1866 became an apprentice in the plant of which he later became the head, the business then being conducted under the name of Hicks & Badger. His father had taken charge in 1854 and a quarter of a century later, in 1879, Daniel B. Badger became a member of the partnership, the name of which was changed to E. B. Badger & Son. In 1900 the business was incorporated as the E. B. Badger & Sons Company. The period of his identification with the enterprise covered 68 years, from the time when he was 16.

Mr. Badger located permanently in Winchester in 1898, but for seven years prior to that had spent his summers here. He took an active interest in town affairs, serving as Fire Engineer from 1901 through 1906, and as Forest Fire Warden for several years. He was a member of the Town Finance Committee in 1912, and a director of the Winchester Savings Bank and had long enjoyed high standing not alone locally but among the representatives of financial and manufacturing interests in the Bay State.

Mr. Badger was a member of St. John Lodge, A. F. & A. M., also a member of both York and Scottish Rite Masonry and a member of Aleppo Temple of the Mystic Shrine. He was also a member of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of this town and of Winchester Royal Arch Chapter. A practical philanthropist, he was president of the Home for Aged Couples in Roxbury and he was past president of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics Association and the Master Builders' Association. He was also a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and the Old School Boys of Boston.

Mr. Badger was married in 1875 to Miss Lizzie Pearson who survives him with three sons, Erastus B. of Winchester, Walter L. P. of Meredith, N. H., and Paul B. Badger of Greenwich, Conn. He was the oldest of 11 children of whom there are now surviving: Mrs. Clarissa Sargent, Mr. W. C. H. Badger, Mr. Frank Badger, Mr. E. J. Badger, and Dr. George S. C. Badger.

Up to the beginning of this summer, despite his age, Mr. Badger was active in the business of E. B. Badger & Sons Company and was at the office practically every day.

TENNIS THIS WEEK-END

After being rained out again last week-end, another attempt will be made on Saturday afternoon to play the final match in the annual fall tennis tournament for the Benedict Cup on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at the Palmer street courts.

"Jim" Riley and "Larry" Freeburn are the finalists for the cup, won last year from Freeburn by "Herb" Ross who was eliminated this year by the left handed "Larry."

The final match in doubles will be played at 10:30 Sunday morning and will bring together Hall Gamage and "Bill" Morton and "Jim" Riley and "Billy" Gilpatric.

Rain and the boys' and girls' tournament at Longwood last Saturday spoiled the Parent and Child competition arranged for Palmer street last week-end. The tournament will be played this Saturday afternoon if sufficient entries are received. There is no entry fee and entries will be received up to 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Palmer street or phone Wallace Blanchard, Win. 1173.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Scully of Sheffield road entertained Mrs. John P. Sullivan and her three daughters of Portland, Me. as house guests over last week-end.

LOYALTY SUNDAY—FAMILY DAY AT CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY, OCT. 7

According to a custom of many years the town of Winchester comes again to Family Day at Church. Because of world conditions such a reminder is urgent. Our civilization is in danger, for unless there is a strengthening and undergirding of the moral and spiritual forces the present economic and social developments may prove of doubtful permanency value. Civilization is based primarily upon character, and our churches are character-building agencies.

Roger Babson says, "Church attendance runs only about 30 per cent of church membership. Depressions are the result of decline in spiritual life." If such a statement is correct it behooves every church-going family to get behind any movement which aims to develop a deeper spiritual life in every community within our nation for the sake of religion and welfare recovery.

By a very large majority of churches, Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, Sunday, Oct. 7, has been chosen as Loyalty Sunday (Jewish services Saturday, Oct. 6). Such a reminder calls for serious consideration from every family. As citizens of Winchester let us support our church services and thus do our part to stem the tide of indifference which is so wide-spread, and to lead our children and youth and the churchless families to good citizenship and religious character.

The pastors of the Protestant churches of Winchester look forward to seeing the families of their respective parishes at the morning service next Sunday. "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."

INJURED ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE SOMERVILLE OFFICERS

Early Monday morning shortly after 2:30 Sergt. John H. Noonan and Patrolman John Hanlon in Patrol 51 received a radio call to go to Highland avenue and Prospect street to investigate a had accident.

Upon arrival they found a man laying at the side of the road with a damaged Chrysler sedan standing across the street. Nearby was a Somerville Police car and with the man were Officers Kiley, Forrestall and Corkery of the Somerville Department.

The Somerville police told the Winchester authorities that they had been chasing the Chrysler to arrest the operator for drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor. They said the machine proceeded along Highland avenue at about 75 miles an hour and had turned over four times when the driver tried to turn into a side street. The machine finally landed right side up, but the driver was unconscious when pulled out by the Somerville authorities.

He was taken to the Winchester Hospital, still in an unconscious condition, and treated by Dr. Philip J. McMannus. Externally he was apparently only slightly injured, but Dr. McMannus ordered him retained at the hospital until any danger of serious head injury was past.

A license was found in his pocket, made out to Thomas A. Steele of Glen road, Wilmington. Patrolman Kiley remained at the hospital with the injured man, against whom the Somerville police will prefer charges.

DROVE CAR UP RAILROAD TRACKS

Shortly after midnight Tuesday morning Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell and Patrolman Irving Reardon were sent to the coal yard of Parker & Lane Company on Cross street to investigate an unusual automobile accident.

Upon their arrival they found a Ford coach, registered to a resident of Loring avenue, about 100 yards south of the Highland railroad station on the tracks that lead from that point to the Boston & Maine freight yard on Swanton street. Bystanders and employees of the Gelatine Company told the police that the car had come up the tracks from the freight yard, and that there had been two persons in it at the time.

The owner of the machine was found in the back seat, and was arrested by the police for drunkenness. He denied driving the car, and his license was found to have expired Aug. 2. The Central Garage wrecker assisted the police in getting the car turned around, after which it was driven to Headquarters by Sergeant O'Connell.

BREAK REPORTED IN WEDGEMERE SECTION

The home of Mr. Frank Dunbar of 14 Mystic Valley Parkway was broken into some time last Saturday night in the absence of the family and while the maid was out for the evening.

The latter returned to the house about midnigh; and discovered that some one had been in during the time she was away. Two rooms on the upper floor of the house had been ransacked and a checkup disclosed that a good sized sum of money and some valuables were missing.

Police Headquarters was notified and two patrol cars were sent to the house. The officers found that access had been gained to the dwelling by jimmying a window above the catch of the door on a screened porch.

The thief or thieves did not take all the money in the house though it was evident that the money left behind had been handled by them. Except for the rooms upstairs nothing in the house had been disturbed so far as could be learned.

GORMAN—LEAHEY

Miss Mary A. Leahey of Grove street and John J. Gorman of Warwick terrace, Deputy Chief of the Winchester Fire Department, were quietly married last Saturday evening in St. Mary's rectory by the pastor of St. Mary's Church, Rev. Fr. Aloysius Malone.

Miss Leahey was attended by her cousin, Miss Mary S. Falvey of Cambridge and J. Clifford Gorman of Winchester asted as best man for his father.

The bride wore a platinum gray velvet ensemble with a corsage of orchids. Miss Falvey wore commodore blue lace with matching hat and carried talisman roses. Following the ceremony the bridal party and members of the immediate families went on to the Hotel Westminster where an informal reception was held and the wedding supper served.

Ufon their return from a wedding journey in Canada, Deputy Chief Gorman and his bride will make their home on Warwick terrace. Both are widely known in Winchester. The bride attended the Winchester schools and has for some years conducted an insurance business locally and in Boston. Deputy Chief Gorman is one of the veterans of the Fire Department and is a member of Winchester Lodge of Elks.

WINCHESTER BOYS ON TECH DEAN'S LIST

William Irvin Thompson, '35; Utley Wilson Smith, '35; William Edward Abbott, '37; Eugene Perry Cooper, '37; Albert Adams Haskell, '37 and David Cushing Hill, '37; are Winchester boys whose names appear upon the Dean's list of undergraduate students of high scholastic standing at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The list issued last month and made public this week is for the second term of the academic year, 1933-34.

Both Abbott and Cooper have the distinction of being placed among the first year students of first honor rank, having term ratings from 4.50 to 5.00. Both boys prepared for Tech at Winchester High School as did the others on the honor list, though Hill previously attended Oak Park (Ill.) and River Forest Township High School.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Cauliflower is this week's outstanding vegetable. Fine, close, white heads are unusually low priced. Cabbage, onions and white potatoes are very cheap. Dry, mealy sweet potatoes and moist syrupy yams are both at the height of their seasons.

A variety of fruits are available at reasonable prices, including apples, grapes, melons, pears, grapefruit, lemons and oranges.

Unusually mild weather is prolonging the growing season and so postponing scarcity and high prices of fresh foods.

Meats, particularly beef, but also pork, lamb and veal are also cheaper.

The following menus are made up from the latest market news available:

Low Cost Dinner
Pan-fried Beef Liver and Onions
Mashed Potatoes Sweet-Sour Beets
Bread and Butter
Apple Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Chicken Fricassee with Dumplings
Baked Sweet Potatoes Green Beans
Bread and Butter
Spanish Cream
Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Clam or Oyster Cocktail
Roast Beef or Lamb
Franconia Potatoes
Cauliflower, Maitre d'hotel
Apple and Celery Salad
Rolls and Butter
Lemon Meringue Pie
Coffee Milk

FATALLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY TRUCK

Six Year Old Virginia McKinnon Died in Hospital

Six year old Virginia McKinnon, a City of Boston ward, living in Winchester with Mr. and Mrs. John J. McNamara at 5 Russell road, was fatally injured about 1 o'clock last Friday afternoon when she was struck while near the intersection of Russell road and Main street by a Reo truck, owned by the Town of Winchester and operated by Chester R. Weldon of 15 Park avenue.

Police Headquarters was notified and Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey was sent to investigate. Weldon stated that he was going north when the child ran from behind a machine parked slightly south of Russell road. He swung his truck to the left, but the child continued to run and it was impossible for him to avoid striking her.

The little girl was taken to the hospital by Francis Flaherty of Russell road and Ralph Tauro of Sylvester avenue. She was treated by Dr. A. L. Maietta and Dr. Philip J. McManus, but proved to be fatally injured and died at 3:15, a little more than two hours after the accident. Patrolman Dempsey took Mrs. McNamara to the Hospital and Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach of St. Mary's Church was also summoned.

Medical Examiner William H. Kelliher of Woburn was notified and viewed the body, after which it was taken in charge by a Roxbury undertaking firm. Funeral services were held in Boston Tuesday and the interment was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, that city.

DR. CALVIN W. RICE DIES IN NEW YORK

Long Secretary of Society of Mechanical Engineers

Dr. Calvin Winsor Rice, well known engineer and for the past 28 years secretary of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, died Tuesday night, Oct. 2 in Murray Hill Hospital New York of a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been taken ill suddenly during the afternoon and rushed by ambulance to the hospital. He was 65 years old.

Dr. Rice was born in this town, the son of Edward Hyde and Lucy J. Staples Rice. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with the class of 1890 and received a doctor's degree in engineering from the Technological Hochschule at Darmstadt in 1926.

Dr. Rice was secretary and a member of the board of trustees of the New York Museum of Science and Industry, a member of the corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, national counselor of Purdue Research Foundation, a fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, a member of the London Society of Electrical Engineers, Masaryk Academy at Prague, the Deutsches Museum of Munich and the American Society of Safety Engineers.

He was active in many branches of the engineering profession but he specialized in the electrical field. In researches carried on by the General Electric Company, he was usually under the supervision of Dr. Rice. In 1925 with E. W. Kellogg he invented a hornless loudspeaker.

He was a member of the Engineers Club of New York. His home was at Montclair, N. J. He is survived by his widow, a son, Edward Winslow Rice and a daughter, Miss Marjorie Rice.

OLD WINCHESTER BOY WON CANOE TROPHY

James A. Newman of Leominster, former well known member of the Winchester Boat Club, came back again last Saturday and took the Union Boat Club Challenge Trophy at the Charles River Basin. Newman won the first two races in the sailing canoe event on the first time it has been run off since 1928. The trophy race calls for a two out of three win. After Newman won his races, the other three challengers from New York and Connecticut canoe clubs were satisfied and held over for Sunday's race for the Mystic Challenge Trophy.

Another canoe sailor of the old school took part in Saturday's races, Hermann Dudley Murphy, formerly of the Winchester Boat Club. He sailed his "Banshee," but did not finish.

Newman, who always was unbeatable in his active days, has sailed little during recent years, and the Union Boat Club was fortunate in having a defender of his calibre to meet the New Yorkers, who had every confidence in their ability to lift the cup. Newman sailed the "Centaur," a canoe owned by Herman Harrington of the Swastika Canoe Club of Providence. He made easy work of his wins.

In Sunday's race for the Mystic Trophy, Newman surrendered the "Cenature" to its owner, who sailed it for third place.

WINCHESTER MAN INJURED AS CAR HIT POLE

Early last Friday evening, Patrolman James E. Farrell was notified of an automobile accident at the Medford line. After informing Headquarters, Officer Farrell went to the line and found that the accident had taken place in Medford and had created a dangerous situation.

According to the police, two automobiles, one driven by John Keefe of 168 Edge Hill road, Braintree and the other, by Roger Hanley of 103 Forest street, Winchester, were proceeding along Winthrop street in Medford with the Keefe car ahead. When at a point opposite Oak Grove Cemetery, Keefe's car became unmanageable when the steering gear broke and plunged into an electric light pole, snapping it off.

The pole fell across the car that struck it onto Hanley's machine, smashing in the roof. Hanley sustained injuries to his back and head, being taken to the office of a physician by passing motorists.

The chief danger in the situation lay in the fact that several high voltage wires were pulled down by the pole, the electricity flashing from them in a shower of sparks as they struck the car tracks.

Officer Farrell was the first policeman on the scene, and had a busy time detouring traffic and preventing the curious from walking onto the live wires. He was finally relieved by Medford officers, who took charge of the damaged machines and summoned Edison repair crews to repair the damage done the wires which plunged the entire district into darkness.

WINCHESTER ARTISTS IN CONCERT

Eva Bowler, well known saprano, gave a delightful program Tuesday evening at the first social event of the season at Park Street Church, Boston. Dr. Conrad introduced the artist most graciously and an audience of over 400 people were most enthusiastic in their applause. Mary Ranton Witham was Mrs. Bowler's accompanist and her playing was the subject of much favorable comment.

Miss Julia Parker of Falmouth spent a few days last week visiting her sister Mrs. Frank Carleton of Church street.

WINCHESTER GROUP THEATRE ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR FALL SEASON

To Try Its Wings with "The Swan"

At a meeting of its Board of Directors, held last Friday evening at the home of the chairman, the Winchester Group Theatre completed its plans for the organization of the fall season, and in announcements going forward to the sustaining members this week or the first of next, these plans will be explained. They will be still further enlarged upon to the active membership when that body holds its first meeting of the season, Friday evening, Oct. 19 at the home of Mr. Theodore Godwin.

The first play of the new Group will be presented in the auditorium of the high school on the evening of Friday, Dec. 14. The Group it will be remembered plans elaborate and skillfully directed productions, with well-rounded and co-operative casts, with scenery designed and built by artists and architects of its membership, to be performed for a subscription audience of sustaining members. As a result of last spring's activity, which was fully reported in various issues of the Star, a membership of well over 500 was assured and this membership was sufficient to guarantee successful production.

Throughout the summer the production and play-selection committees have been at work trying to find a suitable play for the debut of the Group. The ideal play would be clean, fresh, have a well-rounded cast of characters with even balance between sexes and ages, a background that would give the local artists scope for their talent, and should preferably employ a considerable cast. The play must be of distinct literary merit such as befitted the intelligence of a discriminating audience.

When the Board of Directors, last Friday, ratified the choice of the production committee, they felt that all these requirements had been met. "The Swan" was first produced in this country the season of 1923-24, a season which also had such other undoubted successes as "The Show-Off," "Hell-Bent for Heaven," "Outward Bound," "The Goose Hangs High," "Sun-Up," "The Beggar on Horseback," "The Whole Town's Talking," Galsworthy's "Windows," Shaws "St. Joan," Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," "the Miracle," "The Nervous Wreck," "The Potters," "White Cargo," "In the Next Room," and the Hampden revival of "Cyrano de Bergerac." New York critics still look back with nostalgia on the really tremendous amount of fine dramatic fare offered them in that season. Despite this really terrific competition, however, "The Swan" received their unanimous acclaim as the best comedy of the year, an acclainm which was backed up by a public approval that forced 255 performances of the play in a run which was broken only by the Actors' Equity strike of spring 1924.

Of the nine plays which exceeded 255 performances that year, four were musical comedies, two highly lurid melodramas, two broad farce and one a homely and simple play, "Poppy." Of the famous plays listed above only "The Nervous Wreck," thanks to the starring genius of Otto Kruger exceeded 255 performances and few of the others even approached this number.

Written by Ferenc Molnar, who received the Cross of the Legion of Honor for it after the Paris performance, the play is an intelligent and witty comedy of mythical royalty, involving romance and stage color.

The original cast included Phillip Merrivale, Basil Rathbone, Henry Warwick, Hilda Spong, Alison Skipworth and Eva Le Gallienne. It firmly established the reputation of Le Gallienne, already made in "Liliom" as being no flash in the pan and has ever since remained a favorite play in the Le Gallienne repertory.

The play will be produced under the supervision of a committee consisting of Mr. Gerald Hill, chairman; Mrs. William H. Gilpatric, Mrs. Robert Reynolds, Mr. Harry Goodwin, Mr. Clifford Cunningham. Two sub-committees are already at work on casting and on designing the set.

The casting committee will remain anonymous and no report will be made until, their work is finished. It is hoped to be able to announce the definite cast within a fortnight. The design committee meanwhile including Mr. George Hayden, Jr., Mr. E. Kenneth Clark and Mr. John Burchard, 2nd, are now holding a competition for the design of the set which will ultimately be built by the Group.

Further announcements concerning this design, the cast, the director and more about the play will appear from time to time in the columns of the Star.

Meanwhile the sustaining membership committee under Mr. Theodore von Rosenvinge, chairman, is daily receiving applications for sustaining membership. These memberships will be allotted in the order of their receipt up to the capacity of the hall which certainly does not leave much over 100 such memberships open at the current writing.

BETHANY NEWS

The Sunday School supper committee feel quite pleased with themselves that the event Friday evening was so successful. Our thanks is extended to all who patronized and supported us.

Don't forget Sunday is Rally Day, Family Day and Loyalty Day. We need everybody.

Two more vacationists were interviewed through the luncheon Wednesday and are herewith added to the previous list. Our president, Mrs. Saunders, motored to Rutland, Vt. in all that rain Saturday. Her chauffeur chose to drive part of the way on the trolley tracks, with nearly disasterous results. Mrs. Saunders says when she drives to California, she's going by train.

Mrs. Eddy, our secretary, reported several lovely trips during the summer, visiting in New York, Vermont and making an extensive trip to Nova Scotia. She brought back several interesting snapshots of this trip, an especially lovely one taken in the Public Gardens in Halifax, being enlarged and hung at an art exhibit in the Hotel Statler in Boston, last Monday and Tuesday.

An excellent luncheon was served Wednesday noon, for which Mrs. Fred Saunders is chiefly responsible. A good crowd turned out, and the usual business meeting followed the luncheon. Of interest to brides, old and new, is the announcement of a lecture to be given Tuesday next, at 2 p. m. under the auspices of the First National Stores. Admission is free, although probably someone will be around with that little tin cup, if you're so inclined. The subject of the lecture is, "What to Feed Finicky Husbands or Meals That Men Smack Their Lips Over." Free menu sheets will be distributed and cake and coffee served. It sounds good. Surely any suggestions along the lines how to keep husbands well fed and contented ought to prove interesting to all ladies in the community. Everyone is welcome at 2 o'clock in the assembly hall of the Second Congregational Church.

One suggestion has been offered as a solution to this Wednesday afternoon problem of unchaperoned children namely to change the Bethany Day back to Tuesday, as it used to be. What is the general opinion?

ROSS—HOWARD

Mrs. William H. Howard of Summer street, Malden announces the marriage of her daughter, Marion, to Mr. Herbert F. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Ross of Madison avenue.

The bride is a graduate of Wheaton College, 1931, and of the Pierce Secretarial School. Mr. Ross, who is well known as a college and club tennis player, was graduated from Winchester High School and from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is now associated as distribution manager with a publishing house and with his bride is to make his home at 17 Bacon street.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The first meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society will be held at the Unitarian Church on Tuesday, Oct. 8. There will be a luncheon at 1 p. m. preceding the meeting which will open at 2 p. m. Informal reception to new members will follow the meeting.

REORGANIZED CHOIR AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

The newly organized choir of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham, will sing for the first time at the Rally Day services next Sunday morning at 10.30 o'clock.

Lillian R. Whitman of Prospect street has been engaged as soprano soloist. Mrs. Whitman has held a wide and varied musical career. She has studied under such men as the late Horatio Parker, then head of the department of music at Yale, and the great Mollenhauer, who for many years conducted the People's Symphony and the Handel and Haydn Society. While in Connecticut, Mrs. Whitman was soloist at the Ansonia Congregational Church, one of the largest and most influential churches in that section of the state. In addition to concert work, Mrs. Whitman has had several seasons with a light opera company, in which she displayed not only musical talent but great dramatic ability. The Methodist Church considers itself fortunate in having Mrs. Whitman as soprano soloist for the coming year.

David Downer, the tenor soloist, is a pupil of G. Townseld Coward and has sung in the double octette at the Arlington Street Church, under Thompson Stone. He is favorably known locally as a tenor soloist. Raymond Coffey, the baritone soloist, is well known in West Somerville circles where he has for several years done solo work at the College Avenue Methodist Church. Mary Ranton Witham, whose outstanding musicianship is familiar to people of Winchester and Boston, has already developed the junior choir of the church into one of the best junior musical organizations around Boston. Mrs. Witham will direct both choirs this year. Mary H. French, also well known as a musician of Winchester, will be the organist.

The Sunday School Rally Day program at 9:30 will be keenly interesting to every boy and girl. Mr. Daniel C. Koo, of Shanghai, China, who has been in America just three weeks will be the special speaker and tell how boys and girls live in China, what they do, how they play and work and how they go to school. Mr. Koo is the principal of the Shaoshing Junior High School of 400 boys, of Shanghai. He will be dressed in his native costume for this occasion.

The two Epworth Leagues will unite in a Rally Day service at 5 o'clock, with Rev. Glen Glazier, the popular institute leader, as speaker. The League hour will close with a comradeship gathering and refreshments.

Other dates of importance in the near future are the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, Oct. 11; the Epworth League Dramatic evening, (three one act comedies), Oct, 11; the Epworth League circuit rally, Sunday evening, Oct. 14, with Rev. Russell D. Cole to speak on his recent visit to the Passion Play in Oberammergau, the Young Women's Club meeting at the parsonage, Oct. 18 and the Jonesport Fair in the Town Hall, Oct. 30 and 31.

OPENING MEETING OF THE WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The October meeting of the Women's League of the First Baptist Church of this town was one of unusual interest. Rev. J. Lynn Radcliff, pastor of the College Avenue Methodist Church of Somerville, was the speaker, taking for is subject, "What Can the Churches Do About Liquor?" His topic was a timely one and his presentation vigorous and unusual.

The luncheon committee, with Mrs. Carrie Eldredge as hostess, served a delicious luncheon open to the public at 12 m. The business meeting which followed was full of enthusiasm because of the interesting plans which were proposed. It was announced that the Thrift Shop which opens today at 8 Park street, would be open every day, forenoon and afternoon with the exception of Wednesday afternoons when the shop will close, as the other stores in the town are doing.

The program for the coming year promises to be one of the best and most progressive which the organization has ever had.

YOUNG PEOPLE PLAN IMPORTANT YEAR

The Young People's Society of the First Congregational Church is about to commence the program for the new year. Dr. Chidley has chosen the topic, "Where do we go from here?" for his talk at the first of these meetings, this Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

The society has a new director, Miss Evelyn Scott, who is earnestly co-operating with the efforts of the new officers to make the year one of outstanding importance.

The officers are as follows:
President—Kirby Thwing
Vice President—Norman Clarke
Secretary—Dorothy Kloeb
Co-Chairmen
Social—Phyllis Lybeck
Refreshments—Christine Craven
Publicity—Gertrude Harwood

This group is working on a program which will be entirely different from the ones of other years and fully as fine.

A good sized crowd is expected at these meetings since there will be many new members among the high school freshmen. Remember, everyone of high school age or over is welcome. Won't you come and spend an enjoyable hour in the chapel, followed by refreshments in the social hall?

ART CLASS TO BE FORMED

It is proposed to form an art class in Winchester, which will have weekly meetings during the winter for instruction in sketchings, drawings from life and possibly modelling. All persons in Winchester who are interested in the organization of such a class are invited to meet at the lecture room in the basement of the Public Library on Monday evening, Oct. 8 at 7:45 p. m. to discuss plans, therefor.

ARLINGTON WON FROM WINCHESTER

Scored Twice in Second Quarter for 13 to 0 Victory

The big Scarlet and White football team of Arlington High defeated Winchester 13 to 0, last Saturday afternoon in a downpour of rain on the Arlington athletic field. Perhaps 1500 hardy souls braved the torrent to see the game.

Opinion is somewhat divided over Winchester's showing. Those who feel that the local boys should win every game, regardless of the opposition, were disappointed and inclined to harsh criticism, while others who think Winchester is going a step out of its class in taking on a school of Arlington's size believe Coach Mansfield's charges waged a good fight against heavy odds.

Surely the locals were heavily outweighed on the rushline, by a group who scaled down from "Pete" Manoli's 243 pounds and must have averaged close to 180, and it was the Scarlet's rushline advantage that decided the game. The local backs never did get a chance to get under way after the first few minutes while most of Arlington's ball carriers were stopped by the local secondaries.

Arlington's club looked much better than a year ago, despite the weather and showed one of the hardest running backs we have seen in some time in Guzelian. Madden passed the wet pigskin mighty well while Lennon, a sturdy red head, showed flashes of speed at the ends. On the line those big co-captains, Manoli and Collins, were bulwarks of strength, while Mooglin and McFadden were hard ends to put out of plays.

For Winchester, "Frankie" Provinzano was outstanding, especially on defense, twice making last ditch tackles that prevented touchdowns and doing wha: little effective ball carrying the locals were able to pull off. "Steamer" Hanlon bore the brunt of the defensive burden behind the line and was pretty well fagged out at the final whistle. Big Tiny Olsen played a nice tackle against the Scarlet avalanche and little ground was gained through his position. Winchester's vest pocket guard, "Polock" McCormack, took a heavy beating throughout the game, but was in every play until forced by a badly cut eye to retire in the third quarter. The Arlington players gave him a great hand as he was led from the field.

The game was cleanly played and the best of sportsmanship prevailed between the players.

Arlington's best offensive weapon was a thrust into the line inside tackle with Guzelian carrying the ball. Time and again this big battering ram, a converted end, drove through for five and eight yards, being finally pulled down by the Winchester secondary.

Coach Mansfield protested that the Arlington backs were shifting illegally, and finally after a conference with the officials between the halves succeeded in calling the attention of the latter to what was very apparent from the sidelines. The Scarlet ball carriers were not coming to a full stop on their shift and most of the time were inmotion before the ball was snapped. The officials finally woke up and began to call the latter infraction, but it was not until after the damage had been done that most of the penalties were imposed.

Arlington lost 55 yards in penalties while Winchester failed to get a single set-back. The Scarlet made ten first downs to Winchester's one, three of the ten coming as the result of pass-es. The locals' running game got nowhere, except for one pretty run of 19 yards by Provinzano at the very start of the first quarter. Winchester looked good at the start of the battle and had it not been for those ineffective tackling just before the end of the first quarter, might have prevented the first touchdown. A strict interpretation of the shift rule would have prevented the second tally.

The Scarlet had a break to start the game when Madden's purposely short kick was fumbled and recovered by Arlington. On second down, Provinzano came up fast to drop Lennon for a four yard loss and on the next play, Winchester recovered an Arlington fumble at its own 39. Grosvenor lost four yards on a fumble but Provinzano, behind nice interference by McCormack and Gaffney, got away for 19 yards and the opening first down of the game at the Arlington 46.

On a similar play, Grosvenor failed to follow his interference and was stopped dead by Manoli. Provinzano then kicked short and outside at Arlington's 35.

On third down with three to go, Olson stopped Lennon without gain and Madden kicked to Provinzano at Winchester's 19. The locals failed to go and Provinzano got off a nice kick that got past Madden and rolled well to the Arlington 24.

Madden got away from three Winchester tacklers and back to his own 39. Lennon got four yards off tackle, but Arlington lost five yards for offside and here occurred Winchester's first bad lapse. On a spinner play, Madden hit into the line, but was stopped just over the line of scrimmage for a gain of perhaps a yard. The local tackler failed to hold the Scarlet quarterback and two others missed him as he rolled off and finally made a first down at his own 49. Had he been stopped, anything might have happened. As it was, Madden tossed off a nice pass to Gardella who was headed for a touchdown when Provinzano cut across the field to drop him with a great tackle at the locals' 10.

The teams changed goals and once again Provinzano prevented a score when he stopped Madden on an attempted end sweep. With its running game bogging badly the Scarlet took to the air and a flat pass out to the right from Madden to Gardella went for a touchdown, the receiver running over from inside the local five yard line.

Madden failed to kick the goal, but soon after the kickoff Arlington was threatening again by recovering a local fumble at Winchester's 35. Guzelian and Gardella ripped off a first down despite a pretty open field tackle by Cimina. With the ball at the 24, Guzelian got five yards inside tackle. Gardella was held at end. Arlington lost five for backs in motion, but Madden faded back and shot off a pass to the left with Guzelian caught off the ground with a pretty dive at Winchester's 10. Guzelian then hit twice into the Winchester line, once for eight yards and then going over for the score, standing up. Lennon kicked the goal from placement.

The half was over soon after, and during the second half, Arlington failed to tally. Winchester lost a golden opportunity to score when Madden ran he was tackled at the Winchester 25 tossed off a lateral over his shoulder to Gardella. The play lost six yards and had Josephson been able to stop on the slippery turf as he came up on the play, he might easily have intercepted for a touchdown. Lennon got away at left end to the Winchester 15, but a penalty for clipping set the Scarlet back and except when Olliverio intercepted a pass, getting to the Winchester 20 late in the game, Arlington was not in scoring position.

With the ball at the 20, Provinzano came up fast to spill Olliverio for a ten yard loss and big Olsen stopped two thrusts at his tackle by Guzelian and Gardella without gain as the game ended.

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

The Calumet Club is preparing its spacious club house on Dix street for the opening of another year of activities.

The new officers and board of governors are as follows:
President—Wallace F. Flanders
Vice President—Clarence G. McDavitt, Jr.
Treasurer—E. Ober Pride
Secretary—Wellington L. Caldwell
Governors—Dr. A. P. Cornwall, Dr. E. C. Priest, Messrs. J. R. Cove, P. Holbrook, A. S. Kelley, H. A. McGrath, R. A. Reynolds, A. C. Roche, C. H. Smith.

It is planned to have the club operating on an old time basis this year which means that the bowling, pool, billiards and card facilities will be very active and the Saturday evening suppers will once again be a fixture. One of the newest model Philco radios has been installed and this feature is offering an especially fine opportunity to listen to the World's Series and football games. Ping pong is to be started actively again this year and the large playing space in the entertainment hall offers plenty of space for the hard hitters.

The club membership has recently been increased by the following men: Lowell Bond, Henry J. Burns, John Ely Burchard, 2nd., Richard K. Caldwell, Kingman Cass, Sterling R. Crowe, Franklin F. Flanders, Ashley K. Hayden, M. Walker Jones, Frank L. Lassen, Newell K. Morton, George F. Osborne, Harry L. Pilkington, Lucius Smith, Forest L. Pitman, Tim Thrift, Kenneth B. Towne.

It is the aim of the membership committee headed by Earle B. Goldsmith to add at least 50 new members before the end of the month.

The annual fall opening night is scheduled for the near future at which time plans for making the coming year the biggest year since the start of the depression will be announced.

Members are requested to keep in mind the first mixed party of the fall which will be a Hallowe'en party on Tuesday night, Oct. 30. The music will he excellent and many special features are being arranged to make this a grand party.

FIRESIDE MEETING

The young people of the First Baptist Church of this town will hold their first meeting on Sunday evening, Oct. 7 at 8 o'clock. This will be an informal fireside meeting in the parish house The pastor, Rev. R. Mitchell Rushton, will conduct a conference at the request of the young people on the topic: "How May I Know the Will of God?" All young people of high school age and over are invited.

Mrs. G. R. Cove of Yale street was a guest this week at Briarcliff Lodge Hotel, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y.

And another thing the President might have mentioned along with balancing the budget and the increasing millions to be fed, was why all those new employees of the administration are exempt from civil service.

The Congregational Church clock appears to be religiously observing the change in time. After standing at quarter to nine, it has now moved back to quarter to eight.

The most significant inside news of politics right now is that the administration is sending out corn-hog checks at the rate of a million dollars a day. This money is going to 1,250,000 Mid-West farmers who have about 4,000,000 votes in their families. And the election is only a month away. Figures may not be interesting but no better way has been found of counting dollars and votes. The figures show that two months ago, the AAA had paid out only $18,527,000 in corn-hog benefits. A few days ago the paid out total reached $100,064,000. The significance is plain. As election drew nearer, the checks went faster.—[Paul Mallon in the Boston Herald]

A SENATORIAL SHIFT

To the Editor of the Herald:

I have been a constant reader of your paper for many years. I would like a question answered, if possible.

How can a Senator like David I. Walsh blast, two nights before the primaries, the doings of one James M. Curley, via radio, turn around and indorse his candidacy?

Is it not betraying the trust and confidence we old Republicans have had in him for so long?

Mrs. A. T. Reed

Boston, Sept. 24

—[Boston Herald Mail Bag]

Senator Walsh probably followed the lead of President Roosevelt.

SATIRICAL

To the Editor of the Herald:

We hear so much these days about college graduates seeking in vain for positions; is not the trouble with our higher institutions of learning.

What we need are colleges equipped to teach scientific methods of graft and all the tricks of the political game; a more subtle technique of crime, and divers ways and means of securing dole; then for added security in the future, the youth of America should be taught the strategy of "evasion of law" and further slowing up of the courts. . . .

Give America a new deal in higher education.

It's supply and demand; teach 'em what they can cash in on.

ABSENTEES

Don't forfeit your right to vote! Get an absentee ballot.

If you or any voting member of your family or any friend of yours who is registered to vote, cannot be in the State to cast a ballot at the election on Nov. 6, remember that an absentee ballot may be cast. Full information as to absentee voting may be obtained by communicating with the Town Clerk. Any person intending to cast an absentee ballot should act now in obtaining such a ballot.

THE NEW DEAL AND THE RAW DEAL

To the Editor of the Star:

Mr. Curley's record as Mayor of Boston is so destitute of achievement other than that of the free spending of the taxpayers' money that in his present campaign to annex the Commonwealth's treasury, he must ignore his record as Mayor and find some other reason for his appeal for votes. And therefore we hear Mr. Curley proclaiming that a vote for him is a vote for the national administration; indeed, he even more than hints that the feature of the national government depends upon his attaining the governorship. The claim is so preposterous as almost to refute itself.

A moment's thought discloses that the Governor of this Commonwealth has nothing to do with national affairs. He has no concern with the policies, either foreign or domestic, of the administration at Washington. His sole concern is with the administration of the affairs of Massachusetts. To elect a Governor for this Commonwealth because he claims to be a supporter of the President of the United States is no more sensible than it would be to choose our Selectmen upon the ground that they are followers of the man who happens at a particular time to be the Governor. The Governor has his duties, and our Selectmen have their duties. Their respective spheres of operation do not coincide. And it is the same with the presidency and the governship.

If it is important that the political beliefs and policies of the President and of our Governor be the same, it would be wise to amend the Constitution so as to allow the President to appoint a vicegerent to govern us.

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE

Showing How the Administration Is Capable of Expedient Change of Policy

"Campaign promises must be kept."—Postmaster General Farley.

"A party platform is a covenant with the people."—1932 Democratic platform.

"I accept the platform 100 per cent."—Candidate Roosevelt.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT or the Democratic Platform in 1932	THE RECORD In 1933 and 1934
"Government costs too much."	Never did government cost so much.
"Rigid governmental economy * * * * living within our income."	Most extravagant Administration in history.
"Maintenance of national credit by a Federal budget annually balanced."	Greatest deficits in history except in time of war—$9,000,000,000 in 17 months.
"A sound currency to be preserved at all hazards."	The most unsound currency since the Civil War.
"Competitive tariff for revenue, with a fact-finding Tariff Commission free from executive interference."	No tariff reduction, but some in prospect with the executive free from Tariff Commission interference.
"Strengthening and impartial enforcement of the anti-trust laws."	Anti-trust laws suspended by the N I R A.
"Removal of government from all fields of private enterprise."	Government invades all fields of private enterprise.
"The obligations of the Federal Government. These are paramount * * * * * * * When they go everything goes."	The dollar debased. The gold standard abolished; 40% of the gold belonging to the people confiscated; gold clause in public and private contracts repudiated.
"We condemn the extravagance of the Farm Board * * * and the unsound policy of restricting agricultural production to domestic needs."	A A A outclasses the Farm Board in extravagance, speculates in corn and cotton, and puts a premium on restriction of agricultural production.
"The cruel joke of advising farmers to allow 20% of their wheat lands to lie idle, to plow up every third row of cotton and to shoot every 10th cow."	The cotton has been plowed up, the wheat lands have lain idle; the 10th cow has not been shot but 6,000,000 hogs have been destroyed.
"An immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices and eliminating extravagance."	More commissions and offices than Hoover at his best. Extravagances without parallel.

—[From "The Magazine of Wall Street"

If the President's need for Mr. Curley is as great as Mr. Curley states, it is passing strange that the President turned so cold a shoulder upon Mr. Curley's aspirations to serve near him in Washington. After months of importunity from Mr. Curley, the President finally threw into the former's lap the insignificant post of ambassador to Poland. Poland, it may be remarked, is a very long way from Washington, so long indeed that Mr. Curley suddenly decided that he could not leave his duties as Mayor of Boston.

The issue in the campaign for the choice of all state officials, from the governship down, is not the New Deal of Mr. Roosevelt, but solely the raw deal the inhabitants of the Commonwealth may confidently expect from Mr. Curley, if he is elected, as exemplified in his legacy to Boston of a tax rate of $37.10.

The Commonwealth can no more spend its way to prosperity than can our own town, or our townsmen. This is no time to abandon the Commonwealth's time-tested policy of balancing its annual budget. The glittering promises of Mr. Curley will allure some, but the prudent citizen, mindful of the welfare of himself and his family, will realize, before election day, that his best interests call for the election of Bacon and Haigis.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Winchester Town football team is reported to be reorganizing for the coming season and will open its campaign on Columbus Day as a part of the big celebration which the Italians are staging on that occasion. Many of the stars of former seasons are included in the group which is working out nightly on Manchester Field.

"Tommy" Hannon, star quarterback of last season's championship eleven at high school and one of the best kickers in the schoolboy ranks is included among the "Townie" backfield candidates, together with sturdy "Johnnie" Lynch of last year's Montpelier Seminary team. Both these youths should help the local eleven, particularly Hannon's kicking, a department in which the "Townies" have been none too potent.

"Andy" Lentine, last year's all scholastic captain and center at Winchester High, was the starting center for the New Hampshire Freshmen against Exeter last Saturday.

"Hennie" Knowlton, one of Winchester's best all time backs, got his New Hampton eleven away to a good start by trimming Andover last Saturday. This is "Hennie's" second year at the New Hampton prep school.

"Charlie" Tranfaglia, vest pocket guard and one of the best players for his inches we ever saw, was in the Norwich lineup against Dartmouth last Saturday. Down in Maine, "Barby" Barksdale, dusky flash of the high school backfield two years ago, played last Friday for the Bowdoin Jay-Vees against Kents Hill School.

Winchester will be interested in the New Hampton, Montpelier game with Knowlton coaching the New Hampton boys and "Joe" Flaherty playing for Montpelier. "Joe" acted as captain in Montpelier's first game last weekend. He has been shifted from guard to tackle and is weighing in at 190 ringside.

"Gene" Cooper, former high school cross country and track star, is being mentioned among the promising candidates for the cross country team at Tech this fall. "Gene" was one of the best of the freshman runners at Tech and is also an honor man in his studies.

A refractory appendix will keep "Lymie" Mathews, sturdy and speedy guard, out of the high school football lineup this fall. Coach Mansfield is none too well fixed in the center of the line and would welcome the addition of the track captain to his list of aspirants.

"Don" Emery, former high school pivot man, is first string center for Brown this fall, and last Saturday started the Bruins' opening game against Boston University. The aggressive little center weighs in this year at 170, the heaviest of his gridiron career.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

New Council Office Located in Winchester

At the Executive Board meeting of the Fellsland Council last week it was voted to move the Council office to Winchester. This has been in part made possible through the kind arrangements of Mr. W. Allan Wilde to have the office located in his new office at 52 Church street. Miss Campbell, who has been working for several years as the Council secretary, will be at this office as usual to attend to matters of Scout business of the Council, and to be of service to anyone in supplying information regarding Scouting, and in aiding Scoutmasters and other officials in obtaining supplies, etc.

The headquarters for the boys of the Winchester District is being continued as usual at the headquarters in the old Fish Hatchery Building on South Border road. Mr. Grosvenor is there regularly after 4:15 on Tuesday afternoons, and also on Thursday evenings, for the passing of examinations.

Plans are already underway for the Annual Scout Exposition to be held this fall, and the troops should be making plans for demonstrations to be put on at this exposition.

Troop 3

Mr. Harold Hovey, after about seven years of service as Scoutmaster of Troop 3, Winchester, finds that because of his business he will be unable to carry on with the full responsibilities as Scoutmaster. Boys and their parents will all be pleased to know that Mr. J. Andrew Millican, for several years a member of the Troop Committee and one who has always been quite active with Troop 3, is to become Scoutmaster. Mr. Hovey maintains interest in the troop, acting as Assistant Scoutmaster and also as a member of the Troop Committee. Mr. Robert Millican and Kenneth Sheldon are to continue as Assistant Scoutmasters.

Boys interested in joining the Boy Scouts of Winchester for a year, which promises many full and interesting activities, may make arrangements to do so by getting in touch with any of the Scout Masters of present troops, or may call on Miss Campbell at the Scout Office. Below is a list of the Scoutmasters, troop meeting nights, and place of meeting:

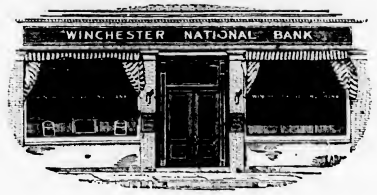

Troop 1—John Kenerson, S. M. Saturday night at Winchester Junior High School.

Troop 2—Richard Gray, S. M. Wednesday night at Church of the Epiphany.

Troop 3—J. Andrew Millican, S. M. Monday night, at First Congregational Church.

Troop 6—Gordon C. Bennett, S. M. Inactive at present.

Troop 7—Raymond Bohannon, S. M. Saturday nights at First Baptist Church.

ROTARY CLUB

Three members were absent from the meeting of Oct. 4 one of whom has already made up attendance. We had a 100 per cent meeting last week. Why not make it two or more?

Members of the Rotary Club of Lansing, Mich., have initiated an "On to-Mexico" savings fund club through the offices of a local savings bank the matter is carried out in the manner of an ordinary Christmas savings fund, the proceeds of course to be used in helping to defray expenses of the trip to the 1935 convention city. The idea appears to be entirely practical and goes to prove that anyone who really wants to go to the convention will find a way to do so.

It is generally conceded that in the matter of restraining criminal activities our Canadian neighbors are considerably more efficient than ourselves. An article in the October Rotarian by Ernest Jerome Hopkins explains the Canadian method of administering justice and points the way for the adoption of similar methods in the United States. This article is well worth the few minutes required to read it.

At this meeting the club enjoyed the privilege of entertaining Brigadier Osmund of the Salvation Army, commanding the division of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, with headquarters in Boston. Also an instrumental quartette representing the Boston headquarters was present and was generous in rendering selections of music during the lunch period. In passing we would say that one who has been accustomed to judge the musical accomplishments of the Salvation Army by the product of the familiar street band would be agreeably surprised after listening to the proficient musicians who visited our club at this time.

Brigadier Osmund's talk was descriptive of the work of the Salvation Army, stressing the point that its efforts are devoted to the service of the unfortunate outcasts of society irrespective of color, nationality or religious faith—or lack thereof. The Army needs help—your help and my help in carrying on with this necessary but commonly neglected work. There is danger in taking its achievements too much as a matter of course. Let us not forget this as the call comes for our aid.

By the time that Thursday the 11th rolls around, Harry Winn and Allen McLatchy will have recovered sufficiently from the effects of their recent sea-voyage so that they can tell us how it all happened. And every member should be present to hear.

Make your plans now.

Percentage of attendance, Sept. 27—100 per cent.

Sunday services and Sunday School 10:45 A. M.

Evening service first Sunday each month, 7:45 P. M.

Wednesday testimonial meeting, 7:45 P. M.

Reading room in Church Building. Open daily from 12 M. to 5 P. M. except Sundays and holidays.

"Unreality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 7.

The Golden Text is: "All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever" (1 John 2:16, 17).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good, is of God: but he that doeth evil hath not seen God" (3 John 1:11).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Evil is a negation, because it is the absence of truth. It is nothing, because it is the absence of something. It is unreal, because it presupposes the absence of God, the omnipotent and omnipresent. Every mortal must learn that there is neither power nor reality in evil" (p. 186).

WEST TO EXHIBIT IN VOSE GALLERIES

Winchester Boy Artist With Ill Fated Robinson Expedition

Daniel T. West, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. West of Mason street, is to exhibit drawings and water colors, most of which he did while with the Robinson expedition to the Galapagos Islands, at the Robert C. Vose Galleries on Boylston street in Boston from Tuesday, Oct. 9, until Saturday, Oct. 20.

This announcement will prove welcome to the young artist's many Winchester friends and to all who followed his adventures while a member of the scientific expedition to the South Seas headed by his cousin, William Albert Robinson, former Winchester boy who won renown by sailing around the world in his 32-foot ketch, Snapp.

Included among Mr. West's pictures are several done while he was shipwrecked up the Sambu River in Panama, comprising landscapes and interesting studies of the Indians with whom he spent some time alone while waiting for Mr. and Mrs. Robinson to bring help for the expedition's stricken boat from Panama. There are others painted in Peru, Panama and the Pearl Islands as well as several done on the Galapagos, both landscapes and studies of inhabitants of the islands. Of especial interest to residents of Winchester are several pictures of the Mystic Lakes shore line, painted by Mr. West since his return from the South Seas, with others of beauty spots in the Middlesex Fells, not far from the artist's home.

Invitations were sent out this week for a tea, to be held in the Vose Galleries on Monday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. West and Frederick J. Waugh, N.A., one of America's foremost marine painters. This occasion is also to serve as a private view of the paintings of Mr. Waugh and of Mr. West's drawings and water colors which are to remain on exhibition in the galleries.

A distinguished list of patronnesses for the tea includes Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Mrs. Francis R. Appleton, Mrs. Frederick Bartlett, Mrs. Russell Sturgis Codman, Mrs. Cornelius Crane, Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Mrs. John Gardner Coolidge, Mrs. William Crowninshield Endicott, Mrs. Charles S. Hopkinson, Miss Katherine Lane, Mrs. Ellery Sedgwick, Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, Mrs. Richard D. Sears and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman.

Mr. West began the study of art while a student at Winchester High School, showing much promise and doing several drawings which aroused favorable comment. He continued his art studies at Pomfret School, but eagerly accepted the opportunity to accompany his cousin to the Galapagos, adding to the thrill of the adventure involved the experience of doing illustrations for the book which Mr. Robinson was engaged in writing. The Winchester young man plans to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Robinson back to the South Seas when the former has sufficiently recovered from the illness which made it necessary for him to give up his scientific researches there. This winter Mr. West plans to spend painting alone in Woodstock, N. H.

High School "Highlights" Column

Graduates of Winchester High Earn Scholastic Honors

Winchester High School has a great deal to be proud of in its graduates. At the recent publication of the dean's list at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, seven of our graduates' names appeared. In the upper five per cent of the list there were 19 names. Eugene Cooper and William Abbott were the two who represented Winchester there. This is the only town to have two names in the upper section. Albert Haskell and David Hill, two freshmen; William Thompson and Utley Smith, juniors; and Leonard Chandler, a sophomore, also appeared on the list. All these boys went directly to Tech from here.

Edward Brown and George Davidson have entered Bowdoin. Davidson passed examinations in algebra, geometry and French, and was exempted in other units. Brown passed examinations in English, algebra, geometry and French, and was otherwise certified.

Abraham Levine passed his examinations and was admitted to Boston University.

George Welsch, who graduated from Winchester High School last June, among the highest ranking in his class, has not ceased his fine work. He has entered Boston University successfully. Upon entrance, an examination was given in French which Welsch passed with the highest mark of all those taking the test. Besides having received a scholarship in French from the high school, he will now receive a year's free tuition at B. U.

Albert C. Grosvenor, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Grosvenor, of 48 Lloyd street, and a member of the freshman class at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., has been pledged to the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity at Wesleyan, it was announced recently.

Science Club Scores Hit in Special Assembly

Last Wednesday morning in the auditorium of the high school nine members of the Science Club presented the student body with one of the most interesting assembly programs ever prepared and conducted by any group of students since assemblies of that sort were introduced.

Miss Eleanor Sharon of the senior class and a member of the club, acting as chairman of the assembly, introduced the speakers with a delightful mixture of amusing personalities and serious appreciation of their individual ability to deal with their several subjects. Miss Sharon's manner and her well-chosen remarks placed each of the speakers at his ease and was a significant factor in the complete success of the entire program.

Richard Leghorn, with the assistance of William Burtt, acting as interrogator, conducted the first demonstration on the program. After announcing that he proposed to carry out an experiment which would produce chemico-luminescence, and answering several questions from his assistant, designed to clarify the topic for the audience, Dick proceeded to produce this "cold light" in a glass container filled with liquid. With the lights in the auditorium turned off, the effect of the bluish light emanating from the liquid in the glass bowl was weird and mysterious. This light was produced without any accompanying heat. The discovery of this particular kind of light was made only this year by Huntress of M. I. T., and it is rather extraordinary for a high school student to demonstrate successfully an experiment of this nature. Throughout his demonstration "Dick" gave the impression of knowing exactly what he was talking about.

Following this demonstration, a sophomore girl, Rhoda Elliott, with the aid of a large-scale drawing which she had made, explained the structure, the character and the method of feeding, of multiplication, and of navigation of the Paramecium, a microscopic water animal, a peculiar creature shaped something like a slipper and so much so that it is sometimes called the slipper-organism.

Leon Baghdoyan of the senior class next explained the structure of the human eye, using a fine drawing by Shogher Baghdoyan in demonstrating the similarity of the eye to the camera in its construction and its operation. He also explained by the aid of another drawing the structure of a corn-stem, showing particularly how the plant obtains its food.

Twirling his pointer with the insouciance of a United States Senator strolling down Pennsylvania avenue, a sophomore boy, George Manning, then took the center of the stage and proceeded to give a very complete explanation of the life story of the Amoeba. George not only illustrated his remarks with a cleverly drawn picture of a magnified amoeba, but delighted his audience still further by indulging in some clever free-hand drawing as he showed how the amoeba multiplies itself indefinitely.

While it is difficult and probably impossible to select any single number on the program as particularly outstanding, the talk which followed, given by John Collins of the senior class impressed everyone in the hall with its clarity of expression, its suggestion of authority and its concise treatment of a highly technical subject. John demonstrated the methods of micro-photography, using a camera, a microscope, and a lamp, in his experiment. It might be fitting to state in connection with his excellent talk that John has earned the reputation of having done some very advanced and original work in this field of science, providing much of his own equipment and working along on independent lines of his own thinking. Such a background of preparation might well account for the authoritative quality of his talk and of his demonstration.

The final number of the program was provided by two young scientists who seemed destined to work in conjunction with each other, one silently and the other orally, both responsible for the success of their experiments. These two senior boys are Richard Elliott and John Twombly. Before their interested fellow students they produced acetylene gas and demonstrated its explosive properties by means of a toy cannon, its use as a light, and its use as a fuel, as in an acetylene torch. These experiments were extremely difficult to carry out successfully away from the conveniences of laboratory, yet they were carried out skillfully and effectively.

The effect of this unusual and splendid program, during which approximately 700 students sat for 45 minutes absorbed and keenly attentive, was to create in the minds of all a desire to take personal advantage of the interesting activities offered by the science department of the school. Such a program could not help but impress the student audience with the fact that the science department of the school is thoroughly alive, up-to-date and worth investigating for themselves.

David Grosvenor to Speak at Red Cross Conference

On Oct. 5, 6 and 7, a regional conference is being held in Boston at the Hotel Bradford. This is really an adult conference, but several juniors will be there and will speak. We feel that is a compliment to our organization that David Grosvenor has been selected as one of the juniors, and will doubtless speak. His subject is "Service to Veterans."

This coming Monday, Oct. 8, all four high school classes will elect officers. The senior elections, of course, are outstanding. Therefore, nominations for these important offices have already been made and are ready to be announced. The nominating committee consists of Gerard Gaffney, "Bob" Howe, Robert Thornton, Ruth Rennert and Ewart Bairstow. All of these are leaders in their class, and are therefore fitted to select those best suited for the offices.

There are four candidates for the position of senior class president: Joseph Cassidy, David Grosvenor, June Eaton and Richard Leghorn. Each of these is capable and good material. Joseph Cassidy is on the football squad and played second team baseball last spring. David Grosvenor is an all-round athlete, president of the Red Cross, and lieutenant of the traffic squad. June Eaton is active in Red Cross, while Richard Leghorn has made a name for himself in the Ping Pong and Science Clubs.

The office of vice president will be filled by one of the four allround athletes, "Jack" Hanlon, Ruth Cutter, Marjory Finger and Thomas Donaghey have all distinguished themselves in various fields of sport.

The secretary will be chosen from the following students: "Nat" Stevens, the winner of the Highlights' Beauty Contest and an athlete; Gladys Moulton, another sport enthusiast; and Robert Winton, an excellent student and a member of the Science Club.

The four candidates for treasurer, a most important position, includes Priscilla Danforth, manager of the girls' basketball team; John Doherty, manager of the boys' basketball team, and Henrietta Garner, manager of girls' hockey.

New Method in French Classes

In the Sophomore College French classes a French atmosphere prevails. Lessons are taught without use of English. No translation of French into English is necessary. The teacher introduces the new words or expressions in the new lesson either by pointing to the objects mentioned, if they are in the room, or by describing them with the help of words or expressions already known, or by the use of drawings.

In a word, the teacher acts and lives the lesson in the class. Then by a series of questions and answers, she may assure herself that the students have undertood the meaning of each new word or expression.

Reading the French text aloud, writing it from dictation, answering questions in French, constitute the recitation. Thus are fulfilled the requirements of modern language-study the objectives of which are to read, to speak, and to write the language studies.

The text book used is Cours Pratique de Francais by Sauze, written wholly in French. Sauze is the director of foreign languages in Cleveland. The pupils are showing a lively interest in the classes and seem to have made more progress this first month than in the corresponding time in previous years.

Assembly Calendar Complete

The committee in charge of assemblies at the high school has now completed the calendar through Dec. 21. The list promises a very interesting and varied program. There will be several of the customary fall rallies, conducted by the athletic association, and the annual preview of the junior-senior class play. Several student groups under the supervision of members of the faculty will present novel offerings. Mr. Graves is working up an election eve program which will be ready for Oct. 31, which, in the following week, either the seventh or the ninth of November, Mrs. Stacey is scheduled to appear with her group. Nov. 14 is an open date since that is the week of the quarterly tests besides being only a four-day week.

Oct. 31—Mr. Graves' group.
Nov. 7 or 9—Mrs. Stacy's group.
Nov. 14—Four day week, quarterly test week. No assembly.
Nov. 21—Mr. Adams, professional entertainer.
Nov. 28—Athletic Assemblies.
Dec. 5—Junior-Senior class play preview.
Dec. 12—Fall sports awards.
Dec. 21—Miss Parker's group. Christmas assembly.

The program from October through December is as follows:
Oct. 3—Science Club.
Oct. 11—Athletic Association rally.
Oct. 22—Safety Campaign speaker.

Banking Results

The banking per cent this week for the school was 96.6 per cent. Two freshman, one sophomore, two juniors and all the senior rooms getting 100 per cent, making eight rooms in all. About 10c was the average amount per person banked. Although the percentage and the number of rooms to receive 100 per cent this week was not as high as last, we know every one is going to help make next Tuesday a real success.

High School Senior Recommends "Stag Line"

Did you read "Men Are Like Street Cars"? If you did, you probably were simply panting to get hold of "Stag Line," also by Graeme and Sarah Lorimer. Well, your eagerness would have been amply rewarded—it's a panic! Maudie does everything in a big way, and succeeds the same way! There's hardly a girl who couldn't take a few tips from her, and it certainly wouldn't hurt you boys to absorb some bits of her very modern philosophy. At least you might gather a few dashing ideas for a brand new line to spring on your S. P. and thus cause her to remark to her chum the morning after, "Say, I was so surrounded you could've knocked me over with a girder!"

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Preservation of Antiques

Concord Pilgrimage and luncheon, Friday, Oct. 19. Chairmen Miss Louise Baneroft and Mrs. Doris Burgoyne. Reservations must be made by noon Wednesday, Oct. 17 with Mrs. Burgoyne, Win. 0470 or Mrs. Andrews Win. 0017-M.

One stop will be made in Lexington. Luncheon will be served at Hartwell Farm, Concord. After luncheon a visit will be made at the Wayside, Miss Margaret Lothrop, hostess. This is the only house Hawthorne ever owned. He bought it from the Alcott's in 1852 and owned it until his death in 1864. From here we visit Concord's Old Manse. At 165 years old, its treasured contents and its interiors scribbled by Emersons and Hawthornes, it was opened to the public for the first time this summer. There is an admission fee to both houses.

Attention is called to an error in last week's Fortnightly notes under the heading "Preservation of Antiques." Reference is made to Mrs. Francis Nichols, hostess to the King Hooper House, having recently restored the "Globe" house on Elm street in Marblehead. This should have read Glebe house and refers to one of Marblehead's typical houses, furnished in choice antiques.

INFANT SAVIOUR GUILD NOTES

The first fall meeting of the Winchester Chapter, Guild of the Infant Saviour will be held at Lyceum Hall, on Tuesday, Oct. 9 at 2:30.

This first meeting will be a reception for new members.

Mrs. William V. McDermott, the new president of the Boston Chapter will be introduced by Mrs. Michael Hintlian, the incoming president of the Winchester Chapter.

An interesting program will follow the meeting at which Mrs. Mayola Woot will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Esther Hennessey.

Mrs. Frances Conlon will give a reading.

Tea will be served.

Several members of the Winchester Chapter including Mrs. Michael Hintlian, Mrs. James Carr, Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini, Miss Mahel Sisk, Mrs. James Gaffney and Mrs. Jonathan Felt, attended the first meeting of the Boston Chapter, held at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

The incoming president, Mrs. William V. McDermott, was introduced by Mrs. Robert Reilly. Rev. Robert E. Barry, spiritual director of the Guild gave an interesting talk on the work of the Catholic Charitable Bureau.

COTTON—JANES

The marriage of Miss Jeanice Janes, daughter of Mrs. Ruth L. Janes of Helena, Montana, to Grant Fairbrother Cotton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Cotton of 37 Woodside road, took place Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bridegroom's parents with Rev. Richard H. Bennett, pastor of the Belmont Congregational Church, officiating.

The bride wore a gown of blue chiffon and carried a bouquet of orchids and gardenias. She was attended by Mrs. Ralph H. Warren of Melrose who wore black velvet and also carried gardenias. Mr. Warren acted as Mr. Cotton's best man.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. Upon their return from a wedding journey Mr. Cotton and his bride will make their home in Syracuse, N. Y.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Miss Jean Ryan of Cliff street returned home last Sunday from a months' vacation spent in the Canadian Rockies, at San Francisco and on the Hawaiian Islands.

Mrs. Bertha A. Henry of this town has been appointed a member of the advisory committee of the Federal Housing Corporation for Boston, the members of which will be in charge of the clearance and housing program for the Boston district.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Cole of Walnut street and Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Pistorino of Stetson Hall spent last week-end visiting friends in the Berkshires.

A. & P. 75 YEARS OLD TODAY

J. T. Patten, Oldest Living Employee, Tells of Early Food Stores

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company today announced plans for its 75th anniversary celebration. This company started in 1859 as a single store on Vesey street, New York. Today its anniversary sale will be celebrated by 90,000 employees in 15,000 stores serving 6,000,000 customers a day.

J. T. Patten, the oldest living member of the organization, gave reporters an eyewitness account of the company's growth.

"My first job with A. & P. was in May 1875," said Mr. Patten. "The company was then 16 years old and had only 12 stores, but a large mail order business.

"I remember well the first store I worked in. We sold only tea and coffee. Blending was done locally—if a customer found a blend too weak or too strong, she brought it back and the blend was changed to suit her taste.

"That early store would probably be considered rather ornate today. On the walls were great oil paintings of Chinese scenes. A gallery ran around the store half-way between floor and ceiling. From this gallery hung a multitude of bird cages with canaries, cockatoos and parrots; and to complete the picture there was a large fountain in the center of the store in which goldfish swam. In the center of the ceiling hung a giant chandelier with many white, gas-illuminated globes on it. Glass prisms hung from under each light. These were always carefully taken off in the early summer and the whole was covered with mosquito netting. The prisms were always washed, polished and replaced in the fall. In the windows there were a great many illuminated gas globes in arched rows.

"A year later I was moved to 53d Street on Eighth avenue. In 1876 this was the farthest north the company had reached and just about as far north as New York City had reached, for north of 59th street there were only shanties through which ran the Boulevard, now renamed Broadway. In this store we sold tea, coffee and sugar under the smiling sun of a Chinese scene painted on the walls over the tea tins. To this 53rd street store many farmers used to come from the country that lay north of 59th street to do their ordering for several weeks."

When asker about the famous blizzard of '88, Mr. Patten told how he walked for miles to open his store, an hour and a half late. The sales that day were $2.86, and it was three nights before he was able to go home.

"I have lived in the greatest 75 years of the world's history," continued Mr. Patten. "Never before in history has there been a period of such constant and rapid change. Light, heat, power, transportation, communication, entertainment, medicine everything from the maternity ward to the undertaker's parlor has either come into being or been drastically changed during those 75 years. This is not true of any other 75 years in history. For thousands of years people lived pretty much as their fathers lived. The American colonists used the same crude grease lamps and the same tallow candles that the ancient Egyptians used. No major improvement had been made in artificial illumination for 10,000 years. Then came the development of kerosene and gas, then electricity. And all this in the last three quarters of a century.

"These changes, of course, affected every phase of life and every activity in America. I saw them from a grocery counter, and saw their effect on food retailing. When things changed food stores changed with them. I remember the great railroad building of the seventies and eighties—and saw how more foods became available and how our own company grew as a result of it. I remember the first automobile I ever saw, and I, too, yelled "get a horse." But soon, with automobiles trucking foods to new outlying stores, and with customers coming to stores from greater distances, food stores grew into complete grocery stores with wide assortments. It became less and less necessary to deal with customers by mail, or send our wagons out to their houses to solicit orders.

"Customers began to depend on the new canned foods, on fresh vegetables summer and winter, on individually packaged foods instead of bulk. Retailing grew up with America—every development in American life had its effect on our business.

"Today I marvel when I compare the food business of 50 and 75 years ago with modern, efficient, wasteless food distribution as we know it today."

The development of retail food distribution with the growth of America is portrayed in a series of posters by Louis Fancher to be displayed in A. & P. stores during the 75th anniversary celebration.

WINCHESTER ART ASSOCIATION

On Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7 the Winchester Art Association begins the fall season with a tea and reception to Mr. Cyrus Dallin, the noted sculptor. Members of the Association are cordially invited to bring friends who may wish to join. The reception will be from 4 to 6 and the Parkway entrance to the Winchester Public Library will be used.

Mr. Dallin will exhibit sculptures and some of the models from which the large sculptures have been made. Probably one of the most famous examples of his work is his "Appeal to the Great Spirit." Most of his inspiration has come from the West, cowboys and Indians are two of his favorite subjects.

Also on Monday evening, Oct. 8 at 7:45 all those interested in joining local Art courses are invited to attend a meeting in the lower hall of the Public Library. Any person, whether art association member or not is cordially invited.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

The School Committee announce that the Federal Emergency Relief Administration has made a grant of funds to Massachusetts for the purpose of continuing the Emergency Educational Program. Winchester, of course, will receive its allotment of an Emergency Educational Program is approved.

The granting of Federal funds makes possible teaching positions for teachers out of employment, and for others not normally considered teachers who are competent to instruct in some subject, skill, or activity for which there is a demand, and who are in financial need. Thus, for example, a person competent to teach French, and who is in financial need, would be eligible, provided there was a demand for an adult class in French. A person, on the other hand, who may never have taught in school, or who has never been trained especially to teach, but who is competent to impart his knowledge or skill to others interested, is likewise eligible. This person, also, must be in financial need. The subjects, activities, or skills which may be taught are therefore quite varied.

Persons in financial need, and who believe they are competent to teach some subject or skill, even though they have neither taught nor been trained to teach, may apply at the office of the Superintendent of Schools, Administration Building, Church street. The superintendent will be very willing to confer at once with anyone who might be interested.

WINCHESTER GIRLS BLANKED MELROSE

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team opened its 1934 campaign yesterday afternoon on Manchester Field, blanking the Melrose High eleven, 2—0. The game was set ahead from its scheduled date, today.

The first half was hotly contested and play was for the most part at or about midfield with honors very even.

With the resumption of play, Winchester went into the driver's seat and forced Melrose back until after three minutes Natalie Stevens, veteran inner, eaged the ball from scrimmage, scoring the first goal of the season.

After the bully, Winchester again rushed down the field and from a close locked scrimmage in front of the uprights, Anna Colucci, diminutive left wing, banged home the second tally. The locals threatened several times thereafter, but never could quite beat Goaler MacKenzie.

Between the halves of the first team game the Winchester seconds swamped the Melrose seconds swamping the Melrose seconds, 6—0, being out in front all the way.

COMMUNITY BOWLING LEAGUE OPENS

Defending Champions, K. of C., Won Legion Made Clean Sweep

The first matches of the 1934-35 Community Bowling League season were rolled Wednesday evening on the Winchester Alleys, some good scores being turned in despite the fact that the bowlers are not yet in top form.

The Knights of Columbus team, defending champion of the league, got away to a good start, winning three out of four from Fells Plumbing with Frank Davis showing a 288 on a single of 113 to lead the way. "Johnnie" Doherty's 299 on 110 was the best individual effort of the match.

Winchester Legion made a clean sweep of its match with St. Mary's and both Roy Nelson and "Pug" Johnston tied Doherty of Fells for high three string, each getting 299. Roy Edwards rolled the best single of the evening, turning in 117 on his first string. The Legion's 1384 nosed out the Knights for high total by a single pin.

The makeup of this year's league differs from that of last year in that Horace Ford has no team in competition, his place being taken by the Atlantic Gelatin of Woburn.

The scores:

K. of C.—Won 3 and 1 lost one from Fells Plumbing.

Legion won four from St. Mary's Town Team won 3 and lost one from the Elks.

Sons of Italy won 3 and lost 1 to Atlantic Gelatine.

VOL. LIV NO 11 WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1934 PRICE SEVEN CENTS

LEXINGTON HERE ON HOLIDAY

Winchester High School plays the first football game of its Middlesex League schedule on the holiday afternoon at 2 o'clock on Manchester Field with Lexington as opponent.

The Minuteboys have yet to win a game, but are fielding a veteran club that is big enough to be plenty troublesome, despite a ragged showing in its past three contests.

Winchester has had nearly a two weeks' layoff since the Arlington game and whether this has helped or hindered the locals' development can not be told until game time.

Coach Mansfield has been working his charges very hard in an effort to uncover a capable center to partially, at least, fill the big gap left by the graduation of last year's all scholastic captain, Lentine.

About every lineman on the squad has had a shot at the pivot berth in practice, but the starting player at that position will be "Joe" Cassidy, who started against Arlington. The locals will be without the services of their big co-captain, "Gerry" Gaffney, against the Minutehoys, the speedy hard blocking halfback being on the sidelines with a bad ankle. "Joe" Cimina will start at his position and another shift in the backfield will start John Scully, tennis ace, at No. 4 back instead of "Dave" Grosvenor.

Except for these backfield changes Winchester will take the field as it di dat Arlington with "Ewe" Bairstow and long "Joe" Josephson at ends, big Ivar Olson and "Kirk" Thwing, tackles; "Pollock" McCormick and "Bob" Graham, guards. Co-Capt. "Steamer" Hanlon will be at his halfback post.

Lexington's lineup has been announced as Morgan and Beadel, ends; Tyler and Yauckoes, tackles; Whitehouse and Bierenbroodspot, guards; Webster, center; Cohb, quarterback. Ducharme and Healey, halfbacks and Kelley, fullback. Of these, if memory serves, all but Morgan, Whitehouse, Tyler and Healey saw service against the locals a year ago. Briereubroodspot and Yauckoes are two of the biggest schoolboys in the business and the former was the Star's choice for all Middlesex honors a year ago.

The high school authorities have announced that no one will be permitted to sit in the stands without a tag, and there will be plenty of police on hand to handle the crowd.

MUSIC GARDEN

The first Music Garden meeting of the fall season was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lochman last Monday evening, the hosts for the occasion being Mr. and Mrs. Lochman, Mrs. W. L. Cleary and Miss Ruth Cleary.

The program is not available at this time, but consisted of 12 numbers of varied character, ending with an orchestral number and closing with a piano group played by Mr. Phippen.

At the close of the regular program the audience consisting of 10 members and guests had the delightful privilege of listening to Mr. and Mrs. Lochman's friend, Mr. Elford Caughey, harpist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra read a paper on the history of the harp, afterwards playing several numbers on Mrs. Lochman's fine Lyon & Healy instrument. After the program light refreshments were served and the evening was voted "one of the best."

MR. GRAVES NEXT ON YOUNG PEOPLE'S PROGRAM

About 40 young people assembled at the society meeting last Sunday in the First Congregational Church parish house and heard Dr. Chidley give a splendid talk which was applicable to everyone present. At the close everyone trouped upstairs to partake of the delicious refreshments and to join in the singing. Dorothy Kleeb played the piano for the latter. This was a most encouraging start and here's hoping there will be fully as many and even more at the meetings to come.

Next Sunday Mr. Graves will conduct an informal discussion in the ladies' parlor. To those of you who are acquainted with Mr. Graves and his interesting way of presenting a subject, this will be a big attraction. Tell your friends about these meetings and—even better, bring them down with you. Six p. m. is the time. We'll be looking for you

ART CLASSES FORMING

Practical art classes are now being formed and everyone whether a member of the Association or not, interested in trying out their skill is invited to join. Whether you are a novice or whether you have had experience these classes will be interesting.

Mr. Bruce, head of the Cambridge Art School, will be the instructor. The classes will meet Monday evenings from 7:30 to 10 o'clock and the fees for the nights you decide to attend will range from 50c to $1. For more information please get in touch with Mr. Bowen Tufts, Mrs. Robert Burr, Mrs. Frederick Norton, Mr. George Hayden, Miss Edna Hatch.

BETTER HOMES GARDEN CLUB

Prof. Paul W. Dempsey of the Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station in Waltham will be the guest speaker at the October meeting at the home of Mrs. George Elwell, 41 Lebanon street, Wednesday next at 2:30 p. m.

Professor Dempsey's subject will be "Winter Protection for the Garden." The discussion will also include "Fall Planting of Bulbs, and Color in the Winter Garden."

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

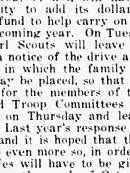

Preservation of Antiques Committee

Preservation of Antiques Committee. Lexington-Concord pilgrimage and luncheon Friday, Oct. 19. Chairmen, Miss Louise Bancroft and Mrs. Roger Burgoyne.

Cars will leave the Unitarian Church promptly at 10 o'clock. Reservations for this trip must be made not later than noon Wednesday, Oct. 17, with Mrs. Roger Burgoyne, Win. 0470 or Mrs. Earle Andrews, Win. 0017-M.

For the benefit of the new members the first stop will be made at the Hancock Clarke house on Hancock street, Lexington. This house owned by the Lexington Historical Society contains a valuable collection of relics illustrating the early history of our own country. Here Samuel Adams and John Hancock were sleeping when aroused by Paul Revere. There is a small admission fee at this house. From here we visit the Minute Man Antique Shop at 1984 Massachusetts avenue owned and occupied by Mrs. Foster and her son. This is a very interesting and early house. Mr. Foster is a well known artist. His studio at the end of the house was at one time the headquarters of the gold and silver beaters. The old forge is of great interest. From here we go to the Hartwell Farm, Virginia road, Concord, where luncheon and a social hour will be enjoyed.

After luncheon we visit the Wayside Concord. Miss Margaret M. Lothrop will be our hostess. Miss Lothrop is the daughter of Mrs. Daniel Lothrop, better known as Margaret Sidney, author of the many volumes of the Five Little Peppers. The Wayside, the only house which Nathaniel Hawthorne ever owned, bears in many places the imprint of his personality. The trees he planted are still standing on the hillside where he and his family spent many happy hours. There is a small admission fee at this house. From here we visit Concord's Old Manse by the North Bridge. This house was opened to the public for the first time this summer. Few old houses open to the public are as rich in antique furniture as the Old Manse, in which 17th century Queen Anne and Georgian pieces live together. Two of our greatest authors are associated with the Old Manse and both of them were given to scribbling about the place. Hawthorne who lived in the mid 18th century house from 1842-46 scrawled sentences on the window pane with his wife's diamond and Emerson whose grandfather built it, started what amounts to a guest book on the fireplace paneling of an upper room. There is also a considerable number of books in many languages throughout the house. Many of these belonged to Mrs. Samuel Ripley, wife of the third minister to occupy the Manse. There is an admission fee at this house. Members who have not visited the Antiquarian and Louise Alcott House will have ample time to do so after leaving the Manse. Please remember that reservations must be made by noon, Wednesday, Oct. 17. All passengers ride at their own risk.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

All Winchester benefits by the presence of fine active Girl Scout Troops in the community. Next Thursday, Oct. 18 will be Girl Scout dollar day. Every family, whether it boasts a Girl Scout or not, will have an opportunity to add its dollars to the Scout fund to help carry on the work of the coming year. On Tuesday, Oct. 16, Girl Scouts will leave at every home a notice of the drive and an envelope in which the family contribution may be placed, so that it will be ready for the members of the Council and Troop Committees who will return on Thursday and leave a receipt. Last year's response was generous and it is hoped that this year's will be even more so, in order that no activities will have to be given up.

During the week of Oct. 22-26 the National Girl Scout Convention will be held in Boston at the Hotel Statler. Winchester delegates to the convention are Mrs. J. T. Phelps and Mrs. Adele Emery; alternates, Mrs. Frank Kelly and Mrs. Harold Farnsworth. Anyone interested in Scouting is urged to attend as many of the meetings as possible as it is a great privilege to have so many helpful conferences so near home.

The following week will be National Girl Scout Week, the opening of which will be recognized on Sunday, Oct. 28 by a "Scout's Own," on which day each Scout is urged to attend the services of her own church in uniform. Notice of further Scout Week activities will be published later.

Scout work fills a very real need in the lives of many of our girls. They not only receive great benefits themselves such as the winter work and the work of the day camp here in July and August, but this summer our Council was able, by turning over the Winchester Cabin at Cedar Hill for their use, to give a summer camping place in August to 19 girls from the Trinity House Settlement in Boston and 60 others were able to enjoy day trips there.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The following Contagious Diseases were reported to the Board of Health for the week ending Wednesday, Oct. 10:

PORTER—LINSCOTT

There is Winchester interesting in the wedding which takes place in the Woburn Unitarian Church this afternoon at 4 o'clock when Miss Virginia Van Tassell Linscott, daughter of Mr. Louis R. Linscott of Poole street, Woburn, will become the bride of Cecil Raymond Porter of Washington street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Porter of Monticello, Me. Rev. Charles Wellman, formerly of Winchester, is to be the officiating clergyman and the wedding music will be played by Albert Hakanson.

Mr. Linscott will give his daughter in marriage and Miss Elizabeth Klein of Natick will be the bride's only attendant. Harold Johnson, also of Natick, will act as best man for Mr. Porter.

The bride will wear ivory satin with brown hat and slippers and will carry bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Klein's gown is to be of green velvet, and she will wear matching hat and slippers and carry talisman roses.

The reception is to be held immediately after the ceremony in the church vestry with the bride's father and sister, Miss Dorothy Sennet Linscott, assisting in receiving. The wedding journey is to take Mr. Porter and his bride to New Hampshire and Vermont. They are to make their future home in Woburn.

The bride is a graduate of the Vesper George School of Art and is a member of the Copley Society of Boston. Mr. Porter is associated with Bonnell Motors of this town.

BETHANY NEWS

It was like old times to see over 50 ladies out for a Bethany time Tuesday afternoon and all who attended the lecture and tea were enthusiastic about it. The subject so aptly handled by Mrs. Wolcott was one that appeals to every housewife, "The Care and Feeding of Husbands," and many practical and new suggestions were given. Husbands can surely look for better meals from now on!

One hundred per cent increase in Bethany attendance at church Sunday. This little item seemed worth mentioning.

Another party for the Sunday School is being held in the assembly Hall Friday evening to celebrate the holiday. All are welcome and assured a pleasant evening. (That is, we don't assure the pleasant weather, but rather the entertainment.)

The hostesses for the November Bethany luncheon are announced: Mrs. Nutting, Mrs. Josephson, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Hartshorn, Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Edward Weber. It is hoped a large number will attend the business meeting as several important matters are to be brought up for consideration.

LIONS ROAR

The Lions met at the Calumet Club on Oct. 8 at 12:15 p. m. for their weekly luncheon with an excellent attendance. After partaking of a delicious luncheon the Lions immigrated themselves by joyously singing the "Lion's Song."

The tail twister again was particularly active this week. He imposed fines for the slightest infraction of the rules. (It is being secretly whispered among the members, that if this certain tail twister does not show a change of heart for the better, he will be waylaid on a dark, stormy night and will be "gently" persuaded to change his mind.)

During the short business meeting it was announced that the plans for the Hallowe'en jamboree are progressing nicely. The date has been set for the night of Oct. 29 at 8 p. m. Already tickets have been distributed among the members.

Mr. Cronin of Winchester, a songbird of great renown, entertained with many beautiful ballads, singing the verse "Allo Solo" and finally leading the entire Lions chorus in one, glad joyous burst of song. Every Lion, being imbued with the spirit of good fellowship, lustily sang away.

The meeting was adjourned at 1:30 p. m.

BROWN—SEWELL

Miss Vera Mae Sewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Sewell of Highland avenue, Melrose Highlands, and Marvin Cadman Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brown of Eaton street, were married last Saturday evening, Oct. 6, at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. A. B. Gifford, pastor of the Saugus Methodist Episcopal Church and formerly pastor of the Crawford memorial Church in Winchester, performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock, the bridal party standing under an arch of autumn leaves, trailing vine, fall flowers and evergreen.

Miss Sewell was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Edith F. Sewell. Gordon K. Tobey of Winchester was Mr. Brown's best man.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white satin with a conventional veil of tulle and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. Her honor maid wore blue satin and carried talisman roses.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony, the parents of both bride and bridegroom assisting in receiving. Servers were Miss Barbara Hatch, Miss Lena Rapp and Miss Marion Peck of Melrose and Miss Ruby Brown of Winchester.

Following the reception Mr. Brown and his bride left on a wedding journey through the White Mountains. They are to make their future home in Winchester.

Town Clerk Mabel W. Stinson returned Monday to her desk at the town hall after enjoying a weak's vacation.

REGULATIONS ADOPTED BY THE BOARD OF SELECTMEN, RELATING TO THE TOWN AMBULANCE

1. The ambulance owned by the Town of Winchester shall be assigned to the Police Department, which department shall be held responsible for its care and maintenance.

2 The Chief of Police will be responsible to the Board of Selectmen for the observance of these regulations and such other regulations as may be adopted by the Board of Selectmen from time to time governing the use of the ambulance.

3. The policy of the Selectmen with respect to the ambulance is that it shall not be so used as to enter the town into competition with private enterprise in the furnishing of ambulance transportation but is to be used primarily for transportation of persons to the local hospital in emergency cases of accident or illness. It shall not, however, be used for transporting persons sick with any disease dangerous to the public health.

4. Fair and uniform rates of transportation for the town's ambulance shall be established by the Board of Selectmen.

5. Transportation shall be furnished on request of the Board of Health, the Department of Public Welfare, the Department of Soldiers' Relief or the agent of any one of them in cases in which the board making the request, or its duly authorized agent, is of opinion and certified that an emergency exists or that in its discretion the town ambulance should be used. In every such case a memorandum of the charge shall be sent to the department ordering the transportation, so that payment may be had if the person to whom it was furnished is able to pay, otherwise from members of his family if they are able to pay.

6. Ambulance service may be furnished to anyone in an emergency, and when no emergency exists but some sick person desires to be taken to a hospital; transportation shall be furnished only if the patient can not be moved safely, or without suffering, by other available means. In other cases residents of the town should not request or expect the use of the town ambulance. In no event shall the use of the ambulance be afforded except to take persons to hospitals in Winchester and adjoining towns. The greater the distance the greater shall be the emergency requiring it.

MANY REGISTERING TO VOTE HERE

Three hundred and sixty names had been added to the town's voting list when the Board of Registrars of Voters closed their session last evening in the Town Clerk's office in the Town Hall. Two hundred and ten names were added to the list the first day of registration Tuesday, the greatest number added in one day in the town's history. Not since the right of suffrage was granted women have the registrars been taxed as this week.

Tuesday evening long lines formed from the Town Clerk's office out into the corridor of the hall, and many were unable to register during the evening despite the fact that the registrars remained in session considerably longer than their advertised closing hour.

Much of the delay was due to the fact that it was necessary for many to secure certificates of residence from the Assessors before the registrars could register them.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS DAMAGES AWARDED WINCHESTER WOMEN

George Alpert, Boston lawyer, has been notified by the United States Supreme Court that it has dismissed the appeals of the Boston & Maine Railroad from the ruling of the Massachusetts Supreme Court upholding two jury verdicts totaling $25,247 for the deaths of two employees of the road by being run down while working in the East Somerville yards on Jan. 30, 1928.

The suits were brought by Alpert in behalf of Mrs. Annie M. Murphy of Lake street for the death of her husband, Jeremiah and for Mrs. Catherine T. Hanley of Dolan street for the conscious suffering and death of her husband, Thomas P. Hanley.

These cases had been carried from the Massachusetts Courts to the Supreme Court at Washington and now as seen above these two women will get the awards with interest charges.

FIRST BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE

The opening meeting of the Young People's Group last Sunday evening aroused much interest and enthusiasm. At a most informal fireside meeting in the parish house, as they sat around the open fire, the young people discussed with the pastor the question of "The Guidance of God." A large number were present and remained for the social hour which followed.

Next Sunday, four of the young people who attended the Conference for Leadership Training at Ocean Park will tell of "The High Lights" of the conference. All young people of high school age and over are invited to attend this service at 8 p. m.

BETTER HOMES CLUB

At the previous meeting of the club the following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside
Vice-President—Mr. Tor Hiorner
Treasurer—Mrs. Norman L. Skene
Recording Secretary—Mrs. F. P. Church
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Sylvester Taylor

Chairman Social Committee—Mrs. Chauncey Mitchell, Jr.
Chairman Membership Committee—Mrs. Elisha Goodwin.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

The Town Treasurer, Dr. Harrie Y. Nutter, with the approval of the Board of Selectmen, has borrowed $100,000 in anticipation of revenue. The notes, which have been signed by the Board, were dated Oct. 1 and will be due Jan. 9, 1935. The rate of interest is .40 per cent, discounted. The Board and the Treasurer derive considerable satisfaction from this rate evidencing the strong financial position of the town. The Town Treasurer has reported to the Board that he has been advised that recent borrowings of other municipalities have been at the following rates: Arlington $100,000 at .77 per cent plus $1 premium, Framingham $100,000 at 1.375 per cent, Fitchburg $350,000 at .81 per cent.

In accordance with the action of the town meeting in June referring to the Board of Selectmen and the Board of Health jointly the noise nuisance in connection with the delivery of milk in Winchester, these boards have called a conference of representatives of the various milk companies. The conference will be held in the Selectmen's office next Monday evening, Oct. 15, at 8:15 o'clock. The meeting will be open to the public.

The town ambulance, which the June town meeting voted should be purchased, having arrived in town and being ready for service, the Board of Selectmen has adopted regulations for its use.

The Board has directed that repairs be made on the clock on the First Congregational Church as promptly as the clock company is able to attend to the matter.

Horace H. Ford, 20 Kenwin road, was drawn as juror to serve at the second session of the Superior Criminal Court at Cambridge, to appear Nov. 5, at 10 a. m.; and Daniel F. Higgins, 16 Fletcher street, was drawn for the third session of the Superior Civil Court to appear at the same time and place.

The Town Engineer, Parker Holbrook, representing the Board, appeared at the hearing held by the State Department of Public Works at the East Cambridge Court House recently and presented as suggestions for possible Chapter 90 work in Winchester for 1935 (the cost to be split among the Town, County and State) the reconstruction of Church street from Winchester center to Cambridge street at an estimated cost of $60,000 and the construction of a new bridge on Main street at Wedge Pond at an estimated cost of $30,000.

The Town Engineer reported that these suggestions were taken under advisement along with ones from other municipalities in the County, including one from the City of Medford for the reconstruction of Winthrop street from the Winchester line to the Mystic Valley Parkway.

The Fitzgerald Fuel Company has been granted a permit to obstruct the sidewalks while delivering fuel oil by means of hose or flexible pipe lines.

The Board has issued the following parking order: "That parking be restricted on the southeasterly corner of Converse place and Main street for a distance of about twenty (20) feet on each street from the intersection."

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS BLANKED STONEHAM

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team made it two in a row by blanking Stoneham High Wednesday afternoon on Manchester Field, 6—0.

The local girls outclassed the visitors, showing a nice passing game that kept play for the most part deep in Stoneham territory. "Nat" Stevens and "Dot" Glidden scored all Winchester's points, the former getting three goals before half time and Glidden, two.

After intermission, Stoneham's defense stiffened and Glidden's goal from scrimmage was the only tally. One of the goals in the first half was a pretty team effort, Glidden carrying the length of the court and passing to Stevens who banged the ball past Goalie Halgren.

Between the halves of the first team game, the Winchester seconds shut out the Stoneham seconds, 2—0.

Following is the summary:

ITALIANS TO OBSERVE COLUMBUS DAY

Members of the Sons of Italy are making special preparations to observe Columbus Day in a fitting manner, and despite last minute decisions to cancel both the road race and parade, previously announced, have arranged a program of general interest.

There will be special exercises in the Italian section of the town, and in the morning "Jimma" Flaherty's West Medford A. A. will meet the strong Stoneham Town Team on the gridiron at Manchester Field. No formal exercises have been scheduled for the afternoon so as not to interfere with the Winchester High-Lexington High football game.

In the evening there will be a grand banquet and dancing party in Lyceum Hall, town officials and other personages of importance among the invited guests.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR NOTES

The first fall meeting of the Guild of the Infant Saviour was held in Lyceum Hall on Tuesday.

A business meeting was held after which the President, Mrs. Michael Hinthian, introduced Mrs. W. McDermott, the new president of the Boston Guild, who gave a short talk on the coming bazaar to be held Nov. 20 at the Copley Plaza. Mrs. Edward Goode, secretary of the Boston Guild was also a guest.

The afternoon's program was under the direction of Mrs. Anita McGaraigle. Mrs. Earl Wood sang two charming solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Thomas Hennessey and Mrs. Frances Conlon gave two of her inimitable readings. Tea was served by the following Guild members Mrs. P. T. Walsh, Mrs. E. Wood, Mrs. H. Arnold and Mrs. T. Osterberg.

MRS. ROGERS FORGETS VOTES TO AID NEEDY

There are those who might criticize her for "wasting" a lot of perfectly good campaign days but Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican Representative from Massachusetts, would much rather be in the National Capitol negotiating loans for families about to lose their homes, finding jobs for destitute fathers, and guaranteeing bread to starving children.

Located today flittering in and out of high administration offices, the energetic Representative Rogers said she was forgetting about her campaign speeches for a little while so she could help out those who, without a little push behind them, might not obtain the aid they need. Said she: "I guess I am wasting a lot of time that I might put to good advantage by making some speeches to my constituents, but I can't bear to see suffering, so I'm doing my best down here for the present."

Mrs. Rogers has just arrived in the city and expects to remain here a few days to confer with Federal Emergency Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Home Owners Loan Corporation officials, and other administrative leaders, to help her constituents.

Conditions in her district are pretty bad, Mrs. Rogers said, as the result of the recent textile strike and other economic ills.

Mrs. Rogers, a member of the House of Representatives for more than nine years is seeking re-election to the 74th Congress. She won the recent Republican primaries with an 8 to 1 majority.—[Washington Times

MISS SARAH QUIGLEY

Miss Sarah Quigley, a resident of Winchester for the past half century, died Saturday afternoon, Oct. 6 at the home of her brother, John J. Quigley, 88 Wendell street, following a week's illness.

Miss Quigley was the daughter of the late Patrick and Ellen (Canney) Quigley, and was born 63 years ago in Ireland. As a girl she came to this country and soon after settled in Winchester. She was a member of the Ladies' Sodality of the Immaculate Conception Church and during her long residence made many friends who will learn of her passing with regret.

Surviving, besides the brother with whom she made her home, are a sister, Miss Mary Quigley of New York City and two brothers, Neal Quigley, living in Ireland and James Quigley, living in California.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the late residence with high mass of requiem in the Immaculate Conception Church. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

ENROLLED AT ABBOT

Miss Nancy England, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. M. J. England of Ledgewood road, has enrolled at Abbot Academy, Andover, one of the oldest schools for girls in New England. Abbot enters its 106th year this fall with a 20 per cent increase in enrollment.

Miss Susan S. Hildreth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Hildreth of 373 Highland avenue and Miss Ellen Rivinius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rivinius of 346 Main street, also of Winchester, have both returned to Abbot as seniors. Miss Hildreth is president of the Aeolian Society and a member of the Athletic Association; Miss Rivinius is a member of the Q. E. D. and is active in the hockey and riding activities of the school.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cullen of Porter street, Woburn, announce the marriage of their daughter Nancy, to Mr. Dennis McMannus son of Mrs. Nellie McMannus of Glenwood avenue. The ceremony was performed on Jan. 6 of this year by Rev. Father Waters in St. Bridget's Church, South Boston.

Miss Dorothy Ober of Salisbury road has returned to the May School for the coming year.

THE RED WAGON TRAIL

"The red wagon trail blazed by horse-drawn wagons through the hub-deep mud of the highways of the last half of the 1800's pioneered the way for the modern system of food distribution," declared J. T. Patten, oldest living member of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company organization, which is celebrating its 75th Anniversary this month. "Horses, though rarely given credit, played as important a part in the development of modern food distribution as they did in settling the West," Mr. Patten stated.

In the 1870's when I started in the grocery business," Mr. Patten continued, "tran-portation wasn't as good as it is now. Many of our customers could not get to the stores for their supplies. But then as now, our company believes that large volume of business results in reduced prices. This volume was obtained by mail, and by sending supplies to outlying customers in these little red, ho. " wagons.

"The routes of these wagons ed from the stores in the cit. the spokes in a wheel. Each would start off loaded, delivering the tea and coffee ordered a week before, taking the orders for the week after from the housewives along the route. These early A. & P. wagon routes, of course, had to struggle through knee-deep mud and snow, ford streams; fight their way through. But they were welcome when they arrived, for they not only brought these groceries at low prices, which was an innovation in those days, but also news of the outside world and gossip of the neighborhood. They also brought a gift for each customer, a colored chromo, a piece of china or bric-a-brac. Many of these pieces are still prized possessions of their owners.

"The idea was quite successful. I remember that in 1896 when Uncle Sam established the rural free delivery, we used to say he was copying our system of 'rural food delivery' for we had 1500 wagons at that time.

People began to ask these wagons to carry other foods. Soon the lists of foods that customers wanted were greater than any wagon could carry, even with the improved roads that were being built at the end of the first decade of this century.

But by this time other means of tran-portation had developed. Cities had grown, and the wagon routes had built up right to the point where it was possible to open little grocery stores in almost every town, in fact in almost every neighborhood.

"But for a long time after that the horse-drawn truck with its beautiful Percheron beasts was more economical than the motor truck for city deliveries, long after the auto became a practical vehicle for tran-portation.

When the first funny-looking horseless carriages passed my store, I had no more idea than anybody else that I would live to see ridiculous gasoline buggies make the world an entirely different place to live in," Mr. Patten concluded. "In a way I was sorry to see those hundreds of fine horses we used to have go, but I suppose they would be uneconomical in the world now."

FREEBURN WON BENEDICT CUP

"Larry" Freeburn, smooth working left hander, won the final round of the annual fall tennis tournament and the Benedict Cup from the veteran "Jim" Riley at the Palmer street courts last Sunday, his straight set victory being achieved with scores of 6—1, 6—2, 6—3.

Freeburn after a summer of inactivity on the courts, outclassed his older opponent who was patently off his game and never threatened. Conditions were very bad for good tennis, a high wind bothering both contestants, yet seeming to effect Freeburn's game much less than Riley's.

Finals in doubles were not played, Hall Gamage and "Bill" Morton failing to show up to meet Riley and the youthful "Billy" Gilpatric. It is hoped to play off the doubles championship at Palmer street this Sunday morning and a good match is assured when the above named quartet gets into action.

DESIGNATION OF MIDSHIPMAN TO U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY

Examination at New Post Office, Lowell, Saturday, Oct. 20, at 9 A. M.

The Navy Department has notified me that I am entitled to designate from the Fifth Congressional District of Massachusetts one candidate for midshipman in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., such midshipman to enter the Academy during the summer of 1935. I am also entitled to designate three alternates who will be designated in order of rank if the principal fails.

The men whom I shall designate, both as principal and alternates, to enter the examination for admission to the United States Naval Academy, will be selected as a result of a district-wide competitive examination. This examination, which is entirely unofficial, I have requested the United States Civil Service Commission to hold, and the Commission will, without my intervention, prepare the questions, hold the examination, correct the papers, and certify to me the ranks and relative standing of the competitors. This examination will be held at the new Post Office, Lowell, Mass., on Oct. 20, 1934, at 9 a. m.

I have requested the Civil Service Commission to give an examination of substantially the same degree of difficulty and in the same subjects as those which comprise the examination for admission to the Academy. The examination will consist of algebra, plane geometry, English composition and literature, history of the United States, ancient history, and physics, (science).

The first four in rank at the mental examination of Oct. 20, 1934, I shall cause to be examined by an official United States medical examiner, on a date to be set later, but subsequent to Oct. 20, 1934. If all four pass the physical test—which I shall request the examiner to make almost, but not quite, as rigorous as the official test will be—I shall designate them in order of mental rank. If one or more fail, I shall designate in order of rank those who pass, causing those next in mental rank to be examined physically until I am able to designate the men as principal and alternates who shall be the highest four in the mental examination and who are able to pass the physical test.

There will be no expense whatever involved in taking the above mental and physical examinations, other than the item of the applicant's travel. The examination I desire to be absolutely free to every young man residing in the 5th District who will be within the proper age limits prescribed by the government as stated below.

The candidates designated as principal and as alternates will receive from the Navy Department a letter of appointment, and they must appear for official examination at the time and place designated therein, before a board of Navy Officers convened by the Navy Department. Graduates of cer- proved schools and colleges declared eligible for admission official mental examination. neipal and alternates must be citizens of the United States and actual residents of the 5th District, and must have reached their 16th birthday, but not their 20th on April 1, 1935.

Although I expect to appoint applicants in order of qualification as above indicated, I reserve the right to reject any applicant who in character, temperament or other respect, may seem to me to be unfitted to make a successful officer. I also reserve the right to modify, as may seem necessary, any or all of he foregoing conditions prescribed by me.

Copies of this circular and official pamphlets, giving in detail the physical, mental and other requirements of the government and specimen examination papers, will gladly be sent free on request.

Those desiring to take the unofficial examination of Oct. 20, 1934, should furnish me with their names and addresses as soon as possible, but in no event later than Oct. 13, that I may be able to forward to each a card of authorization to take the examination.

The cities and towns in the 5th Congressional District are as follows: Acton, Arlington, Ayer, Bedford, Belmont, Billerica, Burlington, Cambridge, Ward 11, Carlisle, Chelmsford, Concord, Dracut, Dunstable, Groton, Lexington, Littleton, Lowell, Melrose, Reading, Stoneham, Tewksbury, Tyngsboro, Westford, Wilmington, Winchester, Woburn.

FOREIGN GROWERS READY TO MEET COTTON DEMAND

Cotton growers in foreign countries, unhampered by government bureaucracy, will produce more than 13,000,000 bales this year and thereby capture world supremacy in the markets formerly dominated by American growers, according to reports made by agricultural statisticians. The AAA clamped down on cotton growers this year, like other federal bureaus are throttling industry and with the drought further curtailing the artificially reduced crop, American growers will produce less than 10,000,000 bales this year, according to official forecasts. Despite the fact that foreign-grown cotton this year is expected to exceed the domestic crop for the first time since the Civil War, farmers who are struggling under the AAA might have received a comparatively high price for their staple had it not been for a move made by the Administration just as the first cotton of the season came on the market. The Government virtually "pegged" the price at 12 cents a pound by setting that as the federal loan figure.

MRS. MARGARET LeDUC

Mrs. Margaret E. LeDuc, widow of George D. LeDuc and for the past 33 years a resident of Winchester, died early Monday morning, Oct. 8 at her home, 205 Mystic Valley Parkway after a long illness.

Mrs. LeDuc observed her 67th birthday on Oct. 1. She was the daughter of Hugh and Bridget (McCormack) Sheridan and was born in 1867 in Stoneham, spending her early life there and receiving her education in the Stoneham public schools.

In 1891 she was married and ten years later, came to Winchester in which town she had since made her home.

Mrs. LeDuc was active in the religious and social life of the community and was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends. She was a member of the Married Ladies' Sodality of St. Mary's Church, of the Winchester Chapter, Guild of the Infant Saviour, and of the Auxiliary to Post 97, American Legion.

Surviving are three daughters the Misses Winifred A. LeDuc and Mary E. LeDuc, both of Winchester; Mrs. Margaret E. Laymen of Somerville; and two sons, George F. LeDuc of Winchester and Philip S. LeDuc of Dorchester. There are also surviving five grandchildren and two sisters, Miss Harriet A. Sheridan and Mrs. Mary E. Cogan, both of Stoneham. Mr. LeDuc died nine months ago.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the late residence with solemn high mass of requiem in St. Mary's Church. Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach was celebrant, Rev. Fr. Aloysius Malone was deacon and Rev. Fr. Joseph McGoldrick, subdeacon. Bearers were Edward Sheridan of Somerville, George Cogan of Stoneham, Edward Sheridan of Stoneham, Wilfred Roberts and Frank Flynn, both of Somerville; and Henry Quinlan of Stoneham. The services were largely attended and there were many beautiful floral tributes. Interment was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Stoneham.

Last Saturday afternoon the Boston & Maine police notified the local authorities that a crap game was in progress near the Highlands Station. Patrolman James P. Donachey was sent to investigate, but the players, a group of youngsters scattered at his approach and made good their escape.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

On Thursday, Oct. 18 at 2:30 p. m. the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League will hold its first meeting of the season. This will be held in the attractive, homelike quarters of the Fortnightly in Waterfield Hall. The speaker will be Mrs. Lucy J. Franklin, Dean of Women in Boston University. Mrs. Franklin holds the attention of her audience by her forceful and eloquent oratory. She is always interesting. Mrs. Annette Symmes Hughes will sing accompanied by Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes. The three directors of the Circle, Mrs. Frederick W. Axeltine, Mrs. Albert K. Comins and Mrs. Herbert E. Stone will be the hostesses.

Tea will be served by the Social Committee: Mrs. Harris S. Richardson and Mrs. E. Ober Pride, chairmen. The pourers will be the two vice-presidents, Mrs. Charles A. Burnham and Mrs. George H. Eaton, and two of the ex-presidents, Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott and Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell.

A Question many people are asking

—AND THE ANSWER

THE QUESTION

Now that the Edison Company can no longer supply free lamps to customers, will the Edison Shops sell lamp bulbs?

THE ANSWER

Yes. We are carrying a complete supply of lamps to be sold at standard prices. Thus, you may buy lamp bulbs of all sizes, styles, and varieties at any Edison Shop – for the same prices you would pay at any reliable dealer's.

All lamps we sell are American-made, of standard quality and known value, trade-marked with a name of a manufacturer you know and whose reputation you recognize. These lamps will not blacken early nor burn out quickly. They will give you all the light you pay for.

FUNERAL RITES FOR DANIEL BRADFORD BADGER

Business associates, town officials, representatives of fraternal organizations and many friends of Daniel Bradford Badger, retired president of the E. B. Badger & Sons Co., nationally known Boston firm of coppersmiths, attended his funeral last Saturday afternoon in the First Congregational church.

Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church, officiated at the service and delivered the eulogy. The church organist and choirmaster, J. Albert Wilson, played Handel's Largo preceding the service and during the funeral, the Aria by Bach and Widor's Adagio. A Masonic quartet sang Barnby's arrangement of Tennyson's Crossing the Bar and two favorite hymns, Lead Kindly Light and Still, Still With Thee. Numerous floral tributes banked the chancel and the front of the church.

Honorary bearers included Charles T. Main, Robert W. Oliver, Ira G. Hersey, Alonzo Dusko, Louis Doyle, Lyman L. Lord, Alfred B. Barr, Frank Whitcher, George P. Lunt, Walter T. Hull, Harry C. Merriam and Charles L. Campbell. Ushers were Roland H. Boutwell, 2nd, J. Fisher Dwinell, Howard Morrison, Harold Coombs, Charles F. Roche and Carl Gram.

Among the organizations represented at the funeral were E. B. Badger & Sons Co., of which the deceased was chairman of the board of directors; William Parkman and St. Johns Lodges, A. F. & A. M., Winchester Royal Arch Chapter, Aleppo Temple of the Mystic Shrine, Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co., Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics' Association, of which Mr. Badger was past president; Master Builders' Association and the Old School Boys of Boston.

Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Dr. Chidley.

Mr. Badger died on Oct. 3 at his home on Prospect street after a brief illness. He was born 84 years ago in Boston and at the age of 16 became apprenticed to the firm of Hicks & Badger in that city, becoming a partner in 1879, at which time the firm name was changed to E. B. Badger & Son. In 1900 the business was incorporated as the E. B. Badger & Sons Co., of which Mr. Badger became president.

He came to live permanently in Winchester in 1898. For five years from 1901 he served the town as Fire Engineer and was for several years Forest Fire Warden, also serving as a member of the Finance Committee and as a director of the Winchester Savings Bank.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lizzie (Pearson) Badger; three sons, Erastus B. of Winchester; Walter I. P. of Meredith, N. H.; and Paul B. Badger of Greenwich, Conn.; a sister and four brothers.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Although summer fruits are disappearing from the markets, the arrival of many typical fall vegetables and the lowest prices for two months on beef and lamb should make it easy for the housewife to plan interesting and varied meals.

Fine quality cabbage is cheap and abundant; cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts are also in season. The makings of pumpkin or squash and apple pies and of sweet potato pone are all seasonable and moderately priced. White potatoes are cheap. Good spinach is high, but green beans are still low in price.

Grapefruit is beginning to be plentiful though the season is still early. Persimmons and pomegranates with grapes, pears and bananas help to make a colorful bowl of fruit.

The following menus are made up from the latest market news available.

Low Cost Dinner
Pan-broiled Hamburg Steak
Baked Potatoes
Baked Hubbard Squash
Bread and Butter
Apple Betty
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Tomato Juice
Calves' Liver and Bacon
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered Cauliflower
Bread and Butter
Squash Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Oyster Cocktail
Broiled Beefsteak with Onions
Baked Stuffed Potatoes
Creamed Celery

WINCHESTER MAN TO FLY WITH POLANDO AND WRIGHT IN INTERNATIONAL TROPHY RACE

William S. Bowen of 29 Central street, Winchester, was a passenger of the liner "Olympic," out of New York for Europe last Friday night, sailing with John L. Polando and John H. Wright, noted flying team who will enter the MacRobertson International Trophy race from London to Australia, leaving London, on Oct. 20. Mr. Bowen flew from the Boston Airport Friday afternoon in time to reach New York at 4 o'clock, where he conferred with the British Consul, prior to his sailing at 7 o'clock. He pilotted his own Stinson monoplane having as passengers, Mrs. Bowen and Albert Leichback, who brought the plane back to Boston, with Mrs. Bowen, the following day.

A decision to have Mr. Bowen accompany the Wright-Polando flight was made Thursday night and the Winchester man hurried home to prepare for his departure. Upon arrival in London, Mr. Bowen will leave immediately for either Baghdad or Singapore, traveling on the regular air lines. His function will be to prepare a study of weather conditions and terrain along the route. The results of this study will be handed to Wright and Polando as they pass through either Baghdad or Singapore in the $75,000 race.

Because of a technicality regarding the weight of a plane in the race, Mr. Bowen may take the controls of the plane for the remainder of the race from Singapore if it is decided to install a short-wave radio. The Polando-Wright plane, a speedy Monocoupe, was transferred to the Olympic Friday. Albert Leichscheid, Boston commercial flyer, came to aid the flyers in dismantling the plane and loading it on board a lighter. The American team is said to have an excellent chance to place in the 11,000 mile handicap race. Any winnings will be divided between Mr. Bowen, Polando and Wright.

CHILDREN'S SHOWS BEGIN AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

The children's movies and feature shows, which won considerable popularity last winter in the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, have been opened again this fall on Saturday afternoons. Mal and his Pals put on a real show that lasts two and a half hours. Clean entertainment of high grade for children is the feature of these shows. There are six to eight reels of motion pictures consisting of comedies, animated cartoons and carefully selected feature pictures, clever comedy stunts by Mal, such as ladder tipping, table or chair rocking, juggling. At almost every show there are boys or girls from other communities who do dancing, singing or stunts. Last week, William Flannagan of Everett, did very clever crayving sketching on the blackboard while Mal talked and cracked jokes. The sketches illustrated the jokes.

The children also have their part in the show. All who sing, recite a piece, tell a joke, perform a stunt, or think they can add something otherwise to the program, are given an opportunity. Winners always receive a prize. Last season various other prizes were given away, including a Mickey Mouse watch.

The purpose of these shows is not to make money, but to provide clean, wholesome "movie" entertainment for the children of Winchester without the necessity of going out of town. The shows start at 2:30 on Saturday afternoons and close at 5 o'clock.

THE BITERS BITTEN

A group of West Side boys, three 13 years of age and the other, 14, had a taste of their own medicine last Saturday evening when they were rounded up by Patrolman John E. Hanlon of the Police Department after a complaint had been received at headquarters that the air had been let out of the tires of an automobile on Salisbury road.

One of the quartet admitted the mischief when the group was questioned by Officer Hanlon, and the latter returned the boys to the car in question. Procuring a pump the policeman put the boys at work, favoring them while they perspired in the moist night with some good advice concerning other people's property.

After the right pressure had been put into the tires and the car was once more ready for use Officer Hanlon conducted the boys to their respective homes where their parents were notified of their youngsters' idea of a good time.

HIT ON THE EYE BY BOY FRIEND

That was the reason for the tears, in which Patrolmen William E. Cassidy and Irving Reardon of the Police Department discovered a young woman on Edgehill road last Saturday night.

Headquarters had been notified shortly before 11:30 by residents of that neighborhood that a young woman was crying in an automobile parked on Edgehill road, and the two policemen were sent to investigate.

Upon arrival they found a young woman, who said she came from out of town, seated in a Ford coach, which she said was hers. She told the officers that her boy friend, who she said had been drinking, had punched her on the eye, and made his way off down Main street. She was advised to go home by the police who saw nothing of any man in the vicinity.

CALUMET CLUB NEWS

Bowling

Harry McGrath, chairman of the Bowling Committee, is sending out a notice this week to members notifying them of the opening of the Bowling tournament which will commence on or about the first of November.

It is also proposed to have bowling parties for the ladies. This, of course, will be limited to club members.

Contract Bridge

Contract Bridge parties will be held every Tuesday night commencing Nov. 6 and will be in charge of Mrs. Agnes Leghorne as formerly.

This year attendance will be limited to members of the club and their families, except that a guest or guests may be invited once in 30 days when accompanied by a member of the club.

Attractive prizes will be offered each week. Play will start promptly at 8:10 p. m.

Membership Drive

The Membership Committee headed by Earle B. Goldsmith is continuing its good work and several new names have been posted on the bulletin board the past week.

President Wallace F. Flanders has appointed the following committee chairmen:

Bowling Committee: Harry A. McGrath.
Membership Committee: Earle B. Goldsmith
Saturday Evening Supper Committee: Robert A. Reynolds.
Entertainment Committee: Ernest D. Chase.
Billiards and Pool Committee: C. H. Smith
Card Committee: Arthur S. Kelley.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASING RAPIDLY

The second session of the Winchester Community School of Religious Education opened with an increased enrollment of 30 per cent. There is no question about the success of the school because of the ever increasing interest and enthusiasm of its members, and the good reports that they are spreading on all sides. The enrollment is still open to everyone who wishes to avail himself of the opportunity for the remaining eight sessions. Dr. Weston's frank and stimulating leadership in the discussions about "Young People's Problems" is proving very attractive to a large number of people, and no one can attend Professor Wildman's intensely interesting course on the "Old Testament" without acquiring a refreshing and enlarged acquaintance with this oldest of books.

The members of Miss Doherty's class in story telling are charmed with her personality and her skill, and they have ample opportunity to practice this new technique, which they are acquiring. Mrs. Miller's course in Church School Methods is invaluable to all those persons who are seeking new ideas and possibilities for meeting the challenging demands of a new day in the churches.

The Executive Committee of the co-operating churches gives a sincere invitation to everyone to come to the third and succeeding sessions of the school, every Monday evening through Dec. 3 at 7:30 p. m. at the First Baptist Church. The fee is only $1.

METCALF UNION NOTES

The Metcalf Union, the Young People's Society of the Unitarian Church started the year off well Sunday with both a noon and evening service.

At the noon service, Mr. Reed, the minister, and Mr. Herbert Miller, greeted the new members and urged co-operation with the officers in carrying out the program for the coming year.

In the evening the Union was honored to have as a speaker Mr. Samuel Graves, one of the high school's most popular teachers, who spoke on "Modern Political Problems" and urge dthe young people not to listen to all the political promises and not to be willing to give up peace easily. At the end of his talk, many questions were asked and Mr. Graves in his easy manner, responded to all the inquiries.

Refreshments were served and after that there was a candle light service in Meyer Chapel, much the same as is held at the Isles of Shoals.

A large and enthusiastic group was present and it was pleasing to see the members of other denominations.

The Metcalf Union is planning a bigger and better year and all are welcome at the services.

The officers for this year are:
President—Richard Elliott
Vice President—Margaret Plumer
Secretary—Judith Reed
Treasurer—"Bob" Graham

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

The Evening School classes will open Monday evening, Oct. 15, at the Lincoln School. Classes will be held Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30. Three classes will be held: two in Americanization (one elementary and one advanced) and a class in English and other academic subjects for people who were oblized to leave school early. The work in this class will not be above the Junior High School level.

As in other years, those interested in Evening High Schools will be accommodated in one of the Boston Evening High Schools or in Evening High Schools of the larger communities nearest Winchester. The Superintendent will be glad to confer with anyone interested in an Evening High School education.

MOTION PICTURE CONFERENCE

Mrs. Robbins Gilman, chairman of the Motion Picture committee of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will conduct a two-day conference on the motion picture situation at the Twentieth Century Club, 3 Joy street, Boston, on Oct. 15 and 16. An interesting feature of the conference will be the demonstration of various substitutes for movies for the recreation of children.

All parent-teacher members who are planning to study motion pictures as they relate to recreation, will find Mrs. Gilman an authority on the subject.

Mrs. Ralph S. Vinal of Salisbury street will be at Whiteface, N. H. over Columbus Day.

EPIPHANY OFFICERS ACCEPT DEACONNESS LANE'S RESIGNATION

Following Letter of Appreciation Sent Parish Worker

May 24, 1934

Miss Helen Phillips Lane,
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Deaconness Lane:

In our late response to your note of resignation of last November, and in acknowledgment of the very sincere letter read at the last meeting, the Wardens and Vestry wish to notify you of their action accepting your resignation, effective May 31. It is with the deepest regret in their behalf, and acting for the Parish, that they are led to this decision.

We know your work for the Parish has its own reward for which we wish you unbounded contentment in the realization of all the good you have done. No approach to the enumeration of your good deeds could be attempted. And we can only say that we thank you.

Many many children have grown up and are growing up with loving thoughts of the Deaconess. The fundamental beliefs which you have so abiy taught them will stand them in good stead in the years ahead. Your work with the girls and boys, who first learned of Christ's teachings from you, will bear fruit long after these few words of appreciation have been forgotten.

Your efforts with the evening branch of the Parish have meant long hours. The result of your friendship can hardly be measured even by yourself. It would take the testimony of all those with whom you have come in contact for any one to get an idea of the good you have done.

Few of the present Vestry have any full knowledge of your work over the long period of time you have served the Parish of the Epiphany. But we want especially to record the thanks of the Parish for your untiring efforts in carrying on the work of the Church during the trying years of the World War. Your increasing work in ministering to the needs of the Parish, during the absence of the Rector, and much to further the work of the Church.

Please accept the best wishes of the Wardens and Vestry, who wish you many happy years of relaxation and rest.

Very sincerely and respectfully yours,
Signed,
Rector, Wardens and Vestry,
Parish of the Epiphany, Winchester, Mass.

WINCHESTER MAN APPOINTED SALES MANAGER BY GAUMONT BRITISH MOTION PICTURES

Mr. John Scully of Winchester has been appointed sales manager in charge of sales and distribution of the Gaumont British Motion Pictures in the Eastern States.

Mr. Scully is prominent in the motion picture industry, having until recently been the district manager of the eastern territory for Educational Pictures Corporation a producing motion picture company now distributing their pictures through the Fox Film Corporation.

Commenting on the new pictures he will distribute, Mr. Scully said, "The Gaumont British Company has a most elaborate program under operation with eight major motion pictures now completed and it is my proud privilege to announce that negotiations have just been completed with some of the leading stars of the screen to star in pictures being produced by the Gaumont Company. George Arliss, Evelyn Laye, Lupe Valez and Ronald Colman are a few of the stars already signed.

The initial offering of the Gaumont British Pictures Company is the popular "Chu Chin Chow" which many will remember as having been produced and staged by Morris Gest at the Shubert Theatre in Boston where it enjoyed a long run. Anna May Wong is the featured player in the motion picture and this picture is now the current attraction at the Roxy Theatre in New York where it is playing to capacity crowds.

Mr. Scully makes his home with his family at 5 Sheffield road. Both he and his family have many friends who join in wishing him success in his new field.

MOTHER

A masterpiece of Divine thought,
A work which God Himself has wrought,
Are you, my darling Mother.
No sweeter name of earthly birth
Excepting One, yet proved its worth
As yours, my darling Mother.

While yet within thy womb concealed
A loving prayer to God appealed
To spare me, darling Mother.
And from the moment of my birth
You treasured nothing else on earth
As me, my darling Mother.

How patiently throughout the years
You bore with love and often tears,
My wants, my darling Mother.
When sickness and misfortune came
This tender love was just the same
As ever, darling Mother.

How can I ever pay this debt
Which so unconsciously has crept
Upon me, darling Mother.
There's but one thing for me to do,
Ask God to make and keep me true
To you, my darling Mother.

THREE FIRES MONDAY

The Fire Department answered three alarms on Monday, the first coming at 11:31 in the forenoon from Box 62 for trouble with an oil burner at the residence of Mr. Walter Goddard at 42 Winthrop street. The damage, aside to the heater and that done by smoke, was not extensive.

At 3 o'clock there was a still alarm for a chimney fire at the home of Mr. James McEnany at 107 Church street and at 4:10 in the afternoon Box 65 came in for a brush fire on Hillcrest Parkway in front of the water tank there.

Mrs. Roland H. Sherman of Lewis road has returned to Winchester after spending several months in California with her daughter, Mrs. Homer Craig (Nancy Sherman).

TELEPHONE NUMBER 0029

The Star notes that the Veterans' Compensation Agent is one of those who has the right to call upon the Police Department for the use of the new town ambulance. We are just wondering if under this authority our friend, the "Squire of Fairmount Hill," can rest the "Franklin Ford" and ride home to luncheon in the new machine. In any event we suppose George cannot use the ambulance to ride down to Sagamore for his golf. Under the regulations that "emergency" is too far removed from town.

The prediction of a let-up by the administration of its socialistic attempts and an indication of a turn towards the "right" as election approaches seems amply proven from news allowed to be given the American public during the past fortnight. We hear increasing word of a let-up in governmental activities and a scattering of allusions to the fact that Republicans are still on earth; public enemies naturally, and credited with full responsibility for conditions to date. Along with this, items regarding changing the American diet and vague warnings that unless individual municipalities are willing to care for their own welfare funds, preparations must be made for substantial increases in the federal taxes, are appearing in increasing quantity. Of course all this is rumor and no direct statement in up an down facts and figures of policy or expenditure is forthcoming. Republicans are given full credit for the situation. The rank and file of that party is fully credited with relief promises for votes and for present conditions which have created the situation. One can well imagine just how much influence any Republican, in this section at least, can claim! One can likewise remember the cloud of dire predictions the curtailing of crops, the hog bonuses and the devastating summer drought produced. These too, seem well founded as time advances. Along with this comes condemnation of the business men who continue to hold capital from recovery channels and to whom, according to code, the blame for stagnant conditions is due. Now a new bugabear appears in the rumored flight of capital abroad. All of which cannot by the wildest stretch of imagination tend to restore confidence and start recovery. And that is the chief trouble of today. Lack of confidence. Apparently no one, either Democrat or Republican, places any direct faith in what the administration may say or may not do. There have been too many broken promises and too many wildcat experiments. With a thirty-hour week, payment of the soldiers' bonus, unemployment and old-age insurance likely to become winter issues, together with a constantly increasing call for welfare relief, truly it behoves those who are to be called upon to pay the bills to be wary of any unsubstantiated change in policy. Any person who is willing to review this situation, and then ask himself what he can expect with a full endorsement of New Deal ideas and actions, is bound to see the flaws and resolve upon caution above everything else—if he be one of those who must foot the bill. This country is run politically, and say what you will, no Republican ever made the mess we are now in. That the New Dealers have started something is a recognized fact, and today there appears to be no indication that they have any desire to stop. But from increasingly clear indications, the people must take a united hand in affairs if they do not want to get into something which neither they nor the administration can stop. No one wants class distinction and no one wants a political party governing through a preponderance of votes secured by welfare and governmental employees. Maine showed what can be done under today's conditions, and predictions are made that Massachusetts will follow suit. In many respects this old Bay State is the key to the situation, and a turn to Republicanism would effect a stimulating example to the boards who are uncertain and undecided as to what can be done to remedy the outlook so black today. There are indications that Republicans are rallying in strength this year, and it is just possible that this state may provide the turning point so necessary in the minds of many throughout the country.

IDEALISM AND EXPERIMENTATION

One has a right to experiment with his own money unless a loss resulting therefrom distresses those dependent upon him. But he has no right to experiment with other people's money. Individuals and banks did that in '28 and '29 with catastrophic results. In his address to the nation on Sept. 30, President Roosevelt said that he is experimenting with the people's money and that he is an idealist. The losses sustained by these experiments must be paid by the people who were taxed to provide the principal. None who heard the President's Sunday night address can doubt his statement that he is an idealist. He ignored every vital national issue in a soporific, unaffectedly simple talk broadcast by radio. The need of this country today is as far away from an experimenter and an idealist as from the center thrice to the utmost pole. An ideal may be sweet for the dreamer to contemplate but if it will not work to solve the practical problems of a suffering, well nigh distraught people it is worse than useless because, like a murky vapor, it obscures the way that is right, sound and useful. The present administration, the worst this country has ever known, exemplifies what an uncommon thing common sense is. With the failures of governments over a period of 3000 years for guiding precedent the same old methods that have always failed must be experimented with again. With utter lack of candor, refusing to answer the fair questions of honest business men who have made this country great, pursuing a course that has caused fear, unrest, and unhappiness throughout the ranks of labor and capital, refusing to tell just what he will do and when, the president keeps on smiling while the ship of state flounders in a dripping, murky fog.

FOR SOUND CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT

Oct. 3, 1934

To the Editor of the Star:

On Monday evening, Oct. 15 at 8 p. m. in the Winchester High School auditorium, there will be an organization meeting for a Winchester Men's Republican Club. All thinking people agree that our country is facing its gravest crisis. The present Federal Administration was elected on a fairly sound platform. Every pledge in that platform has been broken and the Democratic Party has surrendered bodily to propagandists for socialism, communism, fascism and every other modern form of despotism These propagandists are seeking to undermine and destroy the Constitution of the United States, which is the very basis of all our happiness, prosperity and success. They are using funds of the United States treasury illegally extracted from taxpayers to bribe citizens to surrender their constitutional liberty. Do we realize what it means if constitutional limitations on the powers of government can thus be illegally flouted through the success of propaganda and bribery rather than changed through the orderly process of constitutional amendments? Can any sensible person doubt that it means anarchy, bloodshed and chaos?

At present the Republican Party is the only political organization through which the people can function to fight this sinister and dangerous propaganda. The Republican Party has espoused the cause of sound constitutional government and it must be supported if we are ever to have prosperity and happiness again. It is only through permanent organizations of Republican Clubs that we can keep the fires of patriotism alive. Let us, therefore, all join and help the good work along.

SUNSHINE IN THE PRINT SHOP

Well, well, well and well! We can't even get over the shock yet. Here's someone, and a fellow printer at that, who not only is willing that we do some business, but actually wants us to. We expected a decided change in the good old NRA up to election, but nothing like this. We actually feel that we are getting back some of that NRA money we have been spending and thought had gone out the back door. Of course Mr. Cameron is only one of—(how many Mr. Waugh,), but he evidently is a gent who has been more or less bedevilled by the NRA during with a few other million (much in the minority) business men. Our hat is off to you Mr. Cameron.

Oct. 8, 1934

Donald R. Waugh, Clerk
Board of Selectmen,
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sir:

Much as we appreciate the opportunity you have given us to figure on the Town Report, we are going to try and discourage this idea of asking for estimates, as much as we can in our small way, hoping others will follow suit.

In our opinion, asking for bids on a town report, when all printers prices are supposed to be the same, is encouraging them to break the law in order to get the work. It would seem better to us to give it to your local printer, if he wishes it, but if not, give it to some printer that the board has confidence in, the price to be as per the Code.

If we are to save the Capitalistic system in this country (which on the whole I think is best, if run honestly) we have got to start with Federal, State, County and Municipal governments not encouraging anything that causes rotten competition; then organizations and individuals will have to follow. If we don't, when we look back from 1940 to 1934 as Fred Henderson says) the latter will look like a boom year.

If Socialism comes in, it is our own fault—because we encourage crookedness, and to encourage crookedness is just as bad as being crooked. In other words, we talk against Communism when we, ourselves are to blame for them talking revolution. Let's make a small start right here between us to help get things going right.

Very truly,

IS THIS ASIDE FROM THE QUESTION?

Frank R. Kent in his column mentions a Democratic political circular being distributed in North Dakota, which calls attention to the fact that under the New Deal the administration has disbursed in North Dakota more than $220 for every man, woman and child in 1934. North Dakota has paid into the Federal Treasury only $2.53 per capita. The circular gives in detail how much has been poured into North Dakota for relief, farmers' bonuses, public works, etc. Then the circular lists the Democratic candidates for office. The circular concludes: "If these great humanitarian efforts meet your approval vote for the candidate who will support and co-operate with our President in his noble effort."

Mr. Kent remarks: "It may be obscene and outrageous to suggest that this is bribery on a colossal sca it seems to have about the sar fect."

It is bad enough to contemplate potential disastrous consequences of an unbalanced Federal budget, but if this budget is being deliberately unbalanced for the purpose of buying votes, it is a national scandal of unprecedented magnitude.—[The Investor in the Boston Herald.

BABSON TO SPEAK SUNDAY ON TAXES

On next Sunday noon, Oct. 14, promptly at 1 o'clock, Roger W. Babson will speak over Radio Station WBSO, which operates on 920 kc.

Mr. Babson will discuss the subject of taxation as it applies to the taxpayers of Winchester and other New England communities, with special reference to the new Massachusetts law, whereby we all are now being taxed double for three months. He believes that the high taxation program of the New Deal is not helping even the "forgotten man," but it is an important factor in the present increasing cost of living for us all in Winchester.

The close of his talk will be devoted to the "Babson Way Out." Next Sunday's talk will be followed by two more on the following two Sundays at the same hour.

NEW DEAL NRA

(From the Investor in the Boston Herald)

The uncertainty which has existed over the future of the NRA apparently has been in no way removed by the announcement of its reorganization. With Johnson out, the President has announced the establishment of two agencies, one to formulate policy and the other to execute it. The President himself is going to be the final arbiter in matters pertaining to the NRA, with Donald R. Richberg his second in command.

The ramifications of this NRA have been so enormous that it is almost impossible to grasp them, let alone discuss them.

The so-called section 7A of the act has resulted in labor disputes almost unparalleled in numbers and severity Similarly, the NRA has interferred with managerial details, tended to restrict business profits and probably, above all, created an atmosphere of uncertainty in the mind of almost every American business man as to precisely what he could or could not do under the provisions of the act.

General Johnson's original Blue Eagle business was launched with enthusiasm and high pressure methods. We venture to assert seriously that not 1 per cent of the people of the country know whether the firms with which they deal fly the Blue Eagle, nor do we believe they care much. Generally speaking, we feel that the NRA has lost its hold in the public imagination. During the year or so that the act has been in force an enormous bureaucracy has been built up which, to put it as politely as possible, functions poorly.

If an attempt is made to carry on with the present burdensome and complicated machinery, it is almost a certainty that we will have another prohibition situation on our hands; that there will be a progressive disposition to circumvent the law, particularly those sections of it which are unpopular.

The weekly market letter prepared by Hayden, Stone & Co., has some very interesting specific figures to show how the NRA has affected the operations of one company. During the first six months of the current year one of the medium sized steel companies paid wages averaging 75.3 cents an hour against 65.5 cents in 1929, while prices received for the company's product averaged $52.87 a ton in 1934 against $55.87 a ton in 1929. The workers actually received less pay this year than five years ago, getting $26.66 for 35.4 hours of work per week, compared with $30.80 for 47 hours in 1929.

In May, 1934, the company had 1.4 per cent more workers than it had in 1929.

In the long run every business enterprise must be conducted at some profit. At least it cannot be conducted at a loss over any considerable period. If operating expenses are going to go up every company must charge more for its product, other things being equal. And as it raises the price of its product the danger of course is that the demand will fall off.

The government apparently under the NRA codes can make a company pay its employes more for each hour's work and can demand that they work fewer hours a week. The government, however, cannot make the American people buy the product of such a company. If the demand for the product falls off, the company will not be able to hire so many men or will be obliged to cut hours of work each week for those it does hire. In either event, the aggregate pay roll of the company will be less.

The depression is centered in the capital or durable goods industries. Most of the unemployment is in those industries or in services directly dependent on them. It may he argued, therefore, that the only way the depression can end is for the demand for capital goods to expand. This is another way of saying that new money must be invested in industry, in construction of new plants and machinery. If the government is to pursue a policy which tends to restrict profits in industry, how can it be expected that industry will attract new capital?

It is a serious question, however, if the underlying philosophy behind the experiment is not 100 per cent unsound in that it tends to prevent expansion where expansion must come if the general picture is to be improved materially.

TO DEDICATE LIBRARY MURALS OCT. 22

Mr. Ralph T. Hale of the Library trustees has announced that the new mural paintings in the library will be dedicated with public exercises on the evening of Monday, Oct. 22. The second of the two paintings, by Ettore Caser of New York, formerly of Winchester, is expected in Winchester Monday and will be put in place over the fireplace in the reading room. The other, by Aiden Lassell Ripley, has been in place for some time.

Mr. Hale is to preside at the dedication and it is expected that both artists will be present to speak. The distinguished painter, Herman Dudley Murphy, senior member of the Library Art Committee, will also be present and speak.

THE WINCHESTER STAR

Although I'm published but once a week
My contents are certainly most unique,
In that I account what day by day
Is passing along the Winchester way.

There's not an event of worthy note
Concerning which I'm not willing to quote;
And often my pages are rich with news
Over which my readers delight to muse.

Your friends will want a definite share
In items that are printed there;
So I invite them from near and far
To contribute their part to the Winchester Star.

I'm here to serve a variety of needs,
And welcome heartily any leads
That will help to make the Star to shine
With dignity through every printed line.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 14.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is our judge the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; he will save us" (Isaiah 33:22).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Art thou not from everlasting, I Lord my God, mine Holy One? we shall not die. . . Thou are of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity" (Habakkuk 1:12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "What can be the standard of good, of Spirit, of Life, or of Truth, if they produce their opposites, such as evil, matter error, and death God could never impart an element of evil, and man possesses nothing which he has not derived from God" (p. 539).

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Loving a man for the enemies he has made is not always safe, if it happens that his wife is included among them.

As "Tom" Moore had his say about letting religious opinions affect love or friendship maybe his advice will hold good in this day when so many thoughtless folk in and out of Winchester make one's creed the dominating consideration.

"Shall I ask the brave soldier who fights by my side
In the cause of mankind, if our creeds agree?
Shall I give up the friend I have valued and tried,
If he kneel not before the same altar with me?
From the heretic girl of my soul shall I fly,
To seek somewhere else a more orthodox kiss?
No, perish the heart and the laws that try Truth, valor or love by a standard like this!"

Winchester always has one donation of which there never is a lack—advice.

A radio enthusiast here in Winchester heard bagpipes broadcast from Dundee. Nevertheless, he says he will stick to his hobby.

A lot of women tell us that their face is their fortune. Well, if what one Winchester fellow avers is correct then more than one fellow has good reason to consider a woman's face his misfortune.

According to one Winchester man some of the most insecure things in the world are called securities.

A Winchester resident who rides a great deal in Boston taxi cabs says that it is worth the taxi fare to feel one don't care what happens to the fenders.

One reason there is so much humor in the world is because there are so many persons who take themselves seriously.

A well known Winchester professional man says that one reason why the barber rubs and rubs the lather in is because it gives him more time to look at himself in the mirror.

Let it be understood first and last that Winchester cannot have too much dignity, courage and honesty in politics.

We cannot have too many optimists in Winchester.

Believe it or not, a mother-in-law who had spent several weeks in a certain Winchester home was given a jar of vanishing cream as a gift by the man of the house when she took her departure.

It may be a fact, as a psychological investigation shows, that men get mad twice as often as women, but maybe the women break even by getting twice as mad.

One pestered Winchester housewife says she wishes something would be done to curb the house-to-house canvasser nuisance.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

It cannot be too often repeated that it is not helps, but obstacles, not facilities, but difficulties, that make men. Beethoven said of Rossini, that he had the stuff in him to make a good musician if he had only been flogged when a boy; but he was spoiled by the ease with which he composed. Shelley tells us of certain poets that they "Are cradled into poetry by wrong:

They learn in suffering what they teach in song:"

and it would seem that, as flowers need to be crushed before they will give forth all their perfumes, and as the goldfinch is said to sing the most sweetly when a hot needle is thrust into its eye, so pain and anguish are the conditions of the success of some men, without which it is impossible to evoke the most brilliant displays of their genius. It was a shrewd remark, therefore, which a great musician once made concerning a promising but passionless cantatrice: "She sings well, but she wants something, and in that something, everything. If I were single, I would court her; I would marry her; I would maltreat her; I would break her heart; and in six months she would be the greatest singer in Europe."

It may be doubted whether the thousand and one helps which men have in this scientific age, are not almost as great a disadvantage as blessing. Every time I visit New York City it is amazing as well as disheartening to see the thousands of taxi cabs rushing hither and thither and men and women will take a taxi merely to go down the street a short distance. Good Winchester folk who used to walk to Winchester Square, to do their shopping, now go in their cars and more than one youngster is taken to school in the family automobile. It is so in every walk of life. Science even does ones thinking for one—no longer do office workers have to labor over long columns of figures; the tabulating machines do all the work.

Men who lose their employment through no fault of their own have a tremendous obstacle to surmount in these times of abnormal unemployment. To find work means tramping many weary miles but perserverance will conquer in the end. The greatest tragedy is unemployment and the fellow who is out of work and able to "keep a stiff upper lip" is bound to win out eventually. Let the star of hope be always in the zenith.

TUNISIA ASKS WIDER FRENCH MARKET

Tunisia, France's North African protectorate adjoining Algeria on the east, has requested that France open wider her market for Tunisian wines and agricultural products. The French market, because of established quotas, is now somewhat curtailed. Tunisians point out that France is enjoying a profitable Tunisian market for manufactured goods.

Ever since the ninth century, B. C. when Queen Dido is reputed to have founded Carthage on "as much land as could be contained by the skin of an ox," commerce has come to these shores, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Commercial Center Under Carthaginians

In and out the circular Punic ports plied the mighty merchant fleet of the sea-faring Canaanites. Under the Barcas family (Hasdrubal, Hamilcar, Hannibal), Carthage was an important center of wealth and commerce, with a population which has been estimated variously between 700,000 and 1,000,000. Later the Romans, entering into the heritage of the Carthaginians, made these lands that are now Tunisia a granary of paramount importance. Extensive ruins of their ambitious projects are still scattered over wide areas of the country.

With passing centuries the territory changed from hand to hand; beneath the marble dust and rubble of ages lie the accumulated ruins of Phoenicians, Berbers, Numidians, Romans, Vandals, Byzantines, and, lastly, Arabs. Since 1881 Tunisia has been a protectorate of the French with a native bey acting as nominal head, but with a resident-general of France, under the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, controlling all the public services. The departments of army, education, finance, public works and agriculture also have French directors.

Capital Rimmed By Purple Mountains

Near the south end of the Gulf of Tunis, in an amphitheater surrounded by purple mountains, its hundred minarets reflected in the Tunis lagoon, lies the "White Mantle of the Prophet," as the Arabs call the city of Tunis. Actually the capital consists of two towns side by side. The old native district lies between two hills and slopes down toward the Bahira, or Lake of Tunis. The European town has been developed on the flat, low-lying ground between old Tunis and the lake. In this latter section, on the avenue known successively as Avenue Jules-Ferry, Avenue de la Maine, and Avenue de France, are the Residency, cathedral, banks, theaters, hotels and cafes.

While the Avenue de France is probably the most animated street in modern Tunis, the souks, or covered shops, in the old city are easily the most interesting. Each craft has its own street, and it is a fascinating step back into the 15th century to wander through some of these bazaars. The saddlery and leather embroidery shops especially are conspicuous because of their color. As for the mosques, from whose minarets muezzins five times each day call the faithful to prayer, non-Moslems must be contented to view them from the outside, because Christians and unbelievers are not allowed to enter.

Sea trade now comes to the very door of Tunis. Previous to 1893 much of it was unloaded at the peninsula tip of La Goulette at the edge of the gulf. A channel ten kilometers long, dug through the Bahira, has given access to the inner basins.

Tram cars run in all directions, and ancient Carthage can be reached in 25 minutes. La Marse, on the fringe of the bay on the northern shore of Cape Carthage, has become a favorite rendezvous for the elite of Tunis on hot summer evenings. Many white garden-embowered villas are situated there in the midst of olive groves. The Bey usually resides there in a fine palace. Some 16 kilometers southeast of Tunis are the beautiful mountains of Bou Kornein, from the summit of which a magnificent view may be had of the ultramarine waters of the Gulf of Tunis.

Of the capital city's population of somewhat more than 202,000 in 1931, the French were represented by 33,600 persons (exclusive of army and navy), and Italy by 46,400. In the entire country there were 91,427 French civilians, and 91,178 Italians. Until the census of 1931, the Italian element in the whole country was somewhat in excess of the French. Next to the capital, Sfax, Sousse, Bizerta, and the holy Moslem city of Kaisouan are the leading population centers.

The growing of cereals (especially wheat and barley), the production of olives and dates, and the tending of herds and flocks on grazing lands provide occupations for many Tunisians. From the cork-oak forests thousands of tons of corks are harvested for shipment. Wines are important items in the country's output.

High School "Highlights" Column

Classes Choose Officers Wisely

Elections last Monday determined the four officers for each of the four classes. The most important as well as the most highly contested was that of the President of the Senior Class. Final check-ups, however, determined that Joseph Cassidy was chosen by his classmates to lead the graduating class. Richard Leghorn, a staunch Joseph's heels, for he lacked but seven votes, while popular "Dave" Grosvenor was stepping right along, polling two votes less than Leghorn.

John Hanlon was elected Vice President of the Senior Class by an overwhelming majority. These two officers are well supported by Natalie Stevens, a sport enthusiast, who was elected Secretary and Priscilla Danforth who easily obtained the office of Treasurer.

The Senior Class knows that in these four officers they have able leaders and have faith in their competence.

The Juniors also elected a fine slate. For their President they have Frank Provinzano, who has distinguished himself on the gridiron, basketball floor and baseball diamond. He is backed by Katherine Gilbert, Sports' Editor of the Highlights and prominent in the girls' sports, Norris Chevalier fills the office of Secretary and Charles Kendrick, another athlete, that of Treasurer.

The Sophomore presidency is held by William Smith, treasurer of the Red Cross Chapter; Barbara Hickey, treasurer of the Dramatic Society, holds the office of Vice President, while George Manning fills the duties of Secretary with Kenneth Gurney as Treasurer.

The Freshmen have chosen for their first leaders Russell Ellis, who has distinguished himself already with his tennis racquet. The Vice President is Betty Kendrick; Secretary, Eleanor Green; Treasurer, Peter Sibley.

All four classes have chosen their leaders carefully and wisely for the coming school year, and all the new leaders have pledged to fulfill their positions to the best of their ability.

Office Notes

Word was received recently that Frederick Sanborn, a graduate from Winchester High School in the class of 1930, and of Dartmouth College last June, has been listed at Dartmouth as one of the "Men Attaining High Scholastic Distinction."

Of the 11 boys entering Harvard College directly from Winchester High School within the last four years four of these 11 have graduated with Cum Laude and two with Magna Cum Laude.

Football-Hockey Rally Fires School Spirit

This morning, Oct. 11, the first A. A. rally of the year filled the high school auditorium with 700 students whose eyes are fixed on tomorrow and whose hopes are high for a football victory over Lexington High School at Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon. If the enthusiasm which was inspired by the rally this morning is any criterion of the type of football the team will play tomorrow, Winchester ought to annex its first league game with confidence.

The rally program:

W. H. S. in Tennis Limelight

To the pounding of rain on the roof play in the 20th semi-annual one-set, one day (?) tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club progressed indoors Saturday to an elimination of all but six contestants, four of whom hail from Winchester. They are Ruth Bernnard, Dorothy Bruno, Shirley White and Katherine Gilbert, pals Cissy Madden and Evelyn Goodrich. Winchester High School was well represented, throughout the whole tournament, however, and under the direction and inspiration of Mr. William S. Packer shows promise of keeping at the front of the younger tennis set of Greater Boston. Others entered from W. H. S. in the tournament were Dorothy Kleeb, Priscilla Blaisdell, Suzanne Reed, Dorothy Fitts, Barbara Kelley, Joanne Gleason, Joanne Tufts and Adele Joy. If weather permits, play will be resumed and completed on Friday of this week.

Afternoon Dance Planned for Oct. 15

The Paradise Rhythm Ramblers have come to town! Whether or not they are destined to equal the fame of Cab Calloway or Guy Lombardo is hard to say. At any rate their appearance with us is at an A. A. tea dance to be given on Oct. 15. The admission is 15c except to you students who are lucky enough to be in a home room having a 100 per cent A. A. membership. In that case you will be admitted free of charge. To get back to the orchestra—Ernest Thompson and Dick Offutt are its founders and according to hearsay it consists of about eight pieces.

These dances are not a new invasion of our school domain. One or two were put on last year and even further back, several the year before. They have always proved profitable and have gathered a good-sized crowd of our socially-minded students.

Some of the more wicked members of the faculty attend these too, and join in the fun. Come and see how they act outside the class room. Doors open at 3 p. m. See you there! Don't forget to save a struggle for us.

English Classes to Present Short Plays

Mr. Keeney is turning his Junior College English classes into dramatic societies. Every year in connection with the study of short plays these classes divide into groups and produce plays during class periods.

The first group of plays will be given by the second period class. The five leaders in this class are Katherine Gilbert, Elaine Groves, Gertrude Harwood, Robert Graham and William Gray. These leaders have chosen as their plays: "Torches," "Two Crooks and a Lady," "The Valiant," "Allison's Lad," and "On Vengeance Height." The first of these to be produced will be "On Vengeance Height." William Gray and his group have set some time next week as the date.

The fourth period class is getting organized with Kirby Thwing, Janet Fuller, Dean Carleton and Jean Wilson as the chosen leaders. Cooperation between the leaders in the two classes has been urged and acted upon. As a result, some members of one class will appear in a play produced by members of the other.

Political Rally to be Held Soon!

A most interesting assembly is being planned for Oct. 31. Mr. Graves is organizing a group to debate before the school. Since Oct. 31 is on the eve of state elections, the assembly is designed along the nature of a political rally. The subject of the debate is: Resolved: American people should elect national and state officials pledged to support the New Deal.

The affirmative team is made up of Gertrude Kelley, Susan McGonigle, and Mary McManus. The negative team consists of Dudley Bragdon, Lester Gustin and Edward Sherbune. The presiding officer will be Joseph McNally. We will be able to bring you more complete details of this unusual program in a later issue.

High School Calendar

Monday, Oct. 15—A. A. dance at 3 p. m.

Tuesday, Oct. 16—Bank day.

Wednesday, Oct. 17—News meeting, Highlights.

Thursday, Oct. 18—Chorus.

Friday, Oct. 19—Highlights on sale. Dramatic Society story hour. Hockey game at Stoneham.

Saturday, Oct. 20—Football league game with Stoneham here.

Fire Drill Held on Tuesday

The high school held its first fire drill on Tuesday. The students filed out in a very orderly way, one which reflected credit on the school's system. The whole drill took approximately four minutes. The next drill will probably improve on this time, as a result of two or three changes in filing, suggested by observing Tuesday's drill.

Dramatic Society Home Room Representatives

The following students have been selected as Home Room Representatives of the Dramatic Club. They will keep the school informed of the activities of the club and will be the ones who will promote intensively all such activities: Eleanor Sharon, Dorothy Glidden, Joseph McNally, Martha Kimball, Betty Hull, Norman Clarke, Patricia Croughwell, Martha Swanson, Norman Thornton, Peter Sibley, Philip Drew, Pamelia Mitchell, Joanne Tufts, Stella Rogers, William Abbott, Frances Glidden, Mary Alice Mason, Christine Craven.

Dexter Derby Acquitted at Classroom Trial

Last Tuesday the Junior General English Class acquitted Dexter Derby of treason. The occasion was the enacting of the trial of Charles Darnay in Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities." The students held their performance on the stage in the school auditorium. This method of studying the story enabled the class to realize all that Dickens had to know in order to write such a dramatic account. Dexter Derby made a splendid Darnay and Arnold Morse as Mr. Lorry was equally as good. Credit should be given to Doris Carlson who had charge of the stage setting and properties. The interpretation of the various characters in the scene was as follows:

Charles Darnay	Dexter Derby
His Honor the Judge	Lyman Matthews
Attorney General	Arthur Smith
Solicitor General	Robert Johnson
Mr. Stryver	Martin Hanley
Archie Fremont
Clerk of Court	George Abbott
Roger Cly	William Dunn
Sydney Carton	George Dotten
Mr. Lorry	Harry Eaton, Arnold Morse
Lucie Manette	Norris Chevalier, Thelma Ball
Dr. Manette	Robert Higgins, John Plumer
Two Gaolers	Robert Cushman, Charles Meek
A Witness	Carl Peterson
Jury	Janet Burns, Doris Carlson, Antoinette Rania, Mary Griffin, Martha Herrick, Forbes Kelley, Robert Cushman, Charles Meek

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

About the only thing a lot of folk do for a sprained ankle is to limp.

The happiest place for a Winchesterite to live is within his income.

A barking dog seldom bites, and a blustering man never fights.

Where many cars are parked together, there is human interest also.

Interest in the town government and issues is the cornerstone of Winchester's success as a community.

Generally, the fellow who wakes up to find himself famous need not pin his faith to an alarm clock.

According to one philosopher here in fair Winchester optimistic resignation consists partly of an ability to regard even breaking even as a very satisfactory substitute for getting ahead.

While it is true that the Lord provides the great trouble seems to be that so many persons in and out of Winchester find themselves bitterly dissatisfied with the way He provides.

STONE—DANFORTH

White chrysanthemums, Simonian ferns and evergreens made a most attractive setting for the marriage of Miss Anna Carolyn Danforth of Winchester to Everett Porter Stone of Lexington, which took place last Saturday evening in the Unitarian Church. Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the church, performed the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock, and the bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albion L. Danforth of Everett avenue, was given in marriage by her father. The music for the entrance of the bridal party was played on the organ by the church organist and choir director, Kenneth W. Moffatt, who also played selections upon the Downs Memorial Chime of Bells.

Miss Danforth's honor attendant was her sister, Miss Marjorie Danforth, and the bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Chadwick of Winchester, Mrs. Mary Armstrong Wilder of Cambridge, Miss Virginia Flanders of Winchester, Mrs. Jeannette C. Harlow of Wakefield, Miss Priscilla Goodman of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Miss Flora Haley of Arlington, Miss Gretchen Stone and Miss Elinor Davis, both of Winchester.

Irving Stone of Lexington was his brother's best man and another brother, Hewlett Stone, also of Lexington, was an usher with Damon Valentine of Lexington, Alex Wilson of Newton, Warren Russell of Lexington, John Bicknell and Roscoe Bicknell, both of Worcester; Harry Damon of Winchester and George Bates of Concord.

The bride wore a gown of blush print satin, trimmed with rose point lace and a veil of rose point. Her flowers were white orchids, valley lilies and white gardenias. Her maid of honor wore pansy blue velvet with a hat to match and carried talisman roses. The bridesmaids' frocks were also of velvet, Miss Chadwick and Mrs. Wilder wearing American Beauty, Miss Flanders and Miss Goodman sapphire blue; Mrs. Harlow and Miss Davis, jade green; and Miss Stone and Miss Haley, canary yellow. All the bridesmaids wore hats to match their frocks and carried roses in a matching or contrasting shade.

After the ceremony a reception was held from 9:30 until 1 o'clock at the Winchester Country Club where the decorations were chrysanthemums and roses. The bride's parents and sister assisted in receiving with the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. George E. Stone. Upon their return from a wedding journey through the White Mountains and Canada Mr. Stone and his bride will live at 64 Harding road in Lexington where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

The bride is a graduate of the May School of Boston, the Oldfield's School in Glencoe, Md.; and Miss Erskine's School, Boston. Mr. Stone, who is the son of Mrs. George E. Stone and the late Mr. Stone of Bloomfield street, Lexington, attended Choate School in Wallingford, Conn., and is associated with Beggs & Cobb Company of Woburn and Boston.

WINCHESTER ART ASSOCIATION GAVE RECEPTION FOR CYRUS DALLIN

Cyrus Dallin, noted American sculptor, was guest of honor at a reception and tea given by the Winchester Art Association in the art gallery of the Winchester Library last Sunday afternoon, the occasion also serving as a private view for members of the association of 10 of Mr. Dallin's statues which are to be for a time at the library on public exhibition. Mrs. Carlisle W. Burton acted as hostess. Pourers were Mrs. Sylvester Taylor and Mrs. Fiske Bradford, assisted by Miss Marjorie Hayden, Miss May Thompson and Miss Betty Tucker.

There was an attendance of good size and all who met and chatted with Mr. Dallin were delighted with the quiet charm and friendly manner of the distinguished artist. With him was Mr. Paul L. Crabtree of Winchester, treasurer of the Caproni Galleries, Inc., a Boston firm having the exclusive right to cast and distribute Mr. Dallin's works. The models on display at the Library are from the Caproni Galleries.

Mr. Dallin was very ready to answer questions about the models on display, and while chatting with Mr. James W. Russell told an interesting story of the origin of his statue, "Captured, but Not Conquered," which depicts an American doughboy, in the hands of the Germans, erect with head proudly back, checked for the moment but only waiting the opportunity to resume the struggle for supremacy.

The model for the statue was one of a group of captured Americans whose pictures appeared and were seen in a German magazine by Mr. Dallin. So faithfully lifelike was his reproduction that the statue upon being seen by an American Army officer was recognized as depicting one of the soldiers in his command who had been captured by the Boche.

The statue is superb with strength showing in every line, from the jut of the squared jaw to the set of the heavy army boots. As a matter of fact all of Mr. Dallin's models on display, with possibly two exceptions, have a dominating rugged virility that on first sight overshadows the inherent beauty which becomes more and more apparent as the eye grasps the delicate detail so faithfully portrayed.

The exhibit is one which will appeal strongly to men and boys, and to all lovers of the out-of-doors and that glamorous figure of our early history, the American Indian.

A model of the much discussed statue of Paul Revere is on display, an equestrian statue of General Edwards, beloved "Daddy of the American Y. D.; as well as five Indian subjects, including the universally beloved "Appeal to the Great Spirit," by which Mr. Dallin is known to almost every one. A fine head of Col. Charles Lindbergh and a splendid study of the martyred John Brown round out the exhibit and indicate clearly the artist's versatility.

Mrs. John F. Stacknole and Mrs. Harold F. Meyer of Buzzards Bay and Winchester were recent guests at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, Atlantic City.

"TREASURE ISLAND" AT THE UNIVERSITY

"Treasure Islands," world famous Robert Louis Stevenson story of pirate adventure, will be shown at the University Theater for four days starting Sunday. In bringing this book to the screen the major problem was to retain the utmost fidelity in the plot and characters which have been vividly impressed on the minds of millions of readers, old, young and old. Dozens of adaptations were prepared and then scrapped because they did not express the full strength of the Stevenson original. The result is said to offer a literal translation of the book to celluloid with a maximum of realism and visual power. Wallace Beery in the role of Long John Silver is said to be an exact personification of the book character, and with Jackie Cooper as Jim Hawkins, boy adventurer, the Stevenson atmosphere of youth and the sparkle of new experience is assured. Included in the cast are such notable players as Lionel Barrymore, as Billy Bones; Otto Kruger, Lewis Stone, Nigel Bruce, "Chic" Sale and dozens of others.

"Paris Interlude," the companion feature adapted from the play, "All Good Americans" co-features Madge Evans and Otto Kruger.

His wife wanted him to retire and play a little but all play and no work make Will a wild boy. That, in brief, is the story of Will Rogers' latest picture, "Handy Andy," which starts Thursday. Advance reports from the previews say this is the funniest comedy of his career. And the highlights of the story bear this out. Will is getting along comfortably in his drug store, when his wife, Peggy Wood, persuades him to sell out. First he takes up pigeon raising, but he has to stop when his pets fly all over the house. Next he takes up golf with uproarious results. Then his wife and daughter, Mary Carlisle, persuades him to attend the Mardi Gras in New Orleans. That's when things really begin to happen.

"The Defense Rests," the companion feature starring Jack Holt, is a powerfully told and dramatic revelation of the court-room exploits of a brilliant, sensational seeking criminal lawyer.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATRE

Bing Crosby's new picture, "She Loves Me Not," with an all-star supporting cast that includes Miriam Hopkins, Kitty Carlisle, Eddie Nugent, Henry Stephenson, Judith Allen, Warren Hymer, George Barbier and Vince Barnett will be the special attraction at the Mystic Theatre in Malden will offer for seven days starting Saturday. Miriam Hopkins plays a night-club dancer who is witness to a murder. Afraid of both the gangsters and the police, the girl sneaks into the college dormitory room of Bing Crosby and Eddie Nugent. Wishing to help the girl they disguise her as a boy and hide her in the dormitory. One of the students whose father is a motion picture magnate tells the story at home. Scenting a chance for great publicity they tell the Dean what is going on and photograph the girl. About the same time the gangsters arrive intent on taking the girl for a ride before she talks to the police. In addition to its fun the film gives Bing Crosby a chance to sing four new hit tunes, and a duet with Kitty Carlisle, with whom he is in love.

"The Human Side" starring Adolph Menjou, Doris Kenyon and Betty Lawton will be the second attraction on the bill starting Saturday. This is one of the most satisfying comedy dramas in recent months. Menjou is cast as an irresponsible theatrical producer who is married to Doris Kenyon. They have four children and the wife never knows when she will have sufficient money to meet her bills. In his business Menjou meets many women who profess to fall in love with him. One in particular, Betty Lawton, wants him to leave his wife an marry her. Then the wife attracted the attention of a millionaire, played by Reginald Owen, who want to her to leave her worthless husband and marry her. In the end it is the children who swing the balance and reunite the couple.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Shirley Temple, Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard in "Now and Forever," plus Constance Bennett and Frederic March in "The Affairs of Cellini" is the exceptionally fine program the big Granada Theatre in Malden will offer starting Saturday. "Now and Forever" is a story warm in its human qualities and appeal, dealing with a reckless scapegrace who brings his little daughter into his adventurous and romantic life. Gary Cooper plays the father and Shirley Temple is the child. The climax is brought on by the cheft of a jeweled necklace at the home of a wealthy woman in Paris, while Cooper, Carole Lombard and Shirley Temple are guests.

"The Affairs of Cellini," presents Frederic March as the greatest goldsmith, the greatest liar and the greatest lover in the world. The picture is filled with laughs and confines itself to the irresistible scapegrace's compassioned pursuit of his beautiful but dumb model, Fay Wray, and his amorous escapades with the Duchess of Florence, played by Constance Bennett who conducts her affairs under the very nose of her hen-pecked husband, played by Frank Morgan. After an hilarious scene in which unknown to each other, the Duke and Duchess entertain their respective light o' love in adjoining chambers, Cellini carries off his model.

Last Sunday morning at 1:45 Patrolman Clarence Dunhury of the Police Department, while on duty in the square, noticed an automobile, the registration of which had been given out as stolen, headed along Main street toward Medford. He notified Headquarters where Lieut. John A. Harrold had the news flashed out over the radio. At 2:24 headquarters was notified that the machine had been recovered.

The police were notified that between 9:30 and 10 o'clock last Sunday forenoon, a boy's bicycle was stolen from the side entrance to the First Congregational Church.

Tax Collector Nathaniel M. Nichols, told the Star that $41,000 in real estate taxes were collected during the first week following the mailing of the bills.

AN INOPPORTUNE MOMENT

That was the thought uppermost in the mind of a young woman who chose to throw an empty bottle from an automobile just as it chanced a police car, in which Chief William H. Rogers and Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy were riding, was following her machine along Bacon street.

Throwing glass onto a street is not considered good form by the local authorities who pulled up beside the young woman's car and ordered its driver, a Woburn man, to stop. Explanations were made and apologies offered, but the Chief and Sergeant refused to be placated. The young woman's name and address were taken for further reference.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

FEDERAL EMERGENCY EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

The School Committee announce that the Federal Emergency Relief Administration has made a grant of funds to Massachusetts for the purpose of continuing the Emergency Educational Program. Winchester, of course, will receive its allotment if an Emergency Educational Program is approved.

The granting of Federal funds makes possible teaching positions for teachers out of employment, and for others not normally considered teachers who are competent to instruct in some subject, skill, or activity for which there is a demand, and who are in financial need. Thus, for example, a person competent to teach French, and who is in financial need, would be eligible, provided there was a demand for an adult class in French. A person, on the other hand, who may never have taught in school, or who has never been trained especially to teach, but who is competent to impart his knowledge or skill to others interested, is likewise eligible. This person, also, must be in financial need. The subjects, activities, or skills, which may be taught are therefore quite varied.

Persons in financial need, and who believe they are competent to teach some subject or skill, even though they have neither taught nor been trained to teach, may apply at the office of the Superintendent of Schools, Administration Building, Church street. The superintendent will be very willing to confer at once with anyone who might be interested. o12-2t

REVEALS HIS FAITH IN BUSINESS MEN

Evidence of the faith of the late Daniel B. Badger, of E. B. Badger & Sons Company, in the essential integrity of business men was revealed yesterday in a memorandum found among his papers.

The memorandum was in a package containing unpaid promissory notes and obligations, and carried the notation "All poor business men. They did not intend to stick me."

Such faith in the integrity of the average man is necessary for business recovery, it was emphasized by George C. Bradford of 50 State street, who related the story to The Herald yesterday.

The first monthly meeting of the Winchester Highlands Unit of the Middlesex County Extension Service will be held Monday, Oct. 15 at 2 p. m. at the Second Congregational Church, Winchester Highlands. Miss Marie E. Wells, Home Demonstration Agent will present the subject of "The Packed Lunch" and give a demonstration as usual. Please note the date.

COOKING IMPROVED

"The last three-quarters of a century have seen greater improvement in the methods of cooking than all the previous centuries of human history," says famed restaurateur, George Rector, who is writing a series of articles for the 75th anniversary celebration of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company. In the first article, which deals with the 1850's, Mr. Rector says, "In the late 50's, the cooking range was invented to take the place of the brick oven. After this change was rapid. Coal replaced wood as fuel, only to be superseded by gas and electricity.

"Foods have also changed," continues Mr. Rector, "not only have a great variety of new foods been introduced, decade by decade, but the old standbys have been greatly improved and made available the year-round. In looking through some of the old cook books, for instance, I find all of them give directions for roasting coffee and curing ham. These were home operations in the 50's.

"I also find many recipes for making 'mock' dishes. Apparently some of the families were forced to use substitutes if they wanted to save money. Dandelion coffee is one of the horrible concoctions which I distinctly do not recommend. The recipe says that it 'produces an inclination to sleep when drank at night.' I don't doubt it. I should think it would produce an inclination to sleep all day."

Mr. Rector gives the instructions for making dandelion coffee, "presented so that if you ever come across it, you will know what to avoid. Wash roots carefully, without removing the brown skin, since this contributes much to the aroma which so strongly resembles coffee. Cut roots into small pieces and roast them brown and crisp. Grind and prepare it as you would coffee, boiling a few minutes.

"A mock apple pie is another of the fearful foods of the 50's. It was made of soda crackers, sugar, water, egg, and lemon. I would like to meet just one man who ever tasted it," says Mr. Rector in conclusion.

"I hope I am not giving the idea that cookery had sunk to a low level in the 50's for that is not true (even though one cook book does recommend perfumery for seasoning fish). They had some mighty attractive sounding delicacies. One of them in particular appeals to my ear, and I expect it to please my palate. 'Pickled Nasturtium Seed.'" Mr. Rector gives the directions which he found in an old magazine: "'Gather seeds when green and not fully grown, drop into vinegar as you gather them. Scald whole in vinegar, and bottle.' Nasturtiums will be planted on the Rector acres next spring—in both window boxes.

"One old dessert I ran across is a fine illustration of how times have changed," Mr. Rector states. "Here it is: 'One pint of cream whip until stiff, one ounce of isinglass boiled and strained in about one pint of water until reduced to half a pint. Four ounces of sugar; one vanilla bean; stir in cream when isinglass gets blood heat. Then mould and eat with whipped cream.' And in those days the only way of whipping cream was with a three tined fork.

"In the first place I doubt that many people today would want to use a pint of cream in a dessert. And I don't believe that many home cooks would get enthusiastic over the idea of reducing a pint of isinglass to half a pint in order to get what we know today as gelatine."

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The first regular meeting of the Fortnightly will be on Monday, Oct. 22 at 2:30 p. m. at Fortnightly Headquarters. There will be a reception to new members, with tea and a social hour. The program will be furnished by the Varsity Club Quartet of Boston and the Music Committee deserves especial congratulations for having secured so fine an entertainment for this, the first meeting of the year. The quartet is composed of Clifton Johnson, tenor; George Wheeler, tenor; Ralph Tailby, baritone; Robert Isensee, bass.

Many Fortnightly members have heard these artists before, and will rejoice in the opportunity of welcoming them to Winchester on Oct. 22.

Prof. Frederick H. Norton, expert navigator of Kayaks, now knows exactly how the less adept enthusiasts frequently feel, as the result of a spill which he took last Sunday afternoon in the none too warm waters of Mystic Lake. Professor Norton, with an eye to safety, had accompanied a young friend to the lake and was seated quietly in his kayak watching the other paddling about. A sudden fierce gust of wind did the damage, and the Professor couldn't have been more wet, even at Conomo. The drenching, however, did not prevent his appearance later in the afternoon at the reception to Cyrus Dallin at the art room of the library and there was nothing in his manner to indicate the misfortune, so recently experienced.

Early Sunday morning, Patrolman James E. Farrell of the Police Department noticed parked on Grove street over the Medford line an automobile, the driver of which had previously stopped at Symmes corner to ask him the way to West Medford. Officer Farrell called the Medford Police and went to the car himself, finding the operator asleep on the back seat. The car was registered to Lester M. Bacon of Somerville and was in charge of Robert Ramsey of Sterling, whose license to operate had expired. Ramsey told conflicting stories, according to Officer Farrell, who turned the case over to the Medford police upon their arrival.

REV. JACOB RUSSELL

Rev. Jacob Russell, 86, retired clergyman and former pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church, died Sunday, Oct. 7 in New York City, where he had been living for the past two years.

Rev. Mr. Russell was one of the founders and the first pastor of the Second Baptist Society in Winchester which first met in the old Washington School building on Cross street and later became the New Hope Baptist Society. He was the organizer of the Mystic Baptist Sunday School Convention, the largest negro Sunday School convention in Massachusetts, embracing many local parishes.

Born in Virginia of slave parents, Rev. Mr. Russell's struggle for improvement and education was a hard one. Through his own efforts he was graduated from Petersburg Seminary near Richmond, Va. and for some years was both a minister and school teacher in the rural districts of that state.

Rev. Mr. Russell came to Winchester from Scanton, Pa. in 1892 and in addition to his pastoral duties here he was employed by the United Shoe Machinery Co. He left Winchester when the company removed to Beverly, but later returned and made his home here until about two years ago when he went to New York to make his home with his children there.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Genevieve Robinson and Mrs. Lorraine Meyers and a son, Winfred Russell, all of New York, the last named being associated with the Art Department of the New York Public Library. There are also two grandchildren, Peggy and Jane Meyers.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon in the New Hope Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. William H. Smith, officiating. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

MRS. IMOGENE M. GUNTER DEAD

Services were held on Monday, Oct. 8, at the chapel in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett, for Mrs. Imogene M. Gunter, who died on Friday, Oct. 5, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Garfield Jeannotte, in Brunswick, Me.

Mrs. Gunter was the widow of Dr. Adolphus B. Gunter, who for 25 years prior to his death in 1901 was a prominent physician of Charlestown.

For many years Mrs. Gunter has been a frequent visitor in Winchester at the homes of her daughters, Mrs. John P. Dabney and Mrs. Elmer L. Derby. Besides her three daughters she is survived by a son, Channing B. Gunter, and by 11 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

High School "Highlights" Column

Banking Improves

Banking this week was very good with the school reaching the highest per cent so far this year. Thirteen rooms attained 100 per cent and the per cent of the school was 98.05. All the Junior and Senior rooms and three Freshman and three Sophomore rooms received 100 per cent. About 19 cents was banked per person.

"Highlights" Congratulates School Principal on Birthday

The issue of the school paper which appeared today was specially dedicated to Wade L. Grindle in recognition of his 45th birthday.

The first column on the front page contained an interesting write-up emphasizing the accomplishments for which Mr. Grindle is largely responsible in his 10 years at Winchester High School.

On the editorial page and general news page appeared other articles equally appreciative. Perhaps most interesting of all was an original story written by a football enthusiast and friend of Mr. Grindle's, dealing with the latter's enthusiasm for the fall sport as played by his own Alma Mater, Bates College.

Senior Class Met Wednesday, Oct. 17

On Wednesday morning, Joseph Cassidy presided over the first meeting of the Senior Class, held under the direction of Miss Parker, the Senior Class adviser. Natalie Stevens, secretary, and Priscilla Danforth, treasurer, read short reports written by our secretary and treasurer last year.

Robert Thornton, Richard Elliott, George Billman, Nancy Jackson, Nancy Hall and Dorothy Glidden were elected as the six members on the Junior-Senior Class Play Committee. All of these six members have proved themselves to be capable leaders during their four years in high school and the play will undoubtedly be a success under their guidance. It is essential that the play be held earlier this year in the hopes of receiving more support on this important project than that given in former years.

The plans for a Junior-Senior Prom Class Night and the class gift rest upon the outcome of this play, which will be given for the public on either Dec. 7 or 8. More about this in the near future.

Science Club Selects Officers—Richard Elliott, President

The excellence and smoothness of the functioning of any organization depends greatly upon those people who are selected to offices in the club. The Science Club feels that they have a very efficient and excellent executive board, which was chosen by the members on Wednesday, Oct. 10.

Richard Elliott now presides as the president of the organization. Richard Leghorn is vice president, Dorothy Glidden is secretary, and Eleanor Sharon is treasurer. Later a few people, who will be selected by the organization, will be given positions on the Executive Board. These people, although they hold no office, will aid in bringing about and carrying out the plans of the Science Club. The Executive Board members will be nominated and voted for at the coming meeting.

Also at this meeting, Richard Elliott and William Burtt will set up an aquarium. The aquarium will remain at the school, and will enable all club members and science students to follow closely life in a balanced aquarium. It will prove an interesting pastime to watch the growth and functioning of this project.

Antics at the A. A. Dance

This is the story our reporter gleaned from someone he met upon leaving the A. A. Dance?

"The A. A. Dance? Sure, I went. I didn't go 'til late though. I was going home by the gym and heard the Rhythm Ramblers rambling rhythms in Paradise, so I says to myself, 'guess I'll take a peek.' When I got there it looked as though the party was at its height. I don't go in for dancing myself, but after seeing some of 'em doing the shag, I decided it must be good exercise. Seemed to be a good crowd there, too. That's quite an orchestra they've got, isn't it? Didn't think they'd do so well, but you never can tell, seeing this is the Winchester High School. When are they going to have another? Do you suppose I could learn to dance between now and then?"

With that the reporter kindly volunteered his services in this respect and took his leave. Now he's decided to open a class for those who Don't Dance but Would Like to. Watch for the next dance! It's to be the Highlights one, you know.

Group Produces "On Vengeance Height"

The first of the series of short plays being taken up by Mr. Keeney's Junior College English Class was produced in the high school auditorium on Wednesday. The group, under the direction of William Gray, presented "On Vengeance Height." Although they had a very short time in which to prepare, each of the actors gave a splendid interpretation of his part in this one act play. The audience was comprised of students in the two classes which are studying these plays.

Next week Elaine Groves and her group will enact "Two Crooks and a Lady."

W. H. S. Dramatic Society Presents Entertaining Assembly

The school witnessed a very charming and unusual assembly program this morning given in the form of a story hour. Seven girls presented different selections to the school, some monologues and some stories. Robert Thornton introduced the speakers. Mary Elizabeth Hall gave an account of the voyage of "Christopher Columbus." Barbara Hickey presented Rudyard Kipling's "Elephant Child." "Nora at the Country Club" was ably portrayed by Stella Rogers. "Little Black Sambo" with illustrations brought back many old memories of the nursery with Dorothy Glidden's aid. Eugenia Peppard told "Of Selecting Wall Paper," and "Mud Pies." Norris Chevalier amused us with "Sadie Selects Some Shoes," and Eleanor Green, the only freshman, presented "Hepy's Alarm Clock" by Harold Littleton, Jr.

"Highlights" Promises Floor Show at Afternoon Dance

The members of the "Highlights" staff have put their heads together to formulate a plan to make some money. The first product of their efforts is to be an afternoon dance. They have chosen Nov. 5 as the date, and already the program is under construction. There will be several features, among which will be a floor show. Those of you who saw the Vaudevil Show, put on by the Athletic Association last year, will remember Harriet Pilkington, a limber tap-dancer. She has consented to co-operate with the "Highlights" and do a dance in the floor show. Something has been said about singing. Several boys, among them Lester Gustin, will perhaps do a song or so. And then—well, wait and see.

The sponsors hope to entertains a large crowd at this event and promise all comers a good time.

Orchestra

Under the capable direction of Miss Tennant, supervisor of music of the Winchester schools, the High School Orchestra met and held its first rehearsal of the season during the banking period Tuesday and laid plans for the coming year.

The tentative personnel of the Musical Club includes the following members, most of whom attended the first meeting:

Trumpets—N. Clarke, R. Whoef, S. Lampson, M. Glidden, G. Moulton
Saxophones—R. Brown, R. Armstrong, R. Hall.
Trombone—"Bob" Bertyn
French Horn—D. Glidden
Clarinets—G. Abbott, G. Stone
Drums—J. Cunningham, J. McNally
Violins—P. Danforth, E. Carey, D. Miley, F. Armstrong
Piano—Dorothy Kloeh

School Typists Increasing Speed

The Senior typists are taking a series of weekly speed tests under the guidance of Miss Bronson. The time limit is 10 minutes. Each class is divided into groups according to their speed. Those in Class A are allowed a standard of 50 words to a minute. This apparently was a stiff goal to reach at the first, as no one was in the A group. However, 11 were in the B. The second achievement test brought better results, demonstrating the improvement made by means of these contests. The following made Class A: Barbara Marchant with 67 words, Christine Russo, 50; and Virginia Carlson, 55 words.

Freshman Wins Longwood Tournament

With three of the four semi-finalists in the Longwood tournament hailing from Winchester—Shirley White defeated Kay Gilbert 6—4; Cissy Madden defeated Ruth Bernnard 6—3 and then Shirley defeated Cissy in a very close finish by a score of 6—3. Spectators warned only by the intensity and excitement of this match, swayed back and forth holding their breaths as Cissy volleyed and Shirley drove back against the wind. With the score in games 5—5 and Cissy serving the score progressed to deuce and then Shirley's set point, then deuce, then point, game, set, match and tournament for Shirley, a W. H. S. Freshman.

Arthur Razee, who graduated from Winchester High school in 1931, has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Tufts College. This recognition of high scholarship is in line with Razee's outstanding work in connection with the Journalistic activities at Tufts, in which he has been an acknowledged leader.

High School Senior Recommends Something Different

You've been reading book after book, and they're all more or less alike. You're tired of society novels, gory murders, passionate love and even potting elephants; and you'd be glad of a change. "The pause that refreshes" might readily consist of "Scarlet Sister Mary," and its follower, "Black April." They are as different from the average run of stories as Louis XIV was from a cave man. Julia Peterkin, the author, knew her plantation stuff, and when you read her stories, you'll feel that you know it, too. These simply written tales of heart and home life in a separate colored colony daown saouth may be just what you've been looking for to give you a new slant; anyhow, give 'em a try.

E. C.

The high school enrollment as of Oct. 18 is 727, which is an increase of 53 over the same date a year ago.

JOHN McKENNA

Word was received this morning of the death yesterday in an out-of-town hospital of John McKenna, who formerly lived in Stoneham and for a time in this town, and was well known locally as a stone mason. Services will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in Arlington. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL

The annual appeal of the Salvation Army to the residents of this vicinity swept into activity today with the naming of the local chairman and committee to carry on the work of the drive this year.

During the past several years the Army has efficiently met the constantly increasing demands upon its services. It has stretched its resources to the utmost in providing food, fuel, shelter and clothing to those in distress.

This call upon the services of the Army has placed a heavy burden upon its finances so that the necessity of a generous response to this annual appeal is paramount if the Corps Army officers will be able and ready to serve as in the past.

The work of the Army for the past year has been carried on under unprecedented circumstances, due to the scarcity of funds with which to finance its humanitarian endeavors. The requirements of a large number of the needy have been met by a closer contact with poverty in all its forms combined with a most stringent economy among Army officials.

The uniformed and credentialed collectors for the Salvation Army are now making a house to house canvas of this territory so that each resident may have an opportunity of assisting the workers of the Army to continue their work during the coming year.

These solicitors are dressed in the full uniform of the Salvation Army and are equipped with a letter signed by the chairman of the local appeal committee. Besides this letter each collector is equipped with a personal identification pass on which a picture of the bearers is attached.

Harry T. Winn has accepted the chairmanship of the Winchester Advisory Board and will be assisted by a committee composed of prominent local men and women.

G. Dwight Cabot of the Winchester Trust Company will act in the capacity of treasurer during the appeal.

Among the well known residents who are giving their time and efforts towards the success of this campaign are the following members of the Appeal Committee: Charles P. Downer, Wade L. Grindle, Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, George H. Lochman, James J. Quinn, Rev. R. Mitchell Rushton, Leslie J. Scott, Mabel W. Stinson, T. Price Wilson and Mrs. Walter W. Winship.

TO SHOW UNUSUAL PICTURES

The pictures which Dr. Charles H. Tozier is to show during his travelogue, "Around the Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies and the Gardens of Victoria, B. C." in the town hall Thursday evening, Oct. 25, at 8:15 have not previously been shown anywhere, and are of surpassing beauty in their natural colors.

They were taken by the veteran traveler and photographer during the past summer after a series of adventures that in themselves constitute an absorbing narrative.

It is impossible to describe the beauty of the gardens of Victoria, unusual climatic and natural conditions combining to produce incomparable blooms.

The scenery and natural life in the vicinity of Mt. Assiniboine, known as the Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies, well repaid the doctor for the rigors of his trip to that region by pack train, and the color pictures and movie films obtained surpass anything of their kind previously shown here.

No lover of flowers or the out-of-doors, and particularly no sportsman should miss these pictures at the town hall. Advance interest indicates that there will be a large audience present. Plan now to attend.

As an added attraction Winchester's favorite soprano, Helen Barr, one of the best known of all radio artists, will present a group of songs, accompanied by her radio accompanist, Sybil Jane Morse. This in itself is a real feature and combining with the pictures assures an evening of complete enjoyment.

CHORAL SOCIETY TO SING ARMISTICE DAY

The Winchester Choral Society, which on Tuesday of this week opened its sixth season under the direction of J. Albert Wilson, will present Henry Hadley's "The New Earth" an ode for mixed chorus and soloists, on Armistice Sunday afternoon Nov. 11 at 4 o'clock in the auditorium of the First Congregational Church.

Since the Society's first presentation of this work at its closing concert of last season there have been numerous requests for a repetition, and because "The New Earth" is especially appropriate to Armistice Day it has been decided to accept the use of the auditorium and organ from the Congregational Church and repeat the ode in the church on that occasion as a community service commemorating the ending of the World War.

Winchester Post, 97, American Legion is co-operating with the Choral Society in the affair and will have a uniformed delegation with colors at the service. Dr. William L. Davis, the Society's new president announces that the service will be open to the public and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk as follows:

John Jackson Parker of 356 West 34th street, New York City and Frances Gould Mayo of 18 Norwood street.

Pasquale Colella of 61 Pearl street Everett and Mary Ann Oliver of 75 Wendall street.

LEGIONNAIRES HELD INSTALLATION

McCarthy New Commander

John H. McCarthy, for the past year senior vice commander, was elected the eleventh Commander of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, at the annual meeting and election of officers in the Post Headquarters Wednesday evening.

Department Vice Commander John H. Walsh of Waltham, who is also president of the Waltham Chamber of Commerce, was the installing officer, assisted by County Sergeant-at-Arms Sullivan, captain of the Watertown Drill Team.

The installation was held immediately following the election and the following officers were installed:

Commander—John H. McCarthy
Senior Vice Commander—Otis E. Alley
Junior Vice Commander—Stanley Rogers
Adjutant—William Russell Carroll
Finance Officer—Conrad S. Larson
Chaplain—Vincent P. Clarke
Historian—Patrick T. Foley
Executive Committee—Kingman P. Cass, J. Edwin Colcord, Gerald D. Curtis, John F. Fitzgerald, John A. Hopkins, Richard W. McAdams, Lee D. Merrill, Joseph Santo, Reuel H. E. Smith, Raymond S. Wilkins.
Delegates to County and State Convention—John H. McCarthy, Patrick T. Foley, Kingman P. Cass.
Alternate Delegates—Otis E. Alley, Stafford Rogers, William R. Carroll.

Following the installation greetings were brought to the Post by Selectman Edward H. Merrill, for the town; by Vice Commander Walsh, for the State Department; by Vice Commander Edward Cunneen of Framingham, for the Middlesex County Council; and by the Commanders of Posts in Woburn, Somerville, Melrose, Framingham and Belmont.

Retiring Commander Kingman P. Cass, who is to be the District Commander for Arlington, Somerville, Woburn and Winchester, was presented with a pewter beverage set, on behalf of the Post, by Representative William E. Ramsdell a Post past commander.

The newly installed Post Commander, John H. McCarthy, makes his home at 220 Cambridge street and has been a resident of Winchester for many years. He has been actively identified with local Legion affairs since the inception of the Post and during the past year has served as chairman of the House Committee and as a member of the play committee. He enlisted in the United States Army at the outbreak of hostilities at the time of the World War and served at Base Hospital 44 in France with the Boston Homeopathic Unit. He is now on the staff of the State Department of Public Health, and has been a member and active in the Calumet Club for several years.

O'CONNOR—MURRAY

Many from Winchester were among the guests who filled St. Joseph's church in Lynn Wednesday morning, Oct. 17 for the marriage of Miss Kathleen M. Murray, daughter of Mr. Thomas M. Murray of Seymour avenue, Lynn, to George A. O'Connor of this town, son of Mr. Joseph O'Connor of Main street. Yellow chrysanthemums and potted plants made an attractive setting for the ceremony which was performed at 10 o'clock by a cousin of the bride, Rev. Fr. Thomas McDonough of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Beachmont, who also was celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed. Besides Father McDonough, four priests assisted at the altar, including another cousin of the bride, Rev. Fr. Edward McDonough of Quincy; and Rev. Fr. Leonard Feeney, S. J., of Boston College; Rev. Fr. Thomas B. Feeney, S. J., of Weston and Rev. Fr. John J. Feeney of St. Patrick's Church, Manchester, N. H. The wedding music was played by Miss Grace M. Nichols, organist and Edmund Bleau was soloist.

Miss Murray was given in marriage by her father and had for her honor attendant her cousin, Miss Mildred Roache of Newburyport. Miss Helen O'Connor of Winchester, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Helen Stevens of Lynn were bridesmaids.

Joseph C. O'Connor of Winchester was his brother's best man and three brothers of the bride, Leonard Murray, Thomas Murray and Francis Murray, all of Lynn, were ushers.

The bride wore a period gown of white satin, trimmed with seed pearls and a veil of old family Carrick-Macross lace. Her honor maid wore green crystal velvet with matching hat and slippers and carried yellow roses. The bridesmaids also wore frocks of crystal velvet, in rust, with sequin turbans, and carried talisman roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Happy Valley Country Club in Lynn. Assisting in the receiving line was the bride's aunt, Mrs. Mary J. Yates, who wore a pansy velvet gown with hat to match and a corsage of gardenias. Miss Mary McKinnon of Lynn was in charge of the guest book. An informal gathering of relatives and close friends was held afterward at the home of the bride's father.

Upon their return from a wedding journey to New York and Washington Mr. O'Connor and his bride will live in Lynn at 182 Western avenue where they will be at home after Nov. 15.

The bride is widely known in Lynn and along the North Shore. She is a graduate of Lynn English High School and is a member of the 20th Century Club. Mr. O'Connor was graduated in 1923 from Winchester High School where he played on the Mystic Valley League championship football team in his senior year. He is a member of the Tewanida Club of Woburn and is associated as buyer with Peck & Hill in Boston.

MYSTIC MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The Mystic Mothers' Association will meet at the school on Wednesday, Oct. 24 at 3 o'clock to hear Dr. Rachel Hardwick on "Common Sense About Children's Diseases."

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

New Members' Day, the first meeting of the year, will be held on Monday, Oct. 22, at 2:30 p. m., in the Fortnightly Headquarters, Waterfield Hall, at the corner of Church and Common streets. Each new member will be personally invited, and there will be a reception and tea where old and new members may become acquainted or renew old friendships, as the case may be. A program will be furnished by the Varsity Club Quartet.

The new year book promises an extremely busy season for the Fortnightly. Besides the 12 regular meetings, to be held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, there are to be a number of special activities.

The Literature Committee is to study "Conversation as a Literary Form," with meetings the first Monday of each month. Mrs. Josephine Arrowsmith is chairman.

The Art Committee, Mrs. Lillian R. Whitman, chairman, is offering classes in handcraft, sponsoring two illustrated lectures in January and March, and entertaining the 8th District Art Conference which is to meet in Winchester on Nov. 19.

The Community Service Committee, Mrs. Mabel G. Nichols, chairman, is to have three round table conferences on Nov. 2, Jan. 4 and March 1. The subject of the first conference is a general survey of what is being done in relief work—how the money is being spent and who is benefiting thereby. These meetings are especially designed as opportunities for new members to become acquainted, and each conference will be followed by tea and a social hour.

The Conservation Committee is planning "nature hikes" to study birds, trees and flowers, on Thursday mornings under the leadership of Mrs. Helen M. MacDonald. The committee will help to arrange for community singing on Dec. 24, around the Christmas tree. And most important of all, the Garden Group will meet the first Tuesday of each month from October to May, for an interesting program and a social hour. Mrs. Dorothy Wills is chairman of the Conservation Committee.

The Dramatics Committee, Mrs. Beatrice Budd, chairman, is planning two one-act plays for Jan. 25, and two more for March 22.

The Music Committee, besides running a very fine Glee Club, is arranging for four morning musicales Nov. 9, Jan. 18, Feb. 15 and March 22. The artists for these musicales are Mrs. Helena Studzinska Sibley, Mrs. Idabelle H. Winship, Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham, Mrs. Hildegarde B Livingstone and Mrs. Mary K. Sargent. Mrs. Idabelle H. Winship is chairman of this committee.

The Preservation of Antiques Committee will hold meetings the second Friday of each month excepting December. All members interested in antiques are invited to exhibit at the meetings. The first one will be on Nov. 9 at 2:30 p. m., "The Days of Glass Collecting" by Mrs. Lura W. Watkins. Tea will be served. Mrs. Alice R. Andrews is chairman of the Antiques Committee.

The Education Committee is glad to report that four scholarships are being furnished by the Fortnightly to Winchester boys and girls who are at college.

The American Home Committee, Mrs. Mary B. Davis, chairman, is prepared to offer classes in dressmaking and interior decoration if enough club members are interested.

The "Fortnightly News" this year is to be edited by Mrs. Arzillia M. Higgins, and one very interesting number has already appeared.

Great credit is due Mrs. Nita A. Smith and her assistants for their work on the Year Book. The new arrangement of material is very interesting, and the product is a credit to those who have worked so long and faithfully upon it.

The Legislation Committee, Mrs. Irene D. Clarke, chairman, is planning an interesting program which will be announced later.

The Committee on Co-operation with War Veterans, Mrs. Mae S. Miley, chairman, is also planning a busy winter, with details to be announced later.

Special attention is called to the fact that the Antiques Lecture on Friday, Nov. 9, will be at 2:30, not at 3:30 as was stated (by a misprint) in the Year Book.

Miss Josephine Smith of Lehanon street is enjoying a vacation in New Hampshire and Vermont.

STONEHAM HERE TOMORROW

Winchester High will return to the Middlesex League football wars tomorrow afternoon, meeting Stoneham High on Manchester Field at 2 o'clock.

The visitors come to Winchester fresh from a single touchdown victory over Belmont while Winchester has a 19—0 win over Lexington as its league showing to date.

Stoneham will not field anywhere near as big a team as Lexington, but it will be smarter coached and should prove more dangerous than the Minutehoys, particularly through the air. "Doc" Gordon's charges generally have a good passing game and Coach Mansfield has been giving his boys plenty of work to have them ready for anything in the Stoneham bag of tricks.

The locals' starting lineup will be the same as for Lexington except that big "Gerry" Gaffney will be back at his halfback berth. "Joe" Cimina will shift to fullback, replacing "Johnnie" Scully. This leaves Coach Mansfield three really first string backfield subs in Scully, "Rugged" Murraco and "Dave" Grosvenor. "Steamer" Hanlon and "Frankie" Provinzano are starting fixtures.

On the line Bairstow and Josephson are the starting ends with Olson and Thwing, tackles, McCormack and Graham, guards and "Joe" Cassidy, center. "Andy" Millyan, end; and "Albie" MacDonnell, guard, rate with this first string group and will be in action plenty before the game is too far along.

Fire Chief David H. DeCourcy attended the monthly meeting of the Massachusetts Fire Chief's Club on Wednesday at the Parker House in Boston.

CONVERSE PLACE

OLD TAVERN TO BE OPENED

Members of historical societies, and especially those belonging to the society of our own town, will be interested to learn that the once-famous Deacon Isaac Abbot Tavern, located at 70 Elm street in Andover, will be opened to the public on the afternoon of Monday, Oct. 22 from the hours of 2:30 until 4:30.

Because of its antiquity, its typical architecture and its fame as one of the many roofs under which President Washington was entertained in 1784, it is well worth a visit.

This invitation particularly urges all who may be related to the Abbot family to be present, to make known their affiliations and to sign the Abbot register.

Unusual engravings of Washington will be displayed. Tea will be served and a pleasant hour is assured.

The Tavern is located near the center of Andover on Route 125.

The Amos Blanchard house at 97 Main street, now the permanent home of the Andover Historical Society, will also be opened to visitors. This house, built in 1819, is a good example of Georgian architecture, with its long ells, its sheds, its barn, orchard and garden—and friendly welcome.

SETH PARKER GITHERIN

Much interest is being shown around town in the Seth Parker Githerin to be held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, Oct. 30.

A similar performance was given at the Methodist Church last winter and it proved to be so popular that over 100 had to be turned away.

Most of the old cast will be present with Vincent P. Clarke again taking the part of Seth Parker. Among others in the cast are Jane Hill, Marjorie Danforth, James Joslin, "Ed" Merriam, "Dan" Barnard, "Charlie" Carter, Mary Witham, Lillian Whitman, Helen Harris, "Dave" Downer and Anna Lochman.

REPUBLICAN CLUB FORMED

Men Organize Here and Elect Officers

At a meeting held in the high school assembly hall on Monday evening the Republican men of Winchester effected an organization of the Winchester Men's Republican Club and elected officers and committees. The meeting was attended by about 300 and the new organization was launched amid much enthusiasm, 192 of the men attending signing up as charter members.

Harris S. Richardson, chairman of the Republican Town Committee, under whose auspices the new organization was effected, presided. In opening the meeting he explained the purposes and aims of the organization and read the list of those forming the organizing committee as follows: Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell, Vincent P. Clarke, Alfred D. Radley, Charles R. Main and Earle E. Andrews.

Mr. Radley, acting secretary, read and presented the form of constitution and by-laws, both of which were adopted and the club officially named. Thereupon the officers were elected as follows:

President—Raymond S. Wilkins
Vice President—Harrison F. Lyman
Precinct Vice Presidents
Precinct 1—Harry C. Gowan
Precinct 2—James W. Russell
Precinct 3—William L. Parsons
Precinct 4—William A. Knowland
Precinct 5—Harold S. Fuller
Precinct 6—John F. Cassidy
Secretary—Ralph W. Hatch
Treasurer—Robert E. Lay
Auditor—Herman F. Pike
Three Members at Large to serve on Executive Committee with Officers—Salvatore D. DeTesso, Herbert K. Miller, Theodore von Rosenvinge.

Three speakers were presented to the meeting, all of whom gave interesting talks. Eugene F. Burnett, member of the Governor's Council for this district and candidate for re-election, and our own Representative, William E. Ramsdell, spoke entertainingly and informatively and Hon. Leverett Saltonstall, Speaker of the House of Representatives for the past six years and representing Newton for the past 12 years, gave a particularly informative talk. He included in his remarks the social and legislative steps taken by the Republican administration of this State long before the New Dealers started to mix things up at Washington, listing the child labor and minimum wage laws. He cited the danger of inflation and gave interesting figures on taxes paid the Federal Government by this State. Out of every dollar paid the Federal Government by Massachusetts, he said, we receive in return in the way of Federal aid and assistance the sum of four cents! Ours is one of three states, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania, who pay 50 per cent of the Federal taxes!

Speaker Saltonstall urged all to turn out and vote the entire Republican ticket. Every party candidate, he said, is well qualified for the position to which he aspires.

HAPPENINGS AT THE WYMAN SCHOOL

Since the beginning of school days, there has been an unceasing drive for safety—the importance of being careful, with especial stress on care in crossing the streets. Every class has discussed this thoroughly at morning programs in the class room. Further, the play given at the second school assembly had "Safety" for its subject. Vivid were the scenes warning about careful street crossing.

The school has observed Fire Prevention Week too, as a very real part of the safety campaign.

The Red Cross drive, which was the program of the first school assembly, has been met with great enthusiasm. There is 100 per cent subscription in every room, and 29 Red Cross boxes have been filled with the children's gifts.

On last Wednesday, Oct. 10, Mrs. Philip Johnson, Mrs. Clarence Whorf, Mrs. John Joy, Mrs. Harry N. Squires and Mrs. Alden Sherman of the Mothers' Association gave a delicious and daintily served luncheon to the teachers of the Wyman School. As the meal cheerily progressed, it was a wonderful opportunity for parents and teachers to become better acquainted.

ITALIAN LODGES OBSERVED COLUMBUS DAY

The Winchester Men's and Women's Lodges of the Sons of Italy in America joined in an all day observance of Columbus Day last Friday, the celebration opening at 10 o'clock with a football game between the West Medford A. A. and the Stoneham Town Team on Manchester Field.

It had been originally planned to have the Winchester Town Team meet Stoneham, but the local club management felt its players were too short of work to go through with this engagement. As a consequence the West Medford Club was secured as an acceptable substitute because of the fact that its captain, "Jimma" Flaherty, is a Winchester boy while another Winchester boy, "Nutsy" Amico, ex-Winchester High captain and all Mystic League center, is a regular in its lineup.

West Medford won the game, 12 to 0, before a crowd that would undoubtedly have been larger on a wet day. Those who did attend contest got the first look at the town new ambulance in action when Rogers drove it onto the playgr to remove "Jim" McCollough of West Medford team to the Winch Hospital with a broken leg. Another player sustained an arm injury but it proved not so serious as at first feared. "Joe" Tansey acted as referee for the game with Angelo Tofuri, umpire, and Harry Chefalo, linesman.

Special exercises were held in the Italian section of the town during midday, and in the afternoon the high school met Lexington on the Manchester Field gridiron, winning 19 to 0, before a big crowd.

In the evening a Columbus Day banquet was held in Lyceum Hall which was taxed to its capacity by members of the Italian Societies and their guests. The hall was tastefully decorated with streamers and the Romano Group from Woburn furnished music.

Seated at the head table were Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Maietta, Selectman and Mrs. Henry J. Maguire, Selectman and Mrs. Harold V. Farnsworth, Selectman and Mrs. Franklin J. Lane, Selectman and Mrs. William N. Beggs, former Selectman and Mrs. Harris S. Richardson, Rev. Fr. Charles J. Foley, assistant pastor of the Immaculate Concention Church; Police Chief and Mrs. William H. Rogers, ex-Venerable Frank P. Zaffina of Winchester Lodge and Mrs. Zaffina, Venerable and Mrs. Frank Dattilo, Miss Jeannette Garbino, Miss Sophie Gorrasi, Joseph Gorrasi, Chairman George T. Davidson of the Park Department and Alderman Gerald Seminatore of Woburn.

Dr. Maietta filled the important post of toastmaster to the satisfaction of all. Father Foley, Alderman Seminatore, Selectmen Farnsworth and Maguire and Mr. Gorrasi responded to toasts, each being cordially received.

The banquet was followed by an entertainment program.

General dancing was enjoyed after the entertainment until midnight, the Romano Group again furnishing the music. The committee in charge of arrangements included Dr. Maietta, Miss Garbino and Mr. Zaffina.

Arthur H. Razee of this town a member of the senior class at Tufts College is one of the students whose name appears upon the "Rank List" recently issued, for having maintained an "A" average in his studies during the college year just past.

MASSACHUSETTS LIBRARY WEEK OCT. 21 TO 27

By Proclamation of Governor Ely

Excerpts from the Proclamation:

"Our Free Public Libraries are a precious possession with which we should all be familiar.

In and through these institutions children are set upon the pathway to reading; seekers for entertainment are satisfied; seekers for knowledge are aided; important questions without number are asked and answered.

I urge all citizens to visit their libraries during this period for the purpose of acquainting themselves more fully with the opportunities provided.

I believe that the experiences of this week will result in a renewed appreciation of our free public libraries and that the citizens, whose property they are, may gain more satisfaction in life through increased contact with its finest things.

EN KA NEWS

The first meeting of En Ka Society was held at the home of Mrs. Clinton Mason, 332 Highland avenue on Wednesday, Oct. 10 with 36 members present.

Mrs. Kenerson, the new president, presided. It was an extremely busy and interesting meeting with many recommendations presented from the board to the Society. Reports were made by all the committee chairmen who told what they had done so far which clearly showed that each committee is off to a good start.

Of particular interest was Mrs. r's report that the En Ka hostess k is already well under way at hospital.

Irs. Pierce, chairman of the Ways Means Committee, reported a y ambitious and interesting program of entertainments for the coming year, the first event being a luncheon bridge on Nov. 7 at the Church of the Epiphany. This committee has also planned for a street fair in the spring. All such affairs are for the purpose of raising money to benefit the Nurse's Home.

The president called a special meeting to be held on Friday, Nov. 2 at the home of Mrs. C. P. Dow, 310 Main street at 2 o'clock. At the conclusion of the business meeting, tea was enjoyed.

The new General Electric Dishwasher washes all the Dishes Hygienically clean in 5 minutes for less than 1c a day!

DISHES—dishes—dishes! It's a tiresome, endless task that destroys youth and charm—hastens age and cheats a woman of many golden hours. In even an average home, in one year, a woman washes and wipes a pile of dishes as high as the Empire State Building—tons and tons of dishes! Every day of her life is overshadowed by the dishpan, and no woman can long retain charm while dipping her hands in a greasy dishpan 3 times a day!

In this age of electrical living, dishwashing is unnecessary wasteful drudgery. No longer need the kitchen be cluttered with stacks of dirty dishes. In the modern home a General Electric Dishwasher does the job more quickly—and without breaking or chipping of china and glassware. The unsanitary dishcloth is abolished.

See a demonstration of this newest electrical servant—without obligation. Learn how easy it is to modernize your kitchen under the new National Housing Act plan of financing.

There is a G-E Dishwasher for every kitchen—both portable and cabinet-sink models.

All the dishes—chinaware, glassware, silverware, pots and pans, too—are placed in the rubber trays of the G-E Dishwasher as quickly and easily as stacking in the sink. The magic control is turned and the dishwashing job is done. The General Electric Dishwasher even cleans and dries itself—human hands do not touch dishwater.

Mother, Your Dishcloth is a Menace to Health!

Handwashed dishes are always a threat to family health for they are major carriers of disease germs. Using water hotter than human hands can touch, the G-E Dishwasher destroys bacteria and germs that may mean only a common cold to one but pneumonia and death to another! Handwashed dishes have a bacteria count 80 to 90 times greater than dishes hygienically washed in a G-E!

CONGREGATIONAL BADMINTON NOTICE

The Badminton Club of the First Congregational Church will open its third playing season Wednesday evening, Oct. 24 at 7:30 o'clock in the church recreation hall. The playing committee has arranged an interesting program for the season which is expected to eclipse the success of last year.

Carl W. Wood is heading the club as president with May Thompson, vice president; Edmund A. Merriam, Jr., treasurer; and Dorothy Wills, secretary. The playing committee includes Carolyn Mercer, May Thompson and Edward W. Berry, Jr. The club will meet until further notice each Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Price Wilson and Miss Barney Wilson spent the week-end at Gardiner, Me.

INJURED AS HIS CAR IS HIT

Robert F. Lake of Creston avenue, Burlington, reported to the police Saturday night shortly before 10:30 that he had sustained injuries to his back when his Pontiac sedan was struck in the rear while stopped on Main street south of the railroad crossing by a Ford delivery sedan, owned and operated by Robert L. Farmer of James street, Tewksbury.

Lake told the police he had stopped his machine because the railroad gates were down, and had been leaning over from the driver's seat to fix a wire under the dash. The impact of the collision threw him against the steering post of the car and injured his back.

BABSON TO SPEAK AGAIN NEXT SUNDAY

Roger W. Babson will give the third of his radio talks to the people of this and adjoining communities next Sunday, Oct. 21 at 1 o'clock sharp. It will be over Radio Station WBSO, which operates on 920 kc. He will discuss, Wages, Prices and Waste.

On Sunday noon Oct. 28, Mr. Babson will give his concluding talk. Then he will discuss in detail his proposals for a Coalition Government as the way back to prosperity. Mr. Babson has especially thanked the people of this community for their many letters of approval and sympathy with his ideas.

MURALS TO BE DEDICATED

On Monday evening, next, Oct. 22, at 8 o'clock, there will be dedicatory exercises at the Public Library of the two mural paintings which have recently been completed. The first mural, The Beginning of Winchester 1637, depicting the Squaw Sachem selling her land to Increase Nowell and others, is by Aiden L. Ripley. This was put in place last June, on the long wall space directly opposite the main entrance.

On Tuesday of this week, Oct. 16, the other painting was set up. This is entitled "Bible Reading in Puritan Times." This occupies the space over the fireplace in the reading room. The artist is Ettore Caser, a former resident of Winchester and now of New York.

The first mural was executed as a Public Works of Art project. The second is the generous gift of a number of Winchester's citizens, including Mr. and Mrs. Everett D. Chadwick, Miss Elizabeth Downs and Mr. Jere A. Downs, the Misses Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Kidder, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison F. Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Main, Dr. and Mrs. George N. P. Mead, Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson Mead, Mrs. Eben B. Page, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parkhurst, Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Schrafft, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic E. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Stone and others to be announced, with a special contribution taken from the accumulated interest on the library fund left by Mr. David N. Skillings, Sr., which has already been the source of other purchases of paintings in the Public Library collection.

Mr. Ralph T. Hale, chairman of the Public Library Building Committee and member of the Board of Trustees, will preside. Brief remarks will be made by Mr. H. Dudley Murphy, chairman of the Library Art Committee; Mr. Henry S. Chapman, President of the Winchester Art Association and Town Historian; Mr. Frederick W. Coburn, formerly a resident of Winchester and art critic for many years of the Boston Herald, Mr. Aiden L. Ripley and Mr. Caser, if he is able to be present.

The exercises will begin as promptly as possible at 8 o'clock and will be short.

The public is cordially invited.

Arthur Tutein, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGrath.

The entertainment committee plans to have dinner dances about once a month during the fall and winter, the date of the next being Nov. 3, the evening of the Harvard-Princeton game.

MALLEY—SHATFORD

Miss Ivy Pearl Shatford of Church street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Rupert E. Shatford and Walter Francis Malley of Bacon street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius F. Malley, were married Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in St. Mary's Church by Rev. Fr. Joseph E. McGoldrick. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Raglon A. Shatford, and the ceremony was performed in a setting of pink roses and evergreens.

Miss Josephine Gerrior of Winchester attended Miss Shatford and Earl Smith, also of this town, was Mr. Malley's best man. Miss Helen Malley and Miss Ann Quemy, both of Dorchester; Miss Katherine Gerrior of Winchester, Miss Lillian Antia of Portland, Me., and Miss Winnie McArdle of Somerville were bridesmaids. Ushers were James N. Smith of Winchester, and three members of the United States Army, stationed in Boston, Edward W. Smith, Norman H. Enman and Raymond A. Pickering.

The bride wore white satin and a tulle veil, arranged with a cap and trimmed with seed pearls. Her shower bouquet was of pale pink roses and lilies of the valley. Her honor maid wore fuchsia taffeta, trimmed with white and a matching hat and carried white roses. The bridesmaids wore taffeta frocks in pastel shades with hats to match and carried talisman roses.

A reception was held after the ceremony in Fortnightly Hall where the bride and bridegroom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Alice L. Sullivan, the bridegroom's aunt; and Mrs. James N. Smith. After a motor honeymoon spent touring New York and Pennsylvania, Mr. Malley and his bride are to make their home in Winchester at 55 Bacon street.

The bride is a graduate of Cambridge High School and of the Household Nursing Association. Mr. Malley, who is employed as a private chauffeur, holds a second Lieutenant's commission in the Army Quartermaster Reserve Corps.

INTERRUPTED WHILE WORKING ON CAR

The prompt action of Baggageman James H. Fitzgerald may have prevented an automobile robbery at Wedgemere Station Tuesday night.

Fitzgerald was attending to the fire at the station about 9:15 when he heard footsteps above him. Upon going upstairs he was unable to locate any one, but when he went outside the station he found a young man tieing a rope to the bumper of a car parked in the station parking space.

Upon being asked what he was doing, the young man stated that he was going to tow the car away for a friend, but after offering this explanation, he suddenly took to his heels and ran down the drive toward the Parkway and Lakeview road where an automobile was standing.

Entering the car the young man drove off with another young man in the direction of Medford. Fitzgerald notified the Police and Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell went to the station. The parked car was found to be the property of Florence L. Sargent of Cottage avenue. The police say it was left there by a member of the family who had gone to Boston earlier in the evening.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Tonight, Friday, Oct. 19 at 8 will take place the much heralded smoker. Especial imported motion pictures of Sugar Island (the summer home of international canoeists). The canoe races at the Chicago World's Fair and pictures of our Fourth of July canoe marathon will be shown. There will be entertainment and refreshments. As this is all free, members should be present en masse. Mr. Ladd also has a treat in store for those who take in this time.

Remember also, Saturday, Oct. 27. Not just navy day. But we hold our annual Hallowe'en costume party and dance that date. Nothing is being spared to make this a bang-up time. Be sure and be there.

THE JUNIOR GUILD TEA

The Junior Guild of the Infant Saviour are to have a tea on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 21 at Wyman's Tea room in Arlington. The purpose of this tea is to introduce all the new members enrolling this year to the present members and is in the form of a testimonial to the new members.

Mrs. Herbert Dawes, well known speaker is to give a short talk.

This is the first of a series of social affairs planned by the Junior Guild for the coming season. Miss Barbara Chevalier, president of the Guild, is devoting much of her time toward the success of these affairs.

4-H CLUB DINNER

Sixteen leaders and committee members of the Middlesex County Extension Group were entertained by the older girls of the 4-H Club on Tuesday evening at a dinner held in the Second Congregational Church.

The tables were attractively decorated, and an excellent menu was prepared by the girls.

Rev. Mr. Simmons of the Congregational Church of Wilmington was the speaker, emphasizing the need of enlarging the club.

Monday evening a resident of Everett avenue notified the police that his daughter-in-law, while wheeling her baby on that street, had been subjected to a close scrutiny on two occasions by two men who were riding in an automobile. The second time she became alarmed. The police checked on the matter and were able to learn that the men were all right and had merely mistaken the wrong lady for a relative of about the same description and known to live in that neighborhood.

And now we have a true definition of an aristocrat; for who is better qualified to analyze this person than Mister Curley of Boston?

The voters upon whom government dollars are bestowed have their appetites stimulated, not satisfied. Like Oliver Twist, they constantly ask for more. Just asking the voter to be grateful for what he got isn't enough. You've got to hold out hope of more to keep his gratitude from turning sour. How many today, struggling to keep body and soul together, can remember former Republican years of plenty?

Members of the Republican party, and more especially those of all political parties opposed to the loudly praised New Deal, have no particular reason to be discouraged nor to feel out of the political picture. Those who have property or worldly goods, so called, are still in the marjority, although badly split apart and disorganized by the clever propaganda issued by the truck load from Washington. Appealed to and threatened, those financially secure, while not agreeing with the administration, are hard put to form any definite antagonistic attitude. If of previous Democratic faith, they are loath to relinquish the tenents of years and publicly espouse the teachings of the Republican party. Thus there remains a great body of people in this country, deploring present conditions, yet unable to unite in forming a solid front to combat them. In this demoralizing condition there seems to be but one certain action of showing opposition to the present state of affairs, and that is to give the old and tried Republicans an unqualified endorsement. That the New Dealers, who are now trying to rebuild the world and establish an unconquerable lordship over the country, are no more Democrats than Republicans may be taken for granted. Upton Sinclair, who promises a new deal of his own in California, much to the dismay of the nation at large, simply adopts the Democratic party as a better way of intruding his Socialistic ideas. He is no more a Democrat than old-line Democrats are New Dealers. Careful and clever tactics open the arms of the New Dealers to all who espouse that party—even though it be a name and nothing else. Opponents to the New Deal therefore, in their present state of disorganization and uncertainty, should unitedly support the Republicans. It is admitted they are a majority and that their impotence lays wholly in their disorganization. They should recognize that the clever New Dealers, now in supreme power in Washington, are recognizing Democrats and bewildering "secure" Republicans, only to hold their office and control. And every month of these depression days that they continue in power strengthens that hold and control, for every citizen who loses his position sees no alternative other than to bow down to their power, and every boy growing to manhood is met with propaganda and promises of Utopia. This far in the New Deal regime no orders have been passed forbidding one to change his party politics—that will come later, and if we are to have in the future three political parties, Democrats as well as Republicans may yet pick and choose. Until that time arrives however, a solid Republican front all along the line will show the strength of those who oppose the New Dealers and their cohorts, whether Maine or Massachusetts. Conditions today demand action from every voter. The old rocking chair days of let George do it have passed. A full strength, united Republican front would accomplish wonders, and do more to encourage those out to end depression in Spain than a half year of New Deal ballyhoo. If every opponent of the New Deal will take it on his shoulders to put his vote and those of his friends who agree with him in the Republican ballot box this fall, Massachusetts will stand up and point the way to better times and greater confidence in a real democratic government.

A WET CHANGES HIS MIND

In a communication to the Boston Herald dated Oct. 4 and published Oct. 9 a Brookline correspondent states in an article entitled "Liquor-Law Enforcement," "I voted 'wet,' I preached it, I talked it, I believed it. But today I am convinced that I was wrong and am willing to admit my error. . . . It's not a reformer speaking. I have drunk many a cocktail and shaken many a highball. But today I am through and may I add that from my own conversations with friends, others are with me."

Women and girls are reacting to the liquor propaganda just as they did to the cigarette propaganda after the war, and if they keep on as they have started with their cocktail parties they will soon be more drunken than men just as they have become more intemperate tobacco users than men. Those who brought about repeal with the slogan "Liberty and liquor control" have misled them by propaganda designed to deceive, circulated for selfish purposes and not for the good of all the people. There is no such thing as control of the liquor traffic and there never has been in any country at any time under any law.

Repeal has not stopped bootlegging. On the contrary where it has been established by law, it has been made easier and more profitable. An army of three thousand federal officers has failed completely to stop it and the number increased to five thousand will also fail as it did under prohibition. As long as there is a high federal tax on liquor bootlegging will be profitable and as long as it is profitable nothing will stop it. Before repeal, in states like Massachusetts, the wets argued that they were forced to be hypocrites because they were compelled to buy illegal liquor from bootleggers. Today, under the repeal law, more than half of all the hard liquor consumed is bootleg liquor. Many wets, no longer quibbling about hypocrisy, are buying their favorite brands from the same old bootleggers they patronized in the days before repeal because it is cheaper.

Repeal has not stopped distilling and moonshine liquor. It has not done away with the oldtime bar and speakeasy. Before repeal the wets declared, "Of course we will never again tolerate the old saloon." After repeal large numbers of them opened saloons, public and private, themselves. Who has heard a wet, since repeal, say the suloon must go; and who ever heard a wet, before repeal, say he favored the open saloon?

Repeal has not stopped the offshore "rum row." Thousands of cases of genuine high grade liquor are easily smuggled into the country from "rum row" and distributed by the bootleggers to their oldtime pre repeal customers or sold in the saloons along with legal liquor.

Repeal has not provided better liquor. Bootleg liquor, for the most part is as good as any, in many cases better than legal. This fact was established in Massachusetts by the examination of thousands of samples of bootleg liquor by expert chemists at the request of the courts, the police and individuals. The poison in any liquor is alcohol and the more poisonous alcohol or fusel oil was found in only a small percentage of cases. One's chances of getting pure liquor from the better bootleggers are fully as good as in the average saloon. The saloon keeper often dispenses cheap liquor to cheap customers, particularly if the purchaser is drunk. Repeal has done away with none of the ills that existed under prohibition. It has not made a saint of a single wet and it has done nothing the wets said it would do. It has not even benefited the country by liquor taxes because the loss of hours of labor, decreased efficiency of labor, sickness, accidents, increased police and court expenses, increased cost of welfare aid resulting from the use of liquor causes a waste that far more than offsets the amount collected from taxes.

Repeal has caused a great increase in liquor consumption. Any law that does that is a bad law. It has caused an alarming increase in automobile accidents because of drunken driving. Drunkenness has increased greatly among women. Thirty-three percent more women were arrested for drunkenness in Boston during eight months under repeal than in the corresponding period under prohibition.

Repeal benefits the liquor dealer only. A change of law does not alter the habits of men. The millenium is not established that way. Many are becoming disgusted with the thoughtless, propaganda-influenced, cocktail female of the species notwithstanding she is no worse than the male.

HOW ABOUT BIGGER AND BETTER TAXES?

To the Editor of the Star:

As the citizens of Winchester survey with unpleasant emotion the tax bills recently sent to them with the compliments of the Collector of Taxes, giving notice that the rate is $28 on $1,000, an increase of nearly two dollars over last year, they may not welcome the reminder that the sole although invisible plank upon which Mr. Curley is standing is that of bigger and better taxes.

Mr. Curley, much too astute to announce that such is his program, cleverly coats the bitter pill with the phrase "Work and Wages." Certainly every citizen desires to see every man and woman in this Commonwealth gainfully employed—in the only kind of employment which can last—and that is private employment. However, Mr. Curley's "Work and Wages" is public work, whether necessary or not, and wages paid by the taxpayer.

Winchester has properly and honorably taken care of its unemployed through public work financed partly by voluntary subscriptions, and partly by taxation. Our local work has been done economically and honestly, and is of such a character that practically all of the money is spent in wages, thus affording the maximum relief, and the future upkeep is small. Thus, Winchester has wisely adopted a plan for public relief which permits the bulk of expenditures to be for wages, and which entails no heavy burden for maintenance upon the future.

Such a simple and economical plan, however, is not to Mr. Curley's taste. His schemes, always magnificent in conception, involve large land-takings and generous payments to those fortunate enough to have acquired the property, usually just prior to the public announcement of the undertaking, contracts with favored contractors, whose profits add to the cost, and finally a perpetual upkeep, running as in the case of Mr. Curley's newly-opened tunnel to East Boston in excess of $500,000 a year.

If the citizens of Winchester yearn for Boston's tax rate of $38.30, or even more, we could have a lot more fun with the money, while it lasts, by spending it upon ourselves than by giving it over to Mr. Curley to use for purposes having no connection with our town. Why not, for example build a new twenty-storied town hall? We could spend a lot money, not only in building, but also in forever maintaining the structure. If any citizen should object that we do not need such an edifice, the answer is that neither did Boston need its nineteen million dollar tunnel. Mr. Curley's test is not the need but the deed; spend in haste, repent at leisure.

The higher the tax, the less taxpayer has to spend for hi and his family. It would seen part of wisdom to preserve oui veney and thus save our liberi electing Bacon and Haigis.

WAKE UP, WAKE UP

Mr. E. H. Redfield, 79-years old, of Springfield, Vt., soft-voiced, white haired, true hearted patriot of the Green Hills, fired by the spirit of '76, roused by the challenge of the times, has sounded the battle cry, awakening the echoes of the mountains and the guardians of the valleys. With penetrating vision and correct appraisal he has judged the times. This is the song and the tocsin of the grand old Vermont patriot.

WAKE UP! WAKE UP!

1

Bring the Constitution back
That we've lived by so long,
By scrapping it for N R A
You're wholly in the wrong
By it our fathers lived and died,
And we'll stand by it yet,
'Tis better far than N R A
Or Russian Soviet.

2

The U. S. Constitution
For our benefit was framed,
To keep this land, a free man's land,
For which 'twas justly famed
Then let us keep the heritage
Our Fathers did intend,
And outward to oblivion
This new deal nonsense send.

3

No plowing under cotton
Or killing off the hogs
Will ever bring about good times,
But send us to the dogs
Prosperity can only come
By good and honest work,
And not by robbing thrifty men,
To help the ones who shirk.

4

There is no other metal
That can take the place of gold,
And when we swap it off for trash
We're very badly sold
For we must have a standard
And by that standard stand;
Before prosperity will come
To cheer a distraught land.

Chorus

Wake up, Wake up,
Our liberty's at stake;
Wake up, wake up,
That brain trust is a fake;
'Twill ruin you and me in the end
Although they may mean well;
If full we do, 'twill be their deeds,
By which this country fell.

YOUNG PEOPLE HAD LARGE MEETING

Because of the holiday last week, a very small crowd was expected at the Young People's meeting at the Congregational Church. Instead a record was broken and a crowd of nearly 70 packed the ladies' parlor to hear Mr. Graves speak. After the discussion everyone went to the social hall for refreshments and singing. A success, indeed!

Next week an even larger crowd is expected, because the Young People will conduct their annual Northfield Night, at which the delegates who went to the Northfield Conference last summer will relate their experiences. This is always of interest to everyone, so don't miss it! Of course, there will be refreshments afterwards, as always.

Remember, everyone of high school age or over is welcome. Come down at 6 o'clock and bring your friends.

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

The first social of the fall season will be the Costume Party scheduled for next Wednesday evening, Oct. 24, in Lyceum Hall, under the direction of Vice President Mrs. Minnie A. O'Neill. A grand march for those in costume is to be staged between 8 and 9 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded for the prettiest, the most original, the funniest, and the most old-fashioned of the make-ups. A well known orchestra with Mr. Scott announcing, will furnish the music for dancing and the general public is cordially invited to participate in all the Hallowe'en festivities. Refreshments suitable to the season will be served and a gay time is assured.

A Turkey Bridge and Whist Party is billed for next month's social, Monday evening, Nov. 26. The entire entertainment Committee is expected to serve and will meet at the home of the Secretary, 41 Vine street, on Monday evening, Oct. 29, to perfect plans for this big Thanksgiving event.

Thank heavens, politics will be over and done with by that time, and we'll be able to tend to our turkey—if we win one! And why stew over politics, anyway? Especially in Winchester where the cart always pushes the horse, and the powers-that-be always come from the same party, and the proverbial worm never, never gets a chance to turn!

Tickets for the Elks' chairity entertainment on Nov. 15, may be obtained from one of our past presidents, Mrs. Esther C. McCarthy, 208 Washington street. This is a worth while cause and should receive the support of every member of the club.

The president of the Massachusetts State Association of Emblem Clubs announces a dinner dance to be held in Boston on Saturday, Oct. 20. Tickets and further particlars may be obtained from our local president, Mrs. Peter E. Griffin, or from Mrs. Thomas F. Fallon, tel. 0728.

Our two sick sisters, Mrs. Lilla B. Green and Lillian S. Nicholson, are still confined to the hospital. Remember them at this time with a card of cheerful greeting or some little favor.

It may be well to know at this time, also, that the charitable report given at the Supreme Convention included relief expenditures of over $10,000 during the past year. Winchester's report was delivered by Big Sister Emily A. Scholl.

Sister Alice F. Sullivan is visiting her aunt, Mrs. James Cannon of Washington, D. C. We are thinking that Washington might be the ideal spot to visit at this time, with all the politicians at home pursuing their constituents.

BAD ACCIDENT ON CAMBRIDGE STREET

Several motorists were injured, two badly, in a collision which took place Friday night shortly after 11:30 on Cambridge street near the Winchester-Woburn line. Patrolman John H. Boyle notified Headquarters and Patrolmen William E. Cassidy and Irving Reardon were sent to investigate.

Meanwhile Patrolman John J. Regan had been stopped by Thomas J. Knight of Gray street, Billerica, who was looking for the Winchester Hospital, to which he was taking Mrs. Inez Brown of 61 Elm street, Somerville, who had been a passenger in one of the cars involved in the Cambridge street crash.

Officer Regan accompanied Knight to the hospital and there found Herbert A. DuBeau of 47 Vassed street, Cambridge, and Timothy J. Cosgrove of 47 Vassed street, Cambridge, both of whom had been riding in the car with Mrs. Brown.

DuBeau was said to have been driving the car, a Pontiac coach, registered to W. H. Thomas, Inc. of 1156 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. He received a scratch on the nose and Cosgrove, lacerations to the right eye. Mrs. Brown received a possible fracture of the right leg and was detained with Cosgrove at the hospital.

Further investigation disclosed that the Pontiac had been in collision with a Ford sedan. The occupants of both machines had left the scene of the accident when the police arrived, and the damaged cars were towed away.

At the corner of Church and Cambridge streets the police came upon Bryan Sweeney of 7 Chetwand road, Cambridge, and David Sugure of 234 Upland road, that city. Sweeney told the police they had been riding in the rumble seat of the Pontiac and stated DuBeau was driving when the accident occurred.

Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell went to the hospital and talked with Harold T. Dwaret of 295 Appleton street, Lowell, who took the occupants of the Ford to the hospital after the accident. They were James Slattery of 46 Tyler street, Lowell, and his sister, Agnes. Both were unconscious, Miss Slattery having sustained a cut on the throat requiring 10 stitches and her brother having a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

DuBeau was questioned at Headquarters. The Police say he was under the influence of liquor and admitted having had some beer. Subsequent action will depend upon the condition of Mr. and Mrs. Slattery.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Nelson Hawley and Mr. and Mrs. A. Miles Holbrook spent the week-end at Seaconsett Island on the Cape.

PING PONG CLUB AWARDS PRIZES

The winning team of the Winchester Ping Pong Club's League, which operated throughout last spring was announced this week. Team 2, comprised of Messrs. Leon Hughes, Lawrence Sibley and Albert Robinson, won the team prize with a scoring percentage of .827.

The prize for the highest individual score was awarded to Mr. Sibley.

The relative standings of the four leading teams and of the four leading players were as follows:

Team Standing

Team 2 - L. Hughes, L. Sibley, A. Robinson	.827
Team 5 - R. Godfrey, G. Davidson, R. Leghorn	.694
Team 1 - E. Priest, R. Blackler, P. Gamage	.666
Team 3 - P. Eaton, C. Hilton, H. Cyr	.598

Individual Standing

L. Sibley	.888
L. Hughes	.852
R. Godfrey	.833
E. Priest	.800

Some 36 players took part in the tourney. Plans are being completed for the 1934-35 season and with the ever-growing popularity of the game, it is expected that at least 24 teams of two men each divided into three divisions, will be entered. All matches are of an informal nature, usually being played at the home of one of the contestants. Both singles and doubles matches will be included in the scoring. Entry blanks will be mailed to all players who took part, either in the league or in last spring's town tournament, but any other player who desires to improve his game by friendly competition is urged to make application immediately to Mr. James Riley, Win. 0823-M or to Mr. Paul Eaton, Win. 2275.

WINCHESTER COLLEGE CLUB

The Winchester College Club will have its guest night on the evening of Friday, Oct. 26 at the home of Mr. Jere Downs. Mr. Alfred E. Stearns will speak on, "Youth, Today and Yesterday."

Miss Elizabeth Swett, a former teacher in the public schools here, is to give a series of children's stories over Station WHDH Saturday mornings at 9:30. Her first story will be, "The Relic Hunters."

REGISTRATION FIGURES

The Board of Registrars of Voters announced at the close of the October registration period this week that 667 new names were added to the voting list. During the August registration 150 names were added, bringing the new name total to 817 for the entire period.

This is not a new "high" for registration here. Two years ago with both primaries and election 330 new names were put on during the August period and 508 in October, bringing the total to 838 or 21 more than this year.

The local voting list, however, is now the largest in the town's history with 6865 enrolled. In 1932 there were 3602 on the list.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 21.

The Golden Text is: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many" (Mark 1:45).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep . . . I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved and shall go in and out and find pasture. . . . As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father; and I lay down my life for the sheep" (John 10:7, 9, 15).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. His mission was both individual and collective. He did life's work aright not only in justice to himself, but in mercy to mortals, to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them nor to relieve them of a single responsibility" (p. 18).

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

The first meeting of the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League was held in Waterfield Hall, Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

Mrs. Nichols, the president of the Circle, presided and opened the meeting with greetings to all those present. After a short business meeting, Mrs. Annette Hughes sang several very delightful songs accompanied by Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes, chairman of the music committee.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Lucy J. Franklin, Dean of Women of Boston University.

Mrs. Franklin gave a very interesting and enlightening talk on the the women of Northern Europe, telling many interesting things of their freedom and advancement.

Tea was served by Mrs. Harris Richardson and her committee after the meeting.

O'BRIEN—GILBRIDE

Miss Anna Gilbride of Alden square Bridgewater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Gilbride of Belfast, Ireland and Martin H. O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. O'Brien of Prince avenue, were married Sunday afternoon, Oct. 14 at 2 o'clock in St. Patrick's Rectory, Brockton, by Rev. Father Kenney.

Miss Anna Kelley of Somerville attended Miss Gilbride and Leslie Powers of Whitefield, N. H. was Mr. O'Brien's best man.

The bride wore white satin and a veil of tulle arranged with a cap of lace, and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Kelley wore pink taffeta with matching hat and slippers and carried a taffeta muff with sweetheart roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Toll House in Whitman. Upon their return from their honeymoon, Mr. O'Brien and his bride will make their home in Florida.

ROTARY CLUB

Three members were absent from the meeting of Oct. 18, one of whom has already made up attendance.

The club is in receipt of an invitation from the Rotary Club of Lexington to meet with that club in joint session on Monday, Nov. 26. The invitation has been unanimously accepted. This courtesy on the part of the Lexington Club enables our club to enjoy a meeting during Thanksgiving week, a pleasure which otherwise we should forego, as our meeting at home quarters regularly scheduled for Thanksgiving Day, will be omitted.

The Rotary Club of Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, celebrates its 15th anniversary in November, which event will receive greater publicity than the ordinary Rotary Club anniversary. For the Buenos Aires Club has made arrangements with the General Electric Company and The Rotary Club of Schenectady, N. Y., whereby a broadcast of the celebration excreises will be spread over the North and South American Continents. President Roosevelt of the States and President Justo of the Argentine Republic have been invited to exchange greetings on this occasion. Both of these executives are honorary members of Rotary Clubs. President Robert Hill and President Emeritus Paul Harris of Rotary International will give brief addresses and the Rotary Clubs of Buenos Aires and Schenectady are arranging programs for presentation. As a regular meeting of this club falls on Nov. 15 it is hoped that arrangements may be made so that our members and guests may listen to this unusual broadcast. All of which provides another exemplification of the world-wide influence of Rotary, an influence which we believe is doing much to promote true brotherhood among the nations.

Through the offices of Past President George Davidson, Mr. Frank T. Olmstead, ERA administrator for Winchester addressed the club at this meeting, bringing to our attention the present status of the unemployment situation as its affects Winchester. Mr. Olmstead has been generous in his efforts to keep the club informed as to this all important activity. His remarks confirm the general understanding that this problem which has been so prominently before us during these years of depression, will be a permanent feature in our municipal appropriations.

At the close of the meeting, George Davidson conducted a tour of inspection covering the improvements along the upper course of the Aberjona River as it flows through Winchester. The process of converting an unsightly morass into a beauty spot of the landscape is familiar to George. This latest undertaking will prove to be an agreeable surprise to those Winchesterites who have not followed the work of our Park Commission.

Percentage of Attendance, Oct. 11—100 per cent.

DIRECTOR FOR GROUP PLAY

Mrs. Bishop to Coach "The Swan"

Active members of the Winchester Group Theatre, meeting on Oct. 19 at the home of Theodore Godwin, will have an opportunity to meet the director chosen for their first production, Mrs. Emily Perry Bishop, a recognized director of successful plays though new to Winchester as a coach, has been selected to direct the Group Theatre's first offering, Molnar's brilliant play, "The Swan." The performance will be in the high school auditorium on Dec. 14, for sustaining members and their guests. At the meeting Mrs. Bishop will speak informally of her interpretation of the play and her ideas for its production. She will be introduced to the members by Mr. Gerald Y. Hills, chairman of the production committee, which also includes Mrs. William Gilpatric, Mrs. Robert Reynolds and Mr. Harry Goodwin.

A graduate of the Leland Powers School of the Theatre, Mrs. Bishop continued her training at the celebrated Hedwig School in Vienna. She received her early experience in the theatre with Charles Cherry in "The Dover Road," and later with the company of John Craig, well known to all Bostonians. Ten years ago she became Mr. Craig's technical director, working with him and Moroni Olsen in the play production department of the Leland Powers School. She has also been associated with this school's summer repertory company at Hyannis and was on the technical staff of the Dennis Players.

Mrs. Bishop is now director and co-owner of the Berkshire Theatre Workshop at Malden Bridge, New York and of the Bishop-Lees School in Boston.

REPUBLICAN RALLY

The Winchester Republican Town Committee is arranging for a monster rally to be held in the Town Hall Thursday evening, Nov. 1.

The Honorable Gaspar G. Bacon, candidate for Governor; John W. Haigis, candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Oscar U. Dionne, candidate for State Treasurer, will head a long list of prominent Republicans who will address the voters of Winchester on that evening.

According to plans of the committee, this rally will far exceed any rally heretofore held in this vicinity. Final plans will be announced by the committee in next week's issue of the Star.

FIRES

The Fire Department was called at 12:14 Thursday afternoon to the residence of Mr. C. H. Young at 40 Calumet road for trouble with an oil burner.

Saturday afternoon at 5:05 the department answered a still alarm from the residence of Mr. Joseph W. Worthen at 29 Wedgemere avenue where a slight fire started behind the fireplace in the living room.

Sunday morning at 7:16, Engine 3 was sent to Arlington in response to an alarm from Arlington Box 358. The fire was in a cellar at 12 Intervale road.

Monday morning at 9:37 the Fire Department answered a call from 121 Church street where a steam valve blew off in the cellar.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

It is possible that classes for adults will be held in the following subjects: the Dramatic Arts, French, Spanish, Drawing, Painting and possibly Crafts, Hygiene, Biology and Bacteriology. If these classes are organized, the teachers will be paid from Federal funds. There will be no charge to those attending. Any adult 16 years of age or over and no longer in school, may attend such classes. Those interested should register at the office of the Superintendent of Schools in the Administration Building on Church street. o19-3t

JUNIOR HIGH PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Dr. A. Krasker, director of visual education in the Quincy Public Schools and lecturer at Harvard and Boston University, will give an illustrated lecture on "Visual Education" for the Parent-Teacher Association of the Junior High School on Tuesday evening, Oct. 30 at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

The Junior High School will be open from 7:30 until 8 to give parents an additional opportunity of visiting the class rooms and talking with the teachers.

WAYSIDE SALE

Winchester S. P. C. A. Auxiliary

On Thursday, Oct. 11 the Winchester S. P. C. A. Auxiliary held its second annual Wayside Sale at the home of Mrs. Richard S. Taylor and many friends of the work took this opportunity to express their interest and their desire to help.

The dining room was given over to the sale of home cooked food, jellies and candy and was in charge of Mrs. Colpas, Miss Winn and Miss Cummings.

In the living room, Miss Gladys Foltz, table of dolls and fancy articles, the counter of Christmas wrappings presided over by Mrs. Harold Bostwick and the household articles sold by Miss Small and Miss Emery were very attractive and well patronized.

The "den" proved to be a popular corner as it contained Mrs. Wiswall's table of gay and fascinating packages of catnip each one tied up in a manner to tempt the most fastidious pussie.

Another feature of these sales is Miss Rice's table of S. P. C. A. literature, which offers up to date information on the work of the Humane Society and affords a valuable opportunity for owners of pets to obtain useful advice about their care.

Delicious ice cream was on sale during the afternoon.

In spite of unfavorable weather, the attendance was gratifying and the proceeds very encouraging.

LECTURES BEING WELL ATTENDED

The illustrated lectures by Harvard professors on Science and Religion, given on Sunday evenings at 8 o'clock at the First Congregational parish house, are drawing large audiences. Last Sunday evening over 300 people attended the lecture despite the week-end holiday. The cooperating churches are looking for a capacity audience next Sunday when Mr. Chalmer John Roy will give an illustrated lecture on, "The Everlasting Hills."

These lectures furnish an excellent opportunity for people to become informed on the most recent discoveries in science and their relation to religion. Everyone is welcome. There is no charge for admission. A silver collection is taken to defray the expenses of the lectures.

FIRST BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE

On Sunday evening, Oct. 21 at 8 o'clock, the Young People's Society of the First Baptist Church are to conduct a "Question Box." The pastor, Rev. R. M. Rushton, will be present to answer the more difficult questions. A social hour will follow.

All young people of high school age and over are invited to attend.

MYSTERY SHIPS OF MODERN TIMES

The greatest sea mystery of the decade may be near solution if it can be proven beyond doubt that wreckage recently washed up on the coast of Australia is from the lost Kobenhavn. The sea guards well her secrets, and the world has waited for five years for news of the Danish training ship which sailed out of Montevideo in December, 1928, bound for Australia.

The Kobenhavn, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society, was a new, five-masted steel bark, the largest sailing vessel in the world, equipped with auxiliary engines and a powerful radio. On December 21, she reported all well. She was then 400 miles out, well started on her course through the South Atlantic, the lonliest waters in the world. That was the last word ever heard from her.

Crewless Kobenhavn Dodged Reef

One month later the settlers on Tristan da Cunha, an isolated rock halfway between Brazil and Good Hope, were greatly excited by the approach of a sailing vessel. She seemed to be steering aimlessly, with a light sail set, before a gale which was driving her straight for the island's jagged reefs. Just as disaster seemed inevitable she veered aside and drifted safely past, not 400 yards offshore.

There was no sign of life on board, and she was riding far down at the stern, indicating some damage. Otherwise all was in good order, and there could be no doubt of her identity. She was the lost Kobenhavn. By the next day when it was calm enough to put out in boats she had vanished forever. Whatever the fate that overtook her crew, it must have been disastrously sudden to have prevented even a wireless message. Scarcely less strange is it that her wreckage should turn up halfway around the world in Australia.

Many are the legends, songs, and stories inspired by ghostly, crewless ships, wandering on year after year, "alone on a wide, wide sea." Coleridge paints a ghastly picture of a spectre bark, sailing without wind or tide. A skeleton ship on whose deck sits a woman, Life-in-Death, dicing with her companion, Death, for the soul of the Ancient Mariner. Dice seem to be the major sport on those weird ships. The mythical Captain of the Flying Dutchman condemned to sail forever around the North Sea, without helm or steersman, is pictured as relieving the tedium by playing at dice with the devil—the stakes his own soul.

Real Unmanned Ships Stranger Than Those of Fiction

Even stranger than the ghost ships of fiction are the ships of wood and steel, ships of fate, which in modern times have sailed our seas unmanned. One of these, the Hudson's Bay steamer Baychimo, has haunted Arctic waters for the past three years. Loaded with a valuable cargo of furs she was caught in the ice off Wainwright, Alaska. Her captain and crew went ashore, resolved to wait until the spring break-up to work her free. One night a terrific storm broke her loose from her moorings and set her on her wandering course. At intervals she is reported by the captains of whalers and trading vessels. Eskimos have salvaged most of her cargo, and twice she has been boarded by parties of white men from passing ships. But always she eludes capture, drifting onward with the ice pack into northern mists.

Some 10 years ago Atlantic shipping was for months endangered by the erratic behavior of the Governor Parr, a disabled British schooner, abandoned by her crew in mid-ocean. Superstitious sailors credited her with supernatural control over storms. She carried in her hold a fortune in Canadian lumber. Twice steamers put off from Nova Scotia to tow her ashore and salvage her cargo, but each time after they had boarded her a sudden storm forced them to abandon the attempt. Months later she appeared off the Azores, where again efforts at salvage met with the same defeat. Her final fate, like that of the others, remains a mystery.

Not so the fate of the barquentine Guiding Star, whose crew were stricken with fever on a voyage from Netherlands India to Hobart, Tasmania. A bad storm struck her, and with men too ill to handle the sails, they were soon blown away. A Dutch steamer finally sighted her, rescued the three surviving members of the crew, and left the ship adrift. Years later an old mariner, once master of the Guiding Star, saw a strangely familiar ship at anchor in Batavia. She was painted black, new houses on her deck, and a Javanese crew on board, but there was no mistaking the sturdy lines of the little Guiding Star.

Perhaps the most famous mystery of all, a puzzle that has defied solution for over 60 years, is the question of what happened one day in Dec. 1872, on board the Mary Celeste. Countless ingenious theories have been advanced. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle fashioned from his explanation a romantic novel, but no one will ever know the true story. On Nov. 7, 1872 the brig Mary Celeste put out of New York Harbor for Genoa, her hold filled with barrels of alcohol. On board was the captain, Benjamin S. Briggs, his wife, their small daughter, and a crew of seven men.

Obviously the Mary Celeste had been abandoned in great haste—but why? Possibly those aboard feared an explosion in her hold, put off hurriedly with no provisions, then awaited a disaster which failed to occur. Too late they may have tried to overtake her, only to find her sailing steadily farther out of reach.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

The newly elected officers of the Auxiliary to Post 97, American Legion, will be installed at the Post Headquarters on Washington street Monday evening, Oct. 22, by Susan T. Esler of Wilmington, Middlesex County President of the Auxiliary, assisted by Ann Clark of Hudson, County Sergeant-at-Arms.

Officers will be installed as follows:

President Anne M. Hanlon
Senior Vice President Josephine Meskell
Junior Vice President Elizabeth Moynihan
Secretary Blanche Bennett
Treasurer Bessie Pierce
Sergeant-at-Arms Mary DeMorris
Historian Elizabeth Mitchell
Executive Committee Mary B. Fitzgerald, Nora O'Melia, Clara Mullen.

The Auxiliary is sponsoring a whist party on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 20, in the Legion Headquarters on Washington street with Mrs. Nora O'Melia and Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell in charge of arrangements.

Elizabeth Fitzgerald, one of the Auxiliary's most popular members, left Boston last night on the S.S. Evangeline, bound for Miami and the Legion convention. She was agreeably surprised and pleasantly reminded of her friends in Winchester when she entered her stateroom to find awaiting her a beautiful bouquet of roses and a telegram of best wishes from the Auxiliary members.

Martha Tibbetts of Sheffield road is a member of the company of "Say When," the musical featuring Harry Richman which opens at the Schubert Theatre in Boston, Monday evening, Oct. 22. Miss Tibbetts appeared in Boston two seasons ago with Berlin's "Face the Music" and last season with George Gershwin's "Let 'Em Eat Cake." She was also in the movie "Frankie and Johnny" which was released last summer. Miss Tibbetts will stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Tibbetts of 4 Sheffield road during the Boston run, returning to New York for the show's Broadway premiere Nov. 5.

RILEY AND GILPATRIC WON DOUBLES TITLE

"Jim" Riley and "Billy" Gilpatric defeated Hall Gamage and "Bill" Morton in a hard fought match, 5—7, 4—6, 6—4, 6—1, 6—2, for the Benedict Cup and doubles championship of the annual fall tennis tournament on the Palmer street courts last Sunday morning.

As the scores would indicate, the match was closely contested, especially during the first three sets. The veteran Riley and his youthful partner started well and had a 4—1 lead in the first set when Gamage and Morton pulled themselves together and began to make their strokes go. After dropping the match they ran out the next two games, taking the set, after which Riley and Gilpatric saw their own game sag badly. "Billy's" serve and ground strokes went haywire while Riley's usually effective overhead game suddenly became unmanageable.

Gamage and Morton, stroking steadily, ran out the second set, but in the third the Riley-Gilpatric team commenced to find themselves, taking a well played set at 6—4. From then on there was no doubt of the outcome. The veteran Riley was very much back on his game, serving effectively and volleying well while getting excellent support from his Harvard frosh partner.

Gamage and Morton failed as their opponents' game improved and took only three games in the last two sets.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

The School Committee announce that the Federal Emergency Relief Administration has made a grant of funds to Massachusetts for the purpose of continuing the Emergency Educational Program. Winchester, of course, will receive its allotment if an Emergency Educational Program is approved.

The granting of Federal funds makes possible teaching positions for teachers out of employment, and for others not normally considered teachers who are competent to instruct in some subject, skill, or activity for which there is a demand, and who are in financial need. Thus, for example, a person competent to teach French, and who is in financial need, would be eligible, provided there was a demand for an adult class in French. A person, on the other hand, who may never have taught in school, or who has never been trained especially to teach, but who is competent to impart his knowledge or skill to others interested, is likewise eligible. This person, also, must be in financial need. The subjects, activities, or skills, which may be taught are therefore quite varied.

Persons in financial need, and who believe they are competent to teach some subject or skill, even though they have neither taught nor been trained to teach, may apply at the office of the Superintendent of Schools, Administration Building, Church street. The superintendent will be very willing to confer at once with anyone who might be interested.

MILK MEN AGREE TO LATER DELIVERY

Hearing to Abate Noise Results in "Gentlemen's Agreement"

The Board of Selectmen and the Board of Health held a public meeting in the Selectmen's room at the Town Hall Monday evening to consider the "noise nuisance" in connection with the delivery of milk in Winchester, these boards having been appointed at the March town meeting to act in the matter.

Representatives of milk companies delivering milk in Winchester were present at the hearing which was presided over by Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell, chairman of the Board of Health.

Chairman Henry J. Maguire of the Selectmen reminded the hearing that the Selectmen consider the noise nuisance in connection with milk deliveries a serious matter and felt that Winchester had attended to many worth while things it is entirely fitting that the town should pioneer in the matter of preserving rest at night. Mr. Maguire believed it unwise to burden the town with specific by-laws in the matter of milk deliveries and thought the matter could be satisfactorily handled through a gentleman's agreement among the dealers.

Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside, former Selectman Joseph W. Worthen and former Chairman of the School Committee, Robert M. Stone, were citizens of the town who protested against the noise attendant upon milk deliveries in their neighborhoods, Mrs. Woodside reading many opinions of civic leaders concerning the bad effect of unnecessary noise.

The milk dealers frankly stated that competition was largely responsible for night deliveries while it was pointed out that there would be risk of spoiled milk if delivery was made during the heat of the day in summer.

H. H. Whitcomb of Whitcomb's Milk, Edward Sheehan of Hood's, Edward Dix of Whiting's, E. O. Noble of Noble's and the independent dealers, Richard Bates, Daniel Doherty, Fred Schneider, Thomas Fallon and Charles F. Boyd were heard for the milkmen. After some discussion it was agreed among the dealers not to deliver milk in Winchester before 6 o'clock in the morning.

COAKLEY—MAWN

The marriage of Miss Margaret M. Mawn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Mawn of Shepard court and Joseph F. Coakley, son of Mrs. Mary E. Coakley of Montvale avenue, Woburn, took place last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock before a large gathering of relatives and friends in the Immaculate Conception Church with the pastor, Rev. James Fitzsimons, officiating.

Miss Mawn was attended by her sister, Miss Gertrude Madeline Mawn and Cornelius Coakley of Woburn was his brother's best man.

The bride wore a gown of bisque transparent velvet made with a train and having a cowl neck and monk's sleeves. Her veil of rose point lace was held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms and seed pearls and she carried an ivory prayer book with valley lilies instead of the conventional bouquet. Her attendant wore transparent velvet with matching hat and slippers and carried talisman roses.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. James Mawn of Oak street. Upon their return from a honeymoon in New Hampshire and Vermont, Mr. Coakley and his bride are to live at 45 Arlington road in Woburn.

The bride was graduated from St. Mary's High School and is a member of St. Mary's Alumnae, also appearing often as soloist at St. Mary's Church. Mr. Coakley is a graduate of Woburn High and the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance in Boston where he is associated with the Texas Oil Company.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

With few exceptions prices of foods have varied little in the past week. Such bargains as are to be found are in vegetables, including cabbage, cauliflower, celery, onions and potatoes. Most other vegetables are very moderate in price though spinach is high for good quality.

Refrigerated eggs are an excellent value now that fresh eggs are in the fifty cent class. Lamb and beef are still good meat values and pork is only slightly higher.

Apples, grapes and pears are still the outstanding fruits, though grapefruit is gradually assuming greater importance. Canned and dried fruits are arriving, but are somewhat higher than they were last year.

THE "CENTRAL BANK" QUESTION

By H. Parker Willis, Ph.D., Formerly Secretary, Federal Reserve Board

Of recent months, there has sprung up a widespread agitation for what is called a "central bank." This central bank, states H. Parker Willis in a special article appearing in this weeks Market Index of the Winchester Institute of Finance, as now contemplated, is not a central bank of the familiar variety, but is to be a governmentally owned and politically controlled central bank operated by the Treasury Department. The Treasury has already extensive central banking powers, conferred by the gold devaluation act of Jan. 30, 1934; and the Federal Reserve Banks have been ready to do almost anything they were asked in the way of furtherance of governmental financial plans. Yet three bills for a central bank have been introduced in congress; and an official measure is being prepared in the Treasury, with a "report" on the entire subject.

Purpose Freely Admitted

The purpose of this central bank plan, as freely admitted today, in political and governmental quarters, is (1) that of freeing the Treasury from further dependence upon the banking system for loans designed to meet government requirements, and (2) that of permitting more direct participation on the part of the government in loans to individual borrowers.

Differs From European

There are many European central banks that perform this latter function of individual lending under limited conditions, but none that undertake the task in the ways that are now proposed by the government officers of the United States. Neither is there any bank which devotes itself to the direct marking up of credits for the government Treasury, upon its books, without the aid of the investing public. To do so would, of course, be equivalent to the issue of paper money.

A Complete Overturn

Without attempting a criticism of this plan, the statement may be made with assurance and confidence that the result of the project would be a complete overturning of the present business and private ownership system of the United States.

Without this banking change there would always be some element of social control over the wilder projects; with it in operation, such control would disappear.

Perhaps there has never been a time when there was call for more careful thought and courage and persistence of posture among the members of our banking community.

McCORMACK—ROURKE

Mrs. Francis Higgins of this town was matron of honor at the marriage of her sister, Miss Kathleen C. Rourke of Boston, to Patrick F. McCormack of Haverhill, which took place in St. Joseph's Church, Boston, on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 10 at 4 o'clock with Rev. Fr. Powers officiating. John McCormack, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

Miss Rourke was gowned in platinum white satin with a long tulle veil made with a cap of Brussells lace and orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Mrs. Higgins wore carioca rust velvet with matching hat and slippers and carried talisman roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Higgins in Winchester, where a catered wedding supper was served to more than 60 guests.

After an extended wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. McCormack will reside at 48 Temple street, Beacon Hill.

THE WINCHESTER HIGH TOPPED LEXINGTON

All 19 Points Scored in Final Quarter

Winchester High, defending Middlesex League champion, scored three touchdowns and a goal in the final quarter of its holiday afternoon game with Lexington on Manchester Field, to set back the Minutemen, 19 to 0, and chalk up a win in the first league engagement of 1934. A good sized crowd witnessed the contest and saw a much improved local eleven put on its best offensive exhibition of the year as well as playing strongly on defense. That last period scoring spree was just about the most sustained and spectacular offensive drive a Winchester Club has shown for years.

A word of praise should be given the local cheering section, and the white clad cheer leaders who have been working out under Dana Cotton of the high school faculty handled their assignments well. Lexington had a quartet of attractive girl cheer leaders but no section to work in front of.

The visitors brought to Winchester an aggregation of players even larger than usual, a team that dwarfed the locals by comparison, both on the line and in the backfield. Scaling down from Yauchoes' 6 feet 4½ inches and 236 pounds to mere six footers, Lexington was big enough to compete on pretty much even terms with many college teams. For three periods Winchester pounded away at these giants, and finally in the last quarter found them sufficiently exhausted from their own and the locals' efforts to permit the Winchester offense to click. When the opportunity presented itself Coach Mansfield's boys struck with a speed and precision that delighted their supporters.

For the benefit of the Lexington players it should be said that an almost complete shift in the blue and gold lineup made it difficult for the visitors to give their best. Big Yauchoes, a tackle, was stationed at fullback, while Bierenbroodspot, Webster and Tyler shifted about so much on the line it was hard to keep track of them despite their stature. Lexington had nothing to offer offensively, except a thundering lunge into the line by Yauchoes which early in the game before the big boy became tired was ordinarily good for five or six yards. Yauchoes also did the kicking and without effort sending a goal 15 yards back, booted several high ones nearly 50 yards in the air.

Close followers of Winchester's club were especially pleased with the improvement shown in the center of the line and the all around blocking and tackling. Scully, starting his first major game, played well upon defense and showed flashes of offensive power while Cimina and Murraco, hitherto considered subs, showed plenty to worry the boys who have been getting the starting assignments. Murraco shared scoring honors with the veteran Provinzano who tallied the first touchdown and set the stage for the local offense with a nicely placed punt soon after the opening of the final quarter. "Dave" Grosvenor called his plays very well in the driving seat and "Slicker" Coss' conversion of the third touchdown was a pretty placement.

Winchester was without the services of Co-Captain "Gerry" Gaffney, nursing a bad ankle on the sidelines, but the other half of the firm, "Steamer" Hanlon, played a whale of a game, blocking viciously and tackling hard, intercepting passes and generally raising hob with Lexington's attempts to get going.

On the rushline "Ewie" Bairstow played a great all around end and "Joe" Josephson and "Andy" Millyan were only a stride behind in all around class. The latter's catch of a bullet pass from Provinzano in the third quarter was a corking individual effort.

During the first half Lexington had the offensive edge, but first a 50-yard punt by Provinzano, from Winchester's 50 to the Lexington 20, and later a corking quick kick by Hanlon from his own 47 to the visitors' 15 held the blue and gold in check.

Lexington made four first downs to one for the locals before intermission and started well after the rest. Midway through the third quarter Hanlon tried a quick kick which was partially blocked and went to Lexington on Winchester's 39. Here three times in succession Scully dropped Lexington carriers for losses and this coupled with a 15 yard penalty for holding forced Yauchoes to punt to Cimina who fumbled but recovered at his 31.

Tall Tyler stopped Provinzano at the line, but "Frankie" faded back and shot off a sizzling pass down the alley to Millyan who was dropped at the Lexington 45. Big Bierenbroodspot stopped a couple of plugs at the line, a Provinzano pass to Bairstow got only four yards and "Frankie" got off a pretty kick that was downed a few short yards from the Lexington goal line.

Eight men were through on Yauchoes but the big boy, standing in his end zone, got his kick off short to Winchester's 25, Provinzano getting back to the 15. A thrust into the line netted only a yard, but on the next rush, Provinzano spun and dashed around his own right end toward the Lexington goal. Olson and Millyan did some nice blocking, and "Steamer" Hanlon literally took out three Lexington men in one fell swoop as "Frankie" outlegged the Lexington safety man to the goal line corner.

Provinzano's try for goal at placement was inches wide, but shortly after the kickoff the locals had another chance when Hanlon intercepted a Lexington pass at the visitors' 32. Provinzano ran to within a foot of first down at right end, and on the next play Murraco shot into a hole inside his left tackle, cut back like lightning and raced 20 yards for a touchdown to the right corner of the field.

Provinzano again kicked wide of the goal, but Winchester hadn't stopped and after the kickoff Bairstow broke through to recover a high fumbled pass from center at Lexington's eight-yard line. Three linebucks by Provinzano failed to go, but on fourth down Grosvenor faded nicely and shot off a pass out to the left to Muraco, waiting all alone. "Rugged" gallopped over and "Slicker" Coss was sent in to try for goal by placement, prettily kicking the extra point.

The entire Heebie Jeebies' team was facing Lexington at this point, and more than holding their own with the discouraged Minutemen.

FORMER STONEHAM PASTOR TO ATTEND STONEHAM OLD PEOPLE'S DAY

Rev. and Mrs. D. Augustine Newton of Westboro, will be present at the 55th annual observance of Old People's Day at the First Congregational Church, Stoneham, next Sunday, Oct. 21 at the morning service, 10:30 o'clock.

Rev. Newton spent his entire ministry in Stoneham, Winchester and Reading. From 1885 to 1889 he was pastor of the First Congregational Church in Stoneham. In 1889 he went to Winchester, where he was pastor of the Congregational Church there for a number of years. From Winchester he went to Reading Congregational Church.

He was a much beloved pastor and man in each community. He was 79 years of age on Oct. 1 of this year.

Winchester and Reading residents who are interested or who knew Mr. Newton are cordially invited to attend the service and meet Mr. and Mrs. Newton at the close of the service.

Old People's Day at the First Congregational Church in Stoneham honors all people of the town 80 years of age and over. It has become one of the most popular services of the year in that church.

ENTERTAINED AT LUNCHEON BRIDGE

Mrs. Charles C. Clarke of Mt. Vernon street entertained on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Frances Mayo, whose marriage to Mr. John Parker of Fairhaven takes place on Saturday, Oct. 20. Guests at the luncheon-bridge included Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr., Mrs. Stephen Neiley, Mrs. Irving Jennings, Mrs. Clinton Mason, Mrs. William Buracker and Miss Laura Kimball of Gloucester.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns of Rangely spent a few days last week in New York.

KINGMAN P. CASS
Retiring Commander Winchester Post, 97, A. L.

COMMANDER'S ANNUAL REPORT WINCHESTER POST 97, A. L.

Comrades of Winchester Post, No. 97, American Legion:

It is customary at our annual meeting to review the events of the year. To me this is a happy task, because Winchester Post has continued to heartily support its Commander, and I feel that progress has resulted.

You began the year with a largely attended Armistice eve dance in the Town Hall, which was effectively decorated for the occasion with the flags of our country and the allies, proceeds going to the Post fund for family welfare. On the holiday, in spite of icy breezes, 75 men, including the band, participated in the State parade at Woburn, certainly a compliment to Department Commander Doherty and our Woburn neighbors. There was a fitting ceremony in the morning at the Winchester war memorial, and a fine home-cooked dinner at Legion House in the evening, followed by the usual monthly business session.

In December you volunteered to supervise community basketball for about 250 young men and boys two afternoons and evenings a week in the Town Hall, acting for the Town Recreational Committee. Unemployment and town funds furnished coaches and equipment, and the Legion raised money for team suits and prizes. A gift from the Fortnightly was very generously turned over to a committee of women to provide basketball supervision for the girls.

You joined with the Auxiliary to give a Christmas party to 65 needy children of veterans, donating food, toys, clothing and making the occasion merry with Santa Claus himself. The Legion Boy Scout troop was continued. Ushers were provided for the N. R. A. and Better Homes rallies. Volunteers solicited for Town unemployment funds. Members' tournaments were started in cards, ping-pong and bowling for the winter months.

In February, after long weeks of rehearsing, the Fourth Annual Play "Hawk Island" was successfully presented in the High School Auditorium. As invited guests, you entertained two groups of disabled veterans from Bedford Hospital. About this time the Post established a Membership Fund, which has enabled several loyal members to continue with us during temporary financial troubles.

Lyceum Hall was packed in March for Fathers' and Sons' night, with our Boy Scouts also as guests. Chief Reeves of the Swampscott Police delighted all with wrestling and jiu jitsu. Later there was a Parents' Night and entertainment given at the Legion House by the Boy Scouts themselves.

In April the Post entertained Arlington, Woburn and Somerville Legionnaires at a district meeting in White's Hall. Many also journeyed at other times to Ashland, Framingham and Medford to county meetings. Sunday, May 6, found many of the Post at Bedford Hospital, where our talented band gave a concert on the ball field and at county council supper. Three thousand cigarettes and a quantity of candy, all freely donated, were distributed among unfortunate comrades.

Memorial Day observance included attendance at the Congregational Church, at the Grange and the annual Post May reunion banquet. Our parade was honored by two G. A. R. veterans, Spanish War veterans, Disabled veterans from Bedford, Lawrence Light Guards and the Boy Scouts. Wreaths and flags were placed throughout the Winchester and adjoining cemeteries.

Our Italian members prepared a well-received supper at the June meeting and in July we took charge of the 4th of July celebration including children's swimming meet, ball game and evening concert. In August we sent our band and many members to the Brockton Convention. A fishing trip was held jointly with Scituate Post. We later went to Wilmington and helped them to dedicate a new Post building.

We have been favored during the year with an excellent program of speakers, including General Needham, State Commissioner of Public Safety; Professor Simpson, Chairman of the State Commission for Investigation of Crime; Captain Robert Ginsburg, former aide to Secretary of War Hurley and officer in charge of the Gold Star Mothers' expedition to France; and Messrs. Ernest Chase, George Davidson and Dunbar Carpenter from our Winchester citizens.

On several occasions, military guards and buglers have represented the Post at veterans' funerals, some of whom had no relatives within reach, and one veteran was brought to our own Legion Home, when none other was available. Repairs have been made to the house and the Town has made it possible to repaint the exterior, adding greatly to the attractiveness of our headquarters.

Thank you again for your friendly co-operation, and good luck to the new Commander and all the Post for 1934-35.

Kingman P. Cass,
Retiring Commander

SAN FRANCISCO TALKS TO HAWAII OVER TELEVISION TUBE

Radio history was written on the Pacific Coast recently when San Francisco talked to Hawaii and ships at sea over a Farnsworth "cold-cathode" television tube, operated for the first time as an oscillator.

The conversation, effected in Continental code from a local station, officially inaugurated a new system of wireless communication.

The demonstration was conducted at the South San Francisco laboratories of Heintz & Kaufman, Ltd., television licensees, on Tanforan avenue. The new tube, originally designed as a televisor, is now applicable to commercial communication work.

The demonstration was conducted in the presence of scientists, radio engineers, newspaper men, wire service representatives and university experts. Present at the demonstration were J. B. McCargar, president of Television Laboratories; Donald Lippincott, director of the same company; Herbert E. Metcalf, patent attorney associated with the television group, and a group of guests.

A score of Dollar Line ships in all parts of the world kept an all-night watch for the new signals from the South San Francisco station. Immediately after the tests began Hawaii reported reception there with loud speaker volume, and on the heels of this came reports from the ships of the listening brigade that the signals were being received by them all over the world. The demonstration was regarded by radio engineers as an amazing and outstanding success.

The tube used was a special type television tube invented by Philo T. Farnsworth, San Francisco inventor of Television Laboratories, Inc., which is without filament or grid and operates "cold" or without heat. Before the astonished gaze of onlookers electrons were started in motion in the tube, which resembles a fruit jar. The moving electrons, coasting freely in the tube, were bounced and rebounced back and forth, each time multiplying or breaking up into additional streams of electrons.

This multiplying action of the tube furnished the "oscillations," which piped onto the antenna through conventional circuits set up the well-known radio pulsations that carry the words of the voice, or the broken chatter of the radio key, into the far places of the world. The received impulses are high-pitched, flute-like in quality and resemble a crystal-controlled transmitter both in quality and frequency stability.

"Pure d. c., crystal control," opperators across the Pacific reported to the Heintz & Kaufman station.

The tube used in the recent demonstration had an output rated at 500 watts when piped through the conventional amplifier circuits. The circuit used was simplicity itself—the tube, the amplifier, the necessary tuning inductances and capacities providing the well-known LC elements — and the power supply. The tubes may be constructed to enormous size capable of handling power rated in kilowatts, according to radio engineers.

The amazing part of the whole affair was that Farnsworth had no idea when he developed the tube several years ago that it would be of value in the commercial radio communication field. He was seeking a device that would replace the coarse and inefficient scanning disks of early television systems. In his hunt for a cold cathode televisor he brought forth a device that not only brings world happenings to a ground glass observation screen as clearly as a movie, but one that multiplies its own impulses to an astonishing degree, and can be substituted in radio transmitters for the handling of high power as well.

The potentialities of the new tube in the communication field have not been tapped. But sufficient work has been done by the Heintz & Kaufman interests to assure engineers of the practical application of the Farnsworth tube to telegraph work in the communication field.

The Heintz & Kaufman concern are affiliates of the Dollar Steamship group and manufacture all of the apparatus now used by Globe Wireless, Inc., whose San Francisco station is at Muscle Rock. They have been licensed by Television Laboratories, Inc., to manufacture transmitting equipment using the new Farnsworth tube.

Farnsworth and a corps of experts recently sailed for Europe to give a special demonstration before a special committee of Members of Parliament in England and later to go to Germany for a similar demonstration at the request of both governments.

The English Government in particular are about to remodel their radio broadcasting system and desired to know at first hand the possibilities of this new Farnsworth "cold cathode" tube.

Mr. Russell G. Pond, a former Winchester boy, has been associated with the Farnsworth Television Laboratories for some time and writes that the inventions of Farnsworth are the outstanding ones of recent years and they will revolutionize radio activities.

The new cold tube has practically 65 per cent efficiency as against the DeForest hot tube now in use which has only about 5 per cent efficiency. Farnsworth is under 30 years old, a native of Utah, and became interested in Television and Radio during his high school years.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Scout Exposition

Scoutmasters are urged to spend some time now in thinking about the annual exposition and show of the Fellsland Council, Boy Scouts of America. Troops should be planning on demonstrations and booths, which we expect will be in the same form as for the past two years. Although definite plans have not as yet been completed, and the date not yet settled, it is expected that the exposition will be held during the last week in November, prior to Thanksgiving. Bulletins will be sent to Scoutmasters and Troop Committeemen just as soon as complete information is available.

Troop News Articles

Now that the troops throughout the Council have commenced their fall meetings, it is about time for each troop in Winchester to send a weekly article on troop news and events. This should be sent to the Scout Headquarters, 32 Church street, by 5 p. m. Tuesday of each week, so that Miss Campbell may prepare it for this column. This is the only way by which the public may keep well informed of the activities of Scouting, and I am sure that you will agree with us, that this must be done. Furnishing the Scout Headquarters with weekly Scout news is the work of each troop scribe. Let us have 100 per cent on this from now on.

Radio Program for Boys

Announcement has been made recently of a new radio show for boys and girls, to have started on Oct. 1, and continuing every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, over the Columbia network. This program is made available through the editorial supervision of Boys' Life, through its authors. The stories will be new ones, built around characters that have already proved popular among Boy Scouts. The first story in this series is "Og, Son of Fire," written by Irving Crump, one of Boys' Life's best loved authors. This story will be followed by many others which will be long remembered.

Although the episodes will be unusually exciting and packed with interest for boys and girls, they will avoid the harrowing effects that have brought many juvenile programs into disfavor with parents.

The sponsors of the program, Libby, McNeill & Libby, has been lending support to the Boy Scout movement for several years.

Scoutmasters may well recommend this program to their Scouts, as well as to all young girls and boys. Remember the time, 5 p. m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon, over the Columbia network.

Troop 1

Meeting of Oct. 15:

The troop following its usual custom, has started a new inter-patrol contest the present standings being as follows:

Beaver Patrol first with 18 points.
Silver Fox Patrol 2nd with 17 points
Panther Patrol, 3rd with 15 points
Stag Patrol, 4th with 13 points.

The troop had at this time two other contests going on: first, to determine the patrol who could mount leaves best. The Silver Fox Patrol won this contest with a fine display. Second, a contest to determine the patrol that knew the points of the compass best. The Beaver Patrol won with a perfect score.

Semaphore code signal drill was then held. The meeting was closed, as usual with the repetition of the Scout oath and laws.

RETIRED WINCHESTER P. O. CLERK CONGRATULATED

Mr. Charles J. Harrold, who recently retired from his position as clerk at the Winchester Post Office has received the following letter from the Post Office Department in Washington:

Office of the Postmaster General
Washington, D. C.
Oct. 5, 1934

Mr. Charles J. Harrold,
74 Nelson Street
Winchester, Mass.

My dear Mr. Harrold:

Your long and creditable record in the Postal Service has been brought to my attention.

You were appointed in 1897, and have served 37 years and four months, closing your career as a clerk in the Winchester Post Office. You have the consciousness of having performed your duties to the entire satisfaction of your Government.

I congratulate you upon your loyal and efficient service and cannot forgo the opportunity to express my personal wish for your happiness and contentment.

Very truly yours,
James N. Farley,
Postmaster General

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"The Count of Monte Cristo," read and enjoyed by millions, now on the screen with Elissa Landi and Robert Donat as the stars, will open a seven day run at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. Robert Donat, handsome young English star, is cast as Edmond Dantes, with Elissa Landi as Mercedes. Other well known players are Sidney Blackmer, O. P. Heggie, Louis Calhern, Irene Hervey and Juliette Compton. "The Count of Monte Cristo" is the story of Edmond Dantes, young Frenchman, who is torn from his sweetheart's arms and unjustly imprisoned and left to rot in the grim Chateau d'If. When Dantes has given up all hope of ever seeing daylight again, he is visited by the sage, old Friar Faria, who tunnels into his cell while trying to escape. The old man tells him of a treasure buried on the Island of Monte Cristo, and educates him so that when he finally escapes he will face the world a super-man. Later Dantes escapes by substituting himself in the burial sack of a dead man. He locates the treasure and returns to Paris a fabulously wealthy man, to visit a slow and sweet revenge on the three men responsible for his false imprisonment.

"The Man With Two Faces" with Edmund G. Robinson, Mary Astor, Ricardo Cortez and Mae Clarke as the featured players, will be the second attraction on the bill starting Saturday. This new Edward G. Robinson picture is a mystery thriller but with a comedy twist. Mary Astor is cast as the sister of Robinson with both working in a threatrical troupe. Miss Astor's husband has the power to keep his wife under hypnotic control, destroying her happiness and disturbing to the whole troupe. Then Robinson kills the husband and the spectator enjoys watching him fool the police.

ANNIVERSARY WEEK AT THE UNIVERSITY

Another year has passed and the University Theatre now celebrates its eighth anniversary. In the past years the management has endeavored at all times to present the best in motion picture entertainment for the residents of Cambridge and the surrounding towns. It will extend every effort in the future to not only continue this policy but wherever possible surpass its previous achievements. In inaugurating the 1934-35 season it presents for your entertainment "the finest show in town" for the entire week starting Sunday.

"One Night of Love" with Grace Moore, Tullio Carminati, Lyle Talbot and Mona Barrie, is the most glorious musical romance of all time. In this picture, Miss Moore is a poor girl with a marvelous voice who goes to Italy to study under a maestro, Tullio Carminati. They agree there will be no foolishness about love—so of course there is, plenty of delightful foolishness about love. The climax of this film is one of captivating beauty and musical charm. Miss Moore sings "Habanera" from "Carmen" and two arias from "Madame Butterfly." "One Night of Love" is a beautiful, romantic and masterfully produced picture and we advise all our patrons to see it.

"British Agent," the companion feature, co-stars Leslie Howard and Kay Francis. Inspired by the best selling novel of the internationally famous author, R. H. Bruce Lockhart, the drama is the stark, realistic story of the writer's own experiences in Petrograd during the Russian Revolution. Leslie Howard plays the part of the author himself while Kay Francis, a beautiful and aristocratic Russian lady dedicated to the Red cause, is his beloved.

MALDEN MYSTIC THEATER

"Doctor Monica," with Kay Francis, Warren William, Jean Muir and Veree Teasdale as the stars, will head the double feature bill opening at the Mystic Theater in Malden on Saturday. In this film Kay Francis is cast as a woman physician who is married to Warren William. The husband is an author and he drifts into an affair with a society girl friend of the family played by Jean Muir. The wife is unaware of this affair and remains a fast friend to Miss Muir. Later, both the girl and the husband decide they have acted unwisely and decide to give each other up. Miss Muir is still in love with the husband and starts on a round of social gayety to forget. Kay Francis decides to divorce her husband so he can be free to marry the girl. But in one of the most dramatic of climaxes the girl solves the problem for herself.

"Their Big Moment" with Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville, Kay Johnson and Bruce Cabot as the featured players, will be the second attraction on the bill starting Saturday. "Their Big Moment" is a comedy gem with the popular comedy team of Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville cast as members of a vaudeville troupe hired to perform a fake seance in the home of a wealthy woman. When the regular clairvoyant of the troupe quits her job, Zasu Pitts steps into the breach and fills the role in a most surprising fashion.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

A certain father here in fair Winchester expresses alarm because his daughter is out nights with "those awful modern boys." Maybe the father recalls his own youth.

At the end of each day how many Winchesterites are able to say, "Just another day absolutely wasted away?"

One Winchester married fellow thinks the female of the species is a natural musician as far as harping about something or nothing in particular is concerned.

According to the philosophers there is a black sheep in every family. That is pretty tough upon the family with an only child.

Will smoking cork tipped cigarettes make a young woman light headed?

There is no room in Winchester for misers but there certainly is plenty of room for econo-mizers.

Believe it or not, chemically speaking, each inhabitant of Winchester is worth just $1.98 in the chemicals contained in the human body.

When a fair Winchester miss goes to answer the door bell she generally slips on something and hurries to the door. Recently a miss slipped on a rug and was a little late in getting to the door.

If there are any dumb bells living in Winchester none can be so downright dumb as the fellow in Pennsylvania who lost a finger in a buzz saw and turned right around and lost another one showing a friend how he lost the first digit.

How soon will it be before Winchester has a police woman or a woman as a member of Chief Rogers' detective force? Anyway, it is very doubtful if such a woman would like to be called a "plain clothes officer" on the detective force.

A good loser has been defined as a rotten sport who kills your joy by pretending he didn't care enough to try very hard. But nothing of that kind ever annoys a winner—he don't believe it.

Ownership of an old buggy had its advantages. Ownership didn't make a fellow too proud to wash it himself.

Do they still scratch plaster on the plaster of our Winchester homes?

Poverty keeps a good many of us on the straight and narrow path.

There are mistakes that would be a mistake for a Winchesterite not to make.

We know at least one follow's so-called happy home which is happy only when he isn't there.

Once upon a time a woman here in Winchester made a fool of a man—and he never got over it.

Some people you meet on the streets of fair Winchester act as if they thought they were responsible for the weather.

MY PHYSICIAN

By E. B. Becker, M.D.

To him I am indebted, more than I can repay,
For he's a friend when others just seem to fade away;
Regardless of the hour, when I am ill at ease
He's anxious to assure me, and willing too to please.

With real unselfish vision he penetrates the deep,
And skilfully unravels the cause that seems to keep
My body charged with anguish, and agonizing pain,
Which robs me of all chances to be myself again.

With patience most uncanny, he brings me back to where Life has a brighter outlook, then keeps me anchored there
Most freely he dispenses the best there is to give
And with co-operation he aims to have me live.

Why should I then not label him as my sincerest friend
Since he is but the fellow, on whom I can depend;
Before I even landed secure upon the earth
He made it his one duty to chaperone my birth.

I'm confident He'll 'tend until my final breath
Transfers me to that haven, where there shall be no death.
Here too, I'll hope to greet this doctor friend of mine
Beside the Great Physician, as saint almost devine

MEETING OF LADIES FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The first meeting of the season of the Ladies' Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church of Winchester was held at that church Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 9.

Mrs. Arthur Kelly and her committee served an unusual and delectable luncheon at 1 o'clock, preceding the afternoon meeting.

The Society heard reports of the various committees as well as an interesting account of a week spent at the Shoals by Mrs. F. C. Pitman, and of the May conferences by Mrs. Hollis Nickerson.

Two of the committee reports which were much appreciated were those of Mrs. Herbert Arrowsmith on Religious Education and Intelligence, and the report by Mrs. Arthur Robbins on the program plans of the Social Service group. Mrs. Arrowsmith brought a number of publications, books and pamphlets, to point her report and illustrate a method of furthering, either singly or in groups, a keener appreciation and practical use of our spiritual worth to the community in which we live. Mrs. Robbins told of the committee's aims to help the work of a well developed service to diabetic children, and shared her time, we felt with great significance, with Mr. Francis Russell of Arlington who spoke on the "Referendum Relative to the League of Nations," which will appear on the November ballot.

Mr. Russell spoke for 10 minutes, concisely and vividly, explaining that the referendum simply asks us if we are willing for our government to define the type of League of Nations it would be willing to join. Mr. Russell felt that an affirmative vote on this coming referendum would be one small forward step toward the stabilized peace we all long for.

After the business meeting there was a short musical program of three selections for violin played beautifully by Mrs. Lawrence M. Sibley with her accompanist, Mrs. Leon Sargent.

Everyone then adjourned to the parlors upstairs where there was an informal reception to new members.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

A good woman whose first interest is her home deplores the passing of the old time woman who was skilled in the arts of the kitchen. She is possessed of means and well able to hire her kitchen work done but prefers to do it herself as it is her viewpoint that such work is indispensable to quietude and happiness. Her good sense also teaches her to despise the notion that kitchen work degrades a woman. That woman is degraded who cannot perform kitchen tasks, who cannot cook a good meal. It is hard to imagine that such duties are inconsistent with high intellectual attainment and usefulness; the lives of such famed women as the wife of President Roosevelt who was able to prepare her husband's dinner with her own hands, and outside the home attract the admiration of the country's greatest thinkers by her learned and brilliant wit. Mrs. Mary Dwight, daughter of Jonathan Edward who, while she performed her household duties with industry and propriety, also by her great mental vigor, awakened the souls of her children to a love of letters and virtue with a success which made her worthy to be the mother of such a son as Timothy Dwight. No, devotion to household duties is not at variance with the cultivation of refined and liberal learning though a lot of women may seem to think so.

God give us women skilled in the labor of the household! God give us women of courageous spirit, who will be decided in their adhesion to the voices of duty! Such women will be fitted to confront, with a consciousness of strength to overcome them, the most trying ordeals of life. Resting on these qualities, wives and daughters will feel strong, their hearts will be bold, they will not sink, with a crushed and broken spirit, under the pressure of every little difficulty cropping up in the course of the day. But erect and mighty, such women will be mistresses of their circumstances, and victors over their trials. Provided, of course, they trust for the divine blessing on their personal attainments and efforts!

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Carl G. Ollivier to Medford Trust Company, dated July 3, 1929, and registered with the Middlesex South Registry District Land Court Division as Document No. 99009 and noted on Certificate of Title No. 29284, of which mortgage the undersigned is the assignee and present holder, for breach of the conditions in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction on November 14, 1934 at 11 o'clock in the forenoon on the premises not heretofore released, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage and not heretofore released. Said mortgaged premises are described as follows:

"A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated on Grayson Road, in Winchester, said County of Middlesex and being shown as Lot 22 on a plan of land hereinafter referred to, said lot being more fully bounded and described according to said plan as follows: Northeasterly by Grayson Road, fifty-two (52) feet; Southeasterly by Lot 23, one hundred eighteen and 2/100 (118.02) feet; Southwesterly by land of owners unknown, fifty-two and 13/100 (52.13) feet; Northwesterly by Lot 27, one hundred fourteen and 38/100 (114.38) feet. Containing according to said plan, 6042 square feet of land.

All of said boundaries are determined by the Court to be located as shown on a plan drawn by A. G. Carey, C. E., dated April 1926, and filed with Middlesex South District Deeds with Certificate of Title No. 22808 said plan being numbered 3535 F.

The above conveyance includes all furnaces, heaters, ranges, mantels, gas and electric light fixtures, screens, screen doors, awnings and all other fixtures of whatever kind or nature contained in any building or buildings now standing or hereafter erected on said premises prior to the full payment and discharge of this mortgage.

The above premises are conveyed subject to restrictions of record so far as the same may now be in force and applicable and subject also to the building laws of the Town of Winchester."

There is excluded from the above that certain portion of the premises which was released by a partial release given by Medford Trust Company to Carl G. Ollivier et al, and dated November 21, 1929 and recorded in Middlesex South Registry District, Land Court Division, as Document No. 102664 and noted on Certificate No. 30051, Registration Book 201, Page 341, and bounded and described as follows:

"A certain parcel or strip of land situated on Grayson Road, in the Town of Winchester, Middlesex County, Massachusetts and being shown as Lot 22 A on Plan of Subdivision of Lot 22 shown on plan 3535 F. Filed with Certificate of Title No. 22808 South Registry District of Middlesex County Land in Winchester, Nov. 5, 1929 C. B. Humphrey, Engineer for Court." Said plan being numbered 3535K, a copy of a portion of which is filed with Certificate No. 30051."

Said premises will be sold subject to any taxes, tax titles, assessments and municipal liens, if any there be.

TERMS OF SALE: Five Hundred Dollars ($500) in cash or certified check will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale. Other terms to be announced at said sale.

COREY EXPECTED TO LEAVE THIS WEEK FOR FORD MOUNTAINS

Stevenson "Steve" Corey of Governors avenue, Winchester's representative with the Byrd Antarctic Expedition in Little America, was expected to leave the expedition's base this week with the subsidiary expedition which is pushing on from camp to the Edsel Ford Mountains in the Marie Byrd land.

No human being has ever been to these mountains which were discovered from an airplane by Admiral Byrd and named by him. The trip to them is really the major trip of the entire expedition, for what lies beyond them is unknown and much pioneer research work must be done.

Lieutenant June, the expedition's aviator, preceded the expedition of which Corey is a member, breaking ground with a big tractor and freighting about three tons of supplies to a base some 240 to 280 miles from the main camp of the expedition.

To this base Corey and his mates will drive dog teams which they have been busy training during the past summer.

From the base established by June these intrepid men will push on to establish another base at the mountains, from which the scientific researches will be conducted. Meanwhile June will drive the tractor back to the main camp of the expedition from where he will return by plane to the mountain base to do aerial research above the mountains.

DEMOCRATS HELD RALLY TUESDAY

The largest Democratic rally in Winchester for several years was held in the town hall Tuesday evening when about 500 persons turned out to hear the Democratic gubernatorial standard bearer, ex-Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, and other Democratic candidates for election in November.

Mr. Curley was late in arriving and it was 11 o'clock before he put in an appearance. He was warmly welcomed as he entered the hall and went to the platform where he took his seat with other candidates.

Mr. Peter Coss of the Democratic Town Committee acted as chairman for the rally and introduced the candidates, all of whom were given an enthusiastic greeting.

In addition to Mr. Curley those who spoke were Paul Dever, candidate for Attorney General; Jeremiah Sullivan, candidate for Congress; John O'Connell, representing the Hurley for Treasurer campaign; John Gordon Duffy, Ralph W. Robart, candidate for Sheriff; Charles T. Daley of Medford, candidate for State Senator; Theodore Glynn, Mrs. Alice Goland, Joseph McGrath, Thomas Buckley, James J. Brennan, James J. Bruin and Joseph I. Hurley, candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Veteran Democrats characterized the rally as the best held locally since those in the interest of "Al" Smith's presidential candidacy in 1928.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

Most people hate to forgive a wrong done them. But this is the unchristian attitude and has no place in the life of the really honest Christian. It is an absolute obligation to forgive those who may have done us an injury—a Christian obligation. The eternal destiny of man depends on his discharge or failure to discharge that obligation. There is no possibility of trimming the principle down, explaining it away, or interpreting it as a piece of harmless idealism.

The worst kind of fakir is the individual who goes to church each Sunday and professes to lead a decent Christian life seven days of the week who "has it in" for somebody who may have done them a real or fancied wrong. But absolute forgiveness without measure or stint—such is the law.

How many professing Christians obey this fundamental law of the Christian life? Show me the professing Christian who obeys it and I will show you the exception. Compassion is to be shown in connection with what men may believe to be both their moral and legal rights. The rule now everywhere is to "get all that is coming to us." Will any person have the nerve to claim that such a rule has any basis in Christian teaching as we have it in the New Testament? Certainly not.

It is a pretty stiff doctrine, of course, but that is just the point, that it is pretty hard to be a consistent Christian. Yet if there is to be forgiveness at all it can be only by those who are wronged. No others can forgive, for they have nothing to forgive. Pardon must come from the ones guilty of the sin.

FUTURE PLANNING AIDED WELFARE WORK

Oct. 16, 1934

To the Editor of the Star:

This morning I had the pleasure of visiting the work upon waterways in Winchester as was planned in the report of the Commission of January 1928. It was a great pleasure to see such result that was little dreamed of at the time of the report, in so short a period of elapsed time.

This report was evidently the backbone for the welfare work and shows the long look ahead at that time of the future of Winchester. Anyone remembering the conditions of the area covered by this project will be repaid to make a visit and see what have been wrought by the necessity of the present depression. The mosquito problem it would seem to me to be well abated and the matter of flood control with its beautiful ponded areas acting as expansion tanks in times of freshet are a pleasure to look upon. Let alone the cleaning up of the mess that then existed, the abutting property has so improved that it was hard to realize that in so short a time such valuable additions could be made in Winchester. The town is to be congratulated that the work has been as a source of furnishing needed work for men thus giving them an interest in years to come that they had a hand in producing beauty where only a waste existed. Winchester should be thankful that it has gained a reputation as a home town and has maintained its beauty by this work. Time will soften the edges and make the parks created spaces for great enjoyment.

ADDLEGRAMS POPULAR BOOK

Winchester Man One of Authors

The fact that Mr. William E. Spaulding of Main street is one of the authors of "Addlegrams" lends added Winchester interest to this new game book by "Admiral Christopher Jettison," who according to the jacket of the book was born in the small seaport town of Intaglio, is a direct descendant of the famous Bastinado of France and insists on anthrax coal for his furnace.

"Addlegrams" isn't a story. As its name implies it is a party game, combining annagrams, scrambles and other species of brain teasers. It is illustrated by Carl Rose, whose drawings appear in the New Yorker and is said to be the answer to every host and hostess' prayer when the party interest lags.

"Addlegrams" is on sale in Winchester at Mary Spaulding's Bookshop on Thompson street where Miss Spaulding, despite a sisterly reticence, admitted that her brother's game-book is being very well received.

TOWN TEAM TO PLAY AT WOBURN

The Winchester Town football team is to open its 1934 season at Woburn Sunday afternoon, meeting the strong Woburn Town Team at the high school stadium.

In meeting the tanners the locals are surely picking a tarter for their opening contest. Woburn has yet to meet defeat and boasts a great backfield working behind a stalwart line. The Orange should be much further along in all around development than Winchester.

The locals have been working out nightly on Manchester Field under the new flood light installed by the Park Department and are reputed to be in fine fettle for the fray. It will be interesting to see the kicking duel between "Olie" Lee, the Townies backfield ace and "Tommy" Hannonn, last year's all Middlesex quarterback at Winchester High who is playing in the Woburn backfield.

MAIL BOX SMASHED BY AUTOMOBILE

Last Thursday evening Police Headquarters was notified that the mail box at the corner of Church and Bacon streets had been knocked down and smashed.

Sergt. John H. Noonan and Patrolman John Hanlon went in the police car to investigate and upon arrival found that the cement pole near the police box had been knocked down and the mail box, which was laying in the street, had been broken. There was no mail on the street.

Postmaster George H. Lochman was notified of the trouble and police found automobile marks leading from the direction of Fletcher street, going over the curbing and ending at the post. A search of the neighborhood disclosed a Pontiac coupe parked near Bacon street with a bent mudguard and both front tires flat. A jack was found under the car.

There it was discovered that he was not on duty and a request was left for his appearance at local Headquarters. The owner later reported that his car had been stolen from in front of his place of business at the "Four Corners," and that he had not discovered its loss until after he had returned from a trip with a friend to Lowell.

AMBULANCE MAKES FIRST RUN

Winchester's new ambulance made its first duty run on the morning of the holiday when it was necessary to remove one of the players in the West Medford-Stoneham football game from Manchester Field with a leg injury.

Call Fireman Hugh Skerry of Clark street notified Headquarters of the accident and Police Chief William H. Rogers drove the ambulance to the playground, accompanied by Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy and Mr. Skerry.

The injured player, James J. McCullough of 28 Fulton street, Medford, was removed to the Winchester Hospital where it was found that he had sustained a fracture of the left leg. He was attended by Dr. Philip J. McMannus.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The first monthly business meeting of the fall-winter season was held last Thursday evening and despite the inclement weather a goodly attendance was present.

Sister Mary Murphy received a rising vote of thanks on the success of the fine party conducted by her during the summer recess.

High School "Highlights" Column

Plans for the political rally to be presented before the student body in the auditorium Oct. 31, are progressing rapidly. This program will be given by Mr. Graves' class in Problems of Democracy. The judges will be three members of the faculty, Mr. Hayward, Mr. Cotton and Mr. Keeney.

The proposition is, Resolved: American people should elect national and state officials pledged to support the New Deal. The affirmative side will be upheld by Gertrude Kelly, Susan McGonigle and Albert Thorne. Dudley Bragdon, Lester Gustin and Edward Sherburne will defend the negative side of the issue. Joseph McNally will be the presiding officer in the forthcoming debate.

The Junior Red Cross Chapter has been working diligently for the past few weeks under the guidance of Miss Bronson. They already have to their credit 40 attractive joke posters and two joke booklets.

Several suitable jokes and cartoons are mounted on each poster. These clever posters take the place of joke magazines, which are exceptionally hard to handle for those who are bedridden. You have already surmised that these are headed for the hospitals and you are right, for the shut-ins will undoubtedly derive much pleasure from these creations of the Red Cross.

Junior-Senior Play Committee Hold First Meeting—Mr. Hines Re-engaged as Coach

The Junior-Senior Class Play Committee held its first meeting Tuesday afternoon with Mr. Grindle and Mr. Hines, who coached the class play last year and has been engaged as coach again this year. Several plays were suggested as possibilities, and a committee consisting of Dorothy Glidden, George Billman, Robert Thornton, Richard Eliott and Nancy Hall was appointed to go to the Walter Baker Play Company in Boston to read them. The Class Play Committee will meet again Monday to make a final decision and tryouts will be held at 2:30 on Wednesday, Oct. 31, in the Auditorium. The play will be presented on the 8th of December in the High School Auditorium. The Play Committee is as follows:

Nancy Hall, Chr.	Robert Thornton
Dorothy Glidden	George Billman
Nancy Jackson	Richard Elliot
Betty Blake	John Eshbach
Priscilla Morrill	Norma Godfrey
John Scully	Kirby Thwing

Highlights Dance Committee Promises Good Music and Floor Show

On Monday afternoon, Nov. 5, from 3 to 5, the gymnasium will be the scene of the much-advertised Highlights afternoon dance. While dancing will undoubtedly be the principal feature of the party, an attractive and popular floor show is promised with special numbers by Harriet Pilkington, Lester Gustin, George Billman and Dorothy Goodhue. Music by Bud Fitts and his small dance orchestra will guarantee the quality of the most important feature of a successful dance.

On Wednesday, Oct. 31, all young people of high school age or over are urged to participate in the Ping Pong Tourney which is to be held under the direction of the Massachusetts League of Ping Pong Players.

The entry fee is only 25 cents, and several prizes will be given away. There is no age limit nor any restrictions of any kind concerning out-of-town participants.

Remember Wednesday, Oct. 31, as the day when all young people are invited to the Town Hall at 2:30 p. m. You can register by calling Richard Leghorn at Win. 0309. This will be an excellent opportunity for all high school ping pongers to display their skill, and even though you can't play, be down there and back up your friends.

Personality Group Visits Textile School

On Tuesday morning, Oct. 23, about 25 girls left the high school at the end of the first period to take a trip to the Lowell Textile School. These girls are students of the new Personality Course directed by Miss Niven. They are:

Elizabeth Sharon	Harriet Cooper
Ruth Heneberger	Evelyn Corey
Helen Laughton	Mary Humphrey
Anne DeSavache	Ramona Fenton
Muriel Little	Priscilla Danforth
Betty Blake	Ruth Cotter
Martha Hill	Antoinette Tarpunnee
Phyllis Hartwell	Barbara Berry
Edith Scanlon	Mary Donovan
Margaret Penta	Rita Sheean
Nancy Hall	Beatrice Kelley
Margaret King	Margaret Costello

In class work the study of fabrics in relation to dress had been taken up, also the manufacturing and durability of materials. Through the courtesy of the Lowell Textile School these girls were able to watch the process of manufacturing from the time the raw cotton or wool went into the place until it came out a finished product in the form of material.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the trips was the dyeing laboratory where experiments in dying were carried out. Others were fascinated by the many processes the raw material must go through before it even becomes yarn or fiber to be spun into material. The wool must be lapped, picked, carded, combed and spun before it is really ready for use. The card looms, where the patterns are set up for the weaving, was extremely interesting. The trip showed the girls how looms operated, the process through which raw material becomes a finished product, and how manufacturing produces the durability of fabrics.

The party chartered Mr. Kerrigan's bus for the occasion, and arrived home about 1:30 p. m. They were tired but happy, and had acquired a great deal more knowledge than text-book study would have ever given them, which was of course the purpose of the trip.

Officer Andrews Addresses High School

On Monday, Oct. 22, the high school had as its guest speaker, Officer Andrews of the State Highway Police. The assembly which was scheduled for the morning during a special period, was held instead in the afternoon about 1:45, as Officer Andrews was unavoidably delayed.

The officer's talk was centered on safety on the highways and each successive thought was forcibly impressed on his listeners. The entire address covered a short period of time and was very concise and to the point.

Officer Andrews emphasized the great need for care when driving, for after all an automobile is a machine built more for convenience than pleasure, and should be handled with regard for the other fellow.

Another significant point which was brought to the attention of the students was the practice of hitch-hiking. This, Officer Andrews denounced as wrong, and a practice which is often dangerous to someone concerned, for many cases of kidnapping have been the result of this practice, especially among students in junior and senior high schools.

Ping Pong Club to Hold Open Tournament

During the week of Nov. 5th the High School Ping Pong Club will hold an open tournament in the gymnasium, open to all high school students. Members of the club may participate without paying any entrance fee. Non-members will be charged a small fee. It is the plan of the Committee to form a team from those who reach the semi-finals in this tournament and to issue a challenge for a match with the school faculty shortly afterwards. "Dick" Leghorn, president of the club, announces that actual steps have been taken toward securing matches with other schools of Greater Boston. The club is purchasing a Parker Brothers table to add to the two tables already available.

Faculty Meets for Discussion of Routine and Professional Topics—Demonstration Drill by Sophomore Class

Wednesday afternoon, from 3 to 4:15 a regular meeting of the school faculty was held with Mr. Grindle presiding. Several matters of school routine were discussed, and an announcement of the County Teachers' Convention was made, together with a request that all teachers be prepared to express definitely in the near future their opinion as to the actual value of attendance at such conventions.

For half an hour Mr. Grindle presented, in a very general but pertinent form, the subject "The Importance of and Place for Drill in High School Work," prefixing his talk with comments upon bulletin board material dealing with the "How to Study" problem, which was the chief subject of discussion at the previous faculty meeting.

Following Mr. Grindle's talk the teachers were invited to adjourn to Room 14 across the hall to witness an actual classroom demonstration of drill, conducted by Miss Proctor with a first year class in stenography. In the course of the interesting half hour class, most of the principles emphasized in the preceding talk on drill were demonstrated by the teachers and by the pupils. It is only by such practical plans as this that the close relationship between theories and practices of teaching can be visualized.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

One member was absent from the meeting of Oct. 25. The monthly attendance record of the club has improved steadily since the July low. October will show an excellent percentage.

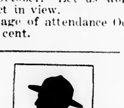

The Rotary Club of Daytona Beach, Fla., is sponsoring the "First Annual Rotary Senior Golf Tournament" to be held in that city, Jan. 22 to 25, 1935, and is operating trophies to the value of $500 to the successful contestants. Daytona Rotarians believe that golfers 50 years of age or older should not be handicapped by competition with youthful players. Here is a chance for boys who flourished in the "Gay Nineties" to show their mettle. Sir Malcolm Campbell, the famous English motor car speedster, will be in town to show his wares. Northern Rotarians who are planning a vacation at this time will do well to go to Daytona.

Rotary International is alive to the fact that comments have been made to the effect that there should be alterations in the manner of conducting the Annual Convention. A questionaire embodying some 15 of the more feasible recommendations, has been prepared and submitted to the Boards of Directors of individual Rotary Clubs. This appears to be an excellent method whereby International executives can keep in touch with sentiments which permeate the various organiations of Rotary and so correlate these sentiments as to keep the Rotarian movement an effective instrument for the betterment of mankind.

Our guest speaker at the current meeting was Rev. Fr. James F. Fitzsimons, pastor of the parish of the Immaculate Conception at North Winchester. From his youth Father Fitzsimons has made a study of the science of astronomy. At this time he was so kind as to bring to our attention in the scholarly manner which characterizes all his public appearances, certain of the fundamentals on which this science is based and the manner in which it has developed during the centuries. We trust that it will not be long before we are again privileged to listen to Father Fitzsimmons.

It is quite possible to make our November attendance record as good as that of October. Let us work with that object in view.

Percentage of attendance Oct. 18—96.15 per cent.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Winchester District Committee Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Winchester District Committee on Tuesday, Oct. 30 at 8 p. m. at the office of Dr. Richard Clark, 40 Church, Winchester. Every member of the committee is requested to attend this meeting.

Nature Scouting with a Camera

On Saturday, Nov. 10 at 7:45 p. m. in the high school auditorium, there will be given a lecture entitled, "Nature Scouting with a Camera," by Dr. Charles H. Tozier. This illustrated lecture will be given in order to try to interest all Boy Scouts and boys in general in the study of nature and life in the fields and forests. Pictures of ancient man and the "first Boy Scouts" will be shown.

Troop 1 News

This weeks' meeting was opened as usual with the salute to the flag, after which the troop practiced marching. Decided improvement was noticed over previous practices. The inter-patrol competition is progressing rapidly. The present standing is as follows:

Beaver Patrol, 1st with 68 points; Panther Patrol, 2nd, with 22 points; Silver Fox Patrol, 3rd, with 20 points; Stag Patrol, 4th with 13 points.

The troop is conducting a hike this Saturday beginning at the Legion House at 9:30 a. m.

The meeing of the 29th will be held at Scout Headquarters where the troop's annual Hallowe'en party will be enjoyed by the troop members.

ARMISTICE DAY

On Sunday, Nov. 11, at 4 p. m. Winchester Post, No. 97, American Legion will attend the Congregational Church in a body as guests of the Choral Society. There will be brief exercises at the War Memorial at 11 a. m. on Monday, Nov. 12 which this year will be a legal holiday and on Monday evening the Post has planned an elaborate military ball at the Town Hall in commemoration of the Armistice. The hall will be decorated with flags and bunting and dancing will be enjoyed from 8 to 1. A ten-piece orchestra has been engaged and the crack Wollaston Post drill company will be present in full dress uniform with accompanying entertainers to give a short program at 10:15. Tickets are on sale at $1.50 per couple.

Two dogs, one owned by Mrs. George A. Saltmarsh of 158 Mt. Vernon street and the other, by Mrs. George Budd of 81 Walnut street, were struck yesterday afternoon by a truck owned by Albert E. Gelsthorpe of 183 Highland avenue and driven by Vincent G. Carroll of 10 Lincoln street. The Saltmarsh dog was so badly injured Officer John Dolan had to shoot him.

A Lecture on Christian Science

Entitled

Christian Science Universally Available

by

Bicknell Young, C.S.B.
of Chicago, Illinois

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts

A large and interested audience taxed the capacity of the Town Hall last Friday evening when a lecture on Christian Science was given by First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Winchester, to the citizens of this town and their friends.

The Lecturer, Mr. Bicknell Young, was introduced by the First Reader, Mr. Bradford Harwood, who said:

Friends: First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Winchester, extends to you all a most cordial welcome.

In the sixteenth chapter of Mark we find these words spoken by Christ Jesus to his disciples:

"Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.

And these signs shall follow them that believe.

They shall take up serpents and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them.

They shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover."

These very definite statements made by our Master cannot possibly leave any question of doubt in the minds of those who are earnest seekers of truth, that the spiritual power to heal all disease and discord, was then, and is now, available to all humanity.

DEDICATION OF MURAL PAINTINGS

On Monday evening in the Winchester Public Library the two new murals were dedicated. It was truly an impressive ceremony and one that will remain as an important part of the town's history.

Mr. Ralph T. Hall, member of the Library Board of Trustees, acted as chairman. Mr. Henry Chapman, president of the Art Association and town historian, was unable to be present so Mr. Hale gave a brief history of the mural by Mr. Ripley—the story of Squaw Sachem and her selling of the land at the head of the Mystic Lakes.

Mr. Frederick W. Coburn, former art critic of the Boston Herald was introduced. After many amusing introductory remarks he gave a little history of mural painting, or wall decoration, mentioning the cave pictures of 30,000 years ago.

Then the chairman of the Library Art Committee, Mr. H. Dudley Murphy spoke of Ettore Ceser who painted the other mural called "Reading the Bible in Puritan Days." This beautiful mural was made possible by the generous contributions of some of Winchester's prominent citizens. Mr. Murphy met Mr. Ceser in Venice in 1908 and brought him back to Winchester where Mr. Ceser had his studio on Hillcrest Parkway until the war broke out. Since then Mr. Ceser has lived in other cities and has always worked assiduously and brilliantly. When he lived in Winchester he came to know Mr. McCall and was often invited to the latter's summer home. It is interesting to note that the main figure in the mural, the older gentleman who is reading the bible to the young people grouped around him, bears a resemblance to Mr. McCall.

The last speaker was Mr. A. L. Ripley who is now teaching art at the Harvard Graduate School of Architecture. In a very interesting and understandable way he explained the technical processes involved in his great mural "The Beginning of Winchester." Also he spoke about the research studies he and his assistant made to insure the historical accuracy of the piece. He thanked the people of Winchester. The library trustees who had helped him, and the CWA for the opportunity to carry out this work.

GERRIT A. BENEKER

Gerrit A. Beneker nationally known artist, who died suddenly Tuesday at his home in Provincetown where he was prominent in the activity of the Art Colony, was for a time a resident of Winchester, living on Calumet road. He was one of the first to exhibit in the art gallery of the new library and delivered a most interesting and instructive lecture to the pupils of the high school on, "Art and the Working Man." Though a master of art in many forms Mr. Beneker was chiefly noted for his virile industrial canvases. He attracted wide attention with his poster, "We'll Finish the Job," painted for the last Liberty Loan drive of the World War. He leaves his wife, three daughters, Katherine, Helen and Jean and a son, Benson. The funeral was held at the late residence in Provincetown Thursday afternoon.

WINCHESTER AT CONCORD

Winchester High will be fighting to maintain its place at the top of the Middlesex League football heap tomorrow when the Red and Black journeys to Concord to play its third engagement of the circuit schedule.

The locals are as yet undefeated while Concord's 9 to 6 reverse at the hands of Maynard last Saturday is the only blot on the opposition's shield.

Winchester is especially desirous of avenging the defeat at the hands of Concord last season and with this in view it is unfortunate that the locals are likely to be without the services of their stellar co-Captain and halfback, "Jack" Hanlon, who sustained a bad arm injury in the Stoneham game, and "Ewie" Bairstow, veteran and capable end, injured the same afternoon.

X-rays have shown that neither Hanlon nor Bairstow has any broken bones, and there is a possibility that both may see service at Concord. Coach Mansfield, however, is not counting on either and has been grooming Cushman as a starting back and "Porky" Millyan to work for Bairstow.

Concord can only be regarded as a strong club in view of its one-sided win over Belmont yet its 6 to 6 tie with Saugus makes it look as though Winchester is a good even money choice.

The locals are likely to line up with either Cassidy or "Al" Gaum at center, Graham and McCormack at guards, Thwing and Olson, tackles; and Josephson and Millyan, ends; Provinzano, quarterback; co-Captain Gaffney and Cushman, halfbacks; and Cimina, fullback. Kickoff at 2 p. m.

CHORAL SOCIETY IN VESPER PROGRAM

Reaction to the announcement that the Winchester Choral Society's chorus of 100 voices is to present Henry Hadley's "The New Earth" as a community vesper service on Armistice Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Congregational Church indicates that there will be a capacity audience present to hear this beautiful composition inspired by, and written at the conclusion of the World War.

Mr. Hadley is one of America's most distinguished composers and his "New Earth" is gripping in its intensity, yet is harmoniously beautiful aside from its emotional and patriotic appeal. The delicacy of the passages for women's voices contrasts most effectively with the rugged virility of the section for the men's choir, while the music for full chorus is particularly thrilling.

The theme of the composition is the hope of deliverance from the old order by the development of a new world spirit, gradually projected into consciousness as it is fused from the despair and sacrifices of the titanic struggle for democracy. The Society's conductor, J. Albert Wilson, is directing the Armistice Day service.

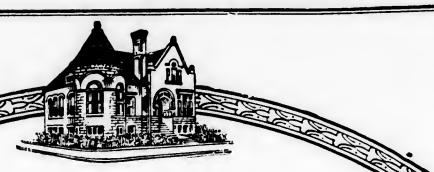

SELECTMEN DENY PETITION TO VOTE ON MOVIES AT STATE ELECTION

Mr. Albert J. Locatelli who is interested in established a motion picture theater in Winchester and who has purchased certain property in town with that end in view, has asked the Board of Selectmen to consider some arrangement whereby the people of the town might express their opinion on the question of motion pictures at the time of the State Election on Nov. 6.

The Board has given careful consideraion to this matter and finds that there is no legal way in which such a vote could be taken on the State Ballot or using any of the facilities provided for the conduct of the State Election, as Mr. Locatelli was previously notified by the Board.

The second meeting of the Board in November will be held on Tuesday, the 13th, instead of the 12th on account of the celebration of the holiday on Monday.

It is reported that preliminary steps have been taken to form a Winchester World War Mothers' Association which is open to all mothers who had sons in the World War.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

At impressive exercises in the Legion Headquarters Monday evening, the new officers of the Auxiliary to Post, 97, A. L. were installed by Mrs. Susan T. Esler of Wilmington, County President; assisted by Mrs. Ann Clark of Hudson, Sergeant-at-Arms.

A distinguished list of guests was present, including Comndr. John H. McCarthy of Winchester Post, the Post Junior Vice Commander, Stafford Rogers and Adjutant William Russell Carroll; Auxiliary Presidents and escorts from Woburn, Arlington and Boston Newspaperman's Post, Mrs. Rose Coy of Stoneham, County Secretary; Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson, past State President of the World War Mothers; Mrs. Carrie E. Ramsdell, representing the local Disabled Veterans' Welfare Group; and Mrs. M. C. Ambrose, representing the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild in this town.

Speakers were Commander McCarthy, Vice Commander Rogers, County Secretary Coy and Past President Thompson, though greetings to the local Auxiliary were brought by the other guests.

Retiring President, Mary B. Fitzgerald was presented with a past president's jewel and a bouquet of flowers, flowers being also presented to Mrs. Esler, Mrs. Clark and to Mrs. Annie M. Hanlon, the newly installed President. The retiring president presented to Commander McCarthy a cheque from the Auxiliary to add to the Legion's welfare fund.

Following the installation an entertainment program was enjoyed, including solos by Miss Helen Carroll and Miss Irma Fisher, accompanied on the piano by Miss Florence Fisher, readings by Mrs. Frances T. Conlon and an impressive greeting and tribute to the Auxiliary's Gold Star mother and honorary members, Mrs. Mary Noonan.

Community singing was led by Mrs. Coy, whose favorite song, requested by Commander McCarthy, "Hail Massachusetts," was much enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Carroll and her committee.

Following are officers installed:

President Annie M. Hanlon
Senior Vice President Josephine Meskell
Junior Vice President Elizabeth Moynihan
Secretary Blanche Bennett
Treasurer Bessie Pierce
Chaplain Mary Carroll
Sergeant-at-Arms Mary Jo Morris
Historian Elizabeth Mitchell
Executive Committee Mary B. Fitzgerald, Nora O'Melia, Clara Mullen.

Mrs. Nora O'Melia and Mrs. Elizabeth Moynihan are in charge of arrangements for the turkey whist that the Auxiliary is holding on Monday evening, Nov. 19 at the Legion House. They are being assisted by Mrs. Blanche Bennett and Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald.

GEORGE O. GUSTIN

Was Former Winchester Resident

George O. Gustin, of 391 Broadway, Somerville, a widely known Boston wholesale produce merchant, who died Saturday, Oct. 20, at the New England Sanitarium, was a former resident of Winchester, spending much of his early life in this town.

He was born in 1856 in Woburn attended school in Winchester, and for many years was engaged in the produce business on Clinton street in Boston. He was a member of both the Masons and Odd Fellows.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Augusta (Branch) Gustin; a son, Chester O. Gustin of Belmont; two brothers, Clarence, who now occupies the old family home on Cambridge street in this town and James Gustin of Somerville and a sister, Mrs. Susie Newcomb of Woburn.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at the West Somerville Baptist Church of which Mr. Gustin had been deacon.

Miss Virginia Smith of Connecticut College, New London, Conn. and Miss Eugenia Smith of Wellesley College spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smith, 20 Cabot street. Mr. and Mrs. Smith leave today for Syracuse, N. Y. to spend the week-end with their son Ransom E. Smith, a student at Manlius Military School. Oct. 27. Manlius observes parents' day.

REFERENDUM ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The question as to whether the United States should join the League of Nations is still a live issue in Massachusetts. The State has a law under which questions of public interest may be placed on the ballot on the petition of 200 voters in a Representative District. Taking advantage of this opportunity to obtain the sentiment of the people toward the League, the advocates of American participation first submitted the question to the citizens of Malden in 1926.

The Malden voters recorded themselves in emphatic opposition to the proposal, but the sponsors of the Referendum four years later again placed the question on the ballot in Malden, and the voters of Malden at that time reversed their earlier decision and favored the League.

The proponents of the League enlarged their campaign and obtained the required signatures to place the question on the ballot in 11 cities and towns at the State Election in 1932. Forty thousand, one hundred and fifty votes were cast in all 11 communities and of this number 25,631 were in favor of the League.

This year the Referendum sponsored by the Massachusetts Branch of the League of Nations will cover 36 Representative Districts, comprising 115 cities and towns and representing 23 per cent of the registered voters of this State.

The voters of Winchester, the 29th Middlesex Representative District, will have an opportunity at the State Election on Nov. 6 to express themselves on this subject.

The question will appear on the ballot in the following form:

Question of Public Policy

"Shall the Representative in the General Court from the Twenty-Ninth Representative District for Middlesex County be instructed at vote to request the President and the United States Senate to enter into full co-operation and membership in the League of Nations, with the explanatory reservation that the United States shall not engage in war with any nation, except by vote of Congress, as provided in the United States Constitution, and such other reservations as they deem wise?"

PROCTOR—STEARNS

A marriage of much Winchester interest took place in Leslie Lindsey Memorial Chapel, Boston, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 20 when Miss Rose Gordon Stearns, daughter of Mrs. Frank Jenkins of Buckminster road, Brookline, became the bride of George Newton Proctor, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Newton Proctor of Boston and Marblehead Neck, whose Winchester home is at 37 Cabot street. Rev. William Gardner, D.D., of Trinity Church, Boston, was the officiating clergyman and the bride was given in marriage by her step-father, Mr. Jenkins.

Miss Stearns had for her honor attendant Miss Elizabeth Forgan of Chicago and the bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Proctor, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Ruth Williams of Boston, Miss Carolyn Day, Miss Jane Smith and Miss Frances Jenkins, all of Brookline. Frederick Borden, Mr. Proctor's cousin, was best man, and the corps of ushers included Pryor Percival, Lawrence Percival, Jr., Robert Morrison and King Upton.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a yoke of rose point lace and a conventional bridal veil. Her flowers were white orchids and valley lilies. Miss Forgan wore dark green velvet with matching turban trimmed with ermine tails. The bridesmaids wore velvet frocks of apple green with hats to match and carried token roses and African daisies.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Upon their return from a honeymoon in Bermuda, Mr. Proctor and his bride will make their home in West Newton.

The bride attended the Beaver Country Day School and the Miss Master School at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. Mr. Proctor was graduated from Dartmouth in the class of 1931.

A HOWL

Winchester, Oct. 19, 1934

Dear Price:

This story may be of some interest if nothing more to your readers. Maybe you are a dog owner and will take exceptions to the economic side expressed. My figures are conservative since I understand some dogs in town cost as much as 60c per day to feed.

Recently I bought two pounds of cat meat to feed a neighbor's cat that lives with me mostly and it cost 35 cents. Many of the large dogs in town would give about two gulps to this and look for more, therefore when I say two bits for average it is not high. No doubt there are dogs that don't eat one square a day—that are wandering about town, and the window washer, lap dog types eat perhaps a pound only each day.

Even at ten cents each the bill runs up into much good money—that would do many things for humans or other worth while projects. No doubt there are humans not worth feeding regardless of the slogan "No man should be allowed to starve." Some people would starve no matter how much they had since they would squander all on booze or other things not needed.

My point is that a community like this is no place for dogs—they are not needed—and should not be allowed—the same applies to cats. The town fathers bar hens and cows in residential districts, yet they are of economic value. However one is forced to fence against the many dogs if he wishes to grow a garden. Who is wrong?

[Contrary to our usual custom, we are printing this communication under the writer's nom de plume. He is a personal friend and an old and respected citizen. Tempted to throw it in the waste basket, we found that a member of our staff held very similar views, he having been up most of the previous night listening to a concert given by his neighbor's dog. Hence we give the OC (Old Citizens) his asked-for space in the Star. Editor.]

Winchester's Dog Bill

To the Editor of the Star:

There are some 900 licensed dogs in town, or there were last year; no doubt there are more this year.

Since a dog is a dog, the license charge is the same, but some dogs are more dog than others; thus they eat more.

Everywhere people are growling because the cost of food is going up—then more growl because taxes are greater than ever. Since more and more money is spent for—make necessary public improvements and maybe not so necessary.

Why Winchester needs dogs may be questioned for long it has been since wolves, bob-cats and such varmint roamed within the boundaries of the town.

Maybe, however, the dog owners fear human varmint. Yet we have a corps of sharp shooters ever on guard—why do we then need dogs.

Some dogs eat more than other dogs but on the basis that the average canine, who lives at home, eats 25 cents worth of special brand of food, Beef-a-la what have you, or maybe what is left over, then this average food cost is about right. The 900 dogs, therefore cost $225. per day or $82,125. per year to feed. Even at ten cents a day the food hill for the year is $82,850.

To these costs must be added the license charge of $2 each or $1800 per year, providing they are all male dogs.

This license cost, however, goes to the Public Library fund, therefore some benefit is received, yet this is a comparatively small credit, when one considers other town expenses.

Since the sum total of food costs for Winchester's dogs amounts to a tidy sum either at the rate of ten cents or at two bits a day, and it would seem that the money so spent could well be used for feeding humans, since the slogan of the "New Dealers" is that the "Forgotten Man" must be thought of regardless, but nothing was said about feeding dogs out of the public moneys.

Perhaps the brain trusters own no dogs or maybe they included them with the men for there is a saying, "A dog is man's best friend." Probably if you feed him it is so.

The dog scare of last summer was enough to show that dogs do not belong in thickly settled communities.

Why do people want one to three dogs largely restrained, often seen only in the owner's car or heard in the dead of night, bewailing the fact that the masters have gone on a week-end. The neighbors enjoy those mournful sounds and they are quite as disturbing as let us say—the milk man who whistles and gingle his bottles, as some people recently complained of. No doubt the dogs and cats were glad to hear the milk man come, even though it was before 6 o'clock.

Every dog in his puppy days is said to be "cute," that is if one can define the word. Since one hears it used to define many objects, things, etc. However, pups grow to be dogs—good, bad and Heintz, and except on a farm or other isolated places, have no economic use. Since we are at present dealing with economic recovery, why not consider doing without dogs, even include cats and use their food costs for something worth while?

Perhaps some may argue that some dogs are worth more than some humans—who knows?

Signed,
One Who Likes Dogs—But?

About midnight last Sunday, Headquarters was notified of a disturbance taking place near Cambridge and Church streets. Patrolmen Clarence Dunbury and John Regan went to the spot indicated but could hear nothing. On Cambridge street at Glen road they came upon an automobile, the operator of which said he and his wife had been visiting friends on Foxcroft road. He added that they had an argument and that his wife had left the machine. The police refused to permit him to drive the car because of his condition.

EIGHTH DISTRICT PRESIDENTS' CLUB

Mrs. John Montgomery of West Medford, newly elected president, will preside at the fall meeting of the Eighth District Presidents' Club to be held on Wednesday, Oct. 31 at 2:30 p. m. in Community Hall, Harvard avenue, West Medford, with the West Medford Women's Club as hostess.

Paula Ellis Barnett, author and lecturer, will talk on, "The American Theatre Today" and on current plays.

Other officers of the club are Mesdames Frank F. Knight, Reading, vice president; Thomas F. Crawford, Stoneham, recording secretary; A. Augustus MacWhinnie, Wakefield, corresponding secretary; Russell B. Hall, Melrose, treasurer; Ford Hanscom, Wilmington, press correspondent; Harry B. Ballard, Malden; Alice J. Blaikie, Medford and William Leslie, Melrose Highlands, directors.

Refreshments will be served by the hostess club.

FALL OUTING A SUCCESS

The annual fall Assessors' outing, usually held each year through the courtesy of chairman of the board, Harry T. Winn, took place over last week-end, one member, Mr. Frank B. Emman, being unable to attend. As customary, the party visited Mr. Winn's summer home on Lake Winnepesaukee, where they assisted in closing camp for the winter. Leaving Friday afternoon, they spent Friday night at the lake and motored Saturday to West Newfield, Me., to the summer home of Mr. Frank W. Winn, visiting Douglass Hill and enjoying the wonderful outlook during the day. They remained at West Newfield until Sunday afternoon, when they motored home. This year's party took the trip in Collector of Taxes Nathaniel M. Nichol's car, and consisted of Messrs. Nichols, Harry T. Winn, Frank H. Winn, John F. Cassidy and Allan McLatchy.

A MOCKING BIRD IS IN OUR MIDST

are you listnin'?

The cheap, inferior quality electric lamp bulb is a sort of mocking bird. And it gives a pretty fair imitation of the genuine article — the lamp bulb of true, known quality.

But — don't listen to it. You'll regret it if you do. Don't for a minute believe it is "just as good." It can't be. The very fact that it is cheaper in price than lamp bulbs of known quality — made by the largest, most reputable American manufacturers — is evidence that it hasn't the quality and hasn't the value.

Buy your electric lamp bulbs at the Edison Shops — or at some reliable dealer's. Here you will obtain lamps of standard quality and known value. They save you money because they last longer and give all the light you pay for.

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Jesus did not confine his words to the few with whom he was talking, for he clearly stated, "To them that believe," and "They shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover."

In Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, the textbook of all Christian Scientists, Mrs. Eddy strongly emphasizes this far reaching truth, and, indeed it is the very essence of our Master's work, of his demonstrations of healing, of his loving message to mankind for all time to come.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Founder and Discoverer of Christian Science, was endowed with the spiritual vision to bring this truth once more to the world, devoting her life to the work, basing her teachings entirely on the Bible. She established the First Church of Christ Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts, and now, after fifty years, Christian Science branch churches or Societies are organized in most cities throughout the civilized world.

It is the privilege of Christian Scientists to preach this gospel of divine healing and to heed that statement made to Simon three times by Jesus, "Feed my sheep."

For this purpose, our Leader created what is known as the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, under the auspices of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, in order that mankind all over the world might have the opportunity of understanding this christianly scientific healing power.

This evening we are to hear from a member of this Board of Lectureship, and it is with great pleasure that I present to you Bicknell Young, C.S.B., of Chicago, Ill., who will speak to you on the subject, "Christian Science Universally Available."

Mr. Young:

God Is Mind

There has never been given to the world a more reassuring and cheering message than that expressed by the words, God is Mind. It is basic to all understanding and practice of Christian Science. It disposes of the great cloud of beliefs which has associated the word "God" with material concepts. It strengthens our religious convictions and comforts and sustains us with the naturalness of the divine Presence, and it awakens us to the recognition of divine possibilities in our everyday human existence.

At a time when uncertainty prevails and fear and indecision haunt the councils of the wisest and best among men and nations, the divine fact, God is Mind, reveals omnipresence, to dispel the darkness and to make the crooked straight and the "rough places plain."

Those words do not announce a mere theory. They explain the primal, inevitable, divine Principle of all being and of all that the word "being" divinely signifies.

In the light of the statement, God is Mind, it is self-evident, though it may not at first seem to be so, that ideas which reveal God are divine and eternal. It is by means of such everliving ideas that Christian Science ennobles science and vitalizes religion. Mankind can in this way learn how to turn to God in the moment of fear or danger or difficulty with the same confidence that a little child feels in the arms of his parent.

Christian Science gives this confidence by explaining how human beings can receive divine help under all the trying circumstances of everyday life and living. It must be remembered, however, that this is the Science of the Divine Mind. Therefore from the very outset it proves the value of right thinking to anyone who may care to test it, and, by the same token, shows the baneful effects of wrong thinking. It thus brings to light the errors of our ways and awakens in us our individual responsibilities in overcoming them, as no other system has ever done.

Be Not Afraid

In doing this it shows that fear is the one universal wretched heritage of a race that has deified matter, and demands that such deification cease in order that the way of salvation may be now, as St. Paul says that it is.

In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 410), its author writes, "Christian scientific practice begins with Christ's keynote of harmony, 'Be not afraid!'" How shall we learn to obey this command? The answer in this, and in every instance where a question may arise, is to be found in the basic instruction which Christian Science affords. Every thought which comes to us must be tested. To use a beautiful figure of speech, every thought must be taken to the "throne of grace." If it cannot bear that light it is unworthy to be entertained.

That test immediately disposes of fear, for it is not conceivable that the infinite One, the God who is Mind, could have any fear or could conceive of anything fearful within the range of His own infinite, infallible perfection. Anybody here tonight can remember this and can thereby find great freedom from what seems to be either personal or collective fear. Therefore, again and again and always Christian Science admonishes us, "Be not afraid," and shows us how to obey this admonition.

The Power of Right Thinking

There is a certain divine naturalness in all this. The basic ideas which belong to this Science give it universal applicability. The influence of thought is no longer a fantastic theory that excites alike ignorant and scholarly derision. No longer is it permissible to believe that we live in a world of matter exclusively.

Quite recently many representative physicians in the United States have expressed themselves to the effect that observation and experience in their profession show unmistakably that the functions and organs of the human body are deleteriously affected by the fretful and conflicting emotions of the human mind. This is equivalent to admitting that the habit of undisciplined mentality, and especially of egotistical and self-centered interests, tends to undermine health. It is obvious, however, that while the recognition by the medical profession of the unhealthful influence of erroneous thought coincides up to a certain point with Christian Science doctrine, it is far from this Science in the actual practice which overcomes wrong thinking and all of its effects.

Uninstructed by Christian Science, we find right and wrong inextricably mixed with our desires, our ambitions, and our anticipations. No one can be sure that his thinking is right unless he learns by means of correct study and instruction that there is an immutable standard, and finds out what and where it is. The human heart has longed for this revelation. In the uncertainties and conflicts of human existence how often and how universally have human beings cried out, "Oh, if there were something secure, something certain, something upon which we could place reliance!"

This unexpressed desire begins to be satisfied when one learns to differentiate between right and wrong thinking. In this connection the word "firmament" as used in the first chapter of Genesis is thus defined in the Christian Science textbook (p. 586): "Spiritual understanding; the scientific line of demarcation between Truth and error, between Spirit and so-called matter." This line of demarcation shows unmistakably that thinking needs to be subject to constant correction. True Christian Science practice is always right thinking. Such thinking is founded in divine Principle and operates as the law of divine Principle. It stands untrammeled and unimpaired in the vigor of this original relationship. Our thinking is right when tested by the law of universal good, and no thinking is right unless that thinking invested with unlimited extension and universal influence blesses everybody, including the thinker. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" is not merely a Christian admonition but is the law of self-perpetuating divine Principle.

The Availability to Us of Divine Power

You will observe that when we say, God is Mind, we use the word "Mind" in its infinite meaning, not in any personal or finite sense. In fact, Christian Science shows that the tendency to personalize our redeemer and the way of redemption has not only darkened the religious sense of mankind, but has tended to mislead the Christian world in the hours of greatest need. Nothing finite or personal could represent either our God or our redeemer. Divine ideas alone can meet such a divine requirement.

In this connection it may be remarked that the works of Jesus are as deeply significant as his words. We understand both just in the measure that we attain something of his sublime character. This is equally true of all that relates to him. There is no way of understanding him except in the way that he understood himself. His way was unquestionably the way of pure metaphysics. It bore no resemblance to matter or personality.

He said, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father." Without distorting the meaning we might conclude that the words "greater works" here used may mean more universal works, and certain it is that today the conditions which confront the whole world compel our attention and demand our most sincere and fervent prayers, and we see that only as we go to the Father, that is to say, as we seek and find the oneness of Mind and idea, and thereby prepare ourselves to receive divine help, shall we be able to do these greater or more universal works.

The conventional habits and acquired prejudices of material thinking unquestionably hamper us in this endeavor. Science as generally conceived of depends upon the intellect exclusively, yet here is forced upon our concept of science a moral factor, the idea of the power of Principle, divine Love, heretofore unrecognized, but which when put to the test in everyday life is found to be the chiefest among all. By means of it Jesus illustrated divine power humanly, and thereby showed that divine power is always available to human beings, when they know how to avail themselves of it.

The way is simple but exacting. Jesus said, "Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." In explaining this way, Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, in her books, classifies in general terms all of the afflictive phenomena that come within the scope of human life and living. Disease, sin, and death, with all of their manifestations, as well as worry, lack, and anything and everything that in these days we may call depression, are classified as beliefs or errors. Therefore, Christian Science in healing disease as well as in saving people from sin and sorrow and every other evil thing from which they need to be saved, deals not with matter, but with beliefs, primarily and exclusively.

Christ the Only Saviour

The New Testament reveals that this was the method of Christ Jesus, and his words and works, when carefully considered, show that the power which he exercised was not personal. He did not claim that no one but himself could do such works. He exemplified the right way of healing for all of us. This way was and is scientific in that it is according to divine Principle and rule, and, being scientific, we may walk in it, and he urged his disciples to do so. It was not his personality that made him the Christ, noble and grand though that personality must have been. It was the true idea of God, the actual truth of being, steadfastly present as his thought or consciousness. This was the Christ, and is the Christ now.

This true idea of God may be and should be ever present with us, according to his words, "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world," meaning unquestionably even unto the extinction of sin, disease, and death.

This ever-present Saviour, this true idea of God in and as his consciousness, enabled him to overcome death and the grave. He spoke of himself as the Son of God, thereby unquestionably referring to his real selfhood, his spiritual oneness with God. This explains what real sonship is. When our understanding approximates the same standard of absolute Truth, it indicates the same sonship, our real selfhood.

In the twenty-first chapter of St. Luke's Gospel, Jesus prophetically depicts the error of sheer materialism in graphic figures of speech, which are quite as applicable to our time as they were to his: "Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken." The expression "for the powers of heaven shall be shaken" is particularly apt in view of the fact that the materialism which mankind has ignorantly invested with almost supreme power has indeed been shaken. The admonition and the promises however, of all that he said on that occasion are to be found in the twenty-eighth verse: "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh."

These words are absolute and unequivocal. They indicate unmistakably that we are individually required to take part in our own redemption and in the redemption of our fellow man.

Materiality a False Basis

Clinging to materiality and seeking materiality simply accentuates conditions that seem to trouble us individually and racially. The human need is apparent on every hand. Thinking of our troubles is not the way by which to overcome them. Thinking of our need will not meet our need. Material systems of healing and political platforms of government have failed to make health prevalent or nations secure. Notwithstanding the great improvement in the mere mechanism of existence, there was never more uncertainty and fear, never more questioning and doubt, never more lack of faith in more human expedients than today.

The average individual if asked whether he can do anything about such conditions or whether he possesses any power to aid mankind or even himself in such a predicament naturally answers, No; yet the rule is the same as it was two thousand years ago: "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you."

Healing Within Reach of All

If supreme faith is requisite, then sincerity and simplicity are essential in order that the ideas which constitute the activity of divine law may be grasped and demonstrated. Beginning modestly we must continue in the same way. At the same time it would not be becoming modesty, but mere ingratitude if we doubted that our sincerity and devotion to divine Principle could bring us help in this or any hour.

The way in which the healing takes place is mental, or, to speak more accurately, spiritual. It is well known that the practice of this Science is not associated with material remedies or material systems of any kind. It is also well to state that Christian Science has nothing in common with thought transference or telepathy or mental suggestion or hypnotism, and in no respect resembles any other method usually called mental. It is Christian, with none of the aspects whatsoever of paganism or magic. Every thought that accurately explains Christian Science, every thought that makes it correctly apprehensible, every thought that is employed in the true practice of this Science is of divine origin. The whole trend of this Science is to glorify God, good, and to enable mankind to lay hold upon the divine power and utilize it to meet the human need.

Now, if this is proved true, if this Science understood can invoke divine aid, then beyond all question anything that ought to be accomplished to bless and benefit us individually and racially is possible. That individual cases of disease are healed in thousands of instances is therefore not only a matter of great satisfaction and thankfulness on the part of those who are healed, but it is also of great encouragement to individuals, communities, governments, nations, and all mankind.

Why is this so? Simply because of the fact that it can be shown and proved that everybody's belief about disease constitutes the so-called law of disease. In healing any specific case Christian Science treatment nullifies this false law. It is not conceivable that anything less powerful than omnipotence itself could thus destroy the malign influence of fears and beliefs with which humanity individually and collectively afflicts itself.

Let it be said, however, that while it is true that Christian Science Mind-healing may be demonstrated for one person by another, yet it is equally true that the full benefit of this unique Science is gained only by individual effort, and it must be seen that the prejudices and fears which sometimes cause one to hesitate to accept the one infinite Mind as the basis of thought and action are without foundation. One multiplication table is enough for everybody. One honesty is equally so. Everybody may have all of either or all of both, and no one else be deprived of the same full measure of either or both. So it is with one infinite Mind.

Understanding Versus Belief

I must, however, remind you that to test the truth of any statement for one's self requires something more than mere belief in it. Anyone, however slightly informed, would recognize this to be inevitably true of the science of arithmetic. It is equally true of the Science of Mind. Just as we employ whatever intelligence we may already possess in the science of arithmetic, so we must employ it in the Science of Mind.

Scientific Christianity is thus seen to be essential to the welfare of mankind. The understanding of the inspired word of the Bible is requisite for progress and demonstration. "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms" is one of many passages which unmistakably declare the eternality and immanence of Deity. We tried to believe those inspired and inspiring words of Holy Writ, but we had no idea that they were scientific in the sense of being humanly provable. We liked them and we had great reverence for them and this reverence constituted the greater part of our religion, but until Christian Science made them practical in everyday life all such Biblical sayings were regarded more or less as beautiful sentiments merely.

It ought to be readily admitted that an infinite creation, requiring an infinite creator, requires a science commensurate with both. Consequently this Science must rest upon and proceed from supreme intelligence. It is logically impossible that it should be otherwise. Furthermore, infinity means eternality, and eternality means never dying but ever living. Consequently infinity and everything that shows forth infinity is undying. To be undying or ever living everything must be and is free from any destructive element. In the one infinite Mind or infinity no sin nor disease could ever have being, and if it were possible for any such destructive element to knock at the door of infinite divine consciousness that destructive element would immediately be dissipated into nothingness because of the allness of infinity.

God Is Good

Therefore one of the most helpful statements of Christian Science is "God is good." It is not new but the meaning of it was not fully understood until Christian Science explained it. This Science shows conclusively that infinity must be wholly good, that is to say, good as cause and good in effect. If schools of religion had been as truthful, and that means as scientific, as schools of law this fact would have been apparent and available throughout the ages of religious history, but it was neither apparent nor available until Christian Science made it so, although stated unmistakably by him who is called the Saviour of mankind, in the words, "Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God."

God's creation must inevitably resemble the creator, and consequently be perfect and eternal in every detail. All of this perfection exists now and forever. In reality, there will never be more than now, since infinity is now and there need be no more.

Spiritual Sight

This hour, according to the testimony of the human senses, is one of anxiety, of fear, doubt, want of faith, of distress of nations, with perplexity." Though the need appears to be universal, the admonition "when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh," is individual. What do these words mean? They must mean that we are to lift our mental or spiritual gaze above our material sight and above all sense-testimony.

The Reality of Good

Jesus said to his disciples, "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." He was the most profound of philosophers, and Mrs. Eddy declares that he was "the most scientific man that ever trod the globe" (Science and Health, p. 313). It is not possible to believe that he expected them to become suddenly perfect. Unquestionably, he was urging them to think according to the perfection of Principle, for he knew that thinking from the standpoint of Principle is the true way of Science.

This same instruction is quite as good for us as it was for them. Our attitude then must be that of Truth. St. John says in his first epistle, "I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth." Consquently, when we are asked or ask ourselves what we can do in the face of the apparent plight of civilization today, reflected as it is in the want and worry and woe of millions of people, the answer of Christian Science is clear and explicit. We can affirm and know that such a condition is not the truth of God's creation nor anything like it. It is not truth at all, nor is it true in any of its aspects. It is all error, and seeing that it is error, it is to be so classified, and is to be denied and rejected, no matter how insistently it may appear to be going on or how big it may appear to be.

It is quite common knowledge that Christian Scientists are taught to classify all evil as error and to deny it as such. In healing disease Christian Scientists reject the erroneous testimony of the senses. They do not call suffering or disease truth, nor do they associate it with truth or with anything that is true.

While this simple scientific method of treating disease is capable of an amplification that if entered into here would extend far beyond the time at my disposal, it is well known and quite generally acknowledged that by means of it, diseases of the most virulent nature have disappeared from the human body, showing that those diseases were not primarily material, but were due to a state of erring mentality which Truth corrects.

We have need to overcome the belief that evil is large or great. It never has any actual existence. If you were to take the hand of truth and march through the endless corridors of infinity, you would never find any evil. It is well for us to remember this, and that when evil appears to be large it is only just so many ciphers placed before a unit.

In view of all this, the duty of every thinking man and woman appeals to us with ceaseless insistence. It can be fulfilled with ever-growing and intensified joy. The only way to account for the fact that we are living and thinking is to permit thought to exercise its divine prerogative and reveal its original being.

Angels Are Spiritual Intuitions

In ancient times, according to the Biblical record, inspiring and protective ideas sometimes appeared to be visualized to the patriarchs and the prophets. This was according to the tradition and belief of those primitive but inspired thinkers. The day of Science is our day, a different day, a period less primitive. Pure metaphysics alone can explain what would otherwise appear to be mysterious. The word "angels," as used in the Bible, has always had mysterious connotations. Science and Health (p. 581) defines that word thus: "God's thoughts passing to man; spiritual intuitions, pure and perfect." Is not the healing power of divine Principle brought to light in this hour one of these angels? If this be so, then everything depends upon our hospitality. St. Paul wrote: "And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." It takes new, active, and original thoughts to effect such a desirable transformation.

The Opposite of Truth Cannot Be True

The seeming contact of Truth and error is never in the slightest agreement, but is always absolute repulsion. Death never becomes life; error never becomes truth; evil never becomes good; matter never becomes Spirit. In the demonstration of divine Principle, as taught in Christian Science, all evil, of whatever name or nature, is rejected as unreal.

Now this distinction between matter and Spirit, Truth and error, made by Christian Science and exclusively by Christian Science, has inevitably given rise to much comment and not a little opposition. Our critics in the intensity of their misunderstanding sometimes forget to exercise even ordinary judgment. They often choose to ignore the widely demonstrated facts that Christian Science is a scientific system of overcoming all evil, that it springs from divine power, and operates as the law of the divine power, and that it does all this by giving us an understanding of Truth which enables us to deal with error fundamentally, rather than superficially. Now dealing with error fundamentally does not, in all reason, make Christian Science less worthy, but rather more worthy to be called Science. In order to treat it legitimately is, namely Christian Science, its propositions must necessarily be in accordance with the words and works of Jesus the Christ. They must be Christian in order to be true.

Demonstration Necessary

So it is, that just as in all demonstrable science, and notably in higher mathematics, the propositions which constitute this Science are not obviously true. They must be tested. Here the analogy ceases, however, for Christian Science is not only a discovery but a revelation. Its propositions are spiritually true and humanly redemptive. Diseases which were real to those who were suffering because of them, were unreal to the enlightened thought of Christ Jesus, and he proved them to be unreal, by healing them, thus giving to the persons who believed diseases to be real the proof that they were actually unreal.

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Why should anybody contend for the reality of disease since everybody would be glad if there were no disease? Is it not clear that if there were no disease, disease would be unreal? Now since our desires have this common ground, why should not our intelligence be exercised according to our common desires and needs? The divine Principle, the one Mind, in all its infinitude, does not include or provide for any such thing as disease. Seeing that we are all thinking all of the time in one way or another, and granting that our thoughts have some influence in our own lives and possibly in the lives of other people, why should we not entertain those thoughts which are most likely to bless ourselves and others? The reasonableness of such a course must appeal to all people, whether or not they have as yet fully subscribed to the teachings of Christian Science.

Through all this it may be observed that Christian Science alone explains Christian Science. For ordinary systems of science or religion to attempt either to ignore or to explain the extraordinary healing and redemptive work of this Science is futile. The only result of such endeavors has been confusion.

It is cheering to observe a change in this respect. An attitude of disdain toward a system that has proved its raison d'etre for nearly three quarters of a century is not ordinarily intelligent. It is therefore interesting to note that those who formerly tahooed Christian Science utterly have recently taken to writing books about it, and especially about the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science. While much of what has been written and published in this way has been intentionally derogatory of her whom hundreds of thousands of Christian people look upon as the most inspired character that has appeared upon the stage of human experience since the first century of the Christian era, the effect has been to extend and increase the interest in the subject itself. This is exactly what has occurred throughout the history of this movement, and such signs and others of a similar nature show that Christian Science lives and thrives under opposition just as the word of Truth has always done and always will do.

That we human beings are encumbered with a material and finite sense of existence is in itself an acknowledgment of the need of divine help, and it is also a silent plea for mutual consideration and good manners. Some of us would enjoy to have our idiosyncrasies placed under the magnifying glass of ill will, but in such an event we might at any rate have the cold comfort of knowing that the resultant exaggerated views were misrepresentations. Mrs. Eddy's ideals, her devotion to Principle, her life of unselfishness, and more especially the strength of her Christian character, all become objectionable traits when seen through the eyes of prejudice and interpreted with the pen of envy and malice.

It is both interesting and instructive to observe the utter failure of all such methods. The sale of the Christian Science textbook has apparently often been increased by the publication of books which were intended to accomplish an entirely different purpose. Neither ignorant misunderstandings nor mischievous misinterpretations of Mrs. Eddy's character have affected her demonstrated achievements in the slightest degree. The healing power and influence of Christian Science now recognized throughout the greater part of the civilized world, broadening and every day rising higher in the estimation of mankind, constitute an enduring monument to the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science.

The Spread of Christian Science

Because of this healing work, Christian Science churches and societies are now to be found not only in practically every country of Europe, and North America, but in the Islands of the sea and in various places in Africa and Asia, and notably in Australasia, indicating unmistakably the widespread and ever-growing interest in a church "which should reinstate primitive Christianity and its lost element of healing," to quote the words of its Founder, Mary Baker Eddy (Manual of The Mother Church, p. 17).

Mrs. Eddy

Mary Baker Eddy discovered this Science. She was the first practitioner of this Science. Those who were benefited by her ministrations did not immediately understand her teachings. For years she had to stand alone, and she had to present and prove to mankind the value of original and revolutionary ideas concerning God, man, the universe, and the healing of Christ, gradually those who were healed and helped became adherents to her doctrine and many of them entered upon the practice of healing the sick by the method which she had discovered and which at first she alone taught.

I knew Mrs. Eddy only slightly, but in view of much that has been said of her by writers who never saw her and who really knew nothing about her, it may not be improper for me to speak of one particular interview which I was privileged to have with her and during which I could observe her closely.

Because of this I have more than once been asked to describe Mrs. Eddy. She was in all that constitutes personal appearance well worth describing, and yet I could not attempt to describe her because something greater than any human personality however attractive commanded one's exclusive attention in Mrs. Eddy's presence.

Although she kept in touch with contemporary affairs and was thoroughly alive to the circumstances and events of a changing world, still it could be observed that she looked out upon the world rather than out from it; and in the case of this particular interview the thought of her personality was lost in the unique eloquence with which she spoke of the grandeur of divine Science and of the blessings which must accrue to mankind through the acceptance of this Science. She spoke much of the power and presence and immutable law of Love, . . . and when an instance was mentioned wherein she had been as much wronged as it is possible for one person to be wronged by another, her spontaneous forgiveness was couched in the noblest terms of pure Christianity.

In Science and Health (p. 1) Mrs. Eddy writes: "Regardless of what another may say or think on this subject, I speak from experience. Prayer, watching, and working, combined with self-immolation, are God's gracious means for accomplishing whatever has been successfully done for the Christianization and health of mankind."

The Search for Truth

It is the practical value of this Science which excites the curiosity of the average man or woman. This interest once awakened grows and flourishes by its own inherent relation to the permanency and reality of Truth. Thus the adoption of Christian Science, according to the alarmed forecasts of our critics, threatens to be universal. It is a part of the duty and privilege of a lecturer to accept the prophecy and dispel the alarm. When King Agrippa said to Paul, "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian," the apostle answered, "I would to God, that not only thou, but also all that hear me this day, were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds." So in our day the demonstrable understanding of Christianity holds out not merely a hope but the assurance that the power of God revealed, and thus made available, can meet the individual and universal needs of mankind with absolute certainty and supreme satisfaction.

Our needs often appear to be many and divergent, but they are actually few and identical. We have been led to believe that happiness depends upon circumstances and possessions, and humanity has quite generally accepted the old philosophical dogma that the object of life and living is the attainment of happiness, while the truth is that happiness, while the truth is that happiness is the essential nature of true being, the very essence of the one Mind, the divine Principle, announced in the words of St. John, "God is love." Let us then start with happiness instead of merely seeking it. Let us accept the admonitions of the Bible, "With joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation," and, "Rejoice evermore." In so doing we shall find that Christian inspiration is sustained and corroborated by divine reason and unanswerable logic.

As step by step in entering upon this path of pure Science your thoughts begin to "acquaint themselves with God," as the Christian Science textbook (p. 107), paraphrasing the Bible, says that they should do, you will see that they also begin to take on the law and power of that divine acquaintanceship. It will become more joyously clear to you that Christian Science is demonstrating what is already and forever true and perfect and at hand.

You will see that all that means cause, basis, incentive, impulsion, plan, purpose, power and law; all that means Life and the reality of Life, and the ability to sustain and perpetuate the law of health and Life, already exists and is divinely and immutably operative in our behalf when thoughts unerringly acquaint themselves with God, the one Mind, and just as unerringly reject the belief that there is any other mind or any necessity for any other mind.

On page 469 of the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health, the author writes, "There can be but one Mind, because there is but one God; and if mortals claimed no other Mind and accepted no other, sin would be unknown."

God Available to All

The healing influence and unction of this one infinite presence requires no medium other than itself and could have none. Necessarily, God lets be the directness of His own omnipresence and the immutability of His own law.

Accepting the ideas of the infinite Mind, Science requires that we reject the beliefs and fears and theories which constitute what are called mortal mind or the human mind. In this way alone can we avoid the adulteration of the practice of Christian Science, an adulteration which would inevitably ensue if we were erroneously led to believe that what is called the human mind, or mortal mind, could be a medium for the action of the divine Mind.

Prior to the advent of Christian Science, the basic proposition of this Science, "All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation" (Science and Health, p. 468), to be found in the paragraph called "the scientific statement of being," in the Christian Science textbook, was a proposition either wholly unknown or but dimly perceived even by the most enlightened, consequently the Science of Mind, revealed exclusively in divine ideas and dealing solely with thoughts and beliefs, was also unknown. It needs to be accepted more simply and tested in individual experience according to the directness of its method. This method may briefly be described as the affirmations of eternal spiritual Truth and the consequent rejection of evil of any name or nature whatsoever.

If one doubts the value of such a course and believes it unworthy to be called scientific let him persistently differentiate mentally between good and evil, clearing to the one and rejecting the other, for a single day. By so doing one can prove for himself whether the simple but exacting method of Christian Science is really scientific. This necessity for correct thinking or for thinking at all sometimes seems to be discouraging for those who have supposed that Christianity was a mere system of belief and blind faith, and heaven a place to be attained through death, but such a one may take heart. Sincerity opens the door to divine understanding.

Our real prayers are therefore praise rather than supplication, for Christian Science revealing the fact that God is Mind, the infinity of good, reveals the perfection that already is and always was and always will be. Nothing could be added to it, nothing taken from it. All of its details, all of its relationships are eternal and divinely harmonious. Let this be our understanding in regard to our homes, our churches, our country, our world.

Thus we may help in bringing to pass universally the real government of divine Principle. Speaking of this on page 565 of Science and Health Mrs. Eddy writes: "The impersonation of the spiritual idea had a brief history in the earthly life our our Master; but 'of his kingdom there shall be no end,' for Christ, God's idea, will eventually rule all nations and peoples—imperatively, absolutely, finally—with divine Science."

SULLIVAN—KENNEY

St. Margaret's Church in Brockton was attractively decorated with autumn flowers and palms last Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Marie Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kenney of Auburn street, Brockton, to John Arthur Sullivan, son of Mr. Robert H. Sullivan of Washington street. The rector of the church, Rev. Fr. Alexander Hamilton performed the ceremony at 3:30 o'clock.

Miss Kenney was attended by Miss Mae Crawford of Hopedale and Mr. Sullivan had for his best man James M. Kenney, Jr. of Brockton, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a gown of golden brown velvet and lace with matching hat and carried a bouquet of autumn flowers. Miss Crawford wore fuchsia velvet with hat to match and carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception for members of the immediate families and a few close friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. Upon their return from a wedding journey to New York and Washington, Mr. Sullivan and his bride will make their home in Springfield.

The bride is a graduate of the Brockton schools and before her marriage was employed as a secretary. Mr. Sullivan graduated from Winchester High School and from Northeastern University. He is widely known locally and is associated as commercial agent with the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

BREAK AT NOONAN SCHOOL

Some time after the closing of the building last Friday afternoon the William G. Noonan School at Hemingway and Canal streets was entered, access having been gained through a skylight on the roof, to which the thief or thieves climbed by means of a copper conductor.

The break was discovered by the Custodian, James Bradley, when he arrived to do his regular Saturday morning work at the school.

Mr. Bradley at once notified the police and Chief William H. Rogers conducted an investigation. It was found that the skylight had been forced and that whoever had entered had then dropped to the floor of the building.

A second checkup was made when the teachers returned for Monday's school session and so far as could be discovered that only the sum of 26 cents, used to purchase crackers, had been taken.

A. & P. GROWTH

For the first week of their 75th anniversary sale, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company today reported a total sales increase of $801,208 (eight hundred and one thousand two hundred and eight dollars).

During the same period an increase in newspaper advertising expenditures of $17,962 (seventeen thousand nine hundred and sixty-two dollars) made possible special anniversary price announcements against a historical background which depicted how the growth of this company has been influenced by the social and economic changes in America during the past 75 years.

It was necessary for Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell to go to the Town Hall last Friday evening and inform several who were attending a lecture there that they could not leave their machines parked in front of the fire station.

HOW YOU PAY YOUR TAXES

In answer to the question, "As the 1935 local property taxes will be assessed as of Jan. 1, 1935, and the tax bill dated Jan. 1, 1935, does the 1934 local tax bill dated April 1, 1934 represent a tax payment of nine months?" Henry F. Long, Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation, replied: "A municipal tax bill always represents the proportion that each taxpayer must annually pay for the support of the activities of the municipality in which the property taxed, whether it is real estate or tangible personal property or both, is located for a 12 months municipal fiscal year period. The tax bill does not nor has it ever represented the period from April 1 to April 1. With the exception of a few cities all municipalities in 1934 have a municipal fiscal period which represents the cost of local government from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31 inclusive. Neither the municipal year nor the amount has any relation to the April 1 date on the tax bill. The figures 1934 on the tax bill represent the amount which the taxpayer must pay to discharge his tax obligation for the 1934 calendar year, which is the amount that the municipality has appropriated for 12 months of government in 1934."

Commissioner Long further said, "In 1935 every city and town in Massachusetts will have a fiscal year run from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31. The 1935 tax bill dated Jan. 1, 1935 will represent exactly what tax bills have represented before, that is, the individual taxpayer's proportion of the 12 months' cost of running the city or town as measured by the tangible personal property or real estate owned by him.

Buyers of real estate because a lien as of April 1 for the annual tax was impressed on the real estate portion of the tax bill have in the past arranged with the seller to accept that portion of the tax bill representing real estate which was the amount proportionate to the number of months to run until the day when a lien would be impressed for another year's tax. There is no definite knowledge as to just how this practice developed but it has been in general use and the Supreme Judicial Court as between buyer and seller of real estate has approved it, although they have indicated the practice is not in any manner to be considered as effecting the municipal year."

Commissioner Long further said, "Holders of property in Massachusetts not exempt from local taxation will be called upon to make a return thereof to the local assessors as of Jan. 1, 1935. If a person fails to make such a return, the assessors are obliged by law to estimate the value of his taxable property. On the basis of this valuation a tax bill will be sent on or before June 14, 1935.

The city governments and the town meetings will determine in the early part of 1935 the total amounts that the municipality is to expend. The tax bill which the collector of taxes must get in the hands of every taxpayer on or before June 14, 1935 will represent the amount which the city government through its budget or the town meeting through its appropriating activities has determined that the municipal taxpayers will pay for that calendar year's business. The lien on all real estate will be impressed as of Jan. 1, 1935. The collector must, in order to prepare for 1935, speed the collection of 1934 taxes by sending earlier a Demand on unpaid 1934 taxes. The communities, whether they are cities or towns, must determine their 1935 budgets for the entire 12 months' period early in the year. The assessors will set the tax rate for 1935 on or before May 1, 1935 and no appropriations made subsequent to that can go in the tax levy or be of any avail unless funds are available out of the surplus revenue of previous years. The amounts submitted to the assessors in 1935 by the Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation must be used in setting the 1935 tax rate not only as 1935 estimates of the distributions of revenue collected by the State and distributed to the cities and towns but also must be used as estimates of 1935 State and county taxes or other obligations which will subsequently be determined by actual account.

The tax of 1935 will come to the taxpayer in one bill. One-half of the bill for which a stub will be provided is payable on July 1, and the remaining half is payable on Oct. 1. Under the law there is no penalty for failure to pay half of the tax on or before July 1. If the tax is not paid on or before Nov. 1, 1935, the entire amount bears interest from Oct. 1, 1935. On the tax bill must be printed the date Jan. 1, 1935. It must be on the uniform form approved by the Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation and must state on its face that application for exemption or abatement must be made to the assessors on or before Dec. 1, 1935. From the decision of the assessors, appeal may be had to the Board of Tax Appeals or County Commissioners as in the past. Uniformity both as to application to the assessors and as to the procedure of the assessors and collectors must be carried out.

The manner of 1935 tax collection is not changed but the necessity of more prompt collection is apparent. One object of the law is to make easier the payment of taxes by providing that partial payments of 10 per cent of the total tax may be made provided no payment be less than $10. Partial payments may be made subsequent to July 1 and it is believed that by earlier payments the communities will be saved the necessity of borrowing in anticipation of taxes as the taxpayer, knowing earlier what his tax obligation is, will undoubtedly in many instances pay his bill upon presentation by the collector. Such payment will be made with the assurance that no additional obligations can be added to what is stated in the tax bill as the local communities cannot thereafter enlarge upon or add activities entailing further expenditures unless they have available funds or free cash as shown by their balance sheet as of the date when they desire to make an appropriation."

MODERN SHOE CLINIC

There has opened in Winchester one of the most modern and best equipped shoe rebuilding and shoe shining establishments to be found in this section. Since the Vernon Shoe Clinic opened its wonderful quarters at the corner of Mt. Vernon street and Winchester place, residents have been afforded the finest service imaginable. Completely new to Winchester are the three waiting booths, with beveled mirror backs, Flemish oak finish and upholstering to match. Special low chairs for women are provided. Low swinging gates permit entrance to the waiting and shining space, hiding stockings and feet of customers. The plant is equipped with the latest shoe repairing machinery and equipment for repairing and cleaning hats. In fact this firm can really make your old hat a new creation. The new firm guarantees satisfaction and solicit Winchester patronage.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The first social event of this season, one which will be repeated monthly if present plans of the committee in charge are carried out, will be held at the Calumet Club next Tuesday evening. There will be supper, an entertainment and dancing, the general tone of the affair taking the form of a Hallowe'en party. Especial talent has been secured for the entertainment and the response to the announcement of the affair has been most encouraging to those sponsoring it.

Former Selectman Walter H. Dotten of Alben street is at the Winchester Hospital, where he is recovering satisfactorily from an operation, performed Monday.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The first regular meeting of the year was held in Fortnightly Headquarters, Waterfield Building, on Monday, Oct. 22. It was a delightful meeting in spite of the rain. The hall looked pretty and home-like with its new curtains, flowers, and the tea tables set up at the back. There was a large attendance, and a cordial spirit of friendliness which Gladys Wilson's own personality has done much to infuse into the whole club of which she is president.

There were brief committee reports as follows:

Antiques—The next meeting, a lecture on "The Boys of Glass Collecting" by Lura Woodside Watkins, will be on Nov. 9 at 2:30 p. m., not 3:30 as was printed by mistake in the Year Book.

Art — The Reading Society of Craftsmen invites all Winchester enthusiasts to its exhibit in the Tavern on Oct. 26 and 27.

Conservation—The first meeting of the Garden Group on Tuesday, Nov. 6, will bear Mrs. Annie Gray Blanchard lecture on bulbs.

Literature—The first meeting which will inaugurate the rather unique subject of this year's study, "Conversation as a Literary Form" will be on Nov. 5, at 2:30 p. m.

Dramatics—The Drama Department of the State Federation is holding a series of three conferences at Federation Headquarters on Newhury street, Boston. The first will be on Wednesday, Nov. 7. For further information call Beatrice Budd, Win. 1245-M. Also the Dramatics Committee and other mothers in the club wish to call attention to a series of exceptionally fine plays for children which will be given at the Repertory Theater this winter. Mrs. Annie Gray Blanchard has detailed information concerning them.

Co-operation with War Veterans—Mrs. Mae S. Miley, tel. Win. 0144, the new chairman of this committee, asked for contributions of silk or satin pieces suitable for lining the woven purses and bags that a hospital group of disabled veterans are making. This is a simple way to be helpful, and it is hoped that many Fortnightly women will look up their pieces and send them in.

Legislation — Mrs. Irene Clarke urged all women to be sure and vote on Nov. 6.

Membership—Mrs. Anna W. Lochman read 33 new names proposed for membership in the club.

Music—The first morning musicale in charge of Helena S. Sibley, will be on Friday, Nov. 9, at the home of Mrs. Frederick Alexander on Lakeview road.

The first Glee Club rehearsal will be Thursday, Nov. 1, at 9:30 a. m. Mary Ramsdell Watson is in charge of the Glee Club this year. Any club members who are interested are invited to join. There is especial need of more second sopranos and altos.

Community Service Special Notice

A round-table conference on Community Service, the first of a series of three which Mrs. Nathaniel Nichols' committee is planning for this year, will be held in Fortnightly Headquarters on Friday, Nov. 2, at 2:30 p. m. Representative speakers from several organizations doing community service in Winchester, will explain their work, its objects, resources and problems. There will be general discussion following the talks, and a social hour with tea at 4 o'clock.

Specially invited guests of the Community Service Committee are the members of the Executive Board, all those who have joined the club since last March, and the first third of the membership list (initials A to F, inclusive). But any other members of the Fortnightly who would like to come will be welcome also.

Following the committee reports, the president, Mrs. Gladys Wilson, gave her message of greeting to all the old friends come back and all the new friends just meeting. The club paid its beautiful silent tribute to the memory of Hattie E. Cowdry who passed away during the summer. One matter of business was attended to—the passing of a vote that the symphony program on Jan. 14 and the Brahms-Liszt program on March 11, shall be open meetings.

The next regular meeting will be on Nov. 12, the Armistice Day holiday, and the president cordially invited the husbands of all club members to come as her personally invited guests to that meeting, using her guest tickets which will be waiting for them at the door. Dr. James Gordon Gilkey will speak on Germany and Russia, and will show motion pictures which he took there himself.

The reports on the Swampscott State Federation meetings of last May were given by the reporting delegates, Mrs. Martha Kelley and Mrs. Elizabeth Hall. They were interesting and were sincerely enjoyed. The meeting then adjourned to the program.

Varsity Club Quartet

An outstanding musical program was given by the Varsity Club Quartet of Boston—Clifford Johnson, 1st tenor; George Wheeler, 2nd tenor; Ralph Tailby, 1st bass; Robert Isensee, 2nd bass. Earl Weidner, pianist and arranger.

It would be difficult to present a more varied and delightful musical hour or one that was more universally appealing. These singers, each one of whom is an artist in his own right, combine to give a perfect tonal balance; the rich sonorous timbre of their voices blend in such a manner that the result is more than vocal. The original and clever arrangements of Mr. Weidner, in addition to his scintillating and at times inspired accompaniments add greatly to the excellent performance of this distinguished quartet. We were so happy, too, to have with us again, that favorite of Fortnightly audiences, whose programs are always most pleasurable, Ralph Tailby.

The opening number, a dramatic tone poem by Hammond, based upon Sir Walter Scott's "Lochinvar," was probably the most taxing and the heaviest. In it the quartet was magnificent in its interpretation and the interpolated solos were beautifully done. The encore, a Cowboy song, "Careless Love," afforded Mr. Isensee, through the medium of its haunting melody, an opportunity to display his rich, resonant bass voice to advantage.

George Wheeler, in his group, was dramatic in "Life" by Curran and lyric in the lilting Irish tune "Old County Down." This singer whom we have heard so favorably on the radio, did not disappoint in concert.

The "Laughing Cavalier," a robust rollicking song by Sanderson, cleverly arranged by Weidner was followed by an exquisite choral setting of Rachmaninoff's C sharp minor prelude Chopin's "Valse Brilliante." Mr. Weidner's solo offering showed a lightness of touch and a deftness of technique. For his encore, he played Liszt's "Leibestraum," as a piano solo with an original choral background which is used regularly as the identification theme of the quartet's radio programs.

The next group presented the singers in a unique manner in which the audience heard them in solo, duet, trio and quartet. Mr. Johnson sang "I Hear a Thrush at Eve" by Cadman. The purity of his tone and the ease with which his high notes seemed to float out into space greatly pleased his listeners. Mr. Wheeler joined him in a lovely vocal arrangement of Kreisler's "Caprice Vuinois" called "Cradle Song." With the addition of Mr. Tailby the trio turned to popular music, doing "Dinah" in the best "Rhythm Boys" style. Mr. Isensee joined them in the lively "Happy Feet," also in jazz form. This group which showed such great versatility was so well received that "One Alone" from Romberg's "The Desert Song" was given as an encore.

Mr. Tailby, whose beautiful voice we enjoy more each time that we hear it, sang "When I Trink Upon the Maidens" by Michael Head and as an encore "Ole Man River" which appeared to be the high point in the afternoon's program.

In conclusion, the quartet sang a very lovely Weidner arrangement of Victor Herbert selections. So well was this done that we did not miss the usual soprano obligato in the "Street Song" from "Naughty Marietta."

This afternoon was one of the most enjoyable musicales which the Fortnightly has presented. Too much cannot be said for the friendliness of the audience and the generosity of the artists. We look forward with a great deal of pleasure to the time when we may hear the Varsity Club Quartet again.

BOOMS CURLEY

Just a little space in your paper to reply to a few of the statements of Mr. Dunbar F. Carpenter who seems to think the majority of the readers of your paper must be morons, as a Democrat I resent his aspertions on Mr. Curley, the standard bearer of the Democratic party, and I concede Mr. Dunbar Carpenter the right to vote for any man he pleases, and he should concede the same right to every other citizen.

Mr. Carpenter, if I remember correctly was one of the leaders in this town who did everything possible to get the town to cut the wages of the employees, and I do not think he is going to make many votes among the large number of employees, their families, and friends, by seeking to belittle Mr. Curley, and they certainly will steer clear of any man he endorses for office.

He prates on the $38 tax rate of Boston, and asks if we want this rate in Winchester, and what most of us would like to know is what the election of Mr. Curley will have to do with the tax rate of Winchester.

Again Mr. Carpenter cites the East Boston tunnel, well Mr. Carpenter admitting this is a hole in the ground, how could Mr. Curley have received the money for this job if the Republican Senators and House had not voted to allow him to go ahead with the project, or no, Mr. Carpenter you can not pin that on Mr. Curley.

About all we have been hearing from Mr. Carpenter is the tax rate, I will have to admit my tax bill is not quite so heavy as Mr. Carpenter's but he gets his much easier than I do mine, but any time that the town wants to increase my tax bill for the benefit of the town, and the employees I will be able to pay it, and how about you Mr. Carpenter?

Finally, Mr. Carpenter, it will not be the so called intellectuals who will decide this election it will be the so-called common people who will go down the line with Mr. Curley. And while I am about it let me say that Winchester is not going to decide the election in Massachusetts.

"DON'T GET FOOLED"

"Don't Get Fooled" is the subject on which Mr. Samuel M. Graves will speak at the young people's fellowship hour at the First Baptist Church on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Graves will be the first speaker in a series of talks which will be given by guest speakers during November and December at the young people's service. These meetings are open to all young people of High School age and over, as is also the social hour which follows the 8 o'clock services. The young people's program includes a great variety of meetings, and the young people are looking forward with unusual enthusiasm to hearing Mr. Graves on Sunday evening, as he opens what promises to be a most interesting series of services.

Francis Gaffney who lives at 54 Hemingway street plays the violin in the Northeastern University concert orchestra. He is a senior in the engineering school. He attended Winchester High where he was on the honor roll and a member of the school orchestra.

GRANADA THEATRE, MALDEN

Hailed as the finest picture of the year, "One Night of Love" with Grace Moore, Tullio Carminati and Lyle Talbot as the stars, opens a seven day run at the big Granada Theater in Malden on Saturday. So great has been the desire of the public to see this picture that theatres who generally play a single week were forced to extend the engagement in many instances to four and even five weeks to accommodate the crowds. For a number of years the leading figure of the New York stage, renowned throughout the world for her beautiful voice and exotic charm, Miss Moore emerges in this new picture as one of screendom's most captivating figures. "One Night of Love" is an entrancingly novel blend of romance, comedy, drama and music. It concerns itself with the operatic aspirations of an ambitious young midwestern girl who travels to Italy to study voice culture with the prize money won in a local radio voice contest. There she meets Lyle Talbot, a gay young American blade, and also a charming and debonair music teacher, played by Tullio Carminati. It is the latter who wins her heart but their contract was drawn with an agreement not to inject love into their strictly musical association. It is a touching predicament for the charming Miss Moore, and a situation fraught with comic and dramatic implications. Cleverly interposed into the story are a number of operatic sequences in which Miss Moore is permitted to sing several of the greatest arias ever written. Her glorious, stirring voice pours forth these pulsating songs, reaching a powerful climax in the curtain scene after which Carminati admits his undying love for her. Critics have been unanimous in declaring "One Night of Love" a glorious entertainment and a personal triumph for Miss Moore.

Kay Francis and Leslie Howard in "British Agent" will be the second attraction on this gala bill. Inspired by the best selling novel of the famous author, R. H. Bruce Lockart, who was in Petrograd during the revolution, the drama is the stark, realistic story of the writer's own experience. Leslie Howard portrays the role of a British Secret Service man who falls in love with Kay Francis who has devoted her life to the Red cause. It is a powerful drama well suited to the talents of Miss Francis and Mr. Howard.

"The Count of Monte Cristo" with Robert Donat and Elissa Landi ends its run at the Granada on Friday.

MYSTIC THEATRE, MALDEN

Marlene Dietrich in "The Scarlet Empress" will be the big attraction the Mystic Theatre in Malden will offer for seven days starting Saturday. Directed by Josef von Sternberg who has been responsible for all of Miss Dietrich's American film successes, "The Scarlet Empress," is a story of Catherine, the Great, Empress of Russia. However it is in no sense like a previous picture built around the life of this character. The picture visualizes the semi-barbaric Oriental splendor of the Russian court of the 18th century. It is a lavishly mounted spectacle with Marlene Dietrich portraying the Empress. When she realizes that her husband, the Grand Duke Peter, is hopelessly insane she plots with her soldier lover to destroy him and sieze the throne. In this particular scene showing the revolution the riding of Cossacks right through the palace to salute their new Empress is a spectacle which is beautiful and thrilling. Miss Dietrich succeeds very well in her role of the Empress who knew the way to a soldier's heart. Among the players who appear in support of the star are to be seen John Lodge, Sam Jaffe, Louise Dresser, C. Aubrey Smith, Gavin Gordon, Olive Tell, Jameson Thomas and thousands of extra and small part artists.

"Name the Woman" with Richard Cromwell and Arlene Judge as the featured players will be the second attraction on the bill starting Saturday. Richard Cromwell is cast as a young reporter who is assigned to an important case concerning the death of the district attorney because he happens to be the only man available when the story breaks. He discovers that the daughter of the reform candidate for mayor is in some way connected with the murder. He meets and falls in love with this girl and tries to discover the real criminal. Cromwell tells her that she is under suspicion and the two of them hit upon the solution of the crime. Discovering that gangsters were responsible for the crime Cromwell tries to capture them alone and this a wild and thrilling time getting back to the office with his story.. The supporting cast includes Rita LeRoy, Thomas Jackson, Purnell Pratt and Stanley Fields.

Kay Francis and Warren William in "Doctor Monica" heads the bill ending its run at the Mystic on Friday. Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville in "Their Big Moment" is the second feature on the current program.

PARKER—MAYO

Mrs. Charles W. Gould of Norwood street announces the marriage of her daughter, Frances Gould Mayo, to Mr. John Jackson Parker, son of the Rev. and Mrs. William Parker of Fairhaven, on Saturday, Oct. 20 at 4 o'clock, in the Rogers Memorial Church at Fairhaven. The groom's father officiated. The bride's sister, Mrs. Bonney M. Powell of New Jersey, was matron of honor and Nathaniel Pope, 2d, was Mr. Parker's best man.

Jesse Gould, 3d of Winchester, uncle of the bride, gave her in marriage. Only the family and a few close friends attended. The young couple will reside in New York City.

Miss Brenda Skene of Glengarry, who is a student at Bradford Junior College, had as her house guest over last week-end, Miss Jane Good of Springfield, Ill.

JONESPORT VILLAGE FAIR

Town Hall, Winchester, Oct. 30 and 31 —Admission Free

Jonesport! To how many thousands of radio listeners has this name become associated with the wholesome ideals and the rugged character of one of the country's greatest states—the rock-ribbed coast of Maine—as personified in the lives of Seth and Mother Parker.

For two days the village will be reproduced at the Town Hall, and all the friends, neighbors and "city folks" are invited to visit and shop, worship and sup with the citizens of "Jonesport."

As one enters the village, on the left is the general store whose proprietors, Squire and Mrs. Cyrus Fairweather, will provide whatever is necessary to satisfy the inner man. Even the cracker barrel with its head knocked in invites one to taste, and the pot-bellied stove reminds all that the state election is near at hand and in the throes of much discussion. (Reserved box seats at a premium.)

Next door is Stebbins & Co. Here the ladies, after providing for the next meal, can obtain the necessary linens on which to serve the tempting viands, famous as the products of Maine housekeepers, and any housekeeping articles will be found here.

The Hopkins Variety Store is a veritable paradise for children. Don't miss a visit to this shop. Toys, balloons, games and pretty things for babies to wear.

At Smith's Boat Shop you may find some of the recovered treasure. (Who does not like a mystery? Take a chance and see what you find.) Grabs are always intriguing, and the old dory is worth a visit.

Jonathan Staples' 25c and 50c store will provide a wide variety of articles at these prices, fancy and plain, useful and otherwise.

Is there anyone who can resist the lure of sparking jewelry? Then let him stay away from the Seth Gift Shop, for rings, bracelets, and the other trinkets so dear to the heart of womankind will tempt all who enter this shop. Of course there will be other gifts which would be most acceptable for Christmas gifts.

No village, however small, would be complete without a post office, and this village is no exception. We do not guarantee any reduction in the price of stamps or bargain sales in penny post cards, but no duy is complete without at least one visit to the window to ask "is there anything for me?"

Cold weather or hot, folks are thirsty at times, and the Old Oaken Bucket is an invitation to slake that thirst where the cool waters flow.

Everybody knows that the center of civilization is the church, library and schoolhouse, and Jonesport is as civilized as the next village, with these edifices much in evidence.

Then there is the lobster pound which if you do not relish this delectable sea food, stay away and leave plenty of room for those who do, for we predict this will be a big attraction.

If you are one of those unfortunate persons who has to watch calories, the candy shop and the bakery are two places to avoid, will cry a large warning, but who cares! Some laws were only made to break, anyway, and that candy will be an awful temptation. We assure you, and those luscious cakes and pies and cookies and doughnuts. Oh what's the use of making you poor overweights feel any worse?

Through the picket fence and the garden to the tea room. Arduous shopping excursions usually require some of sustenance, not enough, of course, to spoil your supper, but you are cordially invited to visit the home of Seth and Mother Parker for afternoon tea. A gracious hostess will greet you, and if you are interested in such things a friendly gypsy will tell your fortune in the tea leaves.

Special Doings. On Tuesday from 5 to 7, the Ocean Breeze Hotel will serve a real home-made chicken pie supper. Tickets 50c and must be reserved. Telephone Win. 0671-W and Mr. Bancroft will be glad to take your order.

At 8 o'clock there will be opportunity to give thanks at the Seth Parker Githerin' at the Homestead. Don't miss Seth and Mother, Cephus, Lizzie and the rest.

Hallowe'en—From 2:30 to 7 is the ping pong tournament under the auspices of the Massachusetts League of Ping Pong Players, open to the 32 who first register with Richard Leghorn (Win. 0390). The actual playing of the tournament will be under the supervision of the Winchester Ping Pong Club.

At 7 o'clock, exhibition matches under the direction of Lawrence M. Sibley, a recent Winchester champion.

Eight-thirty starts the big Hallowe'en Barn Dance, with an orchestra 'n everything. Melvin von Rosenvinge and his musicians will officiate. You may dance the whole evening for 50c per couple. Bring your party to the Town Hall and dance on the Village Green.

At 10:30 there will be an auction in true country style.

Rain or shine, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 30 and 31, from 10 a. m. on, "Jonesport Village" will keep open house. You are invited.

MEETING OF JUNIOR CIRCLE FLORENCE CRITTETON LEAGUE

On Tuesday, Oct. 23, the Junior Circle of the Florence Crittenton League started the first of their fall activities.

The following Circle members were hostesses to an open house bridge and tea: Misses Gretchen Stone, Frances Peirce, Katherine Nowell, Barbara Small, Eleanor Dow, Dorothy Wentworth and Mrs. Richard Harlow.

With election but a week hence, the administration swing to the right is in full tide. This is in accord with predictions made a month ago. The election sails are being trimmed to meet the wind. After election we will see what we will see; and we have seen plenty during the past nine months.

THE NOVEMBER BALLOT

The November election occupies the center of the stage. On the sixth of next month this state, in common with others, will give expression to its approval or rejection of the New Deal. Massachusetts, especially, has a particularly serious problem before it, and the contest for Governor in itself is an affair which will be viewed with great interest throughout the Nation. Mister Curley of Boston, who has already created a political record, is aligned solidly with the New Deal. He is a New Dealer and a Democrat. He has his record in the City of Boston, where he has served as Mayor, to show what his ability and what his methods of government are. Defeated in his contest to secure his party's nomination previous to the primaries, he ran on his own and secured an overwhelming vote when the primaries were held. He immediately received the support of the Democratic organization including that of the President's son, J. Roosevelt. On November sixth he will contest his election with the Republican candidate, Mr. Bacon. Winchester is a Republican town. So solidly is it Republican, that on previous elections it has seldom polled anywhere near its full strength. This year its full strength should appear. If all these Republicans in Winchester are opposed to what the State of Massachusetts is now facing, now is the time to register their opposition. The battle will be close. A full vote is needed.

In courtesy to many, we print herewith the list of names to appear in the coming ballot, Republican candidates emphasized. Look this list over—and when you vote, vote the entire Republican ballot.

Question No. 1
LAW SUBMITTED UPON REFERENDUM AFTER PASSAGE

Shall a law described as follows:—

This law amends General Laws, chapter 131, as previously amended, by repealing section 105A thereof and adding thereto three new sections, 105B, 105C, and 114A.

Section 105B provides that whoever uses any trap or other device for capture of fur bearing animals, which is not designed to kill such animal at once or to take it unhurt and which is likely to cause continued suffering to an animal caught therein, shall be fined fifty dollars, but traps or other devices for protection of property, set not more than fifty yards from any building, cultivated plot, or enclosures used for rearing poultry or game birds, to the use of which the presence of vermin may be detrimental, are excluded from the application of this section.

Section 105C provides for the submission to the voters at a municipal election in any city or town upon petition, of the question of whether the operation of section 105B shall be suspended or if it has been already suspended, of the question whether it shall again be operative in such city or town.

Section 114A provides that the Commissioner of Conservation may suspend the operation of section 105B for a period not exceeding thirty days within any specified territory under the control of his department.

The law also provides for the submission, by the selectmen to the voters at a special town meeting in the current year, upon petition, of the question as to whether the provisions of section 105B shall be suspended in any town; and which was approved by both branches of the General Court by vote not recorded, be approved? YES [ ] NO [ ]

To obtain a full expression of opinion, voters should vote on both of the following questions:

(a) If a voter desires to permit the sale of any and all alcoholic beverages in this city (or town) he will vote "YES" on both questions.

(b) If he desires to permit the sale of wines and malt beverages only herein, he will vote "NO" on question 1 and "YES" on question 2.

(c) If he desires to prohibit the sale of any and all alcoholic beverages herein, he will vote "NO" on both questions.

1. Shall licenses be granted in this city (or town) for the sale therein of all alcoholic beverages (whisky, rum, gin, malt beverages, wines and all other alcoholic beverages)? YES [ ] NO [ ]

2. Shall licenses be granted in this city (or town) for the sale therein of wines and malt beverages (wines and beer, ale and all other malt beverages)? YES [ ] NO [ ]

1. Shall the pari-mutuel system of betting on licensed horse races be permitted in this county? YES [ ] NO [ ]

2. Shall the pari-mutuel system of betting on licensed dog races be permitted in this county? YES [ ] NO [ ]

NOW IS THE TIME TO LAUGH

The following satire, printed in a trade paper just a year ago at the time the crack down, condemn all capitalists, on with the New Deal furor was in full tide, is interesting as a matter of comparison in the swing of the pendulum. When it was printed, successful business men, and more especially the bankers above all, were the one thing held up for criticism as the chief obstruction of the New Deal. That any had weathered the storm up to that time was sufficient cause for criticism. Perhaps, in view of the apparent change in public sentiment, the satire may bring a smile to the banker as well as the public as large.

END THE DEPRESSION AT THE RACES

To the Editor of the Star:

As the campaign progresses, the evidence that Mr. Curley is a magnificent spender, a Croesus with other people's money, becomes overwhelming. He is on record as promising to western Massachusetts a $10,000,000 race track. No doubt the citizens of Winchester will back the project to a man—and to a woman, too—for every intelligent citizen (and we have no others) knows instinctively that the one thing needed to end the depression at once and forever is a race course. Our townsmen will not be so selfish as to lack enthusiasm for Mr. Curley's magnificent project merely because they cannot see at first blush how a race course 100 or more miles away can benefit them. Mr. Curley will, of course, provide, also at public expense, a fleet of airplanes to carry us each day to the races and home again, our pockets jingling with money as the result of our keen choice of winners.

What is $10,000,000 to Mr. Curley? Merely chicken feed. Indeed, it is just that in the light of Mr. Curley's statement that the sole obligation of Massachusetts is to care for the 16,000,000 now on the relief rolls of the nation. Here in Winchester we have increased out taxes a couple of dollars in order to take care of our two or three hundred unemployed. And Mr. Curley now advances as a reason for his election the proposal that we of Massachusetts take care of 16,000,000! This Commonwealth has the proud record of accepting less federal money for relief than any of our sister states. We have done our job to the best of our ability. Some states have thrown almost the entire burden of relief upon the national government. Florida, that pleasure ground of the nation, so thronged by visitors last winter that its hotels were turning away seekers of accommodations, is paying only 1 per cent of its relief costs, leaving 99 per cent to be met by the citizens of other states. And Massachusetts, being third in the list of states paying the heaviest federal taxes, is today paying Florida's way. Does Mr. Curley really believe that the citizens of the Commonwealth, already one of the largest contributors to the federal treasury, will welcome still heavier exactions in order to relieve the unemployed in states which have lain down on the job? If he did not, he would not advance the suggestion as a reason for his election.

Everything Mr. Curley says goes to show that the gentleman is living in the unreal world of spend, spend, spend; wherein the unpleasant word pay, pay, pay, has no meaning. Heretofore Mr. Curley has been content to take only the coats of the taxpayers, but now he means to take their shirts, too. Has the Commonwealth gone mad, or is the disease confined to Mr. Curley alone? Voters can best prove their sanity by marking their ballots for Bacon and Haigis, and the entire Republican ticket.

MAKING COOKS HAPPY

Did you happen to see the parade of stoves up one of Winchester's prominent streets, a few days ago? Well, there was one—and all due to an ad in this little paper! Who says it doesn't pay to advertise? One day the writer happened to be looking over the "church notices" and her gaze slipping a little, she learned that someone wanted to sell a gas range—the very kind she had secretly coveted in her heart for years. Immediately she made the proper appointments and found a very dear little lady with exactly the right stove, and what was better, at the price she could afford to pay! (Incidentally, this lady had tried to sell her stove all summer through friends and this was her first ad in the Star). Since this was so perfect the writer herself put in an ad in the same Star, the following week, offering her own combination range for sale—and believe it or not, she almost had to hire a private secretary to take care of all the additional calls over that week-end.

Needless to say, a new owner was found at a good price and lo and behold the parade started. Today we have an up-to-date kitchen and a very happy housewife, all because of the efficiency of the ad columns of our Winchester Star.

IMPRESSIONS OF JONESPORT

When an opportunity to visit Jonesport presented itself last July, I welcomed it with enthusiasm as I have always liked Maine people and I wanted to know more about the "home of Seth Parker." Despite the fact that Seth Parker is a fictitious character, his home is well advertised that the first question I asked upon entering the village was "Will you kindly direct me to the Seth Parker homestead?" One of the older citizens of the town happened to be the first person I met.

His smile of greeting vanished and very soberly he answered, "Well, now I'm sorry you asked that. I really wouldn't lie to a lady. Seth Parker is Phillips Lord. He lives in Ellsworth. He never lived in Jonesport. Was here only once, then only for a week and he has no home here at all. Seth Parker is a made-up character. It's all a myth. People come here from all over the United States, looking for the home of Seth Parker and when they find there ain't none, they're mad. They expect to see us with chin whiskers and driving oxen and when they find us an up-to-date village and modern they're disappointed. They hold us up to the ridicule of the nation in the radio broadcasts and we are really fine people. I wish you hadn't asked me that question but I've got to answer you true. There ain't no Seth Parker homestead. I'm sorry."

I saw at once his [illegible] anguish as well as [illegible] in his town and assured him that it mattered not a bit whether Seth Parker had a home in Jonesport or in Ellsworth, that we were interested in Jonesport and Jonesport people, that we had enjoyed the radio programs and believed so heartily in the people that we were inspired (I used the word advisedly) to reproduce in a small way the sweet simplicity, the dignity and the fairness of their every day religion as well as their cheerful friendliness with their neighbors in a Jonesport Fair this fall.

Then, indeed, his face lighted, "O, madam that is the best news I've head in Jonesport for a long, long time. How long have you been here and how long are you going to stay?"

"We've been here about five minutes and we are staying for lunch."

"O, won't you stay a week and let us show you our finest hospitality. We are a kind people and friendly and we'd like to have you stay long enough to know us as we really are."

When I asked where we could get a good lunch he directed us to one of the well advertised inns where we had a freshly made clam stew, planked mackerel, beets, beet greens, new potatoes home made bread, blueberry pie and coffee. A most delicious meal for 50 cents.

As we ate I asked many questions, particularly how the townspeople felt about the publicity which had been given to Jonesport and I heard that the older people disliked it intensely, believing that it comprised their town the younger generation welcomed it, because it brought new life to the village, while the men and women who earned their living by caring for tourists were very glad of the added number of summer visitors.

I found that "Jonesport has no immigrants, no foreigners of any kind, no Jews, no Catholics, no Negroes and 'whimsically' no bad people, all good people."

Jonesport is a long village of three of four miles and thickly settled, really a combination of two villages connected by a bridge. It is about half way between Passamaquaddy and Penobscot Bay on a point of land seven miles off the main highway. It is about 70 miles east of Ellsworth and is a typically quaint, fishing village. The main commercial enterprises are fishing, lobstering, blueberries and tourists. The boat shop and loster pound, the sardine factory and the fish wharves line the waterfront where the white coated rollicking waves dashed against the shore on the glorious July day we visited Jonesport. Across the bay is the white lighthouse and many small craft were in evidence, heavy sea-going dories as well as the larger motor boats.

A visit to the Post Office brought much interest as well as co-operation. Then we went to the country stores (there are half a score or more there now) and found good buildings, good sevice and in many cases modern equipment. The six churches, the library and school were strong proof of the keen intelligence of the town residents. I enjoyed the people very much and in each conversation I delighted in the straight thinking and fine courtesy of men, women and children. I came away with great regret and at the first opportunity I shall accept that invitation to spend a week in Jonesport.

"B. L."

"Probation after Death" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 28.

The Golden Text is: "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death" (I Corinthians 15:26).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible. "And, behold, two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about three-score furlongs . . . And it came to pass, that, while they communed together and reasoned, Jesus himself drew near and went with them. But their eyes were holden that they should not know him . . . . And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself . . . . And their eyes were opened, and they knew him: and he vanished out of their sight" (Luke 24:13, 15, 16, 27, 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Master said plainly that physique was not Spirit, and after his resurrection he proved to the physical senses that his body was not changed until he himself ascended or, in other words, rose even higher in the understanding of Spirit, God" (p. 46).

THE ALEUTIAN ISLANDS: BLEAK STEPPING STONES ACROSS THE SEA

The Aleutian Islands, which normally receive little attention from the mainland of America, were the goal of several Government expeditions during the past summer. A submarine detachment surveyed the neighborhood of the Aleutians, and Army and Navy aviators flew to the islands.

The story of the Aleutian Islands—that necklace beaded with volcanic peaks looped across the throat of Bering Sea, south and west of Alaska—reads like a page from Jules Verne, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Where Tuesday Is Monday

There is where islands appear above the surface of the sea one year and disappear the next; where mountain peaks "blow their heads off"; where a woven-grass cigarette case brings $50; where natives used to make a small fortune hunting sea otters to spend it on a Russian samovar; where one of the islands is farther west of Seattle than Eastport, Me., is east; where, believe it or not, Tuesday is Monday—almost.

Discovered by Russian explorers in the middle of the 18th century, the Aleutian Islands were inhabited by some 25,000 natives — Aleuts, who lived like Eskimos but looked like Asiatics. Fur bearing animals ran wild on the islands and off their shores. Hordes of hunters from the mainland of Asia followed the explorers, swooping down on the Aleuts, exploiting, enslaving, killing—in a mad grab for skins. When, in 1867, Russia transferred all its American possessions to the United States, only a thousand-odd Aleuts had survived.

Even today, however, a few old Aleut squaws on the island of Attu, farthest western point over which the Stars and Stripes wave, weave baskets, bottle covers, cigar and cigarette cases from native grass which command fancy prices in world markets. Government officials report that younger generations are far less proficient than their elders, and it is feared the art will die out with the passing of the old craftswomen.

One Island Is "Jack-in-the-Box"

Twenty-seven hundred miles from Washington State, Attu, in the 180th degree of longitude, is technically in the Eastern Hemisphere. International law, however, stretched a point to include it in the same time system with the other islands of the Aleutian chain. Inasmuch as the International Date Line lies just beyond Attu, airmen flying west plunge directly into another day without the lapse of any time. Hence, a few moments after a Monday take-off they are flying through what to the Eastern Hemisphere is Tuesday.

Volcanic in origin, the Aleutian Islands today are studded with conical peaks hiding active and inactive volcanoes. Most interesting, geologically, is Bogoslof, famous for its jack-in-the-box antics. In the period between 1900 and 1907, volcanic eruption caused peaks and detached islands to appear and disappear on and near Bogoslof—Neptune and Nature indulging the quaint game of "Now you see 'em, now you don't." And in 1912 Mount Katmai, on the near-by Alaskan peninsula, instead of sinking, "blew its head off" in one of the most tremendous explosions in history.

Once the islands experienced the glamor of boom days—the gold rush to Nome and the Yukon. Dutch Harbor, Unalaska, was an important coaling station for ships plying between Nome and San Francisco. Today it is on the direct line of the shortest sailing distance between Seattle and Tokyo, frequented by merchant ships. Liners, however, still sail to the south of the Aleutians.

Fox Raising Has Become Industry

Regardless of a March-like climate—chilly, foggy damp—Aleuts live a contented life. They are forbidden by law to hunt sea otters; this vocation formerly was their greatest source of income. Furs brought fabulous prices—one family might earn as much as $5000 per season, a fortune in Aleutian perspective. Beautiful and expensive copperware fascinated them; and of late years their samovars, purchased from Russians, have been in great demand by visitors.

Fox farming has taken the place of sea otter hunting. Several of the islands are rented to natives for breeding the blue fox whose soft fur is world famous. Sheep and cattle have been introduced, but the success of the venture is doubtful because of the great distance from markets. It is reported, however, that Aleutian wool is among the finest in the world.

In spite of its natural wonders—the Aleutians have been called "America's Garden of Fireworks"—these North Pacific islands are handicapped in many respects. From the point of view of temperature their climate is not bad. Dutch Harbor's mean is 39 degrees, with a low of 30 above zero in January, and a high of 52 in July. The annual precipitation of 63 inches is high. There are some 250 rainy days in the year, which makes the Aleutians one of the rainiest regions in the territory of the United States. Nevertheless, water supplies are limited because there are no great water sheds, no rivers. Vegetables can be grown only under glass. There is no wood on the islands; natives use driftwood and animal oils for heat. Fogs bank over the islands the year round. Gales lash the coasts making anchorage treacherous. There are practically no good harbors.

THE COUNTY CARNIVAL

First Congregational Church Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 21, 22

Didn't you get to the Brockton Fair this year? Never mind, you'll never miss it if you come to the County Carnival at the Congregational Church the week before Thanksgiving. It is to be a real festival of fun for everybody, with plenty to do, plenty to eat, plenty to buy of course, and an entertainment furnished by some of the most gifted of our leading citizens.

Did you ever see a dream walking? Just watch for Lillian Whitman.

Did you ever hear a dream talking? Well of course, we are never perfectly sure what Rex Crandall is going to say, but you might be glad to be there and hear it first hand!

And as for singing!

The children will have a special entertainment room all for themselves on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Do your children like to "try anything once?" There will be lots of games and stunts for them to try, besides grabs and ice cream.

One thing you must remember. Do not come with nice shiny shoes. The most beautiful girls in town—well, some of the most beautiful ones—are going to shine your shoes for you after you get there!

Just to prove that you didn't miss a thing in not going to Brockton there will be side shows too. And did you ever manage to hit an African Dodger? Well, on Nov. 21 perhaps you will.

And do you like auctions? A real chance for bargains in the most unexpected things? Sure—

Come one, come all
To the Social Hall,
And the Congregational Fair
For young and old
There'll be fun untold
And a super beyond compare.

For all day long
You may watch the throng
March up to the church on the hill,
On Carnival Day,
You will hear folks say,
"These people are coming still!"

So fall in line
Up the old incline
And forget your cares for a day
Bring a nice full purse
Which you'll freely disburse,
And show the old time way.

The committe for the County Carnival includes the following:

General Chairmen Mrs. Franklin Lane, Mrs. Samuel Cole.
Assistant Chairman Mrs. Florence Scales.
Food Mrs. Earle Andrews.
Candy Mrs. C. Harold Smith.
Flowers Mrs. Wm. L. Palmer
Housekeepers Mrs. James Smith, Miss Margaret Sands.
Christmas Workrooms Mrs. Clyde Jones.
Grabs Mrs. Philip Johnson, Miss Margaret Burr.
Book Shop The Misses spaulding
Ice Cream Cone Mrs. R. H. B. Smith.
Miss Donald Maddin
Shoe Shine Mrs. John Wiles
Supper Mrs. Charles Greene, Mrs. Edward Grossmeyer
Tea Mrs. Louis K. Snyder.
Exhibition of Bookwork Mrs. George Eaton, Mrs. Frederick Kerr.
Handy Goods Mrs. Warren Whitman.
Sports Mrs. George French, Mrs. Harry Locke.
Midway and Entertainment Men's Club
Publicity Mrs. Paul Brandt, Miss Andrea Cornwall

MONTREAL ROTARIANS MET HERE

Montreal Rotarians, about 50 in number, arrived in Winchester early Wednesday morning to spend the day as guests of the Boston club. The Montreal express was stopped here and many of the visitors were met by Winchester and Boston Rotarians and driven to the Belmont Spring Country Club for breakfast and golf. Lunch was served at the Copley Plaza, and in the afternoon a meeting was held, after which the visitors were shown some of the sights of the city until their train left for Montreal late in the evening. The visit was a return courtesy to that of September, when Boston Rotarians went to Montreal, and the morning's golf was a continuation of the contest for the Boston-Montreal cup. The visitor's baggage was taken from the express by a truck of the Winchester Laundries, and those who met the visitors and motored over to the Belmont Spring with them included Messrs. Arthur T. Downer, William H. Bowe, Dr. Herbert H. Pentz, Paul Anderson and Frank Smith of Arlington, Glade Perrin, president of Boston Rotary, Hector Lynch, vice-president of Boston Rotary and Fred Wilkes and James Kelbet of the Boston club.

"THE COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO" AT THE UNIVERSITY

"The Count of Monte Cristo," the screen version of the Alexandre Dumas novel which has thrilled millions of readers in every civilized country in the world, starts Sunday for four days at the University Theatre. It offers Robert Donat, handsome young English actor, in his first American-made film. Elissa Landi appears opposite him in the role of Mercedes. Louis Calhern, Sidney Blackmer, O. P. Heggie, Irene Hervey, William Farnum and Raymond Walburn head the imposing supporting cast.

In "Desirable," the companion feature, George Brent has the role of a successful young business man who falls in love with the daughter of a brilliant Broadway star, after a passing romance with her mother. The story is a dynamic love drama set in the sophisticated atmosphere of the theatre. The supporting cast includes Jean Muir, Verree Teasdale, Charles Starrett, Russell Hopton and Joan Wheeler.

Marlene Dietrich's newest starring picture, "The Scarlet Empress," which starts Thursday, is taken from a diary of Catherine the Great, Russia's most colorful and exciting empress. The supporting cast includes John Lodge, Sam Jaffe, Louise Dresser, C. Aubrey Smith, Ruthelma Stevens, Olive Tell and Gavin Gordon.

As the shiftless, broken down comer, who lives only for his work and barter learns the joke is on himself, Lee Tracy, fast-talking screen actor plays the leading role in "You Belong To Me," the companion feature.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher L. Billman of Foxcroft road left last Monday for New Orleans. Mr. Billman will return Monday but Mrs. Billman will remain until the following week.

LIQUOR ADVERTISING

To the Editor of the Star:

It has pained many of us in this town, more than you can imagine, to see the liquor advertisements you are publishing in your paper. If it were possible to obtain local news through any other source, I would cancel my subscription, as I feel in a way, I am indirectly supporting the liquor interests.

Two different parties have told me you did not wish to take these advertisements, but that the liquor men had informed you, you must take them legally and if you did not comply, the matter would be taken into courts.

It seems to me you would not desire to support in any way, a traffic that is demoralizing our young people, slaughtering the children on our highways through drunken driving and destroying many homes. I am sure therefore you will welcome the enclosed clipping and know the true facts about this matter.

Yours truly,
Ida Marie Belichon

Why We Said "Kill It"

Freedom of the press includes the right of a newspaper to reject advertising offered to it for publication. It is as important to defend the purses and health of the people from private exploiters as to defend their liberties against political usurpers.

Newspaper men with a proper sense of their mission, therefore, hail the recent decision in which Judge Clyde I. Webster of Detroit reaffirmed the right of newspapers to reject advertising . . .

The Daily News has resisted every overt and covert attempt to deprive the people of their right to that uncensored news which alone can assure their rights as American citizens. . . . In the same period the Daily News has fought no less strenuously and as successfully against attempts to deprive the people of their money and their health. . . .

For generations it has been a trick of John Barleycorn to steal into homes disguised as a tonic. All preparations containing a high alcoholic content, no matter what their claims, are excluded from advertising in the Daily News just as rigidly as whisky, gin, brandy and rum are barred . . .

In rejecting the advertising of such products this newspaper deprives itself of immediate revenues. But in doing so, it builds up the value of its space for all legitimate advertisers, who are bound to profit accordingly when they advertise their wares in columns which readers have learned can be depended upon not only to tell the truth, but to protect the reader's interest.

In a recent letter outlining the reasons for its rejection of a large volume of advertising, . . . the Daily News sent to an eastern representative this order: "Kill it, it has been known to kill." "Kill it" is the standing order of this newspaper with regard to any advertising suspected of being even indirectly dangerous to the health or the pocketbooks of its readers.—[Chicago Daily News.

REPUBLICAN RALLY NOV. 1

Winchester Republican Town Committee announces today that plans are being formulated for a Monster Rally in Winchester, on Thursday evening, Nov. 1. This rally will be held in the Town Hall, and is sponsored by the Winchester Republican Town Committee, the Women's Republican Club of Winchester and the newly organized Winchester Men's Republican Club.

Lieutenant Governor Bacon, although having many engagements for the evening of Nov. 1, will attend and discuss the real issues of the campaign. Many of the other Republican candidates for State-wide offices, including the Honorable John W. Haigis, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, Oscar U. Dionne candidate for State Treasurer and Frederic W. Cook, Secretary of the Commonwealth, and candidate for re-election, will also be present and will address the voters of Winchester on that evening. Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers, our present Representative in Congress, and a candidate for re-election, has notified the committee that she will include Winchester in her itinerary for that evening, and it is hoped that the Honorable Robert M. Washburn, candidate for the United States Senate, also will be able to attend this rally.

Honorable Robert T. Bushnell, former District Attorney for Middlesex County, will be one of the principal speakers at this rally. While Mr. Bushnell is not a candidate for public office at this time, he is a most forceful speaker and is conducting a vigorous campaign throughout the State on behalf of the Republican Party. Another speaker who is sure to be interesting is Peter W. Pate, a prominent World War veteran.

Winchester Post, No. 97, the American Legion band will give a band concert before the rally and will also play at intervals during the evening.

According to the plans of the committee, this rally will far exceed any one hitherto held in this part of Middlesex County.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL MEN'S CLUB

A very interesting program has been arranged for the October meeting of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church at 8 o'clock this Friday evening in the parish house. Thomas Cooper, Jr., transmission engineer will speak on "A World-Wide Radio Telephone Service and Ship-to-Shore Telephone," with slides and movies illustrating the equipment. Plans will be outlined for the big minstrel show to be given in December. A buffet lunch will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Foley of Englewood road have been attending the American Legion convention at Miami, Fla. this week, also finding time for trips to St. Petersburg, Tampa and other nearby points of interest.

ABSENTEE VOTERS

The law provides that any voter who on the day of the State Election is, or expects to be, absent from the city or town in which he is a registered voter, may vote at such election if he seasonably files with the Town Clerk where he is a voter, or with the Secretary of the Commonwealth at the State House, Boston, an application for an official Absent Voting Ballot.

Therefore, if you will be unable to vote in person on Nov. 6, you will not lose your right to vote, but may use an Absent Voting Ballot.

In order to use an Absent Voting Ballot, it is not necessary that the voter be detained outside of the State on Election Day, for the law provides that the Absent Voting Ballot may be used if the voter, on Election Day, is separated by at least two municipalities from the city or town where he is registered.

If a voter has applied for and has received an Absent Voting Ballot, and on Election Day finds that he will be in Winchester, he has the right to vote in person and his Absent Voting Ballot will be disregarded.

Full information as to Absentee Voting may be obtained by calling the Town Clerk's Office, Winchester 1105, or the Headquarters of the Republican Town Committee, Winchester 2350.

WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

The results of the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce to bring about the general closing of all stores Wednesday afternoons have been very gratifying up to the present time although our task is by no means complete. The divisional manager of the 5 and 10c stores refuses to co-operate in any city or town.

We appreciate the position of the local banks on not closing and thank them for their courteous reply in sympathy with the general movement.

We also wish to particularly thank our Italian friends for their co-operation.

The Chamber will shortly make public a plan which we think will be of immense importance to the Town of Winchester.

At the joint meeting of the trade organizations of Woburn, Reading, Stoneham and Winchester held in the Woburn City Hall last Tuesday night attended by about 20 officials of the above groups, it was voted to form an Inter-Association composed of representatives of these associations in regard to uniformity of action in relation to hours of closing, holiday closing, and any other pertinent matters. It was also voted to request all stores to close all day Monday, Nov. 12, which will be the celebration of Armistice Day.

TO WED NOV. 10

Miss Priscilla M. Bodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bodman of Wedgemere avenue has set Nov. 10 as the date for her marriage to Mr. John A. Rodgers of Rye, N. Y. The Rev. Dwight W. Hadley will officiate at the 8 o'clock service in the church of the Epiphany. A very small reception will be held at the parish house immediately following the ceremony.

Mrs. Richard Wilder (Mary E. Armstrong) of Cambridge will be matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Elizabeth Chadwick and Miss Elinor Davis, both of Winchester; Miss Aileen O'Brien of Gardner, a college classmate of the bride and Miss Nathalie Rodgers of Rye, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom. The flower girl will be Miss Mary E. Bodman, the three year old sister of the bride.

Mr. Charles M. Sheafe, 3rd, of New Haven, Conn., will be best man and those ushering are Mr. Richard Wilder and Mr. William Fitzgerald, both of Cambridge; Mr. James M. Champlin of Brookline and Mr. Medford F. Brown of Merion, Pa.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

Camaign Issues and Candidates Subject for Discussion

At the regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club on Wednesday, Oct. 31 at 2:30 p. m. in the Fortnightly rooms at Waterfield Hall, Major Judson Hannigan will discuss "Campaign Issues and Candidates." The musical program will be presented by the Winchester Trio, Helen Studzinska Sibley, violin; Vida Rohde cello and Mary Ranton Witham, piano. These artists have had considerable experience in concert and soloist work and are favorites with Winchester audiences.

This meeting was especially arranged in order that the women voters might hear an intelligent discussion of the campaign issues by a speaker well versed in his subject and one, who is in direct contact with the candidates. All club members are urged to avail themselves of this opportunity to glean further information before the election.

BABSON SPEAKS AGAIN SUNDAY

Roger W. Babson will give the last talk in his series next Sunday noon at 1 o'clock over broadcasting station WBSO, 920 kc. He will give a brief resume of his three previous talks and indicate what in his opinion is the quickest way back to prosperity.

Those in this community who have been listening to Mr. Babson, know his opinions on the political situation. With about two billions a year being spent on relief, he believes that the farmers and the unemployed are taking both political parties "on a ride," and that confidence can be restored only by a Coalition Government. This he will explain next Sunday noon.

In response to a telephone call received last Friday evening the police drove away a group of west side boys who were creating a disturbance in the rear of the First Congregational Church.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Tomorrow, Saturday, in the evening, we hold our annual Hallowe'en party and dance. As this is the last W. B. C. gathering of the 1934 season we all hope for a big crowd and a good time. For the past two years now, we have held a dance, proceeds of which were for the benefit of the crew and run under their auspices. Again this season we are doing the same thing. Indications are that this party will be equally as enjoyable as the others and probably even more so. Capt. "Gus" heads the committee and although he is without the services of Sears Wolff, who so ably assisted in the other "times," nevertheless, even without "the shadow" things will sail along. So, annex you a girl and be right there where the fun is.

The smoker held last Friday night was attended by over 50 club members. Mr. E. B. Ladd, a former resident of the Winchester Boat Club showed some very interesting motion pictures of his trip to Alaska this summer. He also ran off a reel on local subjects. One included was of the spectacular Tercentennial parade of 1930 in Winchester. Of especial interest to the paddlers was the regatta at W. B. C. held in connection with June 3, 1933. A reel depicting life at Sugar Island was very interesting. This Island, is one of the 1000 Islands in the St. Lawrence River and is owned by the American Canoe Association. Every summer a meet is held there. The pictures shown, included tilting and novelty canoe sports, also, straightaway racing in shells. A Canadian 15-man war canoe was an interesting sight. Pictures of sailing canoes in action were very lively and thrilling to watch. A "flap-jack" juggling contest with frying pans was a "humdinger." Refreshments came after a clever act by a magician who had "Bill" Locke as his assistant.

GRANGERS HELD HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The Winchester Grange, No. 243, P. of H., conducted a very successful Hallowe'en Party and Dance in Lyceum Hall Tuesday evening. Music was furnished by the Red Jackets of Woburn. The hall was attractively decorated with Hollowe'en bunting, black cats, pumpkins, ghosts and autumn foliage.

Several specialty dances and games were enjoyed during the evening, including Paul Jones, Virginia Reel and telling fortunes by Madame Winnie. This feature made a big hit with the ladies.

The grand march was held at 10 o'clock. Helen Dewar won first prize, wearing a Highland lassies' costume, which certainly was the outstanding costume. Lorraine Dewar won second prize with an orchid costume and third and fourth prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. James Graham of Jamaica Plain. Their costumes were very original, being made entirely of burlap with accessories to match.

Whist was enjoyed by those who did not care to dance, with some very fine prizes being donated by the members.

During intermission Irene Jacobson, Noble Grand of Justitia Rebekah Lodge of Roxbury, favored the audience with several vocal selections, accompanied at the piano by "Billy" Mc-Devitt of the Red Jackets. Cider and doughnuts were served. As the town clock struck 12 the doors of good old Lyceum Hall were closed on another Grange evening, well spent.

PARISH PLAYERS

First Congregational Church Opens Ninth Season

"The Middle Watch," a farce by Ian Hay and Stephen King-Hall, will be the opening play for the Parish Players, Nov. 2, at the First Congregational Church.

The Parish Players are a well integrated body of actors who have achieved the distinction of being the oldest Dramatic Society in Winchester. Their finished performances and choice of plays has won for them a large following which has grown from year to year.

"The Middle Watch" is laid on board a British battle cruiser which is ordered to sea before two young women visiting the ship can be put ashore. The highly diverting incidents of the play revolve about this situation.

The Parish Players have chosen as the other two plays for the 1934-1935 season "Under Cover," a detective drama, by Roi Cooper Megrue; and "The Tavern," a satirical comedy, by George M. Cohan.

The plays offer an interesting variety of stage-setting, costuming and acting, which should make this one of the successful seasons for the players. The director for the first two plays is Mr. Alan Hay, of the Brookline Amateurs. It is expected that Mr. Edward P. Goodnow of the Stagers, will coach the final play.

"I'm through with this job—WE'RE GOING TO HAVE A GENERAL ELECTRIC DISHWASHER"

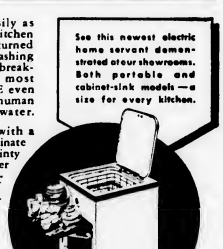

A-G-E Dishwasher washes all the dishes hygienically clean in 5 minutes and costs less than 1c a day to operate.

Instead of spending an hour or so in the kitchen after dinner, each evening is free to enjoy together in whatever way you choose. And there are "no more dishes in the sink!"

All the dishes—chinaware, glassware, silverware, pots and pans, too—are quickly placed in the soft rubber trays of the G-E Dishwasher—just as easily as stacking them on the kitchen table. A magic control is turned and in 5 minutes the dishwashing job is done! There is no breaking, no chipping of the most delicate pieces. The G-E even cleans and dries itself and human hands never touch dishwater.

Modernize your kitchen with a G-E Dishwasher and eliminate the daily dip, dip, dip of dainty hands into greasy dishwater—change monotonous routine into golden hours of leisure—abolish the unsanitary dishcloth. Under the new National Housing Act modernization funds are now available. Let us give you full information without obligation to you.

See this newest electric home servant demonstrated at our showrooms. Both portable and cabinet-sink models—a size for every kitchen.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

The Parent--Teacher Association is delighted that the first meetin gof the season should focus on such an important matter as visual education, the silver lining of the motion picture cloud. Dr. A. Krasker, who will speak on this comparatively new development, is an authority on the subject. The lecture will be illustrated.

Preceding this, the Junior High School will be open for half an hour, from 7:30 to 8. It is hoped that all parents will embrace this opportunity for closer contact with the Junior High School and its teachers by visiting the class rooms and talking with the teachers. Student ushers will be at the entrance to offer assistance in finding the different rooms.

A bell will be sounded when it is time to go to the High School auditorium for the lecture.

This year the annual convention of the Massachusetts Parent-Teacher Association will be held in Boston at the Hotel Statler, Oct. 29, 30, 31, giving those near the city an excellent opportunity to attend.

Among the distinguished speakers are Mr. Howard B. Gill, Dr. Abigail Eliot, Mr. John R. P. French and Dr. George H. Bigelow. Some of the topics for round table discussion are, "Schools or Battleships?" "Town Budgeting for Education," "Motion Pictures," "The Pre-School Child," "Codes of Behaviour Among Adolescents." Details of the program may be obtained from our local president, Mrs. Swanson, 12 Park road, Win. 0209-W.

Several members of the board attended a Motion Picture Conference at the Twentieth Century Club on Oct. 15. Mrs. Mar na Sprague Mason of Winchester was the chairman, the speaker, Mrs. Robbins Gilman, national motion picture chairman.

A tea was given by the board at the home of Mrs. Gustin on Thursday, Oct. 18 to greet the teachers. Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Dickman and Mrs. O'Sullivan were special guests. This social hour among such lovely surroundings was greatly enjoyed.

LOCAL RADIO OPERATOR RECEIVED CARD FROM IRELAND

Local amateur radio operators will be interested to learn that James Sullivan, Station WIEXU has recently received his card from Station EI5F at Dublin, Ireland, with which he had recently communicated.

Mr. Sullivan has communicated with, and received cards from every state in the Union. It is of interest that on Thursday, Oct. 18, he communicated with a Winchester boy, Judson Cross at Yale University, through Station WIYU, the Yale station. Cross sent a message to his parents through Mr. Sullivan and reported that he is getting along nicely at the University. Mr. Sullivan contacts Yale on Mondays and Thursdays and will be pleased to send Cross a message from his friends if those who care to do so will phone him at Win. 2381.

The police complimented Wallace Parkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Parkin of Elmwood avenue, when he came into Headquarters last Saturday morning with a pocketbook which he had picked up in the center. A signed check gave the authorities the name of the owner who was much pleased at the return of her property.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Arthur R. Donaghy to Harvard Trust Company, dated May 16, 1925 and recorded with Middlesex So. Dist. Deeds in Book 4844, Page 372, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder and owner for breach of condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises in said mortgage described, on Monday, November 5, 1934, at four o'clock P. M. all and singular the premises by said mortgage conveyed and therein described as follows, to wit:

"A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon being at present numbered 197 Mystic Valley Parkway, formerly known as Walnut Street, Winchester, bounded: Northerly by Mystic Valley Parkway, fifty (50) feet; Easterly by land of Whitney, formerly of Williams, one hundred nine and 49/100 (109.49) feet more or less; Southerly by land now or late of Walling, forty-five and 75/100 (45.75) feet; Westerly by land now or late of Browning, one hundred nine (109) feet. Containing 5191 square feet of land, more or less. Being the same premises described in a deed recorded with Middlesex So. Dist. Deeds, Book 4746, Page 551. Subject to restrictions of record so far as in force."

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all outstanding or unpaid taxes, tax titles or other municipal liens. $500.00 will be required to be paid in cash at the time and place of sale, the balance of the purchase price to be paid within ten days thereafter. Other terms made known at time and place of sale. For further particulars inquire of Harvard Trust Company, Real Estate Department, (Harvard Square), Cambridge, or Edwin H. Jose, 689 Mass. MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Carl G. Ollivier to Medford Trust Company, dated July 3, 1929, and registered with the Middlesex South Registry District Land Court Division as Document No. 99009 and noted on Certificate of Title No. 20284, of which mortgage the undersigned is the assignee and present holder, for breach of the conditions in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction on November 14, 1934 at 11 o'clock in the forenoon on the premises not heretofore released, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage and not heretofore released. Said mortgaged premises are described as follows:

"A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated on Grayson Road, in Winchester, said County of Middlesex and being shown as Lot 22 on a plan of land hereinafter referred to; said lot being more fully bounded and described according to said plan as follows: Northeasterly by Grayson Road, fifty-two (52) feet; Southeasterly by Lot 23, one hundred eighteen and 2/100 (118.02) feet; Southwesterly by land of owners unknown, fifty-two and 13/100 (52.13) feet; Northwesterly by Lot 21, one hundred fourteen and 38/100 (114.38) feet. Containing according to said plan, 6042 square feet of land.

All of said boundaries are determined by the Court to be located as shown on a plan drawn by A. G. Carey, C. E., dated April 1926, and filed with Middlesex South District Deeds with Certificate of Title No. 22808 said plan being numbered 3535 F.

The above conveyance includes all furnaces, heaters, ranges, mantels, gas and electric light fixtures, screens, screen doors, awnings and all other fixtures of whatever kind or nature contained in any building or buildings now standing or hereafter erected on said premises prior to the full payment and discharge of this mortgage.

The above premises are conveyed subject to restrictions of record so far as the same may now be in force and applicable and subject also to the building laws of the Town of Winchester."

There is excluded from the above that certain portion of the premises which was released by a partial release given by Medford Trust Company to Carl G. Ollivier et al, and dated November 21, 1929 and recorded in Middlesex South Registry District Land Court Division, as Document No. 102661, and noted on Certificate No. 30051, Registration Book 201, Page 341, and bounded and described as follows:

"A certain parcel or strip of land situated on Grayson Road, in the Town of Winchester, Middlesex County, Massachusetts and being shown as Lot 22 A on Plan of "Subdivision of Lot 22 shown on plan 3535 F Filed with Certificate of Title No. 22808 South Registry District of Middlesex County Land in Winchester, Nov. 5, 1929. C. B. Humphrey, Engineer for Court." Said plan being numbered 3535K, a copy of a portion of which is filed with Certificate No. 30051."

Said premises will be sold subject to any taxes, tax titles, assessments and municipal liens, if any there be.

TERMS OF SALE: Five Hundred Dollars ($500) in cash or certified check will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale. Other terms to be announced at said sale.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Shoppers this week will find vegetables of all kinds plentiful, though prices are higher due to the advancing season. Eggs are much higher and butter somewhat more expensive but meats are moderately priced.

Both white and sweet potatoes or yams represent outstanding values. Cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, and Brussels sprouts are particularly seasonable and low in price. Onions, turnips, carrots and beets are dependable and cheap standbys. Iceberg lettuce is both fine in quality and cheaper than usual. There is an abundance of cheap pumpkin for Hallowe'en.

Apples are plentiful and moderately priced, grapes and grapefruit as well, while melons have largely disappeared.

The following menus are made up from the latest market news available:

Low Cost Dinner
Braised Rump Roast Boiled Potatoes
Buttered Carrots
Bread and Butter Apple Tapioca
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Broiled Lamb Chops
Baked Sweet Potatoes
Creamed Onions
Bread and Butter Deep Appe Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Tomato Juice
Celery Olives
Broiled Stuffed Potatoes
Buttered Cauliflower
Pear and Grape Salad
Hot Rolls and Butter
Coffee Bavarian Cream
Coffee Milk

CALUMET ROAD HOME ENTERED

Last Saturday night shortly before 10 o'clock the police were notified that the residence of Mr. R. S. Wentworth at 1 Calumet road had been broken into and ransacked.

Mr. Wentworth told the authorities that as he entered the house after an evening's absence some one made a hasty exit. He phoned headquarters at once and Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell went to investigate.

It was found that access had been gained to the house by breaking a pane of glass above the catch of a door at the front of the dwelling. The rooms on the second story of the house had been ransacked and some valuable jewelry and a sum of money taken.

In the course of the investigation a nearby resident stated that she had seen a man around the Wentworth home about 6 o'clock in the evening. The police are of the opinion that the same party who broke into the Dunbar home on the Parkway in the Wedgemere district recently is responsible for the break at the Wentworth home.

WINCHESTER SET BACK STONEHAM

Great Dash by Scully Decided Loosely Played Game

Winchester High School won its second consecutive game in the Middlesex League series last Saturday afternoon, defeating a stubborn Stoneham High eleven, 7 to 0, on Manchester Field before a crowd considerably smaller than had been expected.

Stoneham didn't put in an appearance until about 2:15 and it was going for 2:30 when the teams squared away.

Both teams were handicapped by injuries, Stoneham having "Ronnie" MacKinnon, star back, and "Ted" Arnold, tackle on the sidelines while King, a regular end, was unable to start. Neither Frank Provinzano, ace of the local backfield, nor "Bob" Graham, aggressive first string guard, was in togs, and the game was only a few minutes old when co-Capt. "Jack" Hanlon was forced out with a painful arm injury. "Ewie" Bairstow, veteran end, sustained a wrist injury before half time that greatly impaired his usually brilliant game.

During the first half, Winchester was definitely in the driver's seat. Twice in the opening quarter the locals were in scoring position, but first a 15-yard penalty for illegal shifting and then a fumble prevented them from cashing in.

Again in the second quarter, Winchester was inside the Stoneham 10-yard line, only to have a bad pass or a missed backfield assignment lose 20 yards and another scoring chance.

Meanwhile Stoneham was showing nothing offensively, making no first downs before the half and gaining only nine yards by rushing.

For those interested in statistics Winchester rolled up nine first downs to two for Stoneham, rushing for 162 yards to 41 for the opposition. Neither team got anywhere overhead, the locals failing to complete six passes and Stoneham, 11. Winchester lost 25 yards in penalties to 10 for Stoneham and fumbled three times to the visitors' one.

The second half of the game was pretty much an even thing, each team making two first downs and Winchester gaining 38 yards by rushing to Stoneham's 32. The visitors' line was more than holding its own with the Black frontier and the local backs were being stopped before they got started or pulled down from behind.

At that Stoneham only threatened once, reaching Winchester's 19 in the third quarter as the result of a fumble. Getting nowhere through the line, the visitors tried to pass, but three overhead attempts were grounded and the locals took the ball on downs.

Winchester's pass defense made the visitors' aerial attack look very futile, both Scully and Cushman, a new player who replaced the injured Hanlon, doing yeoman work in intercepting or batting down the leather.

Scully was Winchester's particular star both on offense and defense. He was the only back on either team who could gain consistently and his touchdown dash was a fine individual effort. "Dave" Grosvenor contributed a couple of effective runs at opportune moments and though guilty of bad judgment in passing on fourth down on his own side of midfield, in general called his plays well.

The locals were very slow in the huddle and finally lost five yards for stalling in the last few minutes of play with a first down inside the Stoneham 30. Cimina ran hard, if unluckily and looked very good as a punter and kicker-off.

For Stoneham, King, Captain Maghakian, Junkins and Blanchard were effective. Offensively the backfield did not seem to click and aside from a quarterback sneak into the line, which twice made first down, showed nothing.

Following the opening kickoff, Hanlon and Gaffney ripped off a first down at the Stoneham 45, but a long pass was grounded and Hanlon kicked across the Stoneham goal line. The visitors were forced to kick and Grosvenor got back to their 11.

Scully and Grosvenor made it first down at the 30 and Grosvenor got away for another first down at the 19. Here Winchester lost 15 for illegal shifting and a 14-yard rip off tackle by Scully was nullified by a fumble which Stoneham recovered at its 23.

It was at this point that Hanlon left the game with a bad injury to his arm, Cushman going in. Stoneham had to kick and a moment later, blocked Cushman's return punt, taking the ball at Winchester's 39. Scully, however, knifed through to recover a Stoneham fumble a moment later and dash 55 yards for a futile touchdown, the ball being brought back to the visitor's 45.

Soon after the opening of the second quarter, Scully smashed through tackle for a first down on the Stoneham 35, and then after a five yard penalty for backs in motion, got away to another first down at the 25-yard stripe.

Again the big blonde hit off tackle and wove to a first down inside the 10, but here that bad pass lost 20 long yards and Stoneham took the ball on downs at its 30.

Winchester stopped the Blue and burried the kicker, Scully getting the low boot back to the Stoneham 35. Cushman got three and Scully four yards, a Stoneham offside giving the locals a first down a: the 24.

Here Grosvenor shot through a hole in the line for eight yards and on the next play Scully hit inside his own left tackle, cut back slightly and spun and wove and straight-armed his way across the goal line, going over standing up for a nice bit of open field running.

"Slicker" Coss was sent in to kick the goal, and once again his boot was perfect, giving the locals a 7—0 advantage at the half.

Winchester clearly showed the loss of Hanlon in the second half and its football was, in an offensive sense, very ineffective. "Joe" Cimina contributed one dash of 11 yards for a first down and also got off a corking boot that went nearly 50 yards in the air, but in general there was no spark to the locals' game and Stoneham seemed to have little difficulty in stopping Winchester's running attack.

Midway through the third period, Quarterback Grosvenor elected to pass on fourth down and when the heave went bad Stoneham took the ball on Winchester's 40. The visitors had to kick and the boot went outside at the local 20.

Here a backfield fumble was recovered by Stoneham and a thrust into the line put the ball on the local 19. Three attempts to pass to a score were batted down and Winchester took the ball on downs, Cimina kicking out of danger.

For just a moment in the final quarter Winchester looked good to score when long "Joe" Josephson was speeding to complete what looked like a perfectly placed pass. A Stoneham secondary, however, cut down the local end from behind and the umpire refused to allow the claim of interference. Stoneham reached the Winchester 25 once in final quarter, but again its passing attack was stopped by Cushman, and the locals took the ball on downs.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

Thomas Fowell Buxton once said: "No man ought to be convinced by anything short of assiduous and long-continued labors, issuing in absolute failure, that he is not meant to do much for the honor of God and the good of mankind."

Those are strong words which all men, especially young men, should take deeply to heart. While it is true that all men cannot become Raphaels or Shakespeares and while it is fact that the number of "mute, inglorious Miltons" and Newtons, who have Paradise Losts and Principias packed away in their brains, is far smaller than is generally supposed—it is equally true that every individual mind in and out of Winchester may contain some germ, some seed, or latent principle the development of which may sooner or later exert an important influence over the whole human race.

Every time I hear anybody complaining of their feeble abilities I am reminded that neither power nor capacity is to be measured by the capacity of the recipient. It would be well to remember that the oak forests of the earth were once contained in a single acorn. It was a camel driver that founded a new religion and changed the face of empires. Pope Gregory VII was a carpenter's son, Sixtus V was a shepherd and Adrian VI was a bargeman. Copernicus was the son of a baker and Kepler was the son of a publican. It was an obscure monk who split in twain the Catholic Church and a still obscurer countryman of his, who, by the invention press, revolutionized the whole intellectual aspect of society. Then there was Clarkson, a man originally of no mark or promise, who, by the accidental reading of a pamphlet when the slave-trade was at the zenith of its popularity, was led to see its horrors, solemnly dedicated himself to its extinction and amid scorn and obloquy, lived to accomplish a purpose which, at its annunciation, was held up to ridicule as the dream of an enthusiast. Then there was Cobden, a manufacturer with no brilliancy of narts, who, by his stubborn perseverance overthrow in a few years the long established and deeply-rooted commercial system of the British Empire. And there was Arkwright, barber's apprentice, who received little more than a barber's education, the splendid achievements of whose mechanical genius bore the English nation triumphantly through the wars of the French Revolution, and are now declared to be of greater value than all her colonies combined.

History teems with such examples. Giant deeds may be performed by annarent pigmies. So let us bear in mind, that, if we are engaged in a noble cause there is no social dwarf in or out of Winchester who may not become a moral Hercules.

WASHINGTON-HIGHLAND MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The mothers of the Washington-Highland Schools gave a very delightful informal tea at the attractive home of Mrs. Blaisdell, Wolcott terrace. Two past presidents, Mrs. Carrol Hilton and Mrs. E. E. Andrews pouring. The most efficient Mrs. Doub and her committee were responsible for the lovely decorations of garden flowers and tea cakes in Hallowe'en color. About 75 mothers and teachers were present.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES

The first assembly was held in the newly decorated auditorium on Oct. 5. The program was given by Miss Meeker's sixth grade under the auspices of the Junior Red Cross. Brooks Jakeman, the president, presided. Robert Huckins read the secretary's report and Craig Greiner, the treasurer's report. Robert Pynn, vice-president, gave a report of the Red Cross activities of the fourth grade. Other reports were given by John Terry, Charles Walsh and Barbara Smith.

The subject of the program was "Safety." Interesting graphs showing the number of accidents caused, due to carelessness were explained by groups of pupils. A play teaching the danger of playing in the street was most realistically acted, Patsy Pierson as Aunt Susan; Herman Provost as the boy who almost lost his life through carelessness and Howard Swanson as the police officer, gave very convincing performances.

The Columbus Day program was given by Miss Hatch's sixth grade. Scenes from the life of Columbus were dramatized. Each scene was preceded by one or more explanatory talks arranged by the girls. The original scenery painted by Harry Hodge, Craig Greiner and Robert Cross gave much pleasure to the audience. Particularly attractive was the scene which showed the sailors in their gay head dresses against a background of sea and sky.

The teachers of the George Washington School, Miss Pratt, Supervisor of Elementary Methods and Mrs. Savage, school nurse, were the guests at a tea given by the George Washington Chapter of the Mother's Club at the charming home of Mrs. Leo Blaisdell, 7 Wolcott terrace on Tuesday, the sixteenth of October. Mothers and teachers spent a delightful hour meeting old friends and making new ones.

The fourth grade showed the school what they had learned about fire prevention at an assembly, Oct. 19. Two plays were given, "Jack Tends the Fire," and "The Little Flame That Grew." The original paragraph, "How We Should Act During Fire Drill," showed that the fourth grade, thoroughly understand how to conduct themselves safety for themselves and others. As a matter of fact the last fire drill was one of the most orderly and efficient ever carried out by the school.

The following grades 1, 4, Miss Meeker's 6 and Miss Hatch's 6 have had no cases of tardiness since school began in September. Grades 2, 3, 4, Miss Meeker's 6 and Miss Hatch's 6 had 100 per cent record in banking on last bank day.

Officer William E. Andrews of the Massachusetts State Police, accompanied by Officer Murray of the local force came to the George Washington School Monday morning to speak to the boys and girls about "Safety." He told the children that many serious accidents are due to carelessness. Some of the most important rules he emphasized were:

Don't jump rope in the street.

Don't cross the street until the officer gives you the signal.

Don't ride on the handlebar of a bicycle.

Always look to the left and then to the right before crossing the street.

Remember the policeman is your friend.

Remember the A, B, C, of safety, "Always Be Careful."

WINCHESTER GIRL DOES CLOTHES FOR COLLEGE MAGAZINE

Winchester friends of Miss Anita Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Wilson of Yale street, will be interested to know that in recognition of her success in a recent nation-wide designing contest she has been given a page in "Formal," the college magazine, a publication having a wide circulation among college students.

Under the heading "Anita Wilson's Notebook" she is designing fashions for young women, and in the October issue shows three attractive models that college and high school girls will find most interesting.

Miss Wilson is a junior at Wellesley and a graduate of Winchester High School where she participated in extra-curricular activities and became interested in designing while doing posters to illustrate various phases of school life.

During the past summer she won a nation wide designing contest, conducted by Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago, among 6000 college women. By winning this contest the Winchester girl is recognized as the best undergraduate designer of women's clothes in America.

"Mending Political Fences"

The phrase "mending of political fences" is said to have originated in 1880 when, just before the Republican national convention, a reporter was sent to interview John Sherman, then secretary of the treasury, and a likely candidate for the Presidential nomination. Arriving at Sherman's farm at Mansfield, Ohio, the reporter could not find him. He asked where he was and was advised that Sherman was mending his fences.

First Coins Minted

The first coins minted in the American colonies were the New England shilling, sixpence and threepence, minted in Boston in 1671. National coinage was started in 1793, and the United States mint was established at Philadelphia by resolution of congress dated April 6, 1792. The first coinage consisted of copper cents and half cents issued in 1793 and were followed in 1794 by silver dollars and half dollars and in 1795 by gold eagles and half eagles.

BOOTH TARKINGTON'S "THE INTIMATE STRANGERS"

Selected for Unitarian Player's Opening Nov. 16 and 17

The Players have planned another interesting season of activities, starting with Booth Tarkington's, "The Intimate Strangers." This is a comedy in three acts with a plot that sparkles with lively situations and humorous dialogue.

A late spring storm washed out the bridges at Millerville on the main railway line, causing a wreck which delayed all trains.

Marooned in the dimly lighted station at the junction is Isabel Stuart, who had started for her farm in Amity and William Ames, en route for New York. After a telegraph message that "No. 21" would not pull through until the next afternoon, the station master closed his office and went home for the night. Although strangers, their mutual discomfort and delay soon encouraged Miss Stuart and Mr. Ames in conversation and a lively debate as to the division of the contents of Miss Stuart's lunch basket followed. Finally, accepting the inevitable and making themselves as comfortable on the station benches as possible, the night passed.

Florence, Miss Stuart's niece, with Johnnie White, after an all night ride in search of her aunt located her at sun rise in the station.

Mr. Ames was asked to ride back with them to the farm. Here he found an unusual family circle and the unfolding of these family relationships as the play goes on is sure to amuse the audience.

The part of Isabel Stuart is to be taken by Mrs. Arthur S. Kelley. Mrs. Kelley has long been a favorite in Winchester, portraying important parts with charm and sympathetic understanding.

Mr. Theodore von Rosenvinge, Winchester's leading character actor will take the part of the station master.

Others in the cast with whom the director is well pleased are Mr. Frank S. Oliver, as "William Ames," Miss Helen R. Sexton, as "Florence," D. Bradford Hill, as "Johnnie White," Mrs. Ralph A. Manning as "Aunt Ellen," Mrs. James J. McGovern as "Mattie" and Richard Barnard as "Henry."

Mr. Frank E. Fowle of Malden, whose work is well known to greater Boston audiences has been selected as director.

Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge is in general charge of the production with Theodore R. Godwin, chairman of tickets. In Harry C. Goodwin, stage manager, she is fortunate in securing the services and co-operation of one who is known to be Winchester's leading stage manager. Mr. Goodwin demonstrated his ability a few years ago when the Legion produced "Journey's End." He has added to this success year after year until his reputation may now be considered outstanding. This promises to be one of the Players most successful productions.

MISS LENA HEINZ

Funeral services for Lena Heinz, who died Tuesday, Oct. 23 after an illness of several months, were held this Friday afternoon at her home, 10 Stratford road, with Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiating. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

Miss Heinz formerly lived in Malden, coming to make her home in Winchester in 1922. She is survived by a brother, Henry J. Heinz of Winchester, and two sisters, Mary Heinz of Winchester and Sarah T. Weaver of Somerville.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

More than one fellow here in Winchester has done a foolish thing merely to impress others.

A friend says that he is being taught law by a woman lawyer. Not many women teach it, but hey certainly know how to lay it down.

Winchester will be happier town in which to live when all of us try to solve our own problems and stand on our own feet. Success from personal effort has a sweeter flavor.

Winchester fellow says he learned to fly in ten lessons. That's nothing. When we were a small boy we stole some pears from a neighbor's orchard and we learned to fly in one lesson when we saw the owner's bull dog tearing after us.

According to one man here in Winchester it is easy to be a good executive, if one isn't jealous of his hired man's superior ability.

One Winchester youngster is all the time complaining that he gets caught every time he tells a lie. But the boy should take heart. He may yet develop skill enough to get by.

One fellow here in fair Winchester says that if his wife will return to feminity he will let his whiskers grow.

There are unusual folk here in Winchester who find it easier to think than to talk.

Judging from the kind of pajamas some men wear a lot of Winchester men must have a lot of nightmares.

On more than one occasion a political appointment has proved a disappointment.

No Winchesterite is born lucky, but some Winchesterites are lucky to have been born.

And now a Winchester miss refuses to study Greek because it is out of date.

When the Observer can write paragraphs that good Winchesterites will criticise he will get some prestige and not before.

Few people here in Winchester if given a cool hundred thousand dollars would know enough to freeze to it.

Love has flied out of the window of one Winchester home because wifey has had to get a job to pay the rent and buy the food.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

"Scouts Own" on Sunday, Oct. 28, will usher in the Girl Scout Week. All Scouts are requested to attend in uniform the morning worship of their own churches. The ministers of the various churches are co-operating in reorganizing the day at this service.

Over $500 has been turned in to the Finance Committee as a result of the Dollar Day Drive. The Council extends its thanks to the Scouts who gave their time to distributing the notices and to the mothers who collected the donations. Any envelopes which were not collected or further donations may be sent to Mrs. James Murray, 10 Crescent circle.

There was a meeting of patrol leaders at the cabin at which Miss Carlyle gave an interesting talk on the patrol leaders' duties.

The Badges and Awards Committee have made plans for a very interesting get-together of all Scouts on Saturday, Nov. 24. Scouts will meet in the High School Auditorium between 4:30 and 5 p. m. when there will be an informal program including a "sing" in charge of the leaders. This will be followed by the award of badges earned during the summer. A supper will be served in the school lunchroom at 6 o'clock for which a small charge will be made. At 7 o'clock Dr. Tozier will give an hour's lecture with pictures in the auditorium. Invitations to the lecture will also be sent to the Girl Scouts of Arlington, Medford, Stoneham and Woburn.

BADMINTON CLUB

The Winchester Badminton Club opened for the season Oct. 17 at the high school gymnasium. This was somewhat earlier than anticipated, but due to the requests of numerous members and the interest shown by others, the earlier date was decided upon. There was a large attendance at the opening evening and also last Wednesday. For the present, sessions will be contined to Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. Sometime during the coming month sessions will be resumed also on Saturday afternoons from 2:30 to 5 o'clock. There are many residents not previously members who have indicated an intention and desire to join the club this year.

A large number can be provided for without crowding the facilities of the club and it is understood additional hours of play may be arranged if desirable. It is thus expected that the membership will be substantially increased and that many of Winchester's star tennis players will accept the challenge that Badminton as a singles game is more strenuous and exacting than tennis of comparable class. It is also equally as adaptable to more adult players and can be played with all the moderation one's opponent will permit. As a game of doubles it has no superior for real team work and skill. Plans are being laid for entering a team in the Boston District League for the winter season and with the excellent local talent which is being rapidly developed Winchester should be well represented.

Next Wednesday evening, Hallowe'en, the well-known Winchester Coffee Club, disciples of Epicurus will act as hosts to the Badminton Club. In addition to other special features seasonable nourishment will be provided and it is expected that all members will take advantage of this fluid opportunity. It is rumored that Ralph Hale, famed yachtsman and patron of foreign and domestic arts, will render an ode to Bacchus. His interlude on, "Colonial Tombstones" has already become a classic.

Epiphany Church Service League will have as their speaker on Tuesday, Oct. 30, Mrs. Chas. L. Slattery, widow of the late Bishop. Her subject "High Lights of the Convention."

WINCHESTER GIRLS DEFEAT BROOKLINE

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team made it three in a row Wednesday afternoon on Manchester Field, defeating Brookline High, 3 to 1, to remain in the unbeaten class.

The game was closely contested throughout, but the locals were able to force the going in the first half when all their goals were made.

"Dot" Glidden, center forward, caged all of the tallies from scrimmage, once taking a pass from Pauline Rallo and once, from "Nat" Stevens.

In the second half play moved back and forth from one striking circle to the other with neither team able to put on any real sustained drive.

Finally toward the end of the half, Miss McGrail, Brookline's center forward, succeeded in beating Goaler Ruth Cutter with a hard shot out of scrimmage in front of the local uprights.

Between the halves of the first team game, the Winchester seconds blanked the Brookline seconds, 3 to 0, Gladys Moulton scoring all three goals.

Following is the summary:

WINCHESTER	BROOKLINE

SCHOLARS VISITED STAR OFFICE

Lincoln School,
Oct. 24, 1934

My dear Mr. Wilson:

The pupils of the fourth grade wish to thank you and Mr. Penaligan for explaining to us how our Winchester Star is printed. Most of us had never seen a press before and we were surprised to see how quickly a paper can be printed. We have the paper at school and can see the same pictures which we saw on the cuts.

We are pleased with the name plates which were made for us and we have used them to make the list which is enclosed.

Very truly yours,

TRIBUTE TO SERGEANT NOONAN

In the death of Sergt. John H. Noonan the Town of Winchester has lost a most conscientious, efficient and popular police officer. He was at all times loyal to the Town, to his brother officers and to his Chief. He was a true gentleman, courteous and thoughtful of others, and greatly beloved by his fellow officers and the many persons with whom he came in contact in the performance of his duties. The sterling qualities which he showed in his official capacity as a police officer I recognized as a schoolmate years ago. His untimely death is a great loss not only to his family and his many friends but to the entire community.

DR. CHIDLEY TO ADDRESS YOUNG PEOPLE

Next Sunday morning at the First Congregational Church at 10:30, Dr. Chidley will give a special address to young people of high school age on, "The Set of the Sail."

A welcome is extended to all young people to attend.

AN INVITATION TO THE REPUBLICAN WOMEN VOTERS OF WINCHESTER

The Women's Republican Club extends to all the Republican women of Winchester, a most cordial invitation to join this club at the next meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 31 at 2:30 p. m., in the Fortnightly rooms in Waterfield Hall. At this time, Major Judson Hannigan will discuss, "Campaign Issues and Candidates."

The purpose of this club is "to broaden the understanding of the Republican aims in government and to support the best interests of the state and nation through the agency of the Republican party." The club offers a program of outstanding excellence for the year with prominent speakers, who will discuss national and international problems and policies; as well as those, who will deal with measures important to state and county politics. The informal discussions or Round Table Conferences and the intimate social hour around the tea table offer a further means for the dissemination of information and instruction; while the splendid musical programs lend an added attraction to the club meetings.

To those Republican women, who are not already members of the club, we say—Join Now!

MEETING OF NON-PARTISAN

Believing that the issues in the coming election are of such vital importance to the welfare of all the citizens that party affiliations should be put aside because it is the patriotic duty of all the citizens to unite in an effort to support the policies of President Roosevelt, a meeting in the Winchester Town Hall will be held on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Nov. 2, 1934, under the auspices of a committee of registered Republican and Democratic voters and Independent voters, including among others:

Nora Ambrose	Elizabeth Lynch
Florence Ciarcia	James Maguire
Frances Coulon	Mary Maguire
Peter Coss	George P. McGoldrick
Anna Cullen	Mary A. McGoldrick
John Cullen	Margaret McGonigle
Edmund L. Dunn	Mary Martin
Louise Dunn	David Miskell
Catherine Fallon	Rose Mulcahy
Thomas F. Fallon	William Mulcahy
Helen Foley	Francis R. Mullin
Mabel Foley	Mary E. Mullin
Michael J. Foley	Ellen T. Norton
Patrick Foley	Peter J. Norton
Carmine Frongillo	Nora O'Melia
Annie Hanlon	Henrietta Penta
John Hanlon	Joseph B. Peel
Edna Hickey	Mary J. Peel
Patrick Hogan	Joseph J. Phelan
Frank F. Horie	Frances J. Ranlerson
Viola A. Horie	Amelio Staffiere
Dorothy Kean	Nellie Sullivan
Guy Livingstone	Angelo Tufure
Margery Livingstone

The speakers will be Mr. James Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, a life long Republican and Prof. Frank Simpson of Boston University Law School.

A short musical entertainment, beginning at 7:30 o'clock will precede the addresses, which will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

PING PONG CLUB ELECTS

At a recent meeting of the Winchester Ping-Pong Club, officers for the forthcoming season were elected. Officers for 1934-1935 are Mr. James Riley, president and Mr. Paul Eaton, secretary-treasurer. The club's league will be conducted by a Tournament Committee to be appointed by the president.

Preliminary plans for another Winchester Town Tournament and for a Mystic Valley District Tourney were formulated.

Winchester will be represented by two teams in the Metropolitan Boston League. Mr. Paul Eaton is a member of the Executive Committee operating this league; and Mr. Carroll Hilton is secretary of the Massachusetts Ping-Pong Association, under whose supervision the League operates.

Entry blanks for the Club League have been sent out, and any one interested in playing in the league this year may enter by notifying Mr. James Riley, Win. 0823-M, or Mr. Paul Eaton, Win. 2275.

DR. CHIDLEY WILL CONDUCT "QUESTION BOX"

In spite of the rather unpleasant weather last Sunday night about 60 young people attended the meeting at the Congregational Church.

The program was unusual and entertaining, for in a darkened chapel beautiful colored slides of the Northfield campus were shown. Norman Clarke, Kirby Thwing and Doris Miley accompanied these with explanatory remarks and descriptions of their experiences at this conference which is held every summer.

After the meeting everyone adjourned to the social hall, where a light supper was attractively spread on long tables.

Those of you who attended these meetings last year will remember the ever-popular "Question Box" which Dr. Chidley conducted once a month. Sunday will begin this year's series. Join your friends at these pleasant Sunday evening gatherings held every week at 6 o'clock. Everyone of high school age or over is welcome.

SERGT. JOHN H. NOONAN

Police Officer Was Veteran of World War

Police Sergt. John H. Noonan, one of the Department's most respected and popular officers, died at 1:30 Tuesday morning in the Winchester Hospital after a short illness following an operation which he underwent the previous Friday.

Sergeant Noonan was the son of James H. and Mary (Sullivan) Noonan, and was born in Winchester Aug. 13, 1895. He received his early education in the old Gifford and Prince Schools, since torn down, and graduated from the Wadleigh Grammar School, entering high school with the class of 1913.

After completing his first high school year he left school to enter the printing office of the Winchester Star, later entering the employ of Beggs & Cobb at their local tannery and attending Fisher's College evening school in Boston.

Upon the United States entry into the World War he enlisted as a private in Troop E of the 11th Calvary, training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Later he was transferred to the 81st Field Artillery and appointed Corporal June 9, 1918. After service at Camp Fremont in California and Fort Sill in Oklahoma he was prevented by illness from accompanying his unit to France and was permanently assigned to the Personnel Office at Camp Merritt, N. J.

He was honorably discharged June 11, 1919, and Nov. 22, 1920 was appointed a patrolman in the Winchester Police Department, completing his probationary period June 6, 1921. For a time he was assigned to night patrol duty, but when the traffic lights were installed in the center he was assigned to duty in the traffic box where his work was highly commended.

He was promoted to Sergeant Dec. 30, 1930, and at the time of the last civil service examination for chief was second on the list. He was one of the incorporators and active in the Winchester Police Relief Association, serving as its first treasurer, and was one of its trustees at the time of his death.

Sergeant Noonan was held in esteem by his superiors and associates in the Police Department, and was both liked and respected by the townspeople generally. He was considered a conscientious and capable officer by those acquainted with police work while a pleasing personality and a sense of fairness made him many friends outside police circles.

He was a member of the Massachusetts Police Association, of Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E.; and of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion. Flags on the common and public buildings were at half staff in his honor and Police Headquarters was draped in black.

Sergeant Noonan made his home at 7 Prince avenue. On Aug. 6, 1922, he married Miss Anna C. MacIntire, who survives him with his parents, two sisters, Leona (Mrs. Eugene) O'Sullivan of Malden and Marion C. Noonan of Winchester, secretary in the State Department of Fisheries and Game; and three brothers, Brother Howard, C. F. X., of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Police Officer James F. Noonan of the Winchester Police Department and Fireman J. Edward Noonan of the Winchester Fire Department.

The funeral was held from the residence of Sergeant Noonan's parents at 27 Sheridan circle this Friday morning with solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church. Full military honors were accorded the deceased by Winchester Post, A. L., members of the Legion and Winchester Lodge of Elks acting as escort and honorary pallbearers. Officers and patrolmen of the Police Department acted as bearers. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

ARRESTED AFTER CRASH

Wednesday evening shortly after 7:30 Patrolman James E. Farrell of the Police Department while patrolling in the Symmes corner section heard a crash in the direction of Ridgefield road.

Hastening there he found that a Ford coupe, while headed north on Main street, struck a postal telegraph pole opposite Ridgefield road, moving the pole slightly and breaking an Edison arch light.

Patrolman Farrell placed the driver of the car under arrest, and he was taken to Headquarters in the Patrol car by Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell and Patrolman William Cassidy. He gave his name as Lawrence L. Bechard of 975 Middlesex street, Lowell. He was booked on the charge of drunkenness and operating while under the influence of liquor. In court Thursday morning he was found guilty and fined $50.

WINCHESTER MAN INJURED IN WOBURN ACCIDENT

Mr. Axel Hallberg of Canal street was painfully injured Tuesday afternoon in Woburn when he was struck while on lower Main street by an automobile, driven by John Thomas of 48 Lewis street, Lowell.

Mr. Hallberg was taken to the Choate Memorial Hospital by Charles E. Quinn of Pine street, Woburn. He was treated for a broken left leg and a severe scalp wound by Dr. Thomas E. Caulfield.

M. S. P. C. A. AUXILIARY NOTES

Friends and supporters of the humane cause should bear in mind, when they go to the polls on Nov. 6, that they are not voting directly to sustain the Humane Trapping Act adopted four years ago, but to reject the new law—the so-called "Local Option Trapping Law"—and that to carry out their purpose they should vote No. If the No vote prevails, the Humane Trapping Act remains in full force and effect.

The Winchester Emblem Club will conduct a whist party on Monday afternoon, Oct. 29 at 2:15 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Minnie O'Neil, 9 Alben street. All members are invited and please bring a friend.

FOR A BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF THE THRIFT SHOP

The Thrift Shop which is now located at 8 Park street, is under the management of the Women's League of the First Baptist Church, whose members give their services. Its object is to raise money for the church by offering for sale such articles as have been contributed to the shop. In a word, it acts as a clearing house for your unwanted articles of every description. Many people state over and over again that they could not clothe their families if it were not for the shop. Should you have clothing, furniture or anything that you do not feel you could donate but would like to sell, we will gladly handle it for you on a commission basis. We have sold many articles in this way to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The depression is still with us and many families find it difficult to get along on a greatly reduced income. Here is where the Thrift Shop steps in and supplies at very moderate prices the warm clothing and shoes or household furnishings so badly needed. The shop is an institution that Winchester could not well do without. It merits your interest and co-operation.

We wish to thank all the Winchester people who have so thoughtfully remembered us with their contributions.

Donations will be called for. Lucy P. Burnham, chairman, tel. Win. 0920.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR NOTES

The Guild of the Infant Saviour met Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 23 at Lyceum Hall for their regular meeting. After the business meeting, the president Mrs. Michael Hintlian introduced the speaker of the afternoon the Rev. Michael Scanlon, Pastor of St. Rose's Church, Chelsea. He spoke on "Hobbies." Why do people need a Hobby? This subject is so extensive in its scope that there seems to be no end to it. There are people who have physical hobbies such as golf, tennis, baseball and so forth, then there are others who enjoy the hoby of collecting rare and beautiful objects of art. It was indeed a revelation to know so many members of the Guild really enjoy a hobby.

Mrs. Thomas Caulfield Old Majolica and salt glazed pitchers

Mrs. Peter Caulfield Tea pots collected on her travels from all over the world

Mrs. Chevalier A large collection of samplers, all her own work

Barbara Chevalier Exhibited some of her fine lace, a bed-spread that was greatly admired

Mrs. Dissel Exquisite old Prussian glass and fine old Minton China

Mrs DeMorris Very beautifully made hooked rugs

Mrs. Dolan A beautiful spread designed and executed by herself, lovely linen cross stitch pieces which were greatly admired

Mrs. Evans Fine samples of Sandwich glass

Mrs. Fenney Waterford glass and tea caddies. One old Irish tea caddy over 100 years old

Mrs. Fell Four large beautifully colored afghans, any one of which would mean a tremendous amount of work

Mrs. Gaffney Elephants, such an array

Mrs. Ghiradini Persian, Russian and Spanish copper and some old Tibet and bronze, an unusual collection of fine pieces

Mrs. Hickey Especially fine exhibit of paper weights. Mrs. Hickey's collection is quite complete and few have a finer collection of early sandwich glass, old Staffordshire figures and old dolls.

Mrs Hintlian Chinese embroidery, lacquer and wood-carving; many of these pieces are museum pieces. Her collection of Parian marble, glass and bronze hands were interesting.

Mrs. Landry Old coins

Mrs. Meagher Gesso-craft copies of old Florentine work, many pieces could not be distinguished from the original. In this art Mrs. Meagher has made beautiful boxes, firescreens and jewel cases. These objects are fashioned out of plaster and glue ornamented with beautiful colored prints and jewels. Mrs Meagher also collects old glass.

Mrs. McDevitt Stamps, this is the hobby of the family I believe.

Mrs. Moffett Lace bed-spread, was greatly admired

Mrs. Sheehy Old samplers, some over 100 years old

The afternoon proved to be a very enjoyable one. After the lecture the president invited all to stay for tea. Miss Josephine Brine, Mrs. James Blackham, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. Allan Beausange, Mrs. J. Breen were the hostesses of the afternoon.

SETH PARKER GITHERIN' AT TOWN HALL, OCT. 30

Tuesday evening, Oct. 30, is the date set for the Seth Parker Githerin' at the Town Hall. Promptly at 8 p. m. the curtain will rise to reveal the living room of Seth and Mother Parker in the little town of Jonesport.

Nearly the complete cast who were so enthusiastically received last year will appear in a similar performance which promises to be even better than the previous production.

Ever since the Githerin' held at the Methodist Church last November, requests have been pouring in from the townspeople that another be given.

Much enthusiasm and appreciation is being expressed that the production will be at the Town Hall, so that the large numbers who were unable to gain admission to the overcrowded Methodist hall last year, may have the opportunity of enjoying the hour with Seth Parker and his neighbors.

There is no charge for admission. Everybody is welcome. The interest and enthusiasm around town bids fair to crowd the Town Hall. As the curtain rises promptly at 8 o'clock, those desiring to get the full story should be there early.

In the cast of 15 trained singers is included some of the town's best talent and well known people.

The cast is as follows:

Seth	Vincent P. Clarke
Mother Parker	Mary Witham
Captain	Charles Carter
Cephas	T. Parker Clarke
Lizzie	Helen Harris
Hulda	Jane Hill
Jane	Marjorie Danforth
John	James Joslin
George	Ed. Merriam
Samantha	Lillian Whitman
Miss Hooper	Anna Lochman
Lucy	Lucy Wilcox
Joshua	Len Witham
Laith	Dan Barnard
Ephraim	Dave Downer

Patrolman James E. Farrell discovered early Tuesday morning that the doors to the Ripley house on Main street next the Junior High School were open. An inspection disclosed that considerable damage had been done the inside of the building, probably by boys.

At 3:20 Thursday morning Patrolman William E. Cassidy went to the Symmes Hospital to investigate an accident which was reported to have happened in Winchester. He found at the hospital Arthur W. Johnson of 1070 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, who was being treated for abrasions to both legs and a nose injury. He told Officer Cassidy that the steering gear of his machine broke while he was driving west on High street and the car collided with a Chevrolet sedan, whose owner was not known. Johnson's car was towed to Pike's Garage.

Early last Friday afternoon, Police Headquarters was notified that an unknown man was hanging about near the corner of Wildwood street and Salisbury road. Chief William H. Rogers and Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy went to the place mentioned and found an 18 year old Somerville youth who told them that he was watching the children at play. The officers took the young man to the center and ordered him to get out of town.

Trouble at the Public Welfare office resulted in a phone call for police assistance last Friday afternoon. Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy went to the office and found that a man was arguing over the amount of his pay. He quieted down at sight of the officer and accompanied him out of the office.

Difference in Claim

The quahaug is the common hard clam of the Atlantic coast from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Florida. It has a hard ovate dirty white shell and reaches a length of four inches. It possesses a foot which it protrudes between the shells and uses in burrowing. Small sizes are sold as little necks, and somewhat larger sizes, although less than 2½ inches long, as cherrystones. Both are eaten raw from the half-shell. Other size gradations are known to the trade, the larger sizes being used for chowders, steamed or cooked in other ways.

Nerves and the Hair

Red headed people are the least likely to become bald; blond people are the most likely. Men doing active physical work have less trouble with baldness than have men in sedentary occupations. Those with high nervous tension are prone to lose their hair.

FORTNIGHTLY ANTIQUES COMMITTEE

Lexington-Concord Pilgrimage and Luncheon

Fifty-five members enjoyed this outstanding pilgrimage and luncheon under the supervision of the Antiques Committee. Miss Louis Bancroft and Mrs. Roger Burgoyne chairman of the day.

The first stop was the Hancock Clarke house. Next after the Battle Green this old parsonage is the most interesting and important place historically in Lexington. Built in 1698 enlarged in 1734, residence of Rev. John Hancock 55 years, and of his successor Rev. James Clarke 50 years. Here John Hancock and Samuel Adams were sleeping when aroused by Paul Revere April 19, 1775. The house stood originally on the opposite side of the street from its present location. With the aid of patriotic men and women in various parts of the country the Lexington Historical Society purchased the house and removed it to its present position in 1896, and restored it to its original condition. It contains the larger part of the collection of the Historical Society numbering about 2400 articles. Connected with the house is a fireproof safe for the preservation of the most valuable items. Pominent in the collection are portraits of Rev. and Mrs. John Hancock; sword of Robert Newman who hung the lanterns in the church steeple for Paul Revere; pocket-book of Joshua Bentley who rowed Revere across the Charles River on the night of April 18, 1775; muskets and swords used by the Minute men; lanterns formerly used by Paul Revere; the drum that beat the call for the Minute Men to assemble; stamp issued under the Stamp Act of 1765; furniture and implements of Colonial days and many valuable manuscripts and publications.

We next stopped at the Minute Man Antique Shop, 1981 Massachusetts avenue. A most interesting and attractively furnished house built in the early 18th century; at one time owned by the Munroe family and now the home and shop of Mrs. Maude B. Foster. Here the group was most graciously received and given the freedom of the house. Mr. Larry N. Foster, a commercial artist uses as his studio the long room at the rear of the house which in the early days served as the headquarters of the Gold and Silver beaters of this section. The old forge still stands in one end of the room.

The historical Hartwell Farm house built in 1635 was our next stop. Here luncheon was served in farm house style and a social hour enjoyed.

After luncheon we visited "The Wayside," formerly the home of the Alcotts, Nathaniel Hawthorne and Margaret Sidney. Miss Margaret Lothrop the present owner, our hostess, told in her charming way the history of "The Wayside." This was the only house Nathaniel Hawthorne ever owned. He bought it from the Alcotts in 1852 and owned it until his death in 1864. Mrs. Daniel Lothrop better known as Margaret Sidney here wrote many volumes of "The Five Little Peppers." "The Wayside" was her home for over 10 years from 1883 to her death in 1924. The walls, furniture and pictures all express her personality. She cherished Hawthorne's dining table which is still in the house with other articles formerly belonging to him. One of the distinguished features of this quaint dwelling is a cupola tower on top. Here Hawthorne produced some of the famous works which he has given the world.

Our next stop was Concord's Old Manse by the North Bridge built in 1769 and opened to the public for the first time this summer. Two of our greatest authors were associated with the Old Manse, Hawthorne and Emerson, both of whom were given to scribbling about the place. The countryside has changed little since the mid-eighteenth century and the view of the river is much as the Reverend Emerson saw it in 1775. The house with its line of trees is typical of the period. Much of the furniture is of a period earlier than the house though a bit of early Victorian crept in during the 1840's. Nothing has been added since 1846. The gem of the collection is a block from highboy, the only one of the sort known of this construction. It is of cherry with maple sides and is believed to be the work of a local cabinet maker. In the dining room is a set of splendid William and Mary chairs. The panelling here, as elsewhere in the house is interesting. Other notable pieces are the 17th century day bed in the upper hall and the Chippendale type corner chair in the front parlor. There is a superb block front chest, a wing chair, a duck foot tea table and a Queen Anne low boy. Above the latter hangs a portrait of Hawthorne's daughter Una, lent by the Concord Public Library. Opposite the parlor is the study in which was seen the three volume Bible purchased in 1750 by Rev. William Emerson, grandfather of Ralph Waldo. The cost was $25 according to a note on the fly leaf. The three volumes are spread out on a Chinese Chippendale hard table. There is an enormous number of books in many languages throughout the house. Many of these belong to Mrs. Samuel Ripley a noted scholar, wife of the third minister to occupy the Manse.

The Antiques Committee is gratefully appreciative of the fine club spirit shown in the use of cars for the various trips and take this opportunity to thank those who helped make our pilgrimages a success.

Nov. 9, 2:30 p. m., Waterfield Hall. Joys of Glass Collecting, Mrs. Laura Woodside Watkins, co-chairman Mrs. Mabel G. Nichols and Miss Louise Bancroft. Custodians of exhibition, Mrs. Susan Ladd and Mrs. Emma Rice. Tea chairman Mrs. Elizabeth Hall. Please reserve this date.

Boiling on Ice

Boiling a kettle of water on a block of ice is an experiment that is often performed with liquid air, which looks like water though it is not quite as clear. If liquid air is placed in a kettle, which is set on a block of ice, the ice being much warmer than the liquid air will cause it to boil or change into gas. If the liquid air is poured on the ice it will boil vigorously, sending off clouds of vapor.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

The Elementary Schools will not be in session Wednesday afternoons on the following dates, except for those pupils who will be obliged to return for special help: Nov. 7, Nov. 21, Dec. 5, Dec. 12, Dec. 19.

All schools will close Wednesday noon, Nov. 28 for the Thanksgiving holidays the schools reopening Monday, Dec. 3.

It is possible that the following classes will be held under the Emergency Relief Administration program in Education: Dramatics, Voice Training, China and Glass Decoration, Drawing, Spanish, Crafts, French and English. There will be no charge for attendance at these classes.

LION'S CLUB OBSERVED HALLOWE'EN

The Lion's Club held its annual Hallowe'en Party Monday evening in the Calumet Club, an enjoyable program of games, cards and dancing being enjoyed by a large number of members and their guests. An orchestra furnished music for dancing and vocal selections were sung by the Lions Club Quartet, comprising Gerald Seminatore, Dr. R. L. Emery, John F. Coakley and James Chisholm. The committee in charge of arrangements included Dr. A. L. Maietta, James Chisholm, John F. Coakley, Leslie J. Scott and Fred H. Scholl.

WOLLASTON DRILL TEAM TO FEATURE ARMISTICE BALL

Armistice night will be observed as usual by Winchester Post No. 97, American Legion with their annual Armistice Ball. All who have attended this ball in the past recall it as one of the major events of the winter season. The Town Hall will again be professionally decorated and music will be furnished by Mackie's ten-piece orchestra. This orchestra has played several times at the Calumet Club in the past and at the Boat Club recently and is well known in this vicinity for its excellent repertory of musical numbers.

An innovation will be the exhibition by the crack Wollaston Drill team, state champions, who will appear in full dress uniform. This will take place just prior to the 11 o'clock Armistice observance. Past Vice Commander Patrick T. Foley is heading the general committee of arrangements. Sub-committees are in charge of Past Commander Kenneth S. Hall for tickets; Gerald D. Curtis for decorations; Senior Vice Commander Otis E. Alley for ushers and Commander John H. McCarthy for entertainment. Past Commander Kingman P. Cass has chage of publicity and Past Commander Vincent P. Clarke is in the refreshment committee.

Many dinner parties are being given prior to the ball and the following Mesdames are among the patronesses who are assisting in making the affair a success:

Otis E. Alley	A. Allen Kimball
Blanche L. Bennett	Conrad S. Larson
John Burchard, 2nd	Wendell D. Mansfield

LINCOLN SCHOOL NOTES

The kindergarten class visited the Winchester Fire Department during the past week.

Last Wednesday the boys and girls of grade six enjoyed a trip to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. The docents conducted them through the Greek Galleries, describing the art of ancient Greece. This trip proved an interesting and profitable one.

The Junior Red Cross Chapter of the Lincoln School held its first meeting of the year in the school assembly hall.

The newly elected officers were installed as follows: Lawrence Greer, president; Frank Capone, vice president; Alice Nash, treasurer; Marianna Cirurso, secretary.

The minutes of the final meeting of last year were read and accepted, after which a program presented by the sixth grade and entitled "Everybody's Flag," was very excellently given. The pupils had flags representative of various countries, which made the program colorful as well as entertaining.

The meeting closed with the Red Cross song and the singing of America the Beautiful.

COMMUNITY ARMISTICE SERVICE

The Winchester Choral Society's presentation of Henry Hadley's "The New Earth" as a community service in the First Congregational Church on Armistice Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock is creating widespread interest.

Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, is co-operating with the Choral Society and is to attend the service in a body with its colors. Interest among out-of-town music lovers as well as those in Winchester indicates that there will be a capacity attendance.

"The New Earth" was written at the close of the World War and is especially appropriate to Armistice Day. It was enthusiastically received when first sung by the Choral Society at its closing concert of the past season.

MILITARY RITES FOR SERGT. JOHN H. NOONAN

Sergt. John H. Noonan, deceased member of the Winchester Police Department, was accorded full military honors at his funeral last Friday morning by Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, of which he had been a member. Besides the Military, town officers, representatives of Elks' Lodges and police and fire officials were in the cortege which was one of the largest seen in Winchester for some years. Some time before the hour for the services little knots of citizens began to gather at street corners along upper Main street and in the center to see the procession pass.

The cortege formed at the home of Sergeant Noonan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Noonan, 27 Sheridan circle, where on Thursday evening the Elks' funeral ritual was exemplified by Exalted Ruler Leo J. Finnegan and officers of Winchester Lodge. David Downer, tenor, sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "The Vacant Chair."

Headed by Patrolman John Dolan in the Police cruising car, the cortege included the colors and color guard of Winchester Post, a uniformed detachment of Legionnaires under command of Comdr. John H. McCarthy, firing squad and bugler from Fort Banks, Police pallbearers and escort, detachment of Arlington police, detachment of Winchester Firemen and a long line of automobiles in which were riding members of the Board of Selectmen, town officers and representatives of the Elks, Massachusetts Police Association and relatives and friends of the deceased who was greatly esteemed, not only by his police associates but by the townspeople as a whole.

Chief William H. Rogers personally headed the active bearers, the others being Lieut. John A. Harrold, Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy and Patrolmen James P. Donaghey, James E. Farrell and William E. Cassidy. The honorary Police escort, commanded by Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell, included Patrolmen Henry P. Dempsey, Archie T. O'Connell, John E. Hanlon, Joseph J. Derro, John J. Murray, John H. Boyle, Clarence E. Dunbury, D. Irving Reardon and Charles J. Harrold.

Lieut. Charles Carroll headed a detachment of police from Arlington, and the Woburn Department was represented by Chief Charles McCauley and Patrolmen John Kelley and Alonzo O'Brien. Lieut. William Heyd represented the police of Belmont.

Deputy Chief John J. Gorman commanded the detachment of Winchester Firemen and Chief David H. DeCourcy rode in the automobile section of the cortege. As the hearse moved through the center heads were bared and Patrolmen John F. Hogan and John J. Regan, who were on traffic duty, with Special Officer Frank P. Zaffina, stood stiffly at salute.

Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Mary's Church by Rev. Fr. Joseph McGoldrick, with Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach, deacon; and the pastor of the church, Rev. Fr. Aloysius Malone, sub-deacon. Seated in the sanctuary were Rev. Fr. James F. Fitzsimons, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, his assistant, Rev. Fr. Charles J. Foley, and Rev. Fr. Bernard Winn of St. Monica's Church, Methuen. Delegations of Xaverian Brothers were present from the Juniorate at Peabody, from St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers and from the Immaculate Conception School in Malden.

Honorary bearers were members of Winchester Lodge of Elks and included former Selectmen Jonas A. Laraway and Thomas F. Fallon, Bernard F. Cullen, Arthur J. Hurty, William H. Vaya, Frank Sullivan and George Leekley. Ushers were two past exalted rulers of the lodge, Fred H. Scholl, D. D. G. E. R. and Charles A. Farrar.

Following the mass the cortege formed once more and proceeded to Calvary Cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Father Fitzsimons assisted by Father McGoldrick, Father Winn and Father Foley. Three volleys were fired over the grave by the firing squad, commanded by Corp. W. H. Abbott and Bugler Papineau sounded taps.

Sergeant Noonan died Tuesday morning, Oct. 23, in the Winchester Hospital after a brief illness which followed an operation. He was 39 years old, a native of Winchester and had been a member of the Police Department for 14 years, being promoted to sergeant in 1930. He served in the United States Calvary and Field Artillery during the World War, was a member of the Elks, the Legion, the Massachusetts Police Association and the Winchester Police Relief Association, of which he was trustee and the first treasurer.

He leaves his wife, the former Anna C. MacIntire; his parents, James H. and Mary (Sullivan) Noonan; two sisters, Mrs. Eugene O'Sullivan of Malden and Miss Marion C. Noonan of Winchester; and three brothers, Brother Howard C. F. X., of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Traffic Officer James F. Noonan of the Police Department and Fireman J. Edward Noonan of the Fire Department.

WINCHESTER MAN'S CARTOONS ON DISPLAY

Local Republican headquarters has on display three political cartoons, drawn by Norman von Rosenvinge of this town, a recent graduate from Boston University Law School. All are concerned with the gubernatorial contest, and one of the three, depicting the Democratic nominee, James M. Curley, with a mask of the features of President Roosevelt was reproduced in last night's Boston Transcript. It carries the caption, "Come Out from Behind that Mask, Mr. Curley. We Know You."

JONESPORT FAIR ATTRACTED MANY—UNUSUAL LAYOUT AT TOWN HALL

The town of Jonesport, Me., made famous from coast to coast by the popular Seth Parker radio programs reappeared in the town hall Tuesday and Wednesday as a background for the "Jonesport Fair," sponsored in aid of the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church by its Ladies' Aid Society, of which Mrs. Anna M. Dunning is president.

Mrs. Dunning, in charming old fashioned costume, officially opened the fair at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and from that time until the final article was "auctioned off" Wednesday evening by former Selectman Vincent P. Clarke in the role of Seth Parker there wasn't a dull moment. People were constantly crowding about the little shops, placed under the galleries of the hall and on both evenings there were large crowds in attendance.

A clever reproduction of the town of Jonesport was skillfully constructed for the fair, complete with the all-important village church and school. Much credit is due Norman Osborne and G. Henry MacMillan for the actual construction and painting respectively of the church, school, post office and little shops that line the town's "Main street." An excellent reproduction of a lighthouse, done by the pastor of the church, Rev. J. West Thompson, aroused the admiration of all visitors and proved most effective with its intermittent beams when the lights in the hall were low.

There were all sorts of interesting places to visit at the fair, including the post office, library, lobster pound, old oaken bucket, sardine factory and Jonathan Staples Dry Goods, Hopkins Variety Store, Cyrus Fairweather —General Merchandise; and Stebbins & Co.—Household Goods, to name only a few. There were such novelties as sunken treasure and a chicken coop as well as a professional fortune teller and all the old favorites usually found at such a fair.

Decorations were huge prize squashes from an exhibition at Biddeford, Me.; Jerusalem cherry trees and other plants dear to the rural heart. On the stage was a replica of Seth Parker's living room, done in quaint old fashioned furnishings, what-nots, paisley shawls, kerosene lamps, framed mottos, tidies, conch-shells, hooked rugs and melodeon. Adding much to the pleasure and attractiveness of the fair were the artistic and clever signs done by Miss Ruth Clark and Donald Maxwell. Store signs were by G. Henry MacMillan. The dory for the sunken treasure was from Wedge Pond and the lobster pots, ropes, gaffs, scoops and buckets at the lobster pound came from Fisherman's Beach in Swampscott.

At the close of the first day at the fair a chicken pie supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Norman Hitchcock in the "Ocean Breeze Hotel" with young people of the church as waitresses.

Following the supper there was a Seth Parker "Gatherin'" under the direction of Mrs. Vincent P. Clarke, attractively attired in a gown and perky little bonnet, once worn by Mrs. Whitfield Tuck. A complete report of this feature appears in another column.

Wednesday afternoon there was a ping pong tournament under the supervision of the Winchester Ping Pong Club in which the finalists were Richard Leghorn, W. H. S. '35 and Mr. R. V. Hayward of the high school faculty. Leghorn won the final match 22—20, 17—21, 21—15, 21—15.

Wednesday evening's festivities, opened with exhibition ping pong matches under the direction of Lawrence M. Sibley, many visitors to the fair getting their first glimpse of this increasingly popular sport.

After the tables had been removed the center of the hall was cleared and dancing was enjoyed. "Mel" von Rosenvinge's orchestra furnished the music. The fair was concluded with a spirited and most amusing auction, Mr. Clarke as Seth Parker acting as auctioneer.

Mrs. Harris LeRoy was chairman of the general committee in charge of arrangements, the members of which were Mrs. G. Raymond Bancroft, Mrs. A. B. Bent, Miss Mollie Hodge and Rev. J. West Thompson.

Following are the individual chairmen:

Plants Mrs. Harry Dutton
Candy Mrs. William F. Ramsdell
Library Mrs. James Whiting
Jonathan Stebbins, Dry Goods Mrs. Benjamin F. Miner

REPUBLICANS ACCLAIMED BACON

Stressing the fact that the issue in the election next Tuesday is State and not Nation, Lieut. Governor Gaspar G. Bacon was enthusiastically welcomed by a capacity gathering at the Republican rally last evening in the Town Hall. Nearly 1000 men and women stood and cheered while the Republican nominee was escorted to the platform. Lieut. Governor Bacon expressed confidence in the election's outcome, reiterated the policies for which he and his party stand and expressed the belief that he can be of as great assistance to the people of Massachusetts where the relationship of the State to the National Government is concerned as his Democratic opponent, ex-Mayor Curley.

Chairman Harris S. Richardson presided at the rally and seated on the stage with the speakers were Representative William E. Ramsdell, Raymond F. Wilkins, president of the Men's Republican Club, Vice President Mary F. Smith, Mrs. A. Smith, president of the Women's Republican Club and Past President Clara M. Snyder Speakers included Otis M. Whiting, representing the Young Republican League; Joseph Haigis, candidate for Lieut. Governor; Peter W. Pate, former Commander, V. F. W.; Edith Nourse Rogers, candidate for National Congress; Frederick A. Crafts, representing Warren L. Bishop, candidate for Attorney General; Eugene A. F. Burtnett, candidate for Governor's Council; Frederick W. Cook, candidate for Secretary of State; Charles C. Warren, candidate for Senator; Oscar U. Dionne, candidate for Treasurer; Mr. Wilkins and Mrs. Snyder.

The brass band of Winchester Post, American Legion, under the direction of Charles A. Young, played a musical program and before the rally riding master, Ralph P. Symmes rode through the street of the town, garbed as Paul Revere, warning people to attend.

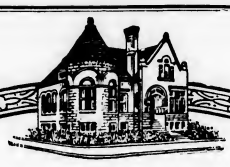

WINCHESTER AT BELMONT

Winchester High plays a crucial game in its Middlesex League series Saturday afternoon with Belmont at Belmont, last Saturday's tie game with Concord making it necessary for the locals to chalk up a win tomorrow to stay in the running for the circuit championship.

Belmont is a much improved club, as its close game with Maynard last Saturday definitely discloses, and Winchester will have to hit hard and often to take the Red and Blue into camp.

It is not expected that either of Winchester's co-Captains, "Jack" Hanlon and "Gerry" Gaffney will start, though both may bet into the game if badly needed. Winchester's starting lineup is expected to be Bairstow and Josephson or Millyan, ends; Olson and Thwing, tackles; McCormack and Graham, guards; Gaum, center; Grosvenor, quarterback; Cushman and Cimina, halfbacks; and Provinzano, fullback. Kickoff at 2 p. m.

Miss Louisa Williams of Winchester played center halfback for Vassar last Saturday in the college's opening field hockey game of the season against the Stuyvesant Field Hockey Association team at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The club players won, 9 to 2.

ENGAGED TO WINCHESTER MAN

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Ann Brooks Frothingham of Boston to William Green Wait of Winchester by Miss Frothingham's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Langdon Frothingham of Beacon street.

Miss Frothingham studied abroad following her graduation from school and made her debut at the Somerset Club in the season of 1930-31. She is a member of the Vincent Club and of the Boston Art Club.

Mr. Wait, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Riggs Wait of Fellsdale and Rockport, attended Bowdoin College with the class of 1929 and is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

No plans have been announced for the ceremony.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

The School Committee hopes that the parents of our public school pupils, and citizens in general, will utilize Education Week, beginning Nov. 5 as an opportunity to visit the public schools. Parents and citizens are cordially invited to see for themselves the schools in operation. Reserve sometime during the week of Nov. 5 for a school visit. o26-2t

Automobiles driven by William Anderson of 253 Main street, Woburn, and William J. Ray of 3 Tidd avenue, that city, were in collision at the corner of Highland and Park avenue Monday afternoon about 5:30. Anna Anderson, 43, riding with Mr. Anderson, complained of injuries to her back. Both cars were damaged.

WINCHESTER GIRL WINS AWARD

The Massachusetts Safety Council announced today that it had awarded the prizes in the contest that it conducted recently for the best safety plays for school use submitted by Massachusetts teachers.

The first award has been made to Miss Dorothy Mecker of Dix terrace, Winchester, for her playlet entitled, "A Dream of Safety." The second award to Miss Anne Saber of Quincy, who wrote "The Little Show Off" and the third to Miss Mabel Cressy of Beverly. Her play is entitled, "The Little Fellow."

These three plays will be published by the Council and will be available for presentation in public and parochial schools that are carrying on a program of safety education.

The Council announced that it had adopted as its pedestrian slogan for the balance of the year, "You Can't Hit Me If I'm Not There." In explanation it states that the increase in collisions between motor vehicles and pedestrians has become so acute, especially at night, as to make it necessary for the pedestrian to assume all the responsibility for his own safety. In many of the accidents that occurred this month the pedestrian has undertaken to cross the street in the face of moving traffic, while if he had remained upon the sidewalk he could not have been injured. Already a number of organizations have adopted this slogan in co-operation with the Massachusetts Safety Council and one of the largest companies in the state is sending out 720 of its agents next week to contact thousands of people with a request that they join in the pedestrian campaign.

THE ISSUE IS CLEAR

Leaders of both the Democratic and Republican Parties agree that one certainty exists in the present Gubernatorial campaign . . . that point of agreement being that either Gaspar G. Bacon or James M. Curley will be the next Governor of Massachusetts. There are other nominees for this office, none of whom have the slightest chance to be elected, based on precedent and a study of the totals which the combined group received in the primaries. Therefore the voter who has the normal desire to have his or her ballot count towards the election of a candidate will cast a ballot for either Bacon or Curley.

The choice then depends on a comparison of the two outstanding candidates. If the Democratic Candidate appears to be the man to whom this state can safely entrust its affairs, vote for him. If on the other hand Gaspar G. Bacon, upon his record and platform as outlined in his public addresses, seems to be best fitted to take the reins of Government, it is a public duty of each citizen to vote for him. Remember, when you cast your ballot, that only these two candidates have any chance of being elected.

KIBBEE—ROSEDALE

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Rosedale of Boston and San Diego, Cal., have announced the marriage of their daughter Estelle, to Mr. L. Reginald Adams Kibbee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Justin Kibbee of Myrtle terrace. The ceremony took place on Oct. 12, in Wolfeboro, N. H.

The bride attended schools in Paris and Switzerland. Mr. Kibbee, a descendant of John Quincy Adams, graduated from Winchester High School and from the Massachusetts School of Art, Columbia University and the Boston Art Students' League.

WINCHESTER CO-OPERATIVE BANK

75TH ANNIVERSARY

To many an old-timer the 75th anniversary of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company recalls the life and times of half and even three-quarters of a century ago. Many letters come in to the company's offices expressing nostalgia for the days when the stores were decorated with "China scenes," when eight and even 12 horse teams of matched percherons attended the opening of new stores, and a week's supply of tea was delivered to outlying customers in little red wagons, when bric-a-brac and crockery were won after weeks and months of premium hoarding, and when chromos were given away with a pound of tea. These letters of half a century ago have a double appeal today. The quaint customs of the past are news to the younger generation, and to the old-timers they furnish pleasant memories of the past.

A spry young man of 85 remembers the original store and coming in from New Jersey to trade there. Another remembers putting up the Chinese scenes on the walls of the first store at 504 Walnut street, Des Moines, Iowa in 1887. Around his head rages a storm of dispute. His faction stoutly maintains that these scenes with their half-life size figures of Chinamen carrying trays, of tea houses, little bridges and the like were printed on paper in China and came folded up in tea chests. The opposition equally stoutly maintains these murals were painted by imaginative local artists. Who in Winchester can rise to settle this question?

Another man writes as a continuous customer he can remember 56 of the 75 years of the company's existence. Still another in his 80's today remembers walking a mile to the company's other store 62 years ago.

Perhaps it is not strange that men have volunteered far more reminiscences of the last century than women. However, for the honor of the fair sex, some have written in. Mrs. Laura B. Simonds of Auburndale, Mass., in a charming letter of reminiscence about her childhood days in a small Maine village, writes, "When dancing in winter was in our old kitchen, in summer on the green between our house and Uncle Will's, and the music was a fiddle, mouth organ, jewsharp, or just "Tommie" beating time with his bones or clappers made from the ribs of the last beef critter we'd killed for food.

"You might be interested to know" Mrs. Simonds added, "that one of my very earliest recollections (I was born in 1873) is of getting ready to "go to Rockland" with my father and mother to get tea and coffee at the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. We lived on a farm near Rockland and did most of our trading there—sometimes exchanging fresh eggs, of which we had plenty, for tea, which came loose and was put up in a bag for us. The coffee was always in a large bag, whole berries, which we washed and ground ourselves."

The old "handsome presents" which were given as premiums did not always get cracked and thrown away. "There was a pitcher for which my grandmother saved tickets for a long time. When we moved to the East my grandmother gave it to my mother as one of her most cherished possessions," wrote another feminine customer, Mrs. David A. Lucas of Brooklyn, recalling her childhood. "The pitcher has been with us ever since," her letter continued, "and we have moved about considerably. My mother's first thought when packing dishes was always 'a safe place for the pitcher.' It always traveled in state in a trunk, safely stuffed and padded with clothing. Of course I know its intrinsic value is not great, but as a member of the third generation to become 'guardian of the pitcher' I do set a high sentimental value on it, and would feel very badly to have any accident befall it."

Already scores of letters from old-timers have come in, helping to roll back the mists of time that enshroud the early days of the company. A. & P. hopes for even more that will shed light on the life and times of the 1860's, 70's and 80's.

GAIN IN RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP REPORTED BY LOCAL CHAIRMAN

Volunteer workers for the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross are making plans now for the annual Roll Call membership campaign which opens on Armistice Day, Sunday, Nov. 11, according to a statement today by Mrs. Bowen Tufts, chairman of the local chapter. The quota assigned to this chapter is 2090 members, and we hope that the goal will be reached, if not passed, during the roll call campaign.

A gain in membership was reported by the national organization for last year. The organization did not suffer a serious loss in members at any time during the period of stress; such decrease as occurred was checked last year, and the response to the roll call this year is expected to be well up toward the pre-depression figure.

"Immediately after President Roosevelt was inaugurated in March, 1933, the Red Cross pledged him its support and the use of all its facilities, and over and over again the federal government has called on the Red Cross for co-operation. Disaster relief and relief rehabilitation for veterans and soldiers and sailors are a permanent national responsibility of the Red Cross. In addition to this permanent service there has been close affiliation between the Red Cross and various Federal Emergency Relief activities during the past year. Red Cross chapters gave information as to emergency set-ups and administration; boys and war veterans were enrolled in Civilian Conservation Corps camps and in the ranks of Civil and Public Works forces. First aid was taught by the Red Cross on CWA and PWA projects, and is now being taught in CCC camps to lessen accidental deaths and injuries; public health nurses have worked to prevent illness and malnutition in the homes of the needy and home hygiene instructors have taught girls and women the care of sick in the home; Red Cross volunteer activities in sewing, in training for relief workers, in hospital hostess and recreation service, in motor corps and canteen work, have done much to supplement the federal relief program throughout the United States.

"The federal government, co-operating with state governments, has undertaken to see that nobody in the United States is without shelter or clothing during the depression. There is still much left for private welfare organizations to do. Last year, and the years that preceded it, showed that the Red Cross met the challenge of need in the depression as gallantly as it did the demands for service during the World War. Red Cross chapters stayed on the first job until the war ended, and they will stay on now, I am sure, until the depression is finally ended.

"Red Cross services to the public must be continued at their present high peak," he concluded. "The organization must stand ready at all times to answer calls for relief in catastrophes, great and small; it must be ready for any sort of governmental co-operation that may be needed. An increased membership will provide the members and the means through which the needs of the coming year can be met. The Winchester Chapter asks all of our citizens to join as members."

THANK HOSPITAL STAFF

We wish to sincerely thank the staff of the Winchester Hospital for their thoughtfulness and the kindly courtesy extended us during the illness and death of Sergt. John H. Noonan.

Not only do we feel that our loved one had the very best of skilled medical attention, but we are happy also to acknowledge the thoughtfulness and sympathy of the Superintendent, Supervisor and the entire group of nurses, whose care of him and for our needs did so much to lighten his suffering and make more bearable our hours of anxiety and sorrow.

We feel that everything humanly possible was done for Sergeant Noonan and for us, and we are happy to acknowledge a lasting debt of gratitude to the splendid staff of the Winchester Hospital, to whom the community may look with complete confidence for adequate medical attention and sympathetic understanding of the feelings of those who must face the loss of a loved one.

WINCHESTER S. P. C. A. AUXILLARY NOTES

On Thursday of last week a sad accident occurred on Mt. Vernon street, when two dogs were struck by a car and seriously injured. Both were well-loved pets and the fact that one of them was so badly hurt that it had to be shot, means loneliness and heartache to one little school boy who has lost his pal.

Mrs. Richard Taylor, president of our local S. P. C. A. Auxiliary, arrived on the scene soon after the accident. Through her efforts, the other dog, being less severely injured, was taken to the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, by Mr. Brooks, one of the Boston S. P. C. A. officers, where it is receiving expert treatment.

The Steel Trap question is again before us. On Tuesday, Nov. 6, State Election Day, the voters of Massachusetts will have an opportunity to say whether the cruel steel trap shall remain prohibited all over the State, or whether such cities and towns as want to restore it within their own borders shall be permitted to do so.

The so-called "Local Option Trapping Law" is designated on the ballot as Question No. 1. Four years ago, at the 1930 State Election, Winchester by a vote of 2876, did her part to outlaw the steel trap. It is earnestly hoped she will now vote against its return by going to the polls on Nov. 6, and voting a vigorous No on Question No. 1.

The Winchester Auxiliary, M. S. P. C. A. will hold its first meeting of the fall on Thursday, Nov. 8, at the home of the president, Mrs. Taylor, 137 Mt. Vernon street, at 2:30 o'clock. This will be the annual meeting, with election of officers and annual reports, and marks the beginning of the Auxiliary's fourth year of work.

Mrs. Ralph S. Vinal has returned to Salisbury street after spending a couple of months in Scituate.

FREE LECTURE AT SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

A group of men connected with the Second Congregational Church of Winchester Highlands have recently organized a Father and Sons' Association which meet on Monday evenings. This society is endeavoring to arouse more interest among the men of the community, and will gladly welcome new members. To further this interest and to enable outsiders to become better acquainted with the objectives of the society, an open meeting is to be held next Monday evening, Nov. 5, at 8:30 o'clock, in the assembly hall. The guest speaker is to be the Rev. William Bradley Whitmoy, chaplain of the State Prison at Charlestown, who will give an illustrated lecture entitled "From Prison Gate to Electric Chair." This lecture has been given in several places, and has been highly recommended to us.

Refreshments will be served during the social hour following the lecture. Admission is free. Everyone is welcome.

CARD OF THANKS

The loss of a loved one is an imperishable memory. It takes from the family hearth that spirit of joy and family ties, but without the friendliness and the genuine grief shared by friends of the family, death would be even more tragic. The kindly spirit, the encouraging words, and the neighborly sharing of the grief unto all confidences to a grief stricken family. We are indeed grateful for them and take this method of expressing that feeling. We wish to acknowledge our deep appreciation of the floral tributes and spiritual bouquets and also are especially grateful for the sympathy extended us by the Winchester Board of Selectmen, Winchester Police Department, Winchester Fire Department, Winchester Highway Department, Winchester Water and Sewer Department, Winchester Lodge I.O.E. B'rith, B. P. O. Elks, Winchester Post 32, American Legion, Belmont and Arlington Police Departments, Woburn District Court, Melrose Division, Eastern Massachusetts Street R. R. QUESTION NO. 1
Law Submitted Upon Referendum After Passage

Shall a law described as follows: This law amends General Laws chapter 131 as previously amended by repealing section 105A thereof and adding thereto three new sections, 105B, 105C, and 114A.

Section 105B provides that whoever uses any trap or other device for capture of fur bearing animals, which is not designed to kill such animal at once or to take it unhurt and which is likely to cause continued suffering to an animal caught therein, shall be fined fifty dollars, but traps or other devices for protection of property, set not more than fifty yards from any building, cultivated plot, or enclosures used for rearing poultry or game birds, to the use of which the presence of vermin may be detrimental, are excluded from the application of this section.

Section 105C provides for the submission to the voters at a municipal election in any city or town upon petition, of the question of whether the operation of section 105B shall be suspended or if it has been already suspended, of the question whether it shall again be operative in such city or town.

Section 114A provides that the Commissioner of Conservation may suspend the operation of section 105B for a period not exceeding thirty days within any specified territory under the control of his department.

The law also provides for the submission, by the selectmen to the voters at a special town meeting in the current year upon petition, of the question as to whether the provisions of section 105B shall be suspended in any town; and which was approved by both branches of the General Court by vote not recorded, be approved? (State-wide)

HON. EDITH NOURSE ROGERS

This district owes it to itself to re-elect Hon. Edith Nourse Rogers to Congress, and we assume will do so without question. This city, where she lives and whose people she has served so efficiently, ought to do better by her this time than lately it has been doing. It is not to the credit of Lowell voters that they so seldom give evidence of knowing where lies their own best interest.

The one claim that we have seen advanced by Mrs. Rogers' opponent in this contest is that a vote for him would be a vote to "sustain the president." That simply is not a tenable argument. The fact is that the Republican members of the delegation which Massachusetts sends to Congress have supported the President in his emergency program quite as well as, and sometimes far better than, the Democratic members. Mr. Roosevelt knows and esteems Mrs. Rogers.

So much for this everlasting "support the President" argument. Aside from that there are manifold considerations of local interest in every district, which make it essential to maintain at Washington a Representative who not only can, but will, get things done that the district needs. No novice can hope to do that. One has to know one's way around, be well acquainted with and be trusted by the official personnel, and above all be sincerely industrious and genuinely concerned. In Mrs. Rogers this district has one of the most energetic and resourceful Representatives it has ever had. It would be superlative folly to change from an efficient member of Congress to one who, no matter how good his intentions must in the very nature of things be ineffective. Nine years in Washington as a member of Congress have made Mrs. Rogers one of the best known components of our national legislature.

Mrs. Rogers has not been doing much campaigning. She has been most of the time in Washington, working for the good of people here at home and taking a chance on the election. Presumably she will be re-elected, hands down, as usual and as her self-sacrificing devotion to her district deserves. No district in the country is more vigorously or more effectively represented than the Fifth Massachusetts. An expression is due of its full appreciation of such work.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Barnard of Westland avenue entertained Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wason of Hartford, Conn. last week-end.

FREDERIC W. COOK

Somerville is justifiably proud of its own son, the Secretary of State, and the whole city is intensely interested in his re-election. When one has lived all his life in one city, is known by more of its people than any other man, and when not one word of criticism has been raised against him, it is an indication of the outstanding man he is,—and that man is Fred Cook. His neighbors only wish all the voters of the state might know him as they do, for if they did his vote on Nov. 6 would be unanimous.

The Boston Transcript recently said editorially:—

"If there ever were an ideal public official, Frederic W. Cook, Secretary of the Commonwealth, measures up to that standard, and even among the Democrats he has as warm friends as among the Republicans, although many of them may feel constrained to support the nominee of their party for that office."

He is a real Secretary of State, always on the job, and his door is always open to any man, woman, or child who seeks his help and advice. He is absolutely honest and impartial personally and officially, and in carrying on the office of Secretary, this means much to the people of Massachusetts. His action last June in relation to the nominees of the Democratic State Convention was typical of his sense of fair play. If he had simply done nothing in the matter it might have been that he would have had no Democratic opponent against him this fall. The Boston Post, in commenting on what he then did, said editorially:—

"It was very gracious of Secretary Frederic W. Cook to go to the trouble of rounding up the delinquent officers of the Democratic Convention in time to allow them to file the necessary papers. But for Secretary Cook's alertness the nominations of the Democratic Convention would have been nullified."

"A bitter partisan Republican might have allowed the Democratic officials to remain in ignorance of the requirement. It was not the Secretary's business to notify them. But he acted to save them from defaulting."

And that is Fred Cook,—no wonder his Somerville neighbors trust him and love him and are doing everything they can to make sure he will continue to honor the office of Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.—[Somerville Journal.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

District Attorney Warren L. Bishop, who is seeking re-election, has as nearly a unanimous party endorsement as any candidate for office could have.

He has the endorsement of all but two of the Republican members of the Legislature from Middlesex, of thousands of jurors who have served in the Middlesex Courts during the past 12 years, of more than 90 per cent of the Republican mayors and selectmen holding office in the 54 cities and towns of the county. Approximately 40,000 citizens have affixed their signatures to his endorsement papers, and many organizations, such as the Cosmopolitan Association which is composed of 14 racial groups, have notified him of their endorsement.

District Attorney Bishop has a background of experience such as no other candidate in the contest can match. He has been connected with the district attorney's office for 12 year, and eight years ago was appointed first assistant district attorney by the then District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell, a promotion warranted by his faithful service.

Mr. Bishop's steady, conscientious endeavor and rigid honesty, during his administration of the past four years, has kept crime and expense at a minimum in Middlesex County, and has made the county a shining example of law and order during a crime-fostering era. His re-election will insure a continuance of this salutary condition.

It will also mean that his experienced, efficient staff will remain in the office with him, which guarantee is of utmost importance. The character and ability of the members of the staff is as important as that of the district attorney, himself. He and the public are dependent to a great extent upon his appointees. Every member of his staff is skilled and highly efficient, and it would be a distinct loss to public service if a new and untried force were installed in its place.

COLELLO—OLIVER

Announcement is made of the marriage on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 21, of Miss Mary A. Oliver, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Oliver of Wendell street, to Pasquale Colello of Everett. The ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Immaculate Conception Church by the pastor, Rev. James Fitzsimons. Miss Helen V. O'Brien of West Roxbury attended Miss Oliver and John Colello was his brother's best man.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother. Upon their return from a wedding trip to New York and Washington Mr. Colello and his bride are to make their home in Winchester.

The bride is a graduate of the Practical Arts High School in Boston and of the Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School. Mr. Colello is associated with the Converse Rubber Company.

MISS AHERN ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Ahern of Church street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marie R. Ahern, to James B. Kelley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Kelley of Fall River.

Miss Ahern graduated from Elmhurst Academy in Providence, also from Trinity College in Washington, D. C., and is a member of the Woburn High School teaching staff. Mr. Kelley is a graduate of Holy Cross College and Harvard Law School. No date for the wedding has been announced.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Lecture for Benefit of Boys Scouts

On Saturday, Nov. 10, at 7:45 p. m. in the high school auditorium, Dr. Charles H. Tozier will conduct one of his most interesting lectures on "Nature Scouting With a Camera," the proceeds of which will go to the Winchester Boy Scout Council. Scouts and Scouters are urged to advertise the fact that this is a Scout affair, and to encourage the sale of tickets. Tickets may be purchased either at the Scout Headquarters of the Council, 32 Church street or from any of the Winchester District Committeemen, whose names follows:

Dr. Richard Clark, 40 Church street

Robert Livingstone, 8 Sanborn street

Tickets are 25c for children under 12 years of age and 50c for adults.

Scout Exposition

The date of the Scout Exposition and show has definitely been settled. It will take place on Saturday, Dec. 1 in the Tufts College baseball cage, College avenue. Scout troops and individuals are urged to plan their booths and demonstrations at once, and notify the Scout office as soon as possible of their desires for booths. Each troop will be able to use about two booths, if desired, but are urged to act immediately in reserving the same. Tickets will be printed as soon as possible and distributed to each troop for Scouts to sell. Ticket sales should run high in score, inasmuch as this is the third year of the Exposition, and the public knows just what to expect. It is planned that the show will be run differently this year, but this phase of the schedule has not yet been decided. Scouts interested in drawing are welcome to make posters for the Exposition, advertising the price of the tickets, 25c each; time, 2 p. m., Saturday, Dec. 1, at Tufts College indoor baseball cage. The show will be continuous from 2 to 10 p. m.

Earn 10-Year Program Awards

An estimate that about ten of the 29 troops in the Council will be awarded the ten year 1931 program was made today by Mr. Richard H. Kimball acting Scout Executive of the Fellsland Council. However, it is hoped that more than 50 per cent of the troops will win this award. The ten year program, as established by the Boy Scouts of America at the beginning of 1933 is described as a challenge to every Boy Scout troop in the nation to maintain a high quality, year-round program so that the interests of its members will be retained for at least a four year period. With the ultimate goal of the program realized at the end of 1942, one out of every four boys in America of Scout age will have been a Scout and will have come under the influence of all of the varied aspects of the Scout program for a period of four or more years.

This program of development affects 30,390 Boy Scout troops and 1780 cub packs in all parts of the United States and its possessions, Mr. Kimball pointed out that the successful carrying forward of this program involves the time and energies of 209,067 volunteer leaders in the movement.

The award medallion is designed to be displayed on the flag staff of the colors of the troops which earn it. It is a handsome golden and blue enamel metal shield shaped to fit on the flagstaff. The design includes a replica of the Boy Scout insignia crossed by the words "1934." Beneath is the inscription "Ten Year Program Award," 1933-1942.

To earn the emblem a Scout troop must carry on an exceptional program throughout the year and maintain high standards in relation to attendance, membership, camping, hiking, civic service, health and others of the numerous activities of the Scout program.

Mr. Kimball also announced that the troops that received the awards for 1933 are endeavoring to continue the good work throughout the ten years in order that they may have a complete display of the awards.

MRS. ANNA L. BOND

Mrs. Anna L. (DuLong) Bond, wife of Herbert C. Bond of 77 Winn street, Woburn, who died Friday, Oct. 26, in the Choate Hospital in that city, was a former resident of this town, living here for some years in the North End section. She was a native of Reading.

Surviving, besides her husband, are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben DuLong of Reading; three sisters, Mrs. Maude Perry of Stoneham, Mrs. Mary Joyce of Moultonboro, N. H.; Mrs. Anna Finley of Reading; and five brothers, Walter, Reuben Jr., George, Leo and John DuLong, all of Reading.

The funeral was held Monday morning from the late residence with requiem high mass in St. Charles Church, Woburn. Interment was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Stoneham.

Mr. Ernest R. Eustis, treasurer of the Winchester Co-operative Bank, attended the convention of the National Co-operative Bank League at New Orleans last week, arriving back in Boston Sunday in plenty of time to enjoy the biting wind and frigid temperature of that day.

CONCORD HELD WINCHESTER TO SCORELESS TIE IN BRUISING BATTLE

Concord High School held Winchester to a scoreless tie at Concord last Saturday afternoon in as bruising a football game as we have seen since the Lexington battle a year ago. The contest was a Middlesex League engagement and dropped the locals from a top tie with Maynard to second place, the Orange having nosed out Belmont, 6 to 0.

Winchester was not at full strength for Concord. Co-Capt. "Steamer" Hanlon was unable to play at all while "Frankie" Provinzano and "Ewie" Bairstow were favoring injuries that made it impossible to give their best. To make a bad matter worse big "Gerry" Gaffney, co-captain and a swell blocking back, was forced out of action midway through the first quarter with a hip injury that prevented his returning to the fray. An injury to long "Joe" Josephson in the first half made it necessary to toss the ailing Bairstow into the game, though Josephson was able to return to duty after intermission.

The loss of both Hanlon and Gaffney can not be over-emphasized. They are the blocking backs that make Winchester's running game go. The locals never did shake Provinzano loose, and only occasionally was the speedy Grosvenor able to break away for long gains.

The latter was perhaps Winchester's best all around performer at Concord though Cimina did well with an unfamiliar backfield assignment and Cushman did a good job filling the absent Hanlon's shoes. On the line McCormack gave a great exhibition of ball following and played a good all around guard. Sefton, who replaced Cassidy at center, turned in a good performance in his first varsity game.

Concord's stars were Palmer, end; Kingman, tackle; and Rooney, fullback; though Heyliger and Venti, tackle and end on the other side of the Red line were effective workmen. Winchester's defense bottled up the speedy Flannery, but Rooney showed himself to be about as hard a running back as the locals have faced in several seasons.

Winchester outplayed Concord, the latter club really threatening only once. The locals rushed to six first downs to Concord's four, and passed to three more for a total of nine, rolling up 188 yards to 99 for the opposition. Winchester completed six of 10 passes for an average of 10 yards per pass while Concord was unable to make either of its two aerials click. The locals lost 26 yards by rushing to 21 for Concord and each team fumbled four times. Winchester recovering two of its bobbles and all of Concord's.

The Red and Black just lacked the winning spark last Saturday. Whether it was the absence of Hanlon or Gaffney's injury that handicapped the boys is hard to say, but the locals lacked fight at Concord, though physically they stood up well under the slam-bang tactics of the hard scrapping Concord boys.

Concord had little to offer in the way of offense, a hard smash into the center of the line by Rooney, an off-tackle thrust to the right or an end run to the right with Flannery carrying and an end sweep to the left being run off without deception. Only the ball-like rushes of the purple-panted Rooney were effective, and these only between the 20-yard lines.

Winchester got a break and a heart-break right at the start of the game. Provinzano kicked and the locals recovered his short boot at the Concord 30. Palmer however nailed Provinzano for a 10-yard loss and Frankie was obliged to kick, the ball going outside at the 20-yard stripe. Flannery returned the punt to his 36, and Gaffney and Muracco ground off four yards at the line before Provinzano passed to Millyan for a first down at the Concord 25. Murraco hit tackle for five yards and on the next play Gaffney shot out into the open with no Concord player near him and a clear path to the goal line only to slip as he cut away from the sidelines and fall for a first down at the 15.

Here Muracco got his assignment mixed and was dropped for a five yard loss, and after two more ineffective thrusts at the line a long pass was grounded behind the Concord goal line.

Shortly after Gaffney's injury at the end of the first quarter Provinzano kicked to Flannery who cut to the sidelines and got back to his 18. The same speed boy got two yards at end, but to start the second period Rooney was thrown for a seven-yard loss. Here occurred another tough break for the locals when they swarmed through to block a Concord kick, only to have Concord recover the ball in the air.

The home team kicked again and Grosvenor got back to the 27. Grosvenor and Scully backed for four yards and Cimina broke through for a first down on the 17. Scully broke into the clear on the next play, but with a great chance to go places fumbled, Cimina recovering. On fourth down Provinzano went in and gambling with a trick forward pass instead of a place kick from the 15-yard line, directly in front of the goal, tossed off a flat pass to the right to Muracco who was forced outside with a foot only to go for a first down on the seven yard line.

Concord kicked out of danger and while the locals continued to force the going they never really threatened again during the remainder of the half.

The Concord boys only got four yards into Winchester's territory during the first two quarters, but after half time the Red launched its only threat after Provinzano barely got a kick away and the ball travelled less than 10 yards to go outside at Concord's 49. Flannery and Rooney pounded out a first down, but McCormack recovered a fumble at Winchester's 30, only to see his mates fumble in turn and Concord recovered at the same marker.

Rooney and Flannery got a first down inside the 20 and Rooney busted through to the 16 before Provinzano and Bairstow dropped Flannery hard for a loss. Bairstow stopped Rooney and on the first play of the last quarter Concord shot its bolt, an ineffective forward, that was knocked down by Muracco.

Winchester started at its 16, and Grosvenor broke away to the 30, Scully and Cimina making it first down at the 40. The locals were clicking and on the next play Grosvenor shot out into the open and just failed to get away, being felled hard on the Concord 43.

A costly offside penalty nullified the play, and the locals had to start again. Effective passes from Provinzano, first to Muracco and then to Grosvenor, after an exchange of kicks, brought the ball to the Concord 38. Another Provinzano toss to Grosvenor made five, and then "Frankie" from kick formation twisted and drove to the Concord 15.

With seconds only remaining Provinzano tried a field goal from a tough angle, the ball failing to clear the bar by a slight margin.

Concord took the ball at its 20 and made one last bid for the game when Rooney dropped back and hurled a long pass high over the heads of the Winchester secondaries down the field.

The speedy Flannery got past both Provinzano and Grosvenor, but over ran the pass, and as he turned to take the ball struck it with his knee, ending the game.

Winchester might well have won had it opened up at the start of the contest. At it was the Red and Black outclassed Concord in every thing except fight.

H. FREDERICK BEGIEN

H. Frederick Bogien, for years manager of the feather department of Rosenthal Brothers, in Boston, died Monday evening at his home, 21 Ridgefield road. Mr. Begien had been in failing health for the last year but his sudden death was a shock to his many friends in Winchester, Medford and Boston.

Mr. Begien was born in Medford March 18, 1874, the son of Harry M. and L. Florence (Thayer) Begien. He was connected with Rosenthal Brothers for 30 years and later represented the Henry W. Savage Company, realtors, in Winchester. He was a member of the William Parkman Lodge, A. F. and A. M. of this town.

Surviving Mr. Begien are his widow, Mrs. Katherine E. (Waters) Begien; a daughter, Mrs. Fred Cronhielmer of Fitchburg; two sons, Norman F. and Robert S. Begien; two brothers, Robert H. Begien of Arlington Heights and Ralph N. Begien of Richmond, Va., and three grandchildren. Another brother, Percy M. Begien, died some years ago.

Mr. Begien had resided in Winchester for 14 years and previously had been a prominent resident of Medford.

Funeral services were held this Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany and burial was in the family lot in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford.

TUCKER—MOSS

An attractive wedding took place in a country setting Saturday afternoon, Oct. 20, at 3 o'clock at "Wildacres" in Uxbridge, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. William Washburn Moss, when their daughter, Miss Mary Louise Moss, became the bride of Mr. Donald Pitkin Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Austin Tucker of Highland avenue. Only members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends witnessed the candlelight ceremony which was performed by Rev. Robert R. Carmichael.

Miss Alice Washburn Moss attended her sister as maid of honor and the best man was Mr. William Nelson Bunn of Cambridge. The usher group was composed of Messrs. William Nickerson Bates, Jr., of Cambridge, William Merrill Tucker of West Medford, a brother of the bridegroom; Richardson Brodinarde Okie, and Peyton Howard Moss and William Washburn Moss, Jr., both brothers of the bride.

The bride wore an informal gown of white velvet and a tulle veil with cap of Rose Point lace caught at the sides with clusters of orange blossoms. The lace was a family heirloom. She carried gardenias and gypsophila. The maid of honor wore a gown of burnt orange crepe made with a shoulder cape of brown velvet. She carried a muff of brown velvet adorned with a Colonial bouquet of tiny old-fashioned blooms.

At the reception which followed tea and coffee were served by Miss Ruth Hall, Mrs. W. Chesley Worthington, Miss Elsbeth Tucker, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Benjamin Jenkins of Springfield.

Many Winchester young men attending Dartmouth College were seen at home last week-end when Dartmouth met Harvard in the stadium football contest. The Dartmouth football team detrained at the Winchester railroad station Friday morning.

WINCHESTER COLLEGE CLUB

The fall meeting of the Winchester College Women's Club was held at the home of Mr. Jere Downs, Myopia Hill, on Friday evening, Oct. 26. Mrs. Judson L. Cross welcomed about 150 members and guests and after the reading of the Secretary's report, Mrs. Frank M. Gunby presented the program for the morning study group, offering a choice of three topics: Women of Foreign Countries, Hobbies in the Home and Child Psychology. Mrs. William Spaulding, chairman of the evening study group, also reported a choice of three topics, Modern Drama, Book Reviews and the Scandinavian Countries.

Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, former headmaster of Phillips Andover was the speaker of the evening and he chose as his subject, "Youth, Yesterday and Today." He traced the changing attitude in the home, in the schools and in society at large, brought about through the modern mad chase after pleasure which is widely mistaken for happiness. He deplored the disappearance from the old American home of the fundamental ideals of discipline, authority, good books, inspiring conversations and evenings at home. Basicly, he said, there is no difference today and yesterday, for human nature has not changed. Only through the hard way of duty can we teach initiative, aggressiveness and the will to achieve and thus find ultimate happiness.

During the social hour which followed Dr. Stearns expressed himself as having "a lively session defending himself against a more modern and progressive educational viewpoint."

Refreshments served by members of the Smith and Vassar groups and Mrs. Robert Stone, chairman of the Hospitality Committee, was ably assisted by Mrs. Paul Phenix, Mrs. George Reed, Mrs. Harold Fuller, Mrs. Clarke Collins, Mrs. Burton W. Carey and Mrs. Charles A. Burnham.

Mrs. Clarke Collins, Mrs. James Nowell and Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter poured. The table was decorated with a magnificent center piece of roses and boulvaida. The profusion of chrysanthemums, orchids, for which Mr. Downs is so famous, was especially enjoyed by the guests.

At the meeting of the Board Oct. 10, Miss Alice Main was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Alexander S. MacDonald, treasurer.

ARTHUR V. ROGERS, JR., AGAIN WINCHESTER GOLF CHAMPION

Arthur Verne Rogers, Jr. of Warren street again proved his ability as Winchester's No. 1 golfer by successfully defending his title of the championship of the Winchester Country Club, Sears Walker, his opponent from Cambridge, was beaten nine down and seven to go. Arthur defeated Walker on a cold, blustery day which made putting conditions extremely difficult. Rogers laid Walker three stymies which contributed to his downfall. This is the second year in succession that Rogers has been the champion of Winchester's club, and the youth is only 18 years old. He attends Belmont Hill School.

DEMOCRATIC TOWN COMMITTEE

The Democratic Town Committee met last night at the home of the Chairman, William E. McDonald, Jr., 10 Hill street. Plans were made for the election on Nov. 6.

The Town Committee has done a fine job in the registration of new voters and also in the job it undertook this summer to change several Republican designations to Democratic.

The Democratic Club, which works in conjunction with the Democratic Town Committee, will not meet tonight as it usually does on Friday evenings, because of the rally in the Town Hall. This rally is being conducted by a volunteer group who are desirous of helping on the good work of the Democrats locally. The Town Committee is grateful to them for their assistance and hopes that the number of those who are offering their services will continue to increase so that, all working together, the party in Winchester, although a minority group, may do its share towards a great victory on Nov. 6.

TO HOLD DANCES IN ASSOCIATION BUILDING

Mr. Howard E. Chase of Clematis street, is co-operating with the trustees of Association Building in conducting a series of "Partner Dances" to open on Friday evening, Nov. 2 in Association Hall on Vine street.

The dances are being run primarily to provide opportunity for those not expert enough to enjoy dancing in public dance halls to acquire the necessary experience in pleasant surroundings. The "Chase Syncopaters" a six piece orchestra, will furnish music and the dancing will be from 8 until 12. Only couples will be admitted.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

Roll Call 1934, Nov. 11 to 29

The Winchester Chapter will present "A Pageant of Services" at the high school on Friday night, Nov. 9 at 8:15 o'clock. We cordially invite you and your friends to be our guests that evening that we may illustrate to you the activities of your local Chapter.

No funds will be solicited that evening.

Winchester Red Cross,
Mrs. Bowen Tufts,
Chairman

Joseph S. Parlett of Washington street reported to the Police Monday forenoon shortly before 9:30 that the Water and Sewer Department Ford truck he was driving on Mt. Vernon street toward the center was in collision with a Dodge wrecker, owned by John J. Pike of 674 Main street and driven by Andrew Titilah, Jr. of 29 Railroad avenue. Parlett said the accident occurred as his truck was stopped by a red traffic light. The wrecker was damaged but no one was injured.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A.

The Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association held its first meeting Tuesday evening, Oct. 30.

From 7:30 to 8 o'clock the parents inspected the Junior High School building and met the faculty.

At 8:15 o'clock Mr. Abraham Krasker, director of Visual Education in the Quincy Public Schools, gave an illustrated lecture on, "Visual Education" as an efficient, natural and interesting aid to progressive teaching.

The general appeal of the subject and the interest in visual education as a comparatively new field was shown by the questions from the audience at the close of the speech.

The president gave a short resume of the first day's session of the State Convention of the Massachusetts Parent-Teachers' Association, held in Hotel Statler, Boston, Oct. 29, 30 and 31 which she attended as a delegate. Among the speakers were Mr. Frank W. Wright, State Department of Education; Mrs. A. H. Reeve, National Congress of Parents and Teachers and Mr. Howard Gill, Prison Labor Authority, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Wright gave an encouraging report on education in this state. In addition to the three R's today were added the three C's, citizenship, character and culture. Are our schools doing as much in the latter subjects as the former?

Mrs. Reeve asked these three questions: Do we know our schools? Do homes and schools co-operate? Have we trained parents as well as trained teachers?

Mr. Gill's subject was "Can We Redirect the Criminal Tendencies of Youth?" He was able to answer his question in the affirmative by his own experiments.

There is satisfaction in knowing that our Association is affiliated with the State and National organizations, composed of the leading thinkers and educators in our country.

At the close of the meeting, everyone was invited to come to the gymnasium for a short social hour, where refreshments were served amidst pumpkins and candles under the direction of Mrs. T. Price Wilson, chairman of hospitality.

WINCHESTER GIRLS WON AT LONGWOOD

A picked team of Winchester girls added appreciably to the town's tennis prestige when they defeated a team made up of the most promising pupils of Mrs. George W. Wightman, famous coach and nationally known player, at the Longwood Cricket Club in Chestnut Hill last Saturday.

The local youngsters took seven of the twelve singles matches and split even in the six doubles, giving them a 10—8 winning edge for the tourney.

Following is the summary:

The police were notified last weekend that a valuable antique china service had been stolen from where it was stored in the stable of the J. Edward Downes estate on High street.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

This is the day of the first Round Table Conference and reception to new members by the Community Service Committee in Fortnightly Headquarters. Program at 2:30, tea served at 4 o'clock.

The first meeting of the Literature Committee will be held on Monday, Nov. 5, at 2:30 p. m. in Fortnightly Headquarters. The subject for the year's study, "Conversation as a Literary Form" will be explained, and to illustrate one form of literary conversation, a representative of the Press Committee will be granted an interview. Mrs. Hubert Arrowsmith is chairman of the Literature Committee, and Mrs. George Mann and Mrs. W. F. Morton are in charge of Monday's program.

On Friday morning, Nov. 9, at 10:15 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frederick Alexander, 5 Lakeview road, the Music Committee, Mrs. Walter W. Winship, chairman, is offering the first of four morning musicales. The program of early American music will be in charge of Mrs. Helena Studzinska Sibley, violinist. Morning coffee will be served.

Preservation of Antiques Committee, Nov. 9, 2:30 p. m., Waterfield Hall. Lecture, "The Joys of Glass Collecting" by Lura Woodside Watkins. Tea. Co-chairmen, Mrs. Mabel G. Nichols and Miss Louise Bancroft.

For our opening program we are very fortunate to have secured Mrs. Lura Woodside Watkins, who will lecture on "The Joys of Glass Collecting," illustrating her talk with many of her rarest pieces of glass. Mrs. Watkins, the author of Cambridge Glass is also a recognized authority on other makes of early American glass and pottery.

Last April at the Twentieth Century Club rooms in Boston several hundred members of the National Early American Glass Club heard Mrs. Watkins speak on the New England Glass Factory once situated at Lechmere Point, Cambridge. Mrs. Watkins' program was one of the most instructive expositions thus far given on a specialized subject. The enstodians of the exhibition are Mrs. Susan M. Ladd and Mrs. Emma Rice. The tea chairman is Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, assisted by Miss Eleanor Bancroft, Mrs. Mollie Keepers, Mrs. Sarah T. Merriam, Mrs. Hazel Cabot and Mrs. Mary Ann Church.

Mrs. Alice Andrews, chairman of the Antiques Committee, would be very glad to hear from any of the old or new members interested in this group.

TOWN HALL TONIGHT

Meeting of Democrats, Republicans and Independents

Tonight in the Winchester Town Hall under the auspices of a committee consisting of registered Republican and Democratic voters and Independent voters, a meeting will be held at which the issues of the coming election will be discussed by Mr. James Roosevelt, eldest son of President Roosevelt, Prof. Robert E. Rogers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Hon. F. Mark Sullivan, former Associate Justice of the First District Court of Essex County, and former Assistant United States Attorney and a life-long Republican, and Professor Frank Simpson of Boston University Law School. No one of these well known speakers is a candidate for any public office in the coming election. They will discuss the issues and give the voters their reasons for supporting the policies of President Roosevelt and for believing that the policies of President Roosevelt can be further advanced and carried out by the election of U. S. Senator David I. Walsh, Hon. James M. Curley and the other Democratic candidates for office.

Beginning promptly at 7:30 p. m. there will be a musical entertainment given by an orchestra composed of members of People's Symphony Orchestra of Boston, and former members of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Will Dodge. Mr. Dodge is very well known in musical circles because of his former association with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, and as former musical director for radio stations WNAC and WEEI and present director of the large ERA Orchestra of 50 pieces.

DO YOU RAKE LEAVES?

If so, you should see the handy, burlap spreads for carrying them to the dump or fire which the Star Office is selling. A large piece of good, non-shedding burlap, with handy tape hand grips on each corner. They are something everyone wants at this time of the year.

Mrs. A. V. Rogers of Warren street has returned to her home after spending a long summer season in Scituate.

HENRY D. HOOKE

Henry D. Hooke, a retired Boston business man and for the past 16 years a resident of Winchester, died Saturday, Oct. 27 at his home, 6 Calumet road after a short illness.

Mr. Hooke was 70 years old and a native of Castine, Me., the son of Philip Jarvis and Lucy Ann (Adams) Hooke. He was educated and spent his boyhood in Castine, at the age of 18 coming to Boston where he entered business, living in Dorchester with his brother, the late Robert P. Gay, who for some years made his home in Winchester with his brother-in-law, John Challis.

After receiving business experience in several industrial enterprises, Mr. Hooke spent a year in Cincinnati, Ohio, beoming associated upon his return with the Boston office of Edward Miller & Co., wholesale dealers in lamps and lighting fixtures, retiring 10 years ago after completing 30 years service. During his active years he held membership in the Boston City Club.

Since his retirement his chief interest had been wood-working and cabinet making. Much of his time was spent in the shop in his garage where he produced many attractive articles of furniture which he used in his home. He was a man of very gentle disposition, generous and kindly, held in esteem by those who knew him and especially beloved by those who worked with or for him.

In 1893 Mr. Hooke married Miss Fannie Moseley, daughter of Elisha and Elizabeth H. (Bailey) Moseley of Dorchester. His family was reared in Ashmont, and it was from that place that he came to make his home in Winchester 16 years ago.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Keneth C. Walker of Holyoke; a son, Robert Gay Hooke of Montclair, N. J.; a brother, William F. Hooke of Castine, Me.; two sisters, Miss Lucy P. Gay of Castine and Mrs. Eben B. Page of Winchester; and four grandchildren. A sister, Mrs. John Challis of this town, died some years ago.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in the late residence with Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiating. Interment was in Castine, Me.

CONGREGATIONAL JUNIOR HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Witches, hooded Moslem women, pirates and long-tailed black cats were some of the many notables attending the Hallowe'en costume party given by the Junior Department of the First Congregational Church on Monday afternoon from 4 to 6. It was a very gay and colorful party with plenty of that element common to Hallowe'en parties, namely, noise. Progressive games, each with a traditional Hallowe'en touch were played for one hour and the leaders of each group had as exciting a time as the children. Mrs. Roger Thwing's remarkable gift of getting in touch with the spirit of a departed Indian princess, was especially delightful to each group. The officers and leaders were Miss Dorothy Kleeb, Mrs. Theodore Monroe, Miss Margaret Millican, Mrs. Sarah Colville and Mr. Robert Emmons, while Miss Scott, the director of Religious Education and Miss McElwain superintendent of the Department, raced about tying up loose ends and trying to keep each child happy

After the games, a stirring grand march was held and the children gathered about the fireplace in the social hall and listened to hair-raising ghost stories.

Even the black cats were feverishly awaiting the special Hallowe'en ice cream with the pumpkins on it and each one had as many cookies as he could eat.

At 6 o'clock the party ended and everyone went home feeling that it had been a gay and happy affair done in the best Hallowe'en manner and tradition.

BETHANY NEWS

For two weeks, this society has had a chance to rest on its oars, while the other church organizations have been busily rowing ahead. The harvest supper last Friday evening given by the Cornerstone Class brought out a full house. The Missionary sale and tea on Tuesday was very successful. The Father and Son's Association is putting on a free lecture Monday evening (notice elsewhere in the Star). We have a hunch any Bethany lady would be welcome, provided she came with a cake tucked under her arm.

It's rather nice to have all these different homey gatherings in a community center so near at hand. A long cold winter looms ahead, and sometimes it's a long way into Boston or even to the movies. Here is a little church where friendliness and sociability are being encouraged, and whose mission is to serve Winchester Highlands' people. Everyone is welcome at any or all of its affairs. (Incidentally, Sunday services begin at 10:45 a. m.) The regular Bethany luncheon will be given at noon, Wednesday, Nov. 7.

WAS NATIVE OF WINCHESTER

Alfred L. Danforth, 66, who died Saturday, Oct. 27, at his home in Reading, was a native of Winchester. He had been a resident of Reading for 41 years and was well known there and in surrounding cities and towns as a master painter. He was a member of Security Lodge of Odd Fellows and Good Samaritan Lodge of Masons.

Mr. Danforth is survived by his wife, Edith S. Danforth; by a daughter, Mrs. Hazel B. Eisenhaure of North Reading; and four grandchildren; also by a sister, Mrs. George Tibbetts of Melrose.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in the Reading Union Congregational Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O'Shea of Laconia, N. H., visited Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Badger of Wedgemere avenue over last week-end.

FOR CURLEY AND ROOSEVELT

Oct. 30, 1934

To the Editor of the Star:

Because of an editorial in last week's issue in the Winchester Star and because of the statements in letters of Mr. Dunbar F. Carpenter which have appeared, I am prompted to express some views which I think are shared by many other readers of your paper.

Of course, I do not know whether the editorial was written by you or some other person. My good opinion of you inclines me to believe that you personally did not write the editorial but at somebody's request, you published it.

The reference to Hon. James M. Curley as "Mister" Curley, was in contrast to the usual appropriate "Mr." as applied to Mr. Bacon in the editorial. If the writer of the editorial did not want to give to the Democratic candidate for Governor the title or name of Hon. James M. Curley, as he is so frequently referred to, even by citizens who do not vote for him, the writer could at least in courtesy have referred to him as Mr. Curley. It is evident that the word "Mister" was deliberately and designedly used in a spirit of ridicule. Nowhere, except in low comedy or eartoons or the like would one expect to see the word spelled out as "Mister." This is indicative of the spirit and attitude of the one who used it. It is not an appeal to reason. It has nothing to do with an appeal to intellect or reason. It is an appeal to ridicule and prejudice.

In one of Mr. Carpenter's voluntary advisory letters to the voters of Winchester he referred to "that hideous thing called Curleyism." The use of such a phrase seems to indicate not only a strong prejudice but even hatred, if not malice.

Hideous is defined by Webster as

1. Frightful to the sight; dreadful—shocking to the eye. Applied to deformity; as a hideous monster and hideous spectacle; hideous looks.

2. Shocking to the ear; exciting terror.

3. Detestable.

It appears that the dictionary has been carefully searched to find the strongest and most suggestive characterization to apply to Mr. Curley. The inference seems warranted that it extends to those who favor Mr. Curley's election. Because if one favors Mr. Curley's election, he is a part of "that hideous thing called Curleyism." Such a one, it logically follows, is aiding and abetting "that hideous thing called Curleyism."

Voters, of course, have the inalienable right to differ in their views. There are many thousands of voters who measure up to the highest standards of citizenship, some of whom favor Mr. Bacon's election, and others of whom, favor Mr. Curley's election. Ridicule and calling of names cannot be considered appeals to reason. They are not informative—they are not instructive. They do not lead one to more intelligently decide the question as to which candidate he should vote for. They are on the contrary base appeals to emotions and reactions which should have no place in American life. They are base appeals to ridicule and prejudice. They are abusive. The voters are not assisted by false accusations, slanderous inuendo or by the hurling of invectives or epithets. They are assisted by intelligent and logical discussion of the issues involved. It is appropriate to keep in mind the old adage to the effect that if you haven't got evidence in support of your claim, abuse your opponent.

Mr. Bacon and others, some of whom in this town have taken it upon themselves to act as self appointed counsellors to the voters have made mis-statements calculated to mislead and have made these mis-statements apparently in the hope that they would mislead. For instance, it has been said by Lieut. Governor Bacon and by Mr. Carpenter in substance, that if Mr. Curley was elected Governor, we would have a Curley Commissioner of Public Safety, a Curley Police Commissioner of Boston, and Curley judges. What does that mean? It means that the commissioners and judges would be either subject to the domination of Mr. Curley, or would be men either unqualified or of an undesirable type. The truth well known to those who have made these mis-statements is, that Mr. Curley could simply nominate men for the offices above referred to and not one of them could take office without the approval of the Governor's Council, which for a generation or more has always been Republican by a very large majority.

The same is true about expenditures. These men have misled some of the voters by such statements. Mr. Curley as Governor could not make large expenditures unless legislation authorizing it was enacted by the Senate and the House of Representatives. What evidence or proof has been submitted by these men as to how the taxes in this town would be substantially increased, assuming that there would be an increase. This is a selfish appeal in behalf of those who are more fortunate than some of their fellow citizens, and who are interested in their own pocket books—interested in their bonds and their coupons and their securities and their real estate. But what about the man who hasn't any bonds—or securities or coupons or real estate. When a situation exists, as it does exist in some parts of this country and in this State, where we have men, women and children who need food, clothing and the real necessaries of life, taxes are relatively unimportant.

It has been claimed by some that the election of Mr. Curley, Senator Walsh and all the other Democratic candidates has no bearing or any connection with the carrying out of the policies of President Roosevelt. In your editorial of a week ago, it was said "On the sixth of next month this State in common with others, will again give expression of its approval or rejection of the New Deal. . . . Mr. Curley is a New Dealer and a Democrat. . . . Vote the entire Republican ball[ot]."

This is a plain and clear statement that there is a very close connection between the election of the Democratic candidates and the so-called "New Deal" of President Roosevelt. In this particular respect the editorial is correct and to the point.

When President Roosevelt was inaugurated less than two years ago, there was a serious condition existing in this country, which the people did not fully appreciate or realize at that time, but subsequent developments have thrown light upon that situation and we have been brought to a keener realization and appreciation of what the true situation was. President Roosevelt had the courage, the vision and the foresight to remedy the situation. Some of his policies perhaps have been radical. He does not claim that they are all perfect, but they certainly have been progressive and productive of great benefit. Among many beneficial results may be mentioned the facts that 5,000,000 men have been put back to work, homes have been saved from mortgage foreclosure, money has been provided to improve homes, the farmers of the middle West have been lifted from the depths of despair, the cattle growers have been materially helped, and the wheels of machinery in many factories throughout the land have been set in motion and are now producing goods for the benefit of the people of our land.

A great humanitarian arose in our midst in the person of President Roosevelt, and as he looked out upon the scene he must have been cognizant of the great problems that had to be solved and the great difficulties that beset him, but he set himself to the task, and he has led the people from the depths of despair, and in some cases from actual starvation, back to the road of decent and comfortable living.

Shall we fail him now? Shall we desert him? Shall we disown him? Or, shall we out of a sense of gratitude and loyalty, and in a spirit of confidence and encouragement continue to support him. We should elect those who are in sympathy with him and support him, and who do not ridicule or criticise him or put difficulties in his path or obstruct him.

In such a crisis as this, unparalelled in our country's history, it seems to be the duty of every patriotic citizen to refrain from fomenting and spreading discontent, suspicion and pessimism, and to put aside, for this year at least, so-called party loyalty and party affilintion and unite as one large army going forth under the leadership of a great general.

Yours very truly,
Francis R. Mullin

MR. LeROY PHILLIPS TALKS ON MODERN PLAYS

The Winchester Unitarian Players held their first meeting of the season on Friday evening, Oct. 26. Mr. LeRoy Phillips, associated with the Walter H. Baker Company, publishers of plays, discussed modern drama and dramatics. Mr. Phillips, intimately acquainted with the stage both here and abroad, spoke delightfully on theatrical successes of recent years in England and America. He discussed a number of plays suited to amateur production and outlined the trend of the times in drama.

The program committee of the Unitarian Players have arranged the following program to be presented throughout the year:

Nov. 16-17—The Intimate Strangers, a three act comedy by Booth Tarkington

December—One act play
January—Talk on Dramatics
February—One act play
March 15-16—The Bellamy Trial
April—The Players' annual dance
May—Annual meeting and lecture on Dramatics.

The members of the program committee are Ralph T. Hale, chairman; Wayne E. Davis, Mrs. K. S. Hall, Mrs. A. S. Kelley

On the committee chosen to select one act plays for future presentation are Fred Cole, chairman; Mrs. H. C. Goodwin, Miss Sylvia Parker, Mrs. A. K. Snell

LADIES' FRIENDLY NOTES

The annual parish supper will be held at the Unitarian Church in Metcalf Hall next Thursday evening, Nov. 8 at 6:45. Tickets may be had from either Mrs. Joslin or Mrs. Pernnard.

The following will appear as a referendum on our November ballots:

Shall the Representatives in the General Court from the 14th Representative District for Hampden County be instructed to vote to request the President and the United States Senate to enter into full cooperation and membership in the League of Nations, with the explanatory reservation that the United States shall not engage in war with any nation, except by vote of Congress, as provided in the United States Constitution, and such other reservations as they deem wise?

We hope the affirmative vote will be strong.

The Neighborhood Alliance Conference will meet at Lexington, Nov. 8 at 2:30 p. m. The speaker, Mrs. Rees will have as her subject, "A Woman Adrift."

The regular monthly meeting of the Winchester Ladies' Friendly Society will be held Tuesday, Nov. 13 at 2:30 in the afternoon. Rev. Frederick Gauld will be our speaker and will talk on "A Constructive Peace." The business meeting will come at 3 o'clock and tea will be served after the meeting.

WANTS MILK WAGONS QUIETED IN BROOKLINE

Mrs. George Fortescue of Greenough street, Brookline, has written the Brookline Selectmen asking that something be done to eliminate the noise of milk deliveries in that town during the night. Winchester evidently started something, as Chairman Maguire of the Selectmen prophesied, when it recently brought about a gentlemen's agreement among local milk dealers not to make deliveries in town before 6 o'clock in the morning, as this action is given as the reason for Mrs. Fortescue's letter to the Brookline Board.

GROUP THEATRE SELECTS SET FOR FIRST PLAY

Designs to be Exhibited in Winchester This Week

Winchester citizens are privileged this week to see the first fruits of the plans set forth by Winchester Group Theatre in its announcements last spring. Although Group Theatre's first production, "The Swan" by Molnar will not be given until Dec. 14, the exhibition of designs for that play now being given in Hevey's drug store give high praise for the success of the Group in other directions.

It has always been part of the program of the Group to encourage local interest in all the arts of the stage. Pursuant to this aim the production committee, Gerald Hills, chairman, selected a design committee consisting of E. Kenneth Clark, George Hayden Jr. and John Burchard, 2nd. This committee in turn invited a number of Winchester artists to enter a friendly competition for the stage set of "The Swan." All of the designs submitted now form part of the current exhibition.

All contestants were furnished with a full program and submitted their designs anonymously. The committee met as a jury, being fortunate in having as professional advisor, Prof. John F. G. Gunther, instructor in fourth year design in the Department of Architecture of M. I. T. Under Professor Gunther's guidance the committee arrived at the unanimous conclusion that the design submitted by Mrs. Fulton (Winsome Abbott) Brown best met the requirements of the problem. That the decision was not easy will be obvious to anyone who views the drawings which will stay in Hevey's window through next Tuesday.

Professor Gunther as well as the committee were pleasantly surprised at the high quality of the designs submitted both as to basic idea and as to presentation. These designs were no slap dash affair but all had been carefully thought out and carefully executed. Such solicitude on the part of the workers in the Group's first experiment is highly encouraging to all the active members in their further work.

The observer will notice that the designs vary from ultra modern to highly conventional in form and from warm browns to cold blues in color. They will go to show how in the hands of ingenious people a stage design may take widely differing forms and still be right. There is not one of the designs which it would not be a pleasure to see set on the stage. It is really doubtful if the amateur groups of many of Boston's suburbs could muster such a varied and attractive set of designs for a single play.

The stage committee under the able chairmanship of Harry Goodwin is now engaged in co-operation with Mrs. Brown and the design committee in transforming the design from a picture to reality. Meanwhile the cast has been selected and will meet for the first time next week to take up its work under Mrs. Bishop, the new director. This cast contains many names well known in Winchester dramatics and will be formally divulged at a later date.

Applications for sustaining membership may be made to Mr. Theodore von Rosenvinge, 1 Wedgemere avenue or to any member of the board of directors which includes Mrs. William H. Gilpatric, Mrs. Warren Whitman, Mr. Theodore Godwin and Mr. Clifford Cunningham in addition to Messrs. Hills, von Rosenvinge and Burchard.

MISS LILLIAN S. NICHOLSON

Miss Lillian S. Nicholson of 15 Park avenue, formerly of Washington street, died Monday night, Oct. 29, in the Winchester Hospital, in her 36th year, after a long illness.

Miss Nicholson was the daughter of William A. and Mary Nicholson, and was born in Gloucester. She spent most of her life in Winchester, attended the local schools and was graduated from Winchester High School and from Lowell Normal School. For several years she taught in Belmont. She was a member of Victoria Rebekah Lodge and of the Winchester Emblem Club.

Miss Nicholson had no immediate family. Her father, who was for many years superintendent of the Winchester Tree Department, died March 13, 1933.

The Emblem Club's funeral ritual was exemplified Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of Kelley & Hawes Company where funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon with Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiating. The Rebekah's ritual was held in connection with the latter service. Interment was in Beach Brook Cemetery, Gloucester.

LECTURE COURSE EXTENDED

Two New Lectures Added on Science and Religion

The series of illustrated lectures by Harvard professors, under the auspices of four Protestant Churches in Winchester, now being given at the parish hall of the First Congregational Church Sunday evenings at 8 o'clock have proved so interesting that two new lectures have been added. The four remaining lectures will therefore be as follows:

Nov. 4—"The Great Ice Age" by Mr. Thiesmeyer.

Nov. 11—"The Coming of Mankind" by Mr. Phleger

Nov. 18—"Minerals and World Power" by Mr. Roy.

Nov. 25—"The Future of the Earth as the Abode of Man" by Prof. Kirtley F. Mather.

In his address Sunday evening on, "The Great Ice Age," Mr. Thiesmeyer will explain briefly the past geological history of the Mystic Valley.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested. No admission is charged. A silver collection to defray the expenses of the lectures is taken.

Well, the administration has restored all pay cuts—just five days before election. Politics or no politics, you can bet your bottom dollar that all those receiving this gratitude know just who to thank for it—and just how to express those thanks.

And now we read that the Republicans are out to dominate and intimidate voters next Tuesday! The United States Marshal has arisen to this menace by appointing 100 special deputy marshals and sending them to small towns throughout the State! "In many towns," Marshal Murphy is quoted, "the election officials are not sworn in legally." He is further quoted: "that the Democratic leaders were determined this year to break the Republican domination over the voters in small towns." Good old Massachusetts! What villians these terrible Republicans are—presuming not only to oppose the President, but the sovereign Democratic party as well. The marvel of it all is, how did these United States succeed in even existing before the Blue Dealers stepped in and took control. It is presumed of course, that no special Republican deputies will pass the civil service examinations.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS TO THE BANKERS

Commenting on President Roosevelt's address before the American Bankers' Association the Boston Herald of Oct. 25 says in an editorial, "To those who expected a discussion of concrete measures and some intimations of the future major policies of the administration the address will be a deep disappointment."

What the country longed for and needed most in that speech it did not get. The President's indefiniteness, his lack of a wise and definite policy to reach a desired goal, his insistence upon trying once more for himself methods that have always failed in all countries under similar conditions is to blame for the delayed return of prosperity. Unhampered by the impracticable government regulations and edicts this country would naturally be the first to recover from the depression. It has taken the President a year and a half to find out that this nation is suffering with an economic ill that cannot be cured with a smile. It has taken him a year and a half to learn that good feeling, faith and confidence necessary to set the wheels of industry going and bring back prosperity, cannot be established by hamstringing the small business man and jollying the big one. So at last he has given up that futile experiment which has stood in the path all these precious months thwarting progress and holding industry at bay.

In concluding his address to the bankers the President made this naive statement, "The time is ripe for an alliance of all forces intent upon the business of recovery." The fact is time has been ripe for that purpose so long it has begun to rot. Instead of revealing the vision of a "kindled imagination," what the country wanted and needed was a straight, unequivocal declaration that there will be no experiments, no meddling with sound business, no cheap money and no extravagance. If he had said, "Gird up your loins, roll up your sleeves, spit on your hands and go to it! And by the eternal (Andrew Jackson) I am with you!" it would have required no puzzled editors, bankers, or Delphic oracle to "interpret" that. Off would come the coats and the wheels would begin to turn. A weary, waiting people who have been trying for a year and a half to guess what the President meant by his naive addresses, who have been trying to "interpret" Cacoun's utterances would understand and, reassured, would fight it out without fear or favor. And they would win.

THE MIRACLE OF OCTOBER

The New England miracle of October, that enraptured all lovers of matchless beauty who saw it, has passed. "It is given to no man," said Theodore Roosevelt, "to be able to describe the glory of the sunrise and sunset in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado." No more is it possible to depict the marvelous beauty of the New England landscape made by the matchless art of autumn. With the passing of the resplendent hues, nature's vespers of fall, as mystically and silently as the phantoms of the night vanish at the coming of dawn, unseen hands have softly placed upon the all-embracing earth a mantle of autumn leaves to protect the myriad sleeping things till winter comes to spread her snowy sheets over all that slumber in the earth until spring removes the protecting covers and countless blossoms, in transcendent resurrection, uplift their smiling faces to greet the vernal sun. And this great drama of peace and perfection was enacted before the very eyes of men harassed and distraught by earthly affairs of their own creation. For the heart bowed down, for the cares and worries and doubts that obscure the sun of happiness like threatening clouds, the superb spectacle was a compensatory blessing. All that we have seen is in preparation for the coming miracle of May. When spring removes the snowy sheets of winter the bulbs that we are planting now will be changed to gladdening bloom and myriad flowers, in freshest beauty, will transform the dull brown fields into a varicolored floral paradise.

"Since I have seen Thine alchemy
Change the earth-brown bulbs to living gold
Of Daffodils Eternity
Has seemed a simple truth to hold."

He who witnessed the autumnal panorama at its best might well exclaim, "My eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord." The New England miracle of October is God's pertect benediction.

WHAT MR. CURLEY WILL DO TO THE TAX RATE

To the Editor of the Star:

Certain observations of mine which have appeared in the Star have brought a reply from Mr. James H. Donahue in defence of Mr. Curley. This is all to the good, because full and free discussion of the issues of a campaign is essential to the maintenance of our form of government.

Mr. Donahue asks what the election of Mr. Curley will have to do with the tax rate of Winchester. It is easily answered. Every dollar spent by the Commonwealth must be raised by taxation. Every year each city and each town is required to pay to the State Treasurer its proportion of the Commonwealth's expenditures, and, of course, that contribution is included in the tax bills. If, therefore, the State's expenses are increased, the citizens of Winchester pay their proportion.

It is intimated that the town employees have no particular concern with governmental economy. I venture to remark that no class in the community has greater concern. Their salaries can be paid only out of tax receipts. If taxes become so heavy that they are not paid, neither can the salaries and wages of town employees be paid. For effective illustration one has only to consider Chicago, where the treasury became bankrupt under the spend-thrift administration of Mayor Thompson. The taxpayers struck, and the employees were not paid. Chicago's teachers—and it is always the teachers who suffer first—went unpaid for three years.

Taxation is not merely a personal question. It affects the whole community. Every dollar raised in Winchester for State expenditures means that there is just one dollar less for spending in Winchester stores and for Winchester labor. The truth of the foregoing statement is too obvious to require amplification.

No one, to my way of thinking, has presented the seriousness of the situation arising out of an unbalanced budget more clearly or more tersely than Mr. Owen D. Young, a life-long Democrat of such standing in his party as to have been mentioned for the Presidency, and to have been suggested for the position of Secretary of State under the present administration.

Although Mr. Young's remarks delivered in Boston less than two years ago were quoted in a previous letter, they seem to me so fundamental as to justify reiteration. Mr. Young said:

"Our political organization has not yet met the test. Broadly speaking, it has not yet balanced its budgets, and it shows that very natural human trait—and politics is very human—of finding it easy to spend, but difficult to save."

Mr. Curley, as his record shows, has always found it easy to spend. As to Mr. Curley's qualifications for the governorship, one has only to call to mind what leaders in his own party have recently said about him.

Senator Walsh, the leading Democrat in Massachusetts, said during the recent primary campaign,

"There is not a politician in Boston, or outside it, who has not been victimized by the venom of Curley's poison."

Governor Ely has asked Mr. Curley to explain his connection with a corporation which supplied meat, at excessive prices, to the public hospitals of Boston during Mr. Curley's term as Mayor. Mr. Curley has kept silent on that issue.

Years ago a great President, a Democrat, Grover Cleveland, said, "Public office is a public trust." Has Mr. Curley ever so considered it?

Mr. Curley falls far short of the standard set by these eminent leaders of his own party.

Those who believe that public office is a public trust must find it difficult not to vote for Bacon and Hingis.

HALLOWE'EN GENERALLY QUIET

Winchester's Hallowe'en by comparison with celebrations reported in neighboring communities was on the whole very quiet though there was one false alarm and a fairly long list of complaints received at Police Headquarters.

The false alarm was rung in from Box 531 at the corner of Bacon street and Lakeview road at 11:15 p. m. Two men were seen getting out of a car and ringing the alarm, but they had driven off before the arrival of the police.

A number of windows were reported broken about town, together with an arc-light, and numerous fences and trellises. Chairs and door mats were badly scrambled and two iron posts with a chain were found at the corner of Winslow and Symmes roads. Real estate and street signs were torn down in several places, and some damage was done at the Square Station. A big piazza chair was left on the front steps of Selectman Edward H. Merrill's home on Madison avenue west and Tax Collector Nathaniel M. Nichols went him one better by getting a chair and a wooden horse on his front porch. There were no arrests, and few instances where the police were called upon to interfere with youthful revellers.

MYSTIC SCHOOL NOTES

On Oct. 10, the Mystic School Chapter of the American Junior Red Cross elected the following officers:

President John Spaulding, Grade 6
Vice President Robert Harris, Grade 5
Secretary Eleanor Randall, Grade 6
Treasurer Esther Blanchard, Grade 5

Our first meeting was held in the auditorium on Oct. 17, with the new president presiding. Reports were made on the filling of Red Cross Christmas boxes for foreign countries and plans made for further service during the month of October.

Hallowe'en Assembly

The school enjoyed a Hallowe'en program last Wednesday morning given by the children of the fourth grade in the school assembly hall. The program included three dramatizations and the recitation of Hallowe'en poems. Cats, owls, pumpkins, ghosts and witches took part. One of the playets, "A New England Hallowe'en" was based on a true story of the early settlers. The very effective costumes were planned by the children.

The program and cast follow:

Mother Hallowe'en ..... Children
Cats ..... Barbara Hallowell, Shirley Holbrook
Witches ..... Joyce Pitman, Marion Phillbrick
Owls ..... Frances Quimby, Ruth Allen
Ghosts ..... Mary Cahill, Margaret Fitzgerald

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Two absentees were recorded at the meeting of Nov. 1. Bear in mind that we are out to at least equal the October attendance record. This will mean some lively stepping but it can be done.

The club is beginning to show results as a consequence of a campaign to increase its membership. Due to restrictions which are imposed in selecting members for a Rotary Club it is not so simple a matter to obtain new recruits as it might appear to be on first thought. There is ample proof however that these restrictions have been effective in building a fraternity which functions admirably to achieve the purpose for which it was designed, namely to provide a fresh and sorely needed means of rendering world wide, brotherly service to mankind. We believe that this club has worked constructively to preserve the thoughts and traditions instituted by the founders of Rotary. There is every reason to believe that it will carry on in a manner to win the respect of those who are familiar with its objectives.

At this time we present Ellsworth W. Van Deusen, who will represent the newly established classification Garage Service. We believe that we have in Ellsworth a man who has grasped the idea of Rotary and will use his powers to promote it. Again we extend to him a cordial welcome to our midst.

Our "Dick" Sheehy has been practicing medicine in Winchester for 25 years. His anniversary day is Nov. 1, which coincides with the date of the current meeting. The reminiscences with which he favored us on this occasion gave complete evidence as to why "Dick" is one of the most popular of Winchesterites as well as a physician commanding the respect of all who know him. May he be spared to us for many, many years to come.

We anticipate further addition to our membership next week. Every Rotarian should be present to welcome the new-comers.

Percentage of attendance Oct. 25—100 per cent. Average attendance for Oct. 1934—98.75 per cent.

THE FINAL ARGUMENT

To quote Mrs. Roosevelt: "Our friends say they would balance the budget. Good, but how? Will you stop feeding the hungry? Will you stop helping the unemployed?

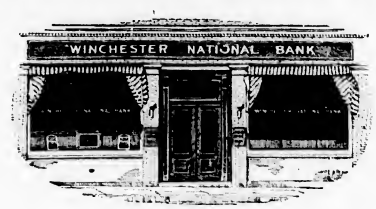

It seems to us that this line of argument is about on a par with a man, the head of a family, who on being remonstrated with for not living within his income replied: "Would you have me stop feeding my children? Would you have me stop rendering assistance to my old father who can no longer work?"

There are a good many people in the United States who feed their children and at the same time live within their incomes. There is nothing essentially incompatible with an individual so arranging his affairs that he can take care of the social responsibilities thrust upon him and at the same time keep out of debt.

When one considers that the federal government has unlimited taxing power, that it has been and is disbursing money with an extravagance never before known in times of peace, all of this talk about the desirability of feeding the hungry sounds a little but strained. So far as we know there is no one in the country who is not 100 per cent in favor of the hungry being fed. It seems to us rather elementary common sense that we ought to feed the hungry and balance the budget at the same time.—[The Investor in the Boston Herald

KEPT OPEN HOUSE HALLOWE'EN

The Woodsides on Lebanon street celebrated Hallowe'en by keeping open house to the boys and girls of the neighborhood. Thirty young people of all ages made merry with games and jokes and refreshments until 10 o'clock. Many of the costumes worn by the children were unusually clever and original. Franklin Pynn dressed as a black pirate won first place.

RESOLUTIONS PRESENTED LEGION BAND MANAGER AT TESTIMONIAL BANQUET

Emanuel J. LaRue, popular manager of the excellent brass band that represents Winchester Post 17, American Legion, was guest of honor at a testimonial banquet held recently at the American House in Boston.

Past Commander W. Allan Wilde acted as toastmaster and at the conclusion of the dinner presented Mr. LaRue with an illuminated, hand lettered set of resolutions on behalf of his associates in the band.

In the center panel, under the heading, "American Legion Band, Winchester Post" are greetings and best wishes to Emanuel J. LaRue. In the right panel are the signatures of 30 members of the band.

"EMANUEL J. LARUE

Your Associates in the Winchester Post American Legion Band ever conscious and regardful of your loyal, energetic and faithful service in the capacity of Business Manager extend to you this expression of our sincere appreciation and gratitude with the further expression of hope and assurance that you will continue to work with us and we with you to make our musical organization one in which we and the community may have a justifiable pride."

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The house was gayly festive with Hallowe'en decorations at the party on Saturday evening of George Manning of 28 Symmes road. A ghost met the young guests at the door, they were then escorted inside and had their fortunes told by a spooky witch who was followed by a huge black cat. Hallowe'en games were followed by delicious refreshments.

Among those to have a glorious evening were:

Mary Alice Mason	Ralph Manning
Margaret Heath	Richard Marsters
Marjorie Rosh	Russell Ellis
Priscilla Underwood	Kenneth Leghorn
Catherine Hall	Harrison Lyman
Ann Marsters	Peter Scully
Geneva Manning	Ben Schneider
Jean Tarbell	Arthur Harris
Virginia Martens	Richard Pierce
Walter Gleason

The ushers were three wee friends Patricia Underwood, Ruth Olmstead and Margaret Hall.

GEORGE M. BRYNE BUYS LIGHTSHIP

Mr. George M. Bryne of this town has become the owner of a U. S. lightship. It was announced yesterday that his bid of $1055 was the highest received by the Lighthouse Department at Washington for the condemned lightship 41, which for some time was used as a relief ship for Massachusetts stations. Mr. Bryne was the highest of three bidders. He intends to use the ship as a houseboat after he has reconstructed it.

HARDWARE STORE CHANGES HANDS

The well known hardware store on Mt. Vernon street, known during past years as Duncan's, has been purchased by Mr. Henry C. Winton a well known resident of Winchester. The store will be continued as usual under the direction of Mr. James C. Chisholm, with Mr. E. Ernest Reardon associated with him in attending to the patrons' needs.

The new management plans to enlarge the already extensive stock of hardware and household accessories, carrying only the best grade of goods and selling at bottom prices. They are advertising in this week's Star the first of a series of weekly specials which they plan to run from now on.

The Fire Department answered two alarms on Monday, the first at 11:15 in the forenoon for an inconsequential fire at the residence of Mr. Robert H. Grant at 3 Myrtle street. At 5:29 the department was called to the residence of Mr. Roy Wilson at 5 Wildwood street to put out a fire in an oil heater.

ELKS SPONSORING PASSION PLAR LECTURE AND PICTURES

Winchester Lodge of Elks announces that on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 15, in the Town Hall, it will sponsor "The Passion Play of Oberammergau," a superbly illustrated lecture by John J. Ward upon the world famous presentation of the final chapter of the Saviour's life which has attracted thousands to the little Bavarian village.

Mr. Ward is especially well qualified to talk authoritatively upon the "Passion Play." For the past 13 years he has been a yearly visitor to Oberammergau, living for two weeks as a member of the household of Anton Lang, famous former Christus of the play. Personal contact during these visits has enabled him to know the members of the cast well, and his friendship with the villagers has enabled him to secure personal pictures and sketches of Aberammergau and the play that would otherwise be unobtainalble.

The play is beautifully pictured and correlated, the audience being carried from the opening scene of Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday to his death on Calvary and his ascension. More than 200 pictures are shown, including many which will be seen for the first time in Winchester.

WINCHESTER BADMINTON CLUB

A very successful Hallowe'en was enjoyed by the local Badminton Club at the high school gymnasium. The Winchester Coffee Club assumed the role of host and furnished an abundance of refreshments. Mr. Ralph Hale, one of the 17 Vice-Presidents of the Coffee Club, was called upon for his contribution to the occasion and he readily responded with a heart rending recitation of "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl." After the moisture had been cleared away from the eyes of his appreciative audience he was asked how he knew that Heaven would protect the working girl. Under advice of counsel he declined to answer, but requested that no inferences be drawn from his refusal.

Special matches were arranged in which right hand players played left hand, tennis racquets were substituted for Badminton bats and open umbrellas were carried by the players. There were also many close matches played without these handicaps.

The next meeting of the club will be on Wednesday evening of the coming week. Spectators and others interested in Badminton are welcome at all sessions of the club.

Miss Elizabeth Fitzgerald of Winchester place, well known clerk at the Winchester News store has just returned from Florida where she attended the Legion convention.

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 4.

The Golden Text is: "Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein: and he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him" (Proverbs 26:27).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure" (Philippians 2:12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Evil is self-assertive. It says: 'I am a real entity, overmastering good.' This falsehood should strip evil of all pretensions. The only power of evil is to destroy itself. It can never destroy one iota of good. Every attempt of evil to destroy good is a failure, and only aids in peremptorily punishing the evil-doer" (p. 186).

SETH PARKER "GATHERIN'" AGAIN PLEASES

Winchester had its second "Seth Parker Gatherin'" in connection with the Jonesport Fair at the Town Hall Tuesday evening.

Many of the original cast, headed by Vincent P. Clarke as Seth, participated and capable substitutes replaced those who were unable to appear. While the larger stage at the Town Hall made it necessary to alter the orginal scenery, the setting was again excellent with its open fire, old fashioned furniture, kerosene lamps in paper bags, basket of fruit, framed mottos, conch shells and melodeon.

All the homely wit and kindly humor of genial neighborly country folks of by-gone days was skillfully reproduced by the group of actors, who sang sweetly and with evident enjoyment at the behest of their respected leader, Seth, to the accompaniment of Mother Parker's organ.

Each of the cast made his or her contribution to the production. Mr. Parker Clark was excellent as the eccentric Cephas, who preferred to "Gather by the River" and rather doubted Lizzie's ability to recite the books of bible backwards, and Mr. Carter as the bluff, stalwart Captain; Mrs. Hill as Huldia, Mr. Merriam as George; Mrs. Whitman as the stately Samantha, Miss Wilcox as Lucy, Mr. Witham as Joshua and Mr. Barnard as Laith left nothing to be desired. Mrs. Harris as Lizzie resembled a lovely canieo as she sat with her profile to the audience and Mrs. Lochman added greatly to the merriment of the "gatherin'" with her impersonation of the deaf, but inquisitive Miss Hooper. Those youthful apple-eating "sparkers" of the group, Jane and John, were most attractive portrayed by Miss Danforth and Mr. Joslin.

Several of the cast have long been favorites with Winchester music lovers and Mrs. Whitman's clear high soprano, Mrs. Hill's rich warm contralto, Mr. Clarke's sweet tenor and Mr. Carter's deep bass all had their particular admirers.

The more youthful members of the audience liked Miss Danforth and Mr. Joslin in their duet, "In the Garden" and insisted upon a repetition of "The Church in the Wildwood," sung by Miss Danforth and Miss Wilcox, though the shimmying of Cephas' beard as he joined in the chorus of, "Come, Come, Come" undoubtedly assisted in making this number popular.

Mr. Vincent Clarke's little sermon about Ezra Peabody, the lobster fisherman, who sank a boat he had built for a rich neighbor because it did not represent his best effort was delivered with a simple dignity that held the attention of his entire group, even Mr. Joslin's cat laying quietly upon his lap with curled paws, listening to the little story. Corn popers and other kitchen utensils made most effective collection boxes, especially those proffered by the attractive Lizzie and Jane.

The final scene as Seth and Mother Parker sang their closing hymn was enacted in absolute silence, a real tribute to the atmosphere created.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Clarke collaborated in writing the production which was directed and staged by Mrs. Clarke. Mrs. Harris LeRoy was in charge of properties and Mrs. Lillian Whitman of makeup.

Following are the cast and musical program:

Civet Musk

Civet is a substance found in a pouch in the true civet cats. It is of a clear yellowish or brownish color, of a strong musky odor. Although offensive when undiluted, it is agreeable when a small portion is mixed with another substance. It is used as a perfume. Chemically, it is a mixture of fat, volatile oil, etc.

The Milky Way's Light

When looking at the Milky Way you see light which emanated from the component stars 5,416 years ago. That is the time it takes light to travel the 50,496,000,000,000,000 miles which separates that formation from the earth.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club was held on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 31, in the Fortnightly rooms of Waterfield Hall, with the president, Mrs. C. Harold Smith in the chair. Mrs. Smith spoke of the Republican Rally in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 1, and urged all members to go and take their friends. She also spoke of the election on Tuesday next and asked that club members vote before noon, as this will be of great help to those checking. Any Republican desiring transportation to the polls, which will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m., telephone Republican Headquarters.

Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson, chairman of the Education Committee, spoke briefly on the referendum, section 1053, dealing with the steel trap law and also on the questions dealing with the sale of alcoholic beverages, the pari-mutuel system of betting and the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. Mrs. Thompson urged that all voters give these questions their best thought before voting.

Mrs. Theodore Godwin, chairman of the Membership Committee, read the names of 17 new members.

Following the business meeting the club enjoyed a most delightful musical program by the Winchester Trio, Helen Studzinska Sibley, violin; Vida Rohde, cello; and Mary Ranton Witham, piano. These skilled young artists are well known and popular with Winchester audiences and the hearty applause, which greeted the selections testified to the pleasure of the club members in the skillful rendering and finished technique of these clever musicians. The program offered a varied selection, which brought out the splendid talents of these artists and consisted of the following numbers:

Pierrot and Pierrette by Henry Hadley, well known American composer Two violin solos, Bolero by Burleigh and Valse Bluette by Drigo. Two selections from the Petite Suite by Coleridge-Taylor completed the program.

Major Judson Hannigan, president of the Massachusetts Men's Republican Club and guest speaker of the afternoon, had for his subject "Campaign Issues and Candidates." Major Hannigan said that the development of the campaign is proving a tribute to the intelligence of the people of Massachusetts, who are giving careful scrutiny to the worthiness of candidates seeking public office. The character and honesty of the man are the primary qualifications, said he, and Gaspar G. Bacon in 10 years of public service has earned a reputation for honesty, with no breath of scandal or doubt raised against him. Major Hannigan cited instances to show the character of opposing candidates and said that this campaign stages the biggest battle for decent government that the state has ever known. He urged all Republicans to get out, work and support the Republican ticket. He praised Winchester for the splendid work, which had been done in this campaign and said that this town had been held up to other localities as an example. In closing Major Hannigan said that every citizen of the Commonwealth should bear in mind that the issues of the campaign transcend party lines; for the welfare of the state is greater than that of any party and Massachusetts at this time stands exposed to the eye of the nation to prove that she now as always demands honest government. With the progressive and liberal policies of government set forth in the Republican platform at the Worcester convention and with Mr. Bacon to guide the affairs of state the outcome can only be a happy one for Massachusetts.

Major Hannigan's address and his humorous manner of speaking of certain affairs and persons known to him was greatly enjoyed by the club. Especially enlightening on certain points was his answering of the questions of club members at the close of his address.

Mrs. Kingman Cass gave a short report of the work of the Registration Committee, of which she is chairman and said that Winchester now has the largest voting list in the town's history.

PING PONG MATCH AT CALUMET CLUB

The opening matches in the Metropolitan Boston Ping Pong League will take place next Monday night. The Winchester team playing in the B division will entertain the Cambridge Ping Pong Club team at the Calumet Club. The team playing in the C division will journey to Dedham for its first encounter.

The match played at the Calumet Club should be an interesting one as Winchester won one match from Cambridge last year, 6—4, and lost the other by the same score. It will be interesting to see which team shows the most improvement after the six months of inactivity this past summer.

The match will be played in the ball room of the Calumet Club, starting at 8 p. m. Everyone, whether or not a member of the club is welcome to watch the play.

ASSOCIATE TRADE ORGANIZATIONS

A meeting of representatives of the trade organizations of Woburn, Reading, Stoneham and Winchester was held in Stoneham, Wednesday evening, Oct. 31 at the office of the Stoneham Press.

It was voted to call the organization the "Associated Trade Organizations of Woburn, Reading, Stoneham and Winchester." Sherwood Van Tassel of Woburn was elected chairman and George Lochman, of Winchester, secretary and that the executive committee consist of the two mentioned together with Fred McLaughlin of Stoneham and Edward Lappin of Reading.

It was voted to order appropriate stationery.

It was also voted that all stores close all day Armistice Day, Nov. 12 Monday, and that a notice to that effect be inserted in the publications of the four municipalities above named.

CALUMET CLUB STAGED HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The Calumet Club opened its fall and winter social season with the 1934 edition of its annual Hallowe'en party in the club house Tuesday evening. There was a large pathering and a swiftly moving entertainment was enjoyed by members and their ladies and guests until well after midnight.

The club house and hall were gay with Hallowe'en streamers of orange and black and there were plenty of big orange balloons to add to the festive note. Opening the entertainment was a clever one act playlet, put on and coached by Mrs. Claire Reynolds which fact is always sufficient guarantee of an excellent show.

After the show the club steward, Fred H. Scholl, served delicious chicken patties, green peas, potato chips, ice cream fancy cakes and coffee, while the hall was being cleared for dancing. "Mel" von Rosevinge's orchestra furnished the music for the dancers and between the numbers an unusually fine musical program was offered by Jane Hill contralto; Helen Studzinska Sibley, violinist and Mary Ranton Witham, accompanist.

Mrs. Hill sang the popular "Song of the Clock," reminiscent of the Westminster Chimes and the brilliant waltz song, "Carmena," with violin obligato. Also with the violin she sang the favorite "By the Waters of Minnetonka" by Thurlow Lieurance and the lovely "Indian Song" by Zamecnik. Mrs. Sibley played "Gypsy Airs" by Sarasate, the lilting "Valse Bluette" and the spritely "Bolero" by Burleigh.

The committee in charge of arrangements included Robert A. Reynolds, C. Harold Smith and E. Ober Pride.

WYMAN SCHOOL NOTES

The Parents' Association had a second meeting at the Wyman School on Tuesday, Oct. 23. Mr. Quinn, the Superintendent of Schools, was the speaker, and gave thoughtful understanding to the questions asked of him by the mothers during a following open discussion. After this the teachers were presented in turn to the mothers assembled, and each received a lovely potted plant as a memento. Then tea was served by some members of the Parents' Association while many groups earnestly talked over the children's scholarship.

The Wyman Safety program was climaxed by the very impressive appearance of Mr. Andrews, representative of the State Police. He appeared in the assembly hall last Monday, Oct. 22. Towering in his brilliant uniform, he cautioned one and all, with most remarkable liveliness; to careful crossing the streets, to ride bicycles safely and to be alert in looking, listening and obeying traffic rules.

Of the school assembly programs during the past two weeks, Miss Chapman's fifth grade was the first to entertain, Tuesday, Oct. 15. Their long and well planned three act play upon the explorations of Henry Hudson was the outcome of thorough class study upon that section of history.

This last Wednesday, Miss Bowie's fifth grade entertained with dramatization of their history subject. They made a short presentation of the explorations of Columbus in three acts, of Ponce de Leon in one act, and of Balboa and the Pacific in two acts. This was followed by poems and by songs of autumn sung by girls holding pretty garlands of leaves.

MR. LEE COURT EXHIBITS

His Paintings to be on View at the Public Library Gallery

The Winchester Art Association announces an exhibition of the work of Mr. Lee W. Court at the Public Library Gallery, beginning Monday, Nov. 4. Mr. Court is one of the rising young artists in Boston. His paintings in oil have been widely shown and much admired wherever exhibited. It is especially fitting that the Winchester Art Association should display them for Mr. Court lived as a boy in this town and the people of Winchester have therefore a peculiar reason to be interested in his artistic work. On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 4, there will be a preview of the paintings in the art gallery from 4 to 6 o'clock. Tea will be served. The exhibit is particularly for members of the Association, but any old friends of Mr. Court whether members or not, are cordially invited to be present. The exhibition will continue through the month of November.

Jean McGrath of Rangely ridge gave a party on Saturday afternoon to seven of her friends, the occasion being the observance of her seventh birthday. Games and refreshments, with prizes for the winners, and a collation, made a most enjoyable program. She was assisted in serving and directing by her sister, Miss Clair McGrath, and Miss Bonney Wilson. Among those who attended were Jean Herrick, Gloria Herrick, Gurna Magnesson, Virginia Brimer, Billy Peppard, Janet Zinn and Annette Crough-well.

PARENT CHURCH BUILDERS' CLUB

The Parent Church Builders' Club a group of 25 men, members of the Roslindale Congregational Church, will be at the First Baptist Church of this town on Sunday evening, Nov. 11 at 7 o'clock and present a musical program under the direction of their leader, Mr. Norman S. Ramsay. This group, which is becoming well known in Greater Boston, will present the following program: selection by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Cruikshank, violin and piano; choir selection; solo by Mr. Philip Richenberg; choir selection; solo by Mr. Henry Walker; choir selection; solo by Mr. Harvey Barnes.

The Parent Church Builders' Club was started by a few men under the supervision of Rev. Alfred Barnard and Mr. Norman Ramsay, for the purpose of getting into the church services those men who had fine voices, but who had neglected their church obligations. The club is only ten month old and has a membership of 75 and is giving a fine and and unusual service to the church with which it is connected.

The service on Nov. 11 is open to the public as are all 7 o'clock Sunday evening meeting held in this church and all without other church duties at this hour are invited to attend the services here.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS ON HALLOWE'EN

Sonny and Jacqueline Barnes, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Barnes of 221 Forest street, entertained a group of their friends at a costume Hallowe'en party at their home Wednesday evening.

The house was gaily and appropriately decorated and supper served at 6 o'clock was followed by games until it was time for the youthful guests and their hosts to go out for their Hallowe'en pranks.

Among those who enjoyed the party were:

Dickie Carter	Martha Barnes
George Hickey	Joanne Hatch
Owen Gill	Marilyn Walsh
Buddy Gill	Sonny Walsh
Sonny Barnes	Jacqueline Barnes

EDISON BLOCK CHANGES HANDS

Mrs. Gertrude Petrie of this town has sold the block at the corner of Main and Thompson streets, occupied by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Boston Dry Goods, R. H. Levine and other commercial establishments to Albert Locatelli of Belmont, who previously purchased from her the one story business block just to the south of this structure.

Papers were passed in the sale last Friday and the purchase price was not made public. The property has an assessed valuation of $39,200.

THE ARMY'S APPEAL

The annual appeal of the Salvation Army to the residents of this vicinity moved closer to the figure needed to continue the work of this organization, as returns from the house to house canvass showed a decided interest in the work of the Army throughout this area.

The demands upon the services of the Army have increased to such an extent during the past 12 months, that the financial resources of that organization have been taxed to the utmost.

The humanitarian work of the Army is usually known only casually by its supporters, who through daily newspapers learn of the Army's active participation in relief during times of major trouble or disaster.

The everyday function of Army officers is carried on in an unassuming manner by these men and women of the Army who have dedicated their lives to the service of their fellow beings.

Many of the relief cases which come to the doors of the Salvation Army are instances where a family through pride or inability to qualify cannot reach the public relief list. Not only does the Army provide the necessities of life in such cases but it often discovers employment for eligible members of the family.

Many unfortunate girls have sought and been received into the sanctuary of the Evangeline Booth Home and Hospital in Boston. Army officials have always made an attempt to gain a name for the tiny infant, besides fitting each patient for her return to the outside world.

"Wonderland," the summer camp of the Salvation Army takes underprivileged children, during summer months, from all parts of New England.

In many cases the Army arranged for and attends to the burial of homeless and friendless paupers.

Surely it can be said that the Salvation Army cares for humanity "From the Cradle to the Grave."

DON'T HASTEN AGE

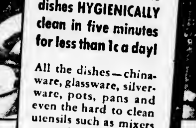

The new G-E Dishwasher washes all the dishes HYGIENICALLY clean in five minutes for less than 1c a day!

All the dishes—chinaware, glassware, silverware, pots, pans and even the hard to clean utensils such as mixers—are placed in the new General Electric Dishwasher at one time. The magic control is turned and in five minutes the job is done. No chipping, no breaking. The G-E cleans and dries itself—human hands do not touch dishwater.

See this newest electric home servant demonstrated at our showrooms. No obligation. There is a G-E Dishwasher for every kitchen. Both portable and cabinet-sink models.

HOW long will she retain her charm and bouyant spirits against the monotonous daily drudgery of dishwashing—the never ending dip, dip, dip of her hands in greasy dishwater three times a day? Dishes—dishes—dishes! In the average home a woman must wash and dry more than ten tons of dishes every year—a stack over twice as tall as the Empire State Building! And this tiring, wearisome task always comes at the end of the day—just when she wants and needs recreation and relaxation.

In days gone by women accepted the long hours of household work unquestioningly—and grew old at 30! Today, this most hated task of dishwashing is unnecessary. The new G-E Dishwasher abolishes the unsanitary dishcloth—eliminates "dishpan hands"—turns an hour of drudgery into a golden hour of freedom. Modernize your kitchen.

Containing according to said plan, 6042 square feet of land.

All of said boundaries are determined by the Court to be located as shown on a plan drawn by A. G. Carey, C. E., dated April 1926, and filed with Middlesex South District Deeds with Certificate of Title No. 22808 said plan being numbered 3535 F.

The above conveyance includes all furnaces, heaters, ranges, mantels, gas and electric light fixtures, screens, screen doors, awnings and all other fixtures of whatever kind or nature contained in any building or buildings now standing or hereafter erected on said premises prior to the full payment and discharge of this mortgage.

The above premises are conveyed subject to restrictions of record so far as the same may now be in force and applicable and subject also to the building laws of the Town of Winchester."

There is excluded from the above that certain portion of the premises which was released by a partial release given by Medford Trust Company to Carl G. Ollivier et al, and dated November 21, 1929 and recorded in Middlesex South Registry District, Land Court Division, as Document No. 102664, and noted on Certificate No. 30051, Registration Book 201, Page 341, and bounded and described as follows:

"A certain parcel or strip of land situated on Grayson Road, in the Town of Winchester, Middlesex County, Massachusetts and being shown as Lot 22 A on Plan of "Subdivision of Lot 22 shown on plan 3535 F, Filed with Certificate of Title No. 22808 South Registry District of Middlesex County, Land in Winchester, Nov. 5, 1929. C. B. Humphrey, Engineer for Court." Said plan being numbered 3535K, a copy of a portion of which is filed with Certificate No. 30051."

Said premises will be sold subject to any taxes, tax titles, assessments and municipal liens, if any there be.

TERMS OF SALE: Five Hundred Dollars ($500) in cash or certified check will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale. Other terms to be announced at said sale.

No less a person than Adam Walsh, former Notre Dame captain and former Yale line coach, now coaching at Harvard, has plenty of nice things to say about the center play of Winchester's Don Emery, now working for the Brown Bears. Adam ought to know a center when he sees him. He referred especially to Emery while chatting at Horace Ford's after the Harvard-Brown game.

A handsome mounted, small mouthed black bass was the object of much admiration at the Winchester News Company where it was on display over the past week-end. "Billy" McLean says that "Eddie" Quill is the lucky angler and that he caught the fish in Sebago Lake. "Eddie" Quill says that "Eddie" Cullen caught the five-pound beauty, and "Eddie" gives the credit to "Hoot" Gibson. Whoever made the catch got a prize.

There was plenty of Winchester interest in the field hockey game between the Adventurers Club team and the Wheaton College varsity eleven played last Friday afternoon at Norton. Coach Adele Loysen of the Winchester High team played center forward for the winning Adventurers and a former Winchester High dependable, Mabel Tompkins, was at center half for the college girls.

Quite a little group of Dartmouth enthusiasts was on hand last Friday morning to see the Big Green football team detrain at Winchester Station where they entered two big white busses for Belmont Hill Country Club. Mr. Louis Parkhurst, a member of the Board of Trustees of the College, was on hand with President William A. Kneeland of the Winchester National Bank, Frank Olmstead, Gordon Hindes and other alumni, as well as a large group of young people, including many members of the high school football team. They latter were apparently somewhat disappointed at the lack of giants among the college players, who in their "civies" did not look so formidable.

A resident of Eaton street reported to the police last Friday evening that boys with bean shooters were annoying the neighborhood. Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell and Patrolman John Hanlon rounded up the youngsters responsible in a vacant field off Eaton street and after taking their names, warned them not to continue their mischief.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Burns (Marjorie Mills) entertained a party of 50 at a buffet dinner at their home in Rangely Saturday evening after the Dartmouth-Harvard game. The group included friends and graduates of both colleges, among whom were three members of the Harvard team—Capt. Herman Gundlach, Robert Brookings and "Bob" Haley. On Sunday morning they had a group of Dartmouth men at their home for breakfast, friends of their son, "Bob," Jr., Dartmouth '37.

One of Winchester's prominent physicians, Dr. Richard W. Sheehy, observed yesterday the 25th anniversary of his practice in this town. The doctor made no observance of the anniversary, and in fact is reported to have failed to note it, until reminded of the event by friends. The Star adds its congratulations to those of a host of friends who are felicitating the doctor on this gratifying anniversary.

Mrs. Daniel A. Murray of Washington street is a member of the committee in charge of the penny sale being held at the Hotel Bellevue on Nov. 5 by the General Mark L. Hersey Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of which Mr. Murray is commander. Miss Miriam O'Leary, Miss Marion Callahan and Miss Helen Halligan are assisting at the sale.

Town Engineer Parker Holbrook informed the Star yesterday that except for the traffic circle at Symmes corner and some smoothing out at street corners the Main street resurfacing job is completed. Woodside road is also completed and the Highway crew will soon be engaged solely with maintenance.

Patrolman James E. Farrell of the Police Department, while on duty on Highland avenue north of Prospect street last Sunday morning at 2:30 stopped an Essex roadster which was proceeding at a speed which he deemed in excess of what was safe and proper. The operator gave his name as Hyman Sugarman of 7 Circuit street, West Medford. He had no license, and it was learned that his license had been revoked after his arrest in New Bedford last April on the charge of operating while under the influence of liquor. Sugarman will be summonsed into the District Court at Woburn to answer to the charges of operating after his license had been revoked and speeding.

Winchester High School second football team won a 13 to 0 victory over the Stoneham High seconds Monday afternoon on Manchester Field. Cimina and Harris each scored a touchdown and "Slicker" Coss place kicked the extra point on a conversion.

Wednesday morning shortly before 11 o'clock an unidentified dog was struck and badly injured in the crossing in the center. Patrolman James P. Donaghey shot the animal which was then removed to the town dump for burial.

Winchester High School's football team scrimmaged with Reading High Wednesday afternoon on Manchester Field, the play being very even. Harris, Winchester back, sustained a cracked collar bone during the scrimmage and will be out of the game for at least two weeks.

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

Quite a gathering attended the Hallowe'en party given by the Club last week, and all enjoyed the old-fashioned dances, music for which was supplied by the Minstrel Boys' Orchestra. Refreshments were served free to both guests and orchestra.

There being quite a few costume prizes left over, a whist was given on Monday afternoon by Vice President Minnie A. O'Neill at her home on Alben street. Nearly everyone who attended received a prize. And that's some record—even for the Emblem Club!

The next business session will be held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 14, in Lyceum Hall. A meeting of the Entertainment Committee is being called for this session, also.

Plans for the Turkey Bridge and Whist Party, scheduled for Monday evening, Nov. 26, in Lyceum Hall, are in the progressive stage. Vice President Minnie A. O'Neill will have charge of the tickets, Mrs. Esther C. McCarthy has charge of the prizes, and Mrs. Frances Sullivan is to look after the chance books. All members are urged to assist. Three turkeys, and many other worth while prizes will be distributed. All friends and patrons of the Club are assured of getting their money's worth at this affair.

In Memoriam

It is with deep regret that we record the passing of Sister Lillian S. Nicholson. A member of the club for nearly 10 years, she was ever faithful to her duties as officers or member, and her kindly unassuming personality endeared her to every member of the Club.

The Emblem Club ritual service for the dead was conducted on Wednesday afternoon by President Kathryn T. Griffin, Vice President Minnie A. O'Neill and Chaplain, Mary L. DeMorris. A delegation from the club attended the funeral services which were held the following day at the Kelley & Hawes Funeral Chapel.

FEATURE STORY BY HAROLD AMBROSE IN LIBERTY

Appearing in the current issue of "Liberty" magazine is a feature story written by Harold F. Ambrose of this town, who is now associated with Postmaster General Farley in Washington as Publicity Agent for his department. Coincidental with the appearance of this article, there appears in the current issue of "Literary Digest," a reference to the same young man in an article entitled, "News and Comment from the National Capital." It is gratifying to see the success attained by such a young man and as a graduate of our local public school system, he reflects credit thereon.

WINCHESTER VOTE NEARLY 90 PER CENT

Republicans All Returned Here Ramsdell Received High Vote Town Voted Dry

Winchester remained Republican in the State Election on Tuesday, all the standard bearers of that party being returned over their Democratic opponents. Even the admittedly popular Senator Walsh was unable to override Robert M. Washburn, G. O. P. candidate, though his 2454 votes led the Democratic totals at the local polls.

Almost 90 per cent of the town's 6859 votes was cast, the total number being 6136, not a record vote, as two years ago the combined state and presidential figures were 6419. Four years ago at the state election the local vote was 4618, making this year's total substantially larger. With 1000 more registered this year than then, 1500 more voted than in 1930.

While it was expected that this year's Democratic vote in Winchester would be much larger than at the last election, a comparison of the figures shows it to be about the same. Two years ago Ely polled 2263 votes in Winchester to 3659 for Youngman, but this vote is not thought to constitute a fair comparison since many local Republicans were known to vote for the Democratic standard bearer in that year. Curley this year polled 1848 votes here, and it is thought that he too had the benefit of some Republican votes. Close followers of elections believe that a fairer comparison is that of the vote for Lieutenant Governor and in this instance it would seem that the Democratic vote this year is about the same as it was in 1932. At that election, Swift polled 1816 votes while Hurley this year received 1775. Bacon in 1932 polled 4064 while the popular Haigis got 4165 on Tuesday. In connection with these figures it is interesting to note that there are but 997 enrolled Democrats in Winchester and 2983 Republicans.

TO SING "THE NEW EARTH" ARMISTICE DAY

A capacity gathering is expected on Armistice Sunday afternoon at the performance of Henry Hadley's musical ode, "The New Earth" which the Winchester Choral Society is singing under the direction of J. Albert Wilson at 4 o'clock in the auditorium of the First Congregational Church as an Armistice Day service to commemorate the closing of the World War.

This is a repeat performance of Hadley's superb composition which was first sung by the Society with great success at its closing concert last season. Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, is co-operating with the Society in the service and will attend in a body with its colors. Soloists are to be Idabelle H. Winship, soprano; Cora Boutelle, alto; T. Parker Clarke, tenor; and Kenneth McLeod, baritone. Mr. Wilson is to play the organ score and the pianist is to be Mary Ranton Witham.

OBSERVED 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Boyle, who were married Nov. 7, 1884, in St. Mary's Church, observed the 50th anniversary of their wedding Wednesday evening at their home on Oak street. A large number of relatives and friends, including Rev. Fr. Joseph McGoldrick of St. Mary's Church were present and throughout the day many telegrams and other messages of congratulations were received. A substantial purse was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Boyle during the evening and an entertainment program was enjoyed; including vocal selections by Bernard Crowley of Winchester and Henry McCarthy of Charlestown, with Miss Eileen McCarthy and Mildred Boyle at the piano and readings by Miss Margery McDonough of Woburn. A buffet luncheon followed the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyle have spent all of their married life in Winchester and have a wide circle of friends. They are the parents of nine children, including, John, Vincent, Mary and Henry Boyle of Winchester; Mrs. Joseph McDonough and Attorney Edward G. Boyle of Woburn; Bernard and Eugene Boyle of Revere and Sister Reinette of the Order of the Sisters of St. Joseph, now stationed at St. Charles Parish, Waltham. There are also 12 grand children and with the exception of Sister Reinette, all the children and grandchildren attended the anniversary.

WINCHESTER RED CROSS

We are so glad to tell you that our guest speaker for the "Pageant of Services" tonight is Dr. Winthrope Adams of the Veterans' Hospital at Bedford.

The films have arrived from Washington and we will be able to show you the work of our National organization on the screen in addition to the local work of your chapter in a pageant.

Come and see your chairman of Selectmen decorated with the first 1935 membership pin.

We are presenting this pageant to the citizens of Winchester. No charge at the door and no funds will be solicited. We simply want to show you in pictures just what the chapter is doing for the town. Come and bring your friends.

Mrs. Bowen Tufts,
Chapter Chairman

EN KA SCORES ANOTHER SUCCESS WITH LUNCHEON-BRIDGE WEDNESDAY

One of the first important social affairs of the winter was the En Ka luncheon-bridge given Wednesday of this week in the Epiphany Parish Hall. Every available space was filled to care for the 70 tables sold. The hall was attractively decorated in autumn leaves and yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Pierce, chairman and members of her Ways and Means Committee are to be congratulated upon the success of such a large party. Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Bugbee, Mrs. Wadsworth, Mrs. Howe and Miss Dow prepared and cooked the luncheon of creamed turkey and patty shells, molded salad, butterscotch rolls, coffee, and peanut brittle ice cream and angel food cake.

Mrs. Parrot was in charge of the waitresses who wore light colored dresses and yellow tissue aprons. They were Mrs. Beggs, Mrs. Cameron, Miss Grant, Mrs. Howe, Mrs. Kenerson, Mrs. Kerr, Miss Lane, Mrs. Mason, Miss Merrill, Mrs. Moffat, Mrs. Neiley, Mrs. Rounds, Mrs. Lowell Smith, Mrs. Squires, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Driscoll, Mrs. Gleason, Mrs. Tarbell, Mrs. Burbank, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Dwinell, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Dover, Mrs. Mensch.

Mrs. Eberle and Mrs. Lucius Smith had charge of decorations and Miss Gladys Marchant was responsible for the large sale of tickets by the efficient manner in which they were handled.

En Ka activities in the interest of the Winchester Hospital Nurses' home continue with increased interest with the proceeds of this luncheon and further plans for raising money in the spring. They hope to give to the Hospital Board the amount needed for the necessary repairs to the home.

A TRIBUTE

The writer is among many who feel a personal loss in the passing of one of our outstanding, strong men of the town, Charles E. Kendall. His was a most lovable character, with integrity beyond question. All who knew him were impressed by his sincerity. This quality was particularly noticeable when he spoke at our annual town meetings, which he did often, on behalf of his beloved subject, "The Protection of the Reservoirs of Winchester," and the development of their water sheds. As a member of our Water Board, he became so consecrated to his work it was a labor of love with him. His pride in our unsurpassed water supply was such that he planned unceasingly for its future protection and development, that Winchester might enjoy for many years, the quality and quantity she now has.

Mr. Kendall represented in its highest sense "rugged individualism." He was a grand person.

RECOUNT FOR SENATOR

Upon petition of State Senator Charles C. Warren of Arlington, Republican, defeated for re-election by 157 votes by Charles E. Daley, Democrat of Medford, there is to be a recount of the vote for this office. There is to be a recount for County Commissioner and it is reported, also for Councillor.

Fred H. Scholl has been elected chairman of the Winchester Community Relief Committee of which Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn is treasurer and Miss Nellie M. Sullivan is secretary.

EDWARD MARSHALL MESSENGER

Civil War Veteran Was 93

Edward Marshall Messenger, Civil War veteran and one of Winchester's oldest residents, died Monday night, Nov. 5, at his home, 389 Washington street. The end came peacefully after an illness of only two days.

Mr. Messenger had a long eventful life. He was born June 12, 1841, in Stoddard, N. H., the youngest of six children of Marshall and Fannie M. (Holmes) Messenger.

After receiving the usual district school education in Stoddard, at the age of 18 he entered Valley Seminary at Westmoreland, N. H., later teaching school in the town of Westminster, Vt.

Giving up teaching, he went to Keene, N. H., as an apprentice marble worker, and it was in Keene in 1862 that he enlisted in Company I of the Ninth Regiment of New Hampshire Volunteers to serve in the Union Army during the Civil War.

Mr. Messenger saw active service and was under fire at the Battle of South Mountain and at Antietam Creek where he was shot over the right eye and lost his left thumb.

He was carried off the field for dead and his subsequent recovery was considered almost miraculous. He returned to Keene, but in 1863 left that place for Boston where for a time he worked in a restaurant on Sudbury street, leaving to go to Washington, D. C., and assume the management of a private hotel for army officers.

Returning to Boston, Mr. Messenger was for a time engaged in the grocery business, and in 1864 married Martha W. Leach who died two weeks after the birth of their son, Edward, in 1865.

The next year in partnership with his brother he opened a restaurant and rooming house at 55 Bromfield street under the name, Messenger Bros., a firm that continued until 1875. In 1876 he assumed sole ownership of the business which he conducted successfully until 1894 when he retired, leaving the business to his son.

During the year previous to his retirement Mr. Messenger married Mary Proctor who died March 5, 1934. A son by that marriage, Guy H. Messenger of Winchester, survives, with four grandchildren. The son by his first marriage, Edward, died during the influenza epidemic of 1918.

Mr. Messenger came to Winchester 41 years ago, building the house in which he lived and died, at the time of erection one of but three houses in sight on Washington street. He was a familiar figure about town and had many friends among citizens of all walks in life, who will learn of his passing with regret.

For many years he participated in the annual observance of Memorial Day, until this year when his health forbade his taking part. He was presented last Memorial Day with a flag by Winchester Post, American Legion, of which he was an honorary member. He was also a member of Winchester Lodge of Elks, of Keene, N. H., Post, G. A. R., and of the Unitarian Church.

Mr. Messenger was fond of outdoor life. He had travelled through Alaska and the Canadian Northwest, had hunted in the South and was an expert fisherman. He carried his advanced years well and even after he had passed his 90th birthday was hale and hearty.

Elks' funeral services were held at the late residence Wednesday evening, the family service taking place Thursday morning at 11. Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiated and military honors were accorded by a detachment from Winchester Post, A. L. Kenneth McLeod, baritone, sang two favorite hymns. The Legion escort accompanied the body to Westmoreland, N. H., where the interment was made. Three volleys were fired over the grave by a firing squad from Fort Banks and taps was sounded by a bugler.

PASSION PLAY FILM AT CRAWFORD M. E. CHURCH

A new and very beautiful motion picture film of the "Passion Play" and the "Life of Christ" will be shown in the auditorium of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Friday evening, Nov. 16, at 8 o'clock. This new film depicts the story of Jesus, from the Nativity to the Ascension, and is based upon and paterned after the world famous Freiburg and Oberammergau Passion Plays of Europe.

A complete and very appropriate musical score will accompany the film, on special sound equipment, reproducing some of the world's choicest and most exquisite orchestral, organ and choral music by famous composers, blending in with the magnificent scenes, which portray in authentic and historic fashion, the life, crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus. The film was actually produced in Europe, Palestine and Egypt, and has won the profound admiration and approval of more than 1000 audiences in the United States.

Rev. Laurence A. Lambert, noted speaker and baritone soloist, of New York, will appear in person, with the film, presenting an apporpriate sacred solo and in a brief prelude will give a short historical review of the world's great "Passion Plays." The entire program will be one of unusual beauty. The public is cordially invited.

ATTENDING BURDETT COLLEGE

This school year Burdett College, Boston, reports an increase in its enrollment in all departments in the day and evening school. Among the many young men and women in attendance in the secretarial, business administration and accounting classes are Miss Helen W. Ramsey and Miss Mary Haggerty of this town.

CHARLES E. KENDALL

Charles E. Kendall, a life long resident of Winchester and a member of the town's Water and Sewer Board for the past 18 years, died early Monday morning, Nov. 5, in the Winchester Hospital, after a three weeks' illness. On Oct. 17 he sustained a broken hip as the result of a fall at his home, 28 Washington street, at which time he was removed to the hospital. Two days previous to his death his condition showed a marked improvement and the end came suddenly following a heart attack.

Mr. Kendall was the son of Holmes and Mary E. (Richardson) Kendall, and was born in Winchester March 19, 1853, three years after the town became incorporated under that name. He received his education in the Winchester schools and in 1874 entered the coal office of Henry A. Emerson & Co. in this town.

In 1902 he became a partner in the local coal and lumber firm of Blanchard & Kendall, remaining in that organization until he retired from active business in 1908.

Following retirement he spent four years in travel and during that time became especially interested in tree life, an interest which he maintained and intensified as long as he lived.

Greatly interested in everything pertaining to Winchester, he took an active interest in the civic life of the community, serving as selectman from 1914 to 1916 and as a member of the War Memorial Committee. He was elected a member of the Water and Sewer Board in 1916 and served continually in that office since that time. The town's water system was his pride and reforestation his hobby. He worked tirelessly in support of his contention that the substitution of evergreen trees for hardwood on the watershed would be an advantage to the town as a water conservation measure.

Besides his duties as a member of the Water and Sewer Board, Mr. Kendall was much interested and active in the work of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, of which he was for many years vice president. He was a member of Mystic Valley Lodge of Masons and of the First Congregational Church.

On June 18, 1883 Mr. Kendall married Sarah A. Ireland who died Sept. 5, 1931. A son, Frank Dana Kendall, died in the Country's service during the World War. One brother, Herbert Kendall, living in Evanston, Ill., survives.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon in Ripley Memorial Chapel of the First Congregational Church with the pastor, Rev. Howard J. Chidley, officiating. Representatives of the various town departments attended the services with delegations from Mystic Valley Lodge and Winchester Post, 97, American Legion. Flags on the Common and town buildings were at half-staff, the waterworks shop closed at noon and the office of the Water and Sewer Board was closed during the funeral. A delegation of employees of the department was present.

During the services Kenneth McLeod, baritone, sang "Rock of Ages," "Abide With Me" and "Peace, Perfect Peace," accompanied on the organ by Ernest Thornquist. Honorary bearers were President George H. Lochman and Past President George F. Arnold, representing the Chamber of Commerce; Chairman Edmund C. Sanderson and Clarence P. Whorf of the Water and Sewer Board and Charles P. Downer, master, and Paul N. Shiverick past master, representing Mystic Valley Lodge of Masons; and Past Comdr. W. Allan Wilde of Winchester Post. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

In Remembrance
(An Appreciation)

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law doth he meditate day and night. And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season, his leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper. (Psalms 1.)

Such a man was Charles E. Kendall. He needs no eulogy. The people of Winchester whom he loved and whom he served so faithfully, may well rise up and call him Blessed.

FOR WINCHESTER CHARITY

Every Cent From Passion Play Will Help Local Needy

In announcing the showing of the 1934 pictures of the Passion Play of Oberammergau for the benefit of the Winchester Elks' Charity Fund, stress is laid upon the fact that all proceeds from this feauture will be used for Winchester charity. With tickets at the moderate price of 50 cents each, local residents should make every endeavor to lend their support. The pictures will be shown in the Town Hall on Thursday evening next, Nov. 15, commencing at 8 o'clock.

A yearly visit since 1921 to Oberammergau has well qualified Mr. John Ward to talk on the subject of the Passion Play. Living two weeks of the past 12 summers as a member of the household of Anton Lang, the famous former Christus of the Passion Play, has given Mr. Ward the rare opportunity to become well acquainted with all the characters in this great play.

He has an entry into their homes that these annual visits alone have made possible. He knows every nook and corner of the village, every place of interest in the surrounding country. His remarkable friendship with the villagers has enabled him to secure personal pictures and sketches of this famous Bavarian Colony and of the play that would otherwise be unattainable.

The play is beautifully pictured and related, the audience being carried from the opening scene of "Christ's Triumphant Entrance into Jerusalm on Palm Sunday" to "His Death on Calvary" and "His Ascension." More than 200 pictures are shown, and these pictures and the talk will make the audience believe themselves to be in the Bavarian Village, enjoying the same privileges of friendship as does the lecturer.

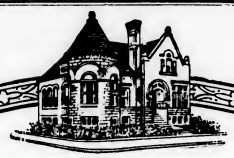

During the evening a musical program of exceptional quality will be given, the talent including such well known artists as Daniel J. McGrath of Revere and Thomas A. Quinn, a prominent Cambridge soloist.

The annual fall bridge conducted by the Junior Guild of the Infant Saviour will be held in Fortnightly Hall on Wednesday, Nov. 14.

Miss Ruth Matthews is chairman of the committee and is assisted by the Misses Rose Felt, Ruth Clancy, Barbara Chevalier, Mary McKenzie and Elizabeth McCauley.

The committee is working very hard to make this bridge party a success and a large attendance is expected.

DEMOCRATIC TOWN COMMITTEE

The Democratic Town Committee scored a distinct success at the election on Tuesday when it polled for the party nearly a vote that was extremely high for an off-year. The success achieved, however, was due, not only to the splendid work of the Town Committee, but to the help of the faithful and interested members of the party who volunteered their services. The Town Committee is grateful to these friends, not only for their cars and for their personal services as drivers, but for their assistance as checkers at the polling precincts and on the cars.

The fact that Governor-elect James M. Curley received such a splendid vote in Winchester and that Senator David I. Walsh received the highest vote that our town has ever given him and that our Winchester Democratic voters contributed so loyally towards the success of Senator-elect Charles T. Daly in the Sixth District all shows what splendid co-operation existed among all the groups who were working for Democratic victory.

Mr. William E. McDonald, Jr., chairman of the Town Committee has received messages of thanks from various Democratic leaders and candidates and this praise he wishes to convey to all those who participated in any way in the local effort which takes its place as part of the great state and national victory.

Judson "Juddie" Cross, son of Rev. and Mrs. Judson L. Cross of Hillside avenue, spent the past week-end in Winchester, having come up to Cambridge with the Yale freshman cross country team to participate in a triangular meet with the yearlings of Harvard and Princeton. Cross, who was captain of both track and cross country at high school a year ago, was the first Yale man to finish, crossing the line fifth and as a consequence winning his coveted class numerals.

WINCHESTER SECONDS WON

Last Monday afternoon on Manchester Field the high school second football team won a 7—6 victory over the Belmont High seconds in a close exciting game.

The locals were scored upon in the second quarter after a sustained Belmont march down the field, during which "Bob" Cushman, star Winchester back, had been carried from the field with a knee injury. The try for extra point, a center plunge, was stopped by Logan, right guard.

Shortly after the kick-off in the second half, Winchester marched down the field to the three yard line from where hard-running "Rugged" Murraco, who had been doing a considerable bit of the ball toting, went over for the score. "Slicker" Coss and his educated toe were responsible for the conversion, a perfect place kick.

With 12 seconds to play in the last quarter and on their own 35-yard line, Belmont completed a pass in the flat zone. Evading and shaking off three of the Winchester secondary, the runner raced down the side line with three interferers. "Ken" Munroe, speedy utility man, overhauled the ball carrier and brought him down from behind on the four yard line just as the final whistle blew, thus saving the game.

The second team's record is now two wins and no losses. This afternoon they will try for a third win, when they meet the Newton Jayvees.

WATERTOWN GIRLS EDGED WINCHESTER

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team dropped its first game of the season Wednesday afternoon, losing to Watertown High at Watertown, 2—1.

The score was deadlocked at one all at the half, Parsekian scoring for Watertown and Berry for Winchester. During the second half, Gough, Watertown left inner, caged the winning tally.

Between the halves of the first team game the Watertown seconds won from the Winchester seconds, 2—1.

Following is the summary of the varsity game:

WATERTOWN		WINCHESTER
Brosnahan, rw		rw, Rallo
Prendergast, ri		ri, Gilbert
		rb, Moulton
Parsekian, cf		cf, Ghiblen
Gough, li		li, Sheeran

Score: Watertown 2, Winchester 1. Goals—Parsekian, Gough, Berry. Referee—Prendergast. Scorers Murphy and Garner. Timers Mooseghian and Corwin. Time 15 minute halves.

CHANGE OF DATE

Because of a conflict of dates, the meeting of the Winchester Highlands Unit of the Middlesex County Extension Service tentatively planned for Wednesday, Nov. 14, is postponed to Tuesday, Nov. 20. Further details in next week's Star.

LEGION NOTES

As part of our Armistice Day observance, Winchester Post, No. 97, is co-operating with the Winchester Choral Society in a new community service. On Sunday, Nov. 11 at 4 in the afternoon at the First Congregational Church. The Choral Society will present "The New Earth," an ode for mixed chorus and soloists. The poem is by Louise Ayres Garnett and the music by Henry Hadley.

The Post will attend in a body and members are requested to meet at the Legion House at 3:30 and proceed to the church with our colors.

Many members of the Winchester Chapter Guild of the Infant Saviour attened the lecture at the Copley Plaza on Tuesday given by Miss Maiste Ward Sheed of London, England.

A SEAT OF LEARNING

The enclosed comes from a former member of the Winchester School Committee. For the past 14 years she has been living in Europe.

When first planning to come to Lugano some years ago, I was urgently counseled by educator friends, that I must visit the famous little school at Agno. Being handicappel by several uncertainties of exact location, of being welcome, and by lack of any smooth-running Italian—not till lately did the happy occasion come to make the visit, when Fraulein Wirz was my leader.

During the cycle of the years, I have touched the education circle at various points, as teacher, as Frau Professor, as mother and as citizen. Forty years ago an intimate of that circle where the American philosopher, John Dewey (author of "The School and Society" and now of Columbia University) established his first experimental school; a member of the school board in a Boston suburb; sharing the valuable experience of a son attending one of Switzerland's foremost schools; also now having a son-in-law teaching in the International School at Geneva.

In all these contacts with advanced and advancing education, there was in their processes, special privileges—ample endowment or extra equipment—backing from specially organized or sympathetic groups, and generally the children in the school coming from homes of exceptionally favored inheritance and cultural environment. Here in a simple village schoolroom, using only ordinary equipment and furnishers, among children evidently representing homes restricted to necessities in clothing, food and shelter, with no "holding up of her hands" by the usual "Parents and Teachers' Association," a teacher has carried forward this unprecedented example of modern education; where by freeing the powers and gifts of self-expression and self direction, the scholars gain both the control and the method for meeting the real obligations and opportunities of life.

Through the simple, though skillful, device of arranging the regular school furnishings, for the easy and comfortable nursuance of the various tasks, it has been transformed from any relation to a prison-house to a charming living room, where each one happily belongs to the family, but it eagerly engrossed in his own proceedings. The "recitations" were really "round-table conferences" where gathering around her desk, they reported their findings on the subject in hand, each one intent on contributing his full quota of facts or ideas or questions, yet giving full attention and no interruptions to his companions, both from interest in listening and with courtesy to the one speaking. Though the floor was of stone and most of the children wearing the common wooden soles, and there being perfect freedom of motion in going about their various endeavours and seeking whatever materials needed—their thought and effort not to disturb one another was evident. It was so quiet that one might hear the ticking of the clock. It is an abode of peace—and this not because of any discipline or repression from without—but only possible from pre-occupation of interest and purposes hard-working in the pupil.

I was profoundly stirred and impressed. Surely Madame Boschetti is a teacher of teachers—her little school room a "Seat of Learning" where work and play are at one—where, as Leonardo da Vinci so ardently believed, Knowledge and Beauty are kin.

LOCHMAN SECRETARY

Postmaster George H. Lochman of Winchester, who is also president of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, was last week elected secretary of the newly formed Associated Trade Organization of Woburn, Stoneham, Reading and Winchester. Sherman VanTassel of Woburn is president and the object of the new organization is to further the interests of the merchants in the communities named. Concerted Wednesday afternoon closing is among the matters with which the organization is concerned.

THE COUNTY CARNIVAL WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY, NOV. 21, 22

The most festive, frivolous, fun-provoking event of the year will take place Nov. 21 and 22 at the First Congregational Church parish house. Various entertainments in the afternoon: Pony rides, candy growing on trees, Smith's Emporium, Jones' Christmas Creations, Andrews' Bakery, Palmer's Nosegay Shop, Smith's Candy Kitchen, Johnson's Witches' Brew, and a real Psychic Madame X.

On Wednesday night there will be a cafeteria supper, finest foods, instantaneous service. And THEN:

The Merry Madmen of the Men's Club will present the "County Fair Midway." The personnel have been chosen for their gusto, glamour and glee.

Come one! Come all! Bring your children, wives, sweethearts—even domestic pets. HEAR music of rural strain rendered in a harvest-home setting. HEAR barkers put Barnum's best to shame! SEE the freaks: Utopia, a new land of marvels conceived on a magnificent scale. SEE clowns galore in side-splitting antics. TRY, TRY your skill at games in which you actually can have confidence. All your favorites will be there: automobile races, African dodgers, Mickey Mouse, cowboys from the heights, log sawing contests, milk bottle contests and many classic acts of conjuring and mystery which no words can describe. COME ONE, COME ALL, DON'T MISS IT.

FORMER WINCHESTER RESIDENT DEAD

Dr. Alfred G. Richburg, 54, a member of the faculty of the Tufts dental school, died Wednesday at his home, 35 Wren street, West Roxbury, following a brief illness.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Jennie (Christie) Richburg and Miss Helen Richburg, a freshman at Jackson College, the women's department of Tufts.

Dr. Richburg was born in Ellensville, N. Y. and when a boy came with his family to Winchester. He was graduated from the Winchester High School in 1901 and during the following four years he was employed by the United Shoe Machinery Company. He was graduated from Tufts dental school in 1909.

For many years he carried on his private practice in the Back Bay and he was a member of the first permanent staff at the Forsyth dental infirmary. He had been a member of the staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital in the out-patient department, the Hall House, and the Boston Dispensary. He was also one of the directors of the Walter E. Fernald School for Feeble Minded.

He became assistant professor of clinical dentistry at Tufts in 1919 and had been associated with the college since that time. He was a former president of the Tufts Dental Alumni Association and secretary of the metropolitan division of the Massachusetts Dental Society.

Dr. Richburg was a member of the Eliot Lodge of Masons, the New England Dental Society, the Robert R. Andrews Society for the Promotion of Dental Research and Psi Omega, a dental fraternity.

Miss Merle Louise Ferguson, Winchester organist, will be in Washington, D. C. for several concerts with the Choral Art Society of Boston from Nov. 9 to 14. The chorus is under the direction of H. Augustine Smith, well known authority on hymnology and church music. A special concert for President Roosevelt is planned. Miss Ferguson is pianist for the society.

Some time during Monday night the air was let out of all four tires of an automobile owned by Theodore von Rosenvinge of Wedgemere avenue and parked at the Unitarian Church. The sort of malicious mischief has been rather frequent of late and the police promise action if they locate those responsible.

One American out of every five was helped by the Red Cross in the last five years of drought, disaster, unemployment and increased needs of ex-service men. At least one American out of every five ought to pay the dollar membership fee in the annual Roll Call which begins on Armistice Day.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

All Scouts of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior High School Classes who wish to register for this year in Captain Baker's Troop are invited to meet on Tuesday, Nov. 13 at the home of Mrs. John Joy, 93 Church street at which time the troop will be organized. There will be a business meeting at 5:30 p. m. Please remember to bring the registration fee of 50c. Supper will be provided by the troop committee, after which there will be an interesting talk by Miss Cameron of the Garland School of Homemaking. Miss Cameron will speak on, "Color Harmony in Dress" and will give individual color readings.

Last Saturday the Scouts of Troop 2 went with Captain Symmes and Lieutenant Monroe to the Girl Scout cabin to spend the day. First came the color ceremony about the flag pole on the hill, then the rest of the morning was spent in fire building, compass work and the laying of two trails. Lunch was cooked out of doors over the open fire places, the girls having loads of fun toasting marshmallows and pretzels over the dying coals. After lunch they hiked over the two trails laid in the morning by girls working on the first class badge. Later several out door games were enjoyed followed by the good night circle, lowering of the flag and taps.

The following Scouts were present: June Blood, Doris Erickson, Nancy Goodwin, Margaret Harkins, Janice Hanlon, Louise Millican, Margery Mancie, Mary O'Neill, Katherine O'Leary, Barbara Reagan, Jean Reagan, Barbara Spalding, Helen Ulrich, Grace Ulrich, Betty Winship, Nancy Wyman, Lieut. Ruth Monro, Capt. Marion Symmes.

Remember the rally at 5:30 at the high school on Saturday, Nov. 24. Singing, supper and a lecture by Dr. Tozier.

WELLESLEY HERE MONDAY AFTERNOON

Winchester High, smarting under its defeat at the hands of Belmont and its previous scoreless tie with Concord, will attempt to get back into a winning stride Monday afternoon when it meets Wellesley High in a non league football game at 2 o'clock on Manchester Field.

The locals met Wellesley after a long lapse last year and the game was so satisfactory in every respect that home and home arrangements were made for future engagements.

Wellesley is a well coached club which has not been winning too frequently this season. A year ago Winchester won at Wellesley 20—0, and hopes to win Monday. The locals will be close to full strength at that time, though the injury jinx which has been dogging the club all season removed Cushman, promising sub halfback from further competition this season with a cracked leg bone, sustained in a second team game with Belmont on Monday.

It is expected that both "Steamer" Hanlon and "Gerry" Gaffney, co-captain halfbacks, will be ready for Wellesley, though both will probably be used as sparingly as possible.

The likely starting lineup is Bairstow and Josephson, ends; Thwing and Olson, tackles; McCormack and Graham, guards; Gaum, center; Grosvenor, quarterback; Hanlon and Gaffney, halfbacks; and Provinzano, fullback. Millyan end; Cassidy, center; MacDonnell, guard; and Cimina, Scully, Muracco and Munroe, backs; all are sure to see plenty of service with Gustin and Lockhart, tackles; Eshbach and Gaudioso, ends; Chamberland and Logan, guards, ready if called on.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SCHOOL MOTHERS' BRIDGE

The assembly hall of the George Washington School was most tastefully decorated for the dessert-bridge party given by the Highlands Chapter of the Mothers' Association on Wednesday afternoon. The color scheme was orange and black, with vases of Chinese lantern most effectively used. Thirty tables were arranged, their gay Thanksgiving covers lending a very festive air to the occasion.

While the guests were assembling, Mrs. Lucille Mathers at the piano and Miss Alice Landers with her violin, entertained generously with classical and popular numbers. Miss Grace DeCarlton of Boston, with two of her pupils delighted their audience with several beautiful and difficult dances, most gracefully executed.

Mrs. Bostwick made a charming hostess, assisted by a group of young girls from the school who acted as waitresses and who also sold home-made candy during the afternoon.

Prizes were potted plants, each table having a prize. An electric kitchen clock which had been donated, was sold by tickets, the lucky number being 87. Homemade cakes were sold at the close of the party.

It was a most successful occasion and the president, Mrs. Caldwell graciously expressed in behalf of all those present, the appreciation of the capable and hospitable manner in which the affair was carried out.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock, while headed north on Main street, a Dodge truck owned and driven by John H. MacKay of State road, Wilmington, suddenly got out of control and crossing to the left side of the road went over the sidewalk and lawn and against a tree on the grounds of the Unitarian Church. Considerable damage was done to the lawn and the tree, and the truck was so badly damaged it had to be towed away. MacKay, who was not injured, stated that the steering gear of his machine broke, causing him to lose control.

WINCHESTER RED CROSS

The Winchester Chapter Roll Call begins Sunday, Nov. 11, Armistice Sunday and extends to Thanksgiving. Our quota is 2000 members. Will you as individual citizens of this town answer the Roll Call in order that your local chapter may continue the splendid work it has done in the past?

American Red Cross membership dollars are still keeping the promises made to American men who went to war. You as a member are still ministering to the needs of those for whom the war is not yet ended. You are helping his family, his children—and through your membership you are also serving all American sailors at sea and all soldiers, marines or coast guardsmen wherever their ports or posts may be. This service to the veteran is our first call, but because of conditions during the past few years our relief to other families in town—mothers and many children have had their pleas for help answered most generously.

The town will be solicited in a house to house campaign. There is a captain in charge of each of 13 districts and workers on every street. Those of you who have worked on campaigns must know what a task this is. I ask all of you to keep in mind that sometime during that week Red Cross will ring your bell and ask for your dollar membership. Will you have it ready? Will you leave it for us when you go out please? Will you say to yourself "this dollar is doing a great deal for all people in the country but especially is it relieving distress right here in Winchester?"

Not only does A. R. C. mean American Red Cross—it means Annual Roll Call—and still more it can mean, "All Residents Contribute." How about that last idea? Will you see us through?

Mrs. Bowen Tufts,
Chapter Chairman

BETHANY NEWS

At the business meeting following the luncheon on Wednesday, it was voted to postpone the December luncheon one day to the first Thursday of the month, instead of Wednesday as formerly. This will be a boon to mothers of children exempt from school on Wednesday afternoons.

Glowing and amusing details of a surprise party given in honor of Mrs. Annie Foster's birthday one day last week reached your reporter's ears and should be passed along to the rest of the society. It was quite an elaborate affair, we hear, the costumes of the guests being especially striking. A delightful repast was served and the drip glass and jumping plate were used very effectively, but it was "thumbs down" on smoking. Mrs. Foster was the recipient of numerous useful and ornamental gifts, artistically wrapped and the birthday cake was there with its accompanying congratulations.

A group of our young people with their leaders attended the Youth conference at Reading Sunday evening and report an instructive and interesting session.

Two of the young members of our set sustained serious injuries last week. Miss Eunice Gile of Holton street is confined to her home with a broken ankle and will be laid up for some time. Little Miss Natalie Nelson of Brookside road has a fractured jaw and is at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Both girls are getting along as well as can be expected. They probhly would be delighted with some message from anyone who would care to write to them.

Watch for particulars in next week's Star regarding the Bethany entertainment to be given Nov. 23 in the assembly hall of the Second Congregational Church. You've heard about the Bakers? You'll hear some more!

YOUNG PEOPLE HOME AGAIN SUNDAY

The Congo Young People's Society journeyed out of town last week to visit the Orthodox Congregational Church in Arlington. There they enjoyed a program prepared by the young people of that church which was very fine. Dr. Harry Stock of West Medford addressed a large meeting increased by the addition of many of our members. After the talk, refreshments were served during a brief social period.

Since Sunday is Armistice Day, a very special program has been prepared. Mr. William Beggs has agreed to speak to the young people on a subject of his own choice.

Remember the new plan which is now in effect. A light supper has supplanted the refreshments of former meetings for which a slight charge of ten cents is made. This was decided upon by popular vote and seems more favorable. It's considered the thing to do to come to these meetings and everyone will be there. Won't you come too? We'll be looking for you.

SUNDAY LAWS APPLY ARMISTICE DAY

Housewives and other prospective purchasers will do well to remember that as a result of recent legislation Sunday laws will apply on Armistice Day until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. This will mean that those stores closed on Sunday will be closed on that day during those hours and that sports and other activities not permitted on the Sabbath cannot be held until after 1 o'clock.

Veterans organizations have since the establishment of Armistice Day sought in vain to have it generally observed as a holiday. As a result of Legislative action the day will this year be so observed at least until early afternoon.

Disaster relief is recognized everywhere as the responsibility of the American Red Cross. Communities which were afflicted in past years, those which may be stricken in 1935, recognize the need for funds for the great rehabilitation programs of the Red Cross. Your membership dollar will give you a part in the work.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The second regular meeting of the club year will be held on Monday, Nov. 12 in Fortnightly Headquarters at 2:30 p. m. Dr. James Gordon Gilkey of Springfield will speak on, "Russia and Germany in 1933" and will show motion pictures which he himself took during his summer there. Husbands of members are invited to come as special guests of the president.

The Literature Group will spend its purposeful reading time this winter in finding and studying the printed pages in which good thinking has been expressed in the form of recorded, reported or invented conversation from the Book of Job down to the latest dramatic dialogue of Shaw.

The first meeting of the year on Nov. 5 aimed to present the topic with some laws, logical arrangement and criticism to be used as a starting point. Mrs. William Morton discussed conversation as an art which reflects its period in manner and purpose, picturing the charm of the talk of other times and places and on the whole, agreeing with many critics in thinking that good talk has a difficult time in competition with today's life. If the practice is truly an art it should be possible to agree upon its essential elements in order to set up standards for critical reading of the literary form which may be a thin shadow of conversation or on the other hand, a live and brilliant subdivision of literature.

Mrs. Gordon Mann outlined the year's plans by giving an imaginary interview to Mrs. Paul Howard, chairman of press, and she added some comments on the interview as a modern form of a conversation which may be so skillfully arranged for publication as to have real literary value.

Mrs. Barnard announced a contest by which the group may discover the writing talent of the club members. A prize is offered for the best imaginary conversation. Miss Hodge suggested reading in preparation for the December meeting, which will consider the talk of Socrates and Plato's story of it which is read today as valuable and interesting dialogue. Read the Republic for method and setting rather than for philosophy and use Dickinson's Plato and His Dialogues and Forster's Life of G. Lowes Dickinson, both of which have been added to the Winchester library, where a Fortnightly Shelf may be found. A general reading list, chronologically arranged, with some interesting books and papers on the library table at the back of the hall tempted many to linger for "table talk" with the 15 members of the committee who like to share their own enjoyment with all of the Fortnightly readers.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

We dare say that no doctrine of the Christian religion has a stronger hold upon intelligent people than that of the immortality of the soul.

The soul of man was made to walk the skies;
Delightful outlet of her prison here!
And, disencumbered from her chains, the ties
Of toys terrestrial, there she roves at large;
In full proportion lets loose all her powers;
And wonderful herself, through wonder strays;
Grows conscious of her birth celestial;
breathes
More life, more vigor, in her native air,
And feels herself at home among the stars.

What a glorious future good men and women have to go to! What an exultant life for the soul, when Death strikes off the fetters of the flesh, and sets it free; when dust returns to dust whence it came, and the spirit returns to God who gave it! What if the path to all this do lead down for a little while into the dark, cannot we tread it firmly and fearlessly when we know that it leads up finally to the eternal splendors and reunion with loved ones gone before?

Recognition? Of course there will be recognition. William K. Palmer of Chicopee, in his poem, "Recognition," says:

Shall we in yonder world our former friends
Behold and welcome after severance long?
Beyond all doubt, their spirits will acclaim
Our coming and their old-time rapture be
Augmented by their absence from our midst,
Who gave a zest to live in other years,
And whose companionship we shall renew with joy.
Yes, recognition mutual shall instantaneous
be,
Nor explanation needed as to who we are.
Such is the prospect that allures us all.
That the hereafter shall restore our vanished
friends,
Who shall instruct us in the mysteries blest
Of that God realm where sorrow cannot come
Where glorious victory is vouchsafed to all,
Where envy is unknown and love doth bind
All souls in God's eternal and profound embrace.

TO THE VOTERS OF WINCHESTER

I thank you for the confidence which you placed in me by re-electing me on Tuesday as your Representative to the General Court.

The large vote with which you have honored me is very gratifying and notice to me of your approval and endorsement of my services as your Representative during the past two years.

You may be sure that I shall endeavor at all times to act for you in a way which I believe to be for the best interests of the Town of Winchester and the entire Commonwealth.

Faithfully yours,
William Eben Ramsdell

Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock Police Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell picked up a 10-year old Lawrence boy, Louis Janosky, who had been to a football game in Somerville, and had gotten stranded on his return trip. The police in Lawrence were notified and after considerable telephoning back and forth sent the youngster by bus to Stoneham where Patrolman Lawrence O'Toole agreed to see that he got the remainder of the way home

WINCHESTER VOTE NEARLY 90 PER CENT

Gaspar G. Bacon, Republican candidate for Governor, received a splendid endorsement in Winchester his 4105 votes leading James M. Curley, the Democratic nominee, by 2257. Mr. Bacon did not lead his ticket in Winchester, that honor going to William E. Ramsdell, a resident of the town, who was returned to office as Representative in the General Court over William E. McDonald, Jr., Democrat, 4331 to 1510. Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers ran second over William E. Ramsdell with 4309, closely followed by the popular State Secretary Frederick W. Cook with 4210. Running next to Senator Walsh on the Democratic ticket was Thomas H. Buckley, candidate for Auditor who polled 2170. Charles T. Daley, well known newspaperman, ran within 19 votes of Curley's total, polling 1829 against Charles C. Warren, Republican candidate for State Senator.

Winchester voted against modifying the steel trap law, voted an emphatic "no" on the sale of all alcoholic beverages and against the sale of wines and malt beverages by 131 votes. In connection with the pari-mutuel system of betting the town voted in favor of betting on licensed horse racing and against similar racing for dogs. The town endorsed the League of Nations, 2535 to 1868.

Up to 10:30 a. m., at which time 2488 votes had been cast, Winchester's vote was running a scant 50 behind the vote in the Presidential year of 1932. With the beginning of rain, the vote slumped off until at 3 o'clock it was 400 behind. From 2 o'clock until the closing hour, 7 p. m., 2420 votes were cast.

The local voting results were finally announced at 1:20 Wednesday morning. Precinct 5, of which Fred H. Scholl is warden, was the first in at 8:30 and Precinct 1 was last at 1 o'clock.

President Roosevelt sent personal congratulations to Governor-elect Curley, his son James acting as ambassador. This action seems to refute the Republican contention so prevalent before election that Mr. Curley, whose principal platform was his loyalty to the New Deal, failed to have the approval in his candidacy of the Chief Executive. As a matter of fact few, if any, failed to see the Presidential backing of his campaign.

From the welter of political statements spoken and written in Winchester during the campaign just past there remains one to which citizens of all parties are glad to subscribe. When Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook said that Winchester has the best town clerk in the Commonwealth he made a statement, the truth of which the town has long been aware. Such praise, however, coming from the State official best qualified to judge the value of town clerks is most gratifying alike to Miss Stinson and the town. Both may well be congratulated!

We hope that all those who find fault with the price asked for tickets at local high school football games went over to Belmont last Saturday and paid 50 cents admission to a field, on which there were no stands at all and only indifferent policing. Those who pay at Manchester Field at least get a seat for their quarter, and except under the most abnormal conditions the field is kept scrupulously free of spectators. At Belmont last Saturday the high school game had to be halted at one point to stop a scrub game in progress on a corner of the gridiron, and few on the Winchester side of the field knew what took place in the last few hectic minutes of play at the Belmont goal line. A visit to most places in which Winchester plays away from home convinces the most critical how well things are done here.

Numerous house breaks are being reported in cities and towns surrounding Winchester and our own community, while much more fortunate than many of its neighbors, has not been entirely free of such depredations of late. The police are trying to prevent the actual break-, but this is an all but impossible task. Apprehending those responsible is also difficult in the days of motorized crime, and so Police Chief Rogers is asking each citizen of the town to report immediately to Police Headquarters any suspicious persons seen loitering about dwellings or stores or anything at all irregular about town. Phone 1220 immediately. Have no fear of ridicule or censure if your report leads to nothing. The local authorities will welcome the opportunity to investigate anything that any one may really feel is amiss. Notifying Headquarters hours after the suspicious circumstance occurs is of no use at all. Speed is all important and we can promise that the response to calls will be prompt. Only with the cooperation of all the citizens can the authorities hope to prevent breaks or arrest those responsible after the breaks occur.

The Salvation Army is making an appeal to us for assistance in carrying on its humanitarian work during the coming year. This work of the Salvation Army cannot be neglected for the neglect of this organization will only result in avoidable suffering being caused to many of our needy. Not only has the Army relieved the sorrows and wants of these people but it has also relieved the heavy burden of taxation which have, in a large way, been caused by emergency relief measures. The Salvation Army is recognized as the greatest relief organization of its kind in the world. Founded and developed primarily for the relief and rehabilitation of the unfortunate, the Army through years of experience, stands ready and able to do that work which we ourselves would do, had we the time. The demands upon the Army for aid have taxed its resources to the limit so that a generous response is necessary to assure the continuance of its work during the coming year. The quota has been set at $2000. If each person will do his or her part, the necessary money will be realized. Let us lend our assistance to this great work of the Army. Our donation will be their weapon in driving needless poverty, suffering and depression from our land.

APPRECIATION FROM MRS. ROGERS

Nov. 7, 1934

Winchester Star
Winchester, Mass.

My dear Friends:

I am deeply grateful for the overwhelming expression of confidence in me shown by the voters of the Fifth District. I thank them and also the innumerable volunteers who worked so loyally and tirelessly to send me back to Congress that I again may represent and serve this district.

With cordial regards and best wishes, I am

Very sincerely yours,
Edith Nourse Rogers,

WAS ONLY REPUBLICAN IN AUDIENCE

Nov. 5, 1934

To the Editor of the Star:

Normally I am able to restrain myself from the urge innate in all of us to write a communication to the papers. However, on Friday evening last something occurred in Winchester that to me is so typical of the attitude of good citizens of this country and so dangerous to the future of those good citizens as to warrant calling it to the attention of your readers.

On that evening an independent Democratic group under the able leadership of Mr. Mullin held a meeting in the Town Hall in the interests of the gubernatorial candidacy of James M. Curley. The meeting differed from the ordinary political rally in that the speakers were men of reputation, well-known as speakers, always interesting and well-informed. The appeal they were scheduled to make was to be founded upon reasoning and not upon prejudice. It was a meeting nicely calculated to appeal to a town of what is usually assumed to be Winchester's high intellectual calibre.

I attended that meeting and it was exactly as advertised. The meeting was conducted on a very high plane and had high tone. But the good Republican citizens of the town were most conspicuous by their absence. I do not pretend to know every prominent Republican in Winchester but I do know a great many and so far as I could tell I was the only Republican in the audience.

Now the fact that neither the eloquent Mr. Sullivan nor the winning Mr. Roosevelt nor the incisive Professor Rogers succeeded in changing my previous opinion has nothing to do with the real seriousness of political apathy. We are engaged in a rapidly changing era and until the Republican party realizes this and does something to accommodate itself to changing humors and ideals it will remain a minority party if, indeed, it does not die entirely.

The ideas of Stalin and Mussolini and Sinclair and Norman Thomas, yes, and even of Huey Long, if any, must be understood before they reasonably can be combated. It is ridiculous for any business man of Winchester to learn of these ideas at second hand after they have been through the filter, say, of Boston Herald interpretation. He would not form his business opinions but quite usually he does form his political opinions at second hand. Our politically-minded ancestors did things differently. And if the people of my class who think they are the backbone of the nation continue to live in a politically intellectual vacuum they may expect soon to cease to be the backbone—they may expect to lose what they care for.

I shall not hesitate to tell my personal friends what I think of their indifference in matters of this sort. I choose this means to extend the idea into a wider sphere.

Very truly yours,
John Burchard, 2nd,
36 Mt. Pleasant Street.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL

Faced with a deficit in its annual appeal to the people of Winchester, The Salvation Army renewed its efforts towards an attempt to realize its set quota of $2000, when letters signed by Harry T. Winn, chairman of the local advisory boards, were sent to all former contributors asking these friends of the past to act in this need of the present.

The letter which contains a report of the work of the Army in the Metropolitan area during the past year is worded as follows:

"The Salvation Army is making its annual appeal to the people of Winchester for help in financing its humanitarian work for the next 12 months.

"During the period Oct. 1, 1933 to March 31, 1934 in the Metropolitan Area, family relief was given in various forms, such as garments, shoes, groceries, coal, etc. to 17,252 persons; 10,500 persons participated in Christmas dinners; 19,177 free lodgings and 51,422 free meals were supplied in connection with transient relief; and 675 unfortunate girls were cared for at the Evangeline Booth Maternity Hospital and Home at Boston.

This cause needs no further elaboration of words or argument. Here is one time when the Army needs help and it is our opportunity to respond generously and quickly.

"I urge you, therefore, to send your contribution today and make your check payable to G. Dwight Cabot, treasurer, or, if you prefer, hand it to an authorized canvasser.

Harry T. Winn,
Chairman, Winchester Committee

THAT DELAY IN DEMOCRATIC MAIL

To the Editor of the Star:

On Tuesday, Nov. 6, the morning of election day, there appeared in one of the Boston papers under the caption of complaints, an article alleging deliberate delay in handling the sample ballots sent out by the Democratic Party, and also stating that on complaint of local Democrats two inspectors from the Boston office were sent out to investigate.

In the first place this is a tissue of falsehood from beginning to end, and it is an insult to the intelligence of the Postmaster to insinuate that he would be idiotic enough to attempt to mishandle or delay the handling and delivery of such ballots. The paper publishing said article will be pushed to the full extent of the law as will also the reporter who turned it in.

As a matter of fact these ballots although third class mail were treated with the same care and attention and expedition as first class. They arrived at this office on Saturday afternoon, when like all offices we had only a skeleton crew on duty. Sunday we have only one man on duty. Monday morning we sent out what we could get ready for the carriers. The Postmaster himself with two clerks then went to work on them and at 11:30 a. m., they were all sorted and placed on the desks of the carriers. The carriers were instructed by the Postmaster personally, to deliver every one of the ballots that afternoon even though it took over-time to do so. They were all delivered Monday afternoon with the exception of a very few on the rural route which has only one delivery a day. There was no complaint made to the Inspection Department nor were any inspectors in the building that day. This latter statement can easily be proven by getting in touch with that department.

The publishing of such an article savors of dirty politics which heretofore have had no place in Winchester and it is regrettable that anyone in this town should sink low enough to stoop to such practice.

I am a Postmaster and proud of my job, am playing no favorites and regardless of race creed or color, or political belief everybody and every piece of mail is entitled to, is getting and will continue to get prompt and efficient service.

G. H. Lochman,
Postmaster

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS BY LEE COURT

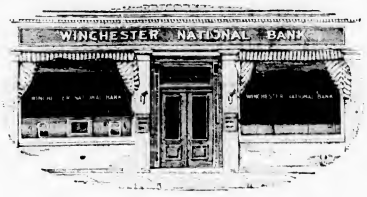

The art exhibition of the current month at the Winchester Public Library will present for the first time in Winchester a group of oil paintings by Lee W. Court, a Boston artist whose home is in Canton. A keen lover of New England nature this artist confines his painting activities to the picturesque opportunities that exist everywhere in our particular section of the United States. In his exhibition will be found a contrasting variety of colorful outdoor motives ranging from the autumnal beauties of the delightful Deerfield River Valley and its neighboring hillsides and well-known mountains, to the wave-lashed headlands, safe harbors, fishing craft, fog and fair weather of historic Monhegan Island, Me. The solitude and imposing grandeur of February in Vermont near that paradise for painters, Eyegate and Woodsville, is represented by appealing canvases of ice-bound brooks and snow-covered forest, of sunlit snow-crowned heights. And near Sidney, Me. are restful summer scenes of eye-arresting green fields, hills and placid ponds.

Mr. Court has been painting for some years and his earlier work was done in and around Winchester where he lived during the period he attended the Massachusetts School of Art and studied with Aldro T. Hibbard, Harry Leith-Ross and the late Eric Hudson. He has exhibited at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Boston Public Library, The Boston Art Club, the Copley Society of Boston, the Jordan Marsh Annual Art Exhibition and at Rockport. Last season his paintings were shown at the Williston Academy, Amherst; Museum, Whistler House at Lowell, and the Milton Public Library. He is a member of the Boston Art Club, the Copley Society and the Rockport Art Association.

COMMUNITY BOWLING

Wednesday evening's matches in the Community Bowling League on the Winchester Alleys resulted as follows: K. of C. won four from the Elks; Town Team won three and lost one to Fells Plumbing; U. S. Veterans won four from the Atlantic Gelatine; Sons of Italy won three and lost one to St. Mary's.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Scout Lecture

On Saturday, Nov. 10, Dr. Charles H. Tozier, well known lecturer, will conduct one of his most interesting talks on "Nature Scouting with a Camera," to be accompanied by moving pictures. This lecture is based on nature life in the fields and forests and will be of great interest to children, as well as adults. Tickets are 25 cents for children under 12 years of age and 50 cents for adults.

By means of motion pictures and color photography, all branches of natural history found from the Equator to the Arctic Circle will be shown including many pictures of wild animals, birds, fish, tribes of Indians, and cowboys, in their natural surroundings. The natural color pictures will give one an idea of some of the wonderful things found in the air on the mountain tops, in canyons, in the great north woods, in the jungles of the tropics, and under the sea. In addition to all of these, pictures of ancient man and the "First Boy Scouts" of America will be shown.

Tickets are on sale at Scout Headquarters, 32 Church street or may be purchased from members of the Winchester Committee of Scouters. The lecture will begin at 7:45 p. m. in the high school auditorium and will be given for the benefit of the Winchester Boy Scouts Council.

Scout Exhibition and Show

The third annual Scout exposition and show of the Fells and Council, B. S. A. will be held Dec. 1 in the Tufts College indoor baseball cage. The exposition this year will be built around an "Archway of Scouting," which includes the 12 Scout laws, the oath, and the three principals of Scouting. Scout troops are urged to plan on using three booths for their own projects and to plan on at least two demonstrations for the middle of the arena.

Mr. Robert Sproul is general chairman of the exposition this year and has appointed a very active committee of men to assist him. Tickets will be printed and in the hands of Scoutmasters by next Wednesday. Scouts are urged to do a good job on this, as it is the best way by which the Council can show the public just what Scouting is doing for all Scouts.

Troop 1 News

Having been present at four regular meetings of the troop and having passed all of the Tenderfoot requirements, Charles Bacon and Frank Marchella were unanimously elected to membership in Troop 1 on Monday evening.

The evening was spent in acquainting the troop with Government maps with instruction in reading them. Practice in drawing scale maps from field notes occupied the remaining time.

Mr. Edward Grosvenor called at the meeting to remind the Scouts of Dr. Tozier's lecture and moving pictures, "Nature Scouting With a Camera," which will be shown in the high school auditorium, Saturday evening at 7:45, Nov. 10. Only uniformed Scouts will be admitted free unless they bear a note from their Scoutmaster.

"Adams and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 11.

The Golden Text is: "He that cometh from above is above all: he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth" (John 3:31).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "As for man, his days are as grass: as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth. For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone; and the place thereof shall know it no more" (Psalms 103:15, 16).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Adam, represented in the Scriptures as formed from dust, is an object-lesson for the human mind. The material senses, like Adam, originate in matter and return to dust, are proved non-intelligent. They go out as they came in, for they are still the error, not the truth of being. When it is learned that the spiritual sense, and not the material, conveys the impressions of Mind to man, then being will be understood and found to be harmonious" (p. 214).

THE MOUNT HOLYOKE CLUB OF WINCHESTER

The Winchester Mt. Holyoke Club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Gerald Barrett of Allen road, is sponsoring a series of book talks by Mrs. Alice Dixon Bond, a well known lecturer on books and a recent president of the Mt. Holyoke Club of Boston. The first talk of the series was given at the Mystic School hall last Tuesday afternoon before an enthusiastic group of listeners. Mrs. Bond reviewed H. G. Wells' Autobiography in a most interesting and lively manner.

All who heard her feel now that they have quite a knowledge of this book of 770 pages, but a knowledge which makes them impatient to read more for themselves. She gave a clear idea of Wells' dark and impossible background. As the son of futile people, unsuccessful in even their own humble occupation as servants, he led such a sordid life that it seems miraculous that he should ever be able so to escape from it. At seven his leg was broken in an accident for which a young man felt so responsible that he plied the boy with jellies and chicken and best of all books, which gave him his first insight into the world beyond. Later it was being able to pass first in his school that gave him further opportunity for study. Wells claims that his mind is no better than anyone else's merely he has trained it to serve him well. He leaves the hidden implication that perhaps we have not trained our own as we should. In his Autobiography Wells tries to show why he did various things. In fact, he says, "If you don't want to explore an egoism, don't read the book."

He discusses his unsuccessful marriage and uncontrollable love affair at length but with fairly good taste. He tries to show why he wrote his various novels and discusses what the novel may become. He talks of modern education and recent social development. He expresses his disillusionment with the Russian experiment. Mrs. Bond read at length the much-talked-of passage about his visits to various presidents of the U. S., with its criticism and praise.

He feels that Roosevelt is now on the right track. Wells is the eternal crusader, he belongs to the class known in England as the "God-sakers"—"for God's sake do something about it." If Wells adopts an idea and then finds it impractical, he is able to relinquish that and go on to a new idea.

He is a man no social historian today can ignore, so he is a man with whom we should be as well acquainted as possible and how better than through his Autobiography?

Mrs. William Kugler of Winslow road heads the committee in charge of the Book Talks, assisted by Mrs. James B. Willing, Mrs. Adin Bailey, Mrs. Waldon B. Hersey, Mrs. Howard Morrison, Mrs. Emil Ekern, Mrs. James S. Allen. Mrs. Kugler and Mrs. Barrett are members of the board of the Boston Mt. Holyoke Club thus keeping the local club in close touch with the larger interests of the Boston Club.

HONOR TO WORLD WAR MOTHERS

A most interesting ceremony will take place on Armistice Day, Sunday, Nov. 11, at 10 o'clock in the State House in Boston. Mrs. Mary Gilbody of Winchester, State President of Massachusetts Chapter, World War Mothers of New England, will, with the assistance of John H. McCarthy, Commander of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, unfurl a service flag in honor of mothers of the World War. On Armistice Day and Mothers' Day each year this flag will float from the balcony of the State House. Mrs. Elizabeth McNamara of Cambridge, New England president of the World War Mothers, will pay tribute to all war mothers. Mrs. Frances T. Conlon of Winchester will read a poem on motherhood. Mrs. Gilbody will be attended by a staff representing Gold, Silver and Blue Star Mothers. Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson of Winchester, past State president, will have charge of the exercises. Miss Edna McNamara will sing. The war mothers of Gloucester will be accompanied by Mayor Newell and members of Gloucester Post, A. L. A detail of Marines from the Charlestown Navy Yard will assist, and a bugler from Walpole Post will give the call. All Legion members and war mothers are invited to be present at this outstanding tribute to mothers of those who served in the World War.

High School "Highlights" Column

Senior History Group Present Armistice Assembly

This morning an able group headed by Mrs. Stacy presented an Armistice Day assembly program entitled, "The New Armistice." The theme of this Armistice commemoration program was this: Although conditions at the present time do not seem to indicate that the World accomplished its purpose to make the world a safer place in which to live, we think the nations are becoming more understanding, are beginning to have greater faith in each other. And, a much more advanced peace and greater unselfishness and brotherly understanding than today among nations is possible.

The program was composed of seven talks. Each speaker was introduced by Dorothy Glidden, the assembly chairman.

First, Janet Spencer showed clearly Wilson's aims and motives in negotiating for peach after being forced into the Great War.

Then David Grosvenor in "The Army" showed that it takes more than an army and officers to win a war.

When the chemist begins to invent such deadly weapons as a gas that makes a gas mask worse than useless, one might as well give up, or not have a war. This, and why the horrors of war should be revealed was clearly brought out in "Unveiling the Horrors of War," by Richard Leghorn.

Who pays for war and what the money goes for in the first place was definitely defined by Albert Gaum in his article entitled, "The Cost of War."

This was followed by a story, "Christ of the Andes" told by Phyllis Hartwell. The story takes place in South America and shows how a few years ago almost certain war between the Argentine Republic and Chili was averted by arbitration.

A poem and editorial completed the morning exercises. The bit of verse was "Song of the New World," by Angela Morgan, who has written many cheerful and optimistic poems. This was read by Betty Hayes. The editorial, supposedly clipped from a Boston newspaper on "Nov. 11, 1968," by Nancy Hall was an imaginative prophecy of the political conditions existing in the world in about 35 years from now, on the 50th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice.

War songs were played by a small student group composed of Dorothy Kleeb, piano; Robert Botten, trombone; Norman Clark, trumpet.

The assembly was closed by a short summary by the chairman followed by the singing by the student body of the first verse of the Star Spangled Banner.

Cast Selected for Junior-Senior Class Play

Imagine what a predicament one would be in if he swore, with all his faith involved, that he would tell nothing but the truth for a given period of time, despite the difficulties and embarrassments he would encounter by such a promise! This is the theme upon which the plot of "Nothing But the Truth," the coming Junior-Senior class play, is developed.

This play, by James Montgomery, has been, and still is, very popular and successful.

Mr. John Hines is with us again as director and coach. At present he is nursing a sprained ankle, but this seems to have no effect on his directing, and upon his portrayal of the various character parts in the play for the benefit of the cast.

The cast has been chosen after very difficult hours of tryouts by the dramatically-minded juniors and seniors, a cast which Mr. Hines believes will click effectively in the production of the play. Marry Worthen, who was the only junior in last year's production, "Laugh That Off," has been chosen for the lead in this year's play.

The cast is as follows:

Robert Bennett	Robert Botten
Gwendolyn Ralston	Mary Worthen
Dick Donnelly	Robert Higgins
E. M. Ralston	Norman Clarke
Mrs. E. M. Ralston	Mary Hall
Chauncy Van Dyson	Clifford MacDonald
Bishop Doran	George Billman
Ethel Clark	Muriel Little
Mabel Jackson	Phyllis Hartwell
Sable Jackson	Evelyn Covey
Martha	Colette Gaffney

The play will be produced on Friday, Dec. 7, in the High School auditorium. You won't want to miss "Nothing But the Truth" for more than one reason.

Try-outs for "Pinafore" Under Way—Production Set for January—Dramatic Club Urges Support

An adaptation of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore" is the first project to be undertaken by the Dramatic Society this year. "Pinafore" is a musical comedy. Its theme is based on the love of a lass for a sea-going sailor. Besides the interesting and amusing speaking parts in the play, there is to be a chorus. The tryouts, being held this week, will determine whether or not there is enough interest in this project by the members of the society. As the play will not be produced until some time in January, students who at present are busy with sports or other activities will have ample opportunity to take part in this production.

This project is being held to give a chance to every member of the society to do what he most desires. This gives to those, who perhaps would not otherwise have the opportunity, the chance to show ability in one of the many parts a production of this sort offers.

Sophomores and Seniors Win at Lexington—Junior Team Tied

Last week the first teams of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes went to Lexington to play the class teams of that school.

Julia Luongo, snappy right inner was in action every minute and scored the one and only goal for the Sophomore team, who prevented their opponents from scoring at all.

The Juniors didn't play an outstanding game, yet held the Lexington Juniors in a scoreless tie. They played both the offensive and defensive throughout the game, and both teams scrapped to the end.

Dribbling right down the field during the first three minutes of play, "Pussy" Danforth made the goal for the Senior team. Credit is also due to Eleanor McHugh and to Antoinette Tarquine, who were on the spot every minute. The Lexington goal was seriously threatened throughout the game, and only once did the Senior fullbacks have to fight hard to hold their opponents in check.

Flash! The Fall Tennis Tournament has been postponed until next spring because of the cold weather.

Flash! The Seniors were defeated by the Sophomore class team this week. Scrappy Julia Luongo made two of the goals.

Flash! The Lexington hockey game was postponed until Nov. 21.

Class Dramatics Well Under Way

During the past two weeks the members of Mr. Keeney's College English classes have been very busy with their play productions. Wild-eyed Junior students have been scurrying about the halls searching for the missing link in an almost complete cast, in order to begin rehearsals.

Three plays have already been given. The first was "On Vengeance Height," produced by William Gray of the second period class. Next "The Wedding" was presented under the direction of Jean Wilson. Everyone agreed that "Eddie" Logan and Ruth Trott were perfect for the leading parts.

Elaine Groves and her group presented "Two Crooks and a Lady," with Elaine starred as the lady, and John Scully and Nancy Snyder as the crooks. Instead of "running away with the ball," John attempted doing the same with some jewels, for which he was shot in his tracks.

Yesterday, another group gave "The Valiant." Kirby Thwing, Barbara Tead, William Gray and Dana Philbrick took the leads. This was under the direction of Gertrude Harwood. A fourth period group will do this play again later in the month with Dean Carleton superintending.

Big Afternoon Dance Held in Gym Sponsored by Highlights

Last Monday the school newspaper sponsored an afternoon dance in the gymnasium. These are always very successful and this one especially so, as there was the added feature of a floor show. This comprised a song and dance by Lester Gustin, the same by Dorothy Goodhue, and two specialty tap dances by Harriet Pillsington.

"Bull" Pitts' orchestra furnished the music which started at about 3 o'clock and played steadily until 5 o'clock. This is the longest afternoon dance yet put on and for this reason was more enjoyable to the large crowd which attended.

The purpose of this dance was to aid the financing of the Highlights, and with the admission charge of 15c a piece or 25c a couple, a very good profit was assured.

A. A. Plans Evening Dance After Maynard Game

The A. A. Social Committee is laying important plans for a large evening dance to be held after the football game with Maynard, on Nov. 17, at 8 o'clock in the gymnasium. The admission price will be 75c a couple or 65c stag, and tickets may be obtained from home-room representatives. One of each couple must be a member of the Winchester High School.

The committee has secured new and especially fine music, in the Harvard Gold Coin: Orchestra. It also promises a lavishly decorated hall and enticing refreshments. This will certainly be a social event of great importance in the school year, and one you should not miss.

W. H. S. Red Cross Participating in Pageant

The Red Cross is to take part in a pageant in the auditorium on Nov. 9, in the evening given by the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross. This pageant is to show us all the phases of Red Cross work that are carried on here in the High School, and should prove most interesting, particularly to those who aren't quite sure of what our Red Cross accomplishes.

David Grosvenor, Priscilla Danforth, Colette Gaffney and William Smith will execute the plans.

Negative Team Win Debate—Lester Gustin Chosen as Best Debater

An assembly which excited much interest among the student body was held Wednesday, Oct. 31, in the form of a debate presented by Mr. Graves' Problems of Democracy Class.

Joseph McNally, as chairman, read the four letters printed below, written to the debators by Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, David I. Walsh, Robert M. Washburn and Gaspar G. Bacon, before he presented the resolution of the debate: Resolved, That the American People should elect National and State officials Pledged to support the New Deal.

Albert Thorne, the first speaker for the affirmative side, pointed out the rash unkept promises of the Hoover Administration. Lester Gustin, upholding the negative side, outlined the discrepancies of the New Deal. Gertrude Kelly next took the floor and was followed by Edward Sherburne the second negative speaker, the affirmative side assailing the administration of the Republicans, and the negative speaker that of the New Dealers. Susan McGonigle spoke next on the merits of James M. Curley, while Dudley Bragdon for the negative team tried to break them down. A three piece orchestra played for five minutes, the time allotted for the preparation of a rebuttal.

Lester Gustin took the floor in an effort to convert his opponents, not merely silence them. Susan McGonigle giving the last argument for the affirmative with much eloquence, stated that Massachusetts did not want a diet of Bacon and Haigis (eggs).

Mr. Cotton, Mr. Keeney and Mr. Hayward, the judges, selected the negative side for the winner; Lester Gustin securing two votes for the ahlest speaker and Susan McGonigle receiving one.

Questions were frequently employed for the purpose of leading the opponent into a dilemma, but each speaker was exceptionally capable.

The platform was very impressive, being decorated with many different political posters. In the course of the debate a poster of a prominent politician's leader fell face down on the floor, only to be followed by the crumbling of the N. R. A. sign from its appointed place among the decorations, to the thorough delight and whole-hearted applause of the spectators but to the mystification of the speaker.

The letters received by members of the Problems of Democracy Class follow:

My dear Mr. McNally:

It is a real pleasure to send a greeting to the "Problems of Democracy" class of the Winchester High School. I only wish my other engagements permitted me to hear your debate on the 31st.

In these troubled times, it is most important that every American should be thinking and debating about our problems. Nothing is more needed than to stimulate public thought, and intelligent discussion. Our problems can be helped only by thinking them through, not by emotion or stirring up of feeling. Calm discussion is essential.

I am delighted the Winchester High School is doing its part in holding such debates. More power to you all.

Yours very sincerely,

My dear Mr. Thorne:

I am pleased to know that your "Problems of Democracy" class is to hold a debate before the student body of the High School.

It is pleasing to know that you and fellow students are interested in the problems of Democracy and that important governmental matters are being studied and debated.

Let me congratulate your group upon their efforts to enlighten themselves and their fellow students!

Sincerely yours,

My dear Mr. Gustin:

Am glad to send you this short message for your debate, as by your request, that, to be skilled in debate, to think quickly and effectively on the platform, is a great accomplishment.

Yours truly,

Mr. Edward R. Sherburne, Jr.
Winchester High School
Winchester, Mass.

My dear Mr. Sherburne:

During the past two or three weeks of the political campaign it has been impossible for me to keep up with my correspondence, which accounts for the delay in my answering your letter of Oct. 5.

Let me congratulate you and your fellow students of the "Problems of Democracy" class for the interest you are showing in governmental affairs. There never has been a time in the history of the country when there was greater need than at present for the youth of America to seek solutions to the many problems that now confront all of us, and to accept the challenge of the future. In your hands lies the destiny of our nation and our democratic form of government. We are face to face with many new ideas, and new political and economic philosophies and new systems of government.

Whether our democratic form of government is to survive unchanged or only in part is the decision which the generation now reaching manhood and womanhood must make. Free and open discussion of all governmental problems is the best way I know to reach sound, well-founded, and unbiased opinions on which to base your judgment of democracy and the part it will play in the future.

Sincerely yours,
Gaspar G. Bacon

EPIPHANY CHURCH NOTES

Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill will be the preacher at the 11 o'clock service in the Church of the Epiphany on Armistice Sunday morning, Nov. 11. All are urged to be present to welcome Bishop Sherrill and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to hear this distinguished churchman.

At the Tuesday luncheon to be held at 12:30 in the parish house the speaker is to be Rev. Barrett P. Tyler of Ethete, Wyoming, who has a message of much interest.

The study class for women of the parish will begin on Friday, Nov. 16 at 10:15 o'clock in the parish house with Mrs. William C. Sache as leader.

CALUMET CLUB BRIDGE

The first of the series of Contract Bridge duplicates was held at the Calumet Club Tuesday evening, Nov. 6. Top scores were Dr. Allan Cunningham and Mr. H. Y. Bruno, 1st; Mrs. William Davis and Mrs. Wallace Flanders, 2nd; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Lane, 3rd.

These duplicates will be held every Tuesday evening at 8. Members are invited to attend and bring guests. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Marjorie French of 108 Highland avenue returned from New York last Saturday where she had been visiting her brother, "Art."

PING PONG TEAMS GET GOOD START

Last Monday evening the opening matches were played in the Metropolitan Boston Ping Pong League. The Winchester team playing in the B League entertained the strong Cambridge Ping Pong Club team at the Calumet Club. The Cambridge team strengthened by two new men, presented one of the strongest teams that Winchester will meet this year. Playing in mid season form, Winchester took the match by the surprising score of 7—3.

The Winchester team playing in the C League journeyed to Dedham, a new comer in the League this year. As both teams were playing their first league matches, Winchester did exceptionally well and dropped only one point, the final score being Winchester 9, Dedham 1.

Next week on account of the holiday, the matches will be played on Tuesday. The C team will play at home against the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. and the B team travels to the N. E. Mutual Ins. Co., a newcomer to the league this year.

Schedules are being drawn up for the town league and play will start next week. There are already two leagues of eight teams each and a third is being formed. Anyone interested in playing, please notify James Riley, Win. 0823-M or Paul Eaton, Win. 2275.

Mr. and Mrs. Evander French of 108 Highland avenue entertained a few friends at bridge on Wednesday evening. Among the guests included Miss Dorothy Rockwell and Mr. Larry Monroe, both of Medford.

SAFETY CHAPTER, D. A. R.

Safety Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met on Tuesday, Oct. 30 at the home of Mrs. Sewall E. Newman on Cliff street. Mrs. Church, a representative of the Cross-more School in North Carolina, one of the schools approved by the D. A. R. was the speaker, taking as her subject the work of the mountaineers. Tea was served.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Last Friday evening the police were notified that a street sign at the corner of Dix street and Glengarry had been broken off at the base by a gang of boys. The same boys had been previously complained of for creating a disturbance at the First Congregational Church. Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell made careful search of the West Side but was unable to locate the boys.

Prompt action by members of the Police Department last Saturday morning resulted in making a local dog owner very happy. Mrs. Gertrude Petrie, proprietor of Peterie's Bakery on Main street, brought her toy Boston terrier, "Little Pup" with her when she opened her establishment on that morning. The dog, a handsome little animal, wandered away from the shop and followed a lady through the common toward the West Side. As soon as Mrs. Petrie missed her she communicated with the Police and a cruising car went out for a look around. Judicious questioning traced the dog to a home on Norwood street where the lady whom the animal had followed, though loth to part from her, was pleased to return her to her anxious owner.

Pre-eminently the Red Cross believes in people. It sees them at their finest and best, in the times of tragedy when human nature rises to its highest level of unselfishness and endurance. Because of this contact the Red Cross waits and works for the time when people will be as generous all the time as they are some of the time.

Have you sentenced your Daughter to
YEARS OF HARD LABOR?

The New General Electric Dishwasher washes all the dishes hygienically clean in 5 minutes for less than 1½c a day!

There is a size and model G-E Dishwasher for every home.

ALL through life—from childhood to old age—the drudgery of the dishpan has overshadowed the lives of millions of women. Joyous, carefree hours of childhood, happy bouyant hours of girlhood are daily drowned in the murky depths of greasy dishwater.

Dishes—dishes—dishes! It's a daily routine of deadly monotony that ages the child and the wife all too soon. Don't start your daughter off on a lifetime task of drudgery that is now so unnecessary. Teach her to preserve her charm and youth—to enjoy the golden hours of freedom this age of electrical living makes so easy.

For years scientists and engineers have worked to abolish the time-consuming unsanitary method of "doing the dishes". The first mechanical dishwashers—crude and undependable as they were—proved a big advance over the old-fashioned hand methods. Now, General Electric has perfected this new electric service. All the dishes—chinaware, glassware, silverware, pots and pans too—are placed in soft rubber trays as quickly and easily as in a sink. The magic control is turned and in less than 5 minutes the dishes are hygienically clean. No chipping, no breaking. The General Electric Dishwasher even cleans and dries itself—human hands never even touch dishwater!

See this newest electric home servant demonstrated at our display rooms—and learn how easy it is to finance the modernization of your kitchen under the new National Housing Act.

LITTLE THEATER GROUP PRESENTED "THE MIDDLE WATCH"

The Parish Players of the First Congregational Church opened their ninth season in "The Little Theater Beneath a Spire" last Friday evening when a near capacity audience attended their presentation of "The Middle Watch," a three-act comedy-romance of the British Navy by Ian Hay and Stephen King-Hall. Following is the cast, named in order of appearance, and the synopsis:

Marine Ogg ..... Oscar W. Crowers
Ah Fong ..... T. Parker Clarke
Captain Randall, Royal Marines ..... Prescott R. Taylor
Fay Eaton ..... Alice L. Howie
A Guest ..... Virginia Emmons
Flag Lieutenant, Royal Navy ..... Edmund A. Merriam, Jr.
Nancy Hewitt ..... Pauline E. Mountain
Commander Baddeley, Royal Navy ..... Richard Caldwell
Charlotte Hopkinson ..... Dorothy M. Wills
Admiral Sir Hercules Hewitt, K.C.B. ..... F. Milne Blanchard
Mary Carlton ..... M. Lenore Thrift
Lady Hewitt ..... Ruth Mallory Smith
An Able Seaman ..... Edward W. Berry, Jr.
Captain Maitland, Royal Navy ..... Samuel M. Graves
Corporal Duckett, Royal Marines ..... Beverley H. B. Smith

The scene is laid on board H. M. S. Falcon, a cruiser on the China Station.

Act 1
Scene 1 The Captain's Lobby. Afternoon.
Scene 2 The Captain's Cabin. Night.
Act 2
The Captain's Lobby. During the middle watch.
Act 3
The Captain's Cabin. Next morning.

As usual care was taken to provide a suitable setting for the performance. Uniformed "jackies" opened the theater doors for the guests and inside, a squad of "jackies" acted as ticket takers and ushers with a group of attractive girls in sailor costume selling candy. Decorations all smacked of the sea and included ships' lights at either side of the stage, ships' bells and authentic pennants and gear.

The play itself was well done and thoroughly enjoyed, the audience at no time being obliged to wonder what it was all about or to deplore the efforts of amateurs attempting parts trying for skilled professional actors. Action was swift, lines clever; situations breath-taking and humorously involved, and the whole show sufficiently funny without resort to slapstick. The morals pointed out were apparently, don't miss the last boat ashore from a British cruiser and don't, if you are a pretty girl, get caught in pajamas and a watch jacket in the captain's lobby by either a British Admiral or his lady.

It looked very bad for Fay Eaton when the boat broke down that was to take her and her chaperon, Mary Carlton, an American actress, ashore from a dinner with her fiance, Captain Randall of the Royal Marines, on board H. M. S. Falcon. To increase the difficulty the Falcon is ordered to steam to the assistance of a sister ship in distress, Admiral Sir Hercules Hewitt, K. C. B., coming aboard to personally keep an eye on things.

Quite a contretemps arose when the Admiral proposed to spend the night in the cabin in which Captain Maitland and Commander Baddeley had placed the girls with Marine Ogg on watch. Despite some very quick work on the part of the Captain and Commander, abetted by Private Ogg, the Admiral discovered the fair guests and promises dismissal for Captain Maitland and the termination of the Commander's engagement with his (the Admiral's) daughter, Nancy.

Meanwhile Mary Carlton with whom Capt. Maitland has fallen in love, sets out to save the ship, and at an opportune moment faints in the arms of the Admiral, leaving all and sundry to believe the worst. To cover himself the Admiral agrees to forget the irregularity of the whole procedure and all is apparently well when Lady Hewitt and Nancy come aboard the ship, discover Fay and Mary and immediately demand a showdown. Nancy believes that her fiance is enamoured of Fay, despite the latter's engagement to Captain Randall, and Lady Hewitt is sure that the Admiral has had an affaire with the pert Mary, his passionate protests to the contrary notwithstanding.

With things pretty much at an impasse Charlotte Hopkinson, spinster chaperone of Fay, who had been inadvertently locked in the instrument room off the captain's lobby at the opening of proceedings, is released and brings the good news from Aix to Ghent by recalling the fact that in her youth Lady Hewitt had participated in just such an adventure as that of Fay and Mary.

The cast in the main was excellent, Miss Thrift and that old favorite, Dr. Blanchard, being outstanding in the roles of Mary Carlton and the Admiral. Miss Thrift did a particularly fine bit of acting as the wise-cracking former actress, being at all times sufficiently hard boiled to be true to type and evincing a nice restraint in her one emotional scene, when in telling of the death of her soldier husband she disclosed for a moment the depths that lay beneath the veneer of sophistication.

Dr. Blanchard was completely at home in the role of the admiral and kept the audience in a continual chuckle with his skillful use of voice and pantomime. He was especially funny when he was routed out of his bunk in watch coat and pongee pajamas to confront Mary Carlton similarly attired.

Mr. Graves did well with the important role of Captain Maitland and for a bachelor displayed a nice discrimination in the matter of choosing suitable raiment for two young women intent upon spending the night on his ship. He did an excellent bit of work in the scene where he stalled desperately for time (with an impatient Admiral waiting to retire) until he could discover in which of two available staterooms Mary and Fay were quartered.

Miss Bowie was an attractive Fay and Mrs. Smith and Miss Mountain did well respectively as the Admiral's wife and daughter. Mrs. Wills and Mr. Clarke contributed some clever character acting in the parts of the spinster aunt and Ah Fong, the Captain's Chinese servant. Equally enjoyable were Mr. Smith and Mr. Crowers, the latter a real veteran of the Little Theater, as those two cockney Marines, Corporal Duckett and Marine Ogg (not Hogg). The corporal's lantern and the marine's family picture got many a laugh throughout the show as did their combined marching and fidelity to "paragraph 3."

Mr. Caldwell made a handsome commander and the remaining parts were well taken by Mr. Taylor, Miss Emmons, Mr. Merriam and Mr. Berry. Sets, costuming and lighting were excellent.

Miss May Thompson and Miss Betty Tucker were in charge of properties, Mrs. Ellouise Graves, of costumes; Miss Elizabeth Adriance was prompter and Mrs. Clarence E. Ordway, in charge of tickets. Clifford Cunningham was the off-stage bugler and stage assistant.

Coffee was served in the foyer between the acts with Mrs. Allan Cunningham and Mrs. Walter Winship as hostesses. The candy girls, directed by Mrs. Clarence P. Whorf, included Marjorie Smith, Ruth Dolben, Rosemary Smith, Betty Sexton, Janet Spencer, Joan Gleason and Betty Whorf. Carl W. Wood was head usher and his corps comprised Kirby Thwing, Harry Miley, George Welsch, David Grosvenor, Donald Tead, Robert Millican, Robert Emmons and Robert Howe.

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS

Armistice observance commenced auspiciously in Winchester last night with the annual turkey banquet of Post 97, American Legion, held at their Washington street headquarters, and an interesting program was announced, culminating in the Armistice Ball, Monday night at the Town Hall.

The banquet, attended by a large number of Legionnaires, was prepared and served by a committee from the Auxiliary Unit, of which Mrs. John E. Hanlon is president. Comdr. John H. McCarthy presided, and after the banquet the members were entertained informally by Edward Carey of Framingham, a disabled veteran who gave anecdotes of war days and veterans affairs.

Tonight, (Friday) members of the Post are assisting with Color Guards, ushers and entertainers at the Red Cross membership rally in the high school auditorium and Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock the Post will attend the Winchester Choral Society Cantata in the First Congregational Church, in memory of Armistice Day.

The legal holiday falls this year on Monday the 12th, and at 11 o'clock in the forenoon a squad in uniform will proceed from the Legion House to the War Memorial in front of the high school, accompanied by Color Guards and Bugler, where a wreath will be placed by Commander McCarthy.

Beginning at 8 o'clock on Monday evening, the closing event of the Legion program will take place in the Town Hall. This will be the annual Armistice Ball, which has grown to be one of the important community gatherings of the winters' season. Last year fully 500 citizens attended and indications point to equal success this year.

A ten piece orchestra will play until 1 o'clock for the dancing and the entire Town Hall will be gaily decorated for the occasion. An innovation this year will be the military drill at 10:45 p. m. by Wollaston Drill Company, State champions, under command of Capt. Otto Von Nostitz. The men will present an intricate sequence of close-order manouevering under arms and attired in dress uniform. At 11 the roll of honor of Winchester deceased veterans will be read and tribute paid to their memory. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening and a general invitation has been extended to the entire community.

Committees for the ball include:

Chairman Patrick T. Foley
Treasurer C. S. Larson
Tickets Kenneth S. Hall, Harry Goodwin, Allan Wilde, Stephen Sullivan, Harold Partridge, John Fitzgerald, John Terry, Kinsman Cass, Richard Parkhurst, Gerald Hills, William Ramsdell, Walter Purcell

EPIPHANY CHURCH NOTES

Mrs. Charles Slattery was the guest speaker at the Tuesday meeting of the Church Service League, Oct. 30, held in the Epiphany Parish House. Mrs. Slattery gave a most interesting talk on the work of the General Convention of the Episcopal Church held in Atlantic City in October.

Rev. Barrett P. Tyler, D.D., warden of St. Michael's Mission, Ethete, Wyo., will speak on his work among the Aranahoe Indians at the Tuesday meeting of the Church Service League of the Parish of the Epiphany, Nov. 13. It is hoped that many will attend this meeting and hear Dr. Tyler's talk.

Monday, Nov. 12, has been set aside as the Day of Prayer for the women of the Episcopal Church throughout the world. There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 9:30 a. m. and the women of the parish and community are asked to come at some time for a short period of prayer and meditation.

An autumn sale was held in the parish house of the Church of the Epiphany Friday, Nov. 2. The halls and parish house were tastefully decorated in the autumn colors with leaves, flowers and crepe paper. The tables were filled with practical, useful and moderately priced articles. Articles for the kitchen and nursery, bridge, fancy work, toys and dolls for the children, Christmas wrappings, home made pies, cakes and cookies, candy, parcel post and white elephants tables. There were two moving picture shows for the children and the ever popular grabs.

A noon day luncheon was served for the workers and guests. Afternoon tea and a cafeteria supper followed.

Mr. John Ordway left last week for Toledo, Ohio, to assume new business duties there. Mrs. Ordway and little daughter Carol, expect to join him at a later date.

WEEK-END PARTIES

The second of the season's dinner-dances at the Winchester Country Club took place at a fortunate date, last Saturday evening, after the Harvard Princeton football game. There were many out-of-town guests in Winchester over the week-end, consequently many after-the-game gatherings and dinner parties, most of whom went to the club for dancing during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr. of Fernway held open house in honor of their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. William Jewett of Barrington, R. I.; Mr. William Ridgway of Montclair, N. J., and Mr. Norvell Samuels of Princeton, N. J. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Clarke, Dr. and Mrs. Hollister Olmsted, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowes, Mr. and Mrs. John Kenerson, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moffat, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Cutler Downer, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Dunnell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pierce, Miss Helen Downer, Mr. Earl Day, Mrs. John R. Ordway, Dr. George Marks, Miss Edith Angell, Dr. and Mrs. Dye of Wolfeboro, N. H. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wooley.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hart of Fellsdale Close entertained at dinner in honor of Mr. Hart's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. S. Collier Hoagland of Orange, N. J. Among the guest were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Neiley, Dr. Gove and Mrs. Bankhart, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bonfield of this town, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Smiley of Hingham, Miss Mary Bird and Mr. Albert Sise of Boston, Mr. John Gage of Montclair, N. J. and Mr. David Proudfitt of Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer B. Slocum of Highland avenue gave a dinner party in honor of their week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Leh of Allentown, Pa. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. Craig Greiner, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Weil, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brinkerhoff, Miss Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Jamison Slocum, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Craven, Miss Mildred Davis and Mr. Claude Davis of Framingham.

The excellent dinner at the Country Club attracted many, Mr. Bowler having reported to have served about 120 people. One party included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bostwick, Mr. and Mrs. George Black, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bostwick, Mr. and Mrs. Lesky Tucker and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nelson of Boston. Another party consisted of Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Chick of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bruno, Mr. and Mrs. Gross, Mrs. Lynch and Mr. Rex Mowry.

Others at dinner were Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Ordway, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Chamberlin, Dr. and Mrs. F. N. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. P. Stewart Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pond, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rooney, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bugbee, Mr and Mrs. Percy Bugbee, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Freeburn, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stone and Mr. and Mrs. E. Arthur Tutein, Jr.

Many came for dancing during the evening, including Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Badger, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Loring Gleason, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pike, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. John Kenerson, Mr. and Mrs. George Donaldson, Mr. Robert Jennings and Miss Barbara Wentworth, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woolley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grath, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Phenix, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Ordway, Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Neiley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Browning and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Allen.

Dr. and Mrs. Hollister Olmsted of Lewis road entertained at luncheon Sunday noon several out-of-town people who were guests in Winchester over the week-end, Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Sr. and Miss Margaret Righter of Princeton, N. J., Mr. Samuel Loveland of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. William Jewett of Barrington, R. I. and Mr. William Ridgway of Montclair, N. J., also Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Cutler Downer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clarke and Mrs. John Ordway of this town.

These people were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cutler Downer of Sheffield road at supper Sunday night, others including Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr.

IN MEMORIAM

To the Editor of the Star:

I believe the inhabitants of the Town of Winchester have lost a faithful servant in the demise of Charles E. Kendall. He was the Father, so to speak, of the reforestation of our beautiful reservoirs. He presented to the Town practically all of his time in recent years to the development of Winchester that he loved so well.

I assure you that it was a pleasure to know Charles E. Kendall for more than half a century. May he rest in peace.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

GEORGE WASHINGTON-HIGHLAND MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The Mothers' Association will meet at the George Washington School on Wednesday, Nov. 21 at 2:30 p. m. Miss Elizabeth Swett will speak on "Better Radio Programs for Children." There will be music and tea will be served.

BELMONT TRIPPED WINCHESTER

Touchdown on Questionable Play Decided Game

Winchester's championship aspirations received their second jolt last Saturday afternoon when the local high school eleven was set back, 6 to 0, by Belmont High in a Middlesex League football game at Belmont. Coach Mansfield's charges never did quite recover from a bad break soon after the opening whistle which resulted in the game's lone touchdown, the legality of which is very much open to question.

Provinzano kicked off for Winchester and Sarafian got back to his 40. Capt. Jack Hanlon dropped Sarafian for a three yard loss on an end sweep and Belmont kicked. Provinzano, after apparently believing Grosvenor was going to take the pigskin, tried to make a running catch and dropped the ball which was recovered by Belmont just outside the Winchester 10.

Sarafian made five and then one yard, after which Kiernan skirted end for a first down less than two yards from the local goal line. The fighting local line stopped Aldrich dead on a trust inside guard and on the next play Sarafian fumbled and Winchester recovered, Cimina getting off a pretty kick from behind his goal line to Kiernan who was dropped by Thwing and Bairstow on the 30.

Sarafian got three yards off tackle and on the next play, started from orthodox running formation, tossed off a short forward out to the left to Kiernan who ran for a touchdown, Cimina being fooled on the play. Coach Mansfield and Captain Hanlon protested that the pass was not made from the prescribed five yards behind the line of scrimmage and as Sarafian went forward a long step or so to make the pass there is no doubt that their protest was justified. The play caught Winchester flatfooted and evidently fooled the officials also for Referee Lynch failed to mark the spot where the pass was thrown (which would have settled all controversy) and refused to entertain Winchester's protest, allowing the touchdown to stand.

It was a tough break for the locals and recalled Arlington's second touchdown which Winchester followers will always believe was outside the rules. The officials, just as at Arlington, evidently realized their mistake, for succeeding passes such as the one on which the score was made were not allowed. The damage however, had been done and the feeling that they had been the victims of an illegitimate play didn't help Winchester's morale any. The locals waged the fight that they did during the remainder of the contest is entirely to their credit, and their showing was better than against Concord the previous week.

Sarafian's try for placement goal was blocked by the whole Winchester line, and Belmont recovered its purposely short kickoff as it bounced off big Ivor Olson, directly into a Belmont player's arms.

From then until the close of the opening quarter play was in Winchester's territory, but with the beginning of the new period the locals held for downs on their 30. Grosvenor got five yards outside tackle and Provinzano made it first down at Winchester's 43. Provinzano rushed twice for six yards and then shot off a pretty pass to Millyan who was knocked off balance and fell at Belmont's 38 with a clear field for a touchdown.

Here the local running game bogged and on fourth down Provinzano passed once more to Millyan who again lost his balance in making the catch at the 23 with another great chance for a touchdown. "Frankie" got six and Cimina one before two long passes were grounded and Belmont took the ball on downs.

Winchester stopped the Belmont carriers and Aldrich kicked short, Cimina muffed an attempted shoe string catch and Belmont recovering. With Sarafian doing the bulk of the carrying, Belmont rushed to Winchester's 29 as the half ended.

After half time neither team threatened until toward the close of the third quarter when Winchester broke up a Belmont passing barrage and took the ball on downs at its 25.

Grosvenor was dropped for a two yard loss, but on the next play, Provinzano got loose for a pretty gallop to the Winchester 39, all but getting away cleanly.

Shortly after the opening of the final quarter, Provinzano shot off a pretty pass to Josephson who made a corking completion on the Belmont 35. End around plays by Josephson and Millyan made another first down, but here a bad pass from center lost 10. A long pass was batted down but Belmont was penalized on the play for roughing the passer and Winchester had another chance.

Provinzano faded back and shot off a long pass to Josephson who was dropped on the Belmont four yard line and it looked like a score for Winchester. Aldrich went to within a foot of the goal line on a power play, but with too many quarterbacks in the excited Winchester huddle, the next play was gummed up and Grosvenor was held without gain. On third down, Provinzano knifed his way across the goal line, but a Winchester player was ruled offside and a five yard penalty was imposed. With the down the same, Provinzano passed short to Millyan, all alone on the Belmont goal line and it was fourth down.

Again a pass was called, this time from a fake buck. The play fooled Belmont and Cimina was in the clear out to the right behind the goal line. Provinzano's pass however, was hurried and went too fast and high for Cimina to cover, falling incomplete in the end zone.

This proved to be Winchester's last chance, though Grosvenor made a pretty run back of a Belmont kick to his 48. A pass, however, was intercepted by Aldrich at midfield and the final whistle blew soon afterward.

For the winning Belmont team, Sarafian was immense and is undoubtedly one of the best all around backs in the schoolboy ranks. Aldrich and Kiernan were also very effective and on the rushline Connors and Wellinger played well. Captain Hanlon of Winchester played a remarkable game in view of his long layoff and injured arm and both Olson and McCormack were effective. Millyan and Josephson looked good on the receiving end of Provinzano's passes.

Belmont made 10 first downs to 8 for Winchester, rushing for 130 yards to 73. The locals gained 80 yards by passing to 30 for their opponents making the total yardage, 160—153 in Belmont's favor. The locals' running game was distinctly not so hot, only three first downs being made in this manner while Belmont rolled up nine. The single first down Belmont made by pass is the one Winchester will always believe should not have been allowed.

PAY TAXES IN INSTALLMENTS

Numerous complaints have been received from taxpayers who say that collectors have refused to allow them the privilege of paying their property taxes in installments. The stand taken by the collectors in such instances is absolutely wrong. By request we reprint the substance of an editorial run in this paper just about a year ago, in which we quoted the highest tax authority in the Commonwealth on this matter.

Chapter 308 of the Acts of 1933 declared operative as of July 1933, that section of Chapter 254 of the Acts of 1933 which has a bearing on this matter. Under the provisions of this Act a taxpayer may offer, and the Collector must accept, a payment of 10 per cent of his total tax. Subsequent payments of 10 per cent of the total tax may be offered and must be accepted. The Collector is NOT required to accept any payment of less than $10, however. Interest must be paid on the total sum due up to and including the date of each payment. Payments made under this law can be paid or tendered to the Collector at any time before a warrant has been issued to enforce collection, or in the case of a tax on real property, at any time before the advertisement for tax sale has been handed to the publisher.

To put it briefly, you can pay current local taxes in not more than ten installments of not less than $10, each, within the period that would elapse before enforced payment. The law is clear. It was passed for the relief of hard-pressed property owners. Last year it afforded a lot of relief in spite of the interest demands and this year it will be doubly welcome, as rates are up in most places and tax bills are larger. If a Collector refuses to accept payments that come within the scope of this law, such cases should be reported at once.—[From Banker & Tradesman of Nov. 3, 1934.

STRAND THEATER MALDEN REOPENS SATURDAY, NOV. 10

On Saturday, Nov. 10, the Strand Theater, Malden, will re-open after having been closed all summer. The newest Western Electric Wide Range equipment for talking pictures has been installed this summer, making the sound at the Strand equal to that of any theater around Boston. The Wide Range gives a much better tone and enables a person to hear higher and lower tones than heretofore and makes normal sounds much more distinct. The policy of the Strand will be the same as that of last year, namely: two features, usually, latest news reel and short subjects. However, there will be a lower scale of admission prices which will be welcome to many. The evening prices will be 35c instead of 40c except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, with children 25c when accompanied by an adult. The admission will be 25c for adults and 10c for children on all matinees including Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The opening double bill will be "The World Moves On" with Franchot Tone, and "Big-Hearted Herbert" with Guy Kibbee and Aline MacMahon. Franchot Tone is co-featured with a new star, the glamorous Madeleine Carroll, and both won the praise of the New York critics and the plaudits of the crowds.

A new stellar team of gay comedians has been found in Aline MacMahon and Guy Kibbee in the novel and hilarious fun film, "Big Hearted Herbert." Warner Brothers have the knack of finding the most unusual themes for comedy material. Certainly the play by Sophie Kerr upon which this picture is based, provided a plot so different from the ordinary as to be outstanding, as well as being one of the most mirth provoking screen vehicles of the year.

Mocking Bird State Favorite

Tennessee, through legislative action, has declared the mocking bird as the official bird emblem of that state and the iris as the official flower.

Athens' First Written Laws

The Draconian Code in the Seventh century, B. C., was Athens' first written code. As nearly every violation of these laws was a capital offense, Demades, the orator, said that "Draco's code was written in blood."

"Our Country, Right or Wrong"

"Our country, right or wrong," is said to have been the toast offered by the distinguished American naval officer, Stephen Decatur, at a banquet in his honor at Norfolk, Va., in 1815. The complete toast was as follows: "Our Country: In her intercourse with foreign nations, may she ever be right; but our country, right or wrong."—Pathfinder Magazine.

BIG RALLY LAST FRIDAY

More than 700 people attended the rally in the town hall last Friday evening, held under the auspices of the Roosevelt-Walsh-Curley Committee, of which Mr. Francis R. Mullin is chairman. An appeal had been made to Democratic, Republican and Independent voters to attend the rally, and those in charge of arrangement stated that voters of all designations were present.

The rally was primarily in the interests of the State Democratic ticket, the speakers urging the election of the candidates in its ranks.

There were but three speakers, James Roosevelt, son of the President; E. Mark Sullivan, a former Republican and formerly corporation counsel for the city of Boston; and Prof. Robert W. Rogers of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who became widely known through his often quoted "snob" speech. Prof. Frank Leslie Simpson of Boston University College of Law was prevented by illness from appearing.

The President's son made a strong plea for the election of both Senator Walsh and Governor Curley, stating that the administration in Washington is solidly behind Democracy in Massachusetts.

Attorney Francis R. Mullin presided and during the rally presented Miss Mary Curley, daughter of the Democratic nominee for Governor, with a handsome bouquet of flowers. Speakers and ushers were attired in evening dress, and music was furnished by an orchestra led by Will Dodge.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Grapefruit and new crop Florida oranges are the outstanding features of this week's market. Both are inexpensive, though grapefruit are relatively cheaper than oranges because their season is further advanced.

Butter is expected to go higher, though eggs are not. Beef and pork are generally a little lower and lamb is a little higher but not enough to put it out of reach of the smaller budget.

The vegetable picture continues about as it has been with only slight increases in the price of certain items such as string beans and cucumbers.

The following menus are made up from the latest market news available.

Low Cost Dinner

Braised Lamb Shanks Potatoes
Mashed Yellow Turnip
Bread and Butter
Vanilla Pudding with Preserves
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Chicken Fricassee Boiled Rice
Carrots and Peas
Bread and Butter
Chocolate Cream Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner

Cranberry and Orange Juice Cocktail
Chicken Pie
Browned Sweet Potatoes
Creamed Onions
Green Salad French Dressing
Hot Rolls and Butter
Jelly Roll
Coffee Milk

UNINJURED AS CAR TIPPED OVER

Two men and a woman escaped injury shortly after 7 o'clock last Sunday night when a Franklin sedan, driven by Robert LeBlanc of 21 Florence street, Somerville, while headed west on Mt. Vernon street near Washington street, skidded and turning completely around, hit the curbing on the north side of the street, tipping over on the grass plot.

Patrolman John E. Hanlon of the Police Department happened to be near the Wadleigh School and hearing the crash, hastened to the scene of the accident. Opening one of the doors of the car he dragged out the occupants, who were beside LeBlanc, Teresa DeStenfano of 221 Howe street, Somerville, and Earl Campbell of 7 Mystic street, that city.

None of the three claimed injuries. The car was badly damaged and was towed to the Central Garage.

WINCHESTER BOY LEADS NEW HAMPSHIRE FRESHMAN ELEVEN

Andrew Lentine, one of Winchester's finest football players and last year captain of both Winchester High School's eleven and the Greater Boston honorary all scholastic team, has been elected to lead the freshman eleven and the Greater Boston honorary all scholastic team, has been elected to lead the freshman eleven of the University of New Hampshire.

"Teenie" has been playing regular center on the Wildcat freshman team and ranked as one of the outstanding men on the club. He is considered varsity material right now, and those who saw his inspired play for Winchester during the past three seasons have no doubt at all of his delivering when the opportunity arises.

NATURE PICTURES TO BENEFIT SCOUTS

On Saturday, Nov. 10, at 7:45 p. m. Dr. Charles H. Tozier, who needs no introduction in Winchester, is going to show moving pictures of animals and birds, at the High School auditorium, for the benefit of the Winchester Boy Scouts. These pictures were taken this last summer in the Canadian Northwest and should be of interest not only to Boy Scouts, but to any lover of outdoor life.

Tickets at 50c and 25c may be had at Hevey's Drug Store or from members of the Winchester District Committee of the Boy Scouts. n2-2t

d'Artagnan

d'Artagnan was an actual historical person. Charles de Baatz de Castlemore, Count d'Artagnan was born in 1611 or 1612 and died in 1673. When the Musketeers were re-established in 1657, he was practically their commander in chief.

THOMSON—DARLING

At the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert A. Johnston, 83 Washington street, Miss Miriam Ekman Darling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Darling of Somerville, was married at 4:30 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, Nov. 3, to Roderick Stuart Thomson of Cambridge, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew E. Thomson. The officiating clergyman was Dr. Frederick Gill, minister emeritus of the First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Arlington.

The ceremony was performed by candlelight in a setting of chrysanthemums and cedar trees. Miss Darling was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Mrs. Johnston, as matron of honor. Miss Joanna Johnston, niece of the bride, acting as flower girl. Dr. Victor H. Carpenter of Boston was Mr. Thomson's best man.

The bride wore heavy ivory brocaded satin, a gown worn by three generations of her family and retaining its original style, with close fitting bodice, full skirt forming a court train and duchess lace bertha. Her long ivory tulle veil was arranged with a cap of duchess lace and her old fashioned bouquet was of bouvardia, sweetheart roses and gardenias.

Mrs. Johnston wore hyacinth blue satin with a hat of fuchsia velvet and carried pansies with Joanna Hill roses. The flower girl's frock was of shell pink mousseline de soie, similar in style to the gown of the bride, and she carried a basket of pink roses.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Johnston home, after which the bride and bridegroom left upon their wedding journey. They will live in Cambridge and will be at home after Dec. 15.

The bride attended the Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School in Boston, and Mr. Thomson is a Harvard man.

RUSSELL BROOK JOB COMPLETED

The town men have now completed the Russell Brook job on upper Main street to the satisfaction of Town Engineer Parker Holbrook who took particular pains to ensure the permanence of the construction and the guarantee of no further trouble from overflow at that point.

The original job done years ago consisted of placing big granite blocks along the sides of the brook, which was neither deep nor wide enough to care for the volume of water in flood time. The rough sides of the stones also served to catch waste dumped into the brook and there was no way to thoroughly clean the bed and sides.

Mr. Holbrook first had the old granite blocks removed and the stream deepened. He then paved the bottom, put in cement form sides and a reinforced concrete roof. The present construction is both large enough to care for extra flows of water and to enable workers to clean out any obstructions that may be caused by dumping refuse into the stream. It will also obviate the overflowing of the brook onto Main street.

The granite blocks taken out of the stream have been taken to Sheridan circle and are being used as a retaining wall at the old gravel pit there.

JUNIOR FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

A special meeting of the Winchester Junior Circle of the Florence Crittenton League was held on Thursday evening, Nov. 1, at the home of Mrs. George Hayward of Everett avenue. Twenty-three members were present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Gretchen E. Stone. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and reports were heard from the various committee chairmen.

Three new members were announced by the membership committee.

The Social Service Committee announced that a special trip to the "Home" would be made on Tuesday evening, Dec. 18, and an entertainment provided.

The Ways and Means Committee chairman, Miss Amy Merrill, announced a profit of $24 from the open house bridge held on Oct. 23.

An announcement was made of the coming Florence Crittenton Bazaar to be held at the Copley Plaza Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 14 and 15. Through the combined efforts of the Winchester, Medford and Wellesley Junior Circles a dance will be held on Thursday evening in the ball room with music provided by Jack Marchard's Orchestra.

At the close of the business meeting Mrs. Vincent P. Clarke, a former president of the Senior Circle and the person most instrumental in forming a Winchester Juniors' grave is most interesting and inspiring talk on Florence Crittenton work and the active part which our circle should take in league work. Our circle is not only for the pleasure which we ourselves derive from our activities, but for the part we must play in giving to and doing for those that need our help.

The guest speaker of the evening was Mrs. James Donovan, secretary of the Volunteer Social Service Bureau. The story of her work and cases proved vitally interesting to her audience and she left us with a feeling of desire to go ahead with our work with greater enthusiasm and determination.

A coffee hour followed at the close of the meeting.

EN KA SOCIETY

The second meeting of En Ka Society was held Nov. 2 at the home of Mrs. C. P. Dow on Main street at 2:15 p. m. with the president, Mrs. John Keyser, presiding.

Mrs. Morris Kerr, chairman of the hospital committee, reported that the En Ka hostesses are working faithfully and well at the hospital and that their service is much appreciated.

Mrs. Guy Howe, chairman of the Civic Committee reported that many useful articles of clothing have already been turned over to the Winchester Welfare Board by her committee. Mrs. Howe further reported that Mrs. Tufts of the Red Cross had asked that some En Ka members take part in the pageant that the Girl Scouts are putting on.

Mrs. E. George Pierce, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, reported that plans for the Street Fair in the spring are expanding rapidly and are meeting with much enthusiasm and approval.

Several recommendations of the board to the Society were read by the secretary. All of these recommendations were acted upon and accepted. Of particular interest is the change of policy of the Society in taking in new members.

After the adjournment of the business meeting a social hour with tea was enjoyed.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

It takes two Winchesterites to make a bargain, but just one to make the money.

Lots of girl here in fair Winchester look good enough to eat—and they do eat, plenty, too.

It is always wise for a fellow to slow up before he runs down.

Winchester is justly proud of its new ambulance—one of the finest of its kind to be found anywhere.

On Nov. 15 all roads here in fair Winchester will lead to Town Hall to see "The Passion Play" under the auspices of Winchester Lodge of Elks. Winchester Elks know how to do things in a big way and that the forthcoming event will be talked about for a long time to come is assured.

More people here in Winchester are sick from wrong thinking than from wrong eating.

According to one Winchester fellow who generally knows whereof he speaks it is much easier to bear the loss of fortune than the loss of hope. A lot of us have found this to be gospel truth.

The heartstrings of fair Winchester. They have a shrine to you and to me. Where all the happy hearted gather. The little family.

A Winchester woman says she never believes everything a man tells her. She did and married him and has lived in absolute ignorance ever since.

How many old timers can recall when every householder had a silver name plate on his front door?

And when we men could not change our tight trousers without removing our shoes first?

A woman usually hits the nail on the head—even if it takes both hands to do it.

There is this much to say for Winchester political candidates—none of them have ever endorsed any particular brand of cigarettes.

Never judge appearances. An old Winchester resident who used to be an editor says that a shabby coat may contain an editor, while the man wearing a tuxedo and yellow kid gloves may be a delinquent subscriber.

Winchester needs and let us hope that Winchester always has as town rulers men who combine the qualities of the engineer with the qualities of the executive.

Berbers' Property Ownership

So unusual is the conception of property ownership among the Berbers that the wealthiest members of society frequently have title to the trunk of a fig tree, while another owns its fruit-bearing branches.

Electrical Storms

The weather bureau says that, so far as is known, no part of the United States is entirely free from electrical storms. However, they are much more frequently observed in the eastern and central portions than in the Far West. Along the immediate Pacific coast thunder storms are comparatively rare.

READY TO CO-OPERATE WITH THE Federal Housing Administration

To Avoid Magnetism

Faraday demonstrated back in 1845 that all substances, even the gases, are either attracted or repelled by a sufficiently powerful magnetic pole. For practical purposes, however, glass, indurated fiber, often called "red fiber," or vulcanized rubber are substances through which the magnetic pull has no effect.

MIDDLESEX LEAGUE A GREAT CIRCUIT

Competition in the Middlesex Football League since it was established three years ago has been so uniformly close and interesting that those who advocated Winchester's withdrawal from the Mystic League to hook up with schools more nearly in its own class have had their judgment more than vindicated.

We know of no league more ideal from the competitive standpoint than the Middlesex circuit which comprises Belmont, Concord, Lexington, Maynard, Stoneham and Winchester. With the possible exception of Belmont these schools are very evenly matched in possibilities for athletics with the result that the supposedly weakest team in the group can and often does defeat the circuit leader, sending the latter tumbling down in the circuit standing. The point we are making is that in case of the league members outclasses the others sufficiently to ensure against losing a game on a distinctly off day. Competition is too close for that.

This year has been a great one for upsets with the result that Lexington, considered one of the weakest teams in the league when Winchester defeated it early in the season, 19 to 0, is now tied with Maynard for first place and last Saturday knocked off the highly touted and undefeated Orange, 6 to 0. Winchester, meanwhile, was upset by Belmont, a club that had not previously won a game and had lost to Lexington, 2 to 0. The locals are now tied with Concord for second place, and can do no better than tie for the circuit championship by defeating Maynard at Maynard next Saturday. In the event of a local win on that date the league title will be decided on Thanksgiving when Lexington plays its annual game with Concord. If Concord wins it will be tied for the title with Winchester. If Lexington is successful it will be the champion, unless Maynard defeats Winchester. If this occurs Maynard will be tied with Lexington for first place, unless Concord wins on Thanksgiving, in which case Maynard will have undisputed claim to the title.

Following is the present standing:

	Won	Lost	Tied	Pct.
Lexington	3	1	0	.750
Maynard	3	1	0	.750
Winchester	3	1	0	.750
Concord	2	1	0	.667
Belmont	1	3	0	.250
Stoneham	0	3	0	.000
Orange	0	3	0	.000

Cast Hard at Work for Junior-Senior Class Play

James Montgomery's "Nothing But the Truth" is the play which is being produced this season under the able coaching of Mr. John Hoes. It is impossible to have rehearsals every day in the week, the days on which rehearsals are held are ones of hard, concentrated, and cooperative work on the part of each member of the cast, the director, the prompter and those people who are in charge of stage scenery and properties.

The play is an extremely amusing comedy in three acts. The consequences which arise when a young man vows he will tell nothing but the truth for a period of 24 hours not only arouse humor, but induce a great deal of sympathy. The honesty of the gentleman is appalling. The truthful things which he comes forth with at times when he should be at least tactful or complimentary, make you think of the times and things which you wish you could say, but haven't had the courage.

You won't want to miss "Nothing But the Truth," on Friday, Dec. 7 at 8:15 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Big Dance After Maynard Game in High School Gym

Tomorrow night is an outstanding one for the high school student, for that is the date set aside for the big fall A. A. dance.

Very important music has been secured in the Harvard Gold Coast orchestra. Since this is strictly a school affair, one member of every couple must belong to the high school.

There will be delicious refreshments served during the evening. Remember the gym at 8 on Saturday evening, Nov. 17.

Science Club Chooses Executive Board

On Wednesday afternoon the Science Club held its second meeting of the year with the new officers of the club presiding. The purpose of this meeting was to choose an executive board. This group of people, nominated and voted for during the meeting, will act as a board of directors in the organization. Their duties will be to give aid and advice in planning future meetings and future expeditions. The members of the executive board are all science students and members of the club who have previously shown interest and enthusiasm in the activities of the organization. The executive board is made up of eight members under the leadership of the four officers of the club. These people are Richard Elliott, president; Richard Leghorn, vice president; Dorothy Glidden, secretary; Eleanor Sharon, treasurer; John Twombly, Ward Albro, John Collins, George Mannin, Edward Batson, Rhoda Elliott, Shoyher Bayhdoyan, Donald Tead.

At the end of the meeting, Richard Elliot and William Burtt set up a balanced aquarium as a demonstrative experiment. The aquarium at present is all balanced except for the fish. We hope that soon someone will give some poor goldfish the opportunity of occupying a really worthwhile domain.

It has been decided that the dues of the Science Club will be 25 cents for the year. Dues are payable to the treasurer of the organization.

The money obtained from these dues will be used to pay for expenses of the club at home and abroad. For you know we hope to have bigger and better trips to points of scientific interest than we had last year.

Celluloid Shorts

Wallace Yee, fourth ranking player in Massachusetts, has a team ready to play the high school. Mr. Yee's smashes are heard rather than seen.

Mutt and Jeff were impersonated in the tournament by the doubles partners, "Eddie" Stone and Lucius Smith.

In the tournament we saw many of the tennis players of the high school. Most of them stroke every shot just as in tennis.

"Bus" Peterson, whose smashes seemed likely to carry him at least to the semi-finals was defeated early in the afternoon by a dark horse, "Bob" Woodford.

Mr. Keeney, when asked why he wasn't out for the faculty Ping Pong team, said that he is no longer an athlete.

Banking Drops to 94 Per Cent on the 13th

The banking for Nov. 13 resulted in nine rooms having 100 per cent, three of these were freshmen, three juniors, and all the senior rooms. The per cent of the school was 94; the lowest it has been this year. Let's do better next week. Sorry to see Room 14 drop to 86 per cent. Rooms 17, 27 and 30 need to exert more effort. These rooms are not up to their usual mark.

Member of W. H. S. Faculty to Broadcast

Next Monday if you by any chance happen to be near a radio and should tune in on Station WAAB at 2:15, you would hear no other than the voice of our own Mr. Alley reaching you from across the air waves. For that is when he is scheduled to speak under the auspices of the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital.

His topic is in the interests of health and will partially cover the subject of vitamins occuring in minute quantities in certain foods, what diseases the absence of them will cause, etc.

These talks are more or less frequent and cover the field of medicine very thoroughly. Authorities on the various subjects, such as cancer and diabetes, have given and will give talks similar to that for which Mr. Alley is dated.

Mr. Alley states that these broadcasts will not be too technical and is designed to be understandable to the average person.

It certainly is interesting to us and creditable to the school that one of our faculty is so well versed in his own field that he has been asked to speak of it to a large radio audience.

Ambitious Debaters Organize

The newly formed debating club is making rapid strides toward becoming another of the many important extra-curricular activities in the school. With Mr. Graves superintending, the debaters-to-be held a meeting in Room 24, where officers and representatives were elected. Lester Gustin is president; Edward Sherburne, vice president; and Susan McGonigle, secretary. Besides these, each class has two of its interested members as representatives. These are, Russell Ellis and Jack Fancer, freshmen; Elbridge Davis and John Downs, sophomores; Dudley Bragdon and Mara McDonald, juniors; and Richard Elliot and Edward Sherburne, seniors. These people will meet with the officers and lay plans for the future. If anyone has any suggestions to offer, he will give them to one of his class representatives.

Fifty Boys and Girls Participated in Ping Pong Tournament

Last week 50 players competed in the Ping Pong Club's preliminary tournament. This turnout was large and unexpected, considering that the season has just started; and the interest shown leads the club officers to anticipate a very successful season.

"Dick" Leghorn, after defeating "Wally" Snow in the semi-finals, smashed out a victory over "Eddie" Stone, the other finalist, 21—13, 21—14, 21—18. There was more interest than expected in the girls' singles, where June Eaton out-steadied Barbara Marchant in the finals 20—22, 21—18, 21—17. In the men's doubles, "Eddie" Stone and Lucius Smith lost a close match to the Leghorn brothers. Lucius playing with Barbara Marchant in the mixed doubles again had tough luck in the finals, when they lost to June Eaton and "Dick" Leghorn.

The four players to reach the semi-finals, "Dick" Leghorn, "Wally" Snow, Eddie Stone and "Ken" Leghorn, will meet the faculty next week to warm up for the out-of-town matches. Both teams are confident of victory, and it looks as if they might split five-all. But from Mr. Alley, Mr. Butters, Mr. Grindle, Mr. Bartlett, Mr. Graves, Mr. Cotton and Mr. Hayward, a dangerous team can be put together and they might be called slight favorites. However, the match will be well-worth seeing.

Letters have already been sent to neighboring high schools in an effort to start a Ping-Pong League. There has been, so far, a favorable response.

The Ping-Pong ladder is already in existence. This ladder is an informal means of competition, and it has aroused considerable interest.

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

Winter is here—drab and cheerless. Naturally we are turning to indoor sports and club activities. Our social hour, with lunch and games plus a mystery prize, still continues after every business session and members are urged to attend.

A large delegation from the Club attended the Elks' charity event on Thursday evening. The pictures of the Passion Play were well worth seeing and served, at least, to take our minds off of some of the bitter and senseless criticism of the "New Deal" that has been peddled out to us recently. After all, times have not changed greatly since the Supreme Sacrifice. We are still ready to persecute anyone who labors for a new ideal—the welfare of the common people.

A propos of charity, the big club event is scheduled for Monday evening, Nov. 26, in Lyceum Hall. A turkey bridge and whist party, open to the general public, is to be staged at 8 o'clock. Needless to say, the G. P. will get its money's worth in prizes. The first prizes for bridge and whist high scores will be turkeys. Also a turkey is offered on subscriptions. Chairman of Entertainment Mrs. Minnie A. O'Neill has charge of the tickets, Financial Secretary Mrs. Esther C. McCarthy has charge of the prizes, and Secretary Frances Sullivan has charge of subscriptions and is being assisted by Sisters Margaret Sullivan, Margaret F. Flanders and Emily A. Scholl. Every member of the club is urged to assist at this affair.

At the business meeting on Wednesday evening a session of sorrow was held for our deceased sister, Lillian S. Nicholson.

The first Supreme Meeting of the season will be held on Monday, Nov. 19, at 1 p. m at Hotel Westminster, Boston. Mrs. John Clark, supreme president, will announce her appointive officers at this time. All presidents and past presidents of subordinate clubs are urged to attend.

LEGION AUXILIARY NOTES

The American Legion Auxiliary will conduct a turkey whist Monday evening, Nov. 19 at the Legion house. Mrs. Nora O'Melia and Mrs. Elizabeth Moynihan are joint chairmen assisted by Mrs. Blanche Bennett and Miss Elizabeth Fitzgerald.

The County Council meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held in the Woburn High School auditorium Saturday afternoon, Nov. 24 Luncheon at 1 p m. All members are urged to attend.

RODGERS—BODMAN

Miss Priscilla May Bodman, daughter of Mr. John Whittlesey Bodman of Wedgemere avenue, and John Ashmead Rodgers, son of Mrs. Harry Mix Hooker and the late Ashmead Grey Rodgers of Rye, N. Y., were married Saturday evening, Nov. 10, at 8 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany by the rector, Rev. Dwight W. Hadley. The ceremony took place by candle light in a setting of cedar trees, chrysanthemums and ferns. Mr. Bodman gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. Richard Wilder of Cambridge, the former Mary Armstrong, was Miss Bodman's honor attendant and the bridesmaids were Miss Nathalie Rodgers of Rye, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom; Miss Aileen O'Brien of Gardner, a college classmate of the bride; Miss Elizabeth Chadwick and Miss Elinor Whittier Davis, both of Winchester. Miss Mary Eva Bodman, small sister of the bride, was flower girl.

Mr. Rodgers had for his best man Charles Minot Sheafe, 3rd, of New Haven, Conn.; and the corps of ushers included Mr. Wilder, William H. Fitzgerald of Cambridge, and two college classmates of the bridegroom, James M. Champlin of Brookline and Medford J. Brown, Jr. of Merion, Pa.

The bride wore a gown of deep cream satin, trimmed with duchess lace and having a long train. Her long cream veil of tulle was arranged with a simple tulle cap and she carried a bouquet of valley lilies and gardenias.

Mrs. Wilder wore a taffeta gown of autumn brown, with matching braided taffeta coronet, and carried talisman roses. The bridesmaids wore coral reef taffeta, with matching taffeta coronets, and carried token roses. The flower girl carried an old fashioned bouquet with her frock of dusty pink taffeta and like the other attendants, wore a matching coronet of taffeta.

A small reception was held after the ceremony in the church parish house. Upon their return from a wedding journey Mr. Rodgers and his bride will live in Prescott Hall at 472 Broadway, Cambridge, where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

The bride was graduated from Winchester High School and from Skidmore College in the class of 1934. She is a member of Paul Revere Chapter, D. A. R. Mr. Rodgers graduated from Loomis School in 1929 and in 1933 from Williams College where he was a member of Saint Anthony Hall (Delta Psi) Fraternity. He is now studying electrical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The engagement was announced during the past September.

Preceding the marriage, on Friday, Nov. 2, Miss Elizabeth Chadwick gave a dinner party in honor of Miss Bodman at her home on Everett avenue. On Thursday, Nov. 8, Mrs. Richard Wilder gave a bridge and tea at her home in Cambridge, and on Friday evening, Nov. 9, the dinner for the bridal party was held at the Winchester Country Club.

NEW TEA ROOM TO OPEN

Mrs. Gertrude E. Petrie, who has successfully conducted Petrie's Bakery in Winchester for many years, announces the opening on Monday, Nov. 19 of Nan's Tea Room at 531 Main street, her former bakery, which has been completely remodeled and tastefully decorated.

Nan's Tea Room is to serve delicious home cooked food and will offer daily luncheon and supper specials. Its opening special is a full course turkey dinner for 75c and there will be at all times the usual sandwich and luncheon dishes.

Mrs. Petrie announces that she will continue her popular bakery line and invites her friends and patrons to inspect her new tea room on Monday.

PASSION PLAY PICTURES SHOWN UNDER AUSPICES OF ELKS

John Ward, lecturer, presented his 1934 Passion Play pictures last evening in the Town Hall under the auspices of Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E., the lecture replacing the annual Elks' Ball.

Mr. Ward was introduced by Esteemed Leading Knight, Arthur J. Harty, acting Exalted Ruler of the Lodge, and spoke intimately of the great Passion Play that has made the little Bavarian village of Oberammergau a mecca, and of the famous cast that faithfully re-enacts the final scenes of the Saviour's life from his entrance into Jerusalem through his death on Calvary and his resurrection. The pictures illustrating his address were beautifully colored and many of them were shown for the first time.

The lecturer's yearly visits to Oberammergau and his actual life in the homes of members of the cast made his address especially interesting and he inserted many humorous incidents that were most amusing.

Mr. Harty also introduced Esteemed Lecturing Knight Harry McGrath who explained the charitable work being done by the Elks, for which the proceeds of the lecture are to go.

Preceding the lecture Daniel D. McGrath of Revere Lodge sang "Ave Maria," accompanied by Fred H. Strachan, organist of Winchester Lodge. Just preceding the actual Passion Play pictures "Tom" Quinn of Cambridge Lodge, widely known tenor of O'Leary's Irish Minstrels, sang several solos. Mr. Harty was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the lecture.

NOTICE

Winchester Chapter, World War Mothers, will be organized on Monday, Nov. 19, and all mothers of those who served in the World War are invited to meet at the Legion Headquarters at 2:30 p. m.

SWAN GOES INTO REHEARSAL

Group Theater Begins Work on First Production

It is always interesting to attend the first rehearsal of a play—then one gets inklings, quite definite ones too, of what the final production will be; the first groping efforts of the actors is an almost certain indication, not of what their ultimate polish will be but clearly of what their ultimate performance will amount to because in that first rehearsal one is able to observe in undiluted form the quality which is in the last analysis the criterion of good acting—the sensitiveness of the actor to the implications of his part.

For that reason and in view of the promises made by Winchester Group Theater it was unusually interesting to attend the first rehearsal of that organization's first production, held in the home of E. Kenneth Clark last week. That first production, "The Swan," by Molnar, will be given in the High School Auditorium for Group Theater's subscription audience on the evening of Dec. 14. For it the anonymous casting committee had selected what is unquestionably an all-star cast; to it the production committee had summoned a director new to Winchester in the dynamic person of Mrs. Bishop. The observer was interested to note how these starring personalities would react to the direction of Mrs. Bishop, how they would behave in minor parts.

It is a real pleasure to be able to report that this first rehearsal had extraordinary cohesion and impetus. As one observer said afterwards, he would have been pleased to have as good a rehearsal on dress-rehearsal night. This pardonable exaggeration, none the less, accurately depicts the impression every one present must have had.

Mrs. Bishop's methods are new and serious. She started the rehearsal by a brief discussion of the play and then invited every member of the cast to give his or her conception of the person to be portrayed. Discussion then led to some modifications of these conceptions. Following this orientation the cast read through the first and second acts and part of the third, with major business and groupings indicated, and with as much acting in the reading as they could muster. The cohesion and enthusiasm of the group and the fine balancing of the cast was at once evident.

In a sense there are no star roles in this play. Even the small speaking parts have their moments in which they can definitely contribute both to the humor and the development of the play. In the title role of "The Swan," Lucille Townley-Tilson was very evidently cast for the most attractive part she has ever taken as well as the most exacting. Theodore Godwin, the Albert of the piece, has the difficult job of appearing at once an intelligent and witty and a stupid youngish prince, a part that is cut to his measure but which will require his very best efforts. Clifford Cunningham is perfectly cast for Hyacinth, the ex-nobleman priest, a serious and interesting role requiring power and imagination and sympathy. Hersilia Elmer steps from leading straight roles to the part of Beatrice, the mother, perhaps the principal comic role of the play, and gave evidence from the first rehearsal of her versatility and of the brilliance with which she will play the part. Lillian Whitman as Dominica, the queen mother, has another of the important comic parts and in the scenes with Mrs. Elmer the two ladies were from the first remarkably en rapport. Kenneth Caldwell, usually cast in serious roles, also showed his versatility from the beginning in the comic part of Caesar.

Perhaps the most difficult problem the committee had in casting was to supply the parts of the two young boys, the brothers of "The Swan." Here the committee made a ten strike in the selection of two young men from the high school, Richard Sexton and George Manning. These young men, in the presence of many adult actors of reputation, showed no timidity, entered at once into the spirit of the play, and promise to be the hit of the performance.

Space scarcely permits a complete description of a cast which numbers over 20 and discussion of other parts must be left for a later statement. But the quality of the cast can be at once determined when it is realized that in addition to the well-known actors already mentioned the cast includes Martha Kelley, Claire Reynolds, Winifred Nicholas, Doris Hills, Thelma Pitman, Herbert Wadsworth, Jr., Lyndon Burnham, Dermott Townley-Tilson, Edmund Merriam and Forrest Pitman.

At the end of the first rehearsal Mrs. Bishop caused the cast to gasp when she announced that the first act must be learned by next rehearsal, that books would be used only for two or three more rehearsals of any act, and that there would be no prompter. Mrs. Bishop rightly feels that amateurs waste too much rehearsal time by not knowing lines and insists that any organization that wants a finished production must have actors willing to go to work on the lines at the outset. Mrs. Bishop obviously meant business and that the cast took her at her word was evident at the next rehearsal. Make no doubt of it, this production will be a real one.

MERRILL—BARRON

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heber Merrill of Oxford street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jean Merrill to Mr. Ralph Raymond Barron, son of Mrs. Richard Barron, also of Winchester.

Miss Merrill attended the Brimmer School and was graduated from the Amy Sacker School of Design. Mr. Barron was graduated from Dean Academy and attended the University of Vermont.

Scout Lecture a Success

The lecture, "Nature Scouting with a Camera" given by Dr. Chas. H. Tozier for the benefit of the Winchester Boy Scouts was a great success. Scouts from all over the Council, Medford, Stoneham, Burlington, Woburn and Winchester, attended as well as a large number of adults. The Winchester Scouters were a little bit disappointed with the number of Scouts attending due to the fact that this lecture was one most helpful to Scouts. Dr. Tozier emphasized out door life of the birds familiar to all Scouts, as well as new birds, and their surroundings. He used moving pictures and color photography to bring out a better knowledge of the life of our birds and wild animals in the Canadian Northwest. As a whole, it was the most interesting lecture ever conducted for Scout benefit, and one well worth while to adults as well as children.

Camp Gleason

Winchester Scouts conducted a hike to Camp Gleason on Saturday morning, where the Scouts passed various tests, such as cooking, fire lighting and tracking.

Good Turn

About 12 Scouts from Winchester were called upon to aid in the search of a cow which had gotten out of its pasture on Saturday morning. The Scouts met at the home of Carl Wood on High street to help a group of men trying to find the cow, which was a very valuable one. The boys and men searched all day on this "good turn."

Scout Tests

It has been noticed that the Scouts are working very hard this fall passing tests on advanced Scouting at the Winchester Scout Headquarters South Border road every Tuesday and Thursday. Scouts are urged to continue the good work on advancement.

Lost Articles

There are a number of articles such as raincoats, towels, stockings, etc. which were left at the summer camp in Amesbury this past summer and which have never been claimed. Most of these articles belong to Cubs and do not bear any name or initials inside of them. They may be had by calling at the Scout Headquarters on South Border road either Tuesday afternoon or Thursday evening.

Troop 1 News

The attendance at the meeting on Monday, Nov. 12 was poor probably due to the fact that rumors were spread to the effect that there would be no meeting on that date and on account of a misunderstanding in a notice which was read.

The troop started the meeting by renewing the pledge to the flag. Signalling was practiced, both Morse and Semaphore, codes. News of a grant of land given to the Scouts for their purpose was received with much joy as Scouts have been looking forward to having a tract of land for their own use for quite some time.

The standings in the inter-patrol contests remain relatively the same, as follows: Beaver Patrol, 1st, with 152 points; Silver Fox patrol, 2nd, 81 points; Panther patrol 3rd, 14 points; Stag patrol, 4th, 13 points.

More action you trailing patrols.

Scout Exposition

With the Scout Exposition and show only a few weeks away, Scout troops as well as Scouters, are working very hard to make this show a success. There will be approximately 60 booths in addition to numerous demonstrations. The demonstrations this year will be in the form of an archway, forming the "archway of Scouting." This is a new idea, and it is hoped that it will be worked out to perfection. From every point of view, the 1934 Scout Exposition is going to exceed that of last year. Scouts and the Scouters throughout the entire Council are keenly interested in the show as well as eager to make it a success so that the general public may be informed of just what Scouting is doing for boys.

Some of the highlights of this year's show are as follows. The booths will be of plain stripping and each booth will be decorated differently by the troop occupying it, this making a more interesting effect. There will be a much greate variety of subjects displayed this year and the judges will mark more accurately on the quality of the booth. This is true of the demonstrations.

Scouts are urged to plan their booths so that there will be action all of the time. A booth with no action at all will not draw a crowd, while one with the Scouts doing something all of the time will have many visitors. The demonstration will begin at 2:30 and continue until 5 p. m. They will begin again at 7 and end at 10 p. m. when the show comes to a close.

All troops, including Sea-scout groups and Cub packs will take part in this show and we hope that it will be the "biggest show of its kind in Greater Boston." Our goal is 5000 people attending the show. Let us all pull together to that end.

Miss Elizabeth Swett will speak on "Radio Programs for Children." Mrs. Charles Livingstone, violinist, will play, accompanied by Mrs. Leon Sargent. Refreshments will be served during the social hour following the meeting. All mothers and friends of the school are cordially invited to be present. Small children will be cared for during the afternoon.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

The Board has received from the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission a form of bond which is acceptable to the Commission for filing in connection with licenses for the sale of denatured alcohol. The Commission has determined that the penal sum of the bond required for the license to sell denatured alcohol is $200, the premium for which is $5. This form may be obtained at the office of the Selectmen, and all who sell denatured alcohol are required to have a license and file a bond.

There will be a joint meeting of the Board of Selectmen and the Water and Sewer Board on Nov. 19 at 8:15 p. m. for the purpose of appointing a temporary successor to Mr. Charles F. Kendall, whose death occurred on Nov. 5.

LEGION OBSERVED ARMISTICE DAY

Colorful Ball Concluded Two-Day Program

Winchester Post, 97, American Legion observed Armistice Day with a most successful two day program that officially opened Thursday evening with the annual "turkey banquet" and meeting in Post Headquarters. Sunday morning, Nov. 11, the Post Commander, John H. McCarthy, assisted the State President of Massachusetts Chapter World War Mothers of New England, Mrs. Mary Gilhody of this town, to unfurl a service flag at appropriate exercises held in the State House in honor of the mothers of the World War. Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson of Winchester, past State President, was in charge of the exercise, during which a poem on motherhood was read by Mrs. Frances T. Conlon of this town.

Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock a detachment of 40 Legionnaires under Commander McCarthy, with their colors and color guard, marched to the First Congregational Church where they attended the presentation of Hadley's war time ode, "The New Earth," by the Winchester Choral Society, under the direction of J. Albert Wilson. The Post Chaplain, Vincent P. Clarke, participated in the service, reading a brief description of the ode before its presentation. Dr. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church, read Governor's Ely Armistice Day proclamation, and at the conclusion of the choral part of the service the congregation joined the chorus in the singing of America.

Monday morning at 11 o'clock a detachment of Legionnaires with their colors and guard marched to the War Memorial statue at the high school where simple exercises were held. Commander McCarthy placed a wreath at the base of the statue and the veterans came stiffly to "salute" while from the shrubbery behind the statute a Boy Scout bugler sounded "taps."

Climaxing the holiday observance was the annual Armistice Day Ball in the town hall Monday evening, at which more than 120 couples were present. The hall was as usual very attractive in patriotic decorations of bunting and flags and large replicas of the Legion seal placed on the balconies and about the hall.

A ten piece orchestra furnished the music for the dancing, being placed on the stage which was decorated with palms and potted plants and on which were displayed at either side the National and State Colors.

A distinct and most enjoyable innovation at this year's ball was the appearance of the crack Wellaston Drill Company, under Capt. C. Y. Von Nostitz, State A. L. champions. These picked men, clad in a modification of the regulation Legion uniform of blue, with white barrack caps, white Sam Brown belts and chromium plated rifles, gave a most impressive exhibition of close order drill, executing many difficult evolutions without the assistance of music and in excellent cadence. The whirl of the ever-moving soldiers, the gleam of the rifles and the rhythmic tramp of the marching feet gave the spectators a real thrill that no floor show could have produced.

For perhaps two or three minutes just before 11 o'clock the entire hall was darkened and at the stroke of the hour the big crowd was very quiet. At that time a light was thrown upon the stage and disclosed a doughboy (Newcomb Bacon) standing at attention with bayonetted rifle before a sod covered grave at the head of which was a simple cross and a soldier's shrapnel helmet.

Meanwhile off stage a trumpeter sounded "Taps" in absolute quiet. Commander McCarthy then read the roll of honor of those who died in the service during the war and of those soldiers who have died since the first Armistice in 1918.

With the return of lights and gaiety the Wollaston Drill team gave an interesting exhibition of rifle handling, something on the order of calesthenics, the whole done in perfect time to the music of the piano.

Miss Patricia Pembroke, 13-year old Drum Major of Cambridge Post's Fife and Drum Corps, uniformed in white tunic and breeches with gold trimmings and wearing a tall white shako and white leather boots, gave an exhibition of single and double baton whirling that was warmly applauded.

As an added attraction, "Johnny" Eaton, Legion State champion Drum Major and now a professional instructor of drum majors, gave a breath-taking exhibition of single and double twirling, in which in addition to his baton he used a spade, a broom and a rifle. Special mention should be made of the ease with which he threw his baton and broom into the air and caught them behind his back without turning his head.

Among the guests at the ball was one of the Legion's National officers, Vice Commander Daniel J. Doherty of Woburn, a popular Legionnaire, who was given a fine welcome when introduced by Commander McCarthy. There was no speaking, the entire time except for the 11 o'clock ceremonies, being given over to dancing, and it is significant that almost all the guests remained through until the final number. Delicious refreshments were served throughout the evening by Horace Ford of Winchester.

Many Legionnaires and friends of the Legion opened their houses for buffet dinners before the ball and afterward many entertained at late suppers. The ball while not so large as some in past years was considered most successful.

"Nothing But the Truth," a fast moving comedy by James Montgomery, has been chosen as this year's Junior-Senior Class Play at Winchester High School. It is being given under the capable direction of Mr. Hindes, in the school auditorium on Friday evening, Dec. 7.

CHORAL SOCIETY IN ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE

The Winchester Choral Society of 100 voices, under the direction of J. Albert Wilson sang "The New Earth" a musical ode by Henry Hadley, in commemoration of Armistice Day at a service held last Sunday afternoon in the auditorium of the First Congregational Church. Soloists were Idabelle H. Winship, soprano; Cora Boutelle, contralto; T. Parker Clarke, tenor; Kenneth McLeod, baritone; and Frederick Huddy, bass. Mr. Wilson himself was at the organ and the pianist was Mary Kinton Witham. A gathering that filled both auditorium and gallery was present, including a uniformed detachment of 40 members of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, under Comdr. John H. McCarthy with their colors and color guard. Members of the congregation and chorus rose as colors entered and left the church.

Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church, opened the service by reading Governor Joseph B. Ely's Armistice Day proclamation. Chaplain Vincent P. Clarke of the Legion read a brief synopsis of "The New Earth," which was written at the close of the World War and which tells musically of the evolution of a new civilization from the bloodshed and sacrifice of that great struggle.

The chorus gave an excellent rendition of Hadley's virile work under conditions that were far from ideal. Their attacks and releases, achieved without the assistance of their leader's baton were worthy of especial note, particularly in view of the difficulty of several of the entrances in the composition. Throughout their performance the choristers displayed a nice sense of rhythm and fine musical feeling, especially observable in the passages calling for soft legato singing. The passages for men's and women's voices, though in contrasting style, were all finely done, and the beauty of tone for which the Society has been highly praised, was at all times apparent.

Mrs. Winship sang the soprano role beautifully and was especially effective in her obligato singing with the women's chorus in the lovely "Song of Peace." Miss Boutelle did well with the difficult "Agnus Dei," and Mr. Clarke's rendering of the beautiful "Comrades of the Cross" was entirely satisfactory. Mr. McLeod's singing of the virile baritone solo was outstanding, his climaxing high F being especially thrilling. Mr. Huddy's rich bass was heard to advantage in the incidental solo of the "Marching Men," and he sang this brief passage with fine dramatic fervor.

Once again Mr. Wilson convincingly displayed his ability to fill the double role of director and accompanist, a real test of exceptional musicianship. His playing of Hadley's difficult organ score was masterly and added much to the pleasure of the service. Special mention should be made of his skill in the use of orchestral effects when needed to convey a particular mood or feeling. Mrs. Witham, too, as pianist, added to the effectiveness of the chorus and was especially helpful in the softer passages sung by the women.

At the conclusion of the "New Earth" chorus and congregation joined in singing "America," after which the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Chidley. Mr. Wilson's postlude was the stately "Marche Pontificale" from the First Symphony by Widor. As a prelude he played Widor's "Moderato" from the Eighth Symphony.

Mrs. James Donahue of Thomaston, Me., is visiting her nephew, Mr. Walter J. Henry at 112 Richland avenue this week. Mrs. Donahue will spend next week as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Henry at their home in Hollis, N. H.

MYSTIC SCHOOL NOTES

Wednesday, Nov. 14, grade five of the Mystic School gave an assembly which was an outgrowth of their work in current events. The children told of interesting things they had read in newspapers and magazines since the beginning of the school year. These have been collected in a scrap book which the children found very useful in preparing their talks. The topics chosen included science, nature, machinery, national events, holidays and interesting news from other lands.

MISS HARRIET I. COWDERY

Miss Harriet I. Cowdery of Church street, a life long resident of Winchester, died Tuesday morning, Nov. 13, in the Winchester Hospital, after a brief illness with heart disease. She had not been in good health since an attack of grippe last winter, but had attended to her duties in the Income Tax Division of the State Department of Corporations and Taxation in Cambridge, and entered the hospital only the Sunday before her death.

Miss Cowdery was the last of a well known Winchester family. She was the youngest of three children of Robert and Harriet (Shaw) Cowdery and was born Aug. 29, 1869, in the North End of Winchester. The family home was on Canal street and Mr. Cowdery was a member of the firm of Cowdery Cobb & Nichols, operating a piano factory not far from his home.

Miss Cowdery attended the Winchester schools and was graduated from the old high school on Church street with the class of 1887. She was an excellent scholar and active in the affairs of her class.

Following her graduation she was first employed as a stenographer in the main terminal of the Boston & Maine Railroad, later for some years acting as secretary for several Boston physicians.

In February, 1917, she entered the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Department of Corporations and Taxation, Income Tax Division, and at the time of her death, after 17 years of continuous service, which included several years in the Greenfield office, was a stenographer and senior clerk in the office at Cambridge. She was well versed in income tax procedure, and assisted many locally in filing their returns.

Miss Cowdery was a member of the First Congregational Church, of which her father was for 20 years a deacon. The funeral services were held in its Ripley Memorial Chapel this Friday afternoon with the pastor, Rev. Howard J. Chidley, officiating. Interment was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

TO BE SPECIAL SPEAKER AT CONGO YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY

Armistice Day brought many young people down to the Congregational Church to hear a very interesting talk on firearms, given by William Beggs. Mr. Beggs brought several pieces of his collection down which created much interest on the part of his male listeners. After the supper everyone gathered around a large fire in the parlor to hear Mr. Graves read from "The Man Without a Country." The meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem and taps.

Sunday there is to be a special meeting for the young people, for the society is favored in having Mr. Howard Corey present, who will speak on a subject of great interest to people of high school age. We want to see a large crowd down here at this meeting, which will be one you certainly should not miss.

Although these gatherings are held in the Congregational Church, they are not primarily for members of this denomination. Anyone from any church is welcome to share in the enjoyment they bring.

Remember, 6 o'clock every Sunday evening in the chapel. Plan on attending the delicious supper served in the social hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Evander French of 108 Highland avenue entertained several friends with a bridge last Tuesday evening.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON PARKWAY

Mrs. Gertrude Barstow Victim of Hit-Run Driver

Mrs. Gertrude [illegible]. Barstow, 72, widow of William H. Barstow, died Sunday, Nov. 11 in the Winchester Hospital of injuries sustained when she was struck by an automobile early the previous Friday evening while crossing the street in front of her home at 189 Mystic Valley Parkway.

Police Headquarters was notified of the accident shortly after 6 o'clock and the department's ambulance was sent to the scene with Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey, James E. Farrell and Charles J. Harrold. Upon arrival they found Mrs. Barstow laying in the middle of the Parkway in front of her home. She was identified by Mr. F. H. Brown of 195 Parkway and removed to the Winchester Hospital by Patrolmen Farrell and Dempsey and there attended by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy who found her suffering with a fractured skull and other injuries. Her name was at once placed upon the danger list.

The car that struck her was nowhere in sight and Patrolman Harrold, who remained to investigate the accident, was told by a motorist who witnessed it that Mrs. Barstow was crossing the Parkway from north to south when she was struck by an automobile that was headed east. He was able to give the police the registration of the car asd the number was immediately put on the air from Arlington.

At 6:18 the car and operator were picked up in Winthrop Square, Medford, by the Medford Police, both being turned over to Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell of the local department who went to Medford with Patrolmen John Hanlon and Charles Harrold.

The operator gave his name as James M. McGoldrick of 56 Mystic street, Charlestown and the police say he told them he was driving an unknown girl to Winchester. He denied any knowledge of the accident and was also unable to account for the damaged condition of the car.

He was turned over to Officer Reynolds of the Metropolitan District Commission Police, the accident having taken place on a street under their jurisdiction. McGoldrick was arraigned before Associate Justice Maguire in the District Court in Woburn Tuesday morning on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor and leaving the scene of an accident without making himself known after causing personal injury. His case was continued for further investigation until Thursday, Nov. 22

Mrs. Gertrude Kent Barstow

Mrs. Gertrude Kent Barstow, who died Sunday, Nov. 11 in the Winchester Hospital, was the widow of William H. Barstow and made her home at 189 Mystic Valley Parkway. She was the daughter of Daniel and Abigail (Brown) Kent and was born 72 years ago in Poland, Me.

Her early life until her marriage was spent on Beacon Hill in Boston and for a time after she was married she made her home in Medford, coming to Winchester about 20 years ago.

Mrs. Barstow's passing came as a distinct shock to her friends, for she had been in excellent health and had accompanied a friend to Boston on the afternoon of her fatal injury. She was a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Winchester.

Mrs. Barstow's husband died two years ago and there are no immediate survivors. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 in the late residence with a nephew of the deceased, Dr. Robbins W. Barstow, president of the Hartford Seminary Foundation, officiating. Interment was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford.

REV. CYRUS RICHARDSON, D.D.

Many in Winchester learned with regret of the death Sunday in Brookline of Rev. Cyrus Richardson, D.D., pastor emeritus of the First Congregational Church of Nashua, N. H., who had often preached here and who formerly for several summers filled the pulpit at the First Congregational Church during the absence of the pastor.

Dr. Richardson was Dartmouth's oldest graduate at the time of his death and served the college for 13 years as trustee. He was born March 30, 1840, in Dracut, son of Samuel and Hannah (Varnum) Richardson, being of the eighth generation in direct descent from Ezekiel Richardson who helped to found Woburn and establish a church there.

Dr. Richardson prepared for Dartmouth at Andover. He was graduated from college in 1864 and prepared for the ministry at Andover Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1869. Many of his 40 years of active preaching were spent in New Hampshire.

He leaves two sons, Walter D. Richardson of Newtonville and Philip Richardson of Seattle; and three daughters, Mrs. Louis G. Neville of Wellesley Farms, Mrs. Harry P. Thomas of Taunton, and Mrs. Harry A. Gregg of Nashua, N. H.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon in his old church, the First Congregational at Nashua, N. H.

FAREWELL TEA

Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr. of Lawrence street entertained on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. John R. Ordway, who leaves this week to join Mr. Ordway in Toledo, Ohio. Among the guests at luncheon and bridge were Mrs. Edward Heydt of Montclair, N. J.; Mrs. Kenneth Moffatt, Mrs. Clifford Roberts, Mrs. Lawrence Martin, Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr., Mrs. Stephen Neiley, Mrs. Charles C. Clarke, Mrs. John Kenerson, Mrs. Hollister Olmsted, Mrs. Clinton Mason, Mrs. Irving Jennings, Mrs. Donald Crowell and Mrs. Clarence McDavitt, Jr.

We don't know just how many years "Bob" Guild has been working as an official in Exeter-Andover football games, but it must be quite a number. He was head line-man at this annual prep school classic last Saturday afternoon.

WINCHESTER WON FROM WELLESLEY

Blocked Kick Led to Only Score Early in Game

Winchester High School won a non league football game, 7 to 0, from Wellesley High before a big holiday crowd on Manchester Field Monday afternoon. The locals scored in the first three minutes of play and thereafter the game was very closely contested with Wellesley having perhaps a shade the better of the going.

The visitors brought a well drilled team to Winchester and only some desperate last ditch tackles by the Winchester secondaries prevented them from scoring on two occasions. Wellesley was about the best tackling team we have seen in several seasons, the red clad boys getting their men low and effectively preventing them from advancing after being hit. By contrast Winchester's tackling was at times rather sloppy and on several occasions men could have been dropped behind the line for substantial losses with the brand of tackling Wellesley was displaying.

For Wellesley Whitcomb, right guard; Sullivan, center; Kilduff, left tackle; and Ferilli, left end, were very effective on the rushline while Lowell, fullback, was a great all around performer in the backfield. Juliani, too, was a hard running back. Grosvenor, Hanlon, Gaffney and Cimina were outstanding for Winchester, the local forwards being on the whole outplayed by the hard charging Wellesley line.

The lack of an effective passing attack prevented the visitors from capitalizing on some clever handling of the ball behind the line on criss-crosses and end around plays, and in general the locals held them well in check. Winchester on the other hand showed nothing diversified in the way of attack, with all Woburn on the sidelines, and except for its one scoring play and a brief offensive surge in the closing minutes failed to make its simple plays go against the spirited Wellesley defense.

Wellesley rolled up nine first downs to Winchester's six, but each club actually earned five, as four of the visitors' and one of Winchester's first downs came as the result of penalties. The Red outrushed Winchester, 93 to 61 yards, but Winchester's big passing edge gave the locals a yardage total of 106 to 103. Winchester completed two of three passes for 45 yards while the visitors' two successful passes out of 11 tried were good for but 10 yards. Winchester was penalized seven times for 55 yards, losing three 15-yard penalties for roughing the kicker, while Wellesley lost 15 yards for holding and five very precious yards for an offside when threatening Winchester's goal line.

Provinzano kicked off for Winchester and Juliani got back to his 40. Bairstow broke through and dropped Fenwick for a two yard loss and on the next play the whole Winchester line barged through to block Lowell's kick, Gaum recovering on the Wellesley 24.

Provinzano bit off tackle for three, but on the next play Winchester lost 15 yards for illegal use of hands, the ball going back to the 36.

Here Provinzano faded back deeply and after nearly falling in the mud shot off a beautiful long pass to Josephson who was downed on the two yard line. On the first rush Provinzano hit behind Olson for the touchdown. "Slicker" Coss trotted in from the sidelines and converted, kicking the goal from placement.

Midway through the opening quarter Lowell got away on a delayed buck through the center of the Winchester line, running to midfield where "Joe" Cimina made a life saving tackle that prevented a touchdown.

From then until the half the visitors had the edge, once threatening when they recovered a fumbled punt on Winchester's 33. Here Fenwick got away for a first down at the 20, but at this point two tries at end were rolled back and two passes knocked down, Winchester taking the ball at its 18.

Shortly after the resumption of play following the half Wellesley, aided by a 15 yard and a five yard penalty, worked the ball from its own 40 to Winchester's 32 where the locals took the ball on downs. On the first play Winchester fumbled and Wellesley recovered at the 33. A short pass behind the line got eight yards and Lowell made it first down at the 23 on a plunge into the line.

On the next play Lowell hit off his own left tackle and cutting back sharply raced away to the left for what looked like a sure touchdown. Coming across fast, big "Gerry" Gaffney hit Lowell at the two yard line knocking him outside and injuring himself on the play.

Lowell hit a stonewall on a thrust into the line and again failed to gain on a try at Bairstow's end. Wellesley lot five yards for offside at this point and the ball went back to the seven. Here Cassidy, who had replaced Gaum at center, broke through to stop Lowell for a two-yard loss and on the next play, a double reverse, Grosvenor made a spectacular open field tackle to drop the runner without gain. On fourth down Lowell faded back and passed, but the ball was intercepted by Hanlon who squirmed to the 10 before being downed. Provinzano got off a beautiful punt from behind his goal line to midfield, Josephson getting Juliani at Winchester's 44.

On first down Cassidy cleanly intercepted a flat pass, but ran directly into the arms of the only Wellesley man between him and a touchdown.

An exchange of kicks with Cimina twice laying the ball dead at the Wellesley three yard line, finally resulted in Grosvenor taking Lowell's punt at his 44. Grosvenor hit off tackle for eight and Cimina crashed through for a first down at the Wellesley 34. After short gains by Cimina and Hanlon Grosvenor faded back and shot off a nice flat pass out to the left that Hanlon took very sweetly over his shoulder for a first down at the 20.

Grosvenor got four and Cimina, five yards on line bucks, Cimina making it first down just inside the Wellesley 10.

On the next play Hanlon was dropped for a yard loss and Grosvenor fading back to pass, was completely snowed under for another loss of 10 yards as the whistle blew.

MICHAEL O'MELIA

Michael O'Melia, retired foreman of the Winchester Sewer Department and a resident of Winchester for 40 years, died Saturday afternoon, Nov. 10, at his home, 20 Loring avenue, after a short illness. His death was wholly unexpected and came as a severe shock to his family and friends.

Mr. O'Melia was 66 years old and a native of Ireland. As a young man he came to this country and soon after settled in Winchester, making many friends during his long residence.

For more than 20 years Mr. O'Melia was foreman of the town's Sewer Department, then a separate town unit, retiring when it became consolidated with the Water Department a few years ago. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Annie O'Melia, four daughters, Mrs. Margaret Albani, and the Misses Catherine, Mary and Esther O'Melia, all of Winchester; and a son, Francis P. O'Melia, also of this town.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the late residence with requiem high mass in the Immaculate Conception Church. Representatives of town departments and former associates in the Sewer Department attended the services. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

MRS. MARIA COTY

Mrs. Maria Coty, wife of Henry Edward Coty, died Armistice Sunday morning, Nov. 11, at her home, 208 Washington street, after a five weeks' illness.

Mrs. Coty was 71 years old and a native of Nova Scotia. She came to this country as a child and had been a resident of Winchester for the past 55 years. She was a member of the Winchester Court of Catholic Daughters of America and of the Married Ladies' Sodality of St. Mary's Parish. She was held in esteem by those who knew her and during her long residence she had made many friends who learned of her passing with regret.

Mrs. Coty was married in 1882 and two years ago observed her golden wedding anniversary. She leaves her husband, three daughters, Miss Mabel Coty, Mrs. T. F. Harvey, both of Winchester, and Mrs. Joseph Gillette of Medford; two sons, William Coty, concert and radio singer, and Harry Coty, both of New York City; a sister, Mrs. Mary Jane King of Medford; a brother, Isaac Boudreau of Winchester; and nine grandchildren.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the late residence with solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church. The pastor, Rev. Fr. Aloysius Malone was celebrant, Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach was deacon; and Rev. Fr. Joseph McGoldrick, subdeacon. Six nephews of the deceased, Harold, George, Thomas, Webster and Robert Boudreau and Joseph Venutti, were bearers. Interment was in Oak Grove Cemetery.

MISS MARY N. STEVENS

Miss Mary N. Stevens of 20 Winthrop street passed away at her home early Tuesday morning, Nov. 13. She had been confined to her home by lameness for several years and had suffered a shock about two months ago.

Miss Stevens was a native of Brentwood, N. H. a descendant of a long line of colonial ancestry. She was the daughter of John Sherburne and Anne (Kimball) Stevens. Much of her life was spent in Exeter, N. H. where she was a member of the First Congregational Church.

Always a lover of reading, she maintained an interest in current events and national affairs. Of an unselfish disposition she gave unsparingly of her time and devotion to her family and friends. Beloved by all who knew her for her wit. Miss Stevens had a wide circle of friends whom she enjoyed entertaining in her home.

Funeral services were conducted at 20 Winthrop street on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. George H. Driver, a former pastor of the First Congregational Church in Exeter.

TEA FOR MRS. HUNT

Mrs. Stephen Hunt of Holliston was the guest of honor at a delightful tea given last Friday by Mrs. Thomas R. Aldrich of Swan road. Mrs. A. C. Aldrich of Watertown and Miss Helen Wild presided at the tea table, and among the guests were Mesdames Benjamin Wild, Prescott Wild, W. G. C. Kimball, Frederick Reynolds, Frank Ripley, Anthony Kelley, Fred Chapman, Preston Cotton, Louise Tyndall, Freeman Nickerson, Louis Barta, C. Edwin Jennings, Frank Marden, Crosby, Charles Kelley, William Cole and George Smith.

There is much interest among local bowlers in the proposal to run a series of matches between the teams representing the Winchester and Woburn Councils of the Knights of Columbus. Both Councils can put strong teams on the floor and should be very evenly matched.

PALMER NEW POLICE OFFICER

The Board of Selectmen, at its meeting Monday evening, appointed Winthrop Palmer of Wolcott road, a member of the Police Department to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Sergt. John H. Noonan.

Palmer is appointed to serve the usual six months probationary period, after which if his service is satisfactory, he will become a permanent member of the department. He comes to the local department with experience, having been a member of the Metropolitan Police force during the past summer, assigned to traffic duty at the Charles River Basin and along the river way.

Mrs. M. J. England of Ledgewood road will entertain the Garden Lovers Club of Greater Boston on Friday, at 2 p. m. The speaker is Mrs. H. H. Buxton who writes the Garden Club news for Horticulture. Her subject is "House Plants and Their Care."

TELEPHONE NUMBER 0929

At least one Republican in addition to Mr. Burchard attended Mr. Mullin's political party in the Town Hall on the Friday evening preceding election. He dropped in at the Star Office this week to report and stated that he sat beside another member of the G. O. P. It was his opinion that there were one or two more present, but after perusing the election returns we will go him one better and state that there were apparently quite a few Republicans there.

It would seem to us when we learned that a whole week has passed without the recovery of the cow that has strayed away from the Stone farm that the police were losing their touch in this important branch of the service they are called upon to render the public. When we heard, however, that in addition to such experts as Sergeant Cassidy, Patrolman Dempsey and Motorcycle Officer Murray, our good friend Carl Wood has been unsuccessful in returning the errant bossie to her barn we hasten to suspend criticism. Apparently this isn't an ordinary case.

As we shivvered through the Winchester-Wellesley game on the holiday we thought how much healthier the local school's athletic finances would be if the big crowd gathered in the stands and around the gridiron had paid to see the contest. Winchester's sports program, particularly that which is planned for the benefit of non-varsity scholars, is having to be severely curtailed for lack of funds, and the cooperation of the town [illegible] at the school is [illegible] Coach Mansfield [illegible] that it will be able to play at least the Woburn game [illegible] on the new [illegible]. This does not seem an [illegible] possibility, and we [illegible] that George Davidson, with his known interest in school [illegible] will do all in his power to cooperate with the school authorities.

The more recent feature of this grand old NRA [illegible] on the horizon [illegible]. Hitherto we have heard the expression bandied [illegible] on news and note [illegible] advocates and not given the matter any great thought. It hardly seemed possible that we would be able to contract such bills as we pleased and then calmly wipe them off the slate! To the fellow down and out it seemed too good to be true; to the fellow who has a lot of outstanding bills, the project seemed too remote to even be taken into consideration. But now the Kingfish of Louisiana, who is riding the crest of the wave, and dictating to the state, not only appears to be putting the scheme into effect, but is loudly predicting that all the States in the Union will follow suit! From declaring a moratorium he "hoots" that this is the turning point for complete debt cancellation. Thus far his scheme of share the wealth is going through the Louisiana legislature like a streamlined train, and if it follows the New Deal experiments it will spread over the country as rapidly as all of the experimental schemes. To the average man of New England that is, the average man who has lived in New England previous to the War, the idea is of such chimerical proportions that he really wonders if he is awake. But he has already had to pinch himself many times since the NRA was born and today nothing, no matter how fantastic, seems beyond the range of possibility. A complete [illegible] and results would be interesting. We were to go on a barter basis [illegible] have another change in money, with wooden [illegible], home-made bills and rubber checks? Are we to [illegible] all money ever [illegible] and turn it over to the State and then vie with each other in a race to accummulate worldly goods which we will never have to pay for? At any rate, it appears truly a scheme to share the wealth; with all who have accumulated any portion of security through the acquirement of worldly goods sitting down on the curb stone along with the incompetents and spenders a truly excellent position to watch the grass grow in the streets. "You can't stop our program," the Kingfish is quoted. "I expected opposition. The rest of the 48 states will snap it up so quick it's going to make your head swim." Swim is right. Go to it, all you business men, take off your coats and build up your credit. The slogan of soak the rich and that all big business is on the shady side must be right. With a distribution of wealth and 90 per cent of the people working (?) for the government, Utopia appears well above the horizon.

MUSIC GARDEN

The November meeting of the Music Garden was held last Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Currier on Madison avenue. There was a good attendance, a fine program, and a charming host and hostess [illegible] one feel at ease and "at home."

The entire program was interesting and enjoyable, but we feel that special mention must be made of the duet for clarinet and flute played by Mr. Andrews and Mr. Gowing with Mrs. Andrews at the piano. This number was one of the most exquisite selections we have ever heard, was delightfully played and many were the words of commendation not only for its beauty but also for its capable rendition.

FROM A WINNER

To the Editor of the Star:

Although you and I differed in our views as to the issues involved in the recent State election, I commend you for the evidence that you publicly gave of your fairness and sincerity. I sent you a letter in which I strongly criticised your editorial in reference to Governor elect Curley. Some editors might have declined to publish my letter. They could have assigned convenient and plausible reasons for not publishing it. Your intellectual honesty, as well as your absolute fairness, was clearly indicated by publishing the criticism. Many persons who shared my views in reference to the issues involved in the election and differed with you have spoken to me very favorably of your act.

Your very truly,
Francis R. Mullin

TO THE VOTERS OF WINCHESTER

To the Editor of the Star:

The Winchester Republican Town Committee wishes to express its sincere thanks and appreciation to the many citizens who co-operated so generously in the work of the recent campaign.

The fact that nearly 90 per cent of the electorate of Winchester cast its ballot on election day is encouraging and it indicates of the interest of its citizens in the cause of good government.

Harris S. Richardson,
Chairman

About 50 guests attended the tea on last Friday afternoon which Mrs. George Hale Reed of 8 Ridgefield road gave in honor of her daughter Judith.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

On Saturday, Nov. 24, a rally of all Girl Scouts of Winchester will take place in the high school auditorium at which time badges earned during the summer will be awarded. Scouts will meet between 4:30 and 5 p. m. in the auditorium for an informal program including singing in charge of the leaders. Tickets for supper which will be served in the lunch room at 6 p. m. are 15c each and should be procurred before Nov. 22. At 7 p. m., Dr. Tozier will give a talk with Canadian Government moving pictures of Alaska, to which Scouts of Arlington, Medford, Stoneham and Woburn have also been invited.

Friends of the Scouts who so generously helped to make the Dollar Drive Day a success, will be pleased to know that over $700 was collected for the treasury. Donations ranged from 10c to $20.

Troop 3 under Captain Parker had its first meeting on Nov. 13 at the home of Mrs. D. P. Morse. Twenty-two Scouts registered at the business meeting the following officers were elected for the coming year: Alice Lyman, chairman; Emily Greene, treasurer; Barbara Hieley, secretary; Dorothy Glidden, Phyllis Lybeck, committee members. After a half hour [illegible] Mrs. Cameron of the Girl Scout [illegible] of Homemakers, spoke on "[illegible] at Dess."

The first meeting of the Drum and Bugle Corps will take place Monday, Nov. 26 in the Town Hall, 3:30 p. m. for those from the [illegible] and Junior High Schools, 4:30 p. m. for those from the high school.

On Scouts own Sunday, 117 Scouts attended the various churches with their leaders. Troop 7 attended 100 per cent.

ROTARY CLUB

Seven members were absent from the meeting of Nov. 15.

This week we tell the story of the third community meet which the Winchester Club has been privileged to sponsor as a grand gathering of all Rotarians resident in this town. There are at least 35 Winchesterites who belong to other than the home club. Over half of these men assembled to break bread with us on the 15th.

And we are now convinced that these meetings afford one of the best methods yet devised for promoting neighborhood acquaintance and good fellowship. It is our understanding that other communities in the 31st district are instituting or about to institute similar meetings. To all such we can say that our experience in this line has been most satisfactory and that we have found no Rotarian who has attended these meetings and failed to come away brimful of enthusiasm for them. They are entirely feasible for regions sufficiently urbanized to maintain clubs in proximity to industrial centres and it means probable that when the movement is better understood it will be generally adopted. For it is most assuredly in support of basic objects of Rotary.

Dr. Daniel Marsh, presiden, of Boston University and member of the Rotary Club of Boston came to us at this time as guest speaker. And rare indeed was the entertainment which he provided. The Doctor like many other active men has various hobbies. One of these is the collection of walking sticks. In his extensive travels over five continents he has gathered scores of these interesting articles. In Dr. Marsh's hands and in the words from his mouth a walking stick is a thing of life and emotion. It can breathe love, patriotism, religious fervor, good fellowship, humor, in short practically any mood of its possessor. There were sticks brought from ancient Bethlehem, from the mountains of Switzerland, from the River Nile, from the empire of the Incas, from our own colony of Plymouth, from the old Boston of England, each bringing a tale eloquent with tradition of its homeland. All too short was the story. And in the telling of it, Dr. Marsh has won for himself a generous addition to his host of friends and well-wishers.

And finally through the courtesy of the General Electric Company we listened to a short wave broadcast bringing us a message from the Rotary Club of Buenos Aires, Argentina, as that club celebrated the 50th anniversary of its organization.

Yes, it was a splendid meeting and we are grateful to those who by their presence made it possible. We shall plan others.

Our next meeting will be at noon, as usual, on Nov. 22. And again we are out for that perfect day on the attendance record—and elsewhere.

Percentage of attendance Nov. 8—96.55 per cent.

GENERAL ELECTRIC NOW ABOLISHES THE MOST DISAGREEABLE TASK OF THE KITCHEN!

The New G-E Dishwasher Cuts Dishwashing Time to Less Than 5 Minutes

See this Newest General Electric Home Servant demonstrated at Our Display Rooms

The new, perfected General Electric Dishwasher eliminates the wasteful, time consuming drudgery of "doing the dishes". All the dishes are stacked in its rubber trays as easily as in the sink—the cover is closed, a magic control is turned—and in less than 5 minutes the job is done. China, glassware silverware—pots and pans, too, are sparkling clean.

No Chipping — No Breakage

The chipping and breakage of glass and chinaware—always a penalty of hand dishwashing—is eliminated. Dishes are held stationary in soft, resilient rubber trays. A spray of scalding water is forced over every dish, cleaning even the hard to clean utensils such as egg beaters, graters, etc. The G-E Dishwasher also cleans and dries itself—human hands do not even touch dishwater.

Both you and your maid will love this modern electric servant. It releases an hour or more every day for other things. Stacks of dirty dishes no longer clutter up the kitchen. As the used dishes accumulate they are tucked away out of sight in the G-E Dishwasher and all quickly washed at one time. Your kitchen is always clean, neat and tidy.

Dishes Are Hygienically Clean

The health of yourself and family is protected. No matter how carefully tableware is washed by hand, germs and bacteria are not destroyed in luke warm water. They lurk in the unsanitary dishrag and drying cloth—and even on china and glasses that appear clean to the eye. The G-E Dishwasher destroys these germs and bacteria through the use of scalding water far hotter than human hands can touch, protecting your family from the dangers of bacteria laden hand washed dishes.

Costs Less Than 1c a Day

The current cost to operate the new G-E Dishwasher is less than 1c a day. Its savings in time alone make it a thrifty investment, but in addition it will prove surprisingly economical in its savings in breakage, in soap, laundry and water-heating bills.

There is a size and model G-E Dishwasher for every kitchen.
Terms as low as $10 per month.

BADMINTON CLUB

Arrangements have been made by the Badminton Club for the holding of an extra session each week. These meetings will be held Tuesday evenings at 7:30 at the high school gymnasium. At this session reservations of one hour may be made for the courts, thus giving members an opportunity to arrange matches and play without interruption for a definite period of time. The local club has opened the season with great enthusiasm. A number of new members have been taken in and with the extra sessions now provided for, still further activity is expected. All members interested in participating in the greater Boston Badminton League matches should make known their wish to the committee without delay.

Mrs. Harry Norton of West Concord formerly of this town, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. [illegible]

Four freshmen at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me., who are from Winchester were initiated into national fraternities at Bowdoin Friday evening in ceremonies which climaxed a week of pre-initiation fun. Edward J. Brown was taken into the Bowdoin chapter of Delta Upsilon, while George T. Davidson, Jr., David W. Fitts and Robert S. Godfrey were taken into the Bowdoin chapter of Alpha Delta Phi.

"Mortal and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 18.

The Golden Text is: "The creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God" (Romans 8:21).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God" (Luke 13: 11, 12, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus never asked if disease were acute or chronic, and he never recommended attention to laws of health, never gave drugs, never prayed to know if God were willing that a man should live. He understood man, whose Life is God, to be immortal, and knew that man has not two lives, one to be destroyed and the other to be made indestructible" (p. 369).

THE WORLD WAR MOTHERS

The World War Mothers of New England, Massachusetts State Chapter, unfurled a War Mothers' service flag at the State House in Boston, Armistice Day, Sunday, Nov. 11. The flag is regulation size, six by nine and bears the inscription, "World War Mothers" across the top, the years 1917 and 1918, the service record of Massachusetts and the service stars.

The exercises began at 2 o'clock with the call to the colors by a bugler from Walpole Post, A. L. as the splendid emblem was thrown to the breeze by State President, Mary E. Gilbody of Winchester, assisted by president of New England Chapter, Elizabeth L. McNamara of Cambridge, John H. McCarthy, Commander of Winchester Post, A. L. and Nicholas H. Lacey, past Commander of Chelsea Post, A. L. and State House guard. This was followed by the reading of Joaquin Miller's fine poem, "Mothers of Men," by Frances T. Conlon of Winchester, whose mother is a Gold Star mother.

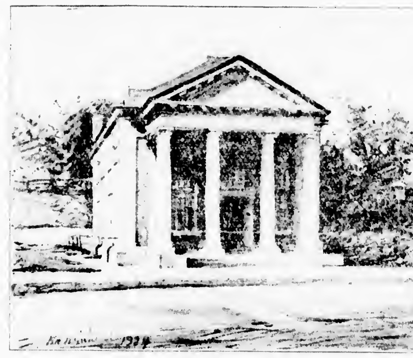

Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson, past State President was in charge of the exercises. Speakers included Mrs. Belle Comeau of Haverhill, Mrs. Jennie Mitchell, Maj. Joseph Hurley, Asst. U. S. Attorney; Congressman John McCormack, Comdr. John H. McCarthy of Winchester Post, A. L., and Mrs. Gilbody.

Vocal selections were rendered by Miss Edna L. McNamara, who also led in the general singing of the State Chapter song, "The Old Bay State." Mrs. Edna Clukal led the mothers in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

National, state and local authorities are sponsoring National Cheese Week with a view to increasing the use of all types of cheese. American or store cheese is specially low in price though this commodity has remained cheap. Another farm product, honey, is also being brought to your attention.

Most green vegetables are higher than they have been, but there are many fine, cheap, root vegetables available for low budgets. Spinach, squash, cabbage, lettuce and mushrooms are moderately priced. Green peas, beans, lima beans and tomatoes are high.

Florida oranges and grapefruit are plentiful and cheap. Navel oranges and Satsumas (similar to tangerines) are beginning to arrive in market. Both eating and cooking varieties of apples offer outstanding values.

The following menus are made up from the latest market news available:

Low Cost Dinner

Corned Beef — Boiled Potatoes
Cabbage

The famous Miss Amy Sacker and her new and alluring materials for home decoration, wall papers, curtains, draperies, chair coverings.

Committee on Preservation of Antiques

This committee opened its season on Friday afternoon in Waterfield Hall with a most interesting and delightfully informal talk on "The Joys of Glass Collecting."

In introducing the speaker of the afternoon Lura Woodside Watkins, Mrs. Mabel Nichols, chairman, said it was an added pleasure to present one of our own club members and one who was widely known as an authority on Cambridge Glass.

The chairman also spoke of the fact that Winchester had, under Miss Eleanor Hudson, taken the lead in putting the antiques question on club schedules, that other clubs had immediately seen its value, and were giving prominence to the subject.

Mrs. Watkins said that while she would discuss glass in general, she would devote most of her attention to Cambridge glass. A long table was on the platform, the collection of glass to be used was behind the curtain, so as each piece was presented one got a real concept of the article under discussion. After being shown and fully described, the pieces of glass were placed on the table so that by the end of the lecture, the table held a brilliant scintillating collection of splendid specimens.

Mrs. Watkins told of her early interest in the subject, of visiting those who had been connected with glass collecting, of knowing of many collections, and of the joy of this hobby. In one small apartment she had known of a large collection of glass, from lamps to cup plates. Mrs. Watkins also told of the old process of glass making by hand, and of glass blowing and cutting. The speaker told of the factories of Sandwich and Cambridge, and showed specimens of these. Said also that in 1765 there were two important glass houses in Massachusetts. Told of first glass and its composition.

A goblet of 1765 was shown, also a wine glass of a deep blue color. A dainty wine glass with twisted stem, also a runner and toddy stick were shown. A quart flip glass drew much attention, as did a large ruby vase.

New Jersey and New Hampshire had tried the making of glass with indifferent success. East Boston had a glass factory at one time—window glass was made in Boston. Some workers, dissatisfied started a factory in East Cambridge, but soon sold out to the New England Glass Company which lasted 66 years. Sandwich glass came in later.

Mrs. Watkins did much research to get data, searching files of newspapers from 1850 to 1855. In Cambridge a group kept up the making of glass to 1888, finally closing on account of economic troubles. The chimney of this firm, whose factory was built in 1850, was only torn down in 1921, so was quite a landmark. The factory itself was dismantled and razed in the early nineties. Some of the early glass was of fine quality—preferable to cut-glass—some of it delicately engraved.

A handsome decanter pitcher illustrated this quality, and the engraved glass was shown and the process explained. Salts moulded in Cambridge were commented on, and exhibited, and processes of moulding and pressing explained. Opalescent glass, with delicate coloring, was much admired. Ruby glass, which contains real gold as an aid to its coloring, was shown, and explanation given that the cheap modern ruby glass contains copper instead of gold.

An apple paper weight was a charming note, as was a lovely specimen of diamond point glassware. Perfume bottles, California pattern glass, handsome candlesticks, mottled glass, a centennial set, peach blow of Cambridge make, opaque white to rose, attractive pieces of Amberina, fine goblets, a cologne bottle made for an engagement present for a young lady, and a ruby goblet with the name of the maker engraved on its foot, were shown and duly admired. Mrs. Watkins was warmly applauded at the close of her lecture.

Mrs. Nichols expressed the appreciation of the committee, and graciously invited all present to afternoon tea at the rear of the hall.

Mrs. Alice R. Andrews and Mrs. Anna M. Dunning were the pourers. Mrs Elizabeth Hall was chairman of the Tea Committee which consisted of Miss Eleanor Bancroft, Mrs. Mollie Keepers, Mrs. Dwight Cabot, Mrs. Mary A. Church and Mrs. Sarah T. Merriam Custodians were Mrs. Susan Ladd and Mrs. Emma Rice. Co-chairmen were Miss Louise Bancroft and Mrs. Mabel G. Nichols.

Fortnightly Morning Musicale

The first in a series of Morning Musicales sponsored by the Music Committee of the Winchester Fortnightly was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Alexander, Lakeview road, Friday, Nov. 9 at 10:30. Mrs. Walter Winship, chairman of the Music Committee, introduced Helena Studzinska Sibley, violinist, who lectured on American music; Elizabeth Stratton, mezzo-soprano; Vida Rohde, cellist; Mary Ranton Witham, pianist.

Mrs. Sibley gave a most instructive and delightful talk on the music of this country dividing the subject into three periods—the first extending from the time of the Pilgrims until about 1800, the middle period and finally modern music.

For the first hundred years practically the only repertoire of the Puritans was a book of psalms. Group singing was gradually established and followed by the introduction of organs into churches. In spite of a decided dearth of musical material such gems as "My days have been so wondrous free," (the first American song); "Young Colin stole my heart away," (George Washington's favorite); and the very lovely "Charms of Florinel," (arranged by Samuel Endicott) were composed during this period.

Following this, music began to spread throughout the colonies and our national airs were created. Through the efforts of Lowell Mason, music was introduced into the public schools and this art became more organized Minstrel shows flourished and through this medium Stephen Foster's melodies were made popular. Theodore Thomas was an outstanding figure in the development of the orchestra, particularly did he foster this musical form in the middle west.

The modern period is headed by that beloved musical poet, Edward MacDowell. Ethelbert Nevin, Victor Herbert, Charles Wakefield Cadman, Henry Haley were also included on the program as representative modern American composers.

Elizabeth Sratton in charming colonial costume sang delightfully two groups of songs; one with two accompaniments. Her lovely voice and winning manner gave her audience much pleasure.

The Winchester Trio: Helena Studzinska Sibley, violin; Vida Rohde, cello; Mary Ranton Witham, piano; a groun which are rapidly becoming favorites played a very well chosen group which displayed the virtuosity of each artist. They played with a oneness which is so rarely attained in ensemble playing.

Morning coffee was served by members of the Music Committee. It was a pleasure to meet again in a home where such gracious hospitality is extended.

The program follows:

My Days Have Been So Wondrous Free — Hopkinson
Young Colin Stole My Heart Away — Arr by Endicott
The Charms of Florinel — Arr by Endicott

Regular Meeting

On Monday afternoon, Nov. 12 at the regular meeting of the Fortnightly the hall was filled to capacity to hear Dr. James Gordon Gilkey give an illustrated lecture on Russia and Germany in 1933.

The president, Mrs. Gladys Wilson, greeted the club members and their husbands who were her guests at the lecture.

Mrs. Mary Davis, chairman of the American Home Committee, announced an all day meeting in Fortnightly Hall, Nov. 26, starting at 10:15 in the morning. Luncheon tickets may be obtained from Mrs. D. E. Osgood, 15 Sheffield road on or before Nov. 22.

Mrs. Anna Lochman reported for the Membership Committee, 42 new members, exceptional number for only the second meeting in the fall.

In remembrance of Armistice Day, everyone with bowed read paid a silent tribute to the men who died in the war. Mr. T. Parker Clarke, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham sang Rudyard Kipling's beautiful "Lest We Forget."

Dr. Gilkey's lecture was unusually interesting due to his humorous comments and the clear and concise remarks accompanying his pictures. They were probably the first uncensored pictures that have been seen at least around here of Germany and Russia. Dr. Gilkey took them when he accompanied Sherwood Eddy to Russia in 1933 and he was very fortunate to be able to take them past the frontiers of Russia, without having them first examined.

Dr. Gilkey compared the Russian situation to the themes of a symphony. The major theme was the old Czarist splendor, the sheer magnificence of the palaces and churches, while the minor accompaniment to this was the inevitable poverty of misery among the people, still found in Russia to some extent today in spite of the new effort that the present government is making to spread the benefits and advantages of life more evenly. The more dominant elements of our own capitalistic system of today, Dr. Gilkey pointed out, are, individual initiative and responsibility, private property, a carefully guarded marriage code and family life and a definitely religious background. Contrasted to this we find in Russia, state initiative and responsibility, communally owned property, a new marriage code where marriage and divorce are ridiculously easy and a non-religious system

Perhaps the key note to the whole Russian situation might be summed up in the statement that we should think of Russia as the western end of Asia rather than the eastern end of Europe. Many of the pictures did remind us of China and Japan, especially those of the rural life. Dr. Gilkey also pointed out that Russia is a working man's civilization, and the problem they face is whether they can develop enough leadership to carry on their program for the masses of the people, 62 per cent of whom are illiterate.

Another interesting emphasis concerned the communal schools. The hope of Russia probably is in her education and teachers, and not in communism.

Perhaps the third major emphasis presented to us, especially in the pictures, was that in spite of Russia's claim to the contrary, there is still poverty, unemployment, hungry-looking men and women and under nourished children seen in Russia. Also, the dirt and disease is unspeakable.

The rural communal life shown was most interesting when we recall that 75 per cent of the Russian people live in rural areas. There are few implements, the houses are really huts, with grass roofs and both men and women have a hard life working in the fields.

A rather surprising attempt to solve the problem of crime is the penal colony in Russia where the criminals live with their families unguarded and like it so well that they do not try to escape, for the most part!

The recreation problem is being met by a park of culture and rest, where 10,000 people come each day, and where parents may "park" their children as Dr. Gilkey humorously said, "if they paid for it"—showing the necessity of money, even in Russia.

As far as religion goes, the majority of the churches are closed although a few remain open. But as Dr. Gilkey pointed out, something valuable in life has dropped out where the churches have gone, and the drab and decrepit church buildings do not symbolize a "happy, well ordered and intelligent life."

Dr. Gilkey's pictures on Germany presented an interesting contrast to Russia. The cities are so clean and neat, and the people look happier, as if they found life easier than the Russians. We saw one of the most beautiful lakes in Germany, in Konigsee. Huremborg is one of the loveliest German cities, with its quaint streets, houses and people. A stroke of what Dr. Gilkey called "minister's luck" enable him to take pictures of a Hitler mass movement. As we watched the crowd giving the Nazi salute, we saw one man with his hat still on at the back of the crowd. Suddenly, he snatched it off, as Dr. Gilkey said, probably to avoid having it taken away from him. This may explain some of the common response to the Nazi salute and the whole Hitler movement. Its the safest and wisest thing to do.

Most of us feel now that we have really seen Germany and Russia in part, at least, as they really are today, and we should be delighted to go along with Dr. Gilkey on his next trip to Russia in the summer of 1935.

CAMP FIRE MEETING

A Camp Fire! Who Can Resist It?

Do you enjoy sitting around a camp fire with a group of friends? Next Sunday evening, at the First Baptist Church, you will feel sure you are once more in the pine groves of New Hampshire, as you see reenacted a scene which took place at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wadsworth Hight, Lone Pine Point, the Weirs, one beautiful day last summer.

As a group of intimate friends, including Mr. and Mrs. H. W Hight, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred O. Weld, Mr. and Mrs. Avard Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moulton and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Waters, were sitting around their camp fire one afternoon, the new minister and his wife came to call and discovered, as the afternoon wore on, the splendid musical talent in this group of friends.

At the request of the pastor, "the Gang," as they are called, will recreate the scene for the pleasure of all who wish to attend the 7 o'clock service at the First Baptist Church on Sunday evening. The meeting will be in the nature of a "Seth Parker Gathering" and will be held in the social hall. Mr. Rushton's message will be: "Shall We Make Camp or Move On?"

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society met in the Unitarian Church at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, the 13th.

A splendid address was given by Rev. Frederick Gauld on, "A Constructive Peace." Rev. Mr. Gauld who is editor of the Christian Register was most convincing in telling what would be the factors to build up and keep world peace. He said, not until we would grant, as well as ask favors of other nations, help them unselfishly in their lawful aims and in all ways foster friendly international understanding would we build peace. This may sound like awaiting the millenium, but Mr. Gauld made it appear a condition of not too distant attainment provided we who want peace are willing to work as earnestly for it, as we would work to win a war.

There was a short business meeting after the speaker and then tea was served by Mrs. Wade Grindle and her committee in the ladies' parlor.

BELMONT GIRLS TRIPPED WINCHESTER

Belmont High girls' field hockey team blanked the Winchester High girls on Manchester Feld Wednesday afternoon, 1—0. The only goal of the game was made immediately after the beginning of the second half.

Belmont rushed the ball on the bully and rushed it up the field into the striking circle where left inner Dwyer beat goaler Ruth Cutter.

Between the halves of the first team game the Winchester seconds won from the Belmont seconds, 2—0.

Following is the first team summary:

GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW ARLINGTON-BELMONT PARISH CHURCH

Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, Pastor and Well Known Here

Ground was broken Friday, Nov. 9, for the erection of the new Arlington-Belmont Parish Church two months after the establishment of the parish by his Eminence Cardinal O'Connell. Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, Pastor of the new church, plans to rush construction as he is now using the auditorium of the Hardy School for services and anticipates completing the erection of the church about Feb. 9 next. The church will be Romanesque in architecture and is to be constructed of brick. It was designed by Thos. F. McDonough, who was awarded a scholarship to study architecture in Europe while studying with Maginnis & Walsh, world renowned architects.

Located as it is at the gateway to Arlington from the new Concord Boulevard, elaborate plans have been formulated for the beautification of the church property, which covers some two acres, purchased from the Wyman Estate and is bounded by Lake street, the new Concord Boulevard and two proposed new streets and overlooks Spy Pond.

The organization of the parish was formally begun Oct. 5, when the capacity of the Robbins Memorial Town Hall in Arlington was over taxed with a monster gathering for a bridge, whist and dancing party. The most recent affair was a Community Fair run for one full week, conducted under the auspices of the Men's Committee of the parish.

An old time minstrel, is to be held Thursday and Friday, Nov. 22 and 23 at Arlington Junior High East on Foster street. Six lively and efficient end men stocked with good songs and stories and eccentric dances together with a chorus of 75 voices with nine specialty numbers headed by "Billy" Allison of the Knickerbocker Quartet, are ready to present finished performances on the nights above mentioned. Dancing with "Billy" O'Connell's Orchestra will follow the show in the gymnasium in the rear of the auditorium.

On the Tuesday evening following the Minstrel Show, Nov. 27, a turkey whist will be held at the Robbins Memorial Town Hall. Many barrels of turkeys have been provided for the occasion, to be given away.

WINCHESTER AT MAYNARD SATURDAY

Winchester's status in the Middlesex Football League will be definitely settled tomorrow afternoon when the locals square away with Maynard High at Maynard. A win will give Winchester a chance to tie with Concord if that club defeats Lexington on Thanksgiving. A defeat or a tie will remove any championship possibility for this season.

Coach Mansfield expects to be at close to full strength at Maynard. His charges came through their hard battle with Wellesley in good shape and with no restrictions from the bench, are expected to cut loose on Saturday.

It would seem that the game is a toss-up. Maynard is not so strong as a year ago, while Winchester, with much better backfield strength, is not so good on the line as last season.

Maynard in league competition has lost only to Lexington, a team Winchester defeated, 19—0. On the other hand the Orange won from both Concord and Belmont by close scores while Winchester got only a scoreless tie and a defeat at the hands of these clubs. Maynard's winning edge against Concord was a field goal and in the Belmont game, a last minute touchdown achieved through the medium of a long forward pass. Winchester should have defeated both these teams more decisively than that, and would have with a bit of luck.

Maynard is a hard club to beat in its own backyard and Winchester can't afford to lay back and miss any early scoring possibility. The locals have the stuff, but they must use it to whip the Orange, a pretty much veteran club with a great all around backfield threat in Brayden and some fine linemen in Ignachuck, O'Donnell and Duggan.

Breaks are likely to play an important part in tomorrow's contest and the team that makes the going is always likely to get the nod from that fickle goddess of luck.

Coach Mansfield expects to start Bairstow and Josephson at ends; Olson and Thwing, tackles; McCormack and Graham, guards; Gaum, center; Grosvenor, quarterback; Co-Captains Hanlon and Gaffney, halfbacks; and Provinzano, fullback. Kickoff at 2 o'clock and it's a long ride to Maynard.

DINNER PARTY

Harold Fuller of Fletcher street had a dinner party last Saturday night preceding the Unitarian dance. Among the young people to attend were Allen Grant, Thomas Worthen, Peter Scully, Russell Ellis, Peter Sibley, Marion Davis, Geneva Manning, Rebecca Farnsworth, Ann Kidder, Shirley White, Nancy Carr, Kay Woods.

Miss Kay Boutwell of Foxcroft road who is a student at Connecticut College spent last week-end at home.

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT

Stephen S. Langley of 5 Cambridge street, a prominent resident of Winchester for many years, was painfully injured shortly after 10 o'clock last Saturday morning when he was struck while on Cambridge street near the Winchester Country Club by an automobile, owned and driven by Henry H. Harris of 93 Eleventh street, Lowell, who was headed south.

Police Headquarters was notified and Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy and Patrolman John Dolan responded in the police ambulance. Upon arrival they found that Mr. Langley had been removed to the Symmes Hospital in Arlington by Mr. Harris and Frank Bowes of 121 High street. He was treated for injuries to his left arm and a dislocated shoulder by Dr. George Towle who was at the hospital.

The accident occurred in front of the grass plot at the intersection of Cambridge and Arlington streets. Mr. Harris told the police he first saw Mr. Langley at a point about 150 feet ahead of his car. He slowed down and swerved the machine to the left, he said in an effort to avoid striking him.

MISS McCARTHY ENGAGED

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Rose Mary McCarthy of Winchester to John M. Kane of Malden, son of Mrs. Katherine Kane of 117 Adams street, that city. The engagement was announced at a party, for which Mrs. Thomas Farrell opened her home on Oneida road. Many from out-of-town were included among the 50 who were present.

David Fitts of Grassmere avenue was among the Winchester boys who spent the holiday at home from Bowdoin.

Tuesday afternoon at Arlington, the Winchester High School second football team played a 6-6 tie with the Arlington High Jay-Vees with "Rugged" Muraeco scoring Winchester's touchdown after a spectacular run.

A Good Lamp Bulb
by its surface

Elmer Hostapple, twenty years a farmer, knows hens . . . but even Elmer can't tell a good egg by the shell alone.

Surface appearances are sometimes deceiving . . . bad eggs have a strong resemblance to good ones—on the outside. Similarly—cheap lamp bulbs often look as good to the naked eye as lamps of reliable quality.

How tell the difference? How can you be sure you're getting lamp bulbs of good quality? The answer is—look for the trade-mark of the manufacturer. If the name on the lamp is one you know, there is your guarantee of quality. Such lamps may cost a trifle more at first, but they cost less in the end—they give you all the light that you pay for.

You can buy American-made lamps of guaranteed quality at all Edison Shops and at many reliable dealers

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

The regular meeting of the Guild of the Infant Saviour was held Tuesday afternoon in Lyceum Hall.

Rev. Robert P. Barry of the Catholic Charitable Bureau, who is also the Spiritual Director of the Guild, was the guest speaker.

A very delightful musical program was presented by the Edson L. Kimball trio. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. R. Cavanagh, Mrs. F. Barrett, Mrs. E. Booth, Mrs. C. Hinthan, Mrs. T. McDonough and Mrs. T. Riley.

The president, Mrs. Margaret Hinthan, reminded the members of the annual bazaar, a "Holiday in Normandy," which will be held at the Copley Plaza hotel, Boston on Nov. 20 from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. and expressed a desire to have the members attend this festive and colorful fair. At noon the members may enjoy a delicious luncheon and in the afternoon cards will be played in the small ball room. The Winchester table will be gaily decorated and the women will be attired in fanciful Normandy costume. Mrs. Delan has charge of the grabs.

HOLD UP SCARE ON RIDGE STREET

Police Headquarters was notified of what was thought to be an attempted holdup shortly before midnight Sunday on Ridge street near the home of Mr. C. C. Locke.

Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell went to investigate and found Claude Boudreau of 58 Cotting street, Medford who told him that he had been parked with a young woman in an automobile south of the entrance to Mr. Locke's home when he saw a man come from behind a parked car at the driveway and crouching down approach the rear of his machine.

Boudreau said he asked the girl with whom he was parked to give him his revolver and the man quickly ran back to his own car and entering it drove away. The young woman with Boudreau gave the police two numbers, either of which she thought was the registration of the fugitive car, but neither proved to be correct, and a thorough search of the neighborhood was unproductive.

WINCHESTER AND ARLINGTON GIRLS IN SCORELESS HOCKEY TIE

WEEK-END FIRES

The Fire Department's first call of the holiday week-end was at 3:42 Sunday morning from Arlington Box 357 for a fire in the residence at 359 Mystic street at Robinhood road. At 7:32 Sunday morning the department was called to the home of Pasquale Tofari at 21 Spruce street where a chair was found burning in the living room.

Tuesday morning at 8:49 there was a fire in an automobile owned by Fenton Fitts of 6 Ridgeway, the damage being very slight.

Telephone Box 26 came in at 11:52 Tuesday forenoon for a fire in the barn owned by T. G. Stanton at 2 Chestnut street.

The fire was thought to have been caused by sparks from a near-by incinerator. It started in the gutter of the barn and worked its way into a blind attic over the billiard room. The flames were difficult to get at and the firemen were obliged to lay three hose lines to finally extinguish them. Damage was estimated at about $1900.

Miss Virginia French of 108 Highland avenue entertained many of her friends last Saturday, at her home, after the Harvard-Army football game.

Town Clerk Mabel W. Stinson, who is also a member of the Board of Registrars of Voters, told the Star that local recounts of votes in the past state election will not be taken until the state wide recount which she has been informed will be made of the vote for Secretary of State. This latter recount probably will not be made before the latter part of the month.

Mr. Jere A. Downs of Arlington street won several first prizes and a silver medal for his displays of begonias at the flower show in Boston last week.

Tax Collector Nathaniel M. Nichols with Mrs. Nichols and their daughter, Miss Doris Nichols, attended the meeting of the Massachusetts Collectors and Treasurers' Association, of which he is secretary, at the Lord Jeffery Hotel in Amherst on Monday. In charge of arrangements for the meeting and dinner, Mr. Nichols was just a bit "jittery" when he saw places set for 90 and an attendance of 120. Taking care of 30 unexpected guests, however, was right down "Nat's" alley and after a conference with the hotel management every one was well provided for. The meeting was the largest the association has yet had and Mr. Nichols was the recipient of a special letter of congratulation from Tax Commissioner Long.

Mrs. Sidney Rollins of Newport, N. H. and formerly of Winchester has been visiting Mrs. John Abbott at her home on Arlington street this week.

Mrs. John Wilson of Salisbury street entertained at luncheon on Wednesday for Mrs. John Ordway who will leave for Toledo, Ohio, at the end of the week.

Shortly after 11:30 Wednesday night Patrolman John Hanlon and Clarence Danbury found two men leaning against a fence on Bacon street near a parked automobile. They gave their names as Anthony J. Nicosia of 174 Lexington street, East Boston and Charles Carpinella of 33 Tileston street, Boston. The police say Nicosia was drunk and that Carpinella claimed to be driving the car which was registered to William Callo of Village street, Marblehead. When ordered to take Nicosia home, Carpinello was unable to start the machine and it was found that he is not a licensed operator. Nicosia was locked up on the charge of drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor. The car was towed to the Central Garage. In Court Thursday morning, Nicosia's case was continued for a week by Justice Jesse W. Morton.

Mrs. Pearl Somerville, known to many Winchester motorists as the former bookkeeper at the Central Garage, was a visitor in town yesterday and looked in at the Star Office with an excellent fudge cake! Those fortunate enough to secure a piece spoke highly of its quality.

Chairman Edmund C. Sanderson and Supt. Harry W. Dotten of the Winchester Water Department attended the meeting of the New England Water Works Association at the Hotel Statler yesterday.

At the duplicate contract bridge tournament at the Calumet Club Tuesday evening, the top scores were tied for first place, Mrs. Fessenden and Mrs. Putman and Mrs. W. F. Flanders and Mrs. F. A. Flanders. Tied for second place, Dr. Cunningham and Mrs. Benno and Wallace F. Flanders and William A. Kneeland.

En Ka hostesses at the Winchester Hospital this week included Mrs. William J. Parrot, Mrs. Percy Bugbee, Mrs. Lowell Smith and Mrs. Herbert Todd Wadsworth.

"Bob" Cushman, star back on the high school football squad who has been at the Winchester Hospital with a knee injury received in a second team game, was able to return home last Friday.

Roy Twombley, gate tender in the center, said the thermometer went down to 18 yesterday morning. There was a thin coating of ice on Black Ball and it was generally pretty brisk around the square.

It just wouldn't be a bona-fide St. Marks-Groton football game without the officiating of those two Winchester experts, "Joe" Pendleton, dean of New England college officials, and "Bob" Guild, former Harvard fullback and coach. Wednesday's game marked the 35th year Mr. Pendleton had worked the contest and the 15th for Mr. Guild. We hope "Bob" got time-and-a-half or something because two years ago he broke an ankle in the Saints-Groton battle and lost a lot of nice officiating jobs as a consequence.

Park Department men have been busy during the past month removing from cemetery land more than 1000 Scotch pine trees which were placed there as seedlings several years ago. The little trees have been transplanted on town land at the rear of the Watch Hand Factory and later from time to time will be placed about town as desired.

MRS. MARY APPLETON WILLEY

Mrs. Mary Appleton Willey died last evening, Nov. 15, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Charles T. Main, with whom she had made her home for many years. Mrs. Willey was a widow. Besides Mrs. Main she leaves a sister, Mrs. Edwin Barnard of North Adams, and a brother, Frank Appleton of Newark, N. J. Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, at the late residence, 11 Herrick street, on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 17, at 2 o'clock.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

On Sunday, Nov. 25, the various branches of the M. C. W. G. will sponsor their annual concert and entertainment for the patients. The members and friends are welcome on this date to view the hospital and see the fine work carried on there.

On Saturday, Nov. 17 the State charitable committee will meet at the home of Mrs. M. Handschumacker in Cambridge. Mrs. J. V. Kane of the local branch will represent Winchester.

BETHANY ENTERTAINMENT

You are all most cordially invited to come and spend "A Quiet Evening" with us in the assembly hall of the Second Congregational Church next Friday evening at 8 o'clock. This long-talked about entertainment is to be given under the auspices of the Bethany Society. Mr and Mrs. F. J. Baker are to conduct the quiet evening, which is ample assurance of something original and unique. Mrs. Snyder has charge of the tickets and general arrangements. Mrs. Farnham and Mrs. Ball comprise the S. O. S.—(Service of Supplies), and will hold forth in the kitchen. Let's make this a real house-warming for all concerned! The committee are eager to give you a good time and your money's worth, and incidentally to augment the Bethany treasury considerably.

Poverty Social a Success

The Sunday School held an interesting social last Friday evening, the guests assembling in all sorts of rags and tatters and poverty costumes. The prize was given to Miss Nancy Armstrong, who was dressed in a burlap gown, with a potato necklace and pipe-cleaner bracelet. Norman Potter, as Charlie Chaplin, minus the derby, won the boy's prize. Many novel games were enjoyed, and everyone entered into the spirit of the party. Frankfurts and doughnuts were the hit of the evening, and we'd hate to confess the dozens that were consumed. These costume parties are proving very popular, and requests are pouring in for another similar one at an early date.

TANSEY TO SPEAK

Joseph J. Tansey of this town, former Norwich athlete and football captain who is now making a notable success as coach of the Wentworth Institute football team, is to be the speaker this evening before the boys' club of 100 members in Trinity Church, Boston. It is a return engagement for big "Muggins" who spoke to the same club a year ago. His subject is to be "Football and Character" and he is well qualified to speak on this subject as he has had a long and outstanding connection with the gridiron since his days as a schoolboy in Winchester High.

UNITARIAN PLAYERS OFFER DELIGHTFUL TARKINGTON COMEDY

Last Friday and Saturday evenings the Winchester Unitarian Players presented Booth Tarkington's comedy, "The Intimate Strangers," at Metcalf Hall.

The chance meeting of two travelers, Isabel Stuart and William Ames, stranded for the night in a dingy railway station, gave Mr. Tarkington a pleasant and amusing theme for his little comedy.

The growing acquaintance of Miss Stuart and Mr. Ames, their bickerings over the contents of a far-from-full lunch basket, Mr. Ames' unsuccessful efforts to discover Miss Stuart's age, and their attempts to persuade the station master to rescue them from their predicament all prepared the audience for a delightful evening.

Thanks to Miss Stuart's grandniece, Florence, typically modern and smart and Jonnnie White, her devoted attendant, the weary travelers were finally rescued and taken to Miss Stuart's home.

For the next 24 hours the fun continued as William Ames endeavored to find the family Bible containing the date of Miss Stuart's birth, and as Isabel herself, with a twinkle in her eye and with growing affection in her breast, placed obstacle after obstacle in the way of her ardent suitor.

Incidents of charm and fun which added much to the play were Florence's ingenuous and obvious pursuit of Mr. Ames, so mature and alluring in her eyes, and also Johnnie White's furious jealousy of this intruder. When "Johnnie," in a gesture of boyish reverence, turned to Isabel for comfort and consolation, Mr. Tarkington was at his best and always the consummate artist in adolescent character portrayal.

Martha W. Kelley in the role of Isabel Stuart played with great charm and finesse. Her interpretation of a part demanding so many changing moods, first playfulness and sweetness, then gentle cynicism and endless tact, was a real delight. Mrs. Kelley was rightly chosen for a role once played so cleverly by Billie Burke.

Frank S. Owen made his first appearance with the Unitarian Players in the part of William Ames. He played the anxious, serious-minded hero in a straight-forward, earnest manner, being duly flattered by Florence's adoration and properly distracted by Isabel's grace and charm.

In her characterization of the impressionable Florence, Helen R. Sexton was of the frank and honest younger generation. She was direct, friendly and sincere.

Bradford Hill made "Johnnie" White just the shy, awkward, adoring youth he was meant to be. In his scenes with Mrs. Kelley, his tone of voice, his gestures and his evident sincerity proved that Mr. Hill was making the most of an exacting part.

Geneva E. Manning was a sweet and serene Aunt Elleu, properly horified at the behavior of modern youth. Her singing and playing in the third act made for delightful realism.

Richard Barnard and Marion McGovern played the roles of the Stuart servants, in the friendly manner of those long employed by a kindly mistress.

In the character of the local station master, Theodore von Rosenvinge added another clever interpretation to his growing list of comedy roles.

"The Intimate Strangers," capably directed by Mr. Frank E. Fowle, is the first of this season's productions given by the Unitarian Players. Great credit is due Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge who acted as play manager. Those who assisted in the various phases of production were:

Play Manager Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge
Stage and Scenery Harry Goodwin, Frederick Cole, Kenneth S. Hall, George Cummings, Chandler Symmes, George W. Hayden, Jr.
Properties Mrs. Raymond S. Wilkins, Mrs. Kenneth S. Hall, Robert Higgins, Richard Elliott
Prompter Norman Cobbing

INTERESTING FIGURES

Taxpayers of the town may find the following figures, gleaned from the books of the Town Treasurer interesting.

This year the town paid the state in taxes $73,126.61, receiving back from the Commonwealth in the shape of income and corporation taxes, rail and telegraph taxes, State and Military Aid, etc., $35,387.97 a difference of $37,738.64 in favor of the State.

A year ago the town paid the State $69,872 and received back $53,910, leaving the State with a balance of $15,962. In 1932 the State paid the town $7,798 net, but previous to that the town received back from the Commonwealth substantially more than it paid, the figures being as follows: 1931, town received $40,974; 1930, $73,000; 1929, $44,000, and in 1928, $30,000.

ELKS' MEMORIAL SERVICE

The annual memorial service of Winchester Lodge of Elks will be held on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 2 at 3 o'clock in the lodge hall in Lyceum Building. The services will be conducted by the past Exalted Rulers of the lodge and are expected to be especially impressive. All Elks are urged to attend.

MEMORIAL TO LATE WATER BOARD MEMBER

The Water & Sewer Board are planning a memorial to their late member, Mr. Charles E. Kendall, to take the form of a specially marked grove of trees at the reservoirs in which he took such an interest.

OBSERVED 93RD BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Davies Oldest Member of Epiphany Church Service League

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Davies, oldest member of Winchester's Home for Aged People, observed her 93rd birthday anniversary on Thursday, Nov. 22, with an informal party at the home, in which the other members of "the family" joined with friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

A feature of the noon luncheon was a birthday cake, served in Mrs. Davies' honor, and Mrs. Rachael Very of Norwood, Mrs. Davies' niece, spent the day at the home with her. There were many letters and cards of congratulations.

On Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Epiphany Church Service League, of which Mrs. Davies is the oldest member, there was an especial birthday observance in her honor. Mrs. Davies is an active member of the league and much beloved by her associates. A birthday cake, on a tray, banked with roses, was brought with due ceremony in to the meeting.

Mrs. Eva L. Boyd, first vice president of the League, spoke of the pleasure the members always find in honoring the birthday of their friend who she characterizes as "93 years young." In happy vein, Mrs. Boyd announced that Mrs. Edith Sache had "found some verse on her way to the meeting" which she was to read. The verse follow in full:

Lines Inscribed with Affection by E. M. B. to Our Wonderful Friend of Many Years

Just 93 years ago today
A baby girl was born
What joy was brought to her happy home!
On that glad November morn.

She was always a jolly baby
Full of fun and full of fun
And everybody loved her
More, as each year was done.

As a little girl she loved her play
She always loved to sing
And to each happy new-born day
Joy and cheer she'll bring.

Sorrows and hard-hips have had their share
In making her brave and strong
There was always a lantern in her hand
And in her heart a song.

And now her hair is silvered
Life's twilight closes round
Yet, with each year, our friend so dear
More happiness has found.

Her secret would you like to know
I'll tell you in a word
Unselfish love and simple faith
In her master and her Lord

May those who know and love her
Bear on the torch ahead
We trust that we at ninety-three
May make life's pathway bright.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

Joseph M. Donahue, 46 Mt. Vernon street; Harry C. Winton, 5-7 Mt. Vernon street; E. W. Van Deusen, 8 Winchester place, and Wallace H. Eason, 30 Church street, are among those who have complied with the new law and filed bonds for the sale of denatured alcohol.

The Board has voted that the fee for a license to hold a public amusement in any hall other than the Town Hall will be $5.00.

The Salvation Army has been granted a permit to sell tags on Saturday, Nov. 24, in the interests of the maintenance fund of that organization.

The Town Engineer reports that the United States Coast & Geodetic Survey is working out a series of E. R. A. projects locating triangulation points in various municipalities and that they desire to extend this work into Winchester, the only cost to the town being for a small amount of supplies.

The Board has ordered that a No Parking restriction be placed on Winchester place extending southerly about eight feet from the southerly side of the entrance to the Central Garage.

The Board of Survey held a preliminary hearing on the matter of Wildwood street extension which was attended by interested land owners, the Planning Board, Town Council and Town Engineer. The plan as outlined was approved by the Board of Survey and the Planning Board, and is designed to follow the natural valley and to give the best available grades. The second hearing required by law will be held on Jan. 7, at 8 o'clock in the Selectmen's office. Plans may be inspected in the office of the Town Engineer.

WASHINGTON-HIGHLAND MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

On Wednesday, Nov. 21, the Mothers' Association of the George Washington-Highland School held the first meeting, Mrs. Kenneth Caldwell presiding.

Mrs. Charles Livingstone, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Leon Sargent, played most pleasingly. Her selections were Rymski-Korsakoff's "Hymn to the Sun" from LeCoc D'or; "By the Brook," "Vienese Waltz," arranged by Kreisler, and an entirely American piece by Samuel Gardner, "From the Canebriake."

Miss Elizabeth Swett then gave an interesting talk on "Better Radio Programs for Children," ending with the telling of two stories, one taken from Kate Douglas Wiggins' "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and "The Roman Road from the Golden Age" by Kenneth Graham, both beautifully read.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Caldwell invited all present to have tea. Mrs. Doub and her committee always serve a delicious repast and make every one feel quite at home.

MEETING NOTICE

The Winchester Community Relief Committee will hold a meeting in the general committee room at the Town Hall on Monday, Nov. 26 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. All members of this committee are urged to attend.

SENTENCED TO THREE MONTHS IN FATAL ACCIDENT CASE

James M. McGoldrick of 56 Mystic street, Charlestown, who the police say was the operator of the automobile that struck and fatally injured Mrs. Gertrude J. Barstow on Friday evening, Nov. 9, as she was crossing the street in front of her home at 189 Mystic Valley Parkway, was sentenced to serve three months in the House of Correction by Justice Jesse W. Morton in the District Court at Woburn yesterday morning.

McGoldrick was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and with leaving the scene of an accident after doing injury to a person without making himself known. He was found not guilty on the first count, and guilty on the second, the three months' sentence being imposed. He appealed and was held in $1000 bonds.

Mrs. Barstow died on Armistice Day in the Winchester Hospital. The number of the machine alleged to have struck her was given to the police by a passing motorist and the car was picked up at Winthrop square, Medford, by the Medford Police only a short time after the accident occurred. At that time McGoldrick, who was in charge of the car, denied all knowledge of the accident. He was turned over by the Medford Police to the Winchester authorities who after questioning him, turned him over to the Metropolitan District Police, accidents on the Parkway being under their jurisdiction.

McGolarick was first arraigned before Associate Justice Maguire in the Woburn Court on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at which time his case was continued until yesterday. There was a large attendance at yesterday's session.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

The first class to be conducted under the Federal Emergency Relief in Education, will be held in the Lincoln School Monday evening, Nov. 26, from 7:30 to 9:30. The class will be in Free-hand Drawing in pencil, pen, and charcoal, in its application to art and nature study. Any person not now in school and having an interest in this subject will be welcome. There will be no charge for the course. The Superintendent of Schools strongly urges any adult or young person, who is no longer in school, to attend this class if he has any interest in drawing. The course will be modified, and even enlarged into possibly two or three separate courses, depending upon the demands and interests of students. A class in "Sketching from Nature" may possibly be held in the daytime. Persons interested in studying art in its several forms are urged to register at the Lincoln School Monday or Tuesday evening, Nov. 26 or 27.

BAD CHECK PASSED IN STORE

George A. Clark of 31 Powderhouse road, Medford, reported to the Police yesterday afternoon that the Winchester Fruit Market on Thompson street, of which he is proprietor, had been the victim of a bad check passer.

Earlier in the day a woman came into the store and gave an order for fruit and vegetables, to be delivered to a home on White street. She proffered a check in payment, signed by a Winchester man, and was given the difference in change between the amount of the order and the $15 for which the check was made out.

At the house the family knew nothing of the order, and the check was found to be bogus. A good description of the woman was given the police.

PROFESSOR KIRTLEY F. MATHER TO GIVE CLOSING LECTURE

The last lecture of the series on Science and Religion, under the auspices of four of the Protestant Churches of Winchester will be given Sunday evening by Prof. Kirtley F. Mather. His subject will be "The Future of the Earth as the Abode of Man."

Professor Mather is one of the most popular lecturers in New England. This series of lectures has been unusually well attended. Everyone is invited to this last lecture. There is no admission. A silver collection is taken to defray the expense of the lecture. Eight o'clock, in the Parish Hall of the First Congregational Church.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk as follows:

Leo John Mawn of 44 Canal street and Beatrice Donnelly of 4 Everett avenue, Beverly Farms.

Anthony Carmino Ficociello of 72 Oak street and Rose Marie Pepe of 55 Harrison avenue, Woburn.

NEEDLE WORK GUILD OF AMERICA

On Wednesday, Nov. 21 in the charming rooms of the Unitarian Parish House, there gathered at least 25 directors and friends of the Winchester branch of the Needlework Guild. Every member enjoyed the story brought by our busy school nurse, Mrs. Savage.

The graphic description of a typical day's work in touch with the children in the shops and often with the homes from which they come, brought us vivid pictures not easily forgotten.

Economic depression does not affect the ardor of the members of this Guild. Tables were covered with a wonderful display of warm garments for children and a few for older members of the family, who would also appreciate the household linens.

A good 600 articles were given to our Welfare organizations. Each church group had its share for distribution and the Town Welfare representative, the Visiting and School Nurses all were happy in the realization that they had a supply of good new articles to bring warmth, comfort and cheer to our less fortunate neighbors in the community.

All over this country there are branches of the Guild carrying on this very worth while work of "building a bridge from the land of plenty to the island of want."

After long and devoted service Mrs. F. W. Roberts has resigned as secretary and Mrs. Albert Hersey was elected to fill her place. Mrs. Wm. C. Sache was chosen to fill the vacancy left by the death of Mrs. Eugene Wilde as second vice president. The president, Mrs. Robert V. Davis; 1st vice president, Mrs. Louis Barta and treasurer, Mrs. George Fitch will continue in office. There are three new directors this year: Mrs. John Page, Mrs. Robert Thomason and Mrs. Ernest Eustis.

WINCHESTER GIRLS BEAT MELROSE

Winchester High School girls field hockey team closed its interscholastic season yesterday afternoon at Melrose, blanking the Melrose girls, 1 to 0. Annie Colucci, diminutive left winger, scored the only goal of the varsity game, the Winchester seconds shut out the Melrose seconds, 2 to 0, goals being scored by Gertrude Harwood and Gladys Moulton.

Following is the first team summary:

WINCHESTER		MELROSE
Bailo, rw		rw, Manner
Gilbert, ri		ri, Riddell
Glidden, cf		cf, Sulkins
Stevens, li		li, Richardson
Colucci, lw		lw, Richardson

Score Winchester 1. Goal Colucci. Umpire Neilson. Time 15 minute halves.

The Winchester girls will close the season Saturday forenoon with the annual Alumnae game on Manchester Field.

Janet Bradlee, Sylvia Hatch, Caroline Lampee, Teresa Colucci, Margery Little, Harriet Cooper Betty Emery and Dorothy Waters are some of the players likely to be in the graduates lineup.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The Building Commissioner has issued permits for alterations and the erection of buildings on the property owned by the following for the week ending, Thursday, Nov. 22:

D. H. Hintlian, Winchester—inside alterations to dwelling, 115 Church street.

Ellen Brown, Winchester—addition to dwelling at 2 Wedgemere road.

T. Gilman Stanton, Winchester—repair barn after fire at 2 Chestnut street.

Caroline D. Fitts, Winchester—to remove shed from end of barn at 9 Grassmere avenue.

Alfred D. Elliott, Winchester—add garage in basement of dwelling at 5 Inverness road.

Frank E. Rowe, Winchester—reshingle dwelling at 30 Vine street.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The Annual Union Thanksgiving Service of the Protestant Churches of Winchester will be held in the Baptist Church Wednesday evening, Nov. 28, at 7:45. Rev. R. Mitchell Rushton, pastor of the Baptist Church, will give the address. His subject will be "David's Thanksgiving Service."

Misses Marjorie and Virginia French of 108 Highland avenue, will attend the Harvard-Yale foothall game at New Haven this week-end. After the game they will motor to New York where they are to spend several days visiting their brother, Mr. Arthur E. French.

CONGREGATIONAL "COUNTY CARNIVAL" MOST SUCCESSFUL

To judge by the crowds that jammed its every session the Congregational "County Carnival" held Wednesday afternoon and evening and Thursday afternoon in the parish social hall and vestry was one of the most successful affairs of its kind yet sponsored by the enterprising ladies of that church.

The attractive decorations added much to the festivity of the carnival, unusual crepe paper drops and festoons combined with natural birch poles and evergreen making an excellent background while the attendants, all in country costumes provided added atmosphere.

Most of the booths were ranged around the social hall and did a thriving business, particularly during the afternoon of the opening day. The children, while the grown-ups were busy in the hall were revelling in the attractions of the midway, in charge of Mrs. George French and Mrs. Harry Locke, or riding real ponies under the direction of Mrs. Robert Drake. Mrs. Homer Davidson was in charge of the children's ice cream table and the witches grabs were supervised by Mrs. Philip Johnson.

Special mention of the witches grabs should be made. They were located in a birch lean-to with pine-bough roof, under which were suspended real cauldrons. The vestry, in which the midway was located, was gay with baronial shields and like decorations, remeniscent of Old English fairs, and worthy much more than casual notice.

During the afternoon Carl Wood and Ralph, Albert and Genieva Manning gave an excellent exhibition of rope throwing in western costume, the exhibition being repeated in the evening with great success.

Between 500 and 600 stormed the cafeteria supper served at 6 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Edward Grosvenor and Mrs. Charles Greene, who were assisted by their husbands, clad in chefs' hats and white coats. It was necessary to raid Richardson's Market to provide sufficient viands for the wholly unexpected number of guests.

During the serving of the supper a "Rube Band" in costume, whose leader looked surprisingly like Parker Clarke, burst into the hall, playing "The Old Grey Mare" and continued with other tunes to advertise the evening midway, run under the auspices of the church Men's Club to assist in the carnival.

President Rex Crandall acted as general chairman of the midway with Arthur F. Sawyer in charge of decorations and Arthur Adams as cashier. Reveley H. B. Smith was the barker for the "Freaks" and introduced Daniel Kelley as the bearded lady, Samuel Graves as half woman-half man, Harry Miley as "Big Chief Unk," Paul Crabtree as the fat lady, Clifford Cunningham, Jr. as the juggler and John Lobengier and "Gray" Twombly as the Siamese Twins.

Leon Sargent "barked" for the bottle ringing; "Nate" Thumin, for the dart throwing; Everett Arnold, for the cane ringing; "Ed" Merriam, for the airplane game; Frank Kelley, for hit-the-nail; and Ralph Joslin and Franklin Lane for barrel ball. Oscar Crawford got plenty of laughs with his "hit-the-ape" game, and special mention should be made of the capers of Kenneth Pratt as the "ape." An orchestra furnished music for dancing throughout the evening, and an accordian girl, Miss Dorothy Obbe, wandered about the booths and among the crowd in the midway playing melodious selections on her ornate instrument. All sorts of venders, in costume, dashed about purveying their wares under the direction of Mrs. Reveley Smith, and one group of attractive girls, made a big hit as "shoe-shines" under the supervision of Mrs. John Wills. Miss Barbara Fernald was in charge of the cider well and Mrs. Annie Grant of the grabs. Wednesday afternoon's fortune teller, using cards, was Mrs. Mabel E. Alden and Mrs. Chaffee of Watertown read fortunes by palmistry during the evening.

Thursday afternoon's special features were an old fashioned quilting bee, under the direction of Mrs. Several E. Newmah and tea, served by Mrs. L. K. Snyder and Mrs. Delbert Esterbrook.

Co-chairmen in charge of the entire carnival were Mrs. Samuel Cole and Mrs. Franklin Lane, assisted by Mrs. Rex Crandall and Mrs. Florence Scales was executive chairman and treasurer and Mrs. Paul Howard was in charge of publicity. The attractive art posters were the work of Mrs. John Lobengier and Miss May Thompson.

Following are the booth chairmen and venders:

Palmer's Posies, Mrs. W. L. Palmer
Jones' Christmas Creations Mrs. Clyde Jones
Emporium Mrs. James Smith, Miss Margaret Sands, Mrs. Everett Smith
Andrews' Bakery Mrs. Earle Andrews
Smith's Candy Kitchen Mrs. C. Harold Smith

MR. BUTTERWORTH NEW WATER AND SEWER BOARD MEMBER

At a joint meeting held Monday night, the Board of Selectmen and the Water and Sewer Board elected Elwell R. Butterworth to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Charles E. Kendall.

Mr. Butterworth has been a resident and taxpayer in Winchester for 21 years. He lives at 107 Cambridge street, purchasing a home in 1912. He is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He served on the Finance Committee from 1927 to 1930 and was on the sub-committee dealing with the Water Department for three years. He has served the Town on many committees. Through his efforts as a member of the Boundary Line Committee, the Metropolitan Park Commission purchased some of the Symmes' land adjacent to the Water supply. He served as secretary to the Committee on Additional Water Supply. He is superintendent of the Reversible Collar Company of Cambridge who manufacture a varied line of paper products. He has had a very large experience both in business and engineering.

Mr. Butterworth is more familiar with the problems of the Water and Sewer Department than anyone else in Winchester outside of the Board. The town is very fortunate in being able to procure the services of Mr. Butterworth.

THE ANNUAL ROLL CALL OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day

The White House,
Washington, D. C.
Nov. 1, 1934

Our people continue to look to the American Red Cross as the kindly and always helpful good neighbor to whom they turn for practical aid in emergency. They do so with the assurance that this national relief agency, with an organization in 13,000 American communities, has not and will not fail them.

In the difficult 12 months which have elapsed since last November, Red Cross volunteers throughout the land have worked in close co-operation with the Federal, State and local governments in their humanitarian labors. Their service has not been limited to aid in furnishing the actual necessities of life, but has extended to the equally important field of safeguarding public health and of training their neighbors in the proper methods of caring for the sick or the injured.

At the same time the organization has continued to fulfill its obligations as our agency of relief for every community visited by disaster.

The Red Cross is looked upon as the representative of all of our people in times of distress. In order that it may continue its service to humanity it is highly important that we lend our support through individual membership.

I hope every one who possibly can do so will respond generously to the Red Cross appeal.

Franklin D. Roosevelt,
President

J. J. BYRNES IS NEW A. & P. STORES HEAD

On Nov. 17, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company announced the election of J. J. Byrnes as president of its New England Division, effective immediately. Mr. Byrnes succeeds W. J. Davidson, who becomes vice chairman of the Board of Directors, after 10 years as president.

Mr. Byrnes comes to the New England Division of the A. & P. with a background of 26 years' experience with the Tea Company, including the development of territories in Baltimore and Philadelphia, and the opening of the Pacific Coast territory for the A. & P. His most recent position has been first vice president of the Central Division of A. & P., with headquarters in Pittsburgh.

In commenting on his new position and on the business of the A. & P. in New England, Mr. Byrnes said today, "It is a pleasure for me to come back to New England for many reasons. In the first place, I am no stranger to this section. Much of my early work with A. & P. was done in New England, and I have always had the most pleasant recollections of my stay here.

It is also a pleasure to come into the territory where the founder of our business, Mr. George Huntington Hartford, was born. A Maine Yankee, from Augusta, he brought much of New England shrewdness and character into this business, and left the mark of his early training on its policies. The growth and development of the Company which he founded 75 years ago are tributes to his genius.

New England to us has always been a friendly territory, and one of the most prosperous in which we do business. It is a territory which not only buys much from A. & P.—but it is also a territory which sells to A. & P. much more than it buys. We are glad that this is so, and we propose to keep it so. The products of New England farms and factories are highly regarded throughout the nation. A. & P. customers everywhere have confidence in them. It is a pleasure for A. & P. to spend in New England the millions of dollars needed every year to provide New England products for our stores everywhere.

It is a pleasure, too, to afford employment to so vast an army of New Englanders as are numbered among our employees in this territory. Our transportation bills, rents, taxes, supplies, and other expenditures all help us to feel that we are truly a part of New England and a factor in maintaining its prosperity.

In our stores and in our markets we shall continue to offer the very best foods that can be obtained, and to offer them at the lowest prices consistent with quality. We shall endeavor to maintain high standards of service, and wherever it is possible to improve our service, we shall do so.

Business is good with us in New England, and we have every confidence that it will be better,—not only for us but for all lines of activity in this section."

ELKS HELD SPECIAL ELECTION

Arthur J. Harty, New Exalted Ruler

At a special election of officers, held Tuesday evening in the lodge rooms in Lyceum Building, Winchester Lodge of Elks, 1445, elected Arthur J. Harty, former Esteemed Leading Knight, Exalted Ruler to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Leo J. Finnegan.

Former Selectman Harry W. Stevens was elected Esteemed Leading Knight Henry A. McGrath, Esteemed Loyal Knight; and Representative William F. Ramsdell, Esteemed Lecturing Knight. Other officers remain unchanged. The installation of the newly elected officers will be held on Dec. 4.

WINCHESTER YOUNG MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED

Victor LaDuke, 20, of 607 Main street was seriously injured shortly after midnight last Saturday when the automobile in which he was riding with Charles Irwin, 19, of 59 Ridge street and Joseph McKee, 20, of 78 Main street, struck a telegraph pole on Main street in North Woburn near the Wilmington line.

According to the police Irwin was driving the machine which was headed south. The car failed to negotiate a curve in the road, and veering across the street, crashed into the pole, breaking it off short.

After hitting the pole the machine continued for about 100 feet carrying the pole and its attached wires along on the car, coming to a stop over a six foot embankment at the Macanio farm.

The Woburn police were notified and the three young men, all of whom were injured, were rushed to the Choate Hospital in Woburn where they were attended by Drs. Verp Stewart and Thomas E. Caulfield. McKee sustained cuts and bruises on the head and face while he trained bruises and abrasions of leg and body. Both were sent home after treatment.

LaDuke was believed to have sustained serious body injuries and his name was at once placed upon the hospital danger list. The last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered by Rev. Fr. Charles P. Heaney, pastor of St. Charles Church in Woburn.

It is thought that LaDuke was thrown against the steering post of the machine which was completely wrecked and towed from the road upon orders of Sergt. Henry Sweeney of the Woburn Police.

The young men had attended a dance in Stoneham Friday evening and had visited a restaurant in Wilmington, from which they were on their way home when the crash occurred. All three are well known in Winchester, Irwin having appeared in local wrestling shows last winter while McKee has played football, baseball and basketball in the local independent and semi-pro ranks. LaDuke who is a good swimmer, was formerly employed at the Calumet Club and at the Winchester Alleys.

His injuries proved not so serious as was at first supposed, and X-ray pictures disclosed nothing broken. He was reported Tuesday as out of immediate danger and getting along satisfactorily.

HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE

Through the courtesy of Mr. Ernest Dudley Chase of this town, a most enjoyable evening was spent at the Home for Aged People in Winchester last Friday, when Mr. Chase showed motion pictures of one of his European trips.

The crossing was made on the beautiful French liner, Ile de France. Landing in France, trips through that country were taken by automobile, visiting early chateaux and the ancient fortifications of Carcassonne. Marvelous views of the Pyrennes, Mont Blanc, the Swiss Alps, Italian and Swiss lakes, and intimate pictures of village and city life were shown. Then followed scenes at Oberammergau at the time of the Passion Play, and up into Germany. After about two hours of entertainment, the skyline of New York was visible and the travelers were back again in the United States.

Mr. Chase's running comment added much to the enjoyment of the pictures which were most artistically taken.

After the pictures, there was an informal meeting of the directors, their wives or husbands, and those at the home, and a collation, arranged by Mrs. Marshall J. England and Mrs. Charles R Main, was served by the visiting ladies.

Produces Vitamin A

Young herbage, besides being a rich storehouse of proteins, sugars, starches, and essential minerals contains carotene which in the body of an animal produces vitamin A. This vitamin promotes growth in farm stock as well as in human beings, and enables them to resist disease.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The badges and awards committee have planned the rally which is to take place in the high school auditorium on Saturday, Nov. 24 at which time they will present the badges earned during the summer and they will also make a special award. Parents and friends are invited to attend the informal program at 4:30 p. m. and Dr. Fozier's lecture at 7 p. m. in the auditorium. The supper in the lunch room at 6 p. m. is for Winchester Scouts only.

The Drum and Bugle Corps will meet Monday, Nov. 6 in the Town Hall, beginning at 3:30 p. m., advanced at 4:15. Notices have been sent only to those who handed their names to their captains, but other Scouts interested may come.

Troop 3 will meet Tuesday, Nov. 27 at the home of Alice Lyman, 15 Lawson road, 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. Girls of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior High School classes are invited to come, whether they registered last time or not. There will be a talk on the field of physical education. Each Scout will bring her own supper.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

The outstanding event on the calendar of the Guild was its bazaar and fair held in the main hall room of the Copley Plaza on Tuesday, Nov. 20 from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. The ball room was transformed into a market place and villagers in picturesque Normandy costumes and headdresses gathered around the gaily decorated booths for the purchase or display of their attractive wares and novelties.

The Winchester Chapter presided over the "Pavillon de Nouveants" (Miscellaneous table) with Mrs. Michael Hintlian as chairman. The many beautiful works of art are hard to describe and this table turned into the general treasury a very substantial amount.

The outstanding person at this table was Mrs. Catherine Dolan, "Grandame Dolen," the oldest member of the Winchester Chapter. In a very beautiful costume she presided over the "grabs" for the children and was a distinctive figure of the whole fair.

Others from Winchester were Mrs. Michael Hintlian, chairman; Mrs. Allan Beausang, Mrs. T. E. Caulfield, Mrs. Louis Chevalier, Mrs. William Cronghwell, Mrs. Theodore Dissell, Mrs. Frank Evans, Mrs. Thomas Hennessey, Mrs. Thomas Feeney, Mrs. James Gaffney, Mrs. Daniel Kelley, Mrs. E. J. McDevitt, Mrs. George [illegible]brick, Mrs. Ralph Sexton, Mrs. Wood, Miss Mabel Siske, Mrs. [illegible]sterberg, Mrs. James Carr, Mrs. [illegible]ert Cavanagh, Mrs. Harry Cox, [illegible]rs. James Day, Mrs. Catherine Doan, Mrs. James Haley, Mrs. William Hickey, Mrs. J. R. Felt, Mrs. Virgil Ghiradini, Miss Mary Lyons, Mrs. Thomas McDonough, Mrs. Richard Sheehy, Mrs. John O'Leary.

On Thursday the Glee Club had a very successful meeting at the home of Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini, Foxcroft road.

On next Tuesday there will be an all day sewing circle. Members are invited to bring box lunch and hot coffee will be furnished.

RADIO CONTEST ENDS NEXT WEDNESDAY

The big radio contest which the Park Radio Company of this town is conducting for its patrons and friends is to positively end on Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving.

A fine Sparton radio is being given absolutely free to the one guessing the correct number of tubes now in the show window of the company headquarters at 609 Main street. Any one is eligible to enter the contest and there are no strings attached. Already many have estimated the number of tubes but the company is desirous of having many more try to win the fine prize they are offering the fortunate winner.

Stock Market Phrase

In the United States stock market a point usually means one dollar. There is a variation according to the commodity referred to in other market reports. For example, in the cotton and coffee markets it is the one-hundredth part of a cent, and in oil, grain, sugar and pork it is one cent. If cotton goes up 200 points this is a two-cent increase in price; when grain goes up five points it goes up five cents.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Last Friday afternoon Police Headquarters was notified by the Chief of the Fire Department that neighbors were burning rubbish without a permit in an incinerator in the rear of M. Gilman Stanton's barn at 2 Chestnut street. Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey was sent to investigate and found that the fire had been put out. He warned those responsible not to build any more fires without a permit from the Fire Department.

Last Saturday night shortly before midnight, Patrolman Joseph J. Derro noticed smoke coming from the ice cream and candy shop of Horace Ford on Thompson street. He notified Headquarters where Lieut. John Harrold relayed the call to the Fire Department and also notified Manager B. W. Hills of Highland avenue. The firemen found, upon arrival, that an over-heated electric motor was the cause of the trouble.

The local police were notified Monday morning that some time over the past week-end the summer home of Mrs. Bertha Henry of 16 Lawson road, located at Marblehead, had been broken into. The Winchester authorities notified Mrs. Henry.

Monday forenoon, in response to a complaint Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey went to Westland avenue and found a Melrose young man shooting in the woods off that street. He warned him not to discharge firearms within the town limits.

"QUESTION BOX" AT YOUNG PEOPLE'S SUNDAY

Last Sunday's meeting at the Congregational Church will go down in the Society's history as one of the outstanding importance, for a record crowd of 110 appeared to hear Howard Corey's splendid address on, "The Will to Win." The talk was most interesting and helpful, one which the young people will not soon forget. Each received a mimeographed outline of the speech to keep as reference. Supper was served as usual in the social hall, followed by a fireside sing under the leadership of Mrs. Gustin's class of senior girls.

Dr. Chidley will conduct his "Question Box" Sunday, a regular feature every month and one which has proved to be popular with all. This is the second one this year.

Besides this, a delicious turkey supper will be served after the meeting. You won't want to miss that!

The officers of this society are glad to see so much interest shown on the part of the town's young people and it is their wish that these meetings grow with the addition of many new members. Let's make each successive Sunday evening a new record! Come down at 6 o'clock. Everyone of high school age or over is welcome.

BOY SCOUT EXHIBITION DEC. 1

All roads will lead to the big new Tufts College indoor field on Saturday Dec. 1, when the Boy Scout organizations of this vicinity will hold their annual exposition and show. If you attended this big event last year you surely will do so again this season, for it is one of the features of the year—especially if there is a boy or girl in your family.

The event will be held Saturday, Dec. 1 from 2 until 10 p. m.

Each troop will have a decorated booth showing the results of its year's work. There will be staged a series of acts and exhibitions, including life saving, first aid, Scout games, pitching a camp, archery contest fire lighting and other interesting activities.

The purpose of all this is to build character and make boys better citizens.

Last year over 1000 fathers mothers and friends of the Scouts attended this fine exhibition. Encourage the boys by your presence and gain an insight into the work this organization is doing in turning out good citizens.

MUSICALE

A small coterie of friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lochman last Tuesday evening and enjoyed a fine musical treat. The program was entirely informal, the chief attraction being the harp solos of Mr. Caughey on Mrs. Lochman's fine instrument. The balance of the program consisted of piano solos by Mrs. Mary Sargent, well known in Winchester and Mrs. Reynolds of Cambridge, the latter also being an accomplished player of the harp. Mrs. Sibley delighted her hearers with her violin solos and Mrs. Clara Morrison's vocal selections were much enjoyed. The "fun" of the evening was contributed by Mrs. Morrison and Mr. Lochman with their rendition of the "Singing Lesson," after which Mr. Lochman told the audience "Why Adam Sinned" with Mrs. Lochman at the piano. On request of the audience, Mrs. Lochman rendered a selection on the organ.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Helen I. Fessenden reports the recent passing of papers conveying to Frederick Nardin of Chicago the residence property just completed by James A. Conde, builder, located at 30 Stowell road, Winchester in the Symmes Corner section. This property is most artistic in design, being a Cape Cod colonial with attached garage. It contains eight rooms, two beautifully tiled baths and a 10,000 foot lot. It has not yet been assessed. Mr. Nardin is connected with the editorial department of the Houghton Mifflin Company of Boston, which firm he formerly represented in Chicago for many years. He buys for a home.

Mrs. Fessenden also reports the sale of a lot of land on Main street, corner of Stowell road, Winchester. The seller was Bertha Henry and the buyer, Francis A. Gleason of Winchester.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"

"Nothing But the Truth" is going to be the talk of the town! Could you win a bet by telling the absolute truth for 24 hours? This play has a different, sizzling plot, is packed full of riotous comedy, chuckles, giggles, guffaws and cheers.

If you've seen the play before, never mind, you'll just get more out of it this time. At any rate come and see what talented amateurs can do with a professional coach, the well-known stock company player, Mr. John E. Hines.

Don't forget you have a date with us on Friday evening, Dec. 7 at 8:15 o'clock in the High School Auditorium. We'll be seeing you.

SENIOR SOCIAL AT ST. MARY'S

On Friday, Nov. 16, the Senior Class of St. Mary's High School held its annual social evening in the school auditorium. The hall was attractively decorated in autumnal colors, which blended with the multi-colored costumes of the students. The first prize was awarded to Rita Moffett, who was attired as a Red Cross nurse. The booby prize for the most ridiculous costume was awarded to Ruth O'Melia who was dressed as a tramp. Refreshments were served and dancing followed with music furnished by "Bob" Severe and his orchestra.

Mr. Adams Entertains with Fine Program of Magic

After the strenuous period of quarterly test, nothing could have enlivened the spirits of the student body more than the performance of Mr. Adams, president of the National Society of Magicians. In an assembly Wednesday morning, Mr. Adams amused the entire school by his deft motions in performing mysterious feats of magic. His patter as he went through each performance was as entertaining as his actions.

By using various members of the audience to aid him in his puzzling and mysterious actions, the performance was made twice as hilarious. Many chemistry students sat up and took notice when he produced grape juice from ordinary drinking water; they had been taught this trick by Mr. Alley, but were unable to follow the proceedings of Mr. Adams.

Perhaps the most fascinating part of the whole program was the card trick. Mr. Adams, after having three cards chosen from the pack by members of the audience, shuffled the cards, placed them in a goblet and then went out into the audience and called the cards which had been chosen. He gave directions for a certain card to rise and turn to the right and drop from the goblet. Lo and behold, the cards did as they were bid, much to the amazement of all those present. When he had finished all returned regretfully to their home rooms, wishing that more assemblies similar to this would be forthcoming.

The Senior Class has chosen the Warren Kay Vantine Studio for their class photographer.

Report cards for the first quarter were issued this week.

Banking Increases

The per cent of the school in banking for the week of Nov. 13 was 94; last week it was 92 per cent; $139.15 was the amount banked over 21c per person.

Play, Cast and Committee Hard at Work

Final plans for the production of the Junior-Senior Class play, "Nothing But the Truth" are progressing rapidly under the direction of Mr. Hines and the hard working committee. At the rehearsals, which take place behind closed doors, the frankness of the members of the cast often occasionally provides a little zest and humor to an afternoon full of hard co-operative work.

This cast of ten isn't the only group which spends its time laboring to make the play a success. Each afternoon finds Richard Elliot somewhere in the auditorium, patiently waiting for stage suggestions from Mr. Hines and becoming familiar with the stage settings and with the play. Others who are undoubtedly contributing to the success of the production are the girls composing the property committee, the stage crew and Nancy Hall, the prompter.

If you like real good comedy, don't miss "Nothing But the Truth," by James Montgomery, being presented at 8:15 in the high school auditorium on Dec. 7.

A. A. Fall Dance Attracts Large Crowd

There could have been no more appropriate time for an A. A. dance than after Winchester's important victory over Maynard. Everyone seemed to feel the enthusiasm due to the team and from the very beginning the evening was headed straight for success.

The gym was most attractively decorated with many colored balloons. Other attractions of the evening were the Harvard Gold Coast Orchestra, and the refreshments.

The patrons and patronesses, Mr. and Mrs. Grindle, Mr. and Mrs. Stacy, Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield, Mr. Cotton and his charming girl friend, entered into the spirit of things and seemed to enjoy themselves fully as much as did the student body.

Once again the Athletic Association headed by Gerard Gaffney has set a high mark to shoot at.

Thanksgiving

Miss Bronson, ably assisted by David Grosvenor, president of the Junior Red Cross and the other representatives throughout the school, are appealing earnestly to every member of the student body to make some sort of a contribution for again this year the Red Cross is joining with the other charitable organizations within the town to fill baskets in their efforts to see that no family within the town will lack a Thanksgiving dinner. Let's give!

School Ping Pong Team Challenges Faculty, First Clash Yesterday

A clever four man team, composed of "Dick" Leghorn, Walter Snow, Edward Stone and Kenneth Lochner the four who placed at the top in the recent open school tournament met a team made up of Mr. Alley, Mr. Butters, Mr. Graves and Mr. Hayward of the high school faculty, yesterday afternoon in the school gymnasium. The result is known by the time you read this article, but as we went to press, we were predicting a narrow margin victory for the school boys. Regardless of the outcome, the two teams will meet once or twice more during the season.

The Artist's Point of View

Last Monday, in the library, the "Personality" girls listened to a talk given by Miss Weed of the Vesper George School of Art, in Boston. Miss Weed took "Costume, Fashion Points and Accessory Values" for her topic and she discussed these items from the artistic point of view. She brought out the fact that any girl is an artist who takes successful strides to make herself better looking.

Miss Weed spoke on how to select a dress, taking as main factors personality, fabric, accessory values and ease of upkeep. No one should never be a slave to fashion, but should modify the "high" styles to suit her particular type and need. Color is very important, and should be chosen to bring out the nicest skin tones, and to hide blemishes and angles. Accessories are of great value in changing the appearance of a plain dress; collars and cuffs should be light and easily removable. The upkeep of a garment should also be considered, especially the facility of cleansing.

Many new styles are really only old ones done over, for a common way of deriving new styles is to take an old Oriental, Russian, French or other foreign costume and modify it to suit the needs of the modern woman. American especially. Many American designers are doing the same to Parisian styles, which are usually too extreme. Hollywood fashions are coming into prominence and even the Chicago World's Fair has influenced this geometrical note in designing.

Miss Weed spoke to the girls a bit on cosmetics, bringing out how essential it is to always have tones match. She mentioned that brilliant nail polish is rapidly "going out." There was then a general discussion with questions asked, and answered, the girls then went on to their next class with this point clearly in mind: "Simplicity is quality."

WINCHESTER AND WOBURN IN ANNUAL TURKEY DAY CLASH

Winchester High will close its 1934 football campaign on Thanksgiving morning when it journeys to Woburn to play its arch rival, Woburn High, on the stadium at the rear of the high school building on Montvale avenue. It is expected that a typical Winchester-Woburn crowd will be on hand and those who want to get seats will do well to get to the field early.

Neither eleven will enter the game undefeated, and there is no championship at stake, but either team would rather win this particular game than all its other contests put together.

Advance dope means very little when the Black and Red mingles with the Orange and Black. No matter how poor a season either school may have, it may be counted upon to give its ancient enemy a battle. The tension of the game is so great that almost anything can happen.

Woburn is very confident this year and most of the "wise ones" are picking the Orange. The Tanners are favorites, and on the basis of comparative scores, should be. Both Winchester and Woburn have played Stoneham and Belmont, and Woburn's showing against these teams is much better than the locals'. The Tanners beat Stoneham, 20 to 0 and won from Belmont, 25 to 6, while Winchester beat Stoneham, 7 to 0, and lost to Belmont, 6 to 0. Woburn competes in a stronger class than Winchester and should have more general strength than the local boys.

It is hardly likely however that the Tanners will find Winchester any set-up on Turkey Day. Only four touchdowns have been scored against the locals all season and two of these were made by the powerful Arlington team, a much stronger club than any Woburn has met. Competent officiating would have prevented one touchdown at Arlington and nullified Belmont's score, so offensively it can be seen that Winchester is not exactly soft. At Maynard last Saturday Coach Mansfield's charges showed something of the punch their followers have been expecting all season. A repetition of their Maynard showing will make the locals a hard team to beat at Woburn.

The Star looks for a close hard battle with the "breaks" having plenty to do with the final outcome. That old first touchdown is going to mean a lot next Thursday. The Tanners are a tough club to beat in their own backyard, and this fact alone should install them slight favorites. It is to be hoped that the boys will have a dry field on which to play so that both teams can show their best brand of football.

SURVIVOR TELLS WHAT RED CROSS DID IN THE MORRO CASTLE DISASTER

"Heretofore I used to contribute a dollar a year to the Red Cross. I just gave it to them, that's all. I had no appreciation for the real work they did. From now on, I'm a booster for that organization.

These words appear in the Herald-Tribune of Upper Darby, Pennsylvania, in an interview with George Sivaton, a local business man who not only saved his own life in the Morro Castle disaster but without doubt the lives of seven women whom he found in the water. He got them to hold hands in a circle and to keep up until they were rescued by a fishing boat. They landed at Spring Lake, New Jersey, where volunteers of the local Chapter were engaged in helping the survivors.

"They treated us like we were their very own," Mr. Sivaton said. "They had clothes, shoes, beds, food, coffee and cigarettes. Only those of us who were lucky enough to survive can know just how much the Red Cross did. There were doctors, nurses, and attendants of all kinds. None of us who landed could have got better medical attention. There were day nurses and night nurses detailed to watch over us. I tell you, they did praiseworthy work."

When Mr. Sivaton received a letter from the chief of police of Spring Lake telling him that his wallet had been found, he wrote to the chief asking him to return the wallet and its papers but to turn the money over to the local Red Cross.

"If they find any other of my belongings, I'll give them to the Red Cross, too," he said.

BATH, CITY OF BUNS, DUELS AND ROMAN RUINS

Bath, England, home of the Bath bun and of medicinal springs used since pre-Roman days, is also the place where charming Sally Lunn first baked the famous sweetened tea cakes that bear her name. Reopening of her original bow-windowed shop in Lilliput Alley reawakens interest in this quaint city, once the most fashionable watering place in England.

Situated on the Avon, about 12 miles south of Bristol, Bath's gray stone houses climb in parallel terraces up the encircling green hills. Famous as the town where England's 18th century life and culture came into flower, Bath is noted also because it contains more Roman ruins than any other English city, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Roman relics unearthed during recent excavations, although extensive, form only a meager part of the original Roman buildings which underlie practically the entire foundations of Bath.

Romans First to Make it a Resort

Bath's turbulent history began about 44 A. D. Roman legions storming westward through the Avon Valley found Britons bathing in the medicinal Springs of Sul. Rededicating the springs to Minerva, Romans surrounded them with elaborate mosaic baths, temples and villas. Here swarmed gouty magistrates and wounded warriors to recuperate.

Ruined by the Saxons, again by the Normans, Bath became a desolate city, its hot springs flooding broken cellars. When Queen Elizabeth visited the city she found it unsanitary, its inhabitants disorderly. In spite of dirt and discomfort, however, Bath's healing springs drew a steady influx of visitors. The baths presented a curious sight with motley mobs of louse-robed men and women wading up to their necks in the steaming water.

Made fashionable finally by the visit of Queen Anne, Bath became England's most popular spa. Invalid nobility, nouveaux riches, doctors, demimondes, and gamblers flocked to the resort. Most famous among the latter was the dandy, Beau Nash, whose dazzling arrival marked the beginning of Bath's era of refinement and greatest prosperity. Until then, although kings sometimes held their courts there, Bath was still a maze of squalid houses crowded together on sordid streets, where pedestrians were attacked by footpads and taunted by owners of Bath chairs. Women were frequently insulted, and men danced in muddy boots, wearing swords, which they drew at the slightest provocation.

Beau Nash, Genial Despot of Fashion

Beau Nash, upon being made Master of Ceremonies at Bath, made rules forbidding dueling and wearing of swords while dancing. He had the mean streets paved and lighted, a handsome assembly room built for gaming, and engaged a band for dancing. Blazing in gold lace, overshadowed by an immense white beaver hat (which he selected reputedly because no one could steal it) Beau Nash was a picturesque figure. Under his genial despotism, frivolous life at Bath proceeded gaily with many quaint customs. New arrivals at Bath were heralded by fiddling waits and ringing church bells. Attendance at the gaming tables was preceded each evening by participation in service at the Abbey Church.

Bath becoming cramped, the architects John Wood, Senior and Junior, rebuilt it in terraces, crescents and squares on surrounding hills. Two thoroughfares which particularly pleased 18th century classic-worshippers are the great curved streets called the "circuses," whose crescent rows of Ionic-pillared houses front vast lawns and tree-filled parks.

Many architects consider Bath the "best situated and most nobly built English city," calling it the "Florence of England." Heightening the similarity is the Pulteney Bridge, whose three stone arches, like the Ponte Vecchio, are lined with two-storied houses and shops.

After Bath's heyday as a fashion resort passed, it still drew artists and writers, as Greenwich Village does today, to describe its unique life. Most 18th century novels contain references to it. Frequenters of Bath were Dickens, Scott, Goldsmith, Wordsworth, Sheridan, Fielding, Lord Nelson, Lord Chesterfield, Dr. Johnson, and James Boswell. It was in Bath that Sally Fairfax, beloved of George Washington, died. Bath inspired Gainsborough's most beautiful landscapes.

Healing Springs Contain Radium

Bath today resembles an ancient "grande dame," dreaming over past balls; some of which keep up until they were rescued by a fishing boat. They landed at Spring Lake, New Jersey, where volunteers of the local Chapter were engaged in helping the survivors.

"They treated us like we were their very own," Mr. Sivaton said. "They had clothes, shoes, beds, food, coffee and cigarettes. Only those of us who were lucky enough to survive can know just how much the Red Cross did. There were doctors, nurses, and attendants of all kinds. None of us who landed could have got better medical attention. There were day nurses and night nurses detailed to watch over us. I tell you, they did praiseworthy work."

CONDOLES WITH DEMOCRATS ON THEIR GREAT DISASTER

To the Editor of The Herald:

May I through your paper extend my condolences to the Democratic Party upon the decisive beating they have just taken at the polls by the Socialists?

In 1932, the Democratic Party adopted the following planks in their platform, and on that platform elected Franklin Delano Roosevelt. In 1932 the Democratic Party solemnly promised by appropriate action to put into effect the following principles and policies: I quote—

They advocated an immediate reduction of governmental expenditures and the abolishing of useless commissions and offices.

Consolidating of departments and bureaus and eliminating extravagance.

Accomplishing a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of Federal government.

Calling on the Democratic Party in the states to make a zealous effort to achieve a proportionate result.

Maintenance of the national credit by Federal budget annually balanced on the basis of accurate executive estimates within revenues.

A system of taxation levied on the principle of ability to pay.

Sound currency to be preserved at all hazards.

The spread of employment by a substantial reduction in the hours of labor and the encouragement of the shorter work week by applying that principle in government service.

The removal of government from all fields of private enterprise, except where necessary to develop public works.

Continuous publicity of political contributions and expenditures, and severe penalties for misappropriation of campaign funds, and condemned the improper and excessive use of money in political activities.

Do many of the voters recall this platform?

After four years of depression many people wanted a change. Roosevelt was elected and forced the New Deal on the country. Then followed two years of what might be termed Roosevelt depression. Business was hampered. Confidence lost. Government expenditures were not decreased. They are today larger than ever before in the nation's history. Departments were not consolidated. Where one grew before, there are two today.

The Federal Government has not accomplished a saving. It is employing thousands on faked jobs where no one works. We have no national credit and we haven't balanced the budget. Our taxes are mounting. Where is the sound currency?

The shorter work week and reduction in hours of labor have been forced on employers. The government has worked its regular employes harder and longer than ever before. For example, the Post Office Department has reduced its employes' wages and given them longer hours. But the millions on the dole lean on their shovels and are a preferred class.

The government is now competing with private business. Not needing to show profits, they can underbid. There is no need to solicit for Democrat' funds. The U. S. Treasury pays these bills by relief, and the dole, and there is no one to report the "contributions" to. And do the Democrats condemn the excessive use of money in political activities?

In the past two years the Democratic Party has followed the platform put out in 1932 by Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate: I quote—

A Federal appropriation of $5,000,000,000 for immediate relief for those in need.

A Federal appropriation of $5,000,000,000 for public works and roads, reforestation, slum clearance and decent homes for workers.

Legislation providing for the acquisition of land, buildings, and equipment necessary to put the unemployed to work.

The six-hour day and five-day week without reduction of wages.

A compulsory system of unemployment compensation and adequate benefits based on contributions by the government and by employers.

Government aid to farmers and small home owners to protect them against mortgage foreclosures. End quote.

And more of the same. The above planks we have worked under for two years. The depression which started under Hoover, and was the result of the World War and the extravagance and stupidity of the whole country, has now become a depression by decree. The much advertised New Deal is nothing on earth but the Socialist platform. The New Deal was not new. It was borrowed from Norman Thomas, and the Democrats have swallowed it all.

They have had two years to learn what it was all about and go back to constitutional government. But the New Deal sounded good, so they have voted for it when it called itself Democratic. When it took its correct name and flew the Socialist flag, they repudiated it and Upton Sinclair was piously turned down in California.

And so, Mr. Editor, I extend my condolences to the Democratic Party. They don't know it, but Mr. Thomas and the Socialists have made a smashing victory. The Democratic Party has ceased to exist. As a devout follower of the borrowed New Deal we have in Massachusetts our first Socialist Governor, former Mayor Curley. The campaign expenditures will not have to be declared.

Do the citizens of this country wish to turn our great free land into a suburb of Russia? Let them think before they have, and before it is too late. Once Lenin's power is firmly vested in the United States capital, there will be no loafing at the high wages and no short work days and no freedom. We still have the right to vote as we think. If we go on as we are now going we may not have the right to vote at all in the near future.

DAY AT SCOUT CAMP, AMESBURY

Last summer my two oldest boys attended Scout Camp at Amesbury. As they bid me "Good Bye" they said, "Why don't you be a sport, Dad, and come up and spend a couple of days with us." Well, Dad, was a sport and went up, he went for a three-day visit.

I found the location of the camp at Amesbury was beautiful. A large parade ground, a pleasing river, a large mess hall for meals, many small bunk houses, etc.

But why talk of building. The boys were the most interesting of all—little boys, big boys, fat boys, slim boys, and all such happy boys,—swimming, boating, base ball, good care, good food.

The first night I slept in the bunk house the canvas cot was not so soft. The second night it felt like a feather bed. I was awakened in the morning by strains of music. What was it? One of my bunk boys was playing a splendid rendition of "The Flying Machine" on his harmonica.

Then all hands went for a quick swim in the river. Then the morning roll call, a march to breakfast, a ball game, next a fine dinner, then a rest, another swim, then a good supper. After the dishes and tables were cleared away an entertainment was given by the boys themselves. It consisted of a short play, next a trained dog, then a bugle solo, a harmonica concert, finally taps and sound sleep and snores from tired healthy boys.

I only wish those good citizens who have supported the Scouts could see the many benefits the boys enjoy at camp. A good deal of this work can be seen at the Boy Scout Show taking place in the Tufts indoor gymnasium, Medford, next Saturday afternoon and evening, Dec. 1.

Every friend of the Scouts should see this entertainment for it benefits the best of men to go and be a boy again.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Swimming Periods at Y. M. C. A.

Swimming and Life Saving instruction for Boy Scouts and Seascouts of the Fellsland Council has been arranged through the courtesy of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A., Charlestown. The swimming pool has been reserved for the Scouts of Winchester on alternate Saturday mornings from 9 o'clock to 12 noon, beginning Saturday, Nov. 24, and continuing throughout the winter months.

On the reserved Saturdays will be a corps of Boy Scout o present from the Fellsland C including an American Red Cro Saving Examiner, to assist Sc learning to swim and to give li ing instruction. This is a wo opportunity for boys to adv: swimming, qualify as life savers, and pass tests for the life saving merit badge. Charlestown Y. M. C. A. has also offered us the use of the gymnasium for one hour on the above dates, for basketball, volley ball and other games. Scouts, in taking advantage of this privilege, should bring with them a towel and sneakers. There will also be a charge of 10 cents for the use of the pool.

Troop 1 News

The meeting of Monday, Nov. 19, was held in the gymnasium of the Junior High School with a much larger attendance than the previous meeting. The Scouts practiced judging and measuring by the lengths of their paces, after which they played a game of Kims, on a competitive basis. This game consists of placing a handkerchief on which are placed various articles. These are viewed for one minute, after which time the boys trys to remember just what they saw. The inter-patrol competition is still in progress, with the following standing: Beaver Patrol, 169 points; Silver Fox, 98; Panther, 29; and Stag 16.

Tickets for the Scout exposition and show at Tufts College can be purchased from all Scouts in Troop 1. Buy now!

Respectfully submitted,
John Nowell,
Troop Scribe

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

For Emblem Club members and their friends all roads will lead to Lyceum Hall on next Monday evening, Nov. 26. The big event of the club season, a Turkey Bridge and Whist Party, is scheduled for that date, and every effort is being made to make this annual affair bigger and better than ever. Mrs. Esther C. McCarthy, in charge of soliciting, promises a huge assortment of prizes—and everyone knows what she can do in the line of soliciting. Besides the regulation turkey prizes there will be chicken dinners, boiled dinners, flour, sugar, and about everything in the line of souvenirs that can be mentioned. Mrs. Minnie A. O'Neill, general chairman, reports a large sale of tickets, and Mrs. Frances Sullivan, in charge of subscriptions, expects all members to make returns for subscription books. Esteemed Leading Knight Arthur Harty, and other members of the local Lodge of Elks are rendering valuable assistance. All members of the club are urged to do all they can for the success of the affair.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held on Wednesday evening, Dec. 12. Big Sister Emily A. Scholl is planning a house party for her Christmas Charity Fund. Also, plans for the Christmas social will be announced at this time.

All members will rejoice to hear that Sister Lilla B. Green, so long confined to the hospital, is expected to return to her home on Sunday much improved in health. It has been a long, hard siege for her, and a most anxious time for her many friends.

JOIN THE RED CROSS.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

We record one absentee from the meeting of Nov. 22. And so we confidently anticipate another 100 per cent meeting.

District Governor "Dan" has forwarded the attendance record of the 31st District for the month of October, 1934. We take pride in announcing that Winchester with its percentage of 98.08 and its two 100 per cent meetings, advanced from 16th to third place in the standing of the Class D Clubs. Stoneham and Woburn outpointed us and Reading came in a close fourth. Here is a list of four clubs with contiguous boundaries topping the Class D list in one of Rotary's greatest districts. We put it squarely up to our members. Do you want to remain in this honorable company? Or are we to straggle along in a listless fashion with a mediocre attendance rating?

And the point of this stress on attendance records is right here. Experience has amply proven that the good Rotarian is he who attends club meetings with strict regularity. For no man can reap from Rotary, the benefits to which he is entitled unless he attends the weekly gatherings. And equally cogent is the statement that Rotary itself is the loser in proportion as its list of absentees lengthens. We are prone and rightly so, to speak of Winchester as a good town. Let us continue to give it a good Rotary Club.

The December Rotarian will be a winner. Which is quite in the ordinary run of events for the Rotarian. Radio fans and their name is legion will not miss the article by Marconi, inventor of wireless, telling us what we may expect in the near future as the result of developments in the field of radio research and similar methods of communication.

Our gifted fellow citizen, Ernest Dudley Chase was so kind as to attend the current meeting of our club and exhibit two reels of his excellent motion pictures, featuring a trip through Switzerland and Southern Germany. And after witnessing one of these famous presentations none are at a loss to understand why Mr. Chase is invariably and warmly welcomed whenever he may favor us with a visit.

Do not forget that the Lexington Club has been most courteous in asking us to meet with them jointly at Lexington on Monday, Nov. 26. This will fill the breach caused by the omission of our own meeting on Thanksgiving Day. We can in some measure repay this kindness by going to Lexington in force on the 26th. The next meeting at home quarters will be on Thursday, Dec. 6 at the regular hour.

Per centage of attendance, Nov. 15—86.21 per cent.

MISS FRIEND ENGAGED

At a tea given at their home on the 18th of November Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Friend of Wildwood street announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Mr. Putnam Cilley of Salem. Miss Friend was graduated from Wheaton College, and Mr. Cilley, from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

RED, WHITE AND BLUE WORLD'S FAVORITE FLAG COLORS

Red, white and blue, colors that pop into the minds of Americans whenever flags are mentioned, are the most popular hues, it happens, for the flags of the rest of the world. This is shown in the September issue of the National Geographic Magazine, its complete flag number. Red is used more generally than any other color in flag making, followed in order by white and blue. Next in order, but much less popular than the three leaders, are yellow, green, and black. Orange which appears in the banners of three countries, about exhausts the colors used in the world's flags. One country (Spain) uses purple. Brown does not appear on any national flag.

More than 800 illustrations in color depict the world's flags, banners, badges and symbols. The newest flag shown is that of Manchutikuo: a field of yellow with a canton (the upper left quarter) of red, blue, white and black stripes. Probably the oldest flag shown is the red banner of Denmark with its white cross.

Flags Borrow From the Heavens

Astronomical devices are favorites of flag-makers, it is shown. Stars are used by many countries, and there are suns and moons, the latter usually in the form of crescents. Brazil makes use of a circle of the firmament showing the Southern Cross and neighboring stars; and the Southern Cross also appears on the flags of Australia and New Zealand. Alaska has placed on its flag the Great Dipper and the Pole Star.

Other countries use characteristic symbols. Afghanistan, a mosque; Cambodia, an Eastern temple; the Republic of Lebanon, a cedar; the Papal State, crossed keys and a triple crown; Germany, a Swastika; Siam, a white elephant; and the Soviet Union, a hammer and sickle. Tibet shows the sun rising over a snowy mountain.

Many Changes in National Banners Since World War

Among the flags seldom seen in the United States, described in the article are those of the Saar Basin Territory, Saudi Arabia, Palestine, the Papal State, Chosen, Monaco and Iraq.

In addition to the flags of the nations, the illustrations depict those of the States of the United States; historic flags of the past; colors and flags of the United States Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and government services; international signal flags; flags of rank in the principal navies of the world; and the funnel symbols and flags of steamship companies. The compilation of flags of the world is the first to be made by the National Geographic Society since the World War, and shows the marked changes that have been made in the 17-year period.

"Growing Pains"

Those vague, ambiguous pains in children which are popularly known as "growing pains" are entirely misnamed. Such pains are probably associated with rheumatism, according to Jacobi, who first clearly saw the clinical relationship between growing pains and articular rheumatism and even endocarditis. The medical scientist noted that uncomplicated muscular rheumatism is rare in young children, and at that time he wrote: "'Growing pains' are not infrequently inflammatory rheumatism, and endocarditis of later years may be traced back to the growing pains which are but dimly remembered."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Foreign Postage

To send a letter to any part of the world, it is necessary merely to affix a 5-cent stamp or its equivalent, says G. R. Turner, in the Kansas City Times. The only exception is the 3-cent rate between the United States and Canada and the rate of like amount between Spain and the Americas. The revenue from the postage goes always to the country in which the stamp is purchased, for every nation delivers free and uncounted all mail delivered within its own borders. One country charges another only when it transports for that country mail addressed to a third country.

Georgian Bay Islands

Georgian Bay, with its 30,000 islands, is that northern section of Lake Huron which is the waterway between Owen sound, Midland, Penetanguishene and Parry sound at the eastern extremity and the Soo at the western end, touching en route at many fishing resorts on the north shores of Georgian bay and Manitoulin island. The 60-mile stretch between Midland and Parry sound at the eastern end contains the archipelago of 10,000 islands situated in the "inside channel."

Evening service first Sunday each month, 7:45 P. M.

Wednesday testimonial meeting, 7:45 P. M. Reading room in Church Building. Open daily from 12 M. to 5 P. M. except Sundays and holidays.

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 25.

The Golden Text is: "The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart" (Hebrews 4:12).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on. The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment. . . . But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Luke 12:22, 23, 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Look away from the body into Truth and Love the Principles of all happiness, harmony, and immortality. Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts" (p. 261).

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

Why is public opinion so perfectly indifferent to the prevalence of great moral evils in our midst? Will it be possible to bring about such a return to righteousness that moral indignation will rise to such overwhelming power that the dominance of inherent and acquired cussedness will be at an end?

Today as never before our country is flooded with gross crimes, including murder and dishonest money-getting by racketeers, by holders of public office, by crooked bankers and financiers. Graft in places high and low do not seem to arouse any resentment among our people. In the recent elections in Greater Boston cities the people of Winchester were afforded the spectacle of the churches in many of the cities not even taking an active part in the crusade against legalized liquor; in several instances the people who are the backbone of our Protestant Churches did not make any effort to rise up at the great and widely prevalent iniquities of the liquor traffic and give the liquor people to understand that present conditions will not be tolerated. Winchester is a clean community and has few of the problems that other communities of the same size have to contend with. Just the same, the people of Winchester are vitally interested in the moral welfare of her sister cities and towns.

A very efficient way for a community to measure its civic righteousness is to note its shock and anger at cussedness. Love and honesty and injustice leads to hatred and their opposites. Our blessed Savior was righteously indignant at some of the sights He saw, and He took a scourge on two occasions and cleansed the Temple of the generation of vipers who infested the holy place. There are some things which will never be cast out until the mass of the people are so aroused as to make a scourge and cast them out.

To be sure, most of us deplore and express to one another our regret that political, moral and social corruption is permitted to such an extent, but that is all. We are not aroused in holy anger and resolve to put an end to these things. We smile tolerantly at the reformer who is aroused and tries to stir us, and then go on our way as if nothing was wrong.

This easy-going indifference is a bad thing for us. It has made America the most lawless nation on the face of the earth. It is undermining the very elementals so necessary to our success as a strong nation; it indicates that our moral standards are low and our righteousness very feeble. If we love righteousness and hate iniquity, the latter will cause us to rise up and suppress what is evil. We need to become enthusiastic with righteous wrath which determines to put an end to these things. The great trouble is that our blustering indignation is usually over some personal wrong or a relatively small affair. God give us men and women who will up and fight.

MUSK OXEN, CATTLE OF THE ARCTIC

The recent birth of two musk oxen in Alaska, the first in a century, may be the beginning of a new Deal for this remarkable animal, which has been threatened with extermination by Eskimos, Indians, explorers and hunters.

Beyond the tree limit, on bleak, treeless tundras, deserted by man and most animals, lives the musk ox—one animal that thrives in blizzards, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Most Inacessible Animal in the World

Over the frozen prairies of the Barren Grounds, where no Indians dwell, and across vast expanses too cold for Eskimos, the musk ox plods through the darkness and whispering silence of the Arctic night, cropping frozen grass that sticks up through thin snow. Pausing occasionally to rub frost from its eyes, grazing contentedly as a cow in a sunny pasture, the musk ox wanders from the Barren Grounds to Cape Morris Jesup, where the northernmost point of land meets the glittering ice of the Polar Sea. Under the musk ox's shaggy dark coat, protecting him from bitter winds, is a dense coat of wool.

In the Arctic summer, when Eskimos desert melting igloos for sealskin tupiks, and Eskimo babies, naked on bearskins, chuckle in sunshine and snatch at butterflies, the musk ox sheds its unnecessary wool, which works out through the permanent long hairs and trails among the golden poppies, arnica and purple saxifrage.

To those familiar with the protective coloration of Arctic animals—the silvery-white polar bear, snowy wolves and owls—the dark brown coat of the musk-ox seems to afford no protection. Such is not the case. Grazing, not on snow, but on dark windswept areas, or snowy slopes strewn with large boulders, the musk ox might well be mistaken for another boulder. Hereditary enemies of the musk oxen are the wolves. Although they can do little damage to a herd of adults, they follow it to seize the stray calves and sickly old musk oxen driven out of the herd.

Animal With Skin Like a Beard

Seeing a musk ox walking along a hill crest, heavy head and massive body bulking against the sky, hunters have thought him a small buffalo. Although his shaggy hide makes him appear larger, the average musk-ox is only about the size of Highland cattle. He usually stands about four feet high and his average weight is 450 pounds dressed. His robe of straggling dark brown hair, stiff as a horse's mane, grows to great lengths, sometimes 20 inches, and trails in the snow. Eskimos call the musk ox Oo-ming-muk, which means "animal with skin like a beard." In the roots of this coat grows the protective coat of wool.

The hoofs of the musk ox are hairy underneath, which makes him sure-footed on the most slippery ice; they are concave, which facilitates swift ascent of rocky slopes and pawing away of snow covering his forage. His yellowish horns sweep out, down and up to a sharp point useful in goring wolves and Eskimo dogs.

Has Traits of Goat, Sheep and Cow

Like the goat, the musk ox's favorite feeding grounds are on rocky hillsides, which, in spite of his short massive legs, he ascends with agility. Hunters have marveled at the ease and speed with which startled musk oxen have run away from them, traveling with a choppy, rolling gait and heads carried well forward. Attacked by wolves, a musk ox will jump high in air like a goat and come down heavily on his side to crush the wolf clinging like a leech to his hindquarters.

Ovibos, the scientific name for musk ox, means sheep-cow. The musk ox combines many traits belonging to each group. Like sheep, it has wool, a rudimentary tail, hairy muzzle and similar structure of molar teeth and intestines.

Like the cow, it gives milk, has short wide cannon bones, and thrusts out its tongue to hook tufts of grass. It is more stolid than the reindeer, stupid and gentle. Anyone seeing musk oxen asleep on a river bank or grazing quietly like domestic cattle on young willow shoots understands why they are often referred to as Polar Cattle.

Although classed with walrus and polar bear as the big game of the North, shooting a musk ox is about as difficult and as much sport as shooting a cow in a pasture. Startled, a herd will run, but no far, to form a huddled, trembling mass that stands facing the enemy until shot down.

$5000 Apiece for Young Musk Ox

With their bows and copper-tipped arrows, and lances, Eskimo hunters did not seriously deplete the herds, but since explorers gave them rifles, they have slaughtered hundreds upon hundreds without thinking of the future. They feast, cache what they can't eat, save the hides for clothing, the horns for ladles and implements, the teeth for ornaments, and drive away, sometimes leaving behind as many as 10 skeletons bleaching on the tundra.

The juicy steaks of musk oxen have saved the lives of many Arctic explorers. Frost-bitten and starving, pemmican exhausted, caches lost, explorers have fallen on a heard as on manna. The hides have served as shelter, the fat as fuel, the meat as strength restorer for man and dogs. Since eight or 10 famished dogs can bolt a musk ox at a meal, hundreds have been slain.

Zoological gardens caused further extermination of musk oxen by offering $5000 apiece for young ones. Norwegian whalers and sealers wiped out whole herds trying to rope a few live ones. A few more years of reckless hunting and the musk ox would become a myth, a fabulous monster for starving Eskimos and Indians to describe to the starving children.

However, the 20th century, in its battle for the preservation of natural resources, has taken steps to save from extinction this valuable animal. Various countries have passed laws protecting it. Some require licenses to hunt it, and a few are importing and breeding herds, and setting aside sanctuaries for them.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Eighth District Art Conference

Monday, Nov. 26

10:15—"Behind the Scenes in a Department store."

11:15—Burton Holmes' "Century of Progress Motion Pictures."

12:30—Luncheon, music.

2:30—Regular business meeting of the Fortnightly.

3:00—Eliza Newkirk Rogers. Illustrated lecture, "Problems in Modernizing Colonial Homes."

The program for American Home Day, Nov. 26, is a full and varied one. "Behind the Scenes in a Department Store" is a subject that should appeal to every club member. Ruth Batchelder Friedberg comes well prepared to speak on this fascinating theme. As a faculty member of the Prince School of Store Service and Education she is in touch with all phases of merchandising, personnel work, and other store problems.

"Carnival," a novel talking picture of the great Century of Progress, taken by Mr. Burton Holmes and briefly commented upon by Mr. Frederick H. Smith, will be shown preceding the annual American Home Day luncheon. This interesting film is to be shown by courtesy of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company.

Following the luncheon, Frankie Zecchino, a skilled child violinist, will present a varied musical program. Gladys Posselt will be his accompanist.

Eliza Newkirk Rogers, an architect and former member of the Wellesley College faculty, will give an illustrated lecture on "Problems in Modernizing Colonial Homes" as the last feature on this all-day program. Her talk will follow the regular business meeting of the Fortnightly.

Morning Program

Monday, Nov. 19, the Fortnightly acted as hostess club to the Eighth District Art Conference of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. Officers of the Federation present were Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth, 2nd vice president; Mrs. David J. Westcott 3rd vice president, art advisor; Mrs. Harry S. MacNish, eighth district director; and Mrs. Herbert Stephens, state art chairman under whose direction with the co-operation of our Fortnightly art chairman, Mrs. Lillian Whitman, the conference was conducted. Greetings were brought to the conference from all state officers.

The existence of art in some form antedates history. Even the prehistoric cavemen cut rude pictures in hard materials which are still in existence. Among historic nations the greater antiquity of art is disputed between the Babylonians and the Egyptians, enduring works of both races reaching back to before 5000 B. C.

Treasures of the Metropolitan Museum of Art were shown in the illustrated talk given by Miss Bessie D. Davis. Miss Davis particularly interested her audience with the Egyptian art treasures saying that in no other place in the country could be found such a wonderful collection dating back to 2650 B. C. The many slides led on through the Gallery of Armor dating back to 1507, through the Garden of a Roman Court and showed how in the "Angel of Death" the different materials brought out different figures. In the marble the angel stands clear; in the bronze the man is the clearer.

Ottman's collection of Rembrandts, especially Rembrandt's painting of himself at the age of 54; Gallini's painting of the Madonna and Child, and the many collections of paintings, sculpture, textiles and silver showed impressively how art may be found in all of life by trying to bring out perfection in any given subject.

Next came a journey conducted by Mr. Ernest Dudley Chase through the Bavarian Alps and Western Austria. The cathedrals, towers, chateau, people and costumes of Brittany, Mont St. Michel, Mittenwold, Konigsee Lake, Augsburg and Friedburg and many other beautiful cities showed much beauty of architecture, and even more vividly the beauty of Mother Nature's art.

The Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs is inviting club husbands with their wives to a musical on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 25, from 4 to 6 p. m. in the ball room of the Hotel Statler to enjoy Madam Rose Zulalian and James R. Houghton, soloists.

The Art Committee served a delightful luncheon under the direction of Mrs. Harold Meyer.

Afternoon Program

The Fortnightly was very proud of the beautiful music by two of its talented members, Helena Studzinska Sibley, concert violinist; and Mary Ranton Witham, pianist. Mrs. Sibley played wonderfully; she seemed inspired and the audience was most appreciative and enjoyed every number thoroughly. "Ave Maria," played as an encore by request, was extremely fine. Mrs. Witham's playing always adds so much to any program and her accompaniment was especially sympathetic and lovely at this time.

The program, which seemed all too short, was as follows:

Serenade Espagnole	Chaminade-Kreisler
Zeugenerweisen	Sarasate
Valse Bluette	Drigo
Ave Maria (encore)	Schubert
Czardas	Monti
Poem	Fibich
From the Canebrake	Gardner

In the roll call of clubs 12 were represented and 165 members present at the afternoon session.

A high light of the afternoon was the exquisite dancing by the Misses Kathryn Pope of Brookline and Dorothy Ferguson of Winchester, with pleasing music by Mrs. Helen Wallace. Miss Pope was charming and vivid as she danced the Bohemian Polka in costume, and very dainty in Waltz moods. Miss Ferguson's two solos were of great contrast—the Melancholy Monotomy, which was grief personified, and impishness of the Coquette. The dual number Venetian Waltz was beautifully done, with such grace and rhythm, and attractive costumes.

It was with great pleasure that we listened to Miss Amy M. Sacker of the well known School of Decorative Design speak on, "Art and Good Taste in the Home." She illustrated the art of combining a bewildering array of wonderful fabrics in rainbow hues, as she gave us the color scheme of seven or eight contrasting rooms, varying from the formal and antique to the informal and jolly. She brought out that slip covers are now essential and permanent features to accent the color note. Curtains are now used and are not mere draperies. Miss Sacker showed us a piece of velvet which looked for all the world like leopard skin, adding that she didn't dare bring the zebra skin to Winchester. She also said that the rooms must be liveable because even if one were on the Art Committee of the club that "Henry," who might be a coal dealer, really had the final word in room decoration.

The conference adjourned after a vote of thanks was given the Fortnightly for its hospitality and fitting reply was made by Mrs. Wilson.

The Art Conference was a really notable event, affording an opportunity for art lovers to meet and enjoy together some very beautiful things. The pictures, the subject matter of the lectures and perhaps most of all the exquisite music, were a real joy to all who could be present. The club appreciates the privilege of entertaining the Eighth District Conference and is grateful to the Art Committee and its chairman, Mrs. Warren Whitman, for their part in making it a success.

ATLANTIC CITY SOLVES A TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Atlantic City, New Jersey seashore resort, recently laid the corner stone of a new union railroad station, the first unit in a $5,000,000 project which will unite its steam railroads, eliminate grade crossings, and provide a new boulevard along the right-of-way of abandoned railroad tracks. The loading platforms of the new union station are each more than a fifth of a mile long and are capable of accommodating 16-car trains.

Less than 100 years ago Atlantic City was a nameless cluster of fishermen's huts on Absecon Island, off the coast of New Jersey, writes E. John Long in a communication to the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Welcomes 12,000,000 Visitors a Year

Then came rails from Camden (across the Delaware from Philadelphia), and the first excursion train, July 1, 1854, drawn by a wood-burning engine. Its 500 passengers taxed the pioneer resort. But what would its early innkeepers say now if they could see Atlantic City receiving 500 visitors every minute during 12 hours of a July Fourth or a Labor Day week-end!

All the great treks of history—the Persians under Xerxes, the Huns under Attila, the Moslems under Mohammed II, the "Golden Horde" of Tatars, the Norman invasion of England, and the Crusades—shrink to thin ranks when measured against Atlantic City's 12,000,000 annual visitors, who arrive not only by train but also by bus, motor car, boat, and plane.

This amazing traffic to a "sand bar 10 miles long and seven miles at sea" is equal to the population of a nation like Argentina or Canada, or almost twice the population of the Australian continent.

Most famous of Atlantic City institutions is, of course, the Boardwalk. Beginning at the Inlet this wide promenade parallels the ocean shore for seven miles through Atlantic City, and the adjoining cities of Ventnor and Margate. Not all of Atlantic City's 12,000,000 annual visitors swim, sail, fish, or take part in the other amusements the resort affords, but all of them walk, or ride in a rolling chair, along this incomparable Boardwalk.

Morning, noon, and night, the tap, tap, tapping of thousands of heels and toes resounds on planks where the pedestrian is king and where walking is no lost art. Rich man, poor man, artist, lawyer, merchant, actress, the Colonel's lady, and Judy O'Grady pass in review, to see and to be seen.

When the Boardwalk Was Portable

No one knows just when this greatest of promenades began. Loose boards were laid on the sand around Civil War time. Tiny shops and bathhouses, bordered the landward side. The planks were taken up at the end of the season and stored a safe distance from the reach of winter waves.

Today's Boardwalk is a giant highway, as wide as a boulevard, carried on high concrete pillars and steel beams. Sixty miles north it is almost equaled in the Asbury Park boardwalk and many other New Jersey resorts imitate it.

What a paradox this Boardwalk presents! Often it is one of the busiest thorougfares in the world. Yet in that very bustle is leisure.

Something reminiscent of the country fair is here. On a pier a dozen haggard couples dance a marathon, shuffling around a waxed floor for more than 2000 hours. Convention delegates crowd a mammoth auditorium. Salt-water-taffy machines flick out morsels before your eyes. A Boardwalk photographer will take a "celebrity picture" of you. As you stroll toward him he steps up and snaps you.

Next to the visitor, Atlantic City's biggest "industry" is the making and shipping of "salt-water taffy." Legend says that in the early eighties a man had a candy stand on the beach. One day an unusually high tide splashed over a batch of old-fashioned, pulled taffy on a slab. Being an enterprising person, he told his customers that he had something new—"salt water taffy."

The name struck a popular note, and today batteries of salt-water-taffy machines make more than two million pounds each year. About a third of this volume of sweetness (it is no longer flavored with salt water) is mailed out of Atlantic City to every State in the Union, and to such distant places as China, Japan, India, Egypt, Brazil and the countries of Europe.

Much of Atlantic City's popularity as a bathing resort is due to the vigilance of a corps of life guards, known as "the Atlantic City Beach Patrol." So well did these wardens of the surf perform their duties in 1932 that not one fatality resulted on the protected beach of Absecon Island—a record that fittingly celebrated the 50th anniversary of the Life Guards' Association.

The new union station, which will be completed about Jan. 1, is built of Main granite and Indiana limestone. Its architecture is of a modified classic design. The Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Line, which will clear all passenger trains through this terminal, is a merger of what were once 50 separate and independent railway companies operating in southern New Jersey.

"THE BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET" AT THE UNIVERSITY

If you wish to see what will undoubtedly be chosen as one of the ten best pictures of the year come to the University Theatre on the first half of the week and relax in the lavender and old lace of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." The cast includes some of the greatest names of filmdom headed by three winners of the Motion Picture Academy award: Norma Shearer, Frederic March and Charles Laughton. The romantic team's beautiful presentation of an idyllic love story is all the more accentuated by the diabolical character of Charles Laughton as the elder Barrett.

One of the most sensational hoax kidnapping cases is pictured in Damon Runyon's amazing story, "Million Dollar Ransom," the companion picture. While all persons are taking extra precautionary measures to insure themselves against the ruthless means employed by racketeers today, here is the highly unusual instance of a young millionaire who voluntarily has himself kidnapped. The cast includes Phillips Holmes, Mary Carlisle, Andy Devine, Wini Shaw and Edward Arnold.

Romance written in words of fire deep in the hearts of the lovers of the world. That's one of the descriptive phrases used to herald the coming of Cecil B. DeMille's newest production, "Cleopatra," which starts Thursday. The film, a modern screen treatment of one of the world's greatest love stories, has Claudette Colbert, Warren William and Henry Wilcoxon in the principal parts. Wilcoxon is the young Englishman DeMille brought to Hollywood for the role of Marc Antony, the nobel Roman who gave up his life for the love of the Egyptian queen while Empires tottered about him. Rome and Egypt live again in all their monumental splendor, serving here as a background for the deathless love story that destroyed mighty empires and wrote the most exciting pages of history.

"Kansas City Princess," the companion picture co-starring Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell, is a rollicking comedy romance concerning the escapades of two mid-west manicurists on a jamboree.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"The Gay Divorcee," the big noise of film circles and a picture breaking records at every stand, comes to the Granada Theatre in Malden on Saturday for a run of seven days. "The Gay Divorcee" is mischievous, gay, spectacular musical comedy, moving at a fast speed with no time for parking and co-stars Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, the delightful pair who made such a hit in "Flying Down to Rio." It is, really and truly, one of the first musical comedies to issue from Hollywood boasting a genuinely complete and laughable romantic story. Then there is music by five great composers, ensembles of beautiful girls, that sublime new ball room dance "The Continental," demonstrated by Astaire and Ginger Rogers. Alice Brady and Everett Horton head the supporting company and provide many of the hilarious situations of the film.

"The Lemon Drop Kid" with Lee Tracy, Helen Mack and Baby LeRoy as the stars is the second attraction for Saturday. Lee Tracy is cast as a race track gambler and confidence man who decides to hide out in a small town when things get too hot for him at the track. He gets a job and is surrounded when he falls in love with a nice young girl. They get married and have a son, played by Baby LeRoy. Then circumstances force him back into the old racket. Eventually he reforms and comes back to his wife and son and a well earned happiness. Minna Gombell and William Frawley supply the comedy relief.

Eight Islands in Group

The eight Hawaiian islands constituting the group, which are, in order of their size, Hawaii, Oahu, where Honolulu is situated; Kauai, Maui, Molokai, Lanai, Kahoolawe and Niihau, are unlike any other land.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

Helen Hayes in, "What Every Woman Knows," and "Kansas City Princess" starring Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell is the double bill opened at the reopened Strand Theatre in Malden on Saturday. Miss Hayes is cast as a plain girl who fails to attract any of the young men in her town. The rest of the family feel sorry for her and in despair they hire a local politician to agree to marry her five years hence, providing Miss Hayes still wants him. At the end of this five years the man, Brian Aherne, has risen to one of the highest seats in the government. But the girl feels she will be a handicap to him in his career and decides to wait a little longer. She does become his unofficial praiser and knows that she is really the one responsible for his political success. After being turned down by a society girl, played by Madge Evans, the man decides to come back and marry Miss Hayes.

"Kansas City Princess" presents Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell as a couple of manicure girls in a mid-west city. Miss Blondell steps out with a visiting salesman and returns home minus her engagement ring. Knowing that her tough boy friend, Robert Armstrong, will be furious at her losing his ring, she and Miss Farrell take a train for New York. But Armstrong hears the story and starts after them. On the train the girl's meet a couple of aldermen, played by Hobart Cavanaugh and J. Roy Barnes, who invite them to take a trip to Europe. It so happens that Joan's boy friend takes the boat too, as bodyguard to Hugh Herbert, an eccentric millionaire who is going to Paris to find his plundering wife. When they all get to Paris they are plunged into a series of hilarious mix-ups that keep the audience in hysterics.

MYSTIC THEATRE MALDEN ATTRACTIONS

It is with extreme pleasure that the management of the Mystic Theatre, Malden announces the coming of one of the most delightful and certainly the most unusual comedies the talkies have produced, "The Last Gentleman," George Arliss' first picture since his great triumph in "The House of Rothschild." As Colbert Barr in "The Last Gentleman," George Arliss plays the part of a wealthy, irascible, family-proud old New Englander, who calls together his relatives in the vague hope of finding a worthy heir. Immediately the members of the family are assembled under his roof, he proceeds to insult and humiliate them and accuse them of being after his money, for the mere fiendish glee of seeing them squirm. The end of the story offers something really unique and refreshing in screen denouement, and it would really be unfair to divulge it here. The supporting cast is made up of some favorites including Ralph Morgan, Edna May Oliver, Charlotte (Alice in Wonderland) Henry, Janet Beecher and Frank Albertson.

A new type of murder mystery drama has been introduced to the screen by Warner Bros. in "The Case of the Howling Dog," which with "The Last Gentleman" will be the attractions at the Mystic Theatre in Malden for a week starting Saturday, Nov. 24. The plot is entirely different from the ordinary run of screen mysteries.

WINCHESTER MAN INJURED IN WOBURN

Leonard Luongo of Shepard court was painfully injured about 5:15 Monday evening when he was struck, while on Main street near Union street in Woburn, by an automobile driven by Gunnar J. Ek of 59 Pleasant street, that city.

Luongo was taken to the office of Dr. Frank J. Logue where he was treated for cuts on both knees. Ek told the police that the Winchester man walked into the side of his car, a Ford roadster, which was headed south.

WINCHESTER GIRL IN LETTER CONTEST

Every week the Sdnday Herald publishes a Good Sport page for boys and girls. On it there are various essay, drawing and poetry contests. Last Saturday there was a letter contest with the subject: "What I Think of War."

The following letter, though not the prize winner was published with others in a special section. It is by Marjorie Rush of Woodside road, Winchester.

What I Think of War

Always, at this time of the year, we are reminded of the chaos that gripped the world less than a score of years ago. We think of the Armistice, the signing of which brought to an end four years of wholesale manslaughter. Yet the price was not fully paid. We are still paying it today. The appalling loss of life and tremendous expenditures of the nations concerned were but a few of the costs. Our present economic situation is an indirect result of the war. Perhaps even these things might have been partially justifiable had some good resulted, but after all, what good can a war do? Today Europe is "armed to the teeth" and engaged in continuous political turmoil.

History's pages show few instances where war brought about better conditions for the world, or even the countries concerned. How can we hope for world wide peace so long as man will fight against man? Difficulties are bound to arise between countries, but these can be settled peacefully. War is childish, and as selfish, and unnecessary as the squabbling of two children over a plaything to which each claims the right. Should only an unprejudiced person make a decision the matter would be closed peacefully. Great nations may settle their differences by this same method, which is called arbitration. A famous example of the success of this scheme is the "Christ of the Andes," a statue whose history we would do well to learn.

We pride ourselves upon being intelligent people. Intelligent people should not, and, it is my belief, do not want war. Therefore, it is up to us, the future generation to abolish that useless, wasteful menace—war.

LAND TAKEN ILLEGALLY FROM MR. BRYNE

Action thus far taken in the suit brought by former Selectman George M. Bryne against the Town of Wellfleet, to recover for the illegal use of 2½ acres of land taken by the town from a parcel of 65 acres owned by Mr. Bryne and used as a dump, has resulted in the dismissal of Mr. Bryne's petition for damages upon the motion of the Wellfleet Town Counsel, J. Frank Kiernan of Wareham.

The dismissal was allowed by Judge Frank J. Donahue in the Barnstable Superior Court on Oct. 17, but did not in any way prejudice Mr. Bryne's right to recover for the illegal use of the land. Richard B. Collidge of Medford, counsel for Mr. Bryne, contended that the town had not taken the land legally because the purpose for which it was to be used was not set forth nor recorded, and this contention was agreed to by Mr. Kiernan, automatically returning the land to Mr. Bryne.

At the time the land was taken, Mr. Bryne was awarded $50 damages, but considered this insufficient and brought suit, asking for a jury assessment of damages.

On Oct. 19, Judge Joseph Walsh in the Middlesex County Equity Court ordered an injunction to restrain the Town of Wellfleet from dumping any of its refuse upon Mr. Bryne's land. The town must now file an answer in the December sitting of the court, after which the case will be heard by the court or a master.

MANY LOCAL PATRONS

The success of the bridge party held at the Engineer's Club in Boston last Friday night was due in a great measure to the efforts of Mrs. Frank Gunby of Manchester road. Mrs. Gunby is a former chairman of the Women's Aid Committee of the club and the bridge was given for Thanksgiving and Christmas relief for families of unemployed engineers.

Some of the local patrons and patronesses who lent their support were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Huckins, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knight, Mrs. Cass Sittinger, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greene, Miss Barbara Fernald, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bates and Mrs. N. M. Christiansen.

CAPTAIN OF DRILL TEAM AT WHEATON

Miss Anne P. Simpson, daughter of Mrs. Nellie P. Simpson of 47 Wedgemere avenue, a student at House in the Pines School, Norton, is captain of the drill team which met and defeated the Wheaton College team in military competitive drill at the annual fall riding meet held last Saturday in the House in the Pines riding ring. In the advanced riding class event she won first place.

This is Miss Simpson's sixth and final year at House in the Pines. She is president of the Athletic Association, and has just been elected to serve on the Student Council for the last half of the fall term.

BURNING LEAVES

About this time of year the usual cry against the promiscuous burning of leaves is raised. Notwithstanding the law requiring every citizen to secure a permit for such burning from the Fire Chief, fires are constantly made, both on private property and in the streets. The danger from these fires is great, and the persons responsible for them are in danger of arrest. Don't start an out-door fire unless you have a permit.

MRS. CHARLOTTE NICKERSON BANCROFT

Boston Society Leader Native of Winchester

Mrs. Charlotte Nickerson Bancroft of Boston and Cohasset, wife of Guy Bancroft, who died Sunday evening, Nov. 18 in the Philips House of the Massachusetts General Hospital, was a native of Winchester and made her home in this town until her marriage on June 1, 1909.

Mrs. Bancroft was the daughter of Henry and Edith (Child) Nickerson, and was born July 27, 1885. She was educated in the Winchester schools and made her home with her parents at 92 Bacon street until her marriage to Mr. Bancroft, the present business and advertising manager of the Boston News Bureau, son of the late General William Bancroft and a graduate of Harvard in the class of 1902.

Mrs. Bancroft was prominent in society, and entertained extensively at her Back Bay and Cohasset homes. She leaves her husband, her mother, Mrs. Henry Nickerson of Cohasset and Boston; a daughter, Miss Edith Bancroft; two sons, Malcolm Bancroft, a student at the Harvard Business School and William N. Bancroft, a student at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and a sister, Mrs. Edward H. Osgood of Boston.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the late residence, 405 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, with Rev. Abbot Peterson, minister of the First Parish Unitarian Church of Brookline, officiating. Interment was in Mayflower Cemetery, Duxbury.

MISS CARRIE POND KINNER

Miss Carrie Pond Kinner, who died Friday morning, Nov. 16, at her home 38 Prospect street, had been for the past 14 years a resident of Winchester. She was 78 years of age and a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., the daughter of Caleb and Jemima Smith (Pond) Kinner, her family was for many years prominent in West Springfield where the interment was made in the family lot in Meetinghouse Cemetery on Monday. Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon in Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church, of which Miss Kinner had been a member. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church. The only survivor is a sister, Miss Mary P. Kinner of this town, with whom the deceased made her home.

MISS ELIZABETH ANNA STEVENS

Miss Elizabeth Anna Stevens, 84, of Wilmington, a former widely known resident of Winchester, died Friday, Nov. 16 after a long illness.

Miss Stevens was the daughter of George C. and Mary (Ayer) Stevens, and was born in Charlestown. During her active life she was for some time a teacher in the Boston schools. For many years she made her home in Winchester on Highland avenue with her sister, Mrs. George S. Littlefield, wife of the late Judge Littlefield, who is her only survivor. She left Winchester to make her home with her sister in Wilmington about two years ago.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon in Meyer Chapel of the Unitarian Church with the minister, Rev. George Hale Reed, officiating. Interment was in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

TEA AT FERNWAY

Chrysanthemums and roses decorated the home of Dr. and Mrs. Howard J. Chidley at a tea given last Friday afternoon for the women who have become affiliated with the Congregational Church in the past three years.

The pourers were Mrs. Louis K. Snyder, the president of the Mission Union; Mrs. Bertram Albro, vice-president of the Western Missionary Society, and members of the Church Committee, Mrs. Maurice Brown and Mrs. Clarence Ordway. Mrs. Franklin Lane and Mrs. Florence Scales assisted Mrs. Chidley in arrangements for the tea.

The following evening about 60 persons attended a dance at Mr. and Mrs. Chidley's home, given for the Dramatic group in the church.

FORMER WINCHESTER PASTOR ELEVATED TO MONSIGNOR

There was much Winchester interest in the announcement made Monday morning that Rev. Daniel J. Kelliher, Ph.D., V. F., pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Lowell, is one of three Monsignori recently created in the Boston archdiocese by Pope Pius XI at the request of Cardinal O'Connell.

Father Kelliher, dean of the diocesan clergy and for many years pastor of St. Patrick's, was formerly pastor of St. Mary's church in this town, and was greatly esteemed by residents of all creeds. He was succeeded as head of the local parish by the late Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt. He spent his boyhood in the Lowell parish.

JUNIOR FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

The annual dance of the Florence Crittenton Juniors' which has become so popular in the last two years was held on Thursday evening, Nov. 15 at the Copley Plaza Hotel. The event was sponsored by the Junior Circles of Winchester, Medford and Wellesley and was more enthusiastically attended than ever before. The ball room was dimly lighted and music from Jack Marchard's Orchestra gave the finishing touch to the colorful affair. The Winchester Circle feels that this dance was a great success and appreciates the support of its many members and friends.

Useless Parliament

The parliament convened by Charles I on June 18, 1625, adjourned to Oxford August 1, and dissolved August 12, having done nothing but offend the king, was designated the useless parliament.

60TH ANNIERSARY NATIONAL W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

Remarkable both for its crowded sessions and a spirit of optimism and new determination, the 60th anniversary convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held at the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 10 to 15, climaxed in the enthusiastic launching of a five point, five year, $500,000 program, to culminate in 1939, the centenary of the birth of Frances Willard, and which is to embrace a nation wide plan of education for youth and adults alike, and more or less unwavering championship of legislation, looking steadily forward to the goal of national abolition of the drink traffic. The keynote address of the convention was naturally the message of Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, president of the National W. C. T. U. in which she reviewed the results of the first year of the re-established law protected liquor traffic in the United States, pointing out that every promise made by repealists had been completely shattered during the past 11 months and that the new regime of legal liquor was already affording the means and opportunity for not only the return of liquor control in Federal, State and City politics, but that in its wake were now in rapid development the twin outgrown evils of other days —legalized gambling and lotteries, and white slavery and prostitution under political protection.

Recalling the fact that repeal was won in 1933 by a vote aggregating barely one-fifth of the voting citizens of the 39 States involved, and referring to the elections on Nov. 6, 1934, Mrs. Smith said, "The widely heralded victories of the wets last week in several states mean only one of two things, namely, either that in the present continued economic stress the traffic's revenue bait still misled many, or the voters themselves had not yet seen clearly the steadily growing menace of repeal results. The substantial majority again registered for prohibition in Kansas and North Dakota is ample proof that a whole citizenship may be permanently impressed with the conserving and practical value of a state prohibition law, honestly administered and enforced."

The present temporary wet triumphs cannot change the nature of these intoxicants nor the laws of human physiology or psychology. The 18th Amendment may be destroyed by political influence but neither a political platform nor a proclamation of a President can repeal the effects of alcohol. Therefore beverage alcohol will sometime be abolished.

Mrs. George H. Hamilton of this town, Mrs. John A. Groves of Newton and Mrs. M. A. Barnes of Woburn represented Middlesex County W. C. T. U. at this convention.

WINCHESTER SECONDS WON

Monday, the Winchester High School seconds journeyed to Stoneham where they trimmed the Stoneham seconds, 26—0 in a rather lopsided game.

In the second quarter following a blocked punt, the locals, after a sustained offensive drive, scored their first touchdown on a line buck by Muraeco. A few minutes later, Cimina scored standing up on an off-tackle play from the nine yard line. In the third period, a long pass to Chamberland went for a touchdown and finally in the fourth period, Chamberland intercepted a Stoneham pass and ran for a score. "Slicker" Coss place-kicked two conversions.

The seconds have been unbeaten in their five games thus far, once tying with Arlington, 6—6. They have had only 12 points scored on them, while amassing a total of 70. Assistant Coach Bartlett is attempting to arrange another game for the latter part of the week.

THE STAR CHRISTMAS ISSUE

The Star will publish its usual Christmas number this year, the issue appearing on Dec. 14. As customary, this edition will contain Christmas features with a holiday cover, and will afford Winchester merchants an opportunity to place their holiday goods before our people. Merchants and others, intending to make use of this big issue, should prepare their copy and send their advertising matter to this office as soon as possible. Dec. 14 is the date of issue.

DINNER FOR MISS REEDER

Mr. and Mrs. Cutler Downer of Sheffield road gave a dinner party last Saturday evening in honor of Miss Narcissa Reeder, a Wellesley student and the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Reeder of Panama.

Those invited included Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowes, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr., Miss Jean MacDonald, Miss Helen Downer, Miss Peggy Rowe, Mr. Stirling MacDonald, Mr. Angelo Ghirardini, Mr. Roland Sherman, Mr. Carl Billman, Mr. Parker Hart and Mr. Osborne of West Newton.

ERNEST V. EMMES

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the Kelley & Hawes Chapel for Ernest V. Emmes, who died Saturday, Nov. 17 in Roxbury. Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiated. Interment was in Forest Hills Cemetery.

Mr. Emmes was the uncle of Wallace Blanchard of Ravenscroft road. He was the son of Samuel and Caroline (Southworth) Emmes, and was born 56 years ago in Roxbury. He was a realtor, and unmarried.

Discovered Quinine

The Indians of Peru used and introduced it to the Jesuit priests. Between 1629 and 1639, the Countess of Chinchon, vice queen of Peru, lay ill of a fever. She was cured by a brew made from the bark of the plant, and sent a quantity to Spain for experimentation. Hence, it has spread throughout the world.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Scout Exposition and Show

Plans have been completed for the Third Annual Scout Exposition and Show of the Fellsland Council, Inc., B. S. A., to be held at the Tufts College indoor baseball cage, on College avenue, Medford Hillside. There will be approximately 60 booths operated by the Scouts and Scouters of the Council. There will be demonstrations throughout the day, from 2:30 to 10 p. m., inclusive. This show has been the center of two months' activities for the Scouts of the Council. There will be approximately 700 Scouts and 200 Scouters who have labored to make this exposition a huge success.

The 60 booths constructed by the Scouters, will display the many activities of Scouting, as well as the hobbies of some of the Scouts. The demonstration program will begin at 2:30 p. m. in the center of the large ring. This demonstration program has been dealt around the idea of the "Archway of Scouting," which will consist of 18 scenes making up the archway. It will be constructed of 20 blocks, each block representing the Scout oath and law, each block being set in place at the conclusion of its demonstration.

Plans are underway to have the Medford High School Band give a demonstration during the afternoon and evening, under the direction of Harold Osgood, District Commissioner of Medford.

All Scout Troops in the Council, including Seascouts and Cubs, will participate in this great show. Tickets have been distributed to all troops, and it is urged that Scouts will make an exceptional effort to sell as many tickets as possible.

From every point of view, the 1934 Exposition is going to exceed that of last year. Scouts and Scouters, as well as the general public, are keenly interested in this yearly project.

Ten Year Program

The 1934 10 Year Program Award will be made to all Scout troops and Cub packs in which:

1. There has been conducted a program during their charter year ending in 1934 which in the judgment of the local Council, after agreement with the troop (or pack, ship, etc.) Committee, has been a satisfactory program for that particular unit.

2. There is a total boy membership at the close of its charter year ending in 1934 that is more than it was at the close of its charter year ending in 1933. If the local Council at least six months before the expiration of the charter in 1934 has set a limit of membership in a particular troop that troop will qualify in this requirement (No. 2) by equalling the limit so set.

3. At least one-half (50 per cent) of all New Scouts (boys registering as Scouts for the first time during its charter year ending in 1934) were less than 13 years of age when they joined. Cub Packs and Sea Scout ships do not need to meet an age requirement with their new members.

4. At least four-fifths (80 per cent) of all new Scouts who joined the troop during its charter year ending in 1934 reregistered for its charter year ending in 1935.

5. The chater ending in 1934 is renewed within 30 days of its expiration.

The Scout Headquarters has just received a sample of the 1934 program award, and we assure you that it is well worth working for. This year the award is in the form of a shield, which is to be pinned to the flag pole of the troop flag.

WINCHESTER GIRLS BLANKED LEXINGTON

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team shut out the Lexington High girls' team on Manchester Field Tuesday afternoon, 3—0.

The locals held the upper hand throughout the game, but during the first half were unable to score. Following intermission, play was almost entirely in Lexington's territory and after a spirited scrimmage in front of the visitors uprights, "Nat" Stevens beat Goalie Nourse with the goal that broke the ice, later scoring twice to sew up the game.

Between the halves of the first team game, the Winchester seconds played a 1—1 tie with the Lexington seconds, Cutler, Shaton, scoring for the locals and center forward, Cummings, for the visitors.

Following is the first team summary:

WINCHESTER		LEXINGTON

CHILDREN'S MOVIE AT THE UNIVERSITY

In answer to many requests for movies for children the management of the University Theatre has arranged a special showing of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" on Saturday morning, Dec. 1. The other attractions on the program are Mickey Mouse in "The Grocery Boy," "Midnight in a Toy Shop," a Silly Symphony Cartoon and an Our Gang Comedy.

WINCHESTER SET BACK MAYNARD

Provinzano's Field Goal Margin of 10 to 7 Win

Winchester High showed its best football of the year in defeating Maynard High, 10 to 7, in one of the objective games of the Middlesex League season last Saturday afternoon at Maynard. A big crowd saw undoubtedly the two outstanding clubs of the circuit battle for supremacy and left the field satisfied that the better team had won, for Winchester's edge was really greater than the three point margin indicated by the score. Two additional touchdowns were missed by the proverbial eyelash, while time alone prevented another score at the end of the game.

The policing of the field was excellent and the gridiron was kept entirely free of spectators during the game, the big crowd being kept behind the ropes and in the stands.

At full strength for the first time since early season, Winchester gave a fine exhibition of all around heads-up play, hitting hard and effectively while in possession of the ball and waging a stubborn defensive battle against the attempts of the Orange to gain.

From the opening to the closing whistle the contest was packed with thrills, with play shifting so rapidly from one end of the gridiron to the other that the fans were pop-eyed with excitement as they awaited the break that would permit a score. At no time was the issue settled beyond question though as time wore along it became increasingly apparent that only some lucky break could enable Maynard to win.

Winchester played another of those team games that are so effective, with every last player making his contribution to the victory drive. Perhaps the outstanding local players were Frank Provinzano, "Dave" Grosvenor and "Little Jo" Josephson, and it is our opinion that the first named was the best all around performer on the field. "Frankie's" field goal from the twenty yard line shortly before the half was perfectly executed and his long 50 yard pass to Josephson later in the game was spectacular enough for any gridiron. By the same token Josephson's completion in the midst of three Maynard defenders was a breath taking effort, and as things turned out, meant the ball game. Grosvenor's running of the team was high grade, his choice of plays, after a poorly doped pass early in the battle, being especially praiseworthy.

Close behind this trio were "Pollock" McCormack, rugged little guard; big "Gerry" Gaffney and "Steamer" Hanlon, backs; and "Porky" Millyan, end, but they stood out perhaps because of their superior opportunity to pass, every one shared in the honors of victory.

For Maynard, Captain Duggan, Ignacuck, Brayden, Chidley and Fraser were outstanding, and the Orange generally put up a game battle. There was no disgrace in losing a game like that last Saturday.

Statistics show that Winchester rushed for nine first downs and passed for two more, making a total of 11; to eight for Maynard, four of the latter being made through the air. The locals rushed for 161 yards and passed for 50, rolling up 220 yards, while Maynard rushed for 76 and passed for 85, making 161 all told. The Orange lost 50 yards from scrimmage to 20 for Winchester, and was penalized six times for 30 yards, while the locals drew but one offside penalty. Maynard completed six of 18 passes and had two intercepted. Winchester completed three of eight passes and had one intercepted.

Provinzano kicked off for Winchester and Piecewicz got back to his 39 where he was pulled down by Provinzano. Here a bad pass got away from the backfield and McCormack was through fast to recover for Winchester at Maynard's 30. Immediately Frankie faded back and tossed off a long pass which Josephson couldn't cover, the ball falling across the goal line.

The ball was brought back and after Grosvenor had recovered a fumble, "Dave" dropped back and passed out to his left into the flat zone. Brayden came up fast and intercepted cleanly, running fast most of the Winchester team before slowing and falling down at the locals' 32. After Frazer hit tackle for five yards, Maynard lost five for backs in motion, and Brayden dropped back, passing to Fraser who was downed on Winchester's 22.

Here Maynard lost five yards for offside, a long pass was grounded and Brayden kicked outside at Winchester's 10. On first down, Provinzano broke away off his right tackle and ran to the 44, all but getting away cleanly, O'Donnell and Duggan stopped the locals' running game and Provinzano kicked to Fraser, Bairstow making the tackle at the Maynard 20.

The Orange lost five for offside and Gaum broke through to drop Fraser for another five yard loss, Brayden kicking outside at his 45.

Gaffney hit off tackle for five and Grosvenor broke through for a first down at the 20. Provinzano drove to the 12, and Hanlon added a yard, but a fumble lost Winchester the pass to Bairstow was barely incomplete in the end zone, the ball going to Maynard at its 20.

Here Brayden dropped back inside his 10-yard line and kicked across the Winchester goal, the ball traveling 80 yards in the air.

Hanlon quick kicked at once, from his 20 to the 45, and after a short gain at tackle, Frazer passed to Brayden who was downed at Winchester's 31, Brayden picked up eight yards at left end as the quarter ended.

On the first play of the new period Fraser went to a first down at the 19, but here Winchester braced sharply and after a five yard penalty against the Orange, Muraeco cleanly intercepted a Brayden pass at Winchester's 20 and after a nice bit of running with some slick cleaning out by Graham and Bairstow, reached the Maynard 25 where he was pulled down by Capt. Duggan.

In two rushes Provinzano reached the 10, but here Duggan broke through to spill "Frankie" for a four-yard loss, and on fourth down Provinzano dropped back and with Grosvenor holding, kicked a sweet field goal from the 20, the ball going squarely between the uprights with plenty to spare.

From then until the half neither team threatened, though Winchester was advancing to the Orange 28 when time was called.

Shortly after the resumption of play Hanlon quick-kicked to Frazer who was dropped by Millyan on his 19. Brayden returned the kick to his 48, and from that point Provinzano and Grosvenor made it first down on the Maynard 34.

Here Provinzano dropped back to midfield and dodging several Orange tacklers, hurled a long forward pass down the sideline to Josephson who leaped high up in the midst of three Maynard defenders to gather in the ball and fall across the goal line for a touchdown. "Slicker" Coss trotted out and converted at placement with Grosvenor holding.

Shortly after the kickoff, which Brayden ran back to his 38, Maynard was threatening. A long pass across the field from Brayden to Cuttel at Winchester's 48 was allowed when Winchester was charged with interference. Another long pass to the field forward by the same combine placed the ball at the 20, but after a short gain through the line, Josephson dropped Brayden on an attempted pass away back on his 44.

On what looked like a kick Brayden dropped back and tossed a forward straight up to the scrimmage line to Cuttel who ran behind the whole Maynard line to Winchester's 30 where he was pulled down by Hanlon. Another long pass across the field from Brayden to Chidley advanced to the 15, but here a five yard penalty for offside set Maynard back, two passes were grounded and Josephson and McCormack dropped Brayden for a 10 yard loss. On fourth down a forward was incomplete and Winchester took the ball at its 30.

The fourth quarter wasn't far along when an exchange of kicks gave Maynard the ball at Winchester's 43. A pass was knocked down by Cimina, and on the next play Fraser started to sweep his own right end only to cut through tackle where he was hit by Hanlon and Gaffney. The two local backs knocked each other off the man and after wobbling along for two or three yards, Fraser swerved sharply out to the right past several Winchester players and legged it for the goal where he was pulled down by Cimina as he crossed the line for a touchdown. Duggan made a perfect dropkick for the extra point.

Maynard kicked and Grosvenor got back to his 35. A beautiful long cross-the-field pass from Provinzano to Millyan went to the Maynard 43 and missed a touchdown only when Chidley just grabbed "Porky's" foot as he straightened out after making the catch.

After a short advance Maynard took the ball on downs at its 31, and local supporters held their breath while first Josephson and then Hanlon knocked down Brayden's passes. A third pass was intercepted cleanly by Provinzano who wriggled along the sideline to Maynard's 45.

In seven rushes, with Provinzano carrying on five and Hanlon, the other two, Winchester smashed to the Orange 15 where the locals had three yards to go on third down as the whistle blew.

RECEIVED SUBSTANIAL BEQUEST

Miss Grace Hennelly of Stetson Hall is among the beneficiaries under the will of the late Robert H. Clark, wealthy Weston insurance executive and will receive a legacy estimated between $20,000 and $25,000, sharing equally in the estate with a daughter and two grandchildren.

Miss Hennelly was for 16 years confidential secretary for Mr. Clark who was an executive of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company. He was a widower and died Nov. 8 at his home in Weston, his will having been filed in Middlesex Probate Court Monday of this week.

Miss Hennelly is a native of Woburn and was educated in St. Charles Parochial School there, entering the employ of the John Hancock Company, upon the completion of her studies. After a short time in a clerical capacity she was selected by Mr. Clark as his secretary and completed 16 years in this position prior to his death. She refused to discuss her legacy beyond the statement that she would remain at her duties in the John Hancock office.

WINCHESTER AUXILIARY M. S. P. C. A. NOTES

The Auxiliary held its first regular meeting of the fall on Thursday, Nov. 7, at the home of the president. The annual reports were read and plans discussed for the work of the coming winter.

The following officers were elected:
President Mrs. Richard S. Taylor
Vice President—Miss Gladys Foits
Secretary—Miss Evelyn Parker
Treasurer—Miss Bessie M. Small
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Richard Ivey
Chairman Hospital Work Miss Carolyn Rice

The Auxiliary has accepted an invitation from Mrs. Russell Mann to hold the January meeting at her home on Fenwick road. This meeting will be of special interest to new members, and an invitation will be extended to them to join the organization to avail themselves of this opportunity to become acquainted with the work and to enroll as members. A brief report of the past year follows:

During the past 12 months in the life of the Winchester Auxiliary M. S. P. C. A., much has been attempted and much accomplished.

The membership now numbers 38. Although not all of these members are able to attend the monthly meetings regularly, their loyalty is expressed in the payment of annual dues, and by their support of the sales and of the work generally.

For all of the regular monthly meetings the past year, Mrs. Taylor our president, has opened her home to us, and we are deeply appreciative of this hospitality. A special feature for 1934 was the February all-day sewing meeting, when we began work for the autumn sale. The delicious lunch eon which Mrs. Taylor served at noon made this all-day meeting a very pleasant occasion.

Supplies of hospital dressings, folded at the meetings, under the direction of the Work Committee, have been sent to the Angell Memorial Hospital.

In October, we held our second Annual Wayside Sale. This also was held in Mrs. Taylor's home, and was a delightful and successful affair.

Gifts of money have been contributed to several objects in which the Auxiliary is interested, as follows: $5 to the Winchester Welfare Department, $5 to the Humane Trapping Council; $5 for the summer watering of horses, $10 for the horses' Christmas, $5 to the Massachusetts S. P. C. A. in recognition of their kindness in making many trips to Winchester. We have also added to the shelter fund the sum of $60.

The activities of the Auxiliary have by no means been confined to the regular monthly meetings. In December we accepted the invitation of the Boston Women's Auxiliary to have a table at the Angell Memorial Fair, held at the Copley Plaza, on Dec. 14. This table was well patronized, and the proceeds added a substantial amount to our Shelter Fund.

Another activity during December was the work for the horses' Christmas. Our share in this event consisted of $10 worth of grain, and many bags of vegetables and apples, contributed by the members and other townspeople.

Preparations for "Be Kind to Animals Week" began early in the spring, and as a result the 1934 celebration was more widespread than in any previous year. Mr. Quinn co-operated with us, by having Humane Day observed in the elementary schools, and the exercises were of a very high order. Several of our members attended, and both Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Edith Washburn Clarke spoke at assemblies on that day.

We purchased from the American Humane Education Society 60 copies of the special "Be Kind to Animals" poster, and had the name of the Winchester Auxiliary printed on them. These were placed in stores, schools and churches. In the children's rooms of the Winchester Public Library, was an interesting exhibit of the "Be Kind to Animals" posters made by Winchester school children for the poster contest which was carried on by the Mass. S. P. C. A.

Without doubt, the most important and useful department of the Winchester Auxiliary's work at present is to be found in the service our president renders, week in and week out, at the telephone, responding to all requests for advice and help where animal pets are involved, and reporting to the Boston officers any complaints which require investigation. The auxiliary and the town owe her much for this labor of devotion and love and for her efficient handling of all cases, many of which call for prompt action and wise judgment.

R. E. BELIVEAU INJURED

Mr. Roland E. Beliveau, upholsterer of 25 Thompson street, was painfully injured last Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock when he fell from his truck which was headed toward Church street on Bacon street and had reached a point near Lagrange street.

Mr. Beliveau was standing on the outside at the rear of his truck, which is of the beach wagon type, supporting a wooden bed which was on the machine to be delivered. His brother, Henry G. Beliveau of 17 Elwood street, Worcester, was driving the machine and had slowed down approaching the traffic lights on Church street when suddenly the wind got under the broadside of the bed, lifting it and toppling it onto Mr. Beliveau.

Finding he was unable to hold the heavy piece of furniture, Mr. Beliveau ducked under it and fell from the machine, falling heavily. Mrs. Harold V. Farnsworth of Copley street who happened to be passing notified Police Headquarters and the ambulance was sent to the scene with Patrolmen John Hogan and John Dolan.

They removed Mr. Beliveau in the ambulance to the hospital where he was attended by Dr. Philip J. McManus. He was found to have sustained a fractured wrist and a broken left ankle. After treatment, he was taken to his home.

FORMER LOCAL PASTOR'S SON WINS FAME EXPERIMENTING WITH FLOWERS

Herbert E. Metcalf's Work Based on His Own Scientific Investigations Results in New and Strange Floral Varieties

X-ray experiments with petunias carried on by Herbert E. Metcalf, San Francisco patent attorney and son of the late Rev. Joel H. Metcalf, formerly pastor of the Unitarian Church, are attracting wide interest on the Pacific Coast. He has evolved "sports" freak flowers and new varieties in brilliant and unusual colors, with foliage as varied as the strange blossoms. His work is based upon the original scientific investigations carried on at the University of California, the University of Texas and other institutions; and he has spent three years in developing this new and enthralling hobby.

The formula fixed upon through a long series of experiments in his beautiful garden at Walnut Grove is this: He takes petunia plants with flowers almost ready to open and exposes the still closed buds to X-rays —70 kilovolts, three to four and one half minutes for 20 minutes at a distance of eight inches. The process is a delicate one. At best only 25 per cent of the X-ray treated flowers yield seeds which will grow, while an increase in the current to five milliamperes or more will result in the destruction of the bud.

But results are comparatively speedy. Instead of waiting years as Luther Burbank had to do in perfecting his Shasta daisies and other plants, Mr. Metcalf can produce a galaxy of unusual petunia forms in a single season. Starting with a standard petunia, "Ruffled Giant," he has obtained blossoms with peculiar crinkly finger-like appendages, others with six petalwise divisions of the familiar single corolla, or an arrangement suggestive of an orchid with three large and two small petals. One astonishing bloom in purple and green has been described as a cross between an orchid and a head of lettuce; while other giant flowers from three to nine inches in diameter range through vivid shades of red, scarlet and purple. And these freak varieties brought into existence under the weird influence of the X-ray continue to reproduce themselves consistently through seedlings. Crosses of the X-rayed plants with normal petunias through the transference of pollen, produce hybrids midway between the two parent plants.

The cause of the alterations brought about in the treated petunias is thought to be a shuffling of the chromosomes in the pollen and egg cells which shape the likeness of the growing plant. Even slight changes in their nature, grouping or distribution, have power to modify the resulting flower drastically. It is interesting to note that the original plants as well as their seedlings, show the effect of the rays; and vary in height at maturity from six inches to a normal three feet. The blossoms may be either dwarfed or greatly enlarged.

An enthusiastic garden lover, Mr. Metcalf is one of the first to make biology the hand-maid of his favorite avocation.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

This is the week to buy the staple and non-perishable foods needed for Thanksgiving, to order your turkey, to get such tedious tasks as making mincemeat and shelling nuts out of the way. Be sure too, that your spice shelf is adequately stocked with seasoning for stuffings and pumpkin pies. A carefully planned menu and a market list will help simplify your work.

For this week-end simple foods are to be preferred. A pot roast or plain roast of lamb, beef or pork with plain, buttered vegetables and a simple fruit dessert or milk pudding is desirable. Root vegetables and the citrus fruits are inexpensive. Cabbage and spinach and both cooking and eating apples also are low in price.

In place of the very special dinner this week we are including a Thanksgiving menu of seasonable and reasonably priced foods.

Low Cost Dinner
Pan-broiled Chopped Beef
Baked Potatoes
Buttered Beets
Bread and Butter
Fruit Salad
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Corned Beef Mashed Potatoes
Cabbage Cooked in Milk
Bread and Butter
Coffee Gelatin Soft Custard
Tea or Coffee Milk

Thanksgiving Dinner
Fruit Cup or Clear Soup
Celery Salted Nuts Olives
Roast Turkey Nut Stuffing
Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes Diced Turnips
Cranberry Sauce
Rolls and Butter
Pumpkin or Squash and Mince Pies
Fruit Nuts
Coffee

A Platoon School

A platoon school is an elementary school organized in two major divisions, with a program of studies so arranged that the divisions alternate in using the two kinds of school rooms, as class and study rooms on the one hand, and shops, laboratories, auditoriums and gymnasium on the other, and thus fully utilize the physical resources of the school plant.

Protected Free Thinkers

The Dutch were the first people to tolerate free thought and to offer refuge to those of other countries who had been ostracized or harassed for their religious beliefs. Incidentally, our own Pilgrim Fathers, persecuted in England, found refuge in Amsterdam and Leyden for twelve years before they sailed for America in the Mayflower.—Collier's Weekly.

THE NEW GENERAL ELECTRIC DISHWASHER DOES THE JOB IN LESS THAN FIVE MINUTES!

Hygienically cleans all the dishes, glasses, silverware, pots and pans—eliminates chipping and breaking—saves an hour or more a day!

Out of the G-E House of Magic comes this amazing electrical device that washes a whole day's stack of dishes, glassware, silver—even the pots and pans—in less than 5 minutes without hands touching water! This perfected appliance eliminates the breaking, chipping and cracking of even the most delicate china and glassware.

Stack the dishes in the G-E instead of in the sink—snap a switch—and you're through!

The rubber-covered trays in the G-E Dishwasher hold the plates, cups, glasses, silver and pans firmly in place. You add a little soap, close the lid, turn the magic control, and steaming hot water is sprayed inside, outside, over and around the entire contents. The dishwasher cleans itself as it cleans the dishes.

Dishes are hygienically clean and far more sanitary

Less water but hotter water is used than in hand washing, making the dishes hygienically clean. This piping hot water—hotter than human hands could touch—destroys bacteria and germs that remain on dishes washed by hand in lukewarm water—that lurk in the unsanitary dishrag and often spread diseases such as colds, "flu" and pneumonia.

Costs less than 1c a day to operate!

The G-E Dishwasher uses but very little current—less than a penny's worth a day. It saves you money on soap, dishrags, dishtowels, laundering. Most important, it eliminates costly chipping and breakage of dishes by slippery or careless hands. Made and guaranteed by General Electric—world's largest electrical manufacturer.

Proved in use in hundreds of homes

The first electric dishwashers, though crude affairs that were not entirely satisfactory in use, proved a great advance over hand dishwashing. Now G-E engineers have perfected an electric dishwasher that is as simple, as efficient and as dependable as the other famous General Electric home servants. There are thousands of General Electric Dishwashers in homes throughout the country. Today the new, improved General Electric Dishwasher stands proved in service as a dependable, trouble-free device, good for years of faithful day-after-day performance.

The G-E Dishwasher is made in sizes and models to meet every family requirement.

Only $10 delivers fastest monthly terms are available

Come in and see it demonstrated—no obligation to you!

See the G-E Dishwasher in actual operation in our store. Handle it yourself and ask all the questions you want. You are under no obligation to buy. You should know about this newest electrical home servant—how it can save more than an hour of kitchen time every day—how it banishes the most hated task of all housework—how it protects your family from the dangers of bacteria and germs that are not destroyed in lukewarm water. Come in today!

If not convenient to call, mail your name and address and we will send complete, fully illustrated literature about this modern kitchen servant.

Ways of Plants

Plants have all sorts of methods for distributing their seeds. There is the aerial screw of the maple, for instance, the seeds having, as it were, wings which make them spin through the air as they fall from the parent tree, and the more revolutions they make, the more chance there is of their being carried by the breeze to a new place.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

How many Winchesterites remember the old days when we burned oil lamps, and when the wick was short and the oil was low, we added water to bring the oil up to the wick?

And when a man made the rounds of fair Winchester periodically to put in new electric light lamps all over the house?

And when mother spent the day with relatives or friends she took her knitting or sewing along?

Every married man here in Winchester has troubles of his own—and a lot he doesn't own.

One of the hardest things to locate in Winchester or in any other place is a welcome that will not wear out.

Believe it or not, a lot of fellows here in Winchester as elsewhere are not so important as their exalted opinion of themselves indicates.

Winchester fellow says he met a homely woman the other day who was willing to admit it. But she didn't live in Winchester!

The Winchesterite who really knows himself does not tell all he knows.

A needle in a haystack is hard to locate, but according to a well known resident of fair Winchester if there is one nail anywhere in an acre of grass the lawnmower will soon find it.

We know a strict vegetarian here in Winchester who even refuses to eat kidney beans. But isn't he overdoing the idea?

Sometimes a man's silence speaks volumes for his ignorance.

"Weeds grow faster than flowers" can be applied to people as well as plants. Which is one of the many reasons why restraint is necessary.

Winchester fellow says he would like to have a complete list of the prominent photoplay stars who have never been divorced, just to defend them on occasions.

The people of Winchester are dreadfully in earnest about our Chamber of Commerce.

Postage stamps all seem to taste the same, no matter what color they are.

The homes of fair Winchester hold the richest joys which life can give.

Money that lies idle entices idle hands.

Some folk here in Winchester spell like they had indigestion.

So far as bootleggers are concerned Winchester is one of the cleanest towns in the state.

We know a "Mr. Henpeck" right here in fair Winchester who is always at the "peck and call" of his wife.

We agree with the Winchester fellow who remarks that the fellow who can disagree without being disagreeable is all right.

We know a certain lazy man here in Winchester who is always trying to "work" out some plan for continued loafing.

"Star Reader" inquires what has become of the roll in the stockings? The entire Star staff extends its sympathy to "Star Reader" in the loss of his eyesight.

Recently a Winchester man boiled a lot of glue and made a lot of enemies among the neighbors.

If there are 20,000 useless words in the English language the average woman here in Winchester uses them all in the course of conversation.

Winchester's son who gets up early enough to see the sun rise will rise himself in the business world.

Live in peace with all your neighbors.

We hate to have to say it but it is true that there are some folks in fair Winchester as elsewhere who write, talk and think so much on virtue, that they have no time to practice it.

When a man is ready to depart this life, what avails it whether a man is on a throne or in the dust?

Trust not the fellow who promises with an oath.

The wise Winchesterite may run to his dinner, run to his work, run after knowledge, but never run in debt.

Some persons toil all their lives, and refuse the enjoyments which can only be relished when life is in its prime, that they may be rich when the power of enjoyment is over.

What a magnificent opportunity every day furnishes to do something for somebody in Winchester.

We cannot have too much of civic ambition in fair Winchester.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Lester E. Savage and Katherine A. Savage, his wife in her right, to the Arlington Five Cents Savings Bank, dated March 1, 1925 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 4818, Page 514, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction at 9:30 A. M. on the fourth day of December, 1934, on the mortgaged premises situated in Winchester, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage, to wit:

"A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in Winchester in said County on the Southwesterly side of Webster Street and bounded and described as follows:

Northwesterly by land now or formerly of Carrier, one hundred sixty ... feet more or less.

Southwesterly by land now or formerly of Hatch et als. ninety four and ... (94...) feet.

Southeasterly by land now or formerly of Eldredge, one hundred fifty-one and 45/100 (151.45) feet;

Northeasterly by said Webster Street, ninety-six and 65/100 (96.65) feet.

Containing 15,052 square feet of land.

Being the same premises conveyed to the said Katherine A. Savage by Everett G. Shaw by deed to be recorded herewith."

Said premises will be sold subject to all outstanding taxes, tax titles and other municipal liens, if any.

Terms of sale: Three hundred ($300) Dollars to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, balance in ten days, other particulars at time and place of sale.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

People who deplore the passing of integrity and the lack of real fellowship among men are on the right track after all. This old world can hardly be a truly brotherhood of man until we have developed a sense of fellowship among men regardless of race or creed. We have been striving hard to bring this about for a good many years but it seems farther away than ever. Until the great task is completed we have no business to call ourselves Christian. As a recent writer has pointed out:

"Even what we call Christian civilization is itself un-Christian. But in spite of cruelty, unscrupulous and killing competition, degrading selfishness, war and all the rest, the world has progressed mightily in the thousands on thousands of years that man has been engaged in subduing the earth. It seems foolish to say—so obvious is it—that civilization is an enormous advance over savagery. And civilization is, speaking broadly, more enlightened today than ever before in the history of the race. Glorifiers of past centuries will not admit it, but it is believed to be true that there is more happiness in the world than ever before, and that more people share it. There are more virtue and goodness in spite of the many disturbing facts which to those who fail to take the long view seem to give the lie to the statement. More fellowship there is, too. Indeed, many forces are at work that tend to force fellowship on men who acknowledge no obligation to enter into such a relation. Some of these forces are commercial, some political, some social. But, stronger and more important than compulsion, is the growing consciousness that men owe duties to one another as members of a social order which is itself a fellowship. They are realizing that relations that must necessarily be intimate, and associations that must be close, should also be cordial, friendly and mutually helpful."

Did not Christ say: "All ye are brethren"? It has taken common sense a long time even to glimpse this ideal, but we have the ideal before us and now it is up to us to put it into effect. There are few people even among the most unlettered who do not know that it pays for men to live together in harmony and in—if not a brotherly—at least a friendly spirit of co-operation. Man has suffered most, not from wild beasts, not from nature, but from man.

ITALY'S COLONIAL EMPIRE DWARFS THE "BOOT"

Italian Somaliland, second largest of Italy's colonial possessions, recently received a visit of inspection from King Victor Emmanuel. The king's tour raises a question as to the relative importance of Italian colonial activities.

Italy ranks fifth among the world's great landlords, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. With nearly one million square miles under her flag she is outranked only by Great Britain, Russia, France, and the United States. Italy's empire is not as widely spread over the globe as that of the other great landholders for it is confined to Europe, North Africa, and islands in near-by seas.

Libya Is Largest Italian Colony

Italy's colonial possessions have an area of about eight times that of the "boot" and near-by islands which comprise the mother country. Libya, the largest of the Italian colonies, occupies an extensive area of North Africa, directly south of Italy and Sicily. It is made up of the two former colonies, Tripolitania and Cirenaica. Most of Libya is desert, punctuated here and there with oases. Nearly twice the size of the State of Texas it spreads from the Mediterranean deep into the sands of the Sahara where its southern boundary in some regions is not clearly defined. Many of its inhabitants (717,663) are desert nomads and traders who spend most of their time moving from oasis to oasis along the network of caravan routes. Along the coast irrigation has worked wonders, although at great cost. Lands, once barren wastes, have been nurtured into producing farms, and some of the sleeping towns have been awakened by a progressive Italian colonization program.

Eritrea Shaped Like Huge Club

Italian Somaliland is one of the three Europe-owned Somalilands—the other two belong to France and Great Britain. Most of the colony, particularly the northern and central portions, are sun-parched and barren. In the south, the Giuba (Juba) River flowing down to the Indian Ocean from the hills of Ethiopia, waters a winding, fertile region through the Somaliland plains. In some places the fertile land reaches only a few hundred yards from the river banks, but in others it is several miles wide.

Lugh, one of Somaliland's most thriving inland commercial centers, is 250 miles up the Giuba. It is outnumbered in population only by the capital, Magadiscio (29,000) where King Emmanuel debarked. Although Somaliland is not the largest Italian colony, it outranks the others in population. It has more than a million inhabitants.

Eritrea, spreading along the sun-swept western shore of the Red Sea is almost mile for mile the same size as the State of Pennsylvania. It is shaped somewhat like a blunt-topped paddle. The "handle" is but 50 miles wide while the bulging upper end, abutting the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, is 350 miles wide. Eritrea, like northern Libya, is slowly coming to the front economically. New highways are being extended into many of its most forbidding barren regions; a railroad now links the principal port Massaua with the capital, Asmara 75 miles inland; and Massaua and other trading centers of the colony are showing new commercial life.

Italy's Aegean Islands (often known as the Dodecanese) form the smallest unit of the colonial empire. They are a group of volcanic isles sprinkled over a wide area of the Aegean Sea near its meeting point with the Mediterranean. Some of the islands are so close to the shore of Asiatic Turkey that on clear days they can be seen from the mainland.

Italy's colonial empire is young as colonial empires go. Libya and the Dodecanese Islands were occupied by Italy during the quarrel between Italy and Turkey in 1912, and later were annexed by treaty. Assab, Eritrea, is the corner stone of Italian colonization on the Red Sea. About 50 years ago the town was purchased by an Italian shipping company for a coaling station. By treaties, Italy acquired other parcels of the Red Sea coast, and in 1890 all of them were consolidated under the present colonial name.

Somaliland came to Italy like a jig-saw puzzle. Northern Somaliland was acquired in 1889 by an agreement with Great Britain, Ethiopia and Zanzibar. Sixteen years later an area to the south was purchased from the Sultan of Zanzibar for $750,000. The tail of the colony, including the busy port Chisimaio (Kismayu), was leased to Italy in 1905. In 1925 when the European powers held a colonial "dividing party," Italy's representative emerged with papers declaring Italy's ownership of the leased territory.

HEMP IS NO LONGER KING OF ROPE FIBERS

Important adjuncts of the day-to-day round of modern civilization are the various fibers of the world used in making rope, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Whether you are a schoolgirl skipping rope, a cowboy lassoing cattle, a painter standing on a scaffolding, a motorist whose car is being towed, a housewife hanging a clothesline, or a yachtsman reefing a mainsail, you are dependent on rope for the accomplishment of some daily task, says the bulletin.

Once "rope" and "hemp" were synonymous, but today very little rope is made of hemp. Abaca, a fiber grown in the Philippines, has all but shouldered hemp out of the rope industry. But because of old traditions in rope making, and an early error, abaca is spoken of in the cordage trade as "Manila hemp."

Europe Learned Hemp Use from China

If the thread of the story of rope—and first hemp—is traced back far enough, it will lead to the court of Shen Nung, Emperor of China 2700 years before Christ. He taught his subjects to grow "ma" (hemp), a plant of both male and female forms, used for making hempen cloth. In the eighth century India knew hemp plant principally as a source of drugs. Neither the Hebrews nor the Egyptians were familiar with it; but during medieval times it was found in Northern Africa. Migrant civilizations introduced hemp into Europe about 1500 B. C., but no commercial importance was attached to the European plants until the French imported Chinese hemp centuries later. Italy turned its attention to hemp growing, and today the highest-priced hemp in the markets of either Europe or America is grown there. South America received its first plants from Spain.

New England and Virginia cultivated hemp in early Colonial days. The Southern crop flourished and, in 1802, the blue grass region of Kentucky supported two extensive ropewalks (factories for making rope). During the 19th century Kentucky led the United States in the production of hemp. Women spun it into clothes for themselves and their menfolk. All American clipper ships built up to 1850 were equipped with rope, sails, cables, halyards, and shrouds from American hemp fields—as many as 1000 acres being required to grow enough hemp to outfit one vessel. It was in those middle years of the 19th century—"the good old days" to sentimentalists—that the words "rope" and "hemp" began to mean practically the same thing. Since 1930 very little hemp has been grown anywhere in the United States.

Rope From Banana Plants

By 1850 England was selling a better rope for marine purposes than could be made in the United States. American manufacturers began to take greater interest in the "hemp of Manila" used by the British. That Philippine product abaca, it was found, is derived from a plant of the banana family. It was grown a considerable distance from Manila, but was taken there for export. American cordage makers were adaptable enough to begin importing the new fiber, and soon American made abaca rope took its place among the best rope in the world. True hemp—the kind that had been grown in Kentucky—then found its greatest level of usefulness in commercial lines.

Although the rugged, salt-water-resisting abaca fiber proved to be the best for making rope, it was not the most serious competitor of true hemp. Jute, India's contribution to the world's fibers has completely ousted hemp from many of its former uses. It is the cheapest and most easily spun of any of the soft fibers and is woven into sacks for coffee, sugar and grain, and covering for cotton bales and packages or merchandise in transit. Weaker and less durable than any of the important textile fibers, it is less satisfactory than hemp for twine, carpet warp, or furniture webbing. In recent years the United States has imported an average of approximately 1500 tons of unmanufactured hemp, chiefly fine grades of Italian hemp; but has brought in each year approximately 75,000 tons of unmanufactured jute, and 575,000 pounds of India burlap (made of jute).

Cotton, as well as jute, has elbowed hemp products from the market. As in the case of jute, however, cotton is neither so strong nor so durable as hemp twine. Nevertheless, twine-making by cotton mills is an important secondary industry, the value of which is written in millions of dollars each year.

Any geographic consideration of rope must not overlook sisal and henequin. They are obtained from the leaves of two closely related but distinct plant species originating in the Yucatan Peninsula. Over a half-million acres in Mexico, and other countries of the peninsula, are planted with henequen, but sisal is cultivated there today only to a limited extent. The great sisal-producing regions are Netherland India and British East Africa. Henequen and sisal are used in the manufacture of binder twine, other hard fiber twines, and ropes of small diameter.

Rope-making itself furnishes an interesting story, but one too long to be told in detail. One of the operations, that of spinning the yarn after the fiber had been hackled, called for considerable walking in the early days of rope manufacture. While he backed down the ropewalk, the spinner drew out the fibers as they turned on hooks of a wheel. Some walks were covered, others were sheltered at either end, still others were wholly out-of-doors, and many were as long as 400 yards. The spinner kept his backward pace constant, otherwise the yarn would not have been uniform. Today he rides a vehicle, in appearance not unlike a hand car, which runs on tracks.

In the use of fibers of today the line-up is something like this:

Plumbers, ship builders, and tailors of men's fine clothes use hemp fiber, (probably from Wisconsin (which now leads Kentucky), or from sunny Italy. Plumbers and ship builders make use of the fiber for caulking pipes and seams; tailors, as webbing in good suits.

Steeple jacks, yachtsmen, cowboys, and house painters use fine ropes made in the United States from abaca grown in the Philippine Islands.

School girls, school boys and housewives use skip ropes, balls or string for kite flying, and clotheslines made of cotton.

Postal employees, coffee packers, cotton gin workers use twine, sacks, and covering made from jute grown in India.

Grain growers tie their sheaves with binder twine made from Yucatan henequen or true sisal from Netherland India or British East Africa.

Bodyguard of Women

African kings in the last century frequently had a bodyguard of women. A certain king of Dahomey had developed this institution into female regiments, the women nominally being the king's wives, and making hard, savage and courageous warriors.

Distended Lips Once Useful

In Africa, the custom of stretching the lips with wooden disks was begun to render the women valueless to old Arab slave traders.

SCOUTS' GREAT SHOW

Third Exposition at Tufts College, Saturday, Dec. 1

More than 800 Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts and Cubs of Medford, Winchester, Woburn, Stoneham and Burlington are preparing for the greatest event of its kind in New England to be held at Cousens Gym, the big Tufts College indoor athletic field.

This will be the biggest Boy Scout show in New England and will take place in Medford, Saturday, Dec. 1.

This is the third annual exposition and show of Fellsland Council, Boy Scouts of America which is made up of all the Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts and Cubs of Medford, Stoneham, Winchester, Woburn and Burlington. The exposition will take place in the indoor playing field of Cousens Gymnasium at Tufts College and the show will run from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Demonstrations of Boy Scout dealing and activities and other special features will be on the program from 2:30 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 10 p. m. with fife and drum and band music.

More Than 800 in Council

There are over 800 boys in the Council, all working eagerly for the big event, preparing demonstrations and exhibits, as well as distributing books of tickets, at $1 each.

The general chairman is Field Scout Commissioner, Robert W. Sproul. Divisional chairmen include William O. Jones for the Medford East district, Clarence L. Thompson for the Medford South district; Milton L. South for the Medford West district; Francis H. McCall for the Stoneham district; T. Parker Clarke for the Winchester district and Elmer Waters for Woburn and Burlington.

Committee Chairmen

The committee chairmen include George W. Pangree, ticket committee; A. Russell Ellis, publicity committee; William O. Jones, floor committee; Ronald H. Pratt, concession committee; Sumner Thompson, program committee; Robert L. Sproul, advertisement committee and J. Avery Greene, exhibits committee.

This affair has aroused wide interest and several delegations are coming from other states just for the occasion. It is expected that there will be an attendance of more than 5000 in the afternoon and evening.

OBSERVED 65th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

The celebration of a golden wedding is ordinarily an event sufficiently uncommon to arouse more than passing notice, and yet Mr. and Mrs. George H. Eustis of 14 Stevens street on last Sunday observed the 65th anniversary following the 50th milestone of their married life. They passed the day quietly, having dinner at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Eustis of Church street but otherwise attempting nothing in the way of formal celebration. A prospective family party at Thanksgiving made it impossible to plan a second gathering on the occasion of the anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Eustis were married Nov. 25, 1869, in Woburn by Rev. W. S. Barnes, minister of the Woburn Unitarian Church. After a short residence in Somerville they came to Winchester in 1871 and have since made their home here, living during that time in the house they now occupy, which however has been extensively remodeled and enlarged since their first occupancy.

Both have many friends among citizens of all walks in life, and Mr. Eustis is especially well known through his long connection with town affairs. Despite his 88 years he is still active as a trustee of the Public Library, and previously for 15 years was town treasurer. He and Mrs. Eustis, who is 86, are members of the Unitarian Church.

Their five children include Wyatt St. B. Eustis of San Francisco, Cal.; Ernest R. Eustis of Winchester, Cemetery Commissioner and treasurer and director of the Winchester Co-operative Bank; Mrs. Helen Seelye of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Harriet Burt of Springfield and Mrs. Frances Gray of Auburn, Cal. There are also 10 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Despite the fact there there was no celebration of their anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Eustis received many messages of felicitation from their relatives and friends. To these the Star wishes to add its congratulations and best wishes.

TAX COLLECTOR NICHOLS TO SPEAK

As an extra feature of the program explaining the Better Housing Campaign at the Town Hall, Dec. 4, Tax Collector Nathaniel Nichols will answer questions and speak briefly regarding the new regulations governing tax collections and payments—particularly the effect of the change from April to January assessments which is so puzzling to many tax payers.

Come! Further announcement elsewhere.

TURGEON—SNYDER

At a simple ceremony in the Church of the Epiphany Wednesday evening, Nov. 28, Miss Charlotte Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic S. Snyder of Myopia Hill, and Frederick King Turgeon of Amherst son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Turgeon, were married by Rev. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of Trinity Church, Boston, assisted by the rector of the Epiphany, Rev. Dwight W. Hadley.

Miss Snyder was given in marriage by her father, and attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Snyder, as maid of honor. The remaining bridal attendants were Mrs. Leonard W. Snyder, of Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Ellen D. Reid of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Miss Catherine Boyden of Winchester and Miss Virginia Whitney of Worcester.

Mr. Turgeon had for his best man, E. Kimball Morsman of Amherst and the corps of ushers included Leonard W. Snyder, Jere Abbott of Northampton, George B. Fannell of Amherst and Walter R. Whitney of Cambridge.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with a tulle veil arranged with a coronet of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of valley lilies and gardenias. Her honor maid wore apricot velvet and carried African daisies with talisman roses, the same flowers being carried by the bridesmaids who wore frocks of green velvet.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents who assisted in receiving with the parents of the bridegroom. Upon their return from a wedding journey Mr. Turgeon and his bride are to live at 77 South Pleasant street in Amherst where they will be at home after Jan. 1.

The bride was graduated from Walnut Hill School in 1930 and from Smith College with the class of 1931. Mr. Turgeon was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1923 and and received his Ph.D. from Harvard in 1930. He is at present an associate professor at Amherst.

ONE ACT PLAYS PRESENTED BY PLAYERS

In Metcalf Hall on Thursday evening, Dec. 6, the Winchester Unitarian Players will present two one-act plays.

"As Once You Were," written by Fred Cole, a talented young member of the Players, discloses the situation occasioned when a young man, about to be married, is confronted by a former feminine acquaintance who threatens to reveal the disgraceful nature of his early life to his present circle of friends unless he accedes to her unreasonable demands. Under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Reynolds, the following comprise the cast: Fredrika McVicar, Elizabeth Jacobs, Sylvia Parker, Norman Codding, Fred Cole.

"The Grand Cham's Diamond" by Allan Monkhouse portrays the extraordinary events which occur in the home of a middle class London family on an evening which, at the beginning, seems destined to be like all other evenings when the family "have their tea and then just set down 'til it's time to go to bed." Mrs. Wayne Davis and Mr. Fred Cole as chairmen, have the able assistance of the following cast: Thelma Patman, Malcolm Watkins, Dawn Kelley, Richard Barnard, Bouldin Burbank.

Assisting in the production of these plays are Louise Giles, Janet Grant.

This is a meeting of the Unitarian Players; members and their guests will be admitted without charge.

NOYES—PETERS

Dr. Jane Peters and Dr. Alston W. Noyes were married at 6 o'clock on Nov. 12 at the German Evangelical Church in St. Louis, Mo. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. W. Peters of St. Louis, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Noyes of Cambridge street.

The bridesmaid was Miss Jewel Miller of St. Louis and Dr. Noyes had for his best man Dr. Andrew Spinney of West Medford. The ceremony was private with only relatives present.

Following, there was a reception at the crystal room of the Hotel Chase, about 60 guests being present for dinner and dancing. The groom's mother, his sister, Miss Beth Noyes; and aunt, Mrs. H. H. Edgerly were present.

Dr. and Mrs. Noyes will make their residence at 205 East Jefferson street, Kirksville, Mo., where they will complete their course at the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

ROY M. BRYAN

Funeral services for Roy M. Bryan of 68 Irving street, who died Saturday, Nov. 24, after a three weeks' illness, were held on Tuesday afternoon in the New Hope Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. William H. Smith, officiating. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mr. Bryan was born 36 years ago in Centerville, N. J., the son of Mrs. M. C. and the late John D. Bryan. He came with his parents to Winchester when a child, was educated in the Winchester schools and for a time attended Boston University.

Surviving are his mother, his wife, the former Madeleine Skanks, two daughters, Josephine, 10, and Barbara, 8, all of this town; and one brother, Clarence Bryan of Medford.

COMMUNITY BOWLING

Wednesday evening's matches in the Community Bowling League on the Winchester Alleys resulted as follows: Fells Plumbing won three and lost one to the Elks; Town Team won three and lost one to the K. of C.; Atlantic Geltaine won four from St. Mary's; and the Legion won three and lost one to Sons of Italy.

STAR ANNOUNCES ALL MIDDLESEX LEAGUE TEAM FOR 1934

With the closing of the 1934 Middlesex League football season the Star herewith offers for the consideration of local fans its honorary first and second teams, carefully selected on the basis of what we have actually seen these boys do for and against Winchester, plus the opinion of coaches and players we have been able to secure.

There is grave danger in choosing a man for an "all" team after seeing him play in but one game, but as most of the clubs in the circuit habitually play their best game against Winchester it is generally possible to get in this way a line on many of the league stars, and we have no particular apologies to offer for the clubs we have chosen. They would be hard to beat.

We have probably missed some good boys who for one reason or another did not play against Winchester, and we may have chosen one or two who had their big day on that occasion. All in all, however, we have seen most of our choices perform during the past two years and none can be termed a flash in the pan.

The best end play we have seen over the past several seasons was that of Bairstow of Winchester against Lexington. Any college man would have been glad to turn in a like performance. Defensively this boy rates with the best, and offensively is also very satisfactory. Three years of varsity experience makes him a hard man to fool. Josephson, Winchester's rangy wingman, is unquestionably the best pass receiver on the circuit while his 6 ft. 1 in. and 175 pounds makes him effective on defense as well. Palmer of Concord is a corking all around end, who lacks Josephson's pass-catching ability and is a bit short of Bairstow's defensive strength. Millyan of Winchester is just about as good as any of the ends on the first team, and is a better pass receiver than either Bairstow or Palmer. He does, however, lack these boys' experience. King of Stoneham is a good end who was hampered with injuries in the Winchester game, yet who showed himself to be good while handicapped.

Two tackles stood out in the games we saw this year, and we have chosen them for our first team. Kingman of Concord was perhaps the most effective workman the local linemen had to contend with and his play against Winchester was very high class. Captain Duggan of Maynard was less orthodox in his play, being all over the field, but he was a fine all around player, and a hard man to keep out of the middle of things, a real fighter. Olson of Winchester, a 200 pounder, was very consistent all season, and little ground was gained over his position in any game. The type of defense used by Winchester did not permit him to make many tackles, but one of the big reasons why no club could make their running game go against the Winchester line was the impossibility of getting big Ivor out of there. Maghakian, Stoneham's captain, moved around his own rushline a lot, but was a good all around workman, and the most effective lineman Stoneham showed at Winchester.

Picking the guards this season has been a difficult assignment as there have been very few outstanding performers at these important positions. Those two chunky little workhorses, Ignachuck of Maynard and McCormack of Winchester were steadily effective, and McCormack's pass defense of the ball was as good as any in the league. Both boys swung out of line for interference well, and both could "take it." Their activity and adaptability to the modern game give them the edge over the giant Bierenbroodspot of Lexington, a veteran performer, immovable but too slow to do some of the things demanded of an all around guard. Windheim of Concord made a lot of tackles against Winchester and was good enough to rate the other berth on the second eleven.

There was no Lentine among the league centers this season, and the fat slump experienced by O'Donnell, the fine Maynard snapper-back of 1933, eliminates him. Abbott, Belmont captain, was the best of the circuit pivots with something to spare, a really good all around performer. Webster, Lexington's bulky center, rates the second team assignment on his defensive strength, though had Gaum of Winchester been able to play all season the Minuteboy would have had plenty of competition.

Provinzano of Winchester, placed at quarterback on our first team, is the best all around back in the league, a true triple threat, who can run, pass, kick, plunge, and above all tackle. This sturdy little back is the best safety man in the circuit, and we have yet to see him miss an open field tackle that he had a chance to make. He is as good a back as there is playing football in the Mystic Valley. Winchester's Grosvenor, whom we place at quarterback on our second team, is a hard driver, a fair passer, good tackler and perhaps the best pilot in the league. Certainly his choice of plays at the end of the year was very creditable, and there are few faster men in a broken field than he.

Hanlon, Winchester's veteran halfback, is the best defensive back on the circuit, a vicious tackler, who can also hit the line and pull down a pass if necessary. His ability to diagnose plays and intercept passes has proven very valuable, and his wingback on defense an inspiration. With him at the other halfback post is Sarafian, Belmont's big dreadnought, a 185 pound combination of battering ram and armored tank, second to Provinzano in all around ability and the hardest man in the league to stop. This boy is as good as they come in the schoolboy ranks as a line bucker and is also a fine defensive player who kicks and passes to add to his effectiveness. His value is easily estimated by those who saw the Belmont team with, and without his services.

Rooney, Concord's big punger, is another very tough boy to bring down, effective on defense and a hard bruising player who can "take it" and "hand it out." Winchester found him plenty hard to stop and he rounds out our first team at fullback. Brayden of Maynard fell somewhat below his 1933 effectiveness, but was still a mighty good all around back, one of the best passers in the circuit, who can also run, kick and tackle well enough to get the nod for the first team utility backfield job.

Our second team half backs, big Gaffney of Winchester, a 180 pound blocker and one of the fastest boys in the entire circuit and the flashy Ducharme of Lexington, are a stride behind the leaders, but good effective backs that any coach would like to have around. Gaffney runs very hard off the tackles and Ducharme is an apt pass receiver.

Aldrich of Belmont, whom we place at fullback on our second team, is a fine line plunger and blocking back who tackles effectively and did a lot of things for his club. The fact that he played beside Sarafian made it hard for him to shine, but he could hit a line very hard and had defensive strength enough to rate his post. Cimina of Winchester was one of, if not the best punter in the league, who can also carry effectively enough to offset a slight defensive weakness on certain types of play. He is our second team utility backfield choice. At the utility line post with the seconds we place Connors, big Belmont tackle, whose size gives him a hairline edge over Winchester's Kirby Thwing.

Lukowicz of Maynard, end; Arnold, Stoneham, tackle; and Mara, Concord, quarterback; are players reputed to be good whom we did not see in action. We are also sorry that big Yauchoes of Lexington was not filling the tackle berth that a man of his proportions should be playing for we still feel he has great possibilities.

This year's Middlesex season has been one of the best from a competitive standpoint that the circuit has yet enjoyed, but the teams as a whole have not been so strong as those of last season

OBSERVED 50th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A family reunion was held on Thanksgiving Day at 11 Forest circle, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Fallon, who on that occasion observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage.

Both Mr. Fallon and his wife are widely known in and around Winchester. Mr. Fallon was born in this town and Mrs. Fallon, the former Katherine O'Connor, in County Kerry, Ireland. The were married in Winchester on Thanksgiving Day, 1884, by Rev. Fr. Burke.

Mr. Fallon is 72 years of age, and his wife, 71. They have four daughters, Mrs. Mary Baramuck of Boston, Mrs. Katherine F. Goggin Mrs. C. W. Thomson and Miss Theresa Fallon, all of Winchester; and two sons, Thomas J. Fallon, Jr. and Joseph F. Fallon, both of this town. There are three grand-daughters, the Misses Evelyn Goggin, Caroline C. Thompson and Katherine L. Fallon.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club will be held on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 5 at 2:30 p. m. in the Fortnightly rooms Waterfield Hall. Guest speaker for the afternoon is Christian A. Herter, who will speak on the subject, "Problems of the United States Foreign Policy." Tea will be served by the Social Committee, Mrs. Frederick W. Aseltine, chairman.

Mr. Napoleon Goldu of Chestnut street left Sunday last Sunday for Cave Creek, Ariz., where he is to spend the winter with his son, Dana, who has been making his home in that town for the past three years. Mr. Goldu was given a farewell party last Saturday evening when relatives and friends gathered at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Goldu of Cliff street.

ST. MARY'S THANKSGIVING SOCIAL MOST SUCCESSFUL

St. Mary's Thanksgiving social, held Tuesday evening under the direction of Rev. Fr. Joseph McGoldrick proved in every way one of the most successful affairs to take place in the parish for some years. A large crowd had been anticipated and as a consequence two halls had been secured, White's Hall to accommodate the whist players and the town hall for dancing and the ever popular "Beano."

The attendance however so far exceeded expectations that it soon became apparent White's Hall was not nearly large enough to hold all who wished to play whist. A hurried visit to the hall soon convinced Father McGoldrick that more room was needed and he directed those who could not get tables at White's to go to the town hall where it was necessary to postpone the dancing and hastily set up tables to the whist players on the dance floor.

The big crowd was very good natured and took the delay in good part, the dancers also showing a fine spirit of co-operation in postponing their pleasure in the interest of the party. Sixty tables of whist were played at White's Hall with an additional 6 tables at the town hall. Seldom has a card party attracted more than 100 tables of players in Winchester.

The "Beano" boards were set up in the small town hall, proving very popular, and over "Jack" Hennessey's Orchestra started their syncopated strains after the card tables had been removed the floor was crowded with dancers. The orchestra was placed upon the stage which was banked with palms and flags to lend a festive note. Dancing continued until midnight, young and old mingling with one another in evident enjoyment.

Announcement of the award of prizes occasioned considerable excitement and cheers and applause followed the reading of the fortunate names.

The door prize at the town hall was won by Miss Abbie Callahan and the three complete Thanksgiving dinners were won by the McLaughlin family of 10 Webster street, the Doherty family of 821 Main street and Mrs. Annie Donovan of 77 Woodside road. Nearly 70 additional prizes, including 19 turkeys, were awarded to the winners of the whist.

Father McGoldrick was more than pleased with the success of the social and wished through the Star to extend his thanks to the committees who worked so hard to ensure its success and to those who attended for their kindness and patience in waiting while arrangements could be made to accommodate them. He promises that on similar future occasions he will be fully prepared to care for all who come.

Proceeds from the social are to be devoted to the St. Mary's Parish fund. General chairman of the entire affair was Frank Cassidy, president of St. Mary's Holy Name Society. Following are the individual committees:

Dance: Misses Elizabeth Halloran, Esther Callahan, Mary Carroll, Nancy Murphy, Mary Dolan, Ann Dolan.

Beano: Michael Lally, Frank Cassidy, William Callahan, Francis Menges, Earl Smith, Henry Hoyle, Eugene Scollan.

Refreshments: Mrs. Mary Manzie, Mr. Mary Doherty.

Whist: Mr. C. Ambrose, the Misses Nellie Sullivan, Grace Doherty, Helen Doherty, Rose Doherty, Marie Curran, Catherine Curran, Gertrude Callahan, Loretta Donnelly; Scott Smith and P. T. Foley.

WOMEN VOTERS TO SPONSOR LECTURE

The Winchester League of Women Voters is sponsoring a lecture and discussion on the subject, "Shall the Constitution be Changed," to be given on the evening of Monday, Dec. 10, at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. M. Francis Ginn at 55 Bacon street.

The lecturer, Prof. William Yandell Elliott, is chairman of the Department of Government at Harvard, a graduate of Vanderbilt and an authority on European affairs, having spent several years abroad studying in European universities.

Professor Elliott has recently given much attention to critical study of the structure and function of our governmental system and advocates changes in its fundamental law which will provide power to shape national aim.

Professor Elliott's views on these problems are shortly to appear in book form under the general topic, "Should the Constitution Be Changed to Meet the Needs of Changing Society."

MORNING MUSICALE

Group 4 of the First Congregational Church is sponsoring a morning musicale to be given at the home of Mrs. Edwin Ginn on Friday, Dec. 7, at 10:30. They have secured Mr. Clinton Jonas as pianist. Mr. Jonas is a finished musician and has been heard with delight in many concerts in Boston and vicinity.

Coffee and sandwiches will be served after the program. Tickets at $1 can be obtained from Mrs. Henry Norris, tel. Win. 1884-J.

Much interest is being shown in local musical circles in the recital to be given by Mr. Clinton Jonas, owing to the fact that it is his first public appearance for several years. Hailed by the Boston critics as an outstanding artist he was forced on account of ill health brought on by overwork to abandon public activities.

His health now fully restored, he has resumed his career. Mr. Jonas is said to have over 500 compositions to his fingertips and he is considered an authority on the science of technique. He is now residing at 19 Arlington street as a guest of Mr. W. H. W. Bicknell.

Mr. Charles W. Gould of Norwood street has been visiting her daughter Mrs. John Parker in New York City.

Advertisers are urged to prepare their listings for this issue at once.

TREASURE HUNT

A certain section of Westland avenue which ordinarily is a quiet and well-ordered neighborhood was the scene of curious actions on Thanksgiving evening when persons with flashlights might have been seen prowling through the bushes, hurdling stone walls, and even ascending telephone poles. The search for the recently-missing cow could not have been as thorough as that which was made for the treasure cleverly hidden by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McDavitt Jr., on one of those exciting treasure hunts at which they are becoming experts at arranging.

Among those who took part on this somewhat strenuous evening were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Neiley, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Mason, Mr. Richard Fenno, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Righter, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Crockett, Dr. and Mrs. Hollister Olmsted, Mr. and Mrs. John Kenerson, Dr. George Marks, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson and Dr. and Mrs. John Murray.

The treasure, which proved to be well worth the effort involved, was finally discovered by Mr. Crockett, Mr. Righter, Mr. Martin and Mr. Neiley.

ENTERTAINED FOR MISS FETZNER

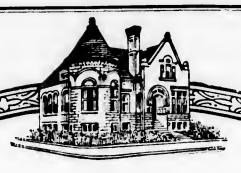

Mrs. Ernest Parker gave a luncheon-bridge at her home on Wilson street Monday afternoon in honor of Miss Irene Fetzner of Rochester, N. Y., who had been her house guest and was returning to her home the next day.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Wallace Kelley of Winthrop, Mrs. Wilbert Lindquist of West Medford, Mrs. C. M. Ellis of Boston, Mrs. D. F. Tice of Melrose and Mrs. William Hynes of Brookline. Among those from Winchester were Mrs. Fabyan Morse, Mrs. G. Dwight Cabot, Mrs. Donald R. Waugh, Mrs. William Martens, Mrs. C. W. Lannell and Mrs. Henry Wheeler.

WINCHESTER TIED FOR LEAGUE TITLE

Concord's 7 to 0 win over Lexington on the holiday gave Winchester a tie for first place in the Middlesex League championship race with the winner of the game.

Both Winchester and Concord lost one game in the league race, the locals to Belmont and Concord to Maynard. Winchester's game with Concord resulted in a scoreless tie.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE IN ARLINGTON

Plans for the 1934 Christmas seal sale are now complete, according to Miss Mary C. Hoisington, executive secretary, and 75,000,000 Christmas seals have been folded and placed in envelopes at the office of the Southern Middlesex Health Association, 661 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington.

On Thanksgiving Day the stamps will be sent out to every resident, and by Christmas the campaign against tuberculosis will have attained gigantic proportions.

Middlesex County is asked to raise $22,090. Last year the sale of these seals amounted to $17,162.57.

The committee member in this town is Mrs. Mary Carmenter.

BETTER HOUSING CAMPAIGN TO BE EXPLAINED TO WINCHESTERITES

Talking Pictures and a lecture by Mr. James A. McLaughlin, executive assistant to the State Director, John F. Malley of the Federal Housing Administration, is the program announced for Tuesday evening, Dec. 4, 8 p. m. at Town Hall, Winchester.

The event is sponsored by the Winchester Committee of Better Homes in America, for the purpose of giving much needed first hand information regarding this very important subject. Admission is free and every interested adult is urged to attend, to ask questions and to take part in the general discussion which should be most helpful at this particular time.

ANNOUNCE HIGH SCHOOL HOOP DATES

Faculty Director of Athletics Wendell D. Mansfield has announced the dates for the 1934-35 basketball games to be played by Winchester High, the schedule opening with the annual Alumni game on Friday evening, Dec. 21 in the high school gym.

Winchester is again to compete in the Middlesex Basketball League, of which its Principal, Wade L. Grindle, is president, and its opening date in that circuit is on Jan. 4 with Wakefield at Wakefield.

Th locals had a good season in the league a year ago, and despite the loss of most of last year's first string players, ought to do well in the current campaign. Only Capt. Frank Provinzano and John Hanlon of last year's regulars are available this season, but there are several experienced players from last year's second team to form a strong squad nucleus.

Following is the schedule:

Dec.	21	Alumni at Winchester, 7:30 p. m.
Jan.	2	Newton at Winchester, 3 p. m.
	4	Winchester at Wakefield,* 7:30 p. m.
	9	Winchester at Reading,* 3 p. m.
	11	Belmont at Winchester,* 7:30 p. m.
	16	Stoneham at Winchester,* 3 p. m.
	18	Woburn at Winchester, 7:30 p. m.
	23	Winchester at Lexington,* 3 p. m.
	25	Milton at Winchester, 7:30 p. m.
	30	Wakefield at Winchester,* 3 p. m.
Feb.	1	Reading at Winchester,* 7:30 p. m.
	6	Winchester at Belmont,* 3 p. m.

ALL IN DAY'S WORK

Visitors at Police Headquarters during the mid-afternoon of Monday, sniffed gingerly upon entering, and cut whatever business was absolutely necessary to a scant minimum. It seems Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy and Patrolman John Dolan had just returned from a bit of skunk shooting in a house on Grove place, and while both stoutly denied actual contact with their victim, they had evidently come close enough so that no one had to enquire the nature of the business upon which they had been engaged. Sergeant Cassidy, after being exposed to the heat of the station, went hastily into the open air, but Patrolman Dolan was obliged to remain for a time indoors, which made it hard for Desk Officer John Hogan and the Star reporter.

JUNIOR C. D. A. NOTES

On Thursday, Nov. 22, the Junior Court, C. D. A. met in Lyceum Hall to discuss plans for the coming season. An informal meeting was opened by Miss Rita Moffette, vice president, in the absence of Miss Dorothy Rowen, president.

Plans were made for a Turkey Whist to be held on Thursday, Dec. 13 in Lyceum Hall under the auspices of Troop 3 and their counsellor, Miss Dorothy Kean.

A Dramatic Circle was organized with a local dramatic teacher as leader. Plans for a play in the near future were made.

Miss Victoria Johnson was elected Secretary. The officers for the coming year are President, Dorothy Rowen; Vice President, Rita Moffette; Secretary, Victoria Johnson; Reporter, Margaret King.

NARROW ESCAPE AT CENTER CROSSING

Miss Elinor F. Elliott of 296 Washington street had a narrow escape from certain severe injury and possible death when she slipped and fell while crossing the tracks in the center in front of an inbound train last Sunday forenoon.

According to the Police account of the accident Miss Elliott arrived at the crossing after the gates were down for the inbound train due at Winchester station at 11:58. The train was already on the crossing when she ran around the end of the gate to cross the tracks.

Traffic Officer James F. Noonan, who was on duty at the traffic box, called to her in warning, but she continued. Stumbling on the southbound tracks, she fell, but managed to roll from the path of the approaching train to the space between the south and northbound tracks where she lay while the train rolled past her.

Officer Noonan went to her assistance and took her into the Winchester Drug Company's pharmacy at the traffic box where, declining the services of a physician, she was given first aid by Mrs. Lucille Pooler, the company's clerk. She sustained an abrasion to her left temple, injured her left knee and skun both her hands and face where they came in contact with the gravel of the roadbed.

After receiving first aid Miss Elliott was found to be in a shaken condition, and was taken to her home in the police car by Patrolman John Murray.

WINCHESTER HIGH GIRLS WON FROM ALUMNAE

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team closed its 1934 season last Saturday morning on Manchester Field, defeating an Alumnae team 3—1 in a game that proved very exciting in the final minutes of play.

The graduates gave the varsity a good game, but trailed 2—0 at the half, and seemed destined to finish without a score.

Following the intermission, however, Harriet Cooper tallied for the Alumnae and at the beginning of the fourth quarter, Coach Loysen sent in the second team against the tiring graduates. The latter braced for a time and those on the sidelines were having visions of a knotted score, when the seconds rushed up the field and Berry counted again, giving the varsity a safe lead.

Following is the summary:

WINCHESTER MAN NEW S. OF V. COMMANDER

Marvin C. Brown of 1 Eaton street was elected Commander of Camp 56, Sons of Union Veterans, of Cambridge last Wednesday evening.

His name was proposed by Commander in Chief Frank L. Kirshgassner who spoke with deep feeling of Mr. Brown's association with this camp and the G. A. R. veterans since he was a little boy.

The new Commander is the grandson of two veterans. His father is a past Commander of Camp 56 and his mother is a member of Tent 30, Daughters of Union Veterans.

Wake up, Winchester Sons of Union Veterans and get your camp working again so that the memory of those departed Comrades will not be forgotten!

Proclaim good will and good health to all by using a Christmas Seal on every package and letter. n30-4t

THANKSGIVING BASKETS

Winchester Families Remembered by Bountiful Supplies

As usual, the Citizens' Community Relief Committee was active during the week collecting, packing and distributing baskets to many families about town, that their Thanksgiving dinner should be satisfying and substantial. Children of Winchester schools contributed the bulk of the provisions, their donations being taken to the school houses, where members of the committee collected them and delivered the gifts to the large store in Lyceum Building, formerly occupied by the Republican Town Committee and donated by the owner, Mr. E. C. Sanderson. Assisting in the donations were the various churches and numerous organizations. The food, vegetables, fruit and canned goods were sorted and the baskets filled, each containing a chicken —or two, dependant upon the size of the family—which were bought by the committee out of cash donations made by charitable citizens. Members of the committee delivered the baskets on Wednesday.

The donations this year, both of food and cash, were particularly gratfying to the committee.

Owing to having recently undergone a serious operation, Collector of Taxes Nathaniel M. Nichols, who for many years has had charge of the collection and distribution was obliged to retire, and relinquished his active and energetic work to Mr. Fred H. Scholl, who headed this year's committee. Mr. Scholl proved a particularly capable head.

The committee, headed by Mr. Scholl, included Mrs. Clara Snyder, Miss Alice O'Donnell, Mr. John Cassidy Mrs. Bowen Tufts, Mr. George Davidson, Mr. George H. Lochman, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel M. Nichols, Mr. Allan Wilde, Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, Mrs. Ethel R. Savage, Mrs. T. Price Wilson, Mrs. Ellen Wilson, Mrs. Frances Conlon, Mrs. Margaret Hintlian.

The packing of the baskets, 125 in number was in charge of Mrs. Price Wilson, who was assisted by Mrs. Percy Buchee, Mrs. Loring P. Gleason, Mrs. John Tarbell, Miss Barbara Pratt, Mrs. Frank W. Rounds, Mrs. Adele Emery, Mrs. Clark W. Collins and members of the committee.

MRS. CARRIE ELLIOTT SPAULDING

Mrs. Carrie Elliott Spaulding, widow of Leonard H. Spaulding, formerly of Winchester, died suddenly Tuesday, Nov. 20, at the Philips House in Boston after a week's illness.

Mrs. Spaulding was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Elliott. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Frances Hastings of Hingham and two granddaughters, Mrs. Hendrick Kip and Mary Hastings; also a brother, George C. Elliott of Haverhill.

Funeral services were held at the Waterman Chapel in Boston on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Edward P. Daniels of the First Parish Church in Concord officiating. Burial was held at the Linwood Cemetery, in Haverhill, the city in which she was born.

Saturday afternoon at 2:25 a Ford sedan, driven south on Washington street near the Winchester-Woburn line by Neil F. McCarron of 216 Cross street, was in collision with a Ford truck, being driven by Philip Doherty of 452 Washington street, Woburn, who was turning into a driveway at a private home. There were no injuries reported but both machines were badly damaged.

What's "Watt" in Electric Lamp Bulbs

Thousands of people who have been using electric lamp bulbs for years and years are still in the dark about "watts." Yet, it's important and practical to know your watts when you are buying lamp bulbs.

What's "watt," anyhow? Well, sir, we could go scientific on you, but you'll probably understand us better if we tell you that the number of watts indicate the quantity of light given by the lamp.

For all around purposes, the 60-watt lamp is probably the most useful. But, it is hard to make rules. So, when you are buying lamps at your Edison Shop, or from any reliable dealer, why not explain where — and for what purpose — you plan to use the lamps. The man who takes your order will be glad to help select the size you need — with the correct number of watts.

Remember — you can buy American-made lamp bulbs of guaranteed quality at all Edison Shops

WINCHESTER S. P. C. A. AUXILIARY MEETING

The December meeting of the Winchester S. P. C. A. Auxiliary will occur a week early on the first Thursday of the month, Dec. 6 and will be held at the home of Mrs. Richard Taylor, 137 Mt. Vernon street at 2:30 o'clock.

The following week, on Wednesday, Dec. 12, the Auxiliary will have a Winchester table at the Angell Memorial Fair at the Copley Plaza Hotel in Boston, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and friends of the work are urged to drop in on that day, if possible.

Three Winchester girls, Miss Priscilla Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Armstrong of Wedgemere avenue; Miss Marjorie Kidder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett F. Kidder of Symmes road, and Miss Marjorie Underhill, daughter of Mrs. Jessie G. Underhill of Fletcher street, are home for Thanksgiving from Colby College, New London, N. H.

DEMOLAY ACTIVITIES

Football

On Saturday, Dec. 1 at 2 p. m. in the new inclosed Parker Field at Reading, Middlesex Chapter will play the Melrose Chapter in a benefit football game, proceeds will go to the Shriner's Hospital in Springfield. Both teams boast players of equal repute and seem evenly matched. Melrose will field Melrose ex-high school stars and several Boston University squad members, while Middlesex boasts players from Winchester, Stoneham, Reading and Lawrence Academy. Between the halves the Reading Rainbow Assembly will execute drill maneuvers aided by the Reading High School Band. On Friday evening, preceding the game, a torch light parade will proceed from Stoneham Square through the various surrounding towns, including Winchester. Saturday evening there will be an informal victory dance at the Reading Unitarian Hall. Of the several Winchester boys to be in action Saturday, will be Kirby Thwing, "Dave" Grosvenor and "Joe" Josephson, all three varsity players on Coach Mansfield's 1934 eleven.

Smoker

A smoker was held at the home of Master Councillor Roger W. Thwing, Friday evening, Nov. 23, as a renewal of the preceding Saturday's meeting. The speaker of the evening was Kenneth C. Latham, P.M.C. Informal discussions and refreshments concluded the evening, Councillor Thwing was aided by Herbert Miller and Frank C. Gaumer of the Advisory Council. About 15 boys attended.

Bridge

Middlesex Chapter announces its annual bridge tournament on Dec. 17 at the Square and Compass Club in Stoneham. Both ladies and gentlemen are invited. Prizes will be awarded the high scorers.

Basketball

The Chapter's basketball team is becoming uneasy and well they should for the season is practically upon them. For those who are interested, it is suggested that they get in touch with Advisor James Mercer. It is understood that practice sessions will be held in the Reading High gymnasium.

Miss Adelaide Homer of the Chambers returned Tuesday from a few day's trip to New York.

Drudgery of dishwashing now abolished by the new

GENERAL ELECTRIC DISHWASHER

Dishwashing Time Cut to Less Than 5 Minutes. Chipping and Breakage Eliminated. Dishes Hygienically Cleaned by General Electric's Newest Contribution to Modern Living

See this newest General Electric Home Servant demonstrated at our Display Rooms

COSTS LESS THAN 1c A DAY TO OPERATE

General Electric has perfected the electric dishwasher. The new G-E washes all the dishes—china, glassware, silverware, and the pots and pans, too—in less than 5 minutes. It also washes and dries itself. Human hands do not even touch dishwater.

Soiled dishes are placed in soft, resilient rubber trays—as quickly and easily as stacking on a table—the cover is closed, a magic control is turned, and in 3 to 5 minutes the job is done. Dishes remain stationary and the breakage and chipping of hand washing and drying is eliminated.

Dishes—Dishes—Dishes!

In the average lifetime a woman washes and dries tons and tons of dishes—72 stacks, each pile as high as the Empire State Building. Many a golden hour has been drowned in the murky depths of a dishpan. The charm of lovely hands, the bouyant energy of youth have been sacrificed to long to this thankless task.

Now the General Electric Dishwasher frees your kitchen forever from this distasteful, monotonous drudgery. No more cluttering confusion of stacks of dirty dishes. As fast as the soiled dishes accumulate they are tucked away in the G-E Dishwasher.

Your kitchen is neat, clean and orderly at all times with never a dirty dish in sight. An hour or more time is saved each day for other things—an hour that is valuable and precious to you or to your maid.

There is a size and model General Electric Dishwasher for every kitchen. Terms as low as

$10 PER MONTH

Your dishes are cleaner, too—hygienically clean!

Dishes are a major carrier of disease germs. In the G-E Dishwasher a spray of scalding water, hotter than human hands can touch is forced over every dish. Dishes are hygienically cleaned, protecting the health of your family from the dangers of careless or hurried hand dishwashing.

Modernize your kitchen with this new contribution to the freedom of American womanhood. Savings in time, the elimination of breakage, the economies in soap, laundry and water heating actually pay for this newest electric home servant.

A HINT FOR WOMEN WHICH MEN, TOO, MAY APPRECIATE

By Joan Bruce, Shopper

As Christmas draws near, we women admit that our most puzzling problems come when we try to select gifts for the men of the family. You know what a problem it is. Yet, if you stop and think about it, you will realize how very simple it really can be. In selecting a gift for that terrible male, so hard to really please, the problem becomes simple when you apply the same rule, and go to a store just as tweeny organized for men as your fashionable specialty shop or department store is organized for you.

Having discovered just such a store . . . and found it very helpful in solving my own gift problem . . . let me pass the good news along to you. It is at the corner of Washington street and Cornhill just north of the center of your usual shopping district; and here, under one roof, you will find just about everything you can imagine to thrill the heart of any man, from 6 to 60. The Iver Johnson store is the only thing of its kind this side of New York, and you will enjoy browsing around the eight floors of interesting and useful things.

You are going to discover their interesting display of men's and children's gifts; and you will find many other women there, making use of the special Ladies' Shopping Service.

Only at Iver Johnson's can one find such a complete showing of equipment for every known sport, recreation and hobby. In every department are featured the products of leading American and foreign manufacturers.

Experts in the various activities will be glad to give you their best advice to help you in your selection . . . and much unnecessary and bothersome shopping may be saved by going first to this Headquarters for sports, hobbies, entertainment and gifts. Just name "his" hobby or sport to the people in this friendly store, and your selection can be quickly made. Then when the big day arrives, watch him grin and say: "If it's from Iver Johnson's, it's just right."

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Today's mail carries to your household the Christmas Seals which are sold to procure the money needed to fight tuberculosis. That fight is a winning one as each year sees a decrease in the deaths from that dreaded disease; but even with this steady decrease tuberculosis still kills more people between the ages of 15 and 45 than any other disease.

Sixty per cent of the money raised by the sale of Christmas Seals in Winchester, is spent for tuberculosis work right here in your own town. Our children who are sent for the summer, to our Health Camp at Sharon, are closely watched during the winter months by our health nurses.

Winchester patients going to a sanitorium and needing help are fitted out by a committee with warm comfortable clothing.

To carry on this work your help is needed no matter how small that help may be. By buying even a few seals, you are giving that much to safe guard not only the health of your own family but the whole community as well.

The Winchester Tuberculosis Committee,
Mary W. Carpenter, Chairman

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF MISS DRISKO

Professor and Mrs. William J. Drisko of Lloyd street and Addison, Me., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Caroline Drisko, to George R. Dunham, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dunham of Brighton.

Miss Drisko is a graduate of Winchester High School and Mt. Holyoke College in the class of 1930. Mr. Dunham is a Harvard man and was graduated from the Graduate School of Business Administration in 1933. No date for the wedding has been announced.

WINCHESTER BOY ALL FRATERNITY CENTER

Winchester friends of "Bob" Bernard, son of Mrs. Bertram Bernard of Curtis street and for the past two summers instructor at the Loring avenue playground, has been chosen all fraternity center at the University of Wisconsin where he is a member of the sophomore class.

Forty teams comprise the interfraternity league at Wisconsin and the honorary eleven is chosen by the officials from among the 500 or so students who participate. It is the second year that "Bob" has been chosen "all" center.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Turkey is the big purchase to be made this week, and fortunately it is only slightly higher than last year. Roasting chickens, ducklings and geese are also moderately priced. Legs of lamb and fresh and smoked hams are also popular holiday roasts attractively priced this week.

Favorite holiday vegetables, including sweet potatoes, turnips, onions, cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts are cheap to moderate. Green beans are plentiful and much cheaper, and spinach is at nearly summer prices.

Oranges of both juice and navel types are available, the former cheap. Both cooking and eating apples are moderate. Cranberries are higher than last year but still reasonable.

Menus for Sunday include the use of holiday left-overs.

FRED RAYMOND COTTLE

Fred Raymond Cottle, a World War veteran and former resident of Winchester, died Sunday morning, Nov. 25 at his home, Lambert's Cove on Vineyard Haven, after a short illness.

Mr. Cottle was the son of Fred E. and Emma (Greenleaf) Cottle and was born in Woburn Dec. 2, 1895. He came with his parents to Winchester about 1900 and was educated in the Winchester schools, later attending Monson Academy at Monson, near Springfield. The family home was for many years on Sheffield road.

At the time of the World War he served overseas with Co. F, 305th Regiment, 77th Division, later being transferred to Headquarters Detachment of the Motor Reception Corps at Brest. Flags on the Common and public buildings were at half staff in his honor.

Much of Mr. Cottle's business life was spent in the employ of the Standard Oil Company and he last represented the company traveling through new New England territory. He left Winchester to make his home in Vineyard Haven two years ago.

On June 14, 1924, Mr. Cottle married Lemira Frances West of Edgartown, who survives him with two daughters, Barbara and Jane and a son, Edmund Charles Cottle.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon at the late residence in Martha's Vineyard and on Wednesday afternoon there were services held in Winchester at the Kelley & Hawes Chapel with Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiating. A delegation of Legionnaires from Winchester Post, A. L., of which Mr. Cottle was a member acted as escort. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

MAWN—DONNELLY

There is much Winchester interest in the marriage at Beverly Farms Wednesday evening, Nov. 28 when Miss Beatrice Donnelly, daughter of Mr. Thomas F. Donnelly of Everett street, that town, became the bride of Lev John Mawn, son of Mrs. Marion Mawn of Canal street. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by Rev. James Gleason of St. Margaret's Church in Beverly Farms, and the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elsie Donnelly. Joseph Mawn of Fitchburg was his brother's best man and the soloist at the service was Katherine Barnes English.

The bride wore a raspberry colored crepe tunic gown with matching turban and carried a bouquet of orchids. Her attendant wore a gown of brown and gold cloth with turban to match and carried gardenias.

After the ceremony a reception for members of the immediate families was held at Tumpoo Inn in Beverly Farms. Upon their return from a honeymoon in Virginia Mr. Mawn and his bride are to make their home on Ocean street in Lynn.

The bride is a graduate of Miss Post's School and Mr. Mawn, who is an investment counsellor, is a graduate of Winchester High School.

OBSERVED 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Pabst gathered at their home on Pond street last Saturday evening, Nov. 24 to congratulate them upon the 25th anniversary of their marriage. The three Pabst children, Miss Mary Pabst, George and Charles Pabst, Jr., assisted their parents in receiving with Mr. Frederick Pabst of this town. A delicious buffet luncheon was served, and talented guests presented an interesting entertainment.

Mr. Walter Humphrey of Billerica contributed dances, songs and parlor tricks, assisted on the piano by his mother, Mrs. Edward Morgan. Miss Louise Brown and Miss Mary Pabst gave an exhibition dance number and the ever popular Highland Fling was well executed by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rae. Mr. John Muir and Mrs. John Ure sang favorite Scottish songs. General dancing followed the entertainment and as their guests departed, Mr. and Mrs. Pabst invited all to attend their golden anniversary.

Christmas Seals cost little, but they do much. n30-1t

GROUP THEATRE PRODUCTION NEARS

Membership Situation Acute as Date Approaches

Work on Winchester Group Theatre's first production, "The Swan," to be given for its sustaining membership in the high school auditorium the evening of Dec. 14 goes on apace. The production committee, Gerald Hills, chairman, is busy conducting rehearsals, assembling properties and arranging for the profuse costumes. Meanwhile the stage committee headed by the well known stage manager, Harry Goodwin, is engaged in stretching canvas and lavishing paint to transmit the design of Winsome Abbott Brown on to a theatrical background.

Less conspicuous and hectic than either of these activities but of more significance to the sustaining members was a meeting of the membership committee, Theodore von Rosenvinge, chairman, held on Sunday evening last at the von Rosenvinge home. At that meeting a number of questions of policy were decided which are of importance to sustaining members.

At the very genesis of the Group Theatre, that body made clear that its purpose was only to give pleasure to those who cared for the dramatic arts, either as participants or observers. With that in mind the ideal of the Group, towards which it has clung unwaveringly, has been to give the times' performance possible in congenial surroundings to a congenial audience every one of whom would have a good seat. Only enough sustaining members were desired to cover the proper operating expenses of the Group.

The high school auditorium was chosen for the first play because of its excellent acoustics and its comfortable and beautiful surroundings. Of all the halls in Winchester, it was supreme from the point of view of appearance and of seeing and hearing a play. None the less, as in any auditorium, there are a few seats which the directors feel should not be occupied in order that no member may have right to complaint about his seat. The membership committee therefore, voted strictly to limit its attendance on Dec. 14 to 650.

Five hundred and fifty members were obtained last spring and as a result of an opportunity afforded the sustaining members this fall some 100 new people have been proposed by that membership. These would in themselves fill the hall if all were paid up. Inasmuch as it is not expected that all of these proposed members will accept, a few memberships will be available to the first applicants to Mr. von Rosenvinge, the chairman, but these will be strictly limited in number.

During this week, the committee, has personally contacted every sustaining member who has not yet paid up. The committee has guaranteed to reserve a ticket for every sustaining member who sends his check in on or before Dec. 3 or prior to the mailing of tickets which will take place next week. After tickets are mailed the committee guarantees no unpaid member a ticket. They will try to give him one but definitely reserve the right to dispose of all subscriptions unpaid by Dec. 3 to the many new applicants who desire them. There will be no sale of tickets at the box office.

The implications are clear. There is so much demand that no sustaining members should expect to see the performance unless he is paid up by Dec. 3. There will be no exception to the ruling that no tickets will be sent except to paid members. Bills have been sent to every member. If the bill has been lost or if other information is needed, the question should be referred to Mr. Theodore von Rosenvinge, Winchester 2003. Checks in payment of dues should be mailed to Mrs. Beven Tufts at 7 Stratford road.

WINCHESTER GIRL SECRETARY TO MARY CURLEY

The announcement made Monday, that Miss Dorothy Mullin of this town is to be social secretary to Miss Mary Curley, daughter of Governor-elect James M. Curley, proved of great interest to the many local friends of this popular young lady, who is the oldest daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Francis R. Mullin of Main street.

Miss Mullin has been on terms of intimacy with the Curley family, having been a classmate of the late Miss Dorothea Curley at Sacred Heart Academy when Miss Mary Curley was also there. She has been a frequent visitor at the Curley home on Jamaicaway and has often enjoyed a canter through the Fenway with the younger members of the family.

Miss Mullin, after leaving Sacred Heart Academy, attended Emmanuel College, from which she was graduated with high honors in 1932. A special post graduate secretarial course at Katherine Gibbs School should especially qualify her for the duties she is to assume as secretary to the State's first lady. Practical training includes experience as secretary and editorial critic in a Boston publishing house which she is leaving to accept her new post.

Miss Mullin is 24, and aside from her interest in things literary is fond of riding and swimming. Her new duties will include handling the multitudinous mail of the Governor's daughter, and accompanying her to social functions or representing her at affairs she is unable to attend.

Among the Winchester girls who are students at Wellesley College and spent Thanksgiving at home were Eugenia Smith, Mary Hickey, Peggy Kenerson, Marjorie Dutch and Loretta Carleton.

We read that the National Industrial Conference Board estimates that 29.7 per cent of the national income now goes for federal, state and local taxes. In other words, the average American working a five-day week works all of Monday and part of Tuesday morning to pay his taxes. Although he may never make out a check to a government bureau, he pays a tax every time he smokes a cigarette, drinks a cocktail, brushes his teeth, washes his hands, drives an automobile, turns on an electric light, goes to the theatre, dons a clean shirt, eats a piece of bread, or indulges in any one of a hundred everyday activities. Most of the money raised through this myriad of levies is essential to maintaining the ordinary services of government. More is needed now for emergency expenditures. But a substantial amount could be saved if the unconscious taxpayer awoke and demanded that his representatives in government have some regard for his welfare.

No doubt those who marked the canvas at the Woburn Stadium for yesterday's game with the words, "Winchester Will Win," did so with the idea that they would bother the Tanners. As a matter of fact their action reflected upon Winchester and we feel sure that no real supporters of the local team were responsible. Those who have the interests of schoolboy sports at heart regret to see hoodlumism at the games, gaining ground, for they know that goal post rites and the destruction of property can only lead to the abolition of inter-school athletics and this without the advice or sanction of the so-called "fans" who will be largely responsible. It would be an excellent thing for schoolboy football if the "followers" of the teams would take a leaf from the book of the players. It is seldom that you find anything but good sportsmanship prevailing on the actual field of play.

It has always seemed to us that the NRA was essentially unsound from two angles. In the first place, it was designed to increase business and it sought to accomplish this by raising selling prices of goods to consumers, whereas common sense indicates that the way to increase sales is to lower prices, not raise them. Secondly, the NRA has been weak in that it has resulted in a disequilibrium between various economic elements and imposed a degree of rigidity which prevented business itself making the normal readjustments which would have occurred under a laissez-faire economy. The present administration does not seem to have grasped that every step taken in a planned economy throws innumerable relationships out of adjustment. Literally, there cannot be enough cerebral giants of the NRA sufficiently intelligent to work out the solution of the host of minor problems which arise as a result of the imposition of every one of these arrangements. It has seemed to us that there was little useful purpose to be served from a discussion as to whether laissez-faire or an economy of a planned by the state would be better for the simple reason that until we come to a condition of slavery such as prevails in Russia, there is no way that a planned economy can be worked. Today we find such stalwart Democratic congressmen as McCormack of South Boston and Connery of Lynn in violent protest against the injustices being worked upon Massachusetts industries as a result of the NRA. Very likely there are other stalwart Democratic congressmen in other sections of the country who are equally dissatisfied with the practical workings of this brain trust chimera. The NRA expires by constitutional limitation on June 16 next, unless it is renewed by the incoming Congress. It will be very interesting to see what the President and his advisers want done with this monstrosity and what Congress will be disposed to do. [The Investor in the Boston Herald

Troop 1 News

The meeting of Monday, Nov. 26, was held in the Junior High School gymnasium. Our time was spent mostly in discussing the Boy Scout Exposition and show. We played a few games and witnessed a demonstration of making and lighting a fire with flint and steel by Francis Ferro of the Panther Patrol.

The inter patrol contest is coming along strong with the Beaver Patrol at the head with 189 points; Silver Fox second with 111 points; Panther Patrol third with 31 points and the Stag Patrol with 18 points, for th.

Be sure to get your tickets for the Exposition and show early as they are going very fast.

WINCHESTER AND WOBURN BATTLED TO TIE

Stubborn Defense Stopped Orange in Final Minutes

Another tie was written into the Winchester-Woburn football records Thanksgiving morning when these long-time rivals battled to a 6 to 6 stalemate on the slippery turf of the Woburn stadium before a crowd which must have been in the neighborhood of eight thousand. The tie was one of those moral victories for Winchester, for the Tanners had been pre-game favorites, and among their own supporters had been picked to win by as high as four touchdowns.

The Orange had a big edge in first downs and yardage gained, rolling up 14 first downs to a couple for Winchester and rushing for 249 yards while the locals were getting 73. Both clubs threw five passes and each had one intercepted. Winchester completed one for its touchdown, but not a single Orange aerial found a home. Woburn lost 20 yards in offside penalties with two penalties refused by Winchester and had one of its kicks blocked. Winchester didn't draw a penalty and had the edge in booting the ball. Winchester fumbled twice, but recovered each time. Both of Woburn's fumbles were recovered by Winchester.

Gonsalves kicked off for Woburn and Gaffney got back to his 30. A long sleeper pass from Provinzano to Bairstow was muffed, but Woburn was offside on the play and the ball went ahead five yards. Provinzano recovered his own fumble and then kicked high and short to the Winchester 40.

A pass from McDonald to O'Brien was batted down by Grosvenor. McDonald hit off tackle for two yards, but Bairstow dropped Garvey for a two yard loss on a reverse and McDonald kicked across the goal line.

With the ball on the 20, Provinzano was thrown by Flaherty for a yard loss. O'Connor stopped Grosvenor and Provinzano got off a pretty kick deep into Woburn territory which McDonald ran back to midfield, being downed by Hanlon.

Gonsalves got six through center and Garvey on a reverse got away for a first down at Winchester's 29. O'Brien hit center for two a lateral, finally taken by Garvey went to another first down at the 17.

On a spinner, O'Brien got five at center and on a reverse, Garvey broke into the open, Provinzano dropping him after a two yard gain across the field. McDonald went through the line for a first down at the five and on the next play found another hole and went over for the touchdown at center. Garvey's low kick was blocked by Josephson.

Gonsalves kicked off to Josephson who ran to his 39. A long pass from Provinzano to Grosvenor went over "Dave's" head and Gaffney hit off tackle for a yard. On the next play Woburn was offside and Hanlon hit through tackle for a first down at midfield. In two rushes, Grosvenor picked up nine yards as the quarter ended.

To open the second quarter, Provinzano kicked out of bounds on the Woburn eight yard line. Two thrusts into the line by McDonald picked up six yards and McDonald kicked to Provinzano who made a nice runback to the Woburn 32.

Cimina failed to gain and on the next play, Provinzano faded back to the Woburn 45 and tossed a long pass off to the right to Josephson, who pulled down the ball inside the Woburn ten and galloped over for the score. Woburn was offside on the play, but it didn't matter and Coss went in to convert. His try for goal at placement with Provinzano holding was well kicked, but was squarely blocked by Kerrigan and O'Connor.

Provinzano kicked and Fitzpatrick got back to Woburn's 32. Gonsalves hit through center for seven and Garvey on a reverse got a first down on the 46. Fitzpatrick, Gonsalves and Fitzpatrick again hit the line for a second first down on Winchester's 39. Thwing stopped Fitzpatrick with a yard at tackle and Cassidy and Gaffney dropped McDonald without gain. A Woburn forward was intercepted by Gaffney at his 35 and after a short gain by Hanlon, Woburn lost five for offside, the ball going to the 43.

Another try at the line was stopped and Provinzano kicked to Fitzpatrick who was downed by Millyan on the Woburn 18. Two thrusts at the line by Gonsalves and Fitzpatrick picked up five and Gonsalves kicked, the ball rolling along to the Winchester 23. Hanlon hit the line for four and Grosvenor for five yards as the half ended.

Provinzano kicked off for Winchester and Woburn tried the reverse, Garvey running out to his left where he was dropped by Gaffney at his 29. Fitzpatrick got two yards and Gonsalves quick kicked to Winchester's 46.

Gaum recovered Grosvenor's fumble and Provinzano kicked to O'Brien who was run outside at his 20. Fitzpatrick cut back for seven and Gonsalves crashed for a first down on the 32. A buck by Gonsalves and two runs off tackle by Fitzpatrick made it first down on the 46.

Here Woburn fumbled and McCormack recovered at midfield. Fitzpatrick, however, intercepted a Provinzano pass and it was Woburn's ball at it's 46.

Thwing dropped Garvey for a two yard loss on a reverse, Fitzpatrick got only two at end and Gaffney knocked down a whizzing pass to O'Brien in the flat zone.

On the next play Bairstow broke through and blocked Gonsalves' kick, McCormack falling on the ball at Woburn's 32. It was a great chance for a score for Winchester, had McCormack scooped up the ball and run for he had a clear field for a touchdown.

As it was the recovery meant nothing for Provinzano was hurt on the next play and had to be carried off the field with a bad ankle.

With "Frankie" out, Winchester's passing game was ineffective and it was apparent that the locals could not gain on the ground. A trick play with Josephson passing was grounded for Cimina, who went in for Provinzano, from deep kick formation as it the Woburn's left end for some yards. Instead of kicking, Grosvenor tossed to Cimina again and the latter was held at the line, Woburn taking the ball on downs at its 27.

Thwing brought down Fitzpatrick with three yards, Gonsalves made it first down at the 43 and as the teams changed goals for the final quarter Garvey, O'Brien and Fitzpatrick made a first down on Winchester's 42.

In two tries through big holes in the Winchester line, Fitzpatrick made it first down at the 32, but here Winchester braced and stopped Gonsalves and Fitzpatrick with only three yards.

On the next play, a reverse, Garvey fumbled and Josephson recovered at Winchester's 30. An attempted end run from kick formation by Cimina was halved under back inside the 20 and Cimina got off a nice kick which Fitzpatrick ran back to his 49 before being downed by Hanlon.

Woburn was offside, but Hanlon refused the penalty and here began an advance that had the fans breathless with excitement.

On the first play, Fitzpatrick broke through for a first down at Winchester's 32. Garvey and Gonsalves picked up five and Fitzpatrick again found a big hole, running to the Winchester 14. Here Provinzano, Gaffney, MacDonnell and Bairstow were rushed into the game as Winchester dug in to protect its goal.

Two thrusts into the line by Fitzpatrick got only four yards and the Tanners lost five for offside again. O'Brien spun through center for five, but a Gonsalves pass to O'Brien was batted down by Grosvenor and Winchester took the ball at its 10 on downs.

Gaffney hit the line for a yard and Provinzano kicked to O'Brien who ran the ball back to Winchester's 32. Once again the Orange started.

McDonald went in for Fitzpatrick of Woburn. Garvey got five at end, McDonald went to within inches of a first down, but on the next play, Hanlon broke through to drop McDonald for a two yard loss.

On the next play, Gonsalves broke through the line, cut out to the left and was running in the clear when tackled by Grosvenor on the nine yard stripe, a game-saving clutch.

Less than two minutes remained to play and they were long minutes for the breathless Winchester supporters.

Showing fine judgment, Hanlon shifted into center and stopped first Gonsalves and then McDonald right on the line of scrimmage. A short pass thrown by McDonald over the line was grounded and there remained but one down.

Desmond went in for O'Brien of Woburn and Coach Mansfield sent in Gaum for Cassidy with specific instructions where to play. On fourth down, Woburn gambled on a double reverse, the play was spoiled by Gaum and the runner snowed under on Winchester's nine yard line where the ball went to the locals on downs.

One play later the whistle blew. None who saw those last defensive stands by Winchester will soon forget them and none who saw the Orange reel off the yards to put it in scoring position could fail to be impressed with its power. Woburn had its scoring chances, but lacked a late game deep field punch. Winchester's showing was away below its Maynard game effectiveness.

The game was hard, but cleanly fought, Provinzano's ankle injury and a slight leg injury to Woburn "Dannie" O'Brien being the only casualties.

For Winchester the play of Co-Captain "Jack" Hanlon was immense and his judgment in tight spots meant much to Winchester's chances. Provinzano and Gaffney also played well while on the rushline. Thwing, McCormack and Cassidy were standouts. Fitzpatrick was Woburn's outstanding back and what a runner that kid was. Garvey and Gonsalves too were great while the entire Orange rushline is deserving of praise for its hard charging and effective tackling.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The following permits have been issued for week ending Wednesday, Nov. 28:

E. C. Sanderson, Winchester—repair roof on Lyceum Hall Building on Main street.

Alfred N. Lufkin, Concord—wreck and remove three greenhouses at 195 Cambridge street.

Octavia T. Ayer, Winchester—add dormer window on dwelling at 71 Sylvester avenue.

Paintings Traced in Arrowheads

Mounted upon boards and held by means of small wires, Indian arrowheads have been arranged by one collector to resemble famous paintings. Two of the most popular groups are reproductions of the Remingtons, "The Last Trail" and "Plea to the Great Spirit." One group resembles a life-sized bear, another follows the lines of a large buffalo and a third depicts an Indian chief and his squaw.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

JOIN THE RED CROSS.

THE LEGION AT MIAMI

There stands on the campus of Yale University a statue of Nathan Hale "who furnished the most conspicuous example of patriotism that the history of the Revolution has left us," "who laid aside every consideration personal to himself," and who was "The Pride of Peace, the rising star of War." He was a son of Yale whose memory will always be revered by all the best and finest spirits of mankind. When he faced death at the hands of his English captors he said, with "a depth of feeling and touching pathos," "My only regret is that I have but one life to give for my country." With these words in a proud and dignified mien he died at the hands of a cruel executioner.

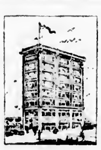

We shall compare the deeds of the American Legion at its last annual meeting held in Florida with those of Nathan Hale. Forsaking the old time patriotism, manliness and honor the majority voted for loot, that is the immediate cash bonus and interest refund, and they booed the small, patriotic minority who opposed them. An honest, courageous difference of opinion was not to be tolerated. The significance of this act has not been fully appreciated. It is one evidence of the new state of mind that has resulted from the lavish and misdirected expenditures by the government. It will constitute the most serious problem and the worst aftermath of the depression. Grover Cleveland's philosophy that the individual should support the state and not the state the individual has been reversed in the minds of the majority as the last election demonstrated. The majority of the people did not vote for President Roosevelt, the man, nor for his policies, but because they believed that somehow some of the enormous sums of money he was so lavishly distributing would come to them. The government would take care of them. It was purely a selfish vote without consideration of the wisdom of it or its ultimate effect upon the country. It was the biggest gamble with the smallest odds and they could actually see the money coming their way. Enough for the present. Probably an appeal to honor and patriotism would not have changed a single legion vote at the Florida meeting. The majority were after their pound of flesh; nothing else mattered. But their attitude is neither better nor worse than that of other groups who lobby for large government grants. This lobbying is another result of the administration's lavish spending. The government for the individual not the individual for the government.

If the legion is right, President Roosevelt is wrong. If the Legion is right, President Hoover was wrong and so was President Coolidge. The Legion has defied all three commanders-in-chief of the United States Army who sought to stop its raids. Some of these soldiers, who erstwhile fought for their country, are now fighting against it in a sordid attempt to get what is not due them. For this reason they have discredited the whole organization and have fairly won for themselves the sobriquet "American Looters."

A strong soldier who is able to attend his conventions, competent to do his share of the country's work, who never was engaged in battle and never injured in the service, has not right to demand the tribute of a cash bonus from those less fortunate than he, the taxpayer who furnishes the money, and who may have done far more for his country than he did. In the next Congress the Legion will fight for the cash bonus, but those whose friendship and esteem is most worth having will not be with them. They may win but if they do it will be at the expense of a good name and the pride and esteem of real friends whose love, approval and tribute is, after all, the finest thing in the world.

The veterans, who are entitled to that classification, and the majority who are not because they have never fought in battle or only in short engagements, should be separated. Those injured in the service should receive generous compensation and tender, proper care. Those who were not should not seek compensation by appropriating to themselves the merited rights and worthiness of the wounded. Waving the flag and self glorification shall not camouflage a sordid raid on a generous people. Their words are as sounding brass. By their deeds ye shall know them. Peace is a better test of patriotism than war.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

The Town Treasurer reports the sale of bonds in the amount of $200,000 dated Nov. 22, 1934 and due Nov. 1, 1935 at .50 discount.

The regular meetings of the Board which would be held on Christmas and New Year's eves will be held on Dec. 26 and Jan. 2, Wednesday evenings, instead of on the 24th and 31st of December.

The Board of Selectmen has received from Mr. Theodore N. Waddell, State Director of Accounts, the report of the audit made by the State examiners into the books and accounts of the town for the period from Jan. 1, 1933 to Sept. 8, 1934. The report says "The balance sheet indicates that the town is in very good financial condition." It recommends "that action be taken toward the foreclosing of rights of redemption of tax titles held for a period longer than two years."

The following telegrams were received, addressed to the Chairman of the Selectmen:

"What P. W. A. projects does your town contemplate under the present setup of 30 per cent grant by the government? What projects would you consider under a setup of 50 per cent contribution by the government? Earnestly urge immediate reply.

Signed,
Frederick W. Mansfield,
Mayor of Boston
Chairman Mayors' Committee on P. W. A. Projects."

"Have you a housing problem in your town? Should it be solved by building new houses on vacant land or by clearing depreciated properties and building on old sites? If the former what parcels or tracts of land suitable or available for such purpose giving areas has your town that might be donated or deeded to the Federal Government provided it may be done lawfully? If the latter what would be the cost of such clearance or replacement? Immediate reply urgently requested.

Signed,
Frederick W. Mansfield,
Mayor of Boston
Chairman Mayors' Committee on Housing Projects."

The Board forthwith called a conference of department heads which was attended by the Town Engineer, Chairman of the Park Commissioners, Town Counsel, Chairman of the Water and Sewer Board, Chairman of the Department of Public Welfare, and Rep. William E. Ramsdell.

It was ordered that the following telegram be sent to Mayor Mansfield:

"At meeting of governing boards of Winchester it was the sense of meeting that this town appears to have no P. W. A. projects eligible for either 30 or 50 per cent grant and has no housing problem which may be treated as indicated."

Signed,
Henry J. Maguire,
Chairman Board of Selectmen

BOARD OF APPEAL

The Board of Appeal, in accordance with Section 117A of the Building Law, will give a hearing Monday evening, December 3, 1934 at seven forty-five o'clock P. M. at the office of the Building Commissioner at 9 Mt. Vernon Street.

Mr. David Meskell, petitions for a permit to build a piazza at 32 Clark Street in the twenty (26) foot front yard set back as required in the residential zones.

All persons interested are invited to attend.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

We agree with that Winchester dominie who says that selfishness is the handmaiden of cowardice.

Utopia is a long way off. We just read in an exchange reaching our desk how a motorist ran over a man and then stole a dollar and 15 cents from his pocket.

The bloom of youth, as artificially applied by a certain Winchester young woman in a hurry to get to her work in a Woburn factory, is frequently a bit lop-sided.

There is no way to keep money from being spent. If we don't do it before we shuffle off this mundane sphere, those whom we leave behind us will.

Nowadays we seldom hear sympathy expressed for the horny-handed. Winchester's golfers don't neer any sympathy.

How many of Winchester's old timers remember when young ladies, upon retiring, used a preparation of quince seed and sugar and water on their hair that they might have a nice row of "spit curls" or "beau catchers" next day?

The liar's punishment is that he thinks everybody else is lying and never feel secure about anything.

Fools here in Winchester wait for things to turn up; wise Winchesterites go and turn them up.

One Winchester young woman's idea of an unusual young man is one who is a keen dancer and also good at his regular work.

Star Reader writes in to suggest that something be done about the many aliens who violate our laws. "Why wouldn't it be a good idea to deport the aliens who have proved unworthy of sharing in the privileges and opportunities of our country?" asks our correspondent. And what about the aliens getting public relief? Cannot something be done about this gigantic aspect of our foreign problem?

Chronic complaining doesn't make a Winchesterite's hard lot any softer.

We know a very exceptional egotist right here in fair Winchester who is able to make his "I's" behave.

According to a prominent Winchester layman the widow's mite is used too often as an excuse for small contributions.

CROSSING THE CONTINENT—IN TWO YEARS, AND IN A DAY!

When the Union Pacific's streamline train recently slid to a halt in New York City after its record-breaking run from Los Angeles, it marked a new epoch in railroad travel. Passengers reclining in long, sleek cars had watched deserts, prairies, and snowy peaks flash by at speeds reaching up to 120 miles an hour.

They had covered, in a single hour, territory that their pioneer forefathers, in wagon trains, often took as long as ten days to cross, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

The first trans-continental journey north of Mexico took almost two years. Organized near St. Louis in 1803 and led by Captains Lewis and Clark, it finally reached the Pacific on Nov. 15, 1805, after having traveled over 4000 miles by canoe, by horse and on foot.

Missouri River Early Road to West

More than 40 years before California cried "Gold!" the glowing reports of Lewis and Clark led settlers into the great Northwest. Pioneers in pirogues, bull-boats, and cottonwood log canoes traveled up the Missouri River at the rate of about nine miles a day. For years, until the coming of the transcontinental railroad, the Missouri was the principal highway into the West. Even wagon trains followed its course.

By 1832, many settlers moved up its westernmost tributaries by steamboat. Sandbars and [illegible] made steamboat travel slow. When a boat tied up at the bank for the night part of the crew could walk the country ahead, and before being overtaken next morning, kill enough game for the hundred or so passengers.

Covered wagons rumbled westward at the rate of about 12 to 15 miles a day. When the first pioneers migrated, steering their wagons by compass over the unmapped prairies, Indians molested them little, thinking their small numbers the entire white population. But as wagon after wagon, traveling two, four and sometimes eight abreast, lurched over the horizon, despairing Indians began a vain resistance. Over the Old Oregon Trail in 1843 surged the "Great Migration" of 900 people to settle in the Willamette Valley, followed by 1100 the next year, and [illegible] following. Long processions of Conestoga wagons lumbered for [illegible] over the old Santa Fe Trail. It became rutted so hard by hoofs and wagon wheels that for years afterwards, plough couldn't break up its surface.

When Buffaloes Held up Trains

In 1848 a mill overseer's daughter in California discovered in a mill race a small nugget of gold. Into California rushed wagons by the hundreds between 1848 and 1869. Faster than the United States Government could buy Indian land, or permission to cross it, pioneers swept across, braving, in their thirst for gold, deserts, blizzards, and attacks from now desperate red-skins. Stage coaches carrying gold fought their way back to New York. Often $1,000,000 in gold was shipped East on a single day.

In 1860, coast to coast communication was speeded up when the United States Government organized the Pony Express to carry mail swiftly from St. Joseph, Mo., to the settlers and gold-seekers fringing the Pacific Coast. Riders on horses fleet enough to outrun Indian ponies galloped across deserts and plains, changing horses every 10 or 15 miles, and completing the journey usually in 10 days.

Nine years later, the Golden Spike was driven in the last tie that marked completion of the first transcontinental railroad. At Promontory Point, Utah, Central Pacific rails laid for 689 miles east from Sacramento, met Union Pacific rails laid for 1086 miles west from Omaha, Neb. At that time, the transcontinental journey took about eight days. Buffaloes were still so numerous that passengers shot them from the train while waiting for herds to cross the tracks.

Fast Trains Shrink Distances

In 1903 originated what is now another popular way of crossing the continent. "Tom" Fitch and Mac Kraarup left San Francisco in a one-cylinder Packard car and arrived in New York City 61 days later. Today large passenger motor busses make the same trip in four and a half days. Thousands of automobiles annually shuttle back and forth over the 3384-mile Lincoln Highway, while thousands of others ply the 3092-mile National Old Trails Road.

First to make the coast to coast trip by airplane was Calbraith P. Rodgers who in 1911 flew from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Of his 69 stops many were forced landings and necessitated such frequent repairs that, when he reached the Pacific, he had used 18 wing panels and all that remained of his original machine was the rudder and two struts. Although he was 84 days en route, his actual flying time was only about three and one-half days; his average speed about $51\frac{1}{2}$ miles an hour. Today one may leave New York by airplane at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and arrive in Los Angeles by seven the next morning, flying in less than a day over territory it took Lewis and Clark two years to cross.

Although busses and airplanes have "through service" from coast to coast, there is none yet by train. Transcontinental train passengers must change at one of the three points: Chicago, St. Louis or New Orleans. When the Union Pacific's streamline train recently broke records by running from Los Angeles to New York in less than 57 hours, shortening the normal trip by 23 hours, it gave new impetus to railroad travel. Already loans have been alotted for the building of several more speedy streamline trains. "Through service" by train may not be far off.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Next Monday, Dec. 3, at 2:30 in Fortnightly Headquarters, will be the second meeting of the Literature Group. The subject of study for this year is, "Conversation as a Literary Form," and next Monday's program will deal with "The Socratic Method." Chairmen for the day are Mrs. Myrtie L. Hodge and Mrs. Anna M. Swanson. The chairman of the committee is Mrs. Josephine B. Brownsmith. Come prepared to take part in a lively discussion after the regular program.

The Garden Group meets on Tuesday, Dec. 4 at 2:30 in Fortnightly Hall. There will be an interesting program followed by tea and conversation. Mrs. Dorothy Wills is chairman.

American Home Day, Nov. 26

The American Home Committee held an all day session on Monday, Nov. 26. The morning session was presided over by Mrs. Mary R. Davis, chairman of the committee. Mrs. Davis graciously welcomed the members and expressed a hope that the session would be helpful and enjoyable.

The first part of the program was named "Behind the Scenes in a Department Store" and Miss Evelyn Hersey introduced Miss Ruth Friedberg of the Prince School of Education, Simmons College, who carried her audience with her into the various departments of store life in a delightfully educational way, showing the type and scope of service given by the store, its handicaps and its aims. The speaker told briefly of the divisions of the service—the executive, the accounting and the sales departments and of the corps of workers behind the busy store life, workers who, unseen by the customers do an immense amount of work. Miss Friedberg gave a glowing account of the eccentricities of customers, the demands for service on trifling matters, the calls for delivery of small orders, adding to the overhead, the misunderstandings and complaints and the delay and disappointments caused by customers giving inadequate addresses. The control division was an unknown quantity to many in the audience, who gave close attention while Miss Friedberg gave a splendid description of the budgeting of sales—how a buyer must plan ahead, not only what to buy, but the ultimate profit, after costs and losses have been accounted, the overhead and upkeep discounted and all eventualities planned. The speaker said the department store was comparable to a hostess who must keep open house six days a week always ready for company, always cheery and willing to serve. Salespeople really need specialized training—it is many times difficult for them to sell a varied line of goods. Some girls do not know the use of a double boiler, easily understandable when one knows the many girls who room and eat out and it has been found necessary to give cookery lessons to girls who sell goods in the kitchen department of a store, so that they might know the uses of the various utensils and be able to sell more intelligently. As a general thing, salesgirls are willing to give good service and it would help a great deal if the customer would tell any outstanding example of good service as many as criticism of poor service is recounted. "It is to the best interest of the department store to please its customers," said Miss Friedberg, "and it is the aim in all sections." As the speaker closed her lecture, she was warmly applauded. Questions on installment systems and blanket purchasing had been distributed to the audience and were filled out and returned to Miss Friedberg.

The second part of the morning program was a talking picture of the Century of Progress Exhibition in Chicago, made by Burton Holmes for the A. & P. Corporation. This was shown by Mr. Franklin Smith, who called attention to the fact that several prominent radio characters were featured, notably George Rector, the famous chef. Frank Parker, well known tenor and the A & P. Gypsies with Harry Hawley. First was shown comparative advertising in 1873, 1893 and 1933 of the A. & P. stores. It is safe to say that those who were in Chicago to visit the exposition enjoyed the showing of the exposition grounds and the A & P. carnival as much as those who had not previously seen them. The character sketches, the crowds of tourists, the marionettes and the individual by play were equally enjoyable and it is still true "That a little nonsense now and then, is relished by the wisest men" (and women). This concluded the morning session.

The rear of the hall had been transformed into a charming luncheon room with tables for four prettily arrayed and decorated and the American Home Committee assisted by Mrs. Greene, served a splendid luncheon of chicken pie, vegetables, salad, cream and cake. Much credit is due to the committee for the arrangement and service. A restful and enjoyable interlude between the morning and afternoon sessions

Before the formal meeting at 2:30 a pleasant half hour was spent with the Music Committee, Mrs. Idabelle Winship, chairman. Mrs. Winship explained that this unusual opportunity was to be given to the club members to hear a young violinist, who she felt sure, had a glowing future. She introduced Master Frank Zecchino and his accompanist, Mrs. Gladys Possell Ondricek. Master Frank is 13 years of age and handles his violin like a master. The boy is slight, with the face of an artist and eyes that light up with the rhythm of the music. His technique is flawless and his execution shows the result of careful training. A wonderful half hour was enjoyed and the musicians were enthusiastically applauded, being recalled several times.

At 2:30 Mrs. Gladys Wilson, president of the club called the meeting to order, and with Mrs. Winship at the piano, the audience sang, "America the Beautiful" and gave the salute to the flag.

Mrs. Wilson introduced Mrs. John Montgomery president of the Eighth District Presidents' Club and explained her pleasure at having her as guest. Attention was called to the fact that Mrs. Jane Robinson, secretary of the club was secretary of the Federation American Home Committee. Mrs. Montgomery also being a committee member. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted, committee reports given and routine business transacted.

Mrs. Chesley Yorke, Jr., was introduced as being in charge of Junior Club work and gave a most interesting talk on the work. She said about 400 juniors were at the convention at Swampscott, enthusiastic, active, eager to help in every way.

Mrs. Yorke said a prize was offered for the best program or play for the juniors, also for the best poem and hoped that Winchester would soon have a Junior Club. Mrs. Lillian Whitman, chairman of the Junior Club Committee of the Fortnightly, gave a report of progress, expressing a wish that daughters of members would contact her.

Another delightful half hour of music with Master Zecchino and Mrs. Ondricick was enjoyed and many felt that his talent amounts almost to genius. Every nerve was in accord, the slight body keeping time with the melody, the eyes glowing when some deeper chords called forth emotion, and the audience sat as though spellbound through the recital. Siciliano and Rizandon by Francoeur, Kriester; Romance by Wieniawski; Gypsy Dance, Nachez, Valse Bluette; Drigo; and From the Canebrake, Gardner, were the selections chosen by Master Frank and all were fully appreciated by the membership of the club who called for the musician again and again.

The final section of the days program was to be "Problems in Modernizing Colonial Homes" and Mrs. Wilson presented Mrs. Eliza Newkirk Rodgers, an architect who has specialized in remodelling or modernizing colonial houses.

Mrs. Rodgers gave a short talk on the construction of colonial houses, saying that, of course, colonial style has its roots in our own history. It is of no use to try to modernize some houses but they can be remodelled to advantage. Additions, happy-go-lucky plans for comfort, are all worthy of consideration, but each house has its own problems. It is very necessary first to know what one wants to accomplish so that at the outset plans which will work out to advantage may be made. The central chimney is a difficult problem, usually as are many features of the old places.

Mrs. Rodgers showed pictures of various types of houses, discussing the faults of construction and pointing out the advantages. Fireplaces, deep windows, cornices, staircases, stair rails, porches and lean-tos came in for a share of attention. Exteriors and interiors were shown and explained and the lecture being applauded at the close. An interesting and educational day, indeed, and Mrs. Davis and her committee are to be congratulated on giving such splendid opportunities to the club.

EXHIBITION OF MARINE PAINTINGS

By Stanley Woodward

Next Sunday afternoon between 4 and 6, members of the Winchester Art Association will have a marvelous opportunity to meet Stanley Woodward and to see his pictures. There will be a tea and reception for the artist at that time. After Sunday the exhibition will be open to the public throughout the month of December.

Mr. Stanley Woodward is a native of Malden. He was a student at the famous Museum School of Art in Boston and later continued his studies in Paris. His interest has always been in the painting of the sea in its different moods and he has become one of the most outstanding marine painters in the country. For his excellent work he has received numerous medals and prizes.

In his coming exhibition in the Art Gallery of the Winchester Public Library there will be both oils and water colors, seascapes and landscapes. For some of these latter Mr. Woodward has taken his inspiration from our own Berkshires and from Vermont. There will be examples also of moonlight effects for which he is famous. Those who have helped to plan for this worth while and inspirational exhibition of beautiful paintings hope that the people of Winchester will visit the Library sometime during the coming month to enjoy them.

INTERESTING DEMONSTRATION AT McLAUGHLIN'S

On next Thursday, Dec. 5, from 9 in the morning until 5 p. m. a young lady model is to demonstrate "Gaytees," the modern waterproof footwear, in the show window of McLaughlin's Shoe Store at 9 Thompson street.

An advertisement elsewhere in this issue describes "Gaytees" which are what smart women and young moderns are wearing in wet weather. They have no snaps or zips and come in trim flattering styles. You simply "pull them on." Be sure and see them demonstrated at McLaughlin's next Thursday.

RECOUNTS MONDAY

The Registrars of Voters have announced that on next Monday evening in the General Committee room of the Town Hall there will be recounts of the votes cast in Winchester at the last State Election for the offices of Senator in the Sixth District, Clerk of Court for Middlesex County and County Commissioner for Middlesex County.

BETHANY NEWS

Note well the change of date of the next Bethany luncheon, from Wednesday to Thursday, Dec. 6 at noon. This is a tentative measure, and the result of the experiment will determine whether or not the day will be changed permanently to Thursday. The hostesses for the luncheon are Mrs. Abrahamson, Mrs. Bowles, Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. Hartshorn, Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Webber.

The committee in charge of Friday evening's entertainment report the profit of $35, which exceeded their wildest expectations. The performance was a novel little bit, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Baker and their "quiet evening" was quiet only in name, being interrupted constantly from the dinner hour till long past midnight by different telephone messages and callers. This ruse served to introduce in a very clever way the Chase Orchestra who played some fine selections; Mr. Chester Ross, who gave several delightful vocal solos; Miss Sylvia Parker in two entertaining readings; Mr. Baker's own magic; and a most unique climax showing the facade of a house, the lighting effects (as Mr. Baker was called downstairs on every sort of errand from putting out the cat to rattling the furnace,) being arranged by flashlights. The quiet evening terminated with the arrival of Aunt Carrie at the station who had to be met, fed and entertained. And another household's hospitality was strained to the breaking point!

Watch for particulars about the movie night, scheduled for the near future. Inquire of Mrs. Christine Thompson for details.

Rehearsals have already begun at Sunday School for the Christmas music and it surely gave us a thrill to hear again the beautiful songs with their lovely message. Troubles seem to vanish, friendships grow dearer and work seems lighter as the Christmas season approaches. Let's rest "beneath life's crushing load and hear the angels sing."

FICOCIELLO—PEPE

On the occasion of the 33rd wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Miss Rose Marie Pepe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pepe of Harrison avenue, Woburn and Anthony Carmino Ficociello, son of Mrs. Pasqualina Ficociello of Oak street, were married Thanksgiving afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Charles Church, Woburn, by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Charles P. Heaney.

Miss Margaret Ross of Lawrence, cousin of the bride was maid of honor and the best man was Alfred Subrizio of Winchester.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with Venetian point lace and carried a bouquet of talisman roses. Miss Ross wore blue and silver chiffon velvet with matching hat and carried tea roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, who assisted in receiving with the bridegroom's mother. The bridal party received under an arbor of pink and white tea roses and the house decorations were also of pink and white. A catered wedding supper was served and music was furnished by the Collegians Orchestra.

Following the reception, Mr. Ficociello and his bride left to enjoy a honeymoon in New York City. The bride attended Woburn High School and is a graduate of the Boston Calculating School, later attending the Boston Conservatory of Music. Mr. Ficociello graduated from Winchester High School in 1931 and is associated with the American Garment Company of Boston.

SUNDAY NIGHT AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

You missed a good time if you weren't there on Sunday night! How people love to sing! We proved it Sunday night when the young people's group led the old fashioned sing at the 7 o'clock service at the First Baptist Church. Later, when the young people adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Winn to conduct their fireside Thanksgiving service the delightful hospitality of the host and hostess made everyone feel the genuine spirit of Thanksgiving.

This coming Sunday evening, the splendid speaker who is coming to us from Gordon College will bring a challenging message to all young people. Young people of high school age and over are invited especially to the young people's fellowship hour at 8 o'clock.

GOODS RIDING SCHOOL TO EXHIBIT

Harry Good of the well known Good's Riding School, will exhibit from 15 to 18 of his horses next week at the Commonwealth Armory when the annual horse show of the 110th Mounted National Guard takes place Dec. 6, 7, 8. Prominent among his horses is his famous jumper Repeal.

The show will be the event of the season. Included in the Winchester horses which will be shown will be Arthur Black's Aby's Irish Rose, Helen Downer's Dale MacDonald and Miss Gladys Marchant's Bit-of-Glory.

FAMILY WEEK AT THE UNIVERSITY

Realizing the desire on the part of many people to attend the theater in family groups, the management of the University Theater has succeeded in arranging a program starting Sunday that they are willing to guarantee as perfect entertainment for the entire family right through from sonny to grandpa.

"Happiness Ahead" a romantic comedy with Dick Powell in the stellar role, starts Sunday for the first four days of the week. It is a story that combines hilarious situations with melodramatic thrills, to which several catchy musical numbers are added. Josephine Hutchinson, famous on the New York and London stage, makes her bow in this picture.

Pauline Lord, celebrated American star, makes her screen debut in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," the companion feature. The film, which preserves all the homely, lovable philosophy of the novel and play, also has W. C. Fields, Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor in the principal roles. The parts of the famous "Wiggs" brood are played by a capable Hollywood child players and the story tells the struggles and heartaches that come to this family whose father thinks too hard to be bothered with work.

Will Rogers—in the most human and loveable role he has yet played! That is the unreservedly promised starting Thursday when Will Rogers latest picture, "Judge Priest" begins a three days' engagement.

Janet Gaynor and Lew Ayres have been reunited in "Servants' Entrance," the companion film. Miss Gaynor plays a rich society girl in search of new experiences, and Mr. Ayres portrays a young inventor who has turned to chauffeuring in order to support himself while he perfects his new type motorboat. The picture is a departure from the usual straight romantic role played by Miss Gaynor. Here comedy is blended with romance, and for the first time on the screen, Janet Gaynor is seen as a versatile comedienne.

MYSTIC THEATRE, MALDEN ATTRACTIONS

Madcap romance, enacted against the lavish and colorful background of life in the vineyards of Europe, to the haunting, tantalizing strains of native melodies. Briefly, it is reported, this describes "Caravan," Erik Charrellis first American-made picture for Fox Film, which is coming to the Mystic Theater, Malden, starting Saturday, Dec. 1. Boasting settings of vivid beauty, a story centering about the romance of a devil-may-care nomadic song-maker and a lovely young countess, Chas. Boyer, makes his starring debut before American audiences, as a captivating song-maker who loves and is loved by a beautiful and capricious Countess. In the latter role will be seen the dazzling Loretta Young, while the raven-haired Jean Parker appears as Tinka, the other girl. Phillips Holmes, in the role of a dashing young lieutenant, completes the foresome of principal players. "Caravan," combines splendor of setting and a lavishness unusual in sound films with subtle comedy and sparkling dialogue.

"Friends of Mr. Sweeney," the second feature at the Mystic next week, is a rollicking comedy. Charlie Ruggles, blossoms out in a night as a big time sport and the terror of a band of crooks in some of the most ridiculously funny situations imaginable. It is a picture filled with thrills that is said to wind up in a smashing climax, in which Ruggles not only catches the bad men, but forces his boss, to whom he had been always obsequious to give him the run of his business. Ann Dvorak supplies the love interest in the leading feminine role as Ruggles' secretary who eggs him on to be a real devil of a fellow.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Will Rogers in his new hit, "Judge Priest," will be the headline attraction at the big Granada Theatre in Malden, on Saturday. The popular series of stories by Irvin Cobb has been used as the basis for this screen tale of the shrewd and wise Kentucky Judge who flourished in Paducah, Kentucky. Rogers has been surrounded with a talented cast that includes Anita Louise, Tom Brown, David Landeau, Rochelle Hudson, Berton Churchill, Roger Imhoff, Charles Grapewin and a special comedy part by the colored star, Stepin Fetchit.

"Wagon Wheels" with Randolph Scott, Gail Patrick, Monte Blue, Raymond Hatton and Lelia Bennett as the featured players, will be the second attraction on the bill starting Saturday. Adapted from the well-known novel, "Fighting Caravans," by Zane Grey, it shows in stirring fashion the famous trip by covered wagon caravan from Independence, Mo. to Oregon when the sturdy, adventurous American pioneers first went out to homestead the new country.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

"Happiness Ahead," with smiling Dick Powell as the star, a glamorous romance that combines hilarious situations with melodramatic thrills, to which several catchy musical numbers have been added, is the headline attraction on the bill opening at the Strand Theatre, in Malden on Saturday. Josephine Hutchinson, a newcomer from the New York stage, is Dick Powell's leading lady. Never has there been a more thrilling scene than the one between the two lovers after the boy has seen his girl kissing a man he concludes is her sugar daddy, but who turns out in the end to be her own father. Powell's catchy songs include "Pop Goes My Heart" and "Beauty Must Be Love." He sings a third in a comedy duet with Frank McHugh entitled "Massaging Window Panes." Others who appear in the film are Allan Jenkins, Dorothy Dare, John Halliday, Gavin Gordon, Marjorie Gateson and Ruth Donnelly. Director Mervin LeRoy has turned out a splendid production in "Happiness Ahead" and the film is one of the finest entertainments to reach the screen.

"That's Gratitude," with an all-star cast that includes Mary Carlisle, Frank Craven, John Buckler, Helen Ware and Arthur Byron, is the second attraction on the bill starting Saturday.

SPIRITED A. A. RALLY WEDNESDAY MORNING

Wednesday morning, as a fore-runner of the Woburn football game, the A. A. held a large rally urging the school's support on Thanksgiving.

Nancy Jackson was mistress of ceremonies and first introduced Mr. Wilson, after a few words about, "Spirit at a Rally." The chorus director led several of the school football songs and succeeded in arousing a great amount of real enthusiasm.

The cheer-captains, Gerard Gaffney and John Hanlon each had a few words to offer, Gaffney first expressing his real appreciation of the fellows who took the knocks without the glory, followed by Hanlon, who spoke about the team's preparedness for the big game.

Clifford Cunningham, one of the cheerleaders taught everyone a peppy new song, "Winchester's March ing on to Victory" and proved himself a capable singing teacher.

The next talk was of special interest to hockey enthusiasts, as Dorothe Glidden spoke for a few minutes of the National Hockey tournament which is being held in Boston over this holiday week-end.

The big surprise of the morning was a skit enacted by the two English teachers, Mr. Hayward and Mr. Keeney. Mr. Hayward read a humorous introduction in the form of a story, after which he retired to have the curtains drawn. The scene opened with Mr. Hayward personding the somewhat skeptical Mr. Keeney to go to the Woburn clash with him. Many revealing comments were exchanged about the boys on the team and the skit closed with a cheer.

As an Alumni representative, "Bob" Godfrey showed the grad mates followed the games with great interest and assured the school that all those who could would be at Woburn to yell for their alma mater.

Coach Mansfield and Assistant-Coach Bartlett climaxed the list of speakers with a series of questions and answers about the team's chances for a win.

Before the students returned to their home rooms, the football team lined up behind the footlights.

It is rallies such as this which make for a splendid spirit in the school, both among the members of the entire student body and the individual classes.

Banking per cent last week was 95.4 per cent, only six rooms obtaining 100 per cent. Wanted—Every room to attain 100 per cent this Tuesday. One hundred and six dollars and sixty cents was the amount banked.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

At the rally held on Saturday, Nov. 24, the Golden Eaglet, highest Girl Scout honor was awarded to Dorothy Glidden, member of Troop 3. Proficiency badges were awarded as follows:

Troop 1, Captain McElwain. Second Class, Camille West; Artist, Louise Barr; Observer, Mary Hill, Jean Drake; Musician, Jean Drake; Swimmer, Marion Neiley.

Troop 2, Captain Symmes. Swimmer, Pioneer and Woodcraft, Virginia Munro; Observer, Nancy Goodwin; Scholarship, Gladys Fifield, Louise Millican; Ring Around Scholarship, Virginia Taylor.

Troop 3, Captain Parker. Starfinder, ring around the following badges; Cook, First Aid, Health Winner, Laundress, Scholarship and Lifesaver for 1933 and 1934, Jeanne Phelps.

Troop 4, Captain Friis. Scholarship, Ruth Ann Morrow, Ruth Olmstead; Junior Citizen, Helen Davis; Swimmer, Constance Bond; Life Saver, Elizabeth Collins, Drummer, Helen Davis, Barbara Hayden; Horsewoman, Natalie White; Craftsman, Elizabeth Collins, Helen Davis, Helen Butler, Barbara Hayden, Miriam Nash, Nancy Newton, Suzanne Gleason, Madeleine Collins, Jean Howard; Hostess, Jane Wilson.

Troop 6, Captain Howe. Scholarship, Helen Tripp, Dorothy Marasphi, Frances Kess; Child Nurse, Helen Tripp; Salt Water Life Finder, Betty Newman; Horsewoman, Frances Randall; Life Saver, Frances Randall, Margaret Hall.

Troop 8, Captain Newman. Scholarship, Bernice Taber, Margaret Greive, Meredith Wagner, Barbara Hughes, Virginia Bratt; Life Saver, Meredith Wagner; Swimmer, Meredith Wagner; Laundress, Bernice Taber; Ring Around Craftsman, Bernice Taber.

Two hundred and seventy Scouts and Brownies attended the supper between the afternoon program and Dr. Tozier's lecture.

The Drum and Bugle Corps had its first meeting on Nov. 26 at the Town Hall.

On Saturday morning, Dec. 8, at 10 o'clock, Captain Symmes' Troop 2 will hold a food sale in the vacant store next door to Richardson's Market. Home-cooked food, jelly and pop corn balls will be for sale.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

It is quite common to ridicule religious sects and individuals who use the emotions as the vehicle of religious expression. But we must not forget that a religion that has no warmth of feeling has neither imagination or power. There on the track is a locomotive. As a machine it is complete. Nothing is lacking in its mechanical perfection or its equipment. But it stands there silent and useless. By and by a man approaches. He kindles a fire beneath the boiler, and soon steam is being generated and the big locomotive moves away obediently.

There are countless men and women in the church like that engine inactive. They are as perfect in their lives as possible. Their morals are correct. Their beliefs are sound. Their worship is reverent. But they are useless for effective work in the kingdom of God because the fires have never been kindled in their hearts. There are possibilities there, but no power.

Not in the enlightened intellect but in the kindled heart do we discover the springs of spiritual power. The men who set out after the ascension of Jesus to preach the gospel to every creature were, from the standpoint of the world, very ordinary characters. They had no education in the commonly accepted sense of the term. They had very commonplace intellectual capacities. They had no influential friends, no resources of power or money. They had nothing but burning hearts. But that fire that was in them nothing could quench and from it they kindled a flame which has made the whole world light. In Fullerton's "Life of Spurgeon," he brings out this fact concerning the greatest preacher of his time. There was no sphere in which Spurgeon was preeminently talented. He was eloquent, but there were others far more so. He had a great mind, but there were men about him in the pulpit who had greater. But behind these gifts of his, none of which was extraordinary, was a consuming passion, a burning heart, that imparted to commonplace talents a power that made them notable in his generation.

Stuart Nye Hutchison, writing under the title "Men of the Burning Heart," in the Presbyterian, says:

"When we look about us and think of the burdens and sorrows everywhere; brave souls hiding breaking hearts behind smiling faces; business men worried with the spectres of failure; young men and women tempted almost beyond what they are able to resist; souls breathing out silent prayers for loved ones on the brink of moral disaster; homes with great empty spaces which nothing can ever fill; when we think of these we know there is nothing the weary sad world needs more than souls whom God has touched, who care.

"Did you ever know anyone who was brought to repentance by someone's brilliant intellect? You never have, but we know of scores who were led to Christ by the burning hearts of those who loved and cared for their souls.

"Not only is the enkindled heart the source of power, it is the secret of spiritual peace. During the cold winter days sometimes the window panes become encrusted with white frost, so that it is impossible to see through them. There are two ways to clear away that frost. You can, with a knife, scrape it from the glass, beginning at the top of the pane. The trouble is that when you have reached the bottom it has begun to form again at the top. There is a better way. Kindle a fire in the room. Set the logs to blazing in the fireplace, and before long the frost is gone, and through the windows you can see the glory of the morning on the hills. We cannot overcome doubt with argument. But kindle to a fervent heat the fires of the heart and the doubts will disappear."

WYMAN SCHOOL NEWS

On Wednesday, Nov. 14, the second delightful luncheon was served to the teachers of this school. It was given by Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Avery and Mrs. Farnsworth, as representatives of the Mother's Association.

The most recent school dramatic assemblies of first three grades have been those of Miss Hackett's first grade, an assemblage of picturesque little farmers and farmerettes; and of Miss Jepson's second grade, who eagerly dramatized, "The Little Rabbit Who Wanted Red Wings." Plays were composed as a result of recent history study for the assemblies of the upper three grades. Miss Moffett's fourth grade gave a vivid play of "Pocohantas and John Smith." Miss Rix's sixth grade dramatized from their Greek studies, "How the Gods Helped the Greeks—in Their War Against the Persians."

Beside these class entertainments instructive movies from the Y. M. C. A. Film Foundation have been shown at the school. Among the most interesting were those on, "Bird Life" and "Vancouver, the Gateway to the Pacific."

This Wednesday before Thanksgiving vacation, the first issue of the "Wyman Messenger," the new school magazine, will be distributed. Beside stories and poems it has many illustrations done by children from every grade, and its orange cover is decked with a plump turkey, drawn by Howard Grant of the sixth grade.

Many children have brought canned or durable food to be given among the needy toward a happier Thanksgiving.

Police Headquarters was notified by phone last Friday night at 11:20 that a man had taken poison at Dartlof's store on Swanton street. Patrolmen William Cassidy and Irving Reardon found after investigation that a man, living on Quigley court, had swallowed a bottle of sulpho-naphtol. He was unconscious when they arrived at his home. After treatment at the hospital by Drs. Philip McMannus and E. A. Becker he was considered out of danger and was taken home.

KENT, THE GARDEN OF ENGLAND

Although the bridegroom of Princess Marina is known to the world as Prince George, his official title is now "Duke of Kent." King George V recently revived the ancient dukedom in elevating his fourth son to the peerage this other sons are known as: Prince of Wales, Duke of York, and Duke of Gloucester).

The "Dukedom of Kent" is but a tame, recalling Kent of the Kingdoms of Anglo-Saxon Britain; but the present-day county of Kent, which occupies about the same territory, is one of the largest and most populous districts of England, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Its Beauty Attracts Artists.

With an area a little greater than that of the State of Rhode Island, Kent fills the tongue of land that extends southeast from London to the North Sea and the Strait of Dover.

The busiest railways and highways that link London with the continent of Europe pass through Kent; but the county is essentially agricultural, except for a narrow, suburban strip near London. Kent, in fact, is known as "the garden of England."

During three seasons of the year its natural charm attracts artists, writers, and other beauty lovers in numbers comparable to the pilgrims once drawn to the shrine of Canterbury. In the spring, blossoming fruit orchards blanket Kent hillsides with pink and white; in the summer, gay flowers run riot around every thatched cottage and hedgerow; and in the fall, its hop gardens and wooded ravines glow with autumnal color, though for lack of quick frosts the richer tones of New England are seldom seen.

Kent's population experiences a sudden, although temporary, leap upward in the early autumn when thousands of hop-pickers—men, women, and children recruited from the poorer sections of London—pour into its fields to harvest the ripe cones used in making beverages, medicines, etc. A distinctive feature of the Kent landscape is the oast house, or kiln, in which cones are swung with the wind so that the vapors of the drying hops may be quickly carried away.

"Men of Kent" and "Kentish Men"

The county is divided into two nearly equal parts by a long range of chalk hills, designated on maps as the North Downs, but popularly known as "the backbone of Kent," extending from Folkstone through Maidstone to Westerham, near the Surrey border. Local rivalry divides the population into "Men of Kent" and "Kentish Men," the former born east of the River Medway and the latter west of it. The Medway, a picturesque stream, cuts through the Downs near Maidstone, the capital of the county.

Because Kent is the nearest part of England to the continent (only 17 miles of water separate Dover from Cape Griz-Nez, France), it has been first to know the herd of invaders in ages past. The Romans entered Britain through Kent, developing a number of ports along its coast and extending excellent paved highways into the interior. The focus of those roads became the thriving city of Canterbury.

Canterbury today is the most interesting city in the county, although it is exceeded in population by eight other Kentish towns. Because the march of modern industry, and the shortest trade routes to the continent, have passed Canterbury by, it still retains many medieval features recalling the days when it was one of the most venerated pilgrim shrines of the Middle Ages. As the residence of the Primate of All England, Canterbury might today be called the "religious capital" of the Empire.

Cathedral Dates from 1070

Finest and most revered of all Canterbury's treasures is of course, its magnificent Cathedral, dating from 1070. Its vast scale, wealth of monuments, rare 12th century stained glass, and the memories of great events enacted within its walls make it the most important church structure in England.

Henry VIII, in 1538, put an end to the heavy traffic of pilgrims to its miracle-working shrines. But nearly every visitor to the cathedral today wants first to be shown the small slab of stone (replacing a blood-stained hit of pavement sent to Rome) where Archbishop Thomas Becket fell, and to gaze in awed silence at the door from the cloisters, which is kept ajar as it was when four knights stole through it on Dec. 29, 1170 and slew "the turbulent priest." Becket's canonization, two years later, launched the pilgrimages, whose holiday aspects are vividly described in Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales."

Dover and Folkstone, the chief gateways from and to the continent, are busy modern ports; but Dover's ancient castle, on the summit of a chalk cliff, contains a stone beacon which is perhaps the oldest standing building in England.

Rochester lies in the heart of the "Dickens' Country." Coding March, which extends north to the Thames, is the scene of the opening chapters of "Great Expectations." Not far away is Gravesend, where Dickens' great novelist and his bride spent their honeymoon. At Gad's Hill, two miles north of Rochester Bridge, Dickens spent the last 13 years of his life from 1857 until his death in 1870.

In the moorlands of southwestern Kent lies the health resort of Tunbridge Wells, long famed as the watering-place of the serious minded. Macaulay, Meredith, Thackeray, and others mention it in their writings; and occasionally leading figures of modern English letters may be seen along the Pantiles, or Parade, the chief rendezvous of the resort. The city is also noted for Tunbridge Ware, a kind of wood-mosaic.

John Leslie Dewar, son of Leslie Dewar of 10 Blind Brook street enlisted in the U. S. Navy on Tuesday, Nov. 20. Dewar attended the Winchester High School. He has been transferred to the U. S. Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Va., and upon completion of training will be assigned to Naval forces afloat.

They admitted having had an altercation, and were ordered to move along.

Patrolmen Archie O'Connell, Clarence Dunbury and William Cassidy, while on Washington street near Swanton street at 2:45 Saturday morning, saw an automobile proceed along Washington street and stop at Park avenue. When the police got to the car the operator was trying to push it. They put a stop to this activity and found that the man's license had expired during October. The police say they will summons the operator, Joseph P. O'Hearne of 22 Sturgis street, Woburn, into court for driving without a license and driving while under the influence of liquor.

You pay for Christmas Seals but once, but they work for you all year round. n30-4t

The Fire Department had two calls Monday, the first at 5:17 p. m. for smoke issuing from Wright's Plumbing shop on Thompson street. The trouble was found to be slight in this instance. At 6:51 p. m., Engine 3 with Edward Fitzgerald driving answered a call from Woburn Box 56 for a fire in that city.

The recount of votes thus far made in the contest for State Senator in this district show a gain for the Democratic Charles T. Daley of Medford over the Republican Charles C. Warren, who has held this office for some years and was defeated by Mr. Daley at the November election. Recounts of the vote have been made in Medford and Arlington, Mr. Daley, gaining one vote in Arlington and 51 in Medford. With Winchester and Woburn yet to be counted the Democratic standard bearer now has a lead of 212 votes as against his original lead of 157.

A resident of Ridge street communicated with the Police Wednesday evening, reporting that his housekeeper had decamped during the day, leaving no address. He was not so much concerned with locating the housekeeper as he was the new mattress, muff and several jars of preserves which he said she took with her.

The Police received a hurry-up call shortly after 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, it being reported that a man was creating a disturbance at the shop of Kelley & Callahan on upper Main street. Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell and Patrolman John Hanlon went to the shop, but the man could not be found. He was said to have wielded a billey with telling effect.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

The regular meeting of the Guild was held on Tuesday. The hostesses for the day were Mrs. Alice Carr, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, Mrs. Mary Burke, Mrs. Elizabeth Cox, Mrs. Sara Chevalier.

The president, Mrs. Margaret Hintlian, after opening the meeting with prayer, announced that the rest of the afternoon would be spent informally and members could sew while listening to the business of the afternoon. Plans were then discussed for a penny sale to be given before Xmas. It is hoped that all members will help make this affair a success.

It was announced with regrets that Mrs. Irene Felt had resigned as press chairman and that Mrs. Mayola M. Wood would succeed her in that capacity.

The Guild wishes to thank all members who helped or participated in any way for the success of our annual bazaar at the Copley Plaza. Many actively interested, many donated generously and to the members whose kindly words of encouragement helped us on our way, we offer our most grateful thanks.

Speaking of the charities of the Guild, Mrs. Hintlian asked the members to be generous in their work for such a worthy cause and quoted the following message from His Eminence, William Cardinal O'Connell, honorary president of the Guild.

"God made women tenderhearted for the sake of little children and I am sure if the needs of the Guild were broadcast, there would be a hearty response from the majority of the Catholic women all over the archdiocese. It is difficult to imagine any mother surrounded with all the comforts and many of the luxuries, turning her back on the sufferings of unfortunate mothers and destitute children near her home."

Tea was served at the close of the meeting by the hostesses.

Glee Club

The members of the Glee Club have been most fortunate in securing the services of Miss Edna McNamara of Cambridge as their director for this season. Miss McNamara is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and has directed several glee clubs and church choirs. At present she is one of the public school supervisors in music for the City of Cambridge.

Any members of the Guild desiring to join the glee club, please notify Mrs. Thos. Hennessy, Win. 0121.

The next rehearsal will be at the home of Miss May Cullen on Stone avenue.

FRED LAMB
Choral Administrator of the E. R. A. Chorus

E. R. A. CHORISTERS TO SING IN WINCHESTER

The Greater Boston E. R. A. chorus of 100 professional singers, said to be the pioneer chorus of its kind in the country will give a free public concert under the auspices of the Winchester Post, No. 97, American Legion at the Winchester Town Hall, this Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

William Ellis Weston will conduct the chorus which will be accompanied at the piano by Gertrude Frazee and Susan Maxim Bennett. This chorus is one of the most outstanding E. R. A. projects of Massachusetts. Since its inception last May it has, under the guidance of its Administrator, Frederick Lamb, grown to be one of the most popular entertainment attractions in the State.

Each member of the chorus is a bona fide professional singer and many of the choralists have had long and interesting careers in the operatic, concert, oratorio, theatrical, church and radio fields. Prominent among the personnel are J. K. Murray, whose fine baritone voice was heard time and again in a number of light opera roles at the old Castle Square Theatre in Boston; Mme. Helen Alberti, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Company and a protege of Sir Henry Wood; Joan Ruth formerly of the Wagnerian Opera Company; John Case, European operatic baritone; Helen Mahler, well known chautauqua artist; Clara Sexton Crowley, formerly an outstanding oratorio singer; Gertrude Houk, recently of "Roxy's Gang;" Jeska Stone well known to supper club and theatre patrons in Boston; Alexander Eddy, formerly of the new Chicago Opera Company of New York; Arnold Valagils, one of the few Icelandic singers in this country; Anthony Guarino and Augusta Cooper of the Keith circuit and many others.

The services of this chorus are given to the public gratis with no expense to the town. If, as a unit, the ensemble were privately hired at the aggregate salary paid them by the Government, the cost of such a concert would be prohibitive. Like all E. R. A. projects the chorus is under the supervision of Arthur G. Rotch, Massachusetts Administrator for E. R. A. W. Duncan Russell is general director of all dramatic and music projects of the E. R. A. in Boston.

Frederick Lamb, choral administrator is also one of its conductors and is well known throughout Boston as a teacher of singing, and choral director. He was at one time concert manager for the original Boston Opera Company and has introduced many noted artists to the public.

William Ellis Weston, who will conduct the Winchester concert is one of Boston's most prominent vocal and piano teachers and choral conductors. He is well known, also, as an accompanist and organist and has directed such singing organizations as the MacDowell Club Chorus, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Glee Club and other choral societies.

Miss Gertrude Frazee, one of the accompanists is an accomplished theatre organist and pianist. Miss Susan Maxim Bennett was formerly teacher of harmony at the May School and spent two years in Paris under the tutelage of Isidor Phillipe, ranked as the greatest living teacher of pianoforte.

Again it is emphasized that there will be no admission charge and no collection taken, as incidental expenses are being met through the co-operation of Winchester Post, No. 97, American Legion whose committee in charge includes Post Commander, John H. McCarthy, general chairman; past Commanders, William E. Ramsdell, Kingman P. Cass and Vincent P. Clarke.

The program is as follows:

1
(a) Gloria ... Mozart
(b) Roses of Picardy ... Haydn-Wood

2
(a) Laudamus ... Protheroe
(b) All Through the Night ... Old Welsh

3
(a) Thru the Dark the Dreamer's Came ... Daniels
(b) O, Holy Night ... Adam

4
(a) Dance the Cachucha (from "The Gondoliers") ... Sullivan
(b) A Perfect Day ... Jacobs-Bond

5
The Viking Song ... Coleridge-Taylor

Class Play Committee Presents Novel Preview of Play at Special Assembly

For the past several years, when there is to be a play in the high school auditorium, it has been the custom to give the student body a short preview of the play in a special assembly. Last Wednesday morning the students enjoyed several short scenes from "Nothing But the Truth," the annual Junior-Senior Class play, which will be presented at the high school auditorium this evening at 8:15.

Nancy Hall of the Senior Class took charge of the assembly and introduced the speakers, the first of whom was Miss Collete Gaffney. Colette entertained the student body with several highly amusing and interesting personalities about the cast and the coach. Being a member of the cast, Colette could draw on a wealth of anecdote and incident in connection with the rehearsals, which revealed the fact that the drudgery of these necessary affairs is often lightened by unexpected bits of comedy.

Following Colette came Gerry Gaffney, pinch-hitting for Kirby Thwing, who was unable to present his report on the work of the committees for the play, on account of illness. Gerry did a fine job in making clear to the students the amount of real work which is required from the various committees in order to insure a successful production. He explained that Nancy Hall as the chairman of the general play committee and therefore at the head of all of them, had been working like a trojan with the close co-operation of Miss Knowlton, the faculty business advisor of the play. He described the successful efforts of Priscilla Morrill and Norma Godfrey to select girls to sell candy during the intermissions this evening and to send invitations to all the members of the School Committee.

The work of Kirby Thwing, Jean Wilson, Roger Downs and Marion Bancroft in securing advertisements for the programs was highly commended; and Dorothy Glidden's splendid work in giving the play full publicity throughout the school itself in the form of posters and bulletin board material was praised. It is due to her according to Gerry, that the whole school has become "play conscious."

In commenting on the work of the ticket sellers, Gerard explained the difficulty of their work and the fine success which they have achieved. This committee, under the leadership of Robert Thornton, consists of Robert Winton and Priscilla Danforth.

Finally a few words of praise were spoken of the work of the stage crew a very important cog in the development of a successful production. Under the leadership of Richard Elliott this committee consisting of Gretchen Cleaves, Eleanor Sharon and Nancy Jackson, have been hard at work from the start. Two other students were given credit for the significant, but often unappreciated parts they play, Jane Albro as the prompter and Betty Blake as make-up artist.

Then followed several cleverly selected glimpses of the play itself, which served to give the audience a taste of the excellent comedy in store for them this evening.

It looks like a big night tonight for the Junior-Senior Class play, "Nothing But the Truth."

Junior Senior Class Play Tonight

The Junior-Senior Class play has been an annual event in the high school for so long that it is almost impossible to tell the number of plays which have been produced. Tonight in the high school auditorium, this year's play, "Nothing But the Truth" is to be presented. A packed house is expected from the way in which tickets have been going the past two weeks. There are, however, a few good seats scattered through the hall which will probably be available at the box office. A dress rehearsal held Thursday afternoon was open to the grade school students and to those young people who unfortunately had previous engagements for this evening. An extremely satisfying profit was made on this rehearsal as the small sum of 25 cents was charged for admission.

The coach, Mr. John Hines has previously starred in this same production; therefore, he has been in an excellent position to direct this play. His enthusiasm and that of the cast has been such that one can predict nothing but success to them all.

The play itself is a refreshing comedy written by James Montgomery. Its title, "Nothing But the Truth," suggests only a small part of its entire plot. This evening at 8:15 o'clock the result of many long weeks of hard, co-operative labor will show itself to as many as the hall can hold.

Science Club Executive Board Met On Wednesday

When the Science Club Executive Board met on Wednesday afternoon, they made some excellent plans for the coming Science Club meeting. Mr. Alley, an active member of the International Society of Magicians, will perform some of his tricks for us; and he will explain as many as possible. Most of these feats of magic will have something to do with chemistry. Richard Leghorn, an amateur magician, will lend his services for the entertainment and education of the members. John Collins will do a fascinating experiment, using the new apparatus involving static electricity. George Manning has some interesting colored slides which he will project on a screen. Shogher Baghdoyan will demonstrate the making of slides for microscopic work and these will be shown by George.

Many suggestions have been received by the club, proposing various trips of educational and entertaining interests. On their list are the names of such places as Hood's Milk plant, Hood's Ice Cream plant, Lever Brothers Soap Manufacturing, General Electric plant, Forbes Lithographing Company an an iron foundry in which stoves are made. The club will probably visit all of these places sometime during the coming year. This is an opportunity which should not be missed by any member of the organization.

All members of the Science classes of the school and of the Science Club have access to some of the lectures given at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Many of our students have taken advantage of this form of non-compulsory education and we hope more will do so.

Sophomores Win Numerals—Undefeated and Unscored Upon

The Sophomore girls' field hockey team of Winchester High has emerged victorious from an inter-class tournament which has been going on for about a month. For this achievement the girls will receive numerals, 1937.

Under their able captain, Dorothy Bruno, right wing, they have, after playing each class twice, remained unbeaten and unscored upon. This may indicate a strong team, or that hockey material in other classes is lacking. Last year the juniors won the numerals, and it is interesting to note that their team this year, now as seniors, was the only team to hold the sophomores to a scoreless tie. Winning this year may make it possible for the Sophomores to duplicate their performance in their junior and senior years, as it stands to reason that they will improve with experience. This improvement, however, will undoubtedly bring some players into the varsity class, leaving few experienced players for the class.

Girls' Basketball Season Opens With a Bang

The girls' basketball season opened on Tuesday the 4th, with a preliminary practice for Freshmen and Sophomores at 2:30 and for Juniors and Seniors at 3:30, repeating this schedule on Thursday and the first varsity try-outs on Friday. This first try-out is specially important because it gives Miss Loysen an idea of just who and how many are going to come out for varsity, and there's nothing like another A on your card even though it is physical education.

Interest seems to wane with the years, as far as signing up for class basket ball goes. The Freshmen lead with 29 applicants, the Sophomores next with 28, Juniors 25 and Seniors 16.

There is a very swish and complete program made out already which includes everyone and this is how it reads at this point:

A. Inter gym class teams.
B. Inter gym class tournament
C. Inter class tournament
D. Varsity interschool games, ten of them
E. Four inter school class games

Football Seniors Meet at Mr. Mansfeld's Home

Last Wednesday evening, the night before the Woburn game, the 10 seniors on the football squad were invited to spend the evening at Coach Mansfield's home with the idea of forgetting all about football for an hour or two. Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Hayward were both present and helped to keep the boys from thinking about the big game by producing some entertaining reminiscences of their own experiences at college or elsewhere. Frank Porter was persuaded to read a dozen original verses, each one giving a Porter pen-picture of one of those present.

Frank's stuff was so good he was obliged to read them all twice. Before 10 a delightful if somewhat light (ask Josephson) luncheon was served by Mrs. Mansfield and the boys were sent home to bed. You know the game they played Thursday!

Pinafore Parts Chosen January Production Promised

"Pinafore" has finally been cast after much hesitation on the part of the casting director, Miss Bailey. This nautical operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore," or "The Lass That Loved a Sailor," by Gilbert and Sullivan, abridged by Grayson, is to be produced before the school some time in January.

The Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, H. B. C., is to be played and sung by our great tenor, Iver Olson. The captain of the ship is Graham Peterson, the boatswain is Robert Thornton. The two able seamen, Ralph Rachstraw and Dick Deadeye, are being portrayed by Richard Offutt and Clifford Cunningham, respectively. Cousin Hebe's part has been taken by Patricia Croughwell. Rebecca Jackson is Josephine, the captain's daughter. Janet Burns is Little Buttercup, a Portsmouth boat woman rosy and round.

It isn't too early to be making plans to attend this unusual performance. Through the columns of Highlights the Pinafore Committee will keep you informed as to interesting developments. Tell your folks at home about Pinafore.

ASH—POPE

Mr. and Mrs. Ruel P. Pope of Beverly have announced the marriage of their daughter, Rosemary to Mr. Donald Ash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Ash of 14 Fairview terrace. Mr. Ash in a senior at the University of Pennsylvania and is making his home with his bride in Philadelphia.

METCALF UNION NOTES

The Metcalf Union of the Unitarian Church presented its annual play and dance Saturday night in Metcalf Hall The play, "The Blue Bag," was coached by Mr. A. Russell Ellis and the cast included:

Chatanooga Elvira Livermore ... Mary Alice Mason
Anton Macdonald ... John Plumer
George Reynolds, his chauffeur ... William Roop
Andy Machlyn ... Katharine Blanchard
Obadiah Machlyn ... Richard Elliott
Enid Ross ... Alcyne Rogers
Alan Ross ... Robert Graham
Letty Long, an actress ... Margaret Plumer
Molly Keeper ... Frances Jane Hayden
Jim Keeper ... Russell Ellis
Bill Harrington, U. S. Agent ... Albert Gaum

The scenery was in charge of Robert Higgins and Richard Elliott and Betsy Higgins, Helen Pentz and Nancy Robinson looked after properties.

Mac made a bet. He wagered that he would be able to make an impression on the first girl that passed. Proof of his success was to be a blue hand bag which she was carrying, so he trailed her to a country hotel and there found three girls all with identical blue handbags. Not only that, but there was a detective snooping around after one of the bags, believing it to contain stolen jewels. Meanwhile George, Mac's chauffeur, had caught a bad case of love and an eloping couple was having difficulty finding a minister to marry them.

Chatanooga, the maid at the hotel, was ably played by Mary Alice Mason and "Billy" Roop was the regular, wise cracking chauffeur who succumbed to her charms. Anton Macdonald, John Plumer, in real life, never did win his bet, but he did do a good job in helping his chauffeur propose to "Chatty," Andy Machlyn played by Katharine Blanchard was a regular battle axe and Richard Elliott, Obadiah Machlyn, her husband, was the poor hen pecked husband. Alcyne Rogers and Robert Graham were most attractive as the eloping couple. Margaret Plumer as Letty Long, was the sophisticated actress who was engaged to "Bill" Harrington, a real detective, acted by Albert Gaum. Molly and Jim Keeper, Francis Jane Hayden and Russell Ellis, not only acted, but looked the part of the crooks.

The dance began immediately after the play with "Dick" Ferguson's orchestra playing a lot of new rhythms.

Sunday evening, Mr. Samuel Symmes spoke to the Metcalf Union about "Old Winchester." His tales of the old center, Symmes Corner, the trains, etc. were very interesting to those of us who know Winchester only as it is today. Refreshments were served and it was pleasing to see so many young people present.

MOUNT HOLYOKE BOOK TALKS

On Nov. 27 in Mystic School hall, Mrs. Alice Dixon Bond reviewed "The Story of My Life" by Marie of Roumania in a manner that completely carried away her listeners. By her careful selection of passages and by her dramatic reading she gave a very fine idea of the thrilling and graphic descriptions of events and emotions with which the book is filled. On Dec. 4, Mrs. Bond talked on books to give for Christmas. She made it very clear what books are really important to own and what books would afford pleasure to a serious reader or even a "high brow," to a man, to a person of old Boston, or to a person who wishes just entertainment but is made the better for it by a theme which is perhaps light but well done. Among the non-fiction books she mentioned three on Russia: Escape from the Soviet; I Worked for the Soviet, by Countess Tolstoy; and Sandrick, which she pronounced very charming and worthy of giving to your own children. She mentioned the Mother's Encyclopedia, compiled by the Parent's Magazine, as being a valuable asset in a household. She talked a little of children's books and of the importance of giving them the right kind even in their early days. In fact she seemed to know the whole subject from A to Z. Next time, Dec. 18, she is to review in part "Life A La Henri," written by the French chef Henri and full of an interesting philosophy of life; Diamond Jim by P. Morell; and the Age of Confidence by Henry Seidel Canby, a story of the nineties.

MYSTIC SCHOOL BRIDGE PARTY

The Mystic Chapter of the Winchester Mothers' Association is justly proud of the financial success of its recent bridge party. Fifty tables of cards filled the assembly hall of the school, which was attractively decorated with Christmas trees and gayly wrapped prizes.

Much credit is due the committee in charge for the splendid response from mothers and friends. The proceeds from this affair represent the Mystic Chapter's share of the high school scholarship fund.

Mrs. Percy Bugbee was the general chairman, with Mrs. Arthur Jackson her chief assistant. Others on the committee were Mrs. William Cusack, Mrs. Clark Collins, Mrs. Frank Booth, Mrs. Carl Eaton, Mrs. Warren Goddu, Mrs. Frank Gunby, Mrs. Lester Walker, Mrs. William Kugler, Mrs. Carlisle Burton and Mrs. Harold Dodds.

The chairman of the ticket committee, Mrs. Kenneth Hall was ably assisted by a mother from each grade: Mrs. Richard Parkhurst, kindergarten; Mrs. Lorimer Slocum, first grade; Mrs. Guy Livingstone, second grade; Mrs. Philip O'Rourke, third grade; Mrs. Edward McDevitt, fourth grade; Mrs. William Martens, fifth grade; and Mrs. Gordon Robb, sixth grade.

Other members of the committee were Mrs. Walter Keyes, Mrs. Robinson Abbott, Mrs. Denton Randall, Mrs. Jameson Slocum, Mrs. R. H. B. Smith, Mrs. Forrest Pitman and Mrs. John Tarbell.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club was held in Waterfield Hall on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 5 with the President, Mrs. C. Harold Smith in the chair. Mrs. Smith gave a short informal talk, speaking of the election past and thanking all, who had worked so faithfully. She spoke especially of the praise expressed by the Republican State Committee for the work done in Winchester. In closing Mrs. Smith urged that all women take a more intelligent interest in state and national problems and called upon Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson, chairman of the Education Committee to explain some of the problems with which the nation is now confronted.

Mrs. Thompson, gave a short but comprehensive talk on Old Age Pension and Social Insurance, telling of the survey along these lines of the President's Committee on Economic Security and pointing out the issues put forth both for and against these measures. She also dealt briefly with Health Insurance, Mother's Pension and the Townsend Plan. Mrs. Thompson announced that there would be a meeting of the Education Committee on Friday, Dec. 14 at 2:30 p. m. at the home of the president, 8 Francis circuit.

Mrs. Smith then introduced Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., guest speaker for the afternoon, who had for his subject, "Uniform Laws by Interstate Agreement."

Senator Parkman gave a very instructive talk on the purpose of compacts between states and told of the work that must be done by committees from different states before a compact is ready to be presented to the State Legislatures. By citing incidents, he showed how compacts should prove vital and effective forces for solving interstate problems. A question period, following Senator Parkman's talk was greatly enjoyed and proved highly enlightening on several points.

A pleasant social hour followed with refreshments served by the social committee, Mrs. F. W. Aseltine, chairman and with Mrs. Ashley K. Hayden and Mrs. Sylvester Taylor, acting as hostesses. The tables gay and attractive with their Christmas colors lent a festive holiday atmosphere to the gathering.

OUR OFFER

In accordance with our usual custom, all new subscriptions to the STAR received up to the first of the year, will be given a January first dating. This offer applies only to new subscribers who have not previously taken this paper. Subscribe now and receive the remaining issues this year free.

CHRISTMAS ISSUE DEC. 14

The Star will print its customary Christmas issue this year on Friday, Dec. 14. Special holiday features and Christmas advertising by Winchester merchants, together with a colored cover in keeping with the season, will make an outstanding issue for the year. Advertisers are urged to prepare their listings for this issue at once.

WILL YOU HELP?

The Citizens' Community Relief Committee has decided not to send out Christmas dinners this year. They will, however, if possible, follow the plan which worked so successfully a year ago. Namely—to send to needy families money orders in amounts from one dollar ($1.00) up. These orders will be redeemed for merchandise by any merchant in Winchester for the amount of their face value.

Would you like to have a part in this way of bringing a little happiness into some home at this holiday season? If so please send your check, even if it has to be smaller than usual, to Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, 8 Black Horse terrace, Winchester, Mass.

CALUMET

CALUMET NOTES

Calumet New Years' parties have for years been outstanding among the town's social functions of the winter season. Already plans are being made for this year's party, and President Wallace Flanders says it's going to be one of the best, if not the very best ever.

Dancing is going to begin Monday evening, Dec. 31, and a fine orchestra is being lined up to provide that sort of tantalizing syncopation that makes every dance shout "encore." Supper at midnight and if you've been in on one of Fred's New Year's suppers we need tell you no more. Favors for every one of course, and entertainment, of which more complete information will be furnished later.

Plan now to welcome 1935 at the Calumet Club. Good music, good food, good friends and a good time!

BAPTIST CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

What would you do with a fortune of $100,000? The young people of the Baptist Church will discuss this question at their regular meeting next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The members of the service commission will have definite suggestions as to how the fortune might be used for missions.

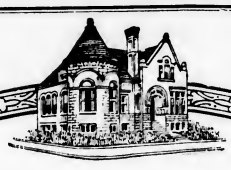

A good number turned out last Sunday and we had an interesting visit with some of the people of the Trans-Jordan and Palestine. Everyone of high school age and over is invited to come this Sunday evening to hear what the Christian Endeavor might do if it received a fortune. A social hour will follow the service.

CALUMET CONTRACT

Winners of this week's Tuesday evening duplicate contract tournament at the Calumet Club have been announced as follows:

North and South
1. Mrs. Helen L. Fessenden and Mrs. George Leghorn
2. Mrs. Wallace F. Flanders and Mrs. [illegible]

East and West

NEW ARLINGTON-BELMONT PARISH NAMED

The new Arlington-Belmont Roman Catholic Parish, of which Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, former assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, is pastor, has been named St. Jerome's by His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell.

Since his appointment as head of the new parish early in the fall, Father Fitzgibbons has been very active in planning for the erection of a church, and now expects to complete the new structure by Feb. 10.

Among the recent social functions given in aid of the new parish were a monster turkey bridge held previous to Thanksgiving and a minstrel show given two nights last week-end. The cast of the minstrels were guests of Father Fitzgibbons Tuesday evening at a banquet given at Rosebud Garden in Arlington.

WANTS BASKETBALL GAMES

The Star has been asked to announce that the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum basketball team of St. Patrick's Parish in Lowell would like to arrange dates with leading teams in this section, having been undefeated in the state's fastest semi-pro ranks last year. Teams interested in meeting the Lowell club may communiuete with Manager Edward J. Trainor at 378 Suffolk street, that city.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Winchester National Bank will be held in its banking rooms in Winchester, Mass., on Tuesday, Jan. 8, 1935 at 4:30 p. m. to elect directors for the ensuing year and to transact any other business that may legally come before it.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

The Ladies' Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church is to be congratulated on the very successful and beautifully arranged Christmas Bazaar which was held on Tuesday. Mrs. George Hale Reed headed the committee with Mrs. H. K. Barrows. The delicious luncheon was in charge of Mrs. Edward Kenerson and Mrs. Theodore Godwin, tea in charge of Mrs. Wade Grindle and the beautiful and unusual decorations the work of Mrs. Merton Ober.

The various tables were attractively and completely equipped; the bargain counter had all kinds of things from scales to floor lamps; the flower table was the center of attraction with its unique arrangements and stunning new corsages; unusually beautiful bags were among other things on the gift table; useful and inexpensive articles on the household table. The wrappings table offered many new ideas for gift coverings; delicious candy was made to order at that table; the food table had tempting suggestions, the baby table held adorable wee things. The parcel post table offered inexpensive packages; the doll table had an irresistable collection; and the fathers' and mothers' table solved the problem for young shoppers.

Miss Marjorie Bain of Cambridge exhibited a variety of handwork, and a magician delighted scores of youngsters in the afternoon.

The ladies in charge of the tables and others who assisted were: Mrs. Charles Newell, Mrs. Daniel Kelley, Mrs. F. H. Norton, Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge, Mrs. George Goddu, Mrs. George Apsey, Mrs. James Livingston, Mrs. John Kenerson, Mrs. Remington Plumer, Mrs. Stephen Neiley, Miss M. Alice Mason, Mrs. Clarence Russell, Mrs. Warren Goddu, Mrs. Harold Farnsworth, Mrs. Charles Duteh, Mrs. Richard Derby and Mrs. Stetson Baylies.

CRONIN—DEASY

Miss Mary J. Deasy had her cousin, Miss A. Catherine Murphy of this town as her attendant at her marriage on Thanksgiving eve in St. Mary's Church to John J. Cronin of Somerville. Rev. Fr. Joseph E. McGoldrick performed the ceremony at 5:30 o'clock and a cousin of the bride Rev. Fr. Joseph Collins of Springfield was seated in the sanctuary.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, John J. Dalton of Stoneham and wore a princess gown of white satin with a veil of tulle and orange blossoms. Her flowers were bride's roses.

Her attendant wore coral transparent velvet with brown hat and slippers and carried talisman roses. Mr. Cronin had for his best man his cousin, John Sullivan of Boston.

After the ceremony the bridal party and guests went on to Somerville where a reception was held in Knights of Columbus Hall. Upon their return from a wedding journey to Atlantic City, Mr. Cronin and his bride will make their home at 58 Glenwood road in Somerville.

MISSION UNION MEETING

The regular meeting of the Mission Union of the First Congregational Church will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 11 from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30. Those bringing guests please notify Mrs. George French, Win. 1604-W or Mrs. Harry Locke, Win. 2474-M. The speaker of the afternoon will be Rev. Walter B. Wiley of Warash, Turkey, who for a period of ten years has opened his house for social gatherings in an effort to reach the youth, and interest the young men of the town in clean living and clean sport.

He graduated from Dartmouth College in 1918 and taught at Beirut University in Syria. His subject will be, "Pioneer Social Work in Turkey."

EXTENSION SERVICE

There will be no December meeting of the Winchester Highlands Unit of the Middlesex County Extension Service. The next meeting will probably be Jan. 8. Further details before that date.

STANLEY WOODWARD EXHIBITS AT WINCHESTER LIBRARY GALLERY

Under the auspices of the Winchester Art Association, Stanley Woodward, well known Boston marine painter, is exhibiting a score or more oils and water colors.

On Sunday afternoon, members of the Association and their friends met the artist at a delightful tea in the Winchester Library gallery, and were delighted and impressed with a private view of his beautiful canvases.

This exhibition marks the first time that Mr. Woodward's work has been shown locally, and he has graciously honored the Association with a group of pictures comprising all of his latest canvases, many of which have never been publicly shown before.

Those who have followed the career of Mr. Woodward through his yearly Boston exhibitions and the National shows have come to think of him as strictly a marine painter, and will be astonished at the group of his landscapes finished last summer spent in the region of Shelbourne Falls. It appears to the writer that he not only has shown a marked advance in his art, but by his versatility in subjects, given evidence of his broadening powers.

In the painting which the artist has entitled "And Life Goes On" he evidently found a subject that appealed to him. An old Colonial house which through age has finally come to a stage of rack and ruin is pictured in all its visible decay. Similarly as Mr. Woodward appears to penetrate and portray the very spirit and power of the sea, so here in the old tumbled down house, he has captured the essence of the sturdiness and quaint loveliness of the finely built New England houses of our ancestors. Note particularly in this canvas the study of perspective which the artist has so ably rendered. It reveals as does nothing else, that his art is founded on sound craftsmanship.

Naturally, the artist has included in the exhibition, one of his moonlights for which he is so well known, "Light on the Sea." It was painted at Ogunquit, Me., where for many seasons, Mr. Woodward had his summer studio. The silvery quality of the moon rays on the rippling water has long been one of the most marked characteristics of his marine paintings.

Also lent for this exhibition is a splendid nude which came second in votes as the most popular painting in the annual exhibition of contemporary paintings held at Jordan & Marsh.

Besides the large canvases, there are water colors, all marines, and a dozen small sketches, painted directly from nature, that go to make a well versified exhibition.

All are students and everyone who enjoys paintings beautifully executed should not fail to take in this exhibition and the Association should be congratulated in securing it.

WINCHESTER AUXILIARY, M. S. P. C. A. NOTES

Christmas for Horses

Christmas for horses will be celebrated this year on Saturday, Dec. 22 at the wharves and market places of the City of Boston. The response last year from the parents and the boys and girls of our town was so gratifying, that we are again asking them to fill a "Christmas Bag" with carrots or apples, and leave at the office of Kelley & Hawes, Railroad avenue, not later than Wednesday, Dec. 19. Mr. Kelley has very kindly consented to take our gifts to 180 Longwood avenue.

As an Auxiliary we cannot allow Christmas to pass without making mention of the interest Mr. Hawes always manifested in our work as he co-operated with Mr. Kelley in carrying the grain and vegetables to the hospital in preparation for Christmas. Two of our little friends, Norma and John, have already brought an offering for the poor horses, and we feel sure that many in our town will help in this worthy cause. Please bear in mind that the bags must be at Mr. Kelley's office not later than Wednesday, Dec. 19 as the truck will leave early Thursday morning for Boston.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

President's Day

President's Day, next Monday, Dec. 10, is to be a very beautiful affair. The reception begins at 1:30, the business meeting is at 2:30, and the program follows immediately, with tea and a social hour to complete the afternoon.

During the reception, from 1:30 to 2:30, there will be music by the Winchester Trio, Helena Studzinska Sibley, violin; Vida Rhode, cello; and Mary Ranton Witham, piano.

There will be many distinguished guests of honor, including past presidents of the Fortnightly, presidents and other officers of many neighboring clubs, Mrs. Harry S. MacNish, 8th District director, and the four highest officers of the Massachusetts State Federation—Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, president; Mrs. John H. Kimball, first vice president; Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth of the Fortnightly, second vice president; and Mrs. David Westcott, third vice president. Mrs. Jesse S. Wilson, president of the Fortnightly, will take great pleasure in welcoming these guests of the club, and many other officers and members of the Fortnightly are co-operating to make the afternoon a beautiful and colorful as well as an interesting event.

The program will consist of a talk by Melinda Alexander on "What Are the People Thinking," and music by Raymond Eaton, baritone soloist, accompanied by Mary Ranton Witham.

The meeting will be held in Fortnightly Headquarters, Waterfield Hall, corner of Church and Common streets, on Monday, Dec. 10.

Health Conference Wednesday, Dec. 12

There will be an all day conference at the Mothers' Club of Medford Hillside next Wednesday beginning at 10:30. Luncheon will be served at 12:15. This is one of the 8th District conferences under the general direction of Mrs. Harry S. MacNish, 8th District director, and all Fortnightly members who are interested in the Health Institutes will be glad to attend this one in their own district. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth who is an advisor in the Federation Health Department.

The principal speaker will be Dr. Louise M. Leverone, chairman of the Division of Public Health, who is an authority on child health. She will have charge of the day's program. The place of meeting is the Hillside Universalist Church, corner of Boston avenue and Winthrop street, Medford Hillside. The president of the hostess club is Mrs. Benjamin H. Littlefield, and the luncheon chairman is Mrs. W. F. Jones, 37 Capen street, Medford Hillside, tel. Mystic 0408-W. Reservations for luncheon must be made not later than Monday, Dec. 10.

Literature Meeting

The Literature Group met Monday afternoon in regular session for the first of a series of three period programs in the season's study of conversation which has been either frozen into written form or made into beautiful pictures. The classical age was under consideration, especially the talk of Socrates as it was preserved by the skill and imagination of Plato whose dialogues show Socrates in conversation with men of his day on a great variety of topics. Mrs. Hodge gave a sketch of the background of those days in Athens and much of the picture showed men and manners peculiar to that time. Mrs. Swanson read, with comments, several bits of gossip and familiar talk from Greek plays and tales followed by selections from Santayana's Dialogues in Limbo, choosing conversations between the modern young man still living upon the earth and Socrates in Limbo. The arguments over government, changing standards, friendships and other very human topics show a marvelous likeness between old Greeks and new men. Cicero, Lucian and others who used the dialogue form to good purpose lead attention to writers, even down to today, who imagine conversations, among the Greeks and Romans or use the trick of bringing together a Greek and a modern for exchange of ideas.

The Fortnightly Literature program for 1884 is recorded as discussing Plato. No record of details could be found but it is quite possible that 50 years ago the study of Greek philosophy would be quite unlike this rather frivolous concern with the style and content of talk more than 2000 years old.

Mrs. Paul suggested reading for the January meeting which will look at the 18th century of Boswell's Dr. Johnson, Benjamin Franklin and their contemporaries who devoted their lives to society and conversation. We shall listen in to Coleridge, Lamb and Landor and to some good talkers of the time between Socrates and Johnson.

BIKE PARADE

A bike parade sponsored by the Strand Theatre, Malden and the Quaker Oats Company, in connection with the showing of Joe E. Brown in "Six Day Bike Rider" which opens at the Strand on Saturday is open to children between the ages of 10 and 16 years. Each boy or girl who enters will receive free a Joe E. Brown "Funny Book" and a membership button in the Joe E. Brown Bike Club. In addition three prizes will be given. First and second prize for the most original Quaker costume. Third prize for the best decorated bike. The bike parade starts at 12:30 p. m. on Saturday, Dec. 8. Parade forms at the Main street entrance of the Granada parking space. Entry blanks may be obtained at the Winchester Star Office.

GAVE THANKSGIVING DINNERS

Mr. Fortis Antipas, proprietor of the Splendid Lunch on Main street in the center served dinners gratis at his establishment on Thanksgiving Day to between 25 and 30 needy men who otherwise might well have been hungry and further discouraged on the holiday. It is not the first time Mr. Antipas has assisted in this way and it may be of interest that the Star's information came from a public-spirited resident who felt that the restaurant proprietor's generosity is deserving of notice.

To assist you do your Christmas shopping, the Fireside Gift Shoppe in Woburn is open every evening till Xmas.

SUPPER AND DANCING PARTY

Mary Jane Dickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dickson of Oxford street, entertained several out-of-town and Winchester friends with a delightful dancing and supper party last Saturday evening. SPORT JOTTINGS

Now that the football season is over the Star is contemplating an innovation for next season which should ensure an undefeated season for the local high school eleven. We are surprised that we haven't thought of it before and probably those clubs who have gone through their schedules unbeaten have done so because they have had the assistance of what we have in mind. Next year we are going to arrange a football forum, to be held after the games, at which the "sidewalk quarterbacks," all of whom know so much more football than the coach hired to instruct the players, can meet with the team, point out the errors made and suggest ways of improving plays which are perfectly apparent to them, but which the coaches for one reason or another can't seem to grasp. Particularly in this way can the coaches learn who should have been played the previous Saturday. These forums will be held after the games and not before. You never can find a "sidewalk quarterback" the day before a game!

Among the former Winchester captains who saw the locals play Woburn on turkey day was "Joe" Flaherty, leader of the first Winchester team to compete in the Middlesex League. "Joe" has just finished his second year as a regular lineman at Montpelier Academy and looked as big as a house.

Down at Bowdoin, "Dick" Barksdale played regularly with the college junior varsity at halfback while "Bob" Godfrey and "Dave" Fitts played end and back respectively on the yearling eleven.

Sturdy little "Charlie Mugus" Tranfaglia has played a regular guard and tackle with the Norwich varsity all year, quite a record for a sophomore youngster of his inches in the college ranks.

Walter Josephson, Kirby Thwing, Ivor Olson of this year's Winchester High School football team and Dwight Woodford of last year's squad played for Middlesex Chapter of DeMolay in the annual benefit game with Melrose Chapter at the new Reading athletic field last Saturday afternoon.

Coach Wendell Mansfield and several of his high school basketball players attended the rules interpretation game at Harvard last Friday evening between Woburn and Quincy High Schools. While there Coach Mansfield chatted with one of the Woburn High football linemen who had some nice things to say about the charge of Winchester's converted guard, "Bob" Graham.

For the benefit of those who wondered why Woburn didn't try a field goal when nine yards short of the local goal in the closing minutes of Thanksgiving Day's game, the Star has been told that Coach McDonough of the Tanners had no kicker he cared to trust with the assignment. A blocked kick might have turned out very badly.

Several Winchester girls have been playing field hockey in the college ranks this season. Mabel Tompkins, captaining Wheaton, Louisa Williams playing for Vassar, Elizabeth Packer, for Radcliffe and Loretta Curleton, for Wellesley.

Mary "Susie" Cutter, who is also at Jackson, was unable to play hockey this fall, her pre-medical course demanding all of her time.

Coach Addie Loysen, Winchester High School's field hockey coach continues to rank with the best playing the game in this country. At the conclusion of the National Field Hockey tournament, held the latter part of last week at Newton, she was chosen a member of the All America reserve eleven, but when the All America and Reserve elevens met last Saturday, she was moved up to the first team, replacing Kitty Weiner at center forward. Miss Loysen made her presence felt in the game by scoring one of her team's two goals. It is the second consecutive year that the local mentor has won All America honors.

Winchester girls who participated in the inter-scholastic hockey matches, held last Saturday morning at Newton field in connection with the National field hockey tournament were Dorothy Glidden, Pauline Rallo and Gretchen Cleaves of the Winchester High varsity eleven and Gene MacDonald of Brimmer School, who played for the local high school last year.

"Hennie" Knowlton's New Hampton Prep eleven has just concluded a very successful season, the second under the tutelage of the former Winchester High and Springfield College halfback. The New Hampton team lost only to Tilton this year.

"Andy" Lentine, captain of the New Hampshire State freshman eleven, states that the Boston University freshman eleven is one of the heaviest teams he ever saw.

The Star has been informed by "Doc" Blackler that both he and that former baseball star, "Kip" Priest have forsaken Badminton for ping pong. "It's a great game," says "Doc!"

THANKSGIVING SURPRISE

"Dick" Towner was pleasantly surprised upon his arrival home from Exeter last Wednesday evening for the Thanksgiving recess when his father, Mr. Clifford Towner of Evwell road, invited a group of his son's friends for dinner and to meet "Dick's" room-mate, "Bud" Lister of Rye, N. Y. After dinner the young people went on to Malden where they attended a "movie." In the party were the Misses Helen Pentz, Dorothy Lybeck, Margaret Heath, Frances Jane Hayden, Richard Peirce and George Hebb.

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR FRED RAYMOND COTTLE

Full military honors were accorded Fred Raymond Cottle, world war veteran, at his funeral last Wednesday afternoon in the Kelley & Hawes chapel, at which Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiated.

A delegation of Legionnaires from Winchester Post, under Comdr. John F. McCarthy, attended the services, and flags on the common and public buildings were at half staff. Bearers were Lowell Bond, Lowell R. Smith, Chesley Whitten, W. Allan Wilde and Loring P. Gleason, all of Winchester; and Edward Hauson of Ayer.

At the grave in Wildwood Cemetery a firing squad from Fort Banks fired three volleys and taps was blown by the Fort Banks bugler.

Mr. Cottle, who formerly made his home on Penn road in Winchester, died Sunday, Nov. 25, at Lambert's Cove on Vineyard Haven, where he had been living for the past two years.

He was a native of Woburn, but spent much of his life in Winchester, his parents having lived for many years on Sheffield road. He leaves his wife, the former Lemira Frances West of Edgartown; two daughters, Barbara and Jane; and a son, Edmund Charles Cottle.

TO GIVE MONEY ORDERS AT CHRISTMAS

The Citizens' Community Relief Committee is again this year to give to the town's needy families money orders from $1 up, according to need, instead of dinners, this plan having worked out well a year ago.

The money orders are redeemable for their face value in merchandise at any Winchester store, and make it possible for recipients to secure food or other necessities, according to their preference.

All are asked to assist the committee in its efforts to bring joy to the needy of the community at Christmas, and any contribution, however, small, will be gratefully accepted. Send checks or cash to the treasurer, Mrs. Harry C. Sauborn, at 8 Black Horse terrace. Fred H. Scholl is chairman of the Community Relief Committee, and Miss Nellie M. Sullivan, a member of the town's Board of Public Welfare, is secretary.

WINTON CLUB WELCOMES NEW MEMBERS

The Winton Club held its December meeting at the home of Mrs. Clinton Mason on Highland avenue Monday. Previous to the meeting a delightful luncheon was given at the home of Mrs. Paul Phenix on Everett avenue in honor of the newly elected members of the club: Mrs. Percy Bugbee, Mrs. John Kenerson, Mrs. Edwin R. Rosene, Mrs. Ben R. Schneider, Mrs. T. Price Wilson and Mrs. Charles H. Woolley. Other guests included Mrs. Donald Crowell Mrs. Howard A. Morrison, Mrs. Christopher L. Billman, Mrs. Charles N. Eaton, Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr., Mrs. Edward V. French, Miss Adelaide Homer, Mrs. Stephen B. Neiley, Mrs. Lucius Smith, Mrs. Lawrence S. Martin, Mrs. Robert S. Clark, Mrs. Henry K. Spencer, Mrs. Erastus B. Badger, Mrs. Marshall J. England, and Mrs. Clark W. Collins.

Plans are already underway for the Winton Club cabaret which is to be held in February, an annual event of much social importance given for the benefit of the Winchester Hospital. Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr. is chairman of the cabaret committee.

DR. WILLIAM F. SLACK

Dr. William F. Slack, a former resident of Winchester and for more than half a century a practicing dentist, died Friday, Nov. 30, at his home on East Lake street in Arlington. He had been in poor health following a fall down the subway stairs in Boston in 1930.

Dr. Slack was born July 24, 1851, in Hopkinton, N. H. For more than 50 years he practised dentistry in New Hampshire, finally leaving Manchester in that state to take up residence in Winchester. For several years he practised here, living on Main street near the high school. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jane (Brackett) Slack; a son, Harold J. Slack of Winchester, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the late residence. Interment was in Northwood, N. H.

WON RADIO CONTEST

Albert Olivadoti of 11 Richardson street was the winner of the radio contest, which closed Thanksgiving eve, at the Park Radio Company's shop and display rooms on Main street. He guessed 2251 as the number of radio tubes in the radio company's display room window and when the tubes were counted was found to be the nearest one of the way, the correct figures being 2254. There were several close guesses, one being 2250 and another 2258.

The winner received a hand-some Sparton console model radio, complete with nine tubes. The set was delivered to him on Friday.

MISS CLARA L. SMITH

Miss Clara L. Smith, who made her home with Mrs. E. L. Brown at 11 Sheffield road died Sunday morning, Dec. 2, at the age of 78. She was a native of Northfield, Vt., and before coming to Winchester 20 years ago had been a resident of Lawrence. She was a member of the Winchester Unitarian Church and is survived only by two cousins, Mrs. Carl Forest of East Bridgewater and Miss Mary Chapman of Concord, N. C.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the Allen Funeral Chapel in Lawrence with Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiating. Interment was in Bellevue Cemetery, Lawrence.

DINNER DANCE AT COUNTRY CLUB

A very wet and windy evening did not prevent many members and their guests from attending the dinner-dance at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday. An excellent dinner was served to about 100 persons and Mel Von's orchestra provided irresistible dance music.

At one table were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Chamberlin, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Ordway, Mr. and Mrs. George Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Billman, Mr. and Mrs. James Russell and Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott.

With Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred McKenzie were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Chick, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bruno, Mr. and Mrs. Kingman Cuss and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Geerts.

Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Badger were with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Belcher. Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Eaton and Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Rosene.

Another group included Mr. and Mrs. Earle Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. P. Stewart Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pond, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Peters and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bonbank of Wayland.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Bisselle of New York, who spent the holiday week-end with Mrs. Bisselle's brother, Dr. George Marcs, were with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Richter, Mr. and Mrs. Langley Beardsley, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Jennings and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Martin.

Another group included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Whorf, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Cary, Mr. and Mrs. John Penniman, Dr. and Mrs. William Davis, Mrs. Horace Butler, Miss Adelaide Homer, Mr. Langdon Coffin of Newton and Mr. Walter Carr of Wellesley.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Ober were with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bugbee, Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bugbee, and Mr. and Mrs. Harris Richardson.

Miss Alice Rogers gave a dinner at her home on Warren street, her guests including Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Smiley, Miss Helen Dyer and Mr. Albert Daloz of Hingham, Dr. Gove and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart of this town.

Mr. and Mrs. George Donald-son also had dinner guests at their home on Fletcher street: Miss Joan Gleason, Miss Barbara Wentworth, Miss Ruth Purcell, Mr. LeRoy Zang, Mr. Robert Jennings and Mr. Philip Boone.

Among those dancing at the club later in the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Loring Gleason, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woolley, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr., Mr. Richard Fenner, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Neiley, Mr. and Mrs. F. Arthur Tutein, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sears Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGrath, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pyle, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Ordway and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eaton.

MAN INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Ralph Vozzella, 12, of 89 Swanton street, was painfully injured last Saturday morning when he was struck by an automobile while running for a south bound bus on upper Main street near Connors' store.

The operator of the machine, James Gallagher, Jr., of 5 Vernon street, Woburn, told the police that he was driving south on Main street near Water street when Vozzella ran from the east side of the street in back on an Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway bus, which had stopped in front of Connors' store, to catch the south bound bus.

In doing so, Gallagher said, Vozzella ran into the left side of his machine. He took the injured man to the office of Dr. Richard Sheehy, being assisted by Albert J. O'Donnell of 158 Montvale avenue, Woburn, who was riding in the automobile with Gallagher. Dr. Sheehy treated Vozzella for injuries to his head, shoulder and elbow, after which he was taken home by Gallagher.

DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Snell of 25 Fletcher street entertained at dinner Thanksgiving eve in honor of their house guests, Miss Barbara Van Wie of New York and Wellesley College, and Mr. Harry Meyers of Columbus, Ohio and Boston University. The other guests included Miss Eugenia Smith and her room mate at Wellesley, Miss Mary Helen Jones of Oklahoma, Miss Virginia Smith, who was home from Connecticut College, Mr. William Allen and his room mate at Harvard, Mr. Charles Putnam of Dayton, Ohio, and Mr. Bronson Garner of Winchester. After dinner the young people went on to the Statler to dance.

DANGERS OF CARELESS DISHWASHING!

Health Authorities Find Dishes are Major Carriers of Disease Germs. Health and Sanitation Demand Lukewarm water and Bacteria Laden Dishrag be Banished from the Home!

New General Electric Dishwasher Washes all the Dishes Hygienically Clean in less than 5 minutes

The head of one of the greatest life insurance companies in the world states: "Hand dishwashing has a direct bearing on our death rate." In one test covering a group of 31,111 persons it was found there were 324 influenza cases per 1000 among those eating from hand washed dishes, and only 108 cases per 1000 among those eating from machine washed dishes.

Eating utensils washed by hand with lukewarm water may appear clean to the naked eye and yet under a microscope will show they carry myriads of bacteria and germs. Careless dishwashing is a serious menace to health. Tests and investigations have so emphasized the dangers of hand dishwashing that public health authorities now recommend the use of dishwashing machines—even compelling their use in public eating places in many localities.

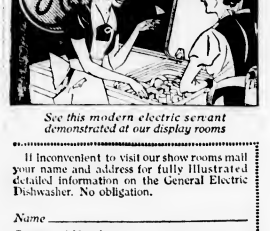

What is true in public eating places is true in your own kitchen—bacteria and germs are not destroyed by lukewarm water.

The General Electric Dishwasher will guard and protect the health of your loved ones. It washes all the dishes, chinaware, glassware, silverware, pots, pans and even the hard to clean utensils such as mixers, graters, etc. There is no unsanitary dish rag. Dishes are placed in the resilient rubber trays of the G-E as easily as being stacked at a desk—the cover is closed, the magic control is turned, and in less than 5 minutes the job is done.

Hygienically Cleaned

Over every dish a steaming, scalding spray of soapy water is forced—water far hotter than human hands can touch. Dishes are then rinsed and are not only visibly clean, but hygienically clean.

No Breakage—No Chipping Costs less than 1c a Day to Operate

The Winchester Art Association is doing a work of real cultural value to the community in providing the splendid exhibits held from time to time in the fine art gallery of the Public Library. The current exhibition of paintings by Stanley Woodward is one of the best yet to be held now, and it it is to be hoped that the townspeople generally will visit and enjoy it during the present month. It is not necessary to be an artist to be identified with and derive benefit from the Art Association. Many members belong because they enjoy the better picture and sculpture and wish to assist the Association in its effort to bring such gems of art as are included in the present exhibit to Winchester. The larger the membership of the Association, the greater its prestige and the easier it will become to establish contacts with the better known artists. There must be many more in Winchester who should be enrolled in the Association's ranks.

HOW COME?

Well—read what you will, it looks as though the NRA is here to stay! At any rate, we received this week a sample little five page letter entitled "Notice of Opportunity to be Heard," citing our code expenses as totaling $634,616 and setting our individual contribution as $36.25—so near as we can reckon. If there was something in this contribution, other than less business, higher taxes and a general upheaval of our business, it might have a sweeter coating, but under present conditions it is very bitter. We would like a junket to Washington to be "heard," but we are trying to cut expenses (without any success whatever) and we know how far our voice would carry in any hearing, so that's out. Apparently if we wish to continue in business we will be called upon to pay this assessment, and if such a tax does not come under the head of regimentation we would like to call it to Mussolini's attention, notwithstanding the surplus in the Post Office Department and the very favorable outlook for an upward swing.

Too many houses, so thousands sleep on park benches.

Too many hours of labor, so in order to earn more we work less.

Too much wheat and cotton, so millions of humans go hungry and naked.

Too much meat, so the farmer is paid to kill his brood sows and destroy his cattle.

Too much electricity and too many manufactured products, so the Government spends millions to build large dams to produce more power so that the output of our factories can be increased.

Too large an output from farms, so the surplus water from the power dams will be used to irrigate now useless lands so that more commodities can be plowed under and more money distributed to more farmers.

Too many private stockholders in public service corporations, and too large a proportion of the funds of savings banks and insurance companies are invested in these corporations, so millions of dollars of Federal money are offered towns and cities to induce them to rain local utility plants and destroy the investments of thrifty citizens.

And now we hear, through the newspapers, of the great truce between big business and the Administration; of the assurance of a "swing to the right;" of smoothing over of all difficulties between capital and labor; of the joyful news that experimenting is to be abandoned; that everything is lovely!

How do they get that way? We fail to see any change. Why this cry of sudden turning from the left to the right? Where is it?

We read that the President inspects the "power laboratory" in Tennessee, and says: "What you are doing here is going to be copied in every state in the Union before we get through." We read that utility companies are "stirred" by the President's "power" speeches, and to offset that we read that Donald Richberg fervently attacks the problems of consolidating the new armistice between business and the Administration.

If there has been a war between business and the Administration it has been long decried, and all the talk we have read of business co-operation must have been bunk. It is news indeed, to learn that we have been experiencing a war between government and business! We are surprised to learn that business has now suddenly decided to work with the government instead of against it!

The whole trouble, apparently, has been that business, instead of co-operating with the Administration, has been opposing it!

The NRA, we read, is doomed! It is on the wane. Yet we fail to see any signs of its passing out.

Where is this new co-operation? Is it because the Administration has bought a truck from Henry Ford—or is it because the A. T. & T. is called up for investigation?

It is all very mystifying.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis spent the Thanksgiving week-end in Atlantic City and New York City.

THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Within the next few months the nation may be called on to decide whether the government is to be given power which may eventually become federal control of its youth. During the past two years many of the states have been faced with a similar issue, with varying results. Now the issue is again to become a national one, with a proposal for another amendment to the Constitution. The Supreme Court has held such legislation unconstitutional and an effort is now to be made to change the Constitution.

The question is a serious one. The proposed amendment for child labor will result, if it becomes the fundamental law of the land, in a federal control of children broader than the public now realizes. If, for example, a minor is to be refused permission to work until he is of age, what is to become of the youth who cannot finance a college education? Is he to walk the streets, learn law violation and become a public charge, or will our government be confronted with the problem of regimenting him into a concentration camp, a government controlled club or other federal institution? Will the future of our youth be taken into control by the government as has happened in Russia, or will our children remain subject to the control of the individual family?

The development of the child in America, under family influence and control, has been satisfactory, giving us such men as Lincoln, Roosevelt, Edison and Ford. Lincoln did not fail because he had to work on his father's farm as a boy; Edison did not lose all chance of his future because he was compelled to work in his youth as a newsboy on a passenger train. "Al" Smith is evidently none the worse off for having been a fish peddler in his youth. It is interesting to speculate on what might have happened to these great minds had they been placed under government control and regimentation in their youth, to have been the subject of governmental social experimenters most of whom had never taken the trouble to raise a family of their own. If the youth of the land is not to be permitted to work until it arrives at the age of maturity, what is to become of the thousands of students who annually work their way through school? Will they be better off and their chances for the future brightened if they are to depend on some governmental Santa Claus for support?

No sound and patriotic American wants our boys and girls forced into what is known as child labor. We all want them to go to school as long as they are able, or at least as long as is good for them. But that is another thing from insisting that they shall spend their spare time in idleness, or in the control of federal experimenters, some of whom seem more anxious to break up the idea of the family unit than to assist in the future of the youth.—[National Republic.

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

Listen, Sisters! Mrs. Emily A. Scholl, in charge of all welfare work of the Club, is announcing a social party to be given on next Monday evening, Dec. 10, at 8 o'clock at her home, 51 Vine street. Everybody is invited and is urged to bring along a few friends.

At the next business session, Wednesday evening, Dec. 12, a delegation from the local Lodge of Elks will be present to submit plans for a series of social parties. Both the Elks and Emblem Club organizations will, in all probability, unite in conducting these affairs, and it is hoped that every member of the club will be interested enough to attend the discussion. As in the beginning, the "Big Brothers" are always read y to assist when called upon, and there is no doubt that all Emblem Club members will rally to the support of this proposition.

The Thaanksgiving party drew a large crowd, considering the many social affairs given at this time, and a substantial sum was added to the treasury. About 50 prizes were distributed among the enthusiastic bridge and whist players. Mrs. George Leckley of Washington street won the subscription turkey. Mr. John Hogan of Lake street, and Miss Christine O'Melia won the two turkeys awarded for highest scores in bridge and whist. The chicken dinner was won by Mrs. John D. Coakley of Russell road.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Minnie A. O'Neill, Mrs Frances Sullivan, Mrs. Esther C. McCarthy, Mrs. Margaret F. Flanders, Mrs. Emily Scholl, Miss Alice Sullivan, Miss Mae O'Neill, Miss Margaret Sullivan. Mrs. Kathryn T. Griffin directed the players and announced the winners.

The Club is especially grateful to the Elks for their assistance, and to the following young misses who served as markers: Frances O'Neill, "Gerry" Taylor, Doris Flanders, Dolly Goodhue and Ruth O'Neil.

Now comes the Yuletide with its many demands! As every subordinate Club is required to attend to local welfare, let's all rally to the support of our own Big Sister, whose duty it is to carry on this work.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Throng Packs Great Scout Exhibit

Seven hundred Scouts and 200 Scouters devote energy to Scout exhibition. At 1:30 Saturday afternoon the doors of Cousen's Gymnasium on College avenue, Medford, opened to the public for the Third Annual Scout Exposition and Show, sponsored by the Fellsland Council, Inc., B. S. A.

Boy Scouts, Sea-scouts and Cubs, to approximately 700, including all troops from Medford, Stoneham, Winchester, Woburn and Burlington, were present, as well as over 200 adult leaders, to make a colorful showing.

During the first hour, until 2:30 p. m. the throng which jammed the big indoor baseball cage of the gymnasium, drifted from booth to booth, of which there were 61. Each booth contained interesting demonstrations of boy interests, such as hobbies and troop activities, learned through Scouting.

The booths were the main features of interest. Each booth was constructed of stripping, and individually decorated by the troops, making a very interesting contrast. At 2:30 the demonstrations began in the baseball cage inside ring, lasting well over two hours, depicting various Scout activities and games. Many booths attracted attention with their pets, birds, rabbits, dogs, etc. The same program was repeated in the evening, starting at 7:30 p. m., and continuing through 10 p. m.

Salute to the Flag Finale

District representatives in all districts worked together to the end that made a successful show. They are as follows: Elmer Waters of Woburn, Dr. Richard Clark and T. Parker Clarke of Winchester, Francis McCall and J. Carroll Tucker of Stoneham, Richard H. Kimball, Milton A. Smith, Harold A. Osgood and William O. Jones of Medford, also Clarence Thompson of Medford. Each committeeman had his own group of interested Scouts to help him, to which much thanks should be given for their willingness to help.

The Medford School Department loaned benches to seat 500. Despite the large crowd, the Medford police and the Floor Committee handled the crowd without any confusion.

The Fellsland Council is deeply indebted to Tufts College for the use of the building, and to the janitors who so willingly helped clear the floor after the show.

The Council is also appreciative of the most helpful publications printed by our several newspapers, the Winchester Star, the Medford Mercury, the Stoneham Independent, the Stoneham Press and the Woburn Daily Times.

Delegations of Scout leaders from neighboring Councils attended this great show. It would be difficult to list all who helped make the show a success, but to all, the thanks of the Council is extended.

Swimming Privilege

Scouts of the Council have been permitted to use the Charlestown Y. M. C. A., City square, every second Saturday morning, from 9 to 12 in the forenoon, beginning Saturday, Dec. 8. Scouts may use the gym also for one hour. Bring a towel, sneakers and 10c.

Troop 1

The meeting of Monday, Dec. 3 was held in the gymnasium of the Junior High School. We spent our time mostly on tests for second class. We also played dodge ball and other games.

The inter-patrol contest received quite a boost in points which were received at the Exposition. The standing of the Patrols is as follows: Beaver 289; Silver Fox 216; Panther 176 and Stag 80 points.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Two additional classes will be opened under the Federal Emergency Relief Administration in Education Monday evening, Dec. 10 at 7:30 in the Lincoln School. One class will be in English and Mathematics of high school freshman level. The other class will be a class in painting and decorating china and glass. These classes will meet Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week from 7:30 to 9:30 at the Lincoln School. Those interested should register either Monday or Tuesday evening, Dec. 10 or Dec. 12.

The first class in sketching which has already been announced, now has a membership of 19 students and meets Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings in the Lincoln School from 7:30 to 9:30. It is possible that daytime classes may be organized in sketching and in the painting of china and glass, in addition to the evening classes. Those interested should call Winchester 1780.

INTERESTING EXHIBIT

Many people have availed themselves during the week of the opportunity to view the interesting display of posters and instructive material advertising the Christian Science Monitor on display in the store in Waterfield Building on Common street. Posters, created in many instances by local boys and girls and members of the Winchester church, depict each department and activity of the paper. A view of the exhibit is well worth one's time.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

One absentee was noted at the meeting of Dec. 6. A good start for the month. Can we make it 100 per cent?

As we entered the hall on Thursday we were greeted with the welcome sight of a brilliant new national flag in replacement of the familiar emblem which has served so faithfully since the organization of the club. Inquiry brought the information that the club is indebted to President Harry Winn for this important service. And Harry received an enthusiastic vote of thanks for his good deed.

We are in receipt of illustrated pamphlets descriptive of the City of Mexico and neighboring territory as well as literature and itineraries for the International Convention to be held in that city next June. Members interested may obtain the proffered information on application to the Secretary. We have no difficulty in visualizing one of the grandest conventions in the history of Rotary, and hope that our club may be represented as the clans gather.

We are reminded that the Christmas holiday is at hand and have determined to hold our annual observance of this event on Thursday, Dec. 20. Our Community Service Committee has the matter in hand, and we are assured that many of Winchester's younger residents will have occasion to remember the day with a great deal of pleasure. For the perennial benevolence of the true Santa Claus never fails and Rotary takes pride in giving all possible assistance to the good Saint.

Our International Service Committee was in action today and Chairman "Jim" Quinn brought to our attention the work of the Junior Red Cross Society as it seeks to promote international understanding and good feeling between the younger people of the nations. Naturally the Junior Red Cross derives much of its inspiration from the public school training of its members. And so there came to us pupils representing Winchester's grade schools, its Junior High School and the High School itself. Howard Grant from the sixth grade gave a surprisingly egective address in description of the activities of his school and its interchange of messages and handiwork with pupils of foreign lands. Following on, Margaret Hall took up the story, telling how pupils at the Junior High continue to keep in touch with their contemporaries who live under the flags of other countries. Finally David Grosvenor of the Winchester High School completed the day's presentation as he described the part of the town's senior students in their efforts to extend the helping hand rather than the tongue of strife to all peoples of all lands.

And from these things we learn that a mighty force is gathering to carry on as Rotary and other service organizations lead. We must not falter!

The Rotary Club of Winchester! At home Thursday, Dec. 13. Percentage of attendance Nov. 22—100 per cent. Average attendance for Nov. 1934—94.76 per cent.

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Dec. 9.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is the true God; he is the living God, and an everlasting king: . . . He hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heavens by his discretion": Jeremiah 10:10, 12.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "But ask now the beasts, and they shall teach thee; and the fowls of the air, and they shall tell thee: Or speak to the earth, and it shall teach thee: and the fishes of the sea shall declare unto thee. Who knoweth not in all these that the hand of the Lord hath wrought this?" Job 12: 7, 9.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Nature voices natural, spiritual law and divine Love, but human belief misinterprets nature. Arctic regions, sunny tropics, azure hills, wayward winds, mighty billows, verdant vales, festive flowers and glorious heavens, all point to Mind, the spiritual intelligence they reflect" (p. 240).

THINK FIRST of Your Own Community

This is your community. You live here. Probably you own a home or have business interests here. In some manner, what you have or what you earn comes from this community.

Therefore, you have a personal interest in the prosperity of your community. Also, you have a plain duty as a citizen to do what you can to promote local welfare.

You help when you buy from your neighborhood merchants. You help when you deposit money in the local bank, because the bank is the chief agency by which home money is kept circulating for home good.

One of the best ways to work for your own interests is to boost community interests.

BADMINTON NEWS

The Winchester Badminton Club played its first match in the Greater Boston Badminton League last Tuesday evening at Watertown. Due to the absence of several members the club was not able to put its usual team in the match and it was necessary to resort to various temporary combinations. Despite this handicap most of the games were close and a very creditable showing was made, although all four points were taken by Watertown.

The scores were as follows:
Everett and Leland, Watertown vs H. Wood and R. Bartlett, Winchester, 15 3, 16 17.
Aberley and Murridge, Watertown vs L. Freeburn and H. Wood, Winchester, 15 11, 18 15.
Brousseau and Biehler, Watertown vs J. Clouse and T. Munroe, Winchester, 15 2, 15.
Aberley and Starner, Waterbown vs L. Palmer and L. Freeburn, Winchester, 15 8, 15 12.

Winchester has been entered in the B Division, first dirst of the league and will engage in 12 matches during the winter. There are six teams in all listed in this division and two matches will be played with each team—one on the home courts of each club. In this division of the league are, Tedesco Country Club, Beach Bluff, Waban Neighborhood Club, Waban, Hood Rubber Company, Watertown, Maugus Club, Wellesley Hills, and Civic League Badminton Association, Framingham and the Winchester Badminton Club.

Next Tuesday evening the Maugus Club of Wellesley Hills will play the local club at the high school gymnasium. There will be four doubles matches beginning at 8 o'clock to which the public is invited. No admission will be charged to the matches and all those interested in the game of Badminton will find them well worth attending.

Due to the large number of new members the sessions of the local club have been extended to include Tuesday evenings so that there are now three sessions a week—one each Monday and Tuesday evening and Saturday afternoons. The courts are open evenings from 7 to 10 o'clock and on Saturday afternoons from 2 to 6 o'clock. Arrangements have been whereby courts may be reserved Tuesday evenings for periods of one hour, thus enabling members to arrange matches before hand to play for a definite period of time without interruption. This new arrangement has proven very popular and the courts are generally all engaged several days in advance.

ANNUAL DONATION DAY AT HOME FOR AGED

The annual Donation Day for the Home for the Aged was held yesterday with a tea from 3 to 5. The dinning room looked very festive with a long tea table decorated with lavender pom poms.

Through the kindness of the Home's many friends the food table was financially a great success. Perhaps the most interesting was the fancy work table. All the articles having been made by the ladies at the home.

The directors wish to thank all those who so generously remembered the home with donations which were greatly appreciated.

Those assisting Mrs. Harold F. Meyer were Mrs. Benjamin Hill, Mrs. Thomas Freeburn, Mrs. Holbrook Lowell, Mrs. Frederick Alexander, Mrs. George Ferguson and Mrs. James Russell.

Miss Alice Rogers of Warren street gave a dinner party for a few friends before the Winchester Country Club dance last Saturday.

EMERY—WHITTLESEY

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Dr. Robert L. Emery and Miss Marjorie Whittlesey at Owl's Head, Me., on Nov. 29. Dr. Emery is a well known doctor of this town, is one of the leading members of the Winchester Hospital staff, and is a prominent member of the Baptist Church, the Lions' Club, and the Masonic Brotherhood.

Mrs. Emery comes from Worcester, where she is well known in educational and music circles. She taught for a year at the George Washington School in Winchester, and has made many friends here.

Mrs. Norman W. Whittlesey, mother of the bride is staying with her son in California, and was unable to be present at the ceremony. Miss Elizabeth Whittlesey, the bride's sister, was present as well as other members of the families.

Miss Whittlesey is director of music at the Michigan State College at Ypsilanti.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Steaks, chops and roasts have a strong appeal after a feast of poultry. Veal and pork are attractively priced this week, and although beef and lamb are somewhat higher they are still inexpensive. Green beans and spinach are the outstanding green vegetables of the week but cabbage is still the cheapest. A variety of salad greens temps both appetite and pocketbook.

The citrus fruits, oranges, grapefruit and tangerines, are so abundant that their price is too low to profit the grower. Apples too, are plentiful and moderate in cost.

Here are three menus made up from seasonable foods.

Low Cost Dinner
Corned Beef Boiled Potatoes
Shredded Cabbage
Bread and Butter
Hot Gingerbread Lemon Sauce
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Beef and Pork Loaf
Baked Potatoes
Mashed Yellow Turnips
Bread and Butter
Apple Sauce Cream Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Orange and Grapefruit Cup
Broiled Beefsteak with Onions
Mashed Potatoes Baked Squash
Lettuce with Russian Dressing

WINCHESTER HAD GOOD FOOTBALL SEASON

Team Tied for Middlesex League Championship

While Winchester's football season was not quite so successful as a year ago, the local high school gridsters nevertheless completed another good campaign, tying with Concord for the Middlesex League championship, winning five games, tying two and dropping two contests. In league competition, Coach Mansfield's charges won four, lost one and played one tie.

Winchester started its 1934 campaign with a pair of veteran ends in Bairstow and Josephson, a veteran tackle in Thwing and three veteran backs in Co-Captains Gaffney and Hanlon, and Provinzano. The center of the line was wide open and a big gap remained in the backfield at the quarterback's berth.

It was on the line that Coach Mansfield faced his biggest problem, for not in years has he had so many good backs ready to go as this year.

The loss of that great pivot man, "Andy" Lentine, proved to be the greatest blow to Winchester's prospects this season, particularly when Munroe, rugged lineman, proved unadaptable to center play. With no experienced guards available, the lack of a capable center an even greater handicap, and it was not until the season was well along that the center line situation began to shape up.

Behind the line the loss of "Tommy" Hannon, while felt, did not prove such a blow with Provinzano and the sophomore Cunina developing into very capable punters. Hanlon a year ago did not punt as effectively as Provinzano this season.

Winchester's 1934 schedule didn't provide a single breather as things worked out and this fact coupled with more injuries than usually the rule here gave local coaches and supporters many a sleepless night. Not for some time have so many key men been on the injured list as this year.

The first casualty was "Al" Gaum, first string center at the end of the season, who was injured in an automobile accident before the actual start of play and was n't available for duty until the Concord game. In the Lexington game Provinzano sustained an ankle and shoulder injury that dogged him throughout the season, kept him out of the Stoneham battle and greatly impaired his effectiveness against both Concord and Belmont.

Co-Captain "Jack" Hanlon, Winchester's best blocker and defensive back, sustained a dislocated elbow in the Stoneham game that kept him out of the going at Concord and left him well beyow his normal effectiveness at Belmont. Co-Captain "Gerry" Gaffney injured his hip in the first three minutes of play at Concord and saw no service at Belmont while "Bob" Cushman, understudy to both Hanlon and Gaffney, received an injury in a second team game after Belmont that put him out of play for the remainder of the season.

"Ewie" Bairstow, veteran end, injured a wrist in the Stoneham game that prevented his starting at Concord and greatly impaired the efficiency of his play in that and the Belmont game. Graham, starting right guard, was unable to play at all against Stoneham.

These injuries were especially disheartening, coming as they did at the time of objective games with Concord and Belmont, two battles the locals particularly wished to win. When it is remembered that both Gaffney and Hanlon were out at Concord, that Bairstow played only a short while and that Provinzano was nursing painful ankle and shoulder ailments, the scoreless tie the locals played with that school is not surprising. A referee's decision and the loss or general lack of effectiveness of several key players lost the Belmont game.

Potentially this years' club was very good offensively. This fact was conclusively demonstrated against Lexington when the locals scored 19 points in the last five minutes of play. Again at Maynard, Coach Mansfield's charges put on offensive drive after offensive drive, losing two additional touchdowns by the narrowest of margins. Could the boys have been at full strength all season it is quite likely that the Arlington game would have been the only black mark against them, though in that contest capable officiating would have deprived the big Scarlet club of one of its two touchdowns.

Arlington was the only team to tally more than once against the locals, and in only four games Winchester scored upon. The strength of the local defense was amply demonstrated at Woburn when the Tanners were twice at the 10 yard line in the closing minutes of play, yet could get no further. Belmont's touchdown was illegal and Arlington's only legal touchdown came through the air. Maynard and Woburn were the only teams to score on the ground against the Winchester forward wall.

The leadership of those two Co-Captain pals, "Steamer" Hanlon and "Gerry" Gaffney has meant much to Winchester this year while their play despite injury has been outstanding. "Ref" Provinzano, as we predicted a year ago, was the best all around back in the Middlesex League ranks and in no way suffered by comparison with the best at Arlington and Woburn. "Dave" Grosvenor, in his first year as a back, did a fine all around job and did the best job of signal calling since "Nicky" Fitzgerald. "Joe" Cunina, too developed very fast this season and should run with the cleet another year while Cushman before his injury looked very promising as a defensive and blocking back.

On the line, little Fred McCormack, guard; big Ivor Olson, tackle, and those veteran ends, "Ewie" Bairstow and "Little Joe" Josephson, were standouts, though the improvement in end play shown by "Porky" Millyan, was very noteworthy. "Kirb" Thwing's tackle play at Woburn deserves special mention.

This year's club was managed by "Larry" Bairstow of "the Bairstows" and among those who saw service in the varsity games were ends, Ewart Bairstow, Andrew Millyan, Libonio Gaudioso, Walter Josephson and Frank Eshback; tackles, Lester Gustin, Kirby Thwing, Thomas Donaghey, Ivor Olson, Kenneth Munroe and Bicknell Lockhart; guards, Fred McCormack, Robert Graham, Albert MacDonnell, Walter Chamberland, Albert Miglinccio and Frank Porter; centers, Albert Gaum, Joseph Cassidy, Rollie Luongo and Frank Luongo; backs, David Grosvenor, Daniel Coss, John Hanlon, Robert Cushman, Gerard Gaffney, Joseph Cimina, John Scully, Gaspar Muraeco and Frank Provinzano.

Of this year's team only Bairstow, Josephson, Millyan, Gaum, Cassidy, Grosvenor, Hanlon and Gaffney will be missing another fall, leaving a fine nucleus for next season.

Coach Mansfield has been assisted this year by Edward Bartlett of the Commercial faculty of the high school and the former Boston University player and Kents Hill coach, working without pay, proved of great value and was much liked by the boys. He is deserving of a large size vote of thanks from all interested in the team.

Following is the summary of the games and the final standing of the Middlesex League:

WINCHESTER GIRLS WON EIGHT OF TEN HOCKEY GAMES

The Winchester High School girls' field hockey team has recently completed another successful season under the coaching of Adele Loysen, the school physical director and coach of girls. Seven of the ten games played resulted in victories for the locals and a scoreless tie was played with Arlington. Watertown and Belmont were the teams to defeat Winchester.

Watertown was the only team to score more than one goal against the local girls which constitutes a good showing for the defense, only two of the players of which were veteran performers.

The let down experienced against Watertown, Belmont and Arlington may be partially explained at least by the fact the first few games of the season were relatively easy for Winchester. As usual the Winchester girls were well coached, handled their sticks with the best and in general displayed a good knowledge of position and team play.

MORGAN MEMORIAL ASKS SUPPORT OF WINCHESTER CAMPAIGN

Morgan Memorial is constantly and increasingly grateful to its more than 1600 contributors in Winchester for their continued support of this great work. The very best homes in this city have Goodwill Bags into which cast-off clothing, household goods and other materials are placed, which are collected and brought into the main plant in Boston. There, work is given to many handicapped people in the renovations and repair of these things. After these are put into serviceable shape, they are placed on sale in over a dozen stores located in the poorer sections of Greater Boston. Here, other poor people are able to secure warm, comfortable clothing and durable furniture and household equipment at a minimum cost when they are unable to purchase new goods. The money received from the sale of these reconditioned articles pay the wages of those who have worked upon them.

This is the basic idea of the Goodwill Industries which were established 10 years ago and have spread into more than 100 cities in this country and in many nations of the world. In this day when there seems to be an orgy of doles which do not build character, it is gratifying to thousands to know that here is an institution which believes in a chance, not charity; in opportunity, not alms; and knows that, a tool in the hand is worth more than a coin in the hat. Representatives of Morgan Memorial are now in Winchester making an earnest appeal for these cast-off materials. There is no doubt but that the people of Winchester will rally to this call, since they know that the number of Goodwill Bags now received will determine the number of jobs that will be given this winter to those thousands who are now besieging the Employment Bureau at Morgan Memorial.

EXHIBITING ARTIST ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burr of Glen road gave an informal dinner party in honor of the distinguished artist, Mr. Stanley Woodward, at the conclusion of the private view of Mr. Woodward's paintings in the art gallery of the Public Library for members of the Winchester Art Association last Sunday evening.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Woodward, the guests included the artist's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Tufts, Prof. and Mrs. Frederick H. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clark, Mr. George Hayden, Mr. Stewart Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman of Framingham and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stephens of Waban.

After dinner clay was distributed to each member of the party and a modelling contest followed, some original and clever designs being created. By popular vote, Professor Norton's model of a frog was awarded first prize.

Christmas shopping is easy and comfortable at the Fireside Gift Shoppe in Woburn where there are dozens of gifts suitable for everyone.

THANKS FOOTBALL SUPPORTERS

To the Editor of the Star:

May I through your paper extend my thanks to the football fans of Winchester who have so loyally followed and supported the high school team throughout the season just past. Especially at out-of-town games the big crowds from Winchester have often outnumbered the supporters of the home teams and have been an inspiration to the Winchester players. Few towns have better and fairer rooters than we here in Winchester.

BETTER HOMES MEETING

Keen interest was manifested by the audience which filled the small Town Hall on Tuesday evening to hear Mr. James A. McLaughlin of the Federal Housing Administration and Tax Collector, Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols. Many men were present who kept the question period thoroughly alive until after 10 p. m.

Mrs. Woodside, chairman of the Winchester Committee of Better Homes in America, under whose auspices the meeting was held, presided. "Better Housing," she said is not a new idea. Some 25 or 30 years ago, through the light that radiated from that splendid book, "How the Other Half Lives," by Jacob Riis, many caught the vision of better living conditions for people of meager means. Usually these were immigrants who came to our shores, frequently with all their worldly goods in a bundle on their backs. Forced to seek the cheapest possible shelter they found it in abandoned houses and basements. Jacob Riis knew through actual experience the conditions under which they lived and told his story in a way that could not be forgotten.

I think it safe to say that through the (conscious or unconscious) influence of this book our own fellow townsman, Mr. Edwin Ginn, was inspired to give $50,000 to build the Charlesbank Homes on Charles street Boston, for the purpose of providing good housing at moderate cost. The project, which has been without profit to any trustee or official, was self sustaining from the start and wise management has added a considerable surplus to the original fund.

Mr. Ginn also gave $1,000,000 to the cause of peace, stipulating that should the time come when world peace could be assured and need no further help, the Charles Bank Homes should be the residuary legatee of the $1,000,000 fund.

One other Winchester citizen who caught the vision was Mr. George Henry, who contributed $500,000 to better housing. This fund is now under the general direction of his widow, Mrs. Bertha E. Henry, together with a board of directors. Few, if any, know of the many good deeds she has done or is doing, for she is extremely modest and goes about her tasks as quietly as a little quail darting through the bushes. We are very proud to have Mrs. Henry serve as vice chairman of our Better Homes Committee and had hoped that she would say something this evening regarding the Massachusetts Housing Commission of which she is a director, but she is confined to her home with an attack of grippe.

"Considering the substantial support to the Better Housing movement which has come from Winchester through these three fine public spirited progressive citizens, it seems highly appropriate that we should hold this housing get-together forum this evening and that we pause long enough to pay some tribute to our splendid pioneers.

To those who ask, "What is Better Homes in America?" I can only say, briefly, that it is a national organization with headquarters in New York and committees in 9000 communities in over 7000 American cities. It was organized by Herbert Hoover, who further demonstrated his interest in housing by calling a great housing conference during his term in office.

As the culmination of 11 years' work the National and New York committees recently completed the erection of "Americas Little House" on Park avenue and 39th street, New York. Here, from its white picket fence enclosure, the "Little House" looks up to towering sky-scrapers on every side and says to all who pass—"Pause for a moment in your heedless rushing and give thought to our American Homes." From the garage attached to the house, regular broadcasting programs pertaining to home interests, may be heard every week.

Our committee believes that it is possible for much good to come out of a better housing program. While we are not yet well enough informed to sponsor any particular plan, our motto is, "Hear all things; prove all things; hold fast to that which is good," that is why we have asked Mr. James A. McLaughlin, who is in the midst of the housing campaign to come and tell us all about it. We appreciate greatly the privilege of having him with us this evening.

Mr. James A. McLaughlin, executive assistant to the State Director, John F. Malley of the Federal Housing Administration, explained carefully the various plans offered and graciously answered many pertinent questions. He said in part:

Winchester banks are co-operating with the Federal Housing Administration in its Better Housing campaign and loans have been made by Winchester National Bank and the Winchester Trust Company under the modernization credit plan of the government.

The Winchester Trust Company also has the distinction, Mr. McLaughlin said, of being the first bank in Massachusetts to be approved as a mortgagee under Title 11, the mortgage insurance section of the National Housing Act.

Mr. McLaughlin stated that Dwight Cabot, treasurer of the Winchester Trust Company acted promptly to indicate the bank's willingness to cooperate with the Federal Government and was the first to file an application for approval as an insured mortgage institution under Title 11. It is the only bank to be officially designated in that category in the state, according to the records of the State Director's office.

Figures were given to show that more than $20,000,000 has been loaned under the provisions of the modernization credit plan of Title 1, in the short time that the act has been operative in this state. Already more than $1,000,000 has been loaned in Massachusetts and approximately 3000 such loans have been made, in the state.

Persons of good character and able to show ability to repay loans should be able to obtain such loans at Winchester banks, as well as elsewhere.

The charges cannot be more than $5 discount for each $100 borrowed, per year, Mr. McLaughlin said and the loans shall be repaid in equal monthly installments during the period determined between the lending institution and the borrower as the proper length of time for the loan.

Red tape is missing the speaker said, the government placing implicit faith in the bank's judgment and accepting this judgment as final and conclusive in the matter of insurance.

Amendments to the original act were related, showing the loans can now be obtained up to $2000 for the construction of buildings on land where there are now no buildings and that loans up to $2000 may be obtained on any number of buildings, depending on the borrower's income and ability to repay in the bank's judgment.

Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols, Collector of Taxes, was next introduced and called on to explain the changes in the tax laws of the last few years and taxation in general. He stated that all taxes have always been and will continue to be assessed from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, regardless of whether the bill is dated Oct. 1 as it used to be, April 1 as this year, or January 1 as it will be next year. That even if there were two parts to the next bill for Real Estate calling for one half July 1 and one half October 1, being issued the middle of June, that if the tax is paid on or before Nov. 1 no interest will be charged, but if it is not paid Nov. 1, interest will be computed from Oct. 1 instead of Oct. 15, as at present, and all over $300 unpaid Dec. 31 will be 8 per cent from Oct. 1.

He explained that on Poll and Motor Excise taxes unpaid in 30 days he is obliged to issue a demand and follow this with a warrant, and proceed in the same way to collect the personal taxes. The law now specifies that the constable may, instead of serving this warrant, send out a notice to pay in a few days to the collector or the constable, and save the service of the warrant, for which he is entitled to a fee of one dollar, but if it is not paid, then he must proceed and serve, and it will cost $2 and travel expenses.

All Real Estate taxes and Betterment Assessments under the new law, may be paid 10 per cent at a time, provided each payment is over $10.

Motor Excise taxes are billed on every car registered, and each time a car is sold or disposed of, in any way, an application must be filed with the Assessors on a form prescribed by state law.

Betterment taxes on application to the Assessor may be apportioned for a period of 10 years provided the amount of each apportionment is more than $5.

Lien Certificates are issued for $1 and protect any buyer of real estate from loss if the property is not free and clear when purchased.

Mortgagees' Receipts are issued when taxes are paid by the mortgagee. Said receipt may be recorded at the Registry as a protection to the mortgagee in the collection of the money later.

Tax Titles do not prevent the use of the property and cannot be taken over by the town in less than two years after sale and by paying 25 per cent of the first year's unpaid tax with interest and costs, give the owner another year of grace, and as it takes at least a year to foreclose, this means four year's time. The reason for advertising property earlier in some places than in others is because of the credit of the town or city which is established by the way the taxes are collected. Brookline advertises in February and borrowed for 24/100 of 1 per cent. We borrowed for 10/100 of 1 per cent, a saving on interest on borrowed money of almost enough to run the collector's office for one year. Twenty-eight cities recently were unable to borrow at certain times.

On Water Bills the collector is obliged by town ordinance to add 20 cents after 30 days and notify the Water and Sewer Board 10 days later of this fact. All unpaid water bills are a lien on the property in Winchester and the amount of said bill may be added to the Real Estate tax.

All summons, demands and warrant charges are turned into the town treasury and total in a year to nearly $2000.

MEETING OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY, FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Congo young people are keeping their attendance right up to the mark. Last Sunday a fine crowd came to the meeting. A special speaker was secured in the person of Ewald Mand, who is a native of Estonia in the Balkan states. Through the eyes of this young man the boys and girls saw America as a European sees it. Some of its fine points were brought out anew, and some of its more deplorable aspects also revealed. By the close of the well planned talk everyone felt that America is still a fine place in which to live.

Mr. Mand spoke excellent English in view of the fact that he has studied this language but three years. Indeed, his grammar was decidedly better than that of the average American.

After the talk supper was served followed by singing in the social hall.

The society intends to have a very important New Year's eve ball. A committee has been selected which is now busily laying plans for a really extravagant entertainment. Watch for more news of this!

Come down to these Sunday evening meetings and become a part of the activities. New features are looming of which all are free to partake. Everyone of high school age or over is welcome.

A. & P. ANNOUNCES DRASTIC PRICE CUTS

Having completed the month of sales held as a celebration of their 75th anniversary, A. & P. food stores start their 76th year in business with announcements of drastic price cuts on dozens of staple and standard commodities.

Officials of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company state that the tremendous volume of business done in their stores, particularly in New England, during the anniversary sale is in a large degree responsible for the price reductions which are now possible, and which have been made effective during the past two weeks.

"A. & P. Food Stores," they say, "operate on the basis of selling the finest quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices, and it is in line with this plan that we have made the reductions announced in our most recent new-paper advertising. It is our intention to keep these low prices in force, and to make further reductions on additional items just as soon as conditions warrant. Although A. & P. prices are lower today than they have been for some time, there has been no change in quality, and there will be no change in quality because of lowered prices.

"It is our plan also to continue aggressive compaigns of newspaper advertising to acquaint the public of New England with these low prices as rapidly as they are put in effect. In all probability, the newspaper schedules for our Company within the next few months will be substantially stronger than they have been in the past, and will serve to keep before the public of this territory the opportunities which A. & P. Food Stores offer them to obtain the highest quality foods at genuinely low prices."

WILLIAM H. KEELER

Star Foreman Died Suddenly Last Friday Night

William Henry Keeler, foreman of the press room at the Winchester Star since 1920, died suddenly last Friday night in Malden, where he had gone to make some purchases. Mr. Keeler had been in good health and spirits during the day and had attended to his duties as usual. In the early evening, in company with his two daughters, Barbara and Margaret, and Mr. C. Elliott Ward of Bonad road, he drove to Malden, where he made a purchase. Following this he drove Mr. Ward to his brother's home. Mr. Ward left him and his daughter in his car and was just entering his brother's home when he heard Barbara scream. Running to the car he found Mr. Keeler collapsed in the seat. Hastily summoning a doctor nearby, it was found that Mr. Keeler was near death, and he was immediately taken to the Malden Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. His death was caused by heart failure.

Mr. Keeler resided on Englewood road. He was a native of Rutland, Vt., the son of the late Frank and Josephine Keeler. His father was an old time printer, and when his son finished school he followed his father's trade. He was 47 years of age.

Previous to entering the World War, he resided with his parents in Franklin and Everett, and during the War he was in charge of the U. S. A. printing office in Tours Sector, France, with the rank of Sergeant, 1st Class, Quartermaster Corps.

Following the War, he made his home in Winthrop until he became connected with the Star in October, 1920. In 1922 he married Miss Margaret O'Leary, a member of the Star force, and she survives him, together with four little daughters—Barbara aged 11, Margaret 9, Carolyn 7 and Jean 4. His mother survives him, and he leaves three brothers and three sisters—Leo Keeler, a captain in the Everett Fire Department; Frank Keeler of Melrose, Edward Keeler of Medford, Mrs. Robert Patterson of Somerville, Mrs. Henry Shattuck of Woburn and Mrs. Robert Scalyn of Medford.

Largely attended funeral services were held at St. Mary's Church Monday morning at 9 o'clock, where solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Aloysius P. Malone, with Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach, deacon, and Rev. Fr. Joseph E. McGoldrick, sub-deacon. The pall bearers were all Legionnaires, and included W. Allan Wilde, Robert M. Hamilton, John M. Cullen and Frank Migliaccio. Color bearers were William R. Carroll and Theodore E. Lawson. At the burial in Calvary Cemetery, three volleys were fired over the grave by a firing squad from Fort Banks and taps was sounded by a Fort Banks' bugler.

Mr. Keeler was widely known and leaves a host of friends, all of whom sincerely mourn his sudden and unexpected death. The Star Office was closed during the hours of his funeral and the flag on the Star building was displayed at half-staff following his death until after the burial.

DROPPED DEAD ON WASHINGTON STREET

While on his way to his duties with the James J. Fitzgerald Contracting Company shortly before 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Harvey Destremps, 38, of Middlesex street, Lowell, was stricken suddenly ill and collapsed on Washington street in front of St. Mary's Church.

Destremps was walking with his brother, Romeo, of Lakeview avenue, Lowell, who at first thought he had slipped on the sidewalk. H. Stanley Mullen of 50 Water street, who was driving by in a truck saw Destremps fall and went to his assistance. With his brother, he took the stricken man in his truck to Police Headquarters where the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered by Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach of St. Mary's Parish, brought to the station by Patrolman James P. Donaghey. Dr. Philip J. McMannus, brought to the station in the police car by Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey, pronounced Destremps dead.

Medical Examiner William H. Kelliher of Woburn viewed the body and pronounced death due to heart trouble. The body was then turned over to a Lowell undertaking firm.

Destremps was a native of St. Cuthbert, Canada, the son of Anthony and Emelin (Dubois) Destremps. He was a skilled mechanic and had been in the employ of the Fitzgerald company for the past 10 years as foreman. He had previously worked on construction jobs in some of the big cities. Destremps was a widower and leaves a son, besides the brother who was with him at the time of his death.

WORLD WAR MOTHERS

Winchester Chapter of World War Mothers will be instituted and installed on Monday, Dec. 17 at 2:30 at Legion Headquarters. Mrs. Elizabeth MacNamara, president of New England Chapter, will be the instituting officer. Mrs. Mary Gilbody, president of Massachusetts State Chapter, will install the officers. The members are asked to be present at 1:45.

2. Mrs. Kingman Cass and Mrs. Bruno.

CHRISTMAS VESPER SERVICE

The Junior Choir of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, with Mary Ranton Witham as director, will give their third annual Christmas vesper service next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the church auditorium. They will be assisted by Helen Sibley, a much admired Winchester violinist, who has proven herself to be a musician of highest rank and Stanley P. Stevens as organist. Mr. Stevens is organist and choir director in the Church of the Good Shepherd in Watertown and has been for many years one of the well known organists of Boston. Friends of these artists anticipate a very choice program with Mrs. Sibley's artistic renditions and Mr. Stevens at the console of the fine organ which this church possesses.

The program of the junior choir will include selections from the traditional carols of various European countries, including Lapland, Germany, England, France and Spain. The choir has won an enviable reputation among the junior choirs of Boston for its excellence of performance. The music is sung in three parts. The purity of tone, precision of attack, clear diction and original interpretation have been very favorably mentioned by musical critics who have heard them in previous concerts. Mrs. Witham, as organizer and director, has had entire charge of the development of the choir and brought it to its present standing. The public is cordially invited to attend the service.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Another class under the auspices of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration in Education will commence Monday evening, Dec. 17, in arts and crafts, or in painting, or both. The class will be held Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the Lincoln School from 7:30 to 9:30. People interested in the crafts or in painting are urged to register either on the evening of Dec. 17 or 18.

Classes continue on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the Lincoln School in the following:

1. Free-hand sketching in pencil, pen and charcoal.
2. English and mathematics of freshman high school grade.
3. The painting and decorating of china and glass.

Those interested may still enroll in these classes.

BOY STRUCK BY MACHINE

Robert McCall, 12 year old son of Mrs. Mary A. McCall of 95 Swanton street, was slightly injured shortly before 2:30 last Friday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Swanton street in front of his home.

The driver of the machine, Joseph Abreau of 47 Sturgis street, Woburn, told the police he was driving east when the McCall boy ran across the road into the path of his car. Abreau took the boy to the office of Dr. Richard W. Sheehy, where he was treated for a cut hand and allowed to go home.

BADMINTON CLUB

The match of the Winchester Badminton Club with the Maugus Club of Wellesley, which was scheduled to be played Tuesday, Dec. 11, was postponed at the request of the visiting team. It is expected that the match will be played during the week of Dec. 24 or Dec. 31.

Last week's article referring to the meetings of the Badminton Club, stated that sessions were held Monday and Tuesday evenings and Saturday afternoons of each week. The reference to Monday evenings was in error and should have been Wednesday evenings, which conforms to the regular schedule of the club.

THREE JURORS DRAWN

At their meeting this week, the following jurors were drawn by the Selectmen:

Kenneth S. Hall, 12 Winslow road, second session Superior Civil Court at Cambridge, Jan. 7.

Charles P. LeRoyer, 6 Sheffield road, second session Superior Criminal Court at Cambridge, Jan. 14.

E. Whitford Sanderson, 7 Marshall road, third session, Superior Civil Court at Cambridge, Jan. 7.

TRUST COMPANY FIRST NAMED IN STATE

The Winchester Trust Company was approved last week by Federal Housing officials in Washington as the first trust company in this State for the insurance of the refinancing and insurance of mortgages under title two of the National Housing Act. The Woburn National Bank was the first national bank to be so approved. Cashier G. Dwight Cabot of the Trust Company and Edward Johnson of the Woburn bank are in charge of the mortgages of the two institutions.

WINCHESTER COUNTRY CLUB CURLING

Weather permitting all members who have curled on teams in past years and other members who have not played before are asked to meet at the club pond tomorrow, Saturday, Dec. 15 at 2 p. m. to organize teams for match play. A tournament has been arranged and matches will be played every Saturday afternoon and all day Sundays. Members who have had no previous experience will be assisted by those who have curled several years. Telephone Robert F. Guild, secretary, Win. 1268-W or the Country Club, Win. 1182.

GEORGE L. DUNHAM

George L. Dunham, a native of Winchester and formerly widely known in this town, died suddenly Sunday night, Dec. 9 at his home on Joy street in Boston. He had visited in Winchester Saturday evening and had been in his usual health during Sunday.

Mr. Dunham was the son of Charles H. and Mary E. (Lyon) Dunham. He was born 69 years ago in Winchester and was educated in the Winchester schools and at Holderness School in Holderness, N. H. For many years he was employed as a salesman by Curry Bros., Company, dealers in mill supplies, of Oliver street, Boston. He left Winchester some 30 years ago, but was a frequent visitor here and had many friends among older residents of the town.

Mr. Dunham was especially fond of boys and spent much of his leisure time working with and for them. He was active in Boston Scouting, serving for 10 years as leader and troop committeeman. He was also very interested and active in the work of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, maintained on Bowdoin street in Boston by the Cowley Fathers. He was a Mason and an Odd Fellow, holding membership in William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and Waterfield Lodge, I. O. O. F., both of this town. His only immediate survivor is a sister, Miss Abbie M. Dunham, who makes her home on Cambridge street in Winchester.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning in the Church of St. John and the remains were taken to South Coventry, Conn., for burial in Nathan Hale Cemetery there.

AUTO ACCIDENT LAST NIGHT

A serious accident, in which two cars were smashed and human injury narrowly averted, occurred last evening on Main street at the Symmes grain mill. A Chevrolet, driven by Pacifico Antonelli of Somerville, going north, skidded when making the curve. The auto ran onto the sidewalk for about 20 feet and then into the street again, striking another Chevrolet driven by John W. Carey of Woburn, which was going south. The car driven by Antonelli, who was accompanied by John Paolette of Somerville, was wrecked, and that of Carey was damaged about the front end. Carey was accompanied by Miss Gertrude Mawn of Shepard court. Fortunately, notwithstanding all the action which took place before Antonelli's car stopped, no personal injuries were reported.

Winchester, Woburn, Medford Form New Commercial Unit of North District

The management of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., in keeping with its policy of constantly bringing the company and its customers into closer relationship, has made Winchester, Woburn and Medford, a new commercial unit of the North District with headquarters at 19 Riverside avenue, Medford, under the supervision of Manager John E. Sullivan.

Mr. Sullivan, a Harvard man, brings to the management of this unit a varied experience in different phases of the company's business office department in Boston and Providence.

Winchester and Woburn, together with Melrose, Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield, were managed formerly by Atherton Loring, Jr., with headquarters at 417 Main street, Melrose.

Medford was under the supervision of William T. Condon who had charge of Malden and Everett, with headquarters at 335 Main street, Malden.

The assignments of Managers Condon and Loring remain the same as formerly, with the exception of that part of their territory which now comprises the new unit of Manager Sullivan.

MYSTIC SCHOOL NOTES

The children of the second grade of the Mystic School presented the assembly program on Wednesday, Dec. 12. The subject of the assembly was "Community Helpers." GOVERNOR URGES ENCOURAGEMENT TO INDUSTRY IN LEGION ADDRESS

The necessity of a revival of private industry to head off inflation and of maintaining the nation's credit to encourage private industry were stressed by Gov. Joseph B. Ely in his address to Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, when he spoke at the Legion House, 84 Washington street, last evening.

Approximately 100 men attended the meeting which was one of the regular monthly ones of the Post. Among the invited guests were state and county Legion officials and a number of the Winchester municipal officers.

Comdr. John H. McCarthy presided and the Governor was introduced by former Selectman Donald R. Waugh, chairman of the Post's program committee. The Governor was presented with a gift of an ostrich-skin cigarette case.

It was generally agreed by those present at the meeting that the Governor delivered one of his best addresses. He paid a graceful tribute to Winchester and its officials and then discussed the problems of the bank holiday and the co-operative work done to face it. Next he discussed his early advocacy of progressive social legislation but said that he could not bring himself to support the doctrine that the government should run all private business.

From this point he turned to the main theme of his remarks said that public works projects are worthy considering as temporary expedients, but they are dissappointing as a means to long range recovery. This was come by stimulating private industry through economy in government and preservation of the credit of town, state and nation.

He laid especial emphasis on the importance of this to the man in average or poor circumstances and pleaded that his listeners should support such a movement for their own sakes.

The Governor was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Waugh at their home on Kenwin road, prior to going to the Legion house. Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. James J. Quinn were also guests at dinner. Members of the Board of Selectmen, including Messrs. Maguire, Merrill, Farnsworth and Beggs, together with Mrs. Maguire and Mrs. Beggs, called to pay their respects to the Governor after dinner.

The visit was the first that the Governor has ever made to Winchester and marked the first time that the Post has had as guest, a Governor in office.

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

The next social night of the club is Wednesday evening, Dec. 26 in Lyceum Hall. This will be the regular Christmas social and, as it will be the night after Christmas, Santa Claus ought to have time enough to get here. The usual exchange of gifts is called for. Each member has the privilege of inviting a guest—providing she brings a gift for her guest also. This is to insure all of getting a present, in case the good St. "Nick" slips up on his engagement.

The entertainment, under the direction of vice-president Minnie A. O'Neill, will consist of games. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee will be served.

At the regular session of the club on Wednesday evening, a delegation from the local Lodge of Elks, headed by Exalted Ruler Arthur Harty, presented a proposition for a joint series of whist and beano parties, the first of which to be held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 23. The proposition was accepted by the club, and a committee was chosen under the leadership of President Kathryn T. Griffin. A conference of the two committee is to be held at an early date to plan for the series.

Those who attended the social at the home of Mrs. Fred Scholl on Monday evening, certainly enjoyed one good time. Besides the usual entertainment of games, the genial hostess served a very special lunch. Nearly everyone present got a "lift" home, which was greatly appreciated on such a cold night.

HIT DOG ON SYLVESTER AVENUE

Mr. O'Connor of White street complained to the police last night of an auto striking a dog on Sylvester avenue and continuing without stopping. In investigating the matter the police questioned James and Harold McElhiney of Upland road, the car being registered in James' name. Both denied knowledge of the affair, and one of them was in the house at the time of the occurrance. The police then went to a gas station on Main street and questioned Alphonso McElhiney, who admitted being the driver of the car, although he claimed to have stopped after the accident.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Football and Hockey Letters Awarded at Annual A. A. Fall Assembly

The annual fall A. A. rally was held in the auditorium Wednesday morning to award the hockey and football letters to those who had won them.

The school song was sung to open the assembly and "Gerry" Gaffney awarded a banner for selling the most football tickets to Donald Fenton, who unfortunately was not there to receive it.

"Nat" Stevens, chairman of the social committee for the A. A., announced the plans of the coming months, featuring which were the annual vaudeville show and another dance soon.

"Ken" Munroe read the secretary's report, expressing a wish for all members of the A. A. to pay the balance of the money due the association. The seniors have done best toward making their class 100 per cent.

Miss Loysen then awarded class numerals to the sophomores, led by "Dot" Bruno, for winning the interclass tournament. These players will make splendid material for varsity hockey next year.

The second team varsity, led by Gladys Moulton, and the first team, captained by Gretchen Cleaves, were given their letters, both teams making a very good record this year. Although nine of the first team will graduate in June, nearly all of the second team will be available for next year's squad.

Mr. Bartlett gave the football second team their letters, announcing the hard-working and persistent "Hank" Porter as recently elected captain. This second team, also, will nearly all be playing for the high school next year.

Coach Mansfield told of the wonderful spirit of the boys and especially of the fine feeling between "Jack" and "Gaff," the co-captains. He complimented "Larry" Bairstow on being the best manager he has ever had for a team, and had a word to say about each player. The team had a successful season and had the full co-operation of the student body at all the games.

Three girl cheer leaders, Priscilla Danforth, Betty Emery and Gladys Moulton, will receive special insignia for two years' services. The cheers at the rally were ably led by our boy cheer-leaders and much enthusiasm was aroused.

High School Red Cross to Contribute to the Milk Fund

One of the most active organizations in the high school is the Red Cross. So far this year, they have done much toward the cause of the organization. Now they are asking for a small contribution from each individual. This will be used for the milk fund in Winchester schools among the lower grades. Also every Christmas, a package of about eight gifts is sent to some appreciative person, who could use a contribution of that sort.

When this organization is working so hard to bring comfort and happiness where it is scarce, don't you think it worth while to give it your earnest and whole-hearted support?

Banking for Dec. 11 saw eight rooms make 100 per cent, school per cent was 94 per cent; $121.44 was the amount banked. Our last bank day before vacation is next week and we hope each room will make 100 per cent.

Debating Club Now Becoming Important Activity

The high school debating club, which was organized recently, is now going ahead with its plans. After the Christmas vacation, there will be an important meeting at which each member will have a chance to speak. Ten subjects were listed for discussion, such as, Resolved:

"United States Should Join the League of Nations."

"Communism Is the Best Government for the World to Adopt."

"America Should have a Large Army and Navy."

"A Small College Is Better Than a Large One."

After everyone has had his chance on one of these teams, the best speakers will be selected and a team will be formed for inter-school debates.

MRS. SHERARED CLAY

Mrs. Belle Annie Putnam Clay, wife of Mr. Sherared Clay, a resident of Winchester for the past 30 years, died at her home, 22 Lloyd street, on Tuesday.

She was born in Elmore, Vt., the daughter of Hiram Smith Putnam and Olivia Fanny Warren Putnam, and was a direct descendant of the famous Revolutionary generals, Israel Putnam and Samuel Warren. She was a graduate of People's Academy, Morrisville, Vt., and taught school in her native state, being an old member of the Methodist Church of Elmore.

She was one of the early members of The Fortnightly of this town and a former president, secretary and treasurer of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Her husband and two brothers—Clarence W. Putnam of Waterbury, Vt. and Edward E. Putnam of Keene, N. H., survive her.

The funeral services were held this week Thursday at the residence, Rev. J. West Thompson, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiating. The burial was at Plymouth, Vt.

WILL YOU HELP?

The Citizens' Community Relief Committee has decided not to send out Christmas dinners this year. They will, however, if possible, follow the plan which worked so successfully a year ago. Namely—to send to needy families money orders in amounts from one dollar ($1.00) up. These orders will be redeemed for merchandise by any merchant in Winchester for the amount of their face value.

Would you like to have a part in this way of bringing a little happiness into some home at this holiday season? If so please send your check, even if it has to be smaller than usual, to Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, 8 Black Horse terrace, Winchester, Mass.

POLICE NOMINATE OFFICERS

SHARING CHRISTMAS JOY

Santa Claus is coming to town! He will appear at the Baptist Church next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Just as the young people planned last week to share their fortune, they are going to share their Christmas joy by entertaining 20 girls of high school age from the West End Community House of Boston. Everyone of high school age and over is urged to come to join in the good time. To help Santa Claus, please bring a small gift for one of our friends. This Christmas celebration will take the place of the usual 8 o'clock young people's service.

BIG MINSTREL SHOW

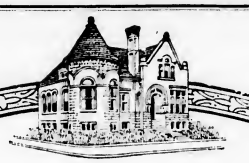

By Men's Club of First Congregational Church Promises Fine Entertainment

Dec. 28 and 29 are the dates for the big old-time minstrel show, to be presented by the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church, in the parish house. Last year the show was a great success and this year the club has been successful in securing the same coaches, and the program will be different, entirely new and better in every way. Rehearsals are in full swing—the songs and choruses ring with spirit, and the cast is complete. Eight clever end men are whipping into shape snappy songs, specialty numbers and local hits, to keep one roar of laughter running through the entire performance.

So many were disappointed last year in not seeing the show on the one night it was presented, the club has decided to run a two-night performance this year. Tickets are on sale by the members of the club, or may be secured at F. E. Barnes' store.

FOOD DISTRIBUTED TODAY

Meat, potatoes and cabbage will be distributed this afternoon at the Town Hall, at the Welfare store room starting at 1 o'clock. It is reported that the lot includes six barrels of veal, 13 barrels of cabbage and about 700 pounds of potatoes.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Children's Day

On Monday, Dec. 17, the regular Fortnightly meeting will be devoted to entertaining the children. The business meeting will be at 2:30, as usual, but after that is over it will be a Christmas festival for the children. "Gypsy Josephine" will give "Stories with Magic Pictures." There will be Christmas music by the Glee Club. And just to be sure that it is a party, there will be refreshments. Every club member is invited and urged to bring her own children or other people's—or both. The more, the merrier. And incidentally, the gown-ups will enjoy the program too! Note the date, Dec. 17.

President's Day

One of the highlights of every club year—President's Day—took place last Monday. The hall was filled almost to capacity, and with the beautiful flowers, lovely gowns, and really exquisite music, it was a most charming affair. The new club home lends itself well to the entertaining of guests, and the club President, Mrs. Gladys Wilson, is a lovely and gracious hostess of whom the whole Fortnightly is justly fond and proud.

Reception

In the receiving line from 1:30 to 2:30 were Mrs. Jesse S. Wilson, president of Fortnightly; Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, president of the Massachusetts State Federation; Mrs. John H. Kimball, first vice president; Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth, second vice president; Mrs. David Westcott, third vice president; Mrs. Harry S. MacNish, Eighth District Director; Mrs. Edward S. Grosvenor, first vice president of the Fortnightly and Mrs. Reginald Robinson, recording secretary of the Fortnightly.

Very lovely music was furnished during the whole hour by the "Winchester Trio," Helena Studzinska Sibley, violin; Vida Rohde, cello; and Mary Ranton Witham, piano. This group of musicians is becoming more and more favorably known, not only in Winchester, but in Boston and the towns around. They are all artists of real standing, they play a high type of music, and their rendering of it is finished and satisfying. Playing during the hum and buzz of a reception is usually a rather thankless task, but the frequent and enthusiastic applause on Monday proved how much the music was enjoyed.

Federation Officers Speak

The business meeting at 2:30 was chiefly important for the messages brought by some of the Fortnightly's most distinguished guests.

Mrs. MacNish spoke of the Eighth District Health Institute to be held in Medford Hillside on Dec. 12 and gave the program in detail. Mrs. Wilson added her plea that Fortnightly members should attend.

Mrs. Westcott recalled with pleasure the Eighth District Art Conference held in Winchester recently. She also spoke of Federation Topics, a monthly publication of the State Federation which keeps club women well posted on matters past and present which are bound to be of interest to them. She did not ask for subscriptions, but it may be well to state here that any who desire this valuable and inexpensive publication, may subscribe through the Federation Secretary, Mrs. Martha Kelley.

Mrs. Hildreth paid a glowing tribute to the president of the Fortnightly, Gladys Wilson. She spoke of some of the difficult problems Mrs. Wilson has had to face, among them the important matter of a change of club headquarters. Another very recent problem was the securing, at three days' notice, of a good speaker for President's Day. For, to quote Mrs. Hildreth, "the speaker for this afternoon will arrive in America, weather permitting, sometime tomorrow night." Fortunately Mrs. Wilson's devotion and resourcefulness were rewarded and an entirely satisfactory substitute was secured. Mrs. Hildreth's speech was enthusiastically applauded, partly because the club agreed cordially with all the glowing things she said of Gladys Wilson, and partly because everyone always loves to see or hear Harriet Hildreth.

Mrs. Kimball congratulated the Fortnightly upon its new quarters, so much more homelike and attractive than it was ever possible to make the Town Hall appear. She also gave an interesting and rather impressive account of the duties of a first vice president in the State Federation. Among many other things, she is responsible for the membership in the various state committees. Any club women who know of suitable people for these positions are urged to communicate with her.

Mrs. Walker, the State Federation president, was greeted by the rising of the whole audience. She spoke of Mrs. Kimball's eager activity in legislative affairs, and of her own approaching visit to Washington in company with Mrs. Frank P. Bennett, General Federation Director. She urged a careful study of the subject of the manufacture of munitions, regarding which a resolution will be introduced at the mid-winter meeting at the Hotel Bradford, Boston, on Feb. 28.

A message from Mrs. Bennett, who was unable to be present because of illness, was read by the president, and the club voted to send Mrs. Bennett their regrets at her absence and their sincere wishes for a speedy recovery.

One very charming feature of the meeting was a gesture of the president, in honoring the past presidents of the Fortnightly. Each one was asked to rise, as her name and her years of service were read and it was a pleasure to all the club members to see and recognize these earlier leaders.

The Program

The program for the afternoon was in two parts, and at the gracious request of Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Grosvenor, the first vice president, introduced the artists.

The first was Mr. Raymond Eaton, baritone, whose lovely, resonant voice and appealing personality easily won his audience. His selections were varied and pleasing, and his rendering of them showed feeling and emotion which was nevertheless always sufficiently restrained to prove his great artistry. Mr. Eaton has a voice of unusual range, brilliance and coloring.

Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham, who is herself a well known artist, accompanied Mr. Eaton at the piano. Her beautiful rendering of the difficult accompaniments, and more especially her perfect understanding and following of the moods of the soloist, made her work a very important part of the afternoon's enjoyment.

Mr. Eaton's selections were:

"Vision Fugitive" from Herodiade ..... Massenet
"If I Were King" ..... Ole Speaks
Marguerite ..... Old Song
"Old Man River" ..... Kern
"I Love Life" ..... Mana-Zucca
Encore:
"Rollin' Along" ..... LaRue

As Mrs. Melinda Alexander was still upon the high seas, homeward bound from Paris, the advertised subject of "What Are the People Thinking?" was necessarily abandoned. In fact the program was able to right-about-face, and the play, "Paris Bound," was very ably and delightfully read by Mrs. Adele Hoes Lee, head of the Bishop Lee School in Boston, formerly a teacher at the Leland Powers School and summer-time head of the Berkshire Playhouse. It is a three-act play, showing with cleverness and insight the difficulties in understanding that beset young married people who are obliged to spend much of their time apart. Mrs. Lee has a pleasing voice with a great variety of coloring, a charming smile that warms the heart, plenty of dignity and restraint to hold an emotional subject from becoming too "sloppy," and clever ability to make clear the underlying ideas that she wishes to emphasize. The Fortnightly was fortunate indeed to secure so fine an artist at short notice, and the members would like to express to her their appreciation of her stepping into the breach, doubtless at some inconvenience to herself.

Social Hour

After the program, there was a social hour with an opportunity to meet the president and other officers of many neighboring clubs. These distinguished guests of honor, with their individual hostesses from the Fortnightly, occupied a specially reserved section of seats and it was gratifying to have so many present. While the ice cream, cakes and coffee were being served, there was time for a general exchange of greetings and praise, and one out-of-town president said, "I think this is one of the nicest parts of these President's Day programs. It is so interesting to meet people from other clubs and compare notes with them."

So perhaps some of Monday's guests did find out, "What the People Are Thinking" after all!

Troop 1 News

After the usual opening games and flag ceremony, Martin Kateoff, (a transfer) and tenderfoot Scouts Frank Marabella, Charles Bacon and Albert Halvorsen were formally initiated into the troop.

Events in the Court of Honor were practiced—carries, knot tying, compass and signaling. Considerable improvement must be made to make a good showing in the court.

The troop, on a patrol basis, is canvassing their neighborhoods for old toys to be repaired and turned over to the Legion for distribution as a Christmas good turn.

A rousing game of grab the ball concluded the meeting.

Remember! Hike on Saturday. Time, 10 a. m. Place—Legion house.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

We will never have a better ordered Society until our people of all creeds think of themselves as "knit together in one communion and fellowship." An outstanding fault with the churches today is that those of different creeds look upon themselves as superior to those of other creeds. But there is one God for all of us and it matters not whether we are Baptists, Unitarians, Roman Catholics or Jews. We are all aiming at the same thing but with different ways of attaining it. "All ye are brethren." There should be no question of fellowship. We are spirituality of kin, we are organically related—such is the teaching.

Unhappily, the Church presents such a faint picture of "communion and fellowship" that there is a wide gulf between the sects. As a consequence we find the church torn with dissension as it has been all down the ages. It fails to recognize the beauty of the ideal, though there are men and women in Winchester churches—in all churches everywhere—who are working real hard to make that ideal real in their own lives and in the life of the world.

Such people as these are the hope of the world. Without them I don't know what this poor old world would do. They are the hope of the church. Unfortunately, not all church folk are "the light of the world," but some are, and all may be and certainly were meant to be. Nevertheless, this divine fellowship, this divine communion are realities, and they are exerting an influence in the world and on human life that is of inestimable value. Here is a far greater impulse toward real, organic and abiding unity than can be found in common sense, or in commercial motives. For this impulse is of divine origin, and it takes firm hold of the deepest parts of the nature of man.

If, as our Lord said, men are brethren it is their duty to live—and live together—as brethren. Decent living makes for unity, for virtue and godliness are cohesive forces and influences. Cussedness and sin, on the other hand, bring dissension and disunity in their train. The divine call is to high things and noble effort and striving. There can be, indeed every intelligent Christian will admit that there is, a sort of touching elbows in the great struggle for Right and Truth and Purity. To the furthering of these the "one community and fellowship" and to its objects and ideals is required and demanded of every one who is enrolled therein. There can be no loyalty to God apart from a serious recognition of the universal brotherhood of man. For a Christian there can be no escape from this obligation, no escape by Protestant, Roman Catholic or Jew from the duty of being true to it.

NEW PATTERSON STUDIO IN ARLINGTON IS THING OF BEAUTY

The recently opened Patterson Studio on Schouler court, Arlington, near the high school, is reputed the finest in New England. The quaint and artistic design of the building, outside and inside, impresses one with the artistic spirit, and those sitting for their portraits must surely feel confident that here is a place to get pictures out of the ordinary.

The pleasant atmosphere of the reception room, with its display of portraits, and cheery receptionist helps to get one in the proper mood. There is none of the rush and bustle of the outside world to annoy and irritate. The dressing rooms with their long mirrors add also a feeling of the desire to help.

Then, after taking a last look in the beautiful mirror beside the camera room door, one enters and looks upon a miniature Hollywood studio, with its moveable back screens and reflectors, photo floodlights, spot lights, and platforms on rollers which move silently over the tiled floor to any position desired. The room with its high beamed ceiling and beautifully designed window lends its artistic atmosphere to the business-like appearance of the lights and equipment.

The skilled photographer proceeds with the use of lights and reflectors to cast shadow and light on your features, critically moving a light here and there to produce the necessary effect, much as an artist might use his brush and colors. So, a picture is taken—a living likeness—a possession more valued as time goes on.

BETTER HOMES GARDEN CLUB

Because of the crowded Christmas season the December meeting will have to be omitted.

The following extract from a letter from Miss Ethel Woodward, chairman of our program committee, who is now in Florida, will be of interest to all members of our club. It is dated Dec. 9 at 26 Waverly place, Melbourne, Fla.

26 Waverly Place,
Melbourne, Fla.,
Dec. 9, 1934

"I am sending you a package of the Florida 'Chinese Lantern' leaves. (I do not know the Botanical name for this plant).

I thought each member of the club present at the next meeting would like to have one.

If you pin a leaf on a curtain where the air is not too dry and where it will get lots of sunshine, it will send out roots followed by tiny leaves from each little indentation along the margin of the leaf. When the leaf begins to wither and become yellow, lay the entire leaf on a pot of soil, cover lightly with soil and keep moist, and you will have a number of tiny plants. When the plant matures, it will send up a stalk of flowers resembling tiny pink or pinkish red lantern-like flowers.

It grows wild every place here, but it must be a house plant in the North.

This is the Spanish moss which hangs in long waving festoons from the live oaks and likes to drape itself on wire fences forming almost a solid grey curtain.

This moss belongs to the Pineapple family.

I would like each of the ladies to have a little piece of this moss also.

Greetings to all the members of the 'Better Homes Garden Club' and best wishes for a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

Ethel V. Woodward

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

The 5th meeting of the Guild was held on Tuesday afternoon at Lyceum Hall with a large number of members present. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Thos. Caufield, Mrs. Henry Leen, Mrs. Leslie Cox, Mrs. Thos. Henry, Mrs. John J. Costello.

Final arrangements were made for the penny sale to be given on Friday, Dec. 14 at 2 p. m. Donations for the sale will be received at the hall Friday morning. All members are invited to come and bring their friends. Grandma Dolan will have her "grabs" which delight the old as well as the young. Miss Mabelle Siske is chairman of this sale.

All the members were enthusiastic over the plans for the annual Xmas party to be held on the Thursday afternoon following Xmas, Dec. 27. Miss Mary A. Lyons is chairman and will be assisted by a large committee. The members of the board will act as hostesses, with Mrs. John S. O'Leary as chairman. The success of these parties in the past guarantees that this will be a happy affair.

The new year books are ready for distribution. A standing vote of thanks was given Mrs. W. J. Campbell for her kindness and patience in compiling all the data in the book. Members who have not obtained their copies and who desire them before the next meeting, should call at the home of Mrs. T. A. Dissel, 8 Fairview terrace.

Glee Club

The Glee Club will meet this week at the home of Mrs. C. G. Shaw, Oxford street. On the Sunday before Xmas, the club will give a program for the veterans at Bedford.

On Dec. 21, those who are able to come are invited to sing carols at the Washington School in connection with their Xmas program.

During the month of January an afternoon of music will be given at the Holy Ghost Hospital for Incurables.

The Guild had as their guest on Tuesday, Miss Elizabeth McNamee of Dorchester, who is well known to Winchester residents. Her paper was an interesting account of the lives of two Southern poets, Rev. Abram Ryan and Rev. John Tabb.

Following the meeting, tea was served by the hostesses. Holly and red tapers on the tea tables reminding us that the Xmas season is with us once again.

Mrs. John S. O'Leary, who supervises the sewing of the Guild has 700 pieces of clothing to distribute to needy mothers and children.

CURLERS OUT LAST SUNDAY

The fine ice at the Country Club rink lured out the curling devotees last Sunday morning and an interesting informal match was staged by teams comprising E. Y. Neill, No. 1; Geoffrey Neiley, No. 2; and Charles P. LeRoyer skip; and Richard Fenno, No. 1; Robert F. Guild, No. 2; and Bowen Tufts, skip. The LeRoyer skipped team won, 12—3 and already the local curlers are talking of matches with Nashua, The Country Club, Brae Burn, Boston Curling Club and Worcester Bowling and Curling.

Last Sunday's ice on the rink covering the third and fourth fairways was four inches thick and there was plenty of fancy skating, some hockey and numerous family skating parties. The winter sports committee of the Country Club was organized on Sunday with Charles P. LeRoyer as chairman and Robert F. Guild, secretary.

WINCHESTER AUXILIARY M. S. P. C. A. NOTES

Christmas for Horses

The Massachusetts S. P. C. A. will observe its annual custom of distributing Christmas dinners for horses on the Saturday before the holiday. At the most advantageous places available, generous bags of feed will be given to drivers, or place on their trucks for home consumption. The horses of "peddlers' rest" will be visited and each supplied with a 20-pound bag of oats, eat-up apples and carrots. Any surplus will be carried to stables where it will be most acceptable. So many have contributed towards this holiday celebration in the past that we feel they will very gladly send a donation, however small, to insure its repetition.

Dr. Francis H. Rowley, president of the M. S. P. C. A. has issued his annual Christmas appeal for a bigger and better horses' Christmas, which will be observed Saturday, Dec. 22. He states there are about 5000 horses in and around Greater Boston, and has asked contributions of oats, carrots and apples for the horses and coffee and sandwiches for the drivers.

The Winchester Auxiliary M. S. P. C. A. will send its contribution of oats and calls upon its friends to contribute "Christmas Bags" of carrots or apples. Please bear in mind that the bags must be at Mr. Kelley's office, Railroad avenue, not later than Wednesday, Dec. 19 as the truck will leave early Thursday morning for the Longwood avenue.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"Limehouse Blue" with George Ede, Anna May Wong and Jean Parker as the featured players, will headline the double bill opening at the fine Granada Theatre in Malden on Saturday. With London's famous Chinatown as its locale, "Limehouse Blue" is a story dealing with the notorious Thames River Pirates and the tangled threads of a noble and touching love. George Raft, Anna May Wong and Jean Parker, according to advance report, all turn in excellent performances.

"By Your Leave," a gay and brilliant comedy, with Frank Morgan and Genevieve Tobin as the featured lovers as husband and wife who meet with surprising experiences during a marital holiday. The plot concerns the inevitable complex which engulfs Frederick Frank Morgan. Morgan feels that his wife, Genevieve Tobin ought to give him a marital holiday during which he can have his fast thing and prove that he still possesses attraction for the ladies. Thinking it will teach him a lesson the wife agrees. Morgan rushes to New York and straightway meets bitter disillusion.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Traffic Officer James F. Noonan fairly bubbles over with efficiency. And nothing ever causes "Jim" to lose his poise and outstanding courtesy. All in all, he is a mighty good advertisement for fair Winchester, according to one out of town motorist.

Fewer clothes reveal all finer bodies, avers a medieval authority. The women of Winchester found that out a long time ago.

We know one speaking likeness here in Winchester that is shut up in a fair damsel's locket.

A corn doctor says he is not easily shocked.

How many old timers remember when they made rings from horse-shoe nails and presented them to their sweeties?

And when the lads in the shoe shine parlor caused two ladies' skirts to be cut here before giving the girls a shine?

The Winchester Unitarian Players are an aggregation of Thespians of high spirits and exceptional dramatic ability. They are delightful young people, and Faith Cole, author of "As Once You Were," is thoroughly in the spirit of exceptional dramatic composition when he takes up the pen.

It is remarkable how many people in and out of Winchester appear to be color blind. For proof of this just watch them making their way across the street on the red traffic light.

When an ancient city built a wall it was used as much to keep the people of the city in as to keep enemies out. But that was before the day of the automobile.

According to one Winchester philosopher there are mistakes that it would be a mistake to make.

We hate to have to say so but it's a fact that even here in fair Winchester many a man's happy home is happy when he isn't there.

It isn't so very many years ago that the young bloods of Winchester wore "side board" collars, stiff and glossy from the laundry, about 2½ to 3½ inches high.

Once upon a time a woman here in Winchester made a fool of a man—and he hasn't got over it yet.

Some people you meet on the streets of Winchester act as if they thought they were responsible for the weather.

Are you using Christmas seals generously this year?

Last Friday evening, Special Officer Michael J. Foley notified Headquarters that a group of boys were creating a disturbance at the high school and had broken a window leading to the auditorium of the building. The boys fled at the approach of the police, but one of the group was caught and turned over to his parents.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

"The Age of Innocence" starring Irene Dunne and John Boles, plus "The Firebird," with an all star cast that includes Ricardo Cortez, Anita Louise, Verree Teasdale and Lionel Atwill, is the double bill starting a seven day run at the Strand Theatre in Malden on Saturday. "The Age of Innocence" presents Irene Dunne in the role of a beautiful but disillusioned girl who has been the victim of a loveless marriage. John Boles, who seeks to right the mistake and find happiness with the man she loves, only to be balked at every turn by the hidebound social tenets of the era. John Boles, as the son of a ultra-blueblood of New York family is the object of Miss Dunne's affection.

"The Firebird" is an adaptation of the sensational Broadway stage success of a season ago. The theme revolves about the strange and fatal fascination of a gay, popular, although unscrupulous artist over a beautiful young girl. Ricardo Cortez portrays the egotistical and insufferable actor who first attempts to lure the mother into a clandestine affair, and upon failing, turns his attentions to the daughter. Verree Teasdale plays the mother who tries to sacrifice her own reputation and her very life to save her daughter, Anita Louise.

"JUDGE PRIEST" GREAT ROLE, SAYS PLAYER

Irvin Cobb Delights Rogers by Giving Him Another "Old Clothes" Part

The most successful pictures Will Rogers has made are those in which he has worn old clothes. On many occasions these have been the identical overalls and jumper he wears on his ranch.

So far as his pictures are concerned, Will admits that he regards most highly his newest, "Judge Priest," which will arrive at the Capitol Theatre on Thursday.

"Now there's a picture with a world of humanity in it," says the sage of Claremore, Oklahoma. "Irvin Cobb wrote flesh and blood into the 'Priest' stories and they've been given a mighty fine treatment by the studio."

Also "Dick" Powell in his latest musical success, "Happiness Ahead," with Frank McHugh, Allen Jenkins and Josephine Hutchinson.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

A new romantic screen team will share the acting honors at the University Theatre starting Sunday when Constance Bennett and Herbert Marshall appear in the two principal roles in "Outcast Lady." In addition to Miss Bennett and Marshall, the screen version of the Michael Arlen story boasts a great cast of stage and screen names, including Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Elizabeth Allen, Henry Stephenson, Robert Loraine, Leo Carroll, Hugh Williams and Alec B. Francis. A story of brilliance, of modern, highly intelligent people, of men and women who live sophisticated, colorful lives, "Outcast Lady," is heralded as one of the smartest dramatic attractions of the season.

An exceptionally large and talented cast was selected to play in support of James Cagney in "The St. Louis Kid," the companion picture. Allen Jenkins, Hobart Cavanaugh, Spencer Charters, Dorothy Dare and Arthur Aleswoth form an excellent comedy team for the hilarious situations in the picture.

Samuel Goldwyn's presentation of "We Live Again," starring Anna Sten and Frederic March, begins Thursday. This adaptation of Leo Tolstoy's immortal novel, "Resurrection," tells in vivid and dramatic fashion the powerful and beautiful love story of the little Russian peasant girl, Katusha, who loved and was betrayed by a Prince.

"Great Expectations," the filmization of the Charles Dickens' immortal classic, is the companion film. All the lovers of Dickens will enjoy the thrill of seeing their favorite characters come to life on the screen. Because of the extreme length of the program, "Great Expectations," will start promptly at 1:15, instead of the usual 2 o'clock starting time.

MYSTIC THEATRE, MALDEN ATTRACTIONS

"I Sell Anything," First National's new comedy romance, with a very amusing and unique plot, opens Saturday, Dec. 15 at the Mystic Theatre, Malden, with an all star cast. Pat O'Brien, Ann Dvorak and Claire Dodd, who head the cast, form the triangle. Ann falls desperately in love with Pat, a fast talking, fast action auctioneer who can sell anything, including his own heart, until he bumps into a clever adventuress in the person of Miss Dodd, who proceeds to take him on a sleigh ride. The picture is filled with unusual and laughable situations and smart, sophisticated dialogue. The supporting cast includes among others Roscoe Karns, Hobart Cavanaugh, Russell Hopton and Robert Barrat.

One of the novels from the gift pen of that well known author, Mary Roberts Rinehart, supplies the story for the second feature at the Mystic Theatre this coming week, "Elinor Norton." The cast includes Claire Trevor, Hugh Williams, Norman Foster, Gilbert Roland, Henrietta Crossman and Theodore von Eltz. "Elinor Norton" is the story of a girl whose life is motivated by three men. All of them love her in their separate ways—one cruelly, one desperately, one unselfishly. Terrific conflict is developed by the presence of these three contrasted types—each one representing a phase of the girl's life.

A copy of ADDLEGRAMS will add fun to your Christmas party. Mary Karns, Hobart Cavanaugh, Russell Spaulding's Bookshop. d11-2t

WINCHESTER ROCKET CLUB

The solicitor, for funds to purchase equipment for the club, was amazed by the community spirit shown by the merchants of this town when they so readily pledged support for the team financially.

We feel that we can put a team on the ice that will satisfy everyone the fact that they have given us.

A contribution from any person or organization in town, large or small, will be gratefully appreciated.

If you are interested in joining the organization please get in touch with Frank Croft, Wm. 1839.

Shortly before 6 o'clock last Saturday evening, Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell of the Police Department picked up a thinly clad man who said he was on his way to Boston to get a job with a steamship line. He gave his name as Joseph G. Fratus and address as Lowell. The authorities were afraid he would suffer from exposure and held him over night at headquarters.

COME DOWN TO THE CONGO YOUNG PEOPLE'S SUNDAY

Were you one of the young people at the First Congregational Church last Sunday evening? If so, you heard Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols speak on, "Mountain Trails." There were about 70 present to hear this interesting talk, after which a delicious supper was served in the social hall.

If you didn't attend this meeting, be sure to come Sunday and hear Miss Evelyn Scott, the director of religious education at the Congregational Church, speak on, "Christmas in Art." For those who haven't been to any of these Sunday evening gatherings, here is an excellent opportunity to attend one of special interest.

There will be supper afterwards and a sing, consisting of Christmas carols, around a Christmas tree.

If you're of high school age or over this is the place to spend your Sunday evenings from 6 to 7:30.

WYMAN SCHOOL NOTES

The Mothers' Association, represented by Mrs. Harmer, Mrs. Conners, Mrs. Penniman, Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Shoemaker, gave this Wednesday the third of the delicious lunches served this year to the Wyman School teachers.

For the Christmas season, the Junior Red Cross members, 100 per cent enrolled, are busy making small inexpensive gifts to be given to other children in hospitals, aged people, and veterans.

During the past three weeks there have been three plays given in the upper class assemblies. Miss Wallace's sixth grade entertained upon the Tuesday before Thanksgiving with two appropriate plays. In the first a plucky boy, gathering driftwood to cook his meager dinner, was rewarded by an admiring sea captain with a fine Thanksgiving dinner for his whole family. The second play showed Becky Landers, of the Kentucky frontier, turkey-hunting, and accidentally scaring Indians about to attack farmers in her section.

On the first Tuesday in December, Miss Chapman's fifth grade entertained. Detailed scenes were acted from the celebration of Christmas in other lands. The feasting, devotions, presenting of gifts, and the manner of gift left outside for Kriss Kringle were shown. Scenes from Holland, Spain, Italy and Russia, were among those so interestingly costumed and acted.

On Dec. 11, Miss Bowie's fifth grade, the entire class appropriately costumed, represented an old fashioned school. Here the children, adroitly called on by an "ancient school master" gave a very full account of their class research upon gold. Its location was shown by means of well drawn maps. The processes of refining gold, its uses, discovery and the resulting settlement of California were finely presented.

The lower grade assemblies were entertained by the first grades during the past two weeks. Miss Woodbury's class gave a health play where children cunningly dressed as animals questioned a certain little boy on the health rules. The health lessons of vegetable eating and exercise were thus most effectively taught.

Miss Hackett's first grade gave an assembly arisine from the farm unit which the children are studying. They were miniature farmers and farmerettes, in sunbonnets and overalls, showing the other children how they raked and hoed and planted.

BETHANY NEWS

The December luncheon was well attended and all enjoyed very much the appetizing menu served. Business meeting followed and several important matters were settled. The Bethany day is changed to Tuesday, the first of each month, but on account of New Year's Day coming on Tuesday, the January luncheon and meeting will come Wednesday as usual. Ask your secretaries to jot down this record, so you can somehow fix the date or dates in your mind.

The Christmas party will come on Friday afternoon in the assembly hall, the Friday following Christmas, Dec. 28 at 2:30 o'clock. All Bethany ladies are invited. Come and have a pleasant afternoon. The usual gift-exchange will be a feature of the afternoon's entertainment.

Don't forget the baked bean supper this Friday evening, given under the auspices of the Missionary Society.

Following on its heels, comes the movie night, Tuesday, the 18th, and it is hoped everyone will avail themselves of this opportunity to see Janet Gaynor in another attractive film. For transportation and other arrangements, inquire of Mrs. Christine Thompson, or any member of the church. Everyone is most welcome.

Sunday School activities are brisk, too. There will be a Christmas party for the upstairs group Friday evening, in the assembly hall. The party for the primary department is scheduled for 1:30 on Saturday afternoon and an appointment has been made with Santa Claus, who will appear in person at this time. The Sunday concert will be held at 1:30 p. m., instead of at 6 o'clock, as formerly. This seems a better time for everyone, especially for the younger children.

We are pleased to announce the arrival of another Bethany baby, Gordon Robert Richbing, born Sunday, Dec. 2. He and his mother are doing well and expect to celebrate Christmas at home.

RICHARD B. CALDWELL MARRIED

THE EVERLASTING GIFT

A star quite unlike any star ever known
Revealed to the earth in a way all its own
The birth of a Way, a Truth and a Light,
Conceded in a Saviour on that Holy night.

The joy and assurance of that great event
Bespeaks of a Father, who lovingly sent
His best to the world, that man might receive
The Choicest of heaven to love and believe.

Let's cling to this Gift from the Father above,
And seek to proclaim this Infinite love;
So live it each day, that all men may know
That Christ lives in us wherever we go.

Let's aim to completely surrender our will
To Jesus, and so help Him to fulfill
His mission from God in heaven, to earth
Of grieve all men a regenerate birth.

To this very day our hope is secure,
And anchored by faith forever to endure.
We're concerns of this with each passing breath,
And anxiously wait its presence in death

CALUMET CLUB NOTES

"Walt" Cunningham's Orchestra has been positively secured by the committee in charge of the New Year's party to be staged at the Calumet Club on that big gala occasion of the entire winter season.

This well known band is much in demand for college dances and club festivities and after an audition at the Calumet Club last Sunday was signed for New Year's, those who heard the musicians perform being very enthusiastic about their tone and tempos.

Alreacy Calumeters are signing up for the New Year's festivities and by the number planning to attend that "best ever" statement of Wallace Flanders and "Bob" Reynolds looks more and more like a straight tip. Don't forget, dinner, entertainment, dancing and a general good time with a good crowd in pleasant surroundings. It's your fault if you aren't in on it!

The house bowling tournament is in full swing and the standing of teams as of Dec. 13 is announced as follows:

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The Scouts of the Senior Troop will conduct a cookie sale, baked fresh every hour, Saturday, Dec. 15 at the Arlington Gas Light office, all day beginning at 9.

The Winchester Girl Scout Council and Leaders' Association meet together on Wednesday at Cedar Hill to hear about the program there for the coming year. This Girl Scout enterprise is now under new management and everything possible is being done to make this lovely spot of great use to Scouts and their friends for relaxation and outdoor sports. Comfortable rooms and excellent meals may be had by those who want a restful week-end. Simple meals or tea at moderate prices will be served for those who come for a short time. Skiing, snow-shoeing, coasting and skating are among the out-door activities planned for the coming months. It is hoped that Scouts and their friends will make use of the facilities of Cedar Hill.

EXAMINATION FOR NEW POSTMASTER

United States Civil Service Commission
Washington, D. C.

Editor,
Winchester Star,
Winchester, Mass.

Dec. 5, 1934

Sir:

The Commission is in receipt of a letter from its local secretary at Winchester to the effect that he had notified you of the examination for Postmaster at your city, but that up to the time of writing he had failed to see a notice of it in your paper.

While the Commission does not pretend to tell an editor what he shall or shall not publish, it is believed that an announcement of this examination has sufficient news value to your readers to warrant its publication as a news item.

The editors of papers in other cities are anxious for and solicit such notices.

It is hoped that you may find space in your paper for a short notice of the examination, the receipt of applications for which closes at Washington on December 18, 1934.

By direction of the Commission:
Very respectfully,
L. A. Moyer, Chief Examiner

United States Civil Service Commission,
Washington, D. C.
File E & R: TAG: 11.

Gentlemen:

Pursuant to your letter of Dec. 5, may I inform you that I am pleased to give notice through the Star of an examination for Postmaster of Winchester, applications for which close at Washington on Dec. 18, 1934.

While it has not been the custom of the Star to print the lists of civil service examinations, other than those called for Annapolis and West Point appointments and for clerks and carriers at the local Post Office, owing to their volume and the space required, I am glad to comply in this case with your desires and those of your local secretary.

Respectfully,
Theo. P. Wilson

Dec. 10, 1934

U. S. Civil Service Examination for Postmaster

The United States Civil Service Commission, at the request of the Postmaster General, announces a competitive examination for Postmaster in this city.

Receipt of applications to close Dec. 18, 1934.

This examination is held under the President's Order of July 12, 1933, and not under the civil service act and rules.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated upon their education and training, business experience, and fitness.

Apply to the secretary of the board of civil service examiners at the post office in this city or to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., for application Form 10, and Form 2213 containing definite information in regard to the examination.

Applications must be properly executed on Form 10 and filed with the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., prior to the hour of closing business on the date specified above.

WARNING—All persons are warned against offering, promising, paying, soliciting, or receiving any money or other valuable thing as a political contribution or otherwise for use of influence, support, or promise of support in obtaining appointment. Any such act is a violation of law, and offenders will be prosecuted.

United States Civil Service Commission

Those who have secured applications for examination for Postmaster to date are Messrs. P. J. Coss, William Mullvahy, Wm. E. McDonald, Thomas F. Fallon, Michael J. Foley.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held on Monday evening, Dec. 17. There will be a short business meeting, followed by a Christmas tree for members only in charge of Elizabeth Mitchell and Alma Colgate. This will be for members only. After the tree, there will be whist, in charge of Bessie Pierce, Blanche Bonnett and Mary Carroll will have charge of the refreshments.

Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, who is representing Winchester Chapter, No. 16, World War Mothers of New England, has extended an invitation to the Auxiliary to be present at the institution and installation of officers at the Legion headquarters on Monday, Dec. 17, at 2:30 p. m.

Mrs. Mary Carroll, the Auxiliary chaplain, is to be the President of the new chapter, and the Auxiliary wishes for her a very successful and happy year.

Mrs. Anna Colgate entertained the members and friends of the Auxiliary at a delightful bridge party at her home on Wednesday evening. A goodly sum was realized and devoted to the American Legion Christmas tree fund.

The Auxiliary acknowledges at this time with appreciation, the generous donation of the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild, of which Mrs. Nora Ambrose is Regent.

The American Legion Auxiliary of the Somerville Post has invited the Winchester unit to be present at its installation of officers on Friday, Dec. 14 at 8 p. m. in the Junior High School on Summer street.

ROTARY CLUB

Three members were absent from the meeting of Dec. 13.

Our genial friend, Winn Brown, President of the Rotary Club of Woburn, broke bread with us today. And as an ambassador of good will we can affirm that Winn's technique is perfect. For with little effort, he cleared away certain misunderstandings with respect to the first meeting in January. It is now determined that our club will visit at Woburn on Thursday, Jan. 3, where in addition to Woburn friends, we shall greet the greater part, possibly the entire membership of the Wakefield club. There is a special significance to this "three-W" meeting, so-called. For Wakefield sponsored the Woburn club back in 1924 and who of us older Winchester Rotarians can forget that famous "Father's Day" of 1927 when our good Woburn neighbors accepted responsibility for the then infant club of Winchester. By all means, let us go to Woburn 100 per cent strong on Jan. 3.

We have previously mentioned the approaching celebration of the 25th anniversary of the organization of the Rotary Club of Boston as well as the announcement that Paul Harris, founder of Rotary, will be present to make the celebration complete. And now notice is given that Paul will hold an informal reception at 6 p. m. just before the banquet on Dec. 27, when every Rotarian will have opportunity for a word of greeting with Rotary's "Grand Old Man," an elder brother in whom the spirit of youth and fellowship glows eternally. And we of New England to be sure, have a particular interest in Paul Harris, for he is a native of Vermont, a state which has matured many of America's finest citizens.

Daniel C. Bennett was guest speaker at the current meeting of our club. Daniel has recently returned from an extensive tour of Africa and of Africa he spoke at this time. Not the Africa of desert and forest which intrigues the ordinary traveler. Not the Africa of blue seas, of lofty mountains, vast lakes, great beasts, pigmy men and loathsome disease, which comprises the tales of the ordinary traveler. Instead we learned of the young industrial giant which is challenging the commercial supremacy of the world's great nations, including our own. For we are told that Africa with her cheap labor and well nigh inexhaustible supplies of raw materials, such as coal, copper, various rare but indispensable metals, growing cotton and sisal acreage, etc., is rapidly working itself into a position where it can and will dominate the markets of Christendom. And surely here is food for deep, deep thought.

For the Rotary Club of Winchester and its youthful guests, Christmas Day, will fall on Dec. 20. Wherefore, it is idle to talk of 100 per cent meetings. Most assuredly this will be, "Every Member's Meeting."

Percentage of Attendance, Dec. 6—100 per cent

YUGOSLAVIA: MIXING, BUT NOT MELTING, POT

Yugoslavia, whose king was assassinated in Marseilles recently, is southeastern Europe's cauldron of races, a mixing, but not melting, pot of many contrasting tongues, religions, customs, and traditions, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Immediately following the close of the World War, the new nation was formed from Serbia, Montenegro, and several provinces of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire. Serbia, with its capital, Beograd (Belgrade), was used as a nucleus, and to it were added Croatia-Slavonia, Bosnia, Dalmatia, Hercegovina, and several other units. This loosely-knit union was named "The Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes."

In 1930 a reorganization of the Kingdom took place. Its 33 provinces were consolidated into nine banats, or states, and a federal district around the capital, Beograd. The Kingdom itself took on the name "Yugoslavia."

Second Largest Balkan State

Although Yugoslavia is the second largest of the Balkan States, with an area equal to that of the State of Oregon, much of the land is mountainous, rocky or barren, and the bulk of the population is composed of small peasant farmers, herders, and foresters.

It is easier to understand the problems that have beset the new nation since its birth when it is considered that of its 13,930,000 population about 10,700,000 speak Serbo-Croatian; 1,135,000 Slovenian, and other large blocs Romanian, German, Hungarian, Albanian, Italian, and assorted Slav languages.

Like a warp through the woof of these divergent tongues run several different religions, chief of which is the Serbian Orthodox. The total of other creeds, however—including Roman Catholic, Greek Catholic, Moslem, Jewish and Protestant—outnumbers that of adherents to the state religion.

The Kingdom lacks adequate communications. Many of its principal highways are of Roman origin, and do not meet the needs of modern motor traffic. Of its 6000 miles of railroad, almost a third is narrow-gauge. The Danube and the Sava rivers, however, carry considerable commerce, and along the Dalmatian coast the nation has several excellent harbors.

Yugoslavia's key industries, based on timber, chemicals, iron and sugar beets are retarded by her lack of fuel. Costly importations of coal must supplement her inadequate output of about 5,000,000 tons a year.

The output of the key industries, together with live stock, cereals, bauxite, and cement, form Yugoslavia's exports. Her imports consist chiefly of raw materials for her textile and other industries, to which purchases the United States contributes about 4 per cent.

After many hours' passage across the Serbian central plain, one is left with the impression that it alone might suffice as the granary of Yugoslavia's 13,000,000 people. The farming folk of this region were among the initiators of agricultural co-operatives. The Serbs' native adaptability to co-operatives may in part be due to their traditionally small (20 acre) farm holdings. Even more it may be traceable to the zadruga, under which time-honored arrangement married sons or sons-in-law simply "built on" to the patriarchal dwelling, until a family of perhaps 60 might be living beneath one roof.

Beograd, or Belgrade as the capital and chief city is known to the English-speaking world, occupies a strategic position at the meeting place of the Sava and the Danube, the Kingdom's two most important rivers. Founded during the third century B. C., it has been held successively by Celts, Romans, Huns, Goths, Bulgarians, Byzantines, Hungarians, Serbians and Austrians. Other important Yugoslavian communities are: Agram (Zagreb), Subetica and Sarajevo—the latter the place where the Archduke Ferdinand was assassinated, an event which led to the World War.

Black Flowers

There are dark shades of pansies, tulips, roses, etc., which are not absolutely black but are considered nearly black. The darkest rose known is said to be an old hybrid perpetual, Empereur du Maroc, now out of cultivation in America. A registration of the American Rose society is Queen of Spades, a hybrid tea rose, which under glass comes probably as near to black as any other rose.

Angels Landing

Not many years ago Angels Landing, the red pyramid that stands so conspicuously on the floor of Zion canyon in Utah's Zion National park, was inaccessible. Its very name came from its inaccessibility, for, argued the pioneers who named it, only a winged angel could ever reach its pinnacle. Engineers blasted a trail along the surface of the cliff, and visitors may now go to its peak.

The Great Pyrenees

The Great Pyrenees is a large, white dog of the Newfoundland type. It is thought that the Landsee-Newfoundland owes its black and white coloring to an admixture of Great Pyrenees blood.

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Dec. 16.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord preserveth all them that love him" (Psalms 145:20).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved: he that keepeth thee will not slumber. Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep" (Psalms 121:1-4).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In divine Science, man is sustained by God, the divine Principle of being. The earth, at God's command, brings forth food for man's use. Knowing this, Jesus once said, 'Take no thought for your life what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink,' presuming not on the prerogative of his creator, but recognizing God, the Father and Mother of all, as able to feed and clothe man as He doth the lilies" (p. 530).

THINK FIRST of Your Own Community

This is your community. You live here. Probably you own a home or have business interests here. In some manner, what you have or what you earn comes from this community.

Therefore, you have a personal interest in the prosperity of your community. Also, you have a plain duty as a citizen to do what you can to promote local welfare.

You help when you buy from your neighborhood merchants. You help when you deposit money in the local bank, because the bank is the chief agency by which home money is kept circulating for home good.

One of the best ways to work for your own interests is to boost community interests.

FIRE CAN NOT DESTROY NOME'S TRADITIONS

Nome, Alaska, almost entirely destroyed by fire, is an outstanding example of a town named by mistake. In early maps of Alaska one cape was left nameless and an official to whom the draft was submitted penciled beside it the query "name?" A copyist transcribed the scrawled question as "Nome," and the name stuck. When the gold rush came in 1899, the little settlement which had previously been called Anvil City, adopted the name of the cape, 11 miles to the east.

Nome is only about 120 miles southeast of Cape Prince of Wales which marks the American side of Bering Strait, and less than 150 miles from the mainland of Asia, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society headquarters in Washington, D. C. For years it has been the nearest American town of any importance to the Old World. The town sprawls along the sea shore and the Snake River where that stream flows into Bering Sea, about midway of the Alaskan west coast.

A Town Built of Wood

The buildings of Nome have always been predominantly of wood, and even the streets were paved with boards to combat the almost bottomless mud of the tundra on which the town sprang up. There has always been an autumn exodus from Nome back to "the States." This was particularly marked in the early days of the town's life when the proportion of fair-weather citizens was large.

The town lies wholly unprotected on the north coast of the icy, storm-swept Bering Sea close to the Arctic Circle, and is frozen in and snowed in for about seven months of the year. At times the snow drifts up to the eaves of the houses. Since placer mining, the community's chief industry, depends on the use of water, all activities must close when the water congeals. Nome's last boat usually leaves for Seattle about Oct. 15, and none arrives until the middle of the following June.

Gold was discovered in one of the creeks inland from the site of Nome, in the autumn of 1898. When the ice released its grip on the Bering coast the following spring, thousands of gold-seekers rushed in. Then came the astounding discovery by a United States soldier that he could pan gold from the sands of the beach.

Glamor and Tragedy Marked Nome's Life

News of this paradise for the poor miner, where it was not even necessary to file claims, spread rapidly over the world even in those radioless days. Miners in other Alaskan settlements and western United States, dropped their picks, store clerks quit their jobs, seamen deserted their ships, gamblers left their old haunts, laborers laid down their tools, and even women left comfortable homes to seek their fortunes in the Nome sands.

In two years Nome became the largest city in Alaska Territory. In the summer of 1900, it had 20,000 inhabitants. They came from all parts of the world—a colorful group who emblazoned Nome's name indelibly on the pages of Alaskan history.

Life in Nome was at once glamorous, sordid, thrilling, and tragic. Unscrupulous adventurers plied their shady tricks on innocent prospectors. Claim jumping, sometimes with the connivance of officials, was common. Gamblers grew rich from miners' gold bags and pocketbooks by the use of crooked gambling devices. No one had time to think of sanitation, so many lives were lost through typhoid, diphtheria and other diseases.

One of Greatest Gold Stampedes

Meanwhile Nome's glamor aroused the imaginations of such writers as Rex Beach and Jack London. And why not? The Nome gold rush ranks with the most remarkable stampedes in American mining history. The city grew like a mushroom. Thousands streamed in by boat and wagon and afoot. Hotels, banks, and stores, all of wood, rose along muddy lanes. Increased traffic on the streets made them knee-deep quagmires so the town covered them with sturdy boards for the safety of pedestrians.

After the golden sands of the beach were exhausted, dredges were brought in and the mining took on an industrial aspect in the creeks some miles inland. Nome's population began to dwindle. By 1903 thousands of gold seekers had died or vanished—some with purses bulging; others poorer than when they arrived. Many could not stand the cold climate, for Nome is 600 miles farther north than the southern tip of bleak Greenland, and lies in the same latitude as frigid Arkhangelsk (Archangel), Russia. The 1903 census accounted for about 7000 people during the summer and half as many in the winter. In 1910 there were 2600 residents. The town's population reached its low mark in 1920 when it was only 852. In recent years the population has been about 1200.

Altogether, between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000 in gold has been taken from the sands and creek beds of the Nome region. And the great dredges, eating away some miles inland, continue to pour out a sizable stream of the yellow metal each summer.

Poplars Impoverish Soil

Poplar trees do impoverish the soil, in the sense that they sap the moisture out of the soil and make it difficult for other plants to obtain sufficient moisture. This habit of poplar trees is caused by the fact that their roots are surficial and do not descend to any depth.

WINCHESTER EXHIBITORS SCORED IN CAVALRY SHOW

Two Winchester exhibitors ran away with top honors in the opening event of the big 110th Cavalry Horse Show in the Commonwealth Armory last Thursday evening.

The event was especially interesting in that it was for novice saddle horses that had never won a blue ribbon in a recognized show.

Judge Arthur Black of Everett avenue rode his chestnut mare "Abie's Irish Rose" to the blue in this event and was followed by Miss Gladys Marchant of Rangely who won the red with her chestnut mare, "Bit o' Glory."

On Saturday afternoon Miss Helen Downer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cutler B. Downer of Sheffield road placed fourth in the riding competition for girls between 12 and 17 years of age.

HUNT—BARTLETT

Only members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends attended the marriage of Miss Marguerite Wilder Bartlett, daughter of Mrs. Marguerite Huntington Bartlett of Warren street, to Albert Frank Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frederick Hunt of Cabot street, in the Church of the Epiphany at high noon on Saturday, Dec. 8.

The simple ceremony was performed by Rev. William S. Packer of this town, and Miss Bartlett was given in marriage by her uncle, Frederick Orin Bartlett, the author, of Cambridge. The bride, who was unattended, wore a blue traveling costume with matching hat and a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. Mr. Hunt had his father for his best man.

An informal reception was held immediately following the ceremony, after which Mr. Hunt and his bride left on a wedding journey. They are to make their home at 131 Ocean street in Lynn.

The bride is a graduate of the Cambridge Haskell School. The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and is associated with his father in the A. C. Lawrence Company of Peabody.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clark, who are now at the Commander Hotel in Cambridge, expect to be in their new home in Bolton by Christmas.

Mr. Harrison Chadwick of Everett avenue returned home last week after a two weeks' trip to Detroit.

WINCHESTER MAN TRANSFERRED TO NEW YORK

Robert F. Lybeck Given Farewell Dinner

Robert F. Lybeck of Everell road, assistant general sales manager of the Colonial Beacon Oil Company, recently promoted to be assistant manager of the sales lubrication division in charge of automotive products for the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and Colonial Beacon Company, with headquarters in New York, was guest of honor at a dinner in the Hotel Statler last Thursday evening.

Arranged primarily by Mr. Lybeck's associates on the New Hampshire Petroleum Committee of the N. R. A., the dinner was also attended by friends and associates in the oil industry around Boston, about 100 guests being present.

J. R. Pitman, of the Gulf Refining Company, presided. On behalf of the group, he presented Mr. Lybeck with a marble desk set suitably inscribed. Elmer Smith, speaking for the New Hampshire Committee, told of the remarkable co-operation given by their chairman from the time of his appointment.

Mr. Lybeck graduated from Tufts College in 1915 and continued there until he received a master's degree in science in 1918. He joined the Colonial Beacon Oil Company when it was organized in 1920 as a chemical engineer. He was transferred to the sales department in 1926 and three years later was promoted to assistant general sales manager.

When the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey revamped the executive department of Colonial Beacon here in 1932, Mr. Lybeck became manager of the lubricating oil sales New England section, Society of Automotive Engineers, and became its chairman a few years ago.

His new position is a very responsible one as his department reaches out to cover the Standard Oil Companies of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Louisiana, also the Colonial Beacon Oil Company lubricating sales division relating to automotive products.

Mr. Lybeck came to Winchester from Everett in 1927, and during his residence has made many friends who, while pleased to learn of his promotion, will regret his removal to New York. His family will remain in Winchester for a time at least.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Morrison of Glen road entertained a group of their friends Saturday night in the barn at the rear of their home.

Mrs. John Murray entertained a large group of friends last Friday night at a whist and bridge party at her home on Water street.

AN APPEAL

Is there anyone in Winchester who has an electric radio which they do not use and would care to give to an old man who has no enjoyment of any kind. He is employed with ERA and it can be readily seen he can ill afford any kind of enjoyment. He comes of an old American family and although down in his luck, still hopes for better days. Anyone having a radio, may call the Star Office and it will be called for and delivered.

READING "TOUGH" ON ALL SPEEDERS

Six Auto Deaths Bring "No Fix" Tags, Traps, and Unique "Courtesy Cards"

Automobile drivers from this vicinity had better be careful when going through Reading for that town has just launched one of the most drastic drives ever undertaken against speeders and reckless drivers as a result of a series of recent auto wrecks in which six persons were killed. The Boston-Reading-Lawrence turnpike is the second most travelled highway in the state.

The weapons of the Reading police in this campaign are: 1. Day and night auto traps operated along the Stoneham-Andover turnpike. 2. "No fix" policy which makes it impossible for any offender, no matter what his so-called "influence," to get off from receiving either a warning ticket or a court summons. 3. All-day motor patrol of main highways assisted by extra state police. 4. Unique "courtesy cards" that are sent to those committing minor violations of the motor vehicle laws.

Since the drive started word has got around that "Reading cops are tough on speeders and once you are caught you can't get your case fixed." The result is that out-of-town motorists now slow down when going through the community.

The "courtesy cards," original with Reading, contain a photo of a recently wrecked auto in which three Reading persons were killed. Under it are the words: "Accidents like this are caused by these offenses." The various offenses are listed.

On the reverse side of the card are the words: "From the Reading Police. This is a polite warning."

"On..............a Reading police officer observed that you were using an automobile in such a way as might have caused an accident.

Had you caused an accident, you would have always regretted your carelessness.

Auto accidents killed 769 and seriously injured 48,249 in Massachusetts last year. Many were innocent little children.

If you heed the lesson of this courteous message, in the future you will use more care and you will be glad the Reading police officer brought this matter to your attention.

If you ignore this warning and are caught again in this community violating the motor vehicle laws, you invite serious trouble. The officer's report, which prompted this warning card, is kept on file at the Reading police station."

WILL MEET DEC. 17

On Monday, Dec. 17, the Black Horse Tavern Society Children of the American Revolution will meet at the home of its Junior President, Miss Barbara Kelley, 3 Willow street, Winchester at 3:30 p. m. It has been arranged that the members will contribute toward a Christmas box of gifts for Hillside School in Marlboro, Mass., and after a short business meeting, the program will be in charge of the older girls under the supervision of Mrs. Chester L. Whitaker of West Medford, after which the society will enjoy a social hour and refreshments.

The officers for the current year are:

Senior President, Mrs. Archibald C. Jordan
Junior President, Miss Barbara Kelley
Secretary, Arthur Hall Chandler, C. R. [illegible]
Treasurer, Margaret Heath
Registrar, Hope Whitaker of West Medford

E. R. A. CHORISTERS PRESENTED FINE PROGRAM

The Greater Boston E. R. A. Chorus of 100 voices, under the direction of William Ellis Weston, presented the following program in the Town Hall last Saturday evening: Mozart, "Gloria;" Haydn-Wood, "Roses of Picardy;" Protheroe, "Laudamus;" Old Welsh, "All Through the Night;" James, "Through the Dark the Dreamers Came;" Adams, "O, Holy Night;" Sullivan, "Dance a Cachucha" from "The Gondoliers;" Jacobs-Bond, "A Perfect Day;" Coleridge-Taylor, "The Viking Song." Pianists were Gertrude Frazee and Susan Maxim Bennett. The women of the chorus were grouped in a semi-circle on the floor of the hall directly in front of the stage, on which the men sat with the piano. Mr. Weston conducted from a platform placed in the center aisle facing the singers.

It is regrettable that more of the townspeople did not avail themselves of the opportunity to hear this splendid group of professional musicians present the well chosen program they sang last Saturday. Constant rehearsing and numerous concert appearances have developed an esprit de corps which is clearly reflected in the performance of the chorus, their singing having a balance and finish seldom attained by amateur groups.

While the audience was very small, it was especially appreciative and even the youngest members maintained absolute silence during the singing of the numbers. Conductor Weston stated that the local audience was the most appreciative that his singers had yet appeared before and was particularly pleased with the prolonged applause that greeted the concluding number on the program.

So long did this applause continue that the conductor was obliged to stop it. After doing so he turned and asked the audience to join the chorus in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

The appearance of the E. R. A. choristers in Winchester was sponsored by Winchester Post, 97, American Legion and the ushers for the evening were headed by the Post Commander John H. McCarthy. The corps comprised William E. Ramsdell, Vincent P. Clarke, Conrad Larson, Kenneth Hall, Harry Goodwin, Fred Baker, P. T. Foley and Stafford Rogers.

SKATING AT LEONARD FIELD BEACH

Park Commissioner George T. Davidson has always been enthusiastic about the possibilities of skating at Leonard Field Beach and the present cold snap has caused ice to form on the river at that point plenty thick enough for safety. As the water is not deep in the river, parents are glad to let their youngsters skate there, and to guard against any possible danger from the very slight current in the stream, the Park Department men have placed a barrier at the upper end of the river which effectively stops the motion of the water.

MORNING MUSICALE

One of the out-standing musical events of the winter season was the Morning Musicale held in the spacious music room in the home of Mrs. M. Francesca G. Ginn on last Friday and sponsored by Group four of the Women's Guild of the First Congregational Church, Mrs. F. Patterson Smith, chairman. Morning coffee was served and Mrs. Howard J. Chidley and Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes were at the tables.

Clinton Jonas, concert pianist, was the artist and he played before a distinguished and music-loving audience. In his program choice he was most happy because he drew from the Romantic composers Schubert, Chopin, Liszt and the not too terrifically modern ones Rachmaninoff, Satie, Stojowski and Grieg.

To the romantic school we owe many of our finest works and the composers of this period were the prime movers in those strivings for freedom and ideals which has made modern music what it is.

The opening number, a Schubert one, Theme and Variations, while neither sublime nor deeply introspective has a simple, direct appeal and a highly lyric melody that makes one see in Schubert the forerunner of "Songs Without Words."

The Chopin group which followed was easily the most lovely. Here Mr. Jonas' variety of selection showed the flower of romantic music in fullest bloom. The Etude in A Major may be considered an example par excellence of Chopin's style. The lyric melody, the fascinating modulations, the delicate coloring, cause this etude to be considered one of the finest. In the Scherzo in C Major, we have the fiery, dis-unified, dramatic Chopin. We are grateful to Mr. Jonas for including one of the lesser known works of this master, the B Minor Mazurka, an exquisite cameo, notable particularly for its haunting, pathetic ending an effect obtained by alternating the minor and major modes.

A Liszt number, "Harmonie du Soir" concluded the first half of the program. If the harmonies in this work were a trifle cloying, the genuine poetic inspiration of its creator was very apparent.

Two pieces of Rachmaninoff opened the modern group, "Melodie" and the lovely G Minor Prelude. It is regrettable that popular fancy has so ardently seized upon the C Sharp Minor Prelude when there are so many more grateful Rachmaninoff works. We are indebted to Mr. Jonas for including two of them in his recital.

Erik Satie's "Gnossiennes," inspired by Rhabelais' "Salmundy," a genuinely descriptive and fantastically whimsical piece was a delightful inclusion. Satie, considered iconaclastic, 20 years ago, stands because of his rare gift for humor, at once serious and ironical, a solitary figure in French Musical Literature. We should like to hear more of his works.

The now living Polish-American Stojowski, distinguished for belles-lettres and musical compositions created "Chant d'amour," Mr. Jonas' next offering. In this charming piece we see a close kin-ship between Stojowski and the Polish Chopin. "Chant d'amour" has the soaring melody and colorful harmony that is characteristic of Chopin.

"On the Mountains" by the impressionistic Norwegian, Edvard Grieg, concluded the program. This descriptive piece is saturated in that bold original harmony and brilliant coloring that belongs to Grieg alone.

Two Chopin numbers, the exquisite and technically difficult "Berceuse" and the fiery 24th Prelude were encores.

Mr. Jonas played throughout with a keen regard for shading and for nuance the tones seemed to undulate like the waves. The vitality and precision of his accent gave a brilliance to his playing that was not blurred even in the most rapid passages. The artist's knowledge of pedal technique, so often lamentally lacking and so very necessary particularly in Chopin, is also to be commended. Thus did he obtain a rich color and warmth of tone.

Mr. Jonas' use and not abuse of tempo rubato caused one to remember Huneker's remark "Chopin must be played in curves" and with emotional freedom. Especially in the Chopin numbers did the artist preserve the ground rhythm, though with subtle and varied fluctuations.

Mr. Jonas was at his best in his Chopin interpretations. All the appealing melodies, wealth of harmonies, brilliant coloristic embellishments were most artistically executed.

We look forward with no little pleasure to Mr. Jonas' next program which, one hears, will be devoted to the works of Chopin.

CHRISTENED SUNDAY

John Hay Caldwell, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Caldwell of 1109 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, was christened Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. Caldwell's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Keyes, High street, Ipswich. Rev. Frederick C. Wilson of the First and South Congregational Church, Ipswich, conducted the baptismal service. The child's mother is the former Dora R. Hay of Stoneham. His father, formerly of Winchester, was born in the 275 year old house where the ceremony was performed. The dress in which the baby was attired for the occasion originally was worn by his great grandfather 101 years ago.

Many relatives were present for the christening, including the child's four grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Caldwell of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Miner L. Hay of Stoneham. Dr. and Mrs. Keyes served as godfather and godmother, respectively. Following the formalities a buffet supper was served by Mrs. Keyes.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

Christmas will be here shortly and as we contemplate its significance we realize that the day proclaims the great Christian principle of strength out of weakness—the principle that weakness is itself strength. From the manger cradle issues forces that overcame and transformed the great Roman Empire. Many men are today counting on warships, airplanes and poison gas—emblems of worldly might—as their sure and only defense. To the saving power of moral forces they are apparently quite blind. It will do us all a lot of good to think of the birthday of the infant king as the day of the children whom he blessed. That is why we find so much happiness in making little children happy at Christmas.

The gift of the Bethlehem manger was a gift to all the world; to the whole human race, as well as to individuals. If men would but enter into that life, live it, and make it their own, all human problems would be solved. The new life is the life of peace—"peace on earth, good will to men" a deeper and finer peace than that which would result from the mere outlawry of hideous war, blessed as war's outlawry would be. Peace among men, and peace within the human soul were promised on the first Christmas Day. "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid"—such is the pledge of Him whose birthday the world is about to celebrate.

"Let not your heart be troubled"—how many troubled hearts there are in Winchester at this very moment. But fewer hearts would be troubled if they could but catch something of the true Christmas spirit and let it rule their lives.

Let us bear in mind that at this Christmas season we are to profit by humbleness and cultivate neighborhood qualities—gentleness, kindliness, compassion, tender-heartedness and love. Purity is no less divine, no less essential to social solidarity and well being. So there is the practical side, which is perhaps not often emphasized, though it deserves to be. Of all this, true happiness is the consequence—the happiness that men and women always feel when they are conscious of being in the right way, of fulfilling in some measure their divinely appointed destiny. They can fulfill that destiny, and win that happiness only as they serve others.

WEEK-END FIRES

Saturday afternoon at 3:12 a telephone call summoned the Fire Department to put out a grass fire on Highland View avenue. At 4:30 the same afternoon the Metropolitan Police notified the Central Station of a brush fire in Middlesex Fells near Long Pond.

Early Sunday morning Engine 3 made two needless runs to Woburn, answering false alarms from Box 56 at 12:32 and again at 1:07 o'clock.

At 1:14 a. m. Sunday, Mr. Walter J. Brown called the department to his home on Calumet road where trouble had developed in an oil heater. The men found that in addition to burning oil in the lower part of the heater the chimney was afire and an additional call was sent in to bring Ladder 1 to the scene.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

A regular meeting of the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League will be held Thursday Dec. 20 at 2:30 in the afternoon at Waterfield Hall.

Mr. Howard B. Gill, formerly head of the Norfolk Prison Colony. His subject is "Youth and Crime."

The members of the Junior Circle will be guests of the afternoon.

The music will be in charge of Mrs. Helen Studzinska Sibley, violinist and Mary Ranton Witham, pianist.

ENTERTAINED AT TEA

Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell gave a tea Thursday afternoon at her home on Brooks street in honor of Mrs. Torr W. Harmer, who with Dr. Harmer, a noted surgeon, has recently moved from Chestnut Hill to Everett avenue, and Mrs. John G. Pendman, also of Everett avenue and formerly of Los Angeles. Roses and chrysanthemums added fragrance and color, and soft candlelight illuminated a very smart gathering of many Winchester and out of town women. Pourers included Mrs. Carrie E. Tilden, Mrs. B. S. Thompson, Mrs. Robert Stone, Mrs. Joseph W. Butler, Mrs. Harry S. Parsons, Mrs. Burton W. Casey, Mrs. William L. Davis, Mrs. Gordon Fair of Cambridge, Mrs. C. Guy Lane of Belmont Hill, Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott and Mrs. Stella Shepherd Whittaker of West Medford.

ENTERTAINED AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Earle Spencer, Jr., of Yale street entertained a group of his friends at a party in honor of his eighth birthday, last Friday.

Among the young men present were Sherwood Hockwell, "Billy" Everett, "Bobby" Foster, Phineas Newton, Allen Nevins, Allen Sheehan, Ben Aldrich, "Billy" Thompson, "Jimmie" Kimball, Sammy Tompkins, Gordon McGovern, Elliott Emerson, "Billy" Eaton, "Dicky" Fenno, "Dicky" Spencer.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Egg prices have come down sharply in the past week and except when bad weather slows laying, these prices should continue or go even lower. Meat prices have increased, particularly on lamb and beef.

Vegetables are plentiful and very moderate in price. An amazing variety of them is available—including cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, kale, spinach, mustard greens, dandelion greens, green beans, carrots, beets, turnips and white boiling onions, to mention only a few.

Navel oranges are cheaper though still much higher than other oranges and grapefruit. New crop Florida strawberries have begun to arrive.

Here are three menus made up from seasonable foods:

Low Cost Dinner
Roast Shoulder of Pork
Browned Potatoes
Creamed Onions
Bread and Butter
Fruit Cup Cookies
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Beef Mashed Potatoes
Glazed Carrots
Bread and Butter
Coffee Tapioca Cream

PECS: VENERABLE HUNGARIAN CITY AWAKENED BY COAL

When hundreds of coal miners of Pecs, Hungary, recently sought to force their demands for increased wages upon their employers by remaining without food in coal pits, they brought fame to their town in one of the most unusual ways on record.

Pecs, with approximately 64,000 inhabitants, is the eighth largest city in Hungary, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. It lies about 110 miles almost due south of Budapest, near the southern border of the country, and about 15 miles west of the Danube River.

Minaret Recalls Turkish Rule

Pecs has not often attracted international attention, but it has existed for many centuries—probably since Roman times. It was the see of a bishop as early as 1009. The Turks occupied it from 1543 to 1686. Although there are few relics of its early years to be seen today, one minaret still stands from which, during Turkish occupation, Moslem criers called the faithful to prayer. The Turks altered many Christian churches and used them as mosques; but when the invaders returned east, the temporary mosques again became Christian places of worship.

The Pecs Cathedral, a four-towered building, was originally built in the 11th century, but was rebuilt during the latter part of the 19th century. It is one of the city's outstanding landmarks and one of the oldest churches in Hungary. Pecs also has a university which was established about 600 years ago; but many times throughout the city's turbulent history it has had to close its doors.

The Mecsek hills northwest of the city are famous for their vineyards. Well-kept farms frame the city, but Pecs is more famous as an industrial center than as a market. It stands out among Hungarian cities as one of the few where most of the workers are employed in industry. More than three-fifths are so employed. About one-third work in the coal mines, east of the city, others in pottery, metallurgical, and clothing industries.

The coal mined in this area is the best in Hungary, and accounted for a large portion of the Kingdom's production of more than 6,000,000 tons in 1932. Hungary also has important diggings at Ajk, and elsewhere, a number of brown-coal and lignite mines.

Turks Left, Germans Arrived

Perhaps one reason why Pecs is not better known is that it is many centuries older than its present name. Before it was called Pecs in the 18th century, it was known as Funfkirchen (German for "Five Churches"). The German name was justified because thousands of Germans moved to the city when it was a sleeping town of 2000 left by the Turks. After the Germans arrived, Jews arrived and organized the commerce of the growing city.

Awakened Pecs was a magnet to thousands of Hungarian peasants and other Europeans. In 1840 there were more than 14,000 inhabitants; in 1900 44,000.

Today the city's population is a hodgepodge of many races. A recent census showed that about 63 per cent of Pecs residents hailed from other parts of Hungary and many other countries of Europe.

High School Gym to be Scene of Sports' Banquet—Radical Change in Program—Footoall Captain to be Announced

Members of the field hockey and football squads are prepared for an informal evening of fun and frolic! Tomorrow the annual fall sport banquet will be held in the gymnasium at 6:30 o'clock. Many secret plans have been made to make this evening one which will not be easily forgotten. Up to now, it has leaked out that there will be all kinds of games after a scrumptious turkey dinner with all the fixings, also an orchestra. Mr. Keeney will preside in the role of toastmaster. There will be only one speaker of the evening, who will be the guest speaker, Mr. Cooke. The high spot of the banquet will be the awarding of the Mansfield and Wheeler Cups by Mr. Grindle. These two cups will have engraved upon them the names of two seniors, one feminine and one masculine, who have shown themselves to be all around good sports in athletics. Last year's winners were Andrew Lentine and Betty Gilbert; it is difficult to try even to predict who will win the awards this season.

The banquet will be strictly informal, and wil be minus the silks and frills of previous occasions. It promises to be entirely different from the usual run of such things, save for the price of 5 cents which will be used to cover the cost of the appetizing meal.

Besides the entire football and hockey squads and the cheer-leaders, there will be other guests present who have given their time and invaluable aid toward making this fall season successful. We predict that, when on Sunday you are telling your less fortunate friends about this rare occasion, you will finish your narrative description by the words, "and a good time was had by all."

School Scientists Meet—Novel Entertainment—Finances and Future Plans

On Wednesday afternoon the Science Club held a very interesting meeting in the biology laboratory. After a short session in which the finances of the club and the proposed excursions were discussed, there was an exceedingly educational program of experiments given. Shogher Baghdoyan, an authority on all types of microscopic slides, demonstrated the technique of making such slides. Ward Albro and George Manning demonstrated their ability in manipulating a micro-projector, and showed many of the slides which Shogher has made. John Collins made use of the new static electricity apparatus by a very fescinating experiment.

A meeting will be held in the future which will be purely devoted to magic. Dealing perhaps with the more scientific end of the subject. This meeting will be amusing and perhaps a little revealing.

Have you been following the growth of the aquarium? The club now can boast a rather large family of guppies in this fine looking structure made by Richard Elliott and William Burtt.

Junior-Senior Class Play Financial and Dramatic Success

A gay and cheerful group of over 700 people filled the high school auditorium on last Friday evening, Dec. 7. This appreciative audience witnessed the successful production of the annual Junior-Senior class play, "Nothing But the Truth." The play was a comedy in three acts. Its main plot was based upon the theory of a young business man who maintained that one can get along just as well, if not better, in life if he tells nothing but the truth. However, as the action of the play advanced, this gentleman found out that it is really necessary to tell a few white lies in order to save ones' reputation, as well as to save the feelings of others. The action of the play ran merrily through the three acts, depicting the swindling of a stock market innocent Bishop, by crafty business men; the somewhat mysterious appearance of two chorus girls into the life of a married business man; and the amazing doubling of the vast sum of $10,000 in less than 24 hours, by the hero of the comedy.

George Billman proved himself so capable in the roll of Bishop Doran that he threatened to practically steal the performance from Robert Dotten, who played the part of Bob Bennett, and from Mary Worthen, who was charming as the heroine, Gwendolyn Ralston. Evelyn Corey and Phyllis Hartwell well depicted the parts of Mable and Sable Jackson, two extremely brazen vaudeville actresses. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Ralston were the perfect elderly couple played by Norman Clarke and Mary Hall. Clifford MacDonald and Robert Higgins did nobly in the roles of Clarence Van Dusen and "Dick" Donnelly. Muriel Little as the cry-baby girl, and Colette Gaffney as Martha, the maid, were added attractions to the entire success of the production. The play was directed by Mr. John Hines, a professional coach, who has had the opportunity of playing in this same play when it first appeared on the stage several years ago.

The purpose of producing "Nothing But the Truth," was to enable the Junior and Senior Classes to raise funds for the extra curricular activities these classes desire. Each year the two classes wish to have a joint prom which will be paid for out of the funds received from the play. Also, there is the annual class night in June, the class gift and the class year book, each of which draw from this same source. The success of this year's Junior-Senior Class play leads one to believe that these plans may be carried out with confidence and in a more elaborate manner than in recent years.

Helping to make this program the success that it was, was a committee of Juniors and Seniors who gave much of their time and invaluable aid to the production.

HOW SCIENCE "UNDRESSES" FISH WITH CHEMICALS

To many people a fish bone is merely something to be kept out of one's throat during the course between soup and meat. But fish bones tell stories to scientists; and study of the structure and arrangement of different species helps to piece together the long story of evolution.

At New Nonsuch, the Bermuda headquarters of the Department of Tropical Research of the New York Zoological Society, a process of treating fish specimens with chemicals almost literally "undresses" the specimen, and leaves every bone as visible as in an X-ray photograph, says a bulletin from a staff correspondent of the National Geographic Society, which has been co-operating with the Department of Tropical Research and its Director, Dr. William Beebe, in deep sea explorations off Bermuda.

Every Bone Tinted Scarlet

After fish specimens caught in deep sea nets, or hauls near shore, have are turned over to Miss Gloria Holayre turned over to Miss Gloria Hollister, research associate of the Department of Tropical Research, who makes what is technically known as a "transparency" of it by soaking the entire fish in solutions of potassium hydroxide. This procedure is followed by immersions in alizarin dyes. The latter colors every bone, no matter how tiny, a brilliant scarlet. Then follow chemical baths which bleach the skin and remove the dye from tissues other than bone.

Finally, the finished transparency is suspended by threads in a glass slender dish or exhibition jar filled with a preservative solution, so that the fish's internal architecture may be studied, sketched or photographed. The entire fish is there, but its own mother would never recognize it, or perhaps would swim in alarm away from so startling a sight! One may see readily through the mass of flesh and cartilage and study every bit of bone, each in its natural position.

Once it was necessary to cut away the flesh to study the structure of fishes; but this process, no matter how carefully it was done, often resulted in severed bones, or, where bones were imbedded in the flesh and not connected with vertebrae or other bits of the framework, they were missed entirely. X-ray photographs are not always satisfactory because tiny bones or masses of flesh often result in blurred prints, and detail of structure is lacking. Besides, X-ray photographs must be taken from several different angles, but transparencies reveal these angles and more by simply turning the specimen around.

Unmasking the Gulper Eel

The importance of being able to study fish in this form may be readily recognized by noting some of the startling facts which the "undressing" process reveals. In some of the deep sea fishes there are gaps in the backbone just back of the head. This gap permits the jaws with enormous teeth to open to an extraordinary degree, enabling the fish to swallow other creatures larger than itself.

Hideous, black gulper eels from abysmal depths are unmasked in their true, almost headless forms. Suspended from a tiny skull is the outline of its cavernous, sack-like mouth. Aside from a small stomach, nothing else shows but a whip-like tail which it uses to push its great mouth forward.

Another fish from the depths—the deep sea puffer—does not seem very interesting when it is brought to the surface, but its transparency discloses that it is mostly one enormously developed head, with a brief vertebral column.

The triggerfish's transparency reveals the origin of its name—an interlocking spinal joint that operates like the trigger on a gun. The rare, deep sea fish called Opistonroctus has an interesting skeleton which could never be satisfactorily studied until it had been treated by the process. With its flesh made transparent it was found that it was designed very much like a sea-sled, with a solid flat bottom skid.

Numerous experiments with transparencies disclose that fresh fish make better study and exhibition specimens than fish which have been preserved for a long time. As a result, less than a day may pass between the time a small puffer fish or a sea horse is swimming happily around in its native haunts, and the time it is a museum piece, ready for study.

Two Breeds of Cats

When cats were segregated into their many subdivisions, the Angora was distinguished from the Persian by its softer fur. Because of tufts about its ears, the Angora seemed to have larger ears. The head was more angular and the tail more bushy, yet more tapering. However, all long-haired cats are referred to as Persians, although the real Persian is a rarity . . . much smaller and more delicate than the so-called Persian. To further simplify designations, cats are classed into but two groups . . . long-haired or short-haired.—Los Angeles Times.

The alarm from Box 35 last Saturday morning at 10:32 was for a fire in a DeSota sedan, owned by Angelina Derro of 90 Swanton street and being driven near the corner of Cedar and Swanton streets by James Derro. The damage was slight.

Raymond L. Traynor of 7 Eaton street notified the police that at 11 o'clock last Saturday morning his Chevrolet coupe was in collision on Main street at Thompson street with a Marmon sedan, driven by Mrs. Eleanor Heintz of 9 Everett avenue. Traynor stated that his car was damaged in the collision but no injuries were reported.

Another near accident took place at the railroad crossing in the center last Saturday afternoon at 5:48. With the gates down for the train due at that time a woman attempted to cross the tracks and stumbled, falling down. Patrolman James P. Donaghey, who was on duty in the square, hastened to her assistance and picked her up, getting her to the sidewalk in safety. She stated that she was not injured and went home.

Police Headquarters was notified shortly before 7 o'clock last Saturday evening that a man was creating a disturbance in a shack at the rear of Henry street. Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell and Patrolman John E. Hanlon went to investigate and found two men engaged in an altervation in the shack. They arrested one of the men, who gave a Cambridge address, on the charge of drunkenness. The man was found to have a good record and was later released.

I would like to wish these two properties on two people who would find them "just what they are looking for".

The City of London

England's capital city of London, unlike most other great cities of the world, has no centralized government. The metropolis is divided into several areas, oldest of which is the city of London, ruled by the city corporation, a municipal body which clings to ancient customs and traditions. Although the city of London is but a small area, some of England's greatest commercial institutions are located there.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

There are no more cold offices at the Town Hall these days with William Dunn of Pickering street, an experienced fireman getting on the job at 4 o'clock and remaining on duty until 11 in the forenoon. It was impossible for the regular janitor to get the hall warm in extreme weather during his prescribed hours of duty and as a consequence the Selectmen have hired the second man. There were times during the cooling spells of last winter when some of the offices were very uncomfortable places in which to attempt to transact the town's business.

Proclaim good will and good health to all by using a Christmas Seal on every package and letter. n30-1t

All the local stores will be open all day Wednesday, Dec. 19, resuming the regular Wednesday afternoon closing after the first of the year.

Christmas Seals cost little, but they do much. n30-1t

Mr. Charles R. Greco and Miss Constance Greco of Everett avenue entertained as house guests last week-end during the Cavalry horse show, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Farnsworth of West Boylston, whose imported hunter Sprig Leif was the champion of the show, Mr. Stephen Budd of New York, the master of the Litchfield Country Hunt Club and Mr. Owen Culbertson also of New York a well known author.

There is on display in the children's room at the Public Library a unique and colorful display significant of Christmas which is well worth a visit by those interested in childhood and the viewpoint of the little folks at this season. Arranged by Mrs. Doris Lloyd, librarian of the children's room, the display is set in a show case. It depicts a Christmas village of tiny houses covered with snow and with little Christmas figures and other Christmas suggestions. A complete scene of the Nativity is a feature. Christmas books and the holiday greens and flowers add to the whole. Needless to say, every child visiting the library is deeply interested in looking it over and dreaming of Dec. 25.

Troop 3 of the Junior C. D. of A., held a whist party last evening in Lyceum Hall. Miss Dorothy Kean, councillor, was in charge.

Mr. Erastus B. Badger of Wedgemere avenue is moving to the Badger home on Prospect street, where they plan to make their future residence.

Miss Cynthia Robinson of Cambridge street is at the Symmes Hospital, Arlington.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The contrast to a casualty from thin ice thus far this season, came Wednesday when a member of the Medford High hockey team fell through the ice near a hole created by a spring on little Mystic Lake. He was able to climb back to thicker ice and was immediately taken to his home by some of his team mates.

The Winchester Lions Club is to distribute Christmas baskets to Winchester families this year. A children's party is to be held by the Rotary Club next week.

Mrs. Oscar B. Crowers has recovered enough from her recent illness to return from the Winchester Hospital to her home on Lawson road.

It is reported that A. Miles Holbrook has sold the house at the corner of Church street and Wedgemere avenue to Mr. M. H. Hintlian of Chestnut street, who will occupy after extensive alterations.

WINCHESTER ON LIST

Major responsibility for the large increase in automobile accidents, both fatal and nonfatal, in Massachusetts this year is traced to 12 cities and 19 towns by the Governor's Committee on Street and Highway Safety. In a bulletin to local officials the Committee lists these communities which in the first 11 months of the fiscal year experienced a jump of practically 75 per cent in motor vehicle fatalities. The rise for the State as a whole was 16.5 per cent.

The cities are: Beverly, Boston, Gardner, Haverhill, Leominster, Medford, New Bedford, Pittsfield, Springfield, Waltham, Woburn and Worcester. The towns are Agawam, Athol, Auburn, Brimfield, Chelmsford, Dedham, Hancock, Ludlow, Lunenburg, Mattapoisett, Needham, Northborough, Plymouth, Rehoboth, Swampscott, Walpole, West Bridgewater, Wilbraham and Winchester.

Four Massachusetts communities listed on a similar list issued several months ago so improved their record as to be omitted in this instance. They are Brockton, Cambridge, Leicester and West Springfield.

The 31 cities and towns indicated by the Committee, experienced 334 of the 801 fatal automobile accidents occurring throughout the State from last Dec. 1 to Nov. 1. The increase in each ranged from three fatalities to as many as 11 in Boston. This same group of communities at the corresponding time last year had reported only 191 highway deaths. In all of them also there were reports of substantial increases in the number of accidents.

A number of the towns which had completely clean slates last year showed alarming increases this year. Agawam with no deaths last year had already experienced seven this year, Leominster rose to six and Northborough to five. Some of the other larger increases were: Haverhill from four to eleven, New Bedford from six to twelve, Walpole from two to nine and Waltham from two to eight.

The Committee emphasizes that it is not attempting to establish a blacklist, but is endeavoring to concentrate safety efforts in the danger zones demanding the most immediate attention. There were 25 cities and towns which registered decreases of three or more fatalities, 81 more with decreases of one or two fatalities, 27 showing no change. There were 93 communities which had clear records for 11 months of both years.

MACHINES NOW WASH THE FAMILY DISHES

To the person who has not seen the latest in electrical labor saving devices, a dishwasher is almost inconceivable. When you are told that it will wash, rinse, and dry your dishes in less than half the time that it actually takes you to do the same job in the good old fashioned dishpan way, you can hardly believe it.

This new dishwasher has many features. It is so simple that a child of [illegible] years can operate it just as well as an [illegible] experienced person. It is [illegible] automatic in its operation. A simple turn of an electric switch is all that is necessary, in addition to the manual operation of closing the cover. It is just hard to believe what this new machine really does, and does for you. A very small amount of water is used, much less than is necessary in the dishpan way, yet is so [illegible] that approximately 100 gallons of water passes over your dishes every minute. That's a lot of [illegible] water to pass over a few dishes, [illegible] especially when actual[ly] only four quarts are used.

We hear the following questions. How about breakage? Time spent to [illegible] the machine. Will it really [illegible] dishes? How about fine china and [illegible] ware? and these are as [illegible] to answer as any other [illegible] on this machine. Not [illegible] break, it is impossible, for [illegible] glass, or piece of silver [illegible] the entire operation. Wonderfully designed trays of [illegible] wire covered with [illegible] rubber applied by a special [illegible] form a nice soft [illegible] which every piece of china [illegible] really true that it is [illegible] dishwasher of the type of [illegible]

It is strange, but the [illegible] is quite different from the ordinary dishpan. It is made of [illegible] white, acid resisting porcelain, and after the dishes are all washed and rinsed, this bowl is [illegible] clean and glistening as the dishes themselves, no greasy [illegible] to be washed or scrubbed off.

Many other questions [illegible] this, the newest of [illegible] appliances, can be [illegible] and it is quite [illegible] looking pudding. It [illegible] its eating.

We must just touch on the [illegible] and family health aspect of mechanically washed dishes. One of the largest insurance companies [illegible] carried out an extensive and independent survey comparing hand washed dishes (in water never over 110 degrees) with machine washed dishes (in water of 150 degrees) and their published findings are that the machine washed dishes were from 80 to 90 times cleaner bacterially. One most eminent physician claims that the ordinary communicable diseases are spread more readily by improper and unsanitary methods of washing dishes than from any other source, and our good friend Walter Winchell says "No man objects to [illegible] rouge on his lips from kissing [illegible] other fellow's girl, but [illegible] object to getting it from a poorly washed cup."

Gordon Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Smith of Cambridge [illegible] a well known amateur hockey [illegible] who has toured Europe with the [illegible] Boston Hockey Club team, [illegible] this season with the Boston Olympics, a newly formed team.

MEETING OF FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE

A regular meeting of the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League was held in Waterfield Hall, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 21.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Mrs. Helen Studzinska Sibley played several very delightful violin solos accompanied by Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham. Mr. Howard Gill, who was to have been the speaker of the afternoon was unable to be present.

Dr. William W. Rose, pastor of the Universalist Church in Lynn was secured.

Dr. Rose gave a very inspiring address, which he based on the philosophy of Shakespeare in the Merchant of Venice, discussing "Portia and the Three Caskets."

Mrs. Nichols, the president, adjourned the meeting, wishing everyone a Merry Christmas and inviting all to stay for tea.

A very lovely tea was served by Mrs. Harris Richardson and her committee. The pourers were Mrs. Aseltine, Mrs. Comins, Mrs. Bridge and Mrs. Scales.

THE FIRST ONE IN

The Star received its first calendar for 1935 on Tuesday—the gift of the firm of Kelley & Callahan, oil burners and electrical appliances sold and serviced. It was a good start, for the beautiful picture, "The Carvers of the Sphinx," is a work of art and deserves a prominent place throughout the year.

PROVINZANO NEW FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

At the annual election held in connection with the Fall Sports Banquet last Saturday evening, Frank Provinzano, veteran back, was elected to captain the Winchester High School football team for the season of 1935.

"Frankie" or "Ref," as he is called by his team mates, is a member of the junior class and one of the best all around athletes developed at high school in recent years. Besides his activities on the gridiron, he is captain and star forward on the basketball team and first string catcher and infielder on the nine. A natural athlete, he excells in all branches of sport and is one of those effortless performers who make the hard look easy.

Provinzano first sprang into football prominence a year ago when his 60-yard dash through an open field, enabled Winchester to beat a surprisingly good Saugus team. Continuing through the season to play excellent football, he was consistently good enough to win the utility backfield post on the Star's All Middlesex eleven and the prophecy that he would be among the leaders in the league ranks this year.

That prophecy was richly fulfilled during the current campaign when "Frankie" easily ranked with the very best backs in the Mystic Valley. As an all around performer, he was the class of the Middlesex circuit, there being nothing in the backfield category that he did not do well.

As a running back, he was fast and shifty, hitting very hard off the tackles for a youngster of his inches. He was the league's best passer, as good a punter as the best and the most deadly open field tackler on the circuit, a boy who never missed when back in safety position. His play against Maynard and Woburn was as good as any shown by a Winchester back since "Hennie" Knowlton.

"Frankie" is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Provinzano of Florence street. He is popular with his schoolmates and sports followers generally, all of whom are pulling for him to lead a winner in 1935.

HOCKEY CLUB WON OPENER

The Winchester Hockey Club won its first victory of the season, when it defeated the strong Medford High squad, 5—4. Farrar accounted for two of the goals, while Blanchard tucked a fast one away in the corner, beating the Medford goalie. "Red" Smith caged one after a skirmish in front of the goal. Bragdon, playing defense, immitated "Eddie" Shore, Bruin's star, by taking a solo dash up the ice and accounting for the fifth goal.

The team was composed of Blanchard, lw; Farrar, c; Collins, rw; Gaffney, ld; Bragdon, rd; Chamberlain, g; with Sherburne, "Red" Smith, "Robbie" Smith, "Moose" Capone, H. Bairstow, B. Peterson, D. Carleton, L. Gustin and J. Farley as spares.

The team was without the services of their first string forward line.

Several games have been arranged and a complete schedule will be published soon. We are in hopes of playing the Country Club teams, Christmas morning.

At a meeting Wednesday night, enough uniforms were ordered to outfit the team. The uniforms will be black and scarlet with white lettering.

Following is a list of the merchants in town who so generously contributed to enable us to outfit the team:

REBEKAHS HELD CHRISTMAS MEETING

The Past Noble Grands' Service Club of Victoria Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., held their Christmas meeting with Sister Jessie Ripley, P.N.G., 14 Wedge Pond road, Tuesday evening, Dec. 18. After the business meeting, the members enjoyed their Christmas tree, which held comical gifts for all, with appropriate verses.

The hostess served dainty refreshments and a social evening was enjoyed.

On Wednesday, Eastern Middlesex P. N. G.'s Association of which Ella Good, P.N.G., is president, held their meeting in Melrose. The gifts from their tree were divided among the seven towns in the Association to be given to the needy in their own town.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The following cases of Contagious Diseases were reported to the Board of Health for week ending Thursday, Dec. 20:

	Cases
Chicken Pox	3
Dog Bite	1

ENTERTAINED WITH DANCING PARTY

Miss Betsy Higgins of 16 Fletcher street gave a dancing party on Saturday evening at her home. Among those to attend were Kay Snow, Barbara Kelley, Joan Pullman, Marion Morris, Frances Jean Hayden, Kenneth Leghorn, William Whorf, Richard Pierce, Lucius Smith, Max Le Royer and John Lobingier.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED

The new officers of the recently organized World War Mothers' Association were installed at the Legion House on Monday, Mrs. Elizabeth McNamara of Cambridge, president of the New England Association, being the installing officer. There was a large attendance and remarks were made by Chairman Henry J. Maguire of the Board of Selectmen, Comdr. John H. McCarthy of the Legion and Mr. Francis Smith.

The following officers were installed:

President—Mrs. Mary Carroll
Senior Vice-President—Mrs. Bessie P[illegible]
Junior Vice-President—Mrs. Blanche Bennett
Secretary—Mrs. Marin Kerrigan
Treasurer—Mrs. Katherine McGuerty
Chaplain—Mrs. Clara Mullen
Sergeant at Arms—Mrs. May DeMorris
Trustees—Mrs. Mary McKenzie, Mrs. Nora O'Melia, Mrs. Katherine Callahan

MAN STRUCK IN CENTER

During the heavy downpour of rain Wednesday evening, George E. Saunders of Woburn, employed by Mrs. Reginald Bradlee of Ledgewood road, was struck by a car in the center. The accident occurred in front of the Splendid Restaurant. Paul Duggan of Wilmington, driving a Pontiac cabriolet, was the operator of the car which figured in the accident. Saunders was picked up by Edward McKenzie of Hemingway street, who took him to the Winchester Hospital in his car. Dr. McManus treated the victim for a bad cut on his cheek and he was later taken to his home in Woburn.

NATIONAL BANK CHRISTMAS PARTY

Mr. William A. Kneeland, president of the Winchester National Bank, was host on Tuesday evening at a Christmas party given to the staff of the National Bank at his home.

In addition to the staff of the bank which included the Misses Mary Crosby, Ruth Russell, Eva Langille and Messrs. Leslie J. Scott, Adolph F. Forsberg and William D. Sullivan, there were present Mr. Ernest D. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. McDavitt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Franklin G. Loud, Mrs. Adolph Forsberg, Miss Beatrice Bolton, Miss Florence Laird, Mr. Lewis Bailey and Mr. Lorne Rickert.

Mr. Chase showed some of the most interesting of his widely known travel films. The group was taken on a visual tour of Paris and the surrounding countryside, then to Switzerland and through the ancient sections of old Germany and concluded with pictures of the celebrated Passion Play at Oberammeagau.

After refreshments, the group gathered about the Christmas tree and each guest was greatly surprised by the choice of gifts. The appropriateness of several of the gifts was highly amusing and the poetry which accompanied each one was most enjoyable.

AMERICAN RED CROSS

A largely attended annual meeting of the Winchester Chapter American Red Cross was held at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Bowen Tufts, Dec. 11. The officers elected for the year 1935 are as follows:

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Sunday Afternoon at 4:30

A new pageant, "The Christmas Story," by Rita Benton, will be presented by members of the Sunday School at the First Congregational Church Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

Miss Ruth Nielson, trumpeter, will play Christmas carols from the belfry of the church from 4:15 to 4:30. At 4:30, the Chancel Choir will sing Christmas carols from the gallery of the church for 20 minutes preceding the pageant.

Parents are asked to accompany young children and to sit with them during the pageant.

POST OFFICE BUSY

Business picked up at the Winchester Post Office Wednesday after comparatively light mail. On that day, seven extra carriers and clerks were put on duty and one additional truck was placed in service.

WOMEN INJURED IN ACCIDENT

The police received a report on Sunday of an automobile accident which occurred Dec. 16. According to this report, a Ford roadster driven by Allan P. Lindblad of 10 Maple road was in collision with a Dodge driven by Annie S. Martin of 10 Forest street and which was backing out of a driveway at the home of John A. Leo, 10 Fairmount street. Both cars were damaged. Mrs. Martin received injuries to her left shoulder, arm and head, and Mrs. Josephine Lassen of Forest street, who was riding with her, received a fractured collar bone. The Ford was badly damaged, and the Dodge was damaged about its front fenders and door, and had some glass broken.

INJURED AT HANOVER

Reports were received on Sunday of the injury of Miss Frances M. Corwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Corwin of Ridgefield road, at Hanover, N. H. According to report, Miss Corwin was riding in a car operated by Mr. Wilson J. Ferguson, a senior at Dartmouth, when it skidded on the ice and crashed into a tree. It was necessary to burn away a part of the car with an acetylene torch to free her from the wreck, but fortunately she was not seriously injured, her ankle only being hurt. Mr. Ferguson received a fracture of his left leg and bad cuts and bruises. They were treated at the college infirmary.

TOWN OFFICERS ATTENDED ASSOCIATION MEETINGS

Winchester officials who attended the meeting of the Middlesex County Assessors' Association at the Robbins Memorial Town Hall in Arlington last Thursday included the Board of Assessors, Messrs. Harry T. Winn, Frank H. Enman and John F. Cassidy; Collector of Taxes Nathaniel M. Nichols, and Miss Lillian Hardy and Miss Katherine Foley of the Assessors' office.

At the Friday meeting of the Massachusetts Collectors' and Treasurers' Association, held at the 20th Century Club, Boston, Collector of Taxes N. M. Nichols, Town Treasurer Harrie Y. Nutter, G. Dwight Cabot, treasurer of the Winchester Trust Company and Mr. Raymond S. Wilkins, attended. Commissioner Long gave a particularly interesting talk at this meeting.

MIDNIGHT SERVICE AT EPIPHANY CHURCH

On Christmas Eve, Dec. 24 at 11:30 p. m. in the Church of the Epiphany we shall hold a midnight service of the Holy Communion with Christmas carols, well-known Christmas hymns and anthems. The full choir will be present. There will be no sermon. It will be a service of praise and devotion. Those who joined with us in this service last year, felt that they had indeed welcomed the Christ Child. We extend to all members of the community, a most cordial invitation to join with us in this midnight service.

Dwight W. Hadley,
Rector of the Church of the Epiphany

CORRECTION

The interment of Mrs. Belle Annie Putnam Clay was at Plymouth, N. H. and not Plymouth, Vt. as stated in last week's issue of the Star.

MRS. JENNIE AUSTIN

Mrs. Jennie Austin, widow of the late William Austin, died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. Adolph Bowen on Cross street last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Austin was a native of Nashville, Tenn., and made her home in Detroit, Mich. and Cairo, Ill. before coming to Winchester two years ago. She had been in poor health for a long time. About ten days ago her condition became so grave that her death was momentarily expected.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Bowen, a foster daughter, Mrs. Eula Young and four grandchildren, all of this town.

Funeral services were held at the New Hope Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. William H. Smith, pastor. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

On next Sunday afternoon, the several Diocesan branches of the M. C. W. G. will have charge of the annual Christmas tree for the children at the Home for Destitute Catholic Children, the Regents from the several branches acting as a committee in charge. In addition to the beautifully decorated tree, gifts for all the youngsters and the Nuns are to be distributed.

Following the roll call meeting of last Thursday at the home of Vice Regent DeCourcy the members enjoyed a most delightful social and buffet lunch.

FROM MR. McELHINEY

To the Editor of the Star:

You published a story in this week's issue which accuses me of the crime of failing to stop and give my name, address and number of my motor after colliding with or otherwise causing injury to personal property to wit: a dog. For your information, no such thing happened and if there was any such accident, the law was obeyed by me. In view of this, I now desire that you retract that news item and publish the fact that the law was obeyed by me in every particular.

Very truly yours,
Alphonso McElhiney

OUR OFFER

In accordance with our usual custom, all new subscriptions to the STAR received up to the first of the year, will be given a January first dating. This offer applies only to new subscribers who have not previously taken this paper. Subscribe now and receive the remaining issues this year free.

WILL YOU HELP?

The Citizens' Community Relief Committee has decided not to send out Christmas dinners this year. They will, however, if possible, follow the plan which worked so successfully a year ago. Namely—to send to needy families money orders in amounts from one dollar ($1.00) up. These orders will be redeemed for merchandise by any merchant in Winchester for the amount of their face value.

Would you like to have a part in this way of bringing a little happiness into some home at this holiday season? If so please send your check, even if it has to be smaller than usual, to Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, 8 Black Horse terrace, Winchester, Mass.

LINCOLN SCHOOL NEWS

Pupils of Grades 4, 5 and 6 have completed a Red Cross Album to be sent to Greece. It is entitled, "Our American Holidays." This album contains paragraphs describing each holiday with accompanying illustrations.

The drawings were made by Genaro Cirignano, Mary Tibaudo, Andrew Buzzotta and Marie Cucolo.

The Lincoln Red Cross Juniors have completed scrap books, Christmas boxes, jointed and stuffed toys to be given to the children's ward at the Boston City Hospital. These gifts will be taken in by Miss Ethel Dinneen.

A play entitled, "Santa's Helpers" will be given by the children of the Lincoln School on Friday, Dec. 21. The scene is laid in Santa's workshop. The leading parts are taken by Lawrence Green as Santa Claus and Elizabeth McPartlin as Mother Goose. They will be supported by a cast consisting of fairies, brownies, dolls, toys and characters from Mother Goose rhymes.

MOUNT HOLYOKE BOOK TALKS

Why didn't we all live when "Diamond Jim" Brady was in his glory, when every stage star, even though she had never met him, had a beautiful diamond brooch sent to her dressing room door, when every friend invited to dinner might receive a watch or a necklace, when Lillian Russell was given a gold plated bicycle studded with diamonds? At the age of 21 "Jim" Brady had saved $200. He then purchased a diamond ring and three tailor-made suits and began his career as a sale-man. At 26 he was a millionaire and was called "Diamond Jim." When he was remonstrated with for making such a display he said, "I notice them that has 'em, wears 'em." He was the embodiment of a period that is gone probably forever.

After reviewing "Diamond Jim Brady; His Life and Times" by Philip Morrell, and labeling it as a fine gift for any man over 40 last Tuesday afternoon in the Mystic School Mrs. Bond gave a little study of the "Age of Confidence" by Henry Seidel Canby, a story of the 90's. Mr. Canby writes of his home town, Wilmington, Del. as it was in his youth and describes it without the use of documents from which to obtain his facts because "facts are not so important as impressions." He makes an amusing explanation of the difference between "them" and "us" by them he means the plain people who live in the present moment without much thought for yesterday or tomorrow, and by us he means those who have some regard for the traditions of the family and for its record for the future. He discusses the positiveness of life in the home and the town at that time and says there has been no such certainty in American life since. This seems to be a book worth reading.

Last, Mrs. Bond gave a charming brief resume of "Life a la Henri Charpentier," world-famous chef. She described lunching with Henri at Rockefeller Center when he first opened there. She read his graphic account of marketing with his foster brother Jean who was a chef. That should be a classic. The book is full of allusions to the most famous personages of the world who have all lunched at Henri's at Lynbrook, L. I., among them "Diamond Jim."

Mrs. Bond not only makes very telling selections from the books but displays a good deal of dramatic ability in reading them. She is becoming very favorably known in and around Boston, appearing at the Republican Club, at numerous smart bookshop teas and luncheons. At the next meeting on Jan. 15 at 2:30 p. m. she will take up Musa Dagh, by Franz Werfel.

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT BY THE YOUNG PEOPLE SUNDAY

The Young People's meeting last Sunday was a Christmas one and was held in the social hall around a beautiful Christmas tree. Miss Evelyn Scott told an interesting Chinese Christmas story entitled "Ming Toy." Lester Ginstin and Marjorie Rush each told interesting narratives in relation to this season of the year. Between these, everyone sang the old familiar Christmas carols. After the meeting ice cream and cookies were served.

There will be no regular evening meeting Sunday because of the Christmas pageant which will take place at 4:30 p. m. in the afternoon. This pageant is being given by the young people, however, and will be very lovely to watch. Make it a point to come down and see the beautiful story of the Christmas babe, enacted in the main church.

Troop 1 News

The meeting of Dec. 17 was held in the Junior High School gymnasium. We spent our time on events for the court of honor, which included knots, signaling and antelope race. The inter-patrol contest is still coming along well. The Beaver Patrol is still leading with 350 points; Silver Fox second with 292 points; Panther, third, with 218 points; Stag fourth with 190 points. Boys let's have a good turn out at the court of honor.

MARSHALL FAY BROUGHT NEW PLANE HERE

Last Friday morning there arrived at the airport in East Boston, one of the very latest Boeing planes of the United Air Lines. This plane was bringing into Boston, officials of the Department of Commerce who were to attend a meeting of the Aero Club at the Hotel Lenox on Friday night. This plane was piloted by C. W. Hudson and Marshall H. Fay of this town. Marshall Fay was assigned to this special run from Washington to Boston on account of his knowledge of the territory on the run between New York and Boston.

This big plane having a weight of almost seven tons made a perfect landing at the field at East Boston about 10:15 a. m. The officials on the trip were greeted by men from the club in Boston. A radio telegram received by Mr. Robert E. Fay at his home that morning found him and Mrs. Fay there to greet their son. This plane that came through is the very latest thing in air travel. They have a cruising speed of 180 miles an hour and can travel the better part of 800 miles on a single load of gasoline. They are of a large size having a wing span of 74 feet and a length of over 50 feet. After the plane had been serviced at the airport, pilots Fay and Hudson were making trips from the airport of about one half an hour in length, taking un persons who desired to have a ride on the very latest thing in airship construction. Pilot Fay greeted a great many people who were at the airport and took a ride, whom he recognized as Winchester people or where the people recognized Pilot Fay as a Winchester boy.

Among those noted at the field and having an opportunity to take to the air were, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Fay, Robert Wallace Fay, Mr. Herbert H. Wadsworth, Miss Virginia Wadsworth, Mr. David Wadsworth, Mrs. Horace Ash Mr. J. Waldo Bond, Mr. Arthur E. Buttery and family, Mr. Merrill Tucker, Mr. Reeve Chipman and Mr. Robert Larrabee.

These trips taking up the public were made from Friday afternoon up to about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon when the plane loaded with its official passengers at the East Boston airport for New York and Washington by the way of Springfield about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. This assignment of Pilot Fay to a special trip was quite complimentary to him, as only pilots of experience and proven ability, are given these particular trips that involve the carrying of government officials on special missions.

ENTERTAINED SCHOOL FRIENDS

Miss Elsie Jane Murray of the Parkway entertained 14 of her school friends at a Christmas party yesterday. After games and refreshments, Santa distributed favors from his pack.

Among those present were: Wilfred Becker, Junior Smith, Lawrence Hallowell, Donald Armstrong, Fred Hoffman, James Morrison, Teddy O'Rourke, Antonette Lynch, Sally Maraspin, Dianne Hawley, Nancy Dwyer, Mary Kenney, Rosemary Drohan, Elsie Murray.

CALUMET CONTRACT WINNERS

The last of the series of duplicate contract tournaments to be held at the Calumet Club before the New Year was held at the clubhouse Tuesday evening with the following winners:

North and South
Mr. Burchard and Mr. Pitman
Mr. McNulty and Dr. Roberts
East and West
Mrs. Fesenden and Mrs. Howe
Mrs. Cass and Mrs. Bruno

The new series of tournaments which have been so popular will be resumed at the club after Jan. 1 and a notice will be sent out from the club with exact information concerning them and the dates when they will be held.

It is surely an open secret that ever since its inception last spring Winchester Group Theatre has been throwing its cap over the moon. From the beginning its announcements have been by no means shrinking. It was going to do this and going to do that. The test of all these promises was made on Friday last, when the Group made its debut with Molnar's "The Swan."

To that test came a socially and intellectually brilliant local audience, better commented upon by those fitted so to do. From the point of view of a reporter it was notable that that audience came early, stood patiently in the cold until the doors were open, filled nearly every available seat 20 full minutes before the curtain rose with praiseworthy adherence to schedule. It was an audience on the qui vive, gay and cheerfully awaiting an occasion, ready to praise if praise were warranted, but not entirely unforgetful of the fact that high promises had been made and consequently ready also to criticize.

Of the opinions of that audience as the play went along there could be no doubt. Its applause fell free and full whenever the occasion warranted, at the curtain rise on the beautiful second-act set, at the dramatic exits of this and that principal, longest of course at final curtain when, had the Group management been so minded, curtain calls might have been multiplied almost indefinitely. Judging by the only measure by which one may judge an audience, the sustaining members of Winchester Group Theatre felt that they had not been deluded, that they had not pursued a will-o'-the-wisp when they lent their financial and moral support to an idea. The measure of an audience is its applause and the applause of Friday was ungrudging, it was long, best of all, it was spontaneous.

In the cold light of a second day it is easier to evaluate the accomplishment of the Group in terms of its aspirations and even that sober second judgment must admit that this accomplishment was plentiful.

On the debit side one may regret that so much splendid effort was lavished on a play that is in many respects unimportant and wish that the Group's next production be of a play more worthy of its metal. It is only fair to state also that perhaps because of the very seriousness with which the cast took its responsibilities, it, as a whole, somehow failed to get over to the audience for a full act and part of another that "The Swan" is comedy and little more. Perhaps the director too may partly be at fault for this concept. Small technical defects appeared moreover in the third act; a curtain was allowed to blow almost incessantly for half the act; more serious, the garden of the night before, though only accidentally seen, was in the early morning sun, still painted in night's hues. But this is all really most ungenerous. For credit we must remember that the Group had promised us a high degree of ensemble playing, careful direction, opulent costuming when required, sets designed and executed by local artists. It kept all its promises.

Consider first the stage picture evoked by the imagination of Mrs. Brown and executed under the combined supervision of the designer and Mr. Goodwin. For a room in the castle of the Princess Beatrice, a room be it said of feminine quality for the feminine denizens thereof, she had conceived plain walls of warm apricot hue. Three doors led to this room, one at each side, one off center at the back; the first two narrowish and tall, the other widish and tall. Verticality of entrance was everywhere stressed and pointed by long drapes of warmer apricot extending from some unknown space above the drops to the floor. In the first act, with curtains drawn and an astronomical chart of prevailing blue tones such a room might conveniently serve for the study of the princelings; in the second, curtains drawn back, a brilliant night blue sky seen beyond, silhouetted there against a parapet, an urn, a gracefully falling ivy, a tremendous and delicate tapestry on the back wall; two graceful plants with large white flowers depending from long stems (again the vertical note), a long table with the gleam of white double damask, golden plate, crystal glass, garlanded roses; such a set might and did create illusion of beauty, of a night when the stars were "like so many eyes," of richness and romance. Before such a set local actors, for the nonce believably royal, walked their well-measured way in befitting uniform and court dress—all in key as to color and form—all the faces attractive, all animated. On the score of stage design even to the clever note of lemon yellow lights on the side backings, Winchester Group Theatre kept its promise. Small wonder, one thought, that this design of Mrs. Brown's had won a competition for the design; more wonder though that local amateurs had the time and the power to capture the illusion of the original sketch.

Even without the spoken word the actors maintained illusion. As we have already said, the royalty was believably royal; the lackeys, servants of royalty. In their beautiful costumes, with so much color rampant, they might easily have destroyed stage illusion by imperfect grouping or faulty pantomime. But here the natural abilities of an intelligent and able cast was augmented by intelligent direction and those who follow the professional stage could see, perhaps more in the stage groupings than in any one other facet, an amateur production that was not amateurish.

Of the play itself little need be said here. It is a light comedy of manners—there is little action, but the lines are subtle and the Molnarian quips are sudden and frequent. Molnar has never surpassed this play except perhaps in "Liliom." But such a play asks a great deal of its actors; unless the lines are firmly and crisply delivered, unless depth lies beneath that delivery, unless audience attention is not diverted from the lines by ill-timed action, such a play will fall flatter than the pre-Columbian world. Here is no opportunity to distract the audience from the pure critique of acting by ducking under sofas, shooting guns, or unfolding the ramifications of a complicated plot. The test for the Group was a severe one.

And yet the actors came through with flying colors. There is no occasion here to dwell on individual excellences. Some of the audience will have had their favorites among the principals; some will realize that some of these principals had jobs which stretched their natural powers farther than others; but no one can single out any individual for criticism. All were in key.

Hence unless one is to mention each member of the cast by name with some appropriate by-comment in each case, it is invidious to name any of those whose names already appear above in the cast. For the principals, Hersilia Elmer, Lucille Townley-Tilson, Winifred Nicholas, Lillian Whitman, Lyndon Burnham, Masters Sexton and Manning, Clifford Cunningham, Theodore Godwin and Kenneth Caldwell, be it said that each did more than was expected of him or her. All of these people with the exception of the boys have long been known and favorably to Winchester audiences as stars in the local amateur firmament. Yet each and every one of them surpassed in considerable measure his previous successes. It can truthfully be said of all that each added measurably to his stature and reputation. The boys, well known in high school dramatics, will now be known also to the audiences for the adult plays of the town.

In the last analysis, however, this critic feels that the supreme success of the performance of the principals lay in the work of those in the minor parts. Examination of their names shows that they too are stars; it would have been all too easy for them to do a perfunctory job, to be in character only when eyes were on them. But your reviewer who watched these people with considerable intentness never found them out of key.

Consider, for example, Warren Whitman who as a chef made one appearance, one speech in German, and vanished. The speech was a hit. Consider Frederick Cole as Count Lutzen who never spoke a line and whose one moment in court came with a supremely executed bow. It would have been easy for many to make that bow. It would not have been so easy to remain Count Lutzen at times when presumably nobody was looking at him. Consider further Herbert Wadsworth, Jr., a perfect picture of the military Colonel Wunderlich with the ominous cough, a part with a few good lines which it would have been easy and tempting to overplay but which Mr. Wadsworth always kept in key with the rest. Here were Martha Kelley and Doris Hills and Clara Reynolds as beautiful court ladies behaving with poise and manner as court ladies should. Here were Edmund Merriam and Dermott Townley-Tilson with the brilliant lackey rig, conveying just the proper amount of restraint and deference. Here finally was Geneva Manning stepping from important roles with ease into that of an utterly credible housekeeper.

It is in the spirit of co-operation and unselfishness betrayed by the acting of the minor characters that the Group's real strength lies. That strength might have been doubted, but now it is clear that it exists. With it there is really no limit to the Group's aspirations.

Other details of the performance were in keeping with the stage design and the acting. The music was excellent and added a great deal to the second act. The program by George Hayden, Jr. was unusual and attractive. The ushers were fitting complements to the rest. That Mrs. Bishop is a sensitive and subtle coach must have been perfectly clear to every one. But back of all this was the work of another man whose abilities have not been sufficiently sung in in Winchester. In Harry Goodwin the Group is fortunate to have a stage manager of great resources and indefatigable energy. The chairman of this production, Mr. Hills who almost literally worked himself to the bone, can be grateful for a hard-working and competent corps of adjutants.

The Group's sustaining membership is assured for this year and eagerly awaits the second play which has not been announced but which will be given in the spring. The tumult and the shouting and the glamour of the first production are over. Only the satisfaction remains.

ANNIVERSARY MASS FOR LATE PASTOR

An anniversary mass for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt, former pastor of St. Mary's Parish, was celebrated yesterday morning, Dec. 20, in St. Mary's Church by the present pastor, Rev. Fr. Aloysius Malone, on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of Father Merritt's ordination to the priesthood. There was a large attendance.

Father Merritt died Feb. 5, 1934, a few months before the golden anniversary of his ordination. The former pastor was born April 6, 1858, in Boston, the son of Abraham and Catherine (O'Connor) Merritt. After receiving his preliminary education in the Boston schools and at Boston College Preparatory School, he entered Boston College, from which he was graduated in 1880. He began his studies for the priesthood in Grand Seminary at Montreal, but upon the inception of St. John's Seminary in Brighton, was transferred there and was one of the first class from the Seminary to be ordained in December 1884, in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in Boston by Archbishop John J. Williams.

Father Merritt came to Winchester in August of 1909, from St. Raphael's in Medford, succeeding Rev. Fr. Daniel J. Kelliher as pastor of St. Mary's. During his long pastorate, the parochial school and residence were built and the parish property greatly improved. Father Merritt was held in esteem throughout the entire town and was especially beloved by those who knew him well and by the children of his parish. His death was generally mourned and his funeral attended by many priests of the Greater Boston Diocese.

If, when the carol singers assemble on the Common Monday evening, that jam of smelling, snorting autos, which usually surrounds this place on this occasion, are kept on the opposite side of the streets, probably we will be able, not only to see the carolers, but possibly to hear them.

Not what we give, but what we share,
For the gift without the giver is bare.

These lines from a familiar poem have a deep significance this Christmas when many find themselves unable to make the costly presents they were accustomed to give in former years. For the humbler gift made with some personal sacrifice on the part of the giver, means more than the most costly present offered in the spirit of competition of personal aggrandizement. Those who can give no material gifts can conceivably experience the real glow of Christmas far beyond those able to make the most expensive gifts to family and friends. For after all it is not our friendship, loyalty and understanding that mean most to those nearest and dearest: a word of sympathy, understanding or encouragement: a friendly smile or hearty handclasp? These and the spirit of service are what count, for these are the gifts that only we can make. They are of ourselves alone, the gifts we "share." Fortunately they cost nothing and yet they are beyond price. We all have much to give this Christmas, no matter in what straightened circumstances we may find ourselves. Let us be thankful for it.

WINCHESTER GROUP THEATER

Friday, Dec. 14, should be recorded as a very important date in the history of Winchester dramatics. On the evening of that day, the Winchester Group Theater embarked on its dramatic program for this community. An intelligent audience, that nearly filled the High School auditorium, listened with close attention, satisfaction, if not with pride, to an excellent performance of the play "The Swan." The acting by the entire cast, regardless of the part, was distinctly of very high order and has placed the amateur dramatics of Winchester on a very high plane. It was obvious to everyone that careful, intelligent planning, and able coaching, produced a play which was superbly rendered. Details, which so often prevent a rounding out or smoothness of performance, had very obviously been given forethought.

Those responsible for the organization of the Group Theater, and all those who have worked unselfishly for its success, deserve the town's gratitude. The community awaits with renewed interest the next play of this intelligent organization.

SO WE'RE GOING TO HAVE MOVIES?

The Star was presented this week with a sketch of the new movie theatre "which is going to be erected in Winchester." It was felt that so many here in town were interested in the project that this paper should show them what is "going to be built!" The statement accompanying was to the effect that another vote is to be taken on movies and if the Town Meeting members did not carry it, a referendum would!

Thus far the Town has, we believe, voted down a movie theatre here on no less than three separate occasions. Notwithstanding the heavy agitation in favor of such a theatre, there has been no question as to how the Town stood on the matter.

Now we are told we shall vote on this question again. Likewise we are told that we are going to have the movies. The promoter is so confident of carrying his project through here that he has not only bought the land, but designed the building!

It is pretty nice to have such a condition. Our outside neighbors are apparently privileged to come here and do as they wish. They need assured a cordial reception, no matter what previous votes the Town has passed. We are to have a movie theatre here. If the Town Meeting members do not vote it, we can all chip in and hold a referendum vote and hang the vote!

The Star has no reason to change its opinion regarding movies in Winchester. It still opposes them. But it would like to be in a similar position — where it could go into another nearby town and tell its citizens what it wanted and that it was going to have it.

The idea is, we understand, to start creating discussion. The more the discussion, the more the Winchester people will understand that when they oppose movies here they do not know what they want—or will get.

It would appear, with what the movies have had to undergo during the past year, that this would not be a good time to again buit Winchester, but there is nothing like confidence. When a promotor comes to Winchester, buys his site and produces his plans, and then states that he is going to build a movie house here, like it or not, it looks as though he had an inside track—especially after three negative votes by the Town!

EVERYTHING GOES TODAY

We have been interested this past week in noting the number of people who are lending a favorable ear to the Townsend Plan—that Santa Claus idea of giving everybody over 60 or 50 years of age one or two hundred dollars a month with the stimulation of spending it all within a similar period. These friends do not appear wildly enthusiastic over the plan, but they "would like it." The wherewithal to provide the money involved, or the ways and means of raising it, do not enter into their thoughts at all. In fact they show little interest in that phase of the idea. But, from our observation, if this plan came before them, they would all vote for it.

Another phase of this mixed-up era is the present propaganda attributing all unwelcome experiments of the Administration to the late Republican party. They started them all! To that defunct organization may be laid everything we are now experiencing of an unpleasant nature. Our present Administration is nobly doing its best to bring order out of Republican chaos; and a most difficult task it is!

The bonus, we learn, is undoubtedly going to be passed by Congress. To oppose it is now to brand oneself something even worse than a tory. We are likewise certain to have, not only unemployment insurance, financed solely by employers, but old age pension as well.

Millions for new homes, millions for public utilities, millions for everyone; the old and the workless well cared for! Utopia indeed! And all simply and solely the Republican baby; now being carefully brought up under the Administration's guidance!

The conditions amply reflect the public mind, which is apparently as staple and sound as that of the Administration. Nothing seems too fantastic to try out. All that is necessary is a reminder that this or that is all for the public welfare and the good of the people. To governmental propaganda is added the hundred and one schemes and ideas of self-constituted saviours of America—if this country is still classed as such. And now big business has been brought to see the light and lend its support. To what?

To predict or forecast today is something no one dares undertake. Such foolishness is taboo. One readily and less of what the future holds in store or what the results of all this hodge-podge of experimentation will be. Predictions and warnings have gone out of style.

But there still remain in this country a substantial group of people who have maintained their heads; who realize that Utopia cannot be created overnight, and who would like to meet up with some of those old fashioned politicians who, while they knew little of propaganda and nothing of the radio or government printing offices, did make some endeavor to fulfil their pre-election promises and at least stood upon their own feet in what they undertook to accomplish.

What the Republican party did during its tenure of office has nothing to do with present conditions, and aside from governmental experiments and spending, the present attitude of the country, which to many is the most disquieting feature today, has been created wholly by the present Administration.

ROTARY CLUB

There was one absentee from the meeting of Dec. 20.

Our last communication from Rotary International announces the organization of eight new clubs, four of which are located in South America, one in Japan and one in Sweden. What better confirmation of the world wide appeal of Rotary could be presented!

And that there is a certain field for international collaboration is attested by the fact that Secretary of the London, England, Rotary Club received a letter from the secretary of an American High School Foreign Language Club seeking the addresses of English pupils with whom members of the American Club could open correspondence. Which causes bewilderment at the Chicago secretariat, inasmuch as English had never been listed as a foreign language in their records.

October attendance averages for USCNB Clubs show a slight increase over the 1933 averages and a decided betterment of the September 1934 averages. Which is a splendid answer to the query, When is a depression not a depression?

To an extent, Christmas festivities were anticipated at the current meeting of the local club. For some 23 of the younger generation of Winchesterites came along at this time just to demonstrate once more that good old St. Nicholas has left an ineffaceable record in the hearts of mankind.

And Fred was on hand to grace the occasion with a feast after the best traditions. And Christmas carols? Yes indeed! To a mere human it would appear that this chorus of innocent young voices conveys the acme of praises to the Creator of all blessings. Santa Claus? Ah yes! Nor did he overlook a single one of the youthful guests, Jovial, kindly old Santa, with his whitened locks and merry laugh. Neither is his gift to the older boys and girls to be despised. That priceless gift of youth renewed and glowing recollections of earlier Yuletides!

Surely it is no cause for wonder that Winchester Rotarians feel that this blessed season brings a climax to their deeds of service.

On Thursday, Dec. 27, we shall entertain the Rotary Club of Woburn. We aim to make this a real entertainment. Let every member be on hand to do his share.

And in the evening of that same day to Boston to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Boston Club and of the introduction of Rotary to New England.

Indeed these are great days for local Rotarians.

Percentage of attendance, Dec. 13 —96.55 per cent.

THE TREES ARE STILL WITH US

To the Editor of the Star:

Curiosity prompted me to traverse the shores of our beautiful reservoirs last Sunday. Why? Because I was informed by several persons that the evergreen family of trees; namely, white pine, scotch, red pine, Austrian pine, Japanese red pine, Norway and white spruce, douglass fir, American fir, balsam, arbor vitae, Colorado blue spruce and Socratees hemlock.

Trees that are adjacent to our reservoirs were installed, so to speak, under the supervision of our enterprising Water and Sewer Board. I assure you Mr. Editor, the assertion that the trees are motivated is superfluous. I believe the work that has been accomplished under the supervision of the Water Board and the work that is contemplated, is the most comprehensive work that has been memorialized in the immediate vicinity of our reservoirs for a number of years; and remember I believe not all the you hear and half what you see in regard to trees.

The reader will most likely recall what the late Joyce Kilmer said in regard to trees. We are informed that 274,000 evergreen trees are planted adjacent to our three reservoirs that cost the taxpayers four cents per tree ready for growth. Some of the men who warm the chairs under the gilded dome on Beacon Hill inform us that when a white pine tree is ten years of age it has a commercial value of $10.

I desire to inquire through the columns of the Star what is the value of the various kind of evergreen trees when they are ten years of age? I for one, believe that from a commercial point of view, they are practically worthless, but from a harmonizing conservation point of view, they are priceless. Why? Because they conserve our water supply and harmonize so beautifully with the red oak, white oak, red cedar, white cedar and hickory trees that it presents a marvelous picture that is simply astounding.

Your humble servant was able to ascertain after careful observation that the Water and Sewer Board have removed a fire hazard that existed adjacent to our evergreen trees in stead of mutilating the trees as some folks have asserted.

I trust the readers of this article will consider what he or she paid for their Christmas trees and then consider what the producers of the trees received. I venture to assert without the least fear of contradiction, that the producers of Christmas trees ten years of age shall not receive as much money as the Town of Winchester expended for trees four years of age, namely, four cents per tree.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

WINCHESTER GROUP THEATRE

Dec. 18,

To the Editor of the Star:

May I take this opportunity half of the Directors of Win Group Theatre to thank every one connected with the production and all of the sustaining members who made that production possible for their co-operation in our initial venture. I should like particularly to thank the Star for its patience in letting us use its column as even from the first formative months when our infant scarcely could be called newsworthy. It is that courtesy on the part of the Star which has made it possible for us to build to the point where I feel it is not immodest to claim we have established ourselves as a community organization.

In order that the Group Theatre may continue to go forward it is now highly necessary that its Directors be in real contact with the pulse of the town—with its feelings towards what we have offered and its opinions about what we should in future present. We have been the proud recipients these past few days of much praise and we are always happy to have praise, but fair and judicious criticism, whether constructive or destructive, will be of more avail. The Directors will welcome any comment that our members or their guests wish to make and would be particularly happy to hear criticism of details of our past performance and suggestions as to what we ought to do in the future. Any such comments may be mailed or telephoned to the writer.

YOUR GIFT TO THE GIVER

By E. B. Becker, M.D.

What gift has been labeled, and then tucked away
To give to the Saviour on His natal day?
Or have you forgotten the Giver of all
As you purchased the presents, both the large and the small?

"There's not been a moment since that natal day
That Christ failed to pass some gift in your way.
He has even surrendered His life, to give Assurance to you, forever to live.

"Then let your response for this Infinite Love
Be a gift of yourself, to the Saviour above.
Just label this gift, For Jesus, My Friend
To have and to hold 'til life's to an end."

A CHRISTMAS PRAYER

Dear God accept my gratitude
For one gift above all others.
You gave her to me at my birth
The most precious of all Mothers.

FRENCH CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

The old beams and plaster of the Country Club hall needed nothing but Christmas greens to create the atmosphere of a Provencal village in southern France, at the holiday season. In this setting, 60 children of the Winchester Children's Music Group, on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 16, celebrated as it is in Provencal, the great festival of the year, "le grand reveillon." The gay and variegated colors of peasant costumes, suggested by Boutet de Monvel's illustrations of French folk songs completed the picture.

The Yule log was brought in and lighted in the great fireplace. Then the group turned towards the other end of the hall where the space under the balcony had been transformed into a creche.

Reine a torch, Jeannette, Isabella,
Reine a torch, to the cradle, run."

—a carol that has developed from this custom of lighting the candles around the creche in the village square, was sung. A procession to the creche was formed, the youngest at the head, carrying in her arms a doll in swaddling clothes, representing the Christ Child, boys with lighted candles on each side, and all the other children following. When the bells began to ring, "Here Where the Oxen Kneel in Joy," and "Oh, See, They Come, the Little Children." A group of peasants sang "Glad News from Bethlehem, My Comrade," and presented clothes for the Baby. "O Leave Your Sheep" brought the shepherds from their hills. They "Shook off Their Drowsy Sleep," and came in a quaint group with two playing the clarinet and tambourine and two with baskets of fruit and flowers to kneel before the cradle. The kings of the East presented their gifts while the peasants sang the "March of the Three Kings."

Scenes were then closed, lights were turned on, and the festival turned to secular customs. St. Nicholas appeared on the balcony, sang the beautiful old French ballad of the "Miracle of St. Nicholas" and distributed lollypops. A group of children, singing wassail songs, brought in the wassail bowl, and concluded the festival.

With only one rehearsal, no lines to be recited, and over half the children in ignorance of what was going to happen, an atmosphere of informality and holiday celebration was successfully created. More important, the lovely French carols, the impersonation of the Nun, Sister Angelique, who directed the simple customs, and the devout beauty of the creche brought a distinctly reverential quality to the afternoon.

The Children's Music Group is not a club. It has no organization. The monthly meetings are arranged by a committee composed of Mrs. John P. Carr, Mrs. Robert A. Drake, Mrs. Charles S. Livingstone and Miss Alice Main. Any child who loves music, may belong by applying to them.

BADMINTON NEWS

The Winchester Badminton Club played the Framingham Club Tuesday evening on the local courts. The visiting team won three of the four matches as follows:

Brown and Wells, Framingham, vs Bartlett and H. Wood, Winchester, 14-18, 15-3, 15-11.
H. Wood and Wallace, Winchester, vs W. Smith and French, Framingham, 16-18, 15-10, 15-12.
Simonds and Weir, Framingham, vs Monroe and Tozier, Winchester, 15-6, 15-10.
H. Smith and Stearns, Framingham, vs C. Wood and Wallace, Winchester, 18-15, 15-9.

The next match will be played by Winchester at Waban on Jan. 10, at which time it is hoped that the local club will have its regular teams available.

As the next two customary Tuesday evening sessions would come on holidays, it has been arranged to omit these sessions and substitute for them Thursday evenings, Dec. 27 and Jan. 3. Reservations may be made for courts for these evenings.

PROGRESSIVE DINNER

A group of Winchester young people are giving a Progressive Dinner party tomorrow evening. The (fruit) cocktails will be served at Geraldine Moulton's, the soup at Stella Roger's, and the main course of the dinner at the Chevalier's, prepared by Norris Chevalier, Jean Wilson, Norma Godfrey and Ruth Trott. Catherine Blanchard will have the salad course. Desert will be served at Carey's by Bette Moulton and Betty Carey, and then all will finish at Doris Miley's where coffee will be served.

After the dinner, the party will go to Edith Allen's for dancing and a midnight supper. The "lucky" boys include Russell Curry and Hershell Curry of Arlington, Arthur Bowler, John Blanchard, Lowell Bowler, Barry Miley, Arthur Lougie, Dexter Leroy, Robert Emmons and M. McMillan.

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Dec. 23.

The Golden Text is: "Lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name" (Amos 4:13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me . . . I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded" (Isaiah 45:5, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The universe, like man, is to be interpreted by Science from its divine Principle, God, and then it can be understood; but when explained on the basis of physical sense, and represented as subject to growth, maturity, and decay, the universe, like man, is and must continue to be, an enigma" (p. 124).

THINK FIRST of Your Own Community

This is your community. You live here. Probably you own a home or have business interests here. In some manner, what you have or what you earn comes from this community.

Therefore, you have a personal interest in the prosperity of your community. Also, you have a plain duty as a citizen to do what you can to promote local welfare.

You help when you buy from your neighborhood merchants. You help when you deposit money in the local bank, because the bank is the chief agency by which home money is kept circulating for home good.

One of the best ways to work for your own interests is to boost community interests.

AN APPEAL

Is there anyone in Winchester who has an electric radio which they do not use and would care to give to an old man who has no employment of any kind. He is employed with ERA and it can be readily seen he can ill afford any kind of enjoyment. He comes of an old American family and although down in his luck, still hopes for better days. Anyone having a radio, may call the Star Office and it will be called for and delivered.

TELEPHONE FOLK HELP NEEDY CHILDREN

In accordance with a custom now in its fifth year, the employees of the Telephone Company are foregoing their own office Christmas parties and are contributing to a fund which is expected to exceed $35,000 and which is to be used to purchase clothing for children who will be the employees' guests at parties in practically every office headquarters throughout New England.

Young women from all deparments of the Company for the past month have been working with lists supplied by leading charitable organizations, have been busy investigating cases, measuring children accurately for clothing and shoe sizes.

More than 15 needy children in Winchester were provided with warm outfits of winter clothing through the generosity of operators, plant men, clerks and officials of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company at a Christmas party held Wednesday afternoon at the company's central office in Stoneham.

Along with the clothing, and to lend a bit of Christmas color, each child received a stocking full of toys and goodies. While these parties have been entirely an employee undertaking, the management of the company has co-operated actively in supporting this worthy work.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

God bless the dear ones in our home,
Grant many a glad desire
Give peace and happiness to all
Who gather round your fire.
From joyous morn, through happy hours,
Long after shadows fall,
May this be a Merry Christmas Day,
God bless you one and all.

The Christmas party for the Guild will be held on Thursday, Dec. 27 at 2 o'clock. Miss Mary A. Lyons of Everett avenue is chairman. Each member is asked to bring a gift for the tree.

MEN'S CLUB MINSTREL SHOW DEC. 28 AND 29

In First Congregational Church Parish House

A swarm of memories of the old time glories of the burnt-cork troupers will be revived, as the Men's Club minstrel show draws near, when the troupers in their novel costumes and the end men, eight clever ones, swing into action with their rhythmic tambourines. The enthusiastic rehearsals for the big show to be given in the parish house of the First Congregational Church on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 28 and 29, are proving this years' production will be better than the great success of last year. The program will be one of sheer fun, bubbling over with mirth from first to last, with clever jokes and specialty song hits.

The personnel of the cast includes:

Arthur E. Adams	Frank B. Kelley
C. Orne Bayrd	Forbes Kelley
Dr. Ernest H. Becker	Albert E. Kleeb
Dr. F. M. Blanchard	Newell M. Martin
Dr. F. R. Brown	J. Henry Miley
Arthur H. Cameron	Henry W. Miley
Frank Cardinal	Olin E. Prestwood
Rex T. Crandall	Richard M. Rush
Oscar W. Crowers	Leon F. Sargent
Clinton E. Farnham	Arthur F. Sawyer
Edward V. French	Ben R. Schneider
Edward R. Grosvenor	Beverley H. B. Smith
David Grosvenor	William H. Smith
Frederick S. Hatch	Nathan Thumim
Ray Harris	Kirby Thwing
William Hodge	George S. Tompkins
Albert K. Huckins	Frederick W. Trombly
Roland E. Johnson	Merrill Tucker
James H. Jones	Carl W. Wood

The snappy programs of the era of Thatcher, Primrose and West and Lew Dockstader and the other able high lights in minstrelsy will be happily portrayed by the clever minstrel boys of the Men's Club and no one should miss this big minstrel show.

Tickets are on sale by members of the club or may be obtained at F. E. Barnes' store.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Children's Day

On Monday, Dec. 17, the regular meeting of the Fortnightly was devoted to Children's Day and a very gay and colorful Christmas party was given to the children of members and their friends.

Business Meeting—Antiques

At 2:30 there was a [illegible] business meeting. Mrs. Alice An[illegible], chairman of the Pr[illegible] of Antiques Committee gave [illegible] a China Dog exhibition to be held Friday, Jan. 11, at 2:30 p. m. in Fortnightly Hall. The chairmen are Mrs. Annie Mott and Mrs. Marian Symmes. There will be [illegible] and tea will be served. Entries may be [illegible] from any member of the committee.

Community Service

Mrs. [illegible] N[illegible], [illegible] of Community Service, [illegible] and [illegible] of the membership (with names from [illegible] N) and the Executive Board [illegible] to meet recent members on Friday, Jan. 4, 2:30 p. m. in Fortnightly Hall. Mr. Quinn, Superintendent of Schools, will speak on work of the F. E. R. A. in education and what it has done in Winchester. Mrs. Rowan Taft will speak of the work of the Winchester Chapter of the Red Cross and Margaret Hall, David Grosvenor and Howard Grant, about the Junior Red Cross. Tea will be served and all club members are invited.

Mrs. Nichols suggested that a community clothing chest be created in Fortnightly Hall for needy people who do not like to ask for help from the Welfare Board. Members are urged to bring any clothing they have to any meeting of the Fortnightly and it will be placed where it is needed.

Music

The name of one new member was read. Mrs. Isabelle Winship, chairman of the Music Committee, announced another morning musicale on Jan 18 at 10:15 a. m., to be held at Mrs. Charles Barnham's home, 13 Everett avenue. The program will consist of "Folk Songs of All Nations" and will be in charge of Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham, and Mrs. Isabelle Winship.

Christmas Eve Carols

There will be the usual Christmas caroling around the tree on Christmas Eve at 7:30 and the children are urged to attend and bring the song sheets which are to be in the Sunday Herald. Mr. T. Parker Clarke will be the trumpeter.

Public Meeting Jan 11—Music

The next regular meeting of the Fortnightly will be Jan. 11 at 2:30 p. m. in Fortnightly Hall. The Boston Symphonic Ensemble, with Boaz Piller, Director, will play. This is to be an open meeting.

Junior Clubs

There has been a good deal of interest shown and work done in the possibility of forming a Junior Fortnightly Club in Winchester. Two charming presidents of Junior Clubs, Miss Kendall, president of the Medford Junior Club and Miss Elliot, president of the West Medford Junior Club, spoke briefly to the members of the Fortnightly.

They outlined some of the aims of such clubs and what they have accomplished. They pointed out the real values that Junior Clubs have and their many contributions through education, community service and social and civic welfare. They expressed the wish that Winchester may soon join them and form such a club. The matter will come before the next meeting for further discussion.

Program for the Children

By the end of the business meeting, the hall was nearly filled with children and more were coming in constantly! The stage was beautifully decorated for the party, with bright candles and a lovely lighted Christmas tree.

A program of very lovely and unusual Christmas carols by the Glee Club opened the party. The Glee Club is directed this year for the first time by Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham, and this, their first public appearance of the season, was extremely gratifying. The charm of the selections was greatly enhanced by the very effective original arrangements made by Mrs. Witham. They were:

Chorus "Hush My Babe" — Bach
"Lullaby of the Christ Child" — An Old French Carol
"Born Is He" — A French Carol
Violin Solo "Adoration" — Browski
Helena Studzinska Sibley
Accompanied by Mary Ranton Witham
"The Miracle of St. Nicholas" An amusing gay French Carol with a background of humming beautifully sung as a solo by Mrs. Isabelle Winship
"Lark of Carols" with lovely [illegible] solos by Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. Mary Witham
Gloria — A French Carol

The entire Glee Club and their director are deserving of great praise. The fine shading of the voices and the contrast between soft and loud passages brought out a very lovely color effect. The excellency of the diction was especially noteworthy. The Glee Club sang as one voice with a splendid precision of attack and releases. The last selection, "Gloria" was especially lovely. The original arrangement by Mrs. Witham created a melody for all the voices and the harmony was indeed beautiful. The club performed the unique feat of singing the selections, unaccompanied which is always a test of a very fine chorus.

The children were waiting breathlessly for "Gypsy Josephine." She presented a spectacular and mystifying novelty program in story form, illustrated with pictures shown under near ultra violet light. Gypsy Josephine had a very pleasing personality and a dramatic manner that delighted her audience. In her first group of stories, we discovered how the Jack o' Lantern got his name and his face!; the exciting adventures of two boys who captured the wicked Pirate Captain Hooknose, with the aid of the Old Man of the Sea; and a lovely Christmas story of a Christmas tree. Then Gypsy Josephine called for three assistants from the floor to put on magic costumes. After drawing a magic circle, Gypsy Josephine, assisted by "the Clown," performed strange and wonderful tricks with the magic lamp. Little Miss Muffett appeared on the screen, the clown clapped his hands and lo—there was a spider beside her! Next came Cinderella, dressed in rags and her kind fairy godmother. The godmother, with a wave of her wand, changed the picture of an ordinary pumpkins into a beautiful coach drawn by horses, and Cinderella's rags into clothes all jewelled and of rare and beautiful colors.

In between these fascinating pictures, the Gypsy introduced some of her pets: Jumbo, her pet monkey, who did not like oat meal; Bozo, the dog who had studied Arithmetic and knew all the answers; and the cat who hated to be called a "yaller cat" and was forthwith turned into a beautiful tiger cat by the magic light.

Whole-hearted applause ended the colorful Gypsy's program and the children went to get that thing without which a party is never a party—ice cream. As for the grown-ups, they finally went home breathing an unspoken wish that they might be children again!

THE YULE LOG

A Winchester gentleman has revived the old Southern custom of burning the Yule Log as a ceremonial event at Christmas. Taking a beautiful white birch log, he has filled it with a colorful chemical and dressed it with holiday wrappings. When placed in the fireplace it burns with a beautiful, even flame, in delightful colors. It promises to be a popular novelty this year, both as a gift and as an additional Christmas attraction for the family. You can see and purchase them at the Star Office for 75c to $1.25. d14-2t

ACCIDENT AT TRAFFIC CIRCLE

The Symmes Corner traffic circle was the scene of an accident on Wednesday morning when a truck owned by John D. Coakley and driven by Harold F. Carpenter of Woburn was tipped over. According to report, a car which went down Bacon street, cut in front of the Carpenter truck in the circle, and to avoid striking it he pulled his truck so close to the curbing that a rear wheel struck it and the truck went over. Fortunately he was not injured and the damage to his truck was slight. A passing truck tied onto it and pulled it back on its wheels, then towing it to the repair shop.

Miss Sidney Rollins of Newport, N. H., formerly of this town, was entertained over the week-end by Miss Suzanne Gleason of Central street. Miss Rollins accompanied her parents to Boston, they spending the time there, where they were registered at the Ritz-Carlton. On Saturday afternoon, Miss Gleason invited many of Sidney's former friends to meet her.

The new General Electric Dishwasher washes all the Dishes Hygienically clean in 5 minutes for less than 1c a day!

DISHES—dishes—dishes! It's a tiresome, endless task that destroys youth and charm—hastens age and cheats a woman of many golden hours. In even an average home, in one year, a woman washes and wipes a pile of dishes as high as the Empire State Building—tons and tons of dishes! Every day of her life is overshadowed by the dishpan, and no woman can long retain charm while dipping her hands in a greasy dishpan 3 times a day!

In this age of electrical living, dishwashing is unnecessary wasteful drudgery. No longer need the kitchen be cluttered with stacks of dirty dishes. In the modern home a General Electric Dishwasher does the job more quickly—and without breaking or chipping of china and glassware. The unsanitary dishcloth is abolished.

See a demonstration of this newest electrical servant—without obligation. Learn how easy it is to modernize your kitchen under the new National Housing Act plan of financing.

There is a G-E Dishwasher for every kitchen—both portable and cabinet-sink models.

All the dishes—chinaware, glassware, silverware, pots and pans, too—are placed in the rubber trays of the G-E Dishwasher as quickly and easily as stacking in the sink. The magic control is turned and the dishwashing job is done. The General Electric Dishwasher even cleans and dries itself—human hands do not touch dishwater.

Mother, Your Dishcloth is a Menace to Health!

Handwashed dishes are always a threat to family health for they are major carriers of disease germs. Using water hotter than human hands can touch, the G-E Dishwasher destroys bacteria and germs that may mean only a common cold to one but pneumonia and death to another! Handwashed dishes have a bacteria count 80 to 90 times greater than dishes hygienically washed in a G-E!

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

The average Winchesterite never has any trouble getting his fill of empty compliments.

Winchester doctors make you cough up to keep it down.

Even a Winchester woman likes to have some one coax her to do something she wants to do.

When two flatterers meet his satanic majesty goes way back and sits down.

One touch of humor makes all Winchester grin.

A scientist says a new drug may abolish the habit of sleeping. According to one Winchester fellow the new baby in his household has the same effect.

As we Winchesterites continue to dodge automobiles it makes the life of a Latin American president seem less dangerous.

Slowly, oh slowly, please motor car go
When you are passing through a lot of muddy water;
It is impossible all ways to glance,
So that the mud you splash won't go on my pants

And this reminds The Observer to poetize:

Softly, oh softly, your horn let me hear
And use discretion when you shift your gear;
Why such a screeching in using your brakes;
Nothing is worse than the noise that it makes.

How many of the old timers remember when the girls wore stiff tailored shirt waists, with white stiff collars, and their best beau gave them a jeweled collar button?

Once upon a time men here in fair Winchester as elsewhere thought yeast was good only for baking purposes.

A doctor tells us to walk more. Healthy walking still continues to where the car is parked.

A Winchesterite has slobbered a bibful about the state electing a certain politician to high office by saying that a sewer is likely to burst now and then anywhere.

A hypocrite is a fellow who acts differently when he knows some one is watching him.

Do your Christmas shopping early. And do it in Winchester.

Winchester's hope for the future are our children. God bless the children!

Dr. E. B. Becker's poem, "My Physician," was the finest tribute to the physician we have ever read. Let's have more from your talented pen, Doctor.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

James Cagney and a talented cast make the most of a swell story in "The St. Louis Kid," which opens a seven day run at the Strand Theatre in Malden on Saturday. The author must have had Cagney in mind when he wrote this story of a young Irish truck driver who quit his truck for a week-end to woo a lady who had slapped his face and then manages to fall into, and fight his way out of, more trouble than would suffice for a dozen ordinary film comedies. Cagney gets mixed up in a milk war and finds himself in jail. He talks himself out of this jam and is again put behind the bars for a murder he did not commit. Then Patricia Ellis is kidnapped by a couple of gorillas because she is a witness to a murder. Jimmy rushes to her rescue and having promised his boss not to use his fists any more, routs the enemy by butting them with his head. The breath taking action, interspersed with hilarious comedy winds up the film in a novel and astounding climax.

"Registered Nurse," with a marvelous cast that includes Bebe Daniels, Lyle Talbot, John Halliday, Sidney Toler, Minna Gombell, Gordon Westcott, Irene Franklin, Vince Barnett and Mayo Methot, will be the second attraction on the bill starting Saturday. "Registered Nurse" is a love story, replete with drama and action, yet entirely free from the morbidity of the usual hospital picture. It concerns the private lives of the hospital staff of surgeons and nurses.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Joan Bennett and Frances Lederer in "The Pursuit of Happiness," and "365 Nights in Hollywood" with James Dunne and Alice Faye as the stars, is the double bill opening at the big Granada Theatre in Malden on Saturday. "The Pursuit of Happiness" is a screen version of the Broadway stage hit of the past season with Frances Lederer cast as the young Hessian soldier who has been unwillingly conscripted into the British Army. Arriving in America he discovers the Colonists have declared their independence in a document which guarantees every man "the pursuit of happiness." Lederer has no money but is taken in by the Kirkland family when found in their hayloft. Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland are the parents of Joan Bennett. Lederer is introduced to art of "bundling," which consists of getting into bed fully clothed to court the young lady of your choice. This quaint custom was common in those days and was an economy measure to conserve light and heat. "The Pursuit of Happiness" is a gay and saucy comedy with Frances Lederer and Joan Bennett perfectly cast as the young lovers.

"Three Hundred and Sixty Five Nights in Hollywood" is the hilarious story of a boy, a girl and two ice-men who turn the flicker city upside down. Alice Faye is seen as a young screen aspirant from Peoria, Illinois, while James Dunn is cast as a wise-cracking picture director who has had his moment in the sun and is not happy on the outside looking in. Miss Faye wants to get to the top, Dunn realizes the job is twice as hard once you've already been there. The comedy of the piece is carried by Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant as a pair of slightly cuckoo ice-men who pick Alice Faye as a star, and then set out to pave the way for her success. Preview audiences are said to have rowed themselves into the aisles at the merry antics of this team of zanies. The story readily admits the insertion of two song hits by Alice Faye, both lavishly staged with ensembles under the direction of Sammy Lee.

MYSTIC THEATRE, MALDEN ATTRACTIONS

"Power," the Gaumont-British screen production starring Conrad Veidt, a screen favorite of England and Europe, supported by a cast of almost 5000 people, opens Saturday, Dec. 22, for a week's run at the Mystic Theatre, Malden. Lavishly and magnificently staged, and superbly acted, "Power" is a film dramatization of Lion Feuchtwanger's famous novel that has been so widely discussed both in this country and in Europe. The story of "Power" is one filled with human emotions; poignant with enthralling mystery, intrigue and thrilling drama. It is brilliant with pomp and circumstance; rife with dramatic moments and glamorous with romance and color. It is without doubt one of the most dramatic pictures ever filmed. The star, Conrad Veidt, although not very well known in this country, is a great favorite on the continent, and his great work in the role of a poor young Jew, who determines to acquire wealth and with it power, is one of the best characterizations to be shown on the screen to date.

The second feature at the Mystic this coming week will be "Midnight Alibi." Richard Barthelmess is the featured player. The story is one of the most unique romances yet conceived, the principal characters being an elderly and aristocratic spinster and a New York racketeer, Helen Lowell, the noted Broadway star, has the former role, while Richard Barthelmess has the stellar role of the gangster. Barthelmess also plays the part of the spinster's of 45 years before the real story actually starts. Ann Dvorak plays the part of his present day sweetheart while Helen Chandler has the role of Miss Lowell as a young girl. Others in the cast include Robert Barrat, Robert McWade and Paul Hurst.

UNCLE SAM HAS SAFE DEPOSIT BOX FOR HIS "FAMILY PAPERS"

A new and valuable division of the Government is coming into existence in Washington so quietly that little is heard about it. It is a National Archives, where, for the first time, Uncle Sam will have a safe place in which to deposit his "family papers."

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society tells of the new archives building and the work that will go on in it.

Papers Will be "Pampered"

The structure, which will house the National Government's assembled archives is one of the handsomest that is being added to the Capital's notable group of public buildings, says the bulletin. Outside it is a thing of classic Greek beauty; but inside it is ultra-modern. It has no windows, and neither outside light nor natural outside air will be admitted. Summer and winter the temperature will be kept around 72 degrees. The air will be conditioned the year round by a special plant which will wash out all traces of acid, which greatly shortens the life of paper. All stone and metal work in the interior of the building will be coated with a preparation to prevent the flaking of paint or the formation of dust.

The new structure occupies a triangular plot of ground at the junction of Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues, at the apex of the Federal Office Building triangle. It is expected to be ready for use by the middle of next summer.

Archivist Appointed

In many countries of Europe a National Archives has long been an important nrm of the government. Several states in this country have similar establishments for the preservation of official papers, records, and other documents. But for the 158 years since the Declaration of Independence was signed the United States has had no official agency responsible for the documents that have charted its course as a nation.

In June 1934, Congress enacted a bill creating the Office of Archivist of the United States. To organize this new agency, President Roosevelt recreently appointed Robert Digges Wimberly Connor, of North Carolina, as the Nation's first Archivist.

Teachers, students, lawyers, Congressmen, research scholars, writers, diplomats, historians and others will benefit when this treasure house of records is opened. For the first time scattered records, treaties, legal papers, and other official documents of active or historical value will be gathered together in a fireproof, dustproof, and lightproof home. Much of this priceless material now reposes in dusty files, or in damp cellars, or in half-forgotten lofts, where it is difficult of access and exposed to destruction by fire, light, or dampness.

Just what sort of material will go into our National Archives? Mr. Connor, the new Archivist, says it is perhaps too early to give any list, but the Act of Congress creating the office states that all archives or records belonging to the Government of the United States, whether from Congress, the law courts, or the executive divisions under the President, shall be open to inspection by the National Archivist and his staff, and that they may be removed to the Archives Building.

If a government official believes that certain records should be kept secret for a limited period of time, however, these records will not be available foi inspection. But the "secret period" cannot be extended beyond the term of office of the official making the request.

The National Archivist and his staff may collect any government records they wish, but before they may burn or throw away any piece of official paper, they must first get permission of Congress and the government agency concerned. To prevent overcrowding, the Archivist each year will submit a list of useless material for destruction.

In addition to papers and documents, the National Archives will also receive motion picture films of important historical events. In the Archives Building a small movie theater will show films to those engaged in special historical or governmental researches.

Of interest to scholars throughout the world is the additional provision for a National Historical Publications Committee, which shall recommend documents for printing and distribution to libraries, colleges, writers, etc. On this important committee are representatives of the State, War and Navy Departments, the Library of Congress, and the American Historical Association.

Among the hallowed national "family papers" that will be deposited in the new building are: The Treaty of Paris, 1783, by which Great Britain recognized the independence of the United States; Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation; the Versailles Treaty of 1919; Resolution of Congress declaring war against Germany, April 6, 1917; and the Kellogg Pact, Aug. 27, 1928.

The original copies of the two greatest documents owned by the United States, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, will probably remain in the Library of Congress. They were placed there a few years ago by a special executive order, and another such order would be needed to remove them.

The new Archivist, Mr. Connor, has been associated with historical research work for more than 30 years. From 1903 to 1921 he served as secretary of the Historical Commission of the State of North Carolina. Since 1921 he has been Professor of History at the University of North Carolina.

Naming Plymouth, Mass.

Plymouth, Mass... was named for Plymouth, in England, the last English port touched by the Pilgrims, and that port was so named because it is situated at the mouth of the Plym river.

NOW
Mrs. Homemaker-
. . . .
you can afford the modern kitchen of your dreams and Uncle Sam will help you get it by providing a CASH LOAN opportunity which you can repay in 3 YEARS under the National Housing Act . . .

DO anything you like to your kitchen. Have it entirely renovated and modernized; new walls, floor, linoleum, more windows, better lighting, new plumbing, new cabinets, shelves and pantries, and above all, grand, brand new equipment which will make your work so much quicker, easier and pleasant to do . . . A MODERN, AUTOMATIC GAS RANGE . . . A GAS REFRIGERATOR . . . AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATING.

Nothing we can think of will change your entire home so greatly as a new, modern kitchen. It will make the whole house seem new, different. And you'd be surprised what it will do to your daily menu, especially with a smart new gas range and a gas refrigerator standing by to perform miracles for you in the food department.

We believe, and we are sure that every right-thinking American home owner feels too, that to support the National Housing Act is a fine, patriotic and altogether worth-while thing to do from every point of view. Everybody wins by this plan. First of all, you who buy the things necessary to modernize your kitchen get them and the marvelous thrill that a new kitchen will give. Furthermore, you get a cash loan with three years to repay it to pay for your purchases. And your purchases put money into circulation, provide work for many, and better, more comfortable circumstances for those workers and their families.

Your GAS COMPANY, naturally, is interested in selling more gas ranges, gas refrigerators, gas water heating systems and other gas appliances which do so much to modernize homes. But it is also interested in seeing general prosperity for all types of business and recommends sincerely the idea behind the National Housing Act. We hope that many, many families in this community will see their way clear to doing kitchen and other home-modernization work, providing work for our workmen, business for our merchants, comfort for our home folks and prosperity for all. And we will be sincerely glad to help you by supplying service, advice and any other help which is within our power.

We will gladly give you full information as to how and where to apply for a loan, how the loan is to be repaid, what the interest rate will be, and what is necessary to qualify for such a loan. The requirements are simple.
NATIONAL HOUSING ACT

STRALSUND: EARLY BOOM TOWN OF THE BALTIC

Many European cities have risen, fallen and have been all but forgotten since Stralsund, venerable German port city on the Baltic Sea, was first settled. Nearly 450 years before Columbus sought the financial aid of Spain's Queen in his adventures, Stralsund's site was a small settlement. Recently the city celebrated, in the shadow of mellowed buildings, the 700th birthday of its city charter.

Stralsund, occupying a small island between the German mainland and the Island of Rugen in the Baltic, is one of the most unspoiled, fascinating spots in northern Europe, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Destroyed By Jealous Neighbors

Causeways and bridges now link the island with the mainland, bringing railroad trains from Berlin and Hamburg; and high ways converge on the city like the ribs of a fan. But despite the modern traffic that pours into Stralsund there remain many reminders of a golden age long passed —gabled houses, toned with age; narrow winding streets; venerable church buildings, supporting wild rose bushes that have climbed weatherbeaten facades for centuries; and vine-covered walls, surrounding colorful gardens, where once echoed the gayety of some of Europe's most powerful merchant princes and their consorts.

Strolling through Stralsund's byways and across its few open squares, travelers find it difficult to imagine that this quiet, peaceful city of 10,000 inhabitants once was one of the most animated commercial cities in northern Europe. In 1249, just 15 years after it received its charter, its prenominal growth caused jealous citizens of rival Lubeck to destroy it. Before the close of the 13th century, despite the animosity of its neighbors, Stralsund joined the Hanseatic League, that group of cities whose power was feared by kings. Stralsund's trade, before it joined the League was confined to a comparatively small neighboring area. During the 14th century its commerce spread to Scandinavia, Russia, England and France. The city enjoyed a prosperity such as it had never before known, and has never since known. Wealthy merchants lived, worked, played and died, proud of Stralsund.

Hanseatic Power Wanes

But Stralsund's prosperity later led to anguish. Trade, of course, made many of the inhabitants rich; others, unable to share in the profits of crafts and guilds felt that they were not receiving a proper share of the riches that came with the city's development and its increasing wealth. Aristocrats made up the town council and the poor men criticized most of the council's acts as unfavorable to them. Constant bickering between the two factions caused friction that weakened the city government.

Meanwhile the power of the Hanseatic League which had thrust Stralsund into the northern European commercial front, was being tested. One clash between the Danes and the people of Stralsund shook the very foundations of the League in that city; and the League was meeting obstacles elsewhere. By the 17th century Stralsund saw a complete collapse of its trade. Despite this its citizens showed their loyalty to their town in 1628 when they turned back the arms of the feared warrior Wallenstein whom no enemy had dared to resist.

Up to the time of Wallenstein's attack, Stralsund was on its own. By the Peace of Westphalia, however, it was handed to Sweden, by whom it was used as a battleground in battles differences with continental foes. During the Napoleonic wars it was bealeaguered no less than five times and for several years was occupied by French troops. After the downfall of Napoleon, Sweden renounced her ownership of Stralsund (1815) and with the Isle of Rugen, it became a part of Prussia.

One of Stralsund's ancient gems is the city hall which was built in the twelve hundreds. Near-by is the Nikolai Church which required generations to build. St. Mary's, another church building, is outstanding among old religious edifices of northern Germany. Its tower, rising 375 feet above the pavement dominates Stralsund's panorama.

High School "Highlights" Column

High School Gym Scene of Gay Party—Athletic Banquet Big Success

The football and hockey squads wound up the fall sport season with a merry frolic last Saturday in the gym.

Mr. Keeney as master of ceremonies introduced the speakers which were much fewer than last year.

Mr. Grindle awarded the Wheeler-Mansfield cups. He said that there were about 10 eligible for these prized possessions, and that it was after considerable deliberation that they were given to Dorothy Glidden and Gerry Gaffney, who had a slight edge over other candidates.

Between the courses of the dinner everyone had a chance to read a verse about someone present. These were attached to cords running to the center of the room where stood two dummies dressed, one as a football player and the other as a hockey player. These jingles were of a semi-rural rude merriment among those present.

"Don" Emery, captain-elect of the Brown football team and a graduate of Winchester High, offered a few congratulatory words to Coach Mansfield and the boys on their successful season, predicting more to come.

The climax of the speeches came with a dark stranger who was introduced as a distinguished Italian, visiting this country to observe American sports and athletes. Then followed a very touching and impressive address with much meat for thought. Loud applause at the close of it called him to his feet several times which he acknowledged simply with a military salute and a wave of the hand. When all was quiet once more, Coach Mansfield addressed him with a question, and what did our friend, who had been speaking with a strong Italian accent, do but rise to his feet and spiel off some perfectly good American wisecracks to the tune of much laughter from his audience. This clever after-dinner speaker was Mr. Cooke, who had been secured unbeknown to all but two or three present.

Henrietta Garner and Larry Bairstow presented gifts on behalf of their respective squads to Miss Lyseen, Mr. Bartlett and Coach Mansfield.

With the completion of the speeches everyone adjourned to the girls' gym where two teams were made up and a competition was held to determine the winner of the many games that had been arranged for the entertainment of all. The next 45 to 50 minutes were full of loud laughter and hilarious fun-making, a successful end to a successful season.

The Christmas Holiday

Seven hundred students are looking forward with eager anticipation to the dismissal bell on Friday afternoon. To them, it is a signal for the release of the constant pressure which forces homework on the unwilling mind, early hours on the lover of party life, and constant dread of report cards and green slips on the shirker of responsibility.

This is only a little of the joy which that bell extends. In 700 minds lies the thought of a blissful, carefree week of skating, dancing and breakfasts in bed. Rules concerning late hours and other forbidden pleasures will be absolutely disregarded for one week of complete independence. Worry over marks will be entirely dismissed from weary scholarly minds. Christmas is indeed a season of joy greatly appreciated by both students and faculty.

Teachers Enjoy Christmas Party—School Library Attractively Decorated

A very select party for the teachers and their families, the superintendent of schools, the school committee, the school doctor and nurse, and the special teachers working with the high school students, was held Dec. 18, in the school library, at 8:30 o'clock.

First in the line of entertainment was an amusing "Get Acquainted" game, which undoubtedly served the purpose the name implies; followed by carol singing led by Mr. Wilson. Dorothy Glidden gave "Little Black Sambo," which had met with much approval when given before the pupils in assembly.

After the entertainment came the distribution of "joke" gifts, which from what we understand, was very amusing. Then delicious refreshments were served. At last the teachers had a party for themselves, and we think they deserved it.

Scholarship Recognized in Honor Roll Assembly

An assembly was held on Wednesday morning, Dec. 19, in recognition of the 90 people in the high school who have achieved honor grades for the first quarter of the year. About 14 per cent of the entire school is on the honor roll. The sophomore class leads in honor students, with 17 per cent of the class receiving cum laude pins. The freshman class follows close behind the sophomores with a rank of 15 per cent. The seniors and juniors follow in respective order with 14 and 11 per cent.

It was expected that not more than 25 of the incoming freshmen would achieve honor grades, and it was indeed a surprise when 38 freshmen came forward in the auditorium to receive brand new cum laude pins from Mr. Grindle. In order to obtain a cum laude pin, one must have received marks of 90 or above for the first quarter. Of the year. To keep a cum laude pin it is essential to remain on the honor list the remaining terms of the year.

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

It's not the "night before Christmas" this year but the night after that's going to count for the Emblem Club members, for that's the night we celebrate, Wednesday evening Dec. 26, is the date. Lyceum Hall is the place, and any old time after 8 p. m. will find our latchstring out and warmth and welcome inside.

The usual exchange of 50-cent gifts will feature the affair. Each member may invite a guest—but be sure to supply an extra gift for the guest. There will be no other charge. If we can round up a Santa Claus—a he or a she—to do the honors, well, so much the better.

Games, song and story will make up the entertainment program. Refreshments will be served. Let's all join in to make this a real get-together party. Christmas comes but once a year—and we 3may not all be here next year.

Plans for the series of whist and beano parties, to be held in conjunction with the Elks, are progressing rapidly. At the joint committee meeting held in the Elks' rooms on Thursday evening, steps were taken to perfect the working forces of both committees. After Christmas the drive to advertise the series will be on.

Now is the time to get that long-proposed increase in membership. A class initiation is being planned for the month of February. Get an application blank from the secretary and go after that prospective member you've had in mind for so long. Remember, the club year is fast drowing to a close and inspection time is near at hand. Our ritualistic work will be sadly defective if we lack experience in the most important part of it.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

The schools close Friday, Dec. 21, for the Christmas holidays, opening Wednesday, Jan. 2.

The recreational program under the auspices of the Federal Emergency in Education has already started with basketball in the Town Hall. Next week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings the program will be continued from 7:30 to 9:30. The program is for adults 16 years of age and over who are not now in school. The funds for this program cannot be used for students who are now in school.

The following classes which have been held in the Lincoln School on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings will reopen on Monday, Jan. 7. The classes are as follows:

1. A class in sketching in pencil, pen, or charcoal.
2. A class in arts and crafts.
3. A class in English and mathematics of High School freshman level.
4. A class in the decoration of china and glass.

BETTER HOMES GARDEN CLUB

Leaves of the Florida Chinese Lantern Flower, sent to Winchester by Miss Ethel Woodward of Florida may be had by members of the club, who call at the Star Office or from our treasurer, Mrs. Norman Skene, at the Fessenden Real Estate Office on Common street.

DESTRUCTION IN THE FELLS

To the Editor of the Star:

Any one who is accustomed to walk in the Fells Reservation has been impressed with the growth and beauty of the pines planted by the town under the direction of Mr. Charles Kendall. Of special interest was the first sight on entering the area, where the trees have been planted.

This spot where the Winchester and Medford roads meet was a beautiful sight. The description has apparently started at this point.

The trees have been trimmed from about three to five feet from the ground and look as queer as a bow legged man in shorts. Both out of their natural environment.

In many places the trees have been cut down.

I understand a plan is on foot to zig zag paths through the trees for what purpose only a dumb fool would ask. This means more cutting down.

A fire hazard! Huh! That's make us laugh! The whole Fells is a tremendous fire hazard. I have had experience with leaves for nearly 20 years, and know they will give life or death to a garden or woods. I also know they are like fire wherever they are found. A peculiar fact in the trimming of these trees, is that they were planted in conformity with the plan used in many places. The purpose was to keep the leaves from blowing into the water. The way the trees were planted formed an open space und r the trees, a side hill opposite the trees with quantities of leaves to blow down and get into the water.

In this spot we are back where we began eight or more years ago. It seems a pity that the town would sanction such destruction and destroy a growth of beauty to which Mr. Kendall had devoted his life. Out of respect for this man who did more than any other man to beautify our water shed, our Fells Reservation and to protect our water system. I bow my head and say well done, a faithful servant of our beautiful town.

DOG OWNERS INTERESTED

Winchester dog owners and dog lovers will be interested in the advertisement in another column of the Plymouth Kennels Dr. Hillery J. Bergman, who conducts the kennels, is widely known as a professional handler and breeder of Irish and Gordon setters, and owner of the famous champion Ingleburst Poppy, now 11 years old and undefeated. He won fame as a breeder of chow chows seven years ago, the best of this breed was his Laddie-Lin-Sin-Wong, a red chow, at the Eastern Dog Club in 1932. For the past six years, he has specialized in Irish and Gordon setters and has taken more than 500 ribbons. The Plymouth Kennels has many winter boarders, all in sunny and well heated kennels. The location is one mile from Plymouth, in the center of 75 acres of pine and oak. Mrs. Bergman, formerly Miss Virginia Randlett of Lagrange street, this town, has long been known as an ardent dog fancier.

As William H. Rogers of Grayson road was driving north on Main street Woburn, early Monday morning, his car skidded on the icy surface of the street and struck a car operated by James Doherty of that city. Miss Dorothy Callahan of Woburn, riding with Rogers, received a broken jaw, cuts and bruises and Mrs. Stasia McGovern of Salem street, Woburn, was cut about the head. Both women were treated at the Woburn hospital. James Doherty and Louis Doherty, also reported minor injuries.

The reports of the condition of Mrs. George S. Hudson are that she is much improved. She is still confined at the Robinson Memorial Hospital of the Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals of Boston, where she underwent a major operation six weeks ago.

Ransom E. Smith, Jr., a student at The Manlius School, is spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ransom E. Smith of 29 Cabot street.

An automobile accident occurred Friday night at 8:30 at the corner of Mt. Vernon street and the Parkway. Two cars were damaged but no personal injuries were reported. A Buick coupe, driven by Harold W. Sanborn of Melrose, traveling up Mt. Vernon street, was in collision with a Pontiac sedan driven by John G. Tilden of Haverhill, traveling west on the Parkway.

There was a gas scare about the center Tuesday night when Mrs. Jane Pease of 542 Main street telephoned the police station of a heavy odor in her apartment resembling smoke of some sort. Sergeant O'Connell investigated and found the place filled with gas, which apparently originated in the store at 2 Thompson street. He secured the keys to the store from Miss Martha Ginn of Wildwood street and found gas escaping from the door of the heater in the cellar. Deputy Fire Chief Gorman visited the place and shut off the oil burner.

When the fire apparatus reached the corner of Ridge and High streets in answer to an alarm of fire from Box 143 Saturday night at 5 o'clock, the firemen found the place deserted. Report stated that there was a grass fire in the vicinity which created quite a reflection and this was responsible for the alarm. The blaze had evidently been extinguished and those in charge had left the fire before the apparatus arrived.

Notice was issued last week of the coming Tozier Winter Party to the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec. The party will leave Boston by special train Dec. 29, arriving at Quebec Sunday morning. Three days will be spent in Quebec, the party arriving back in Boston at 7:50 Wednesday morning, Jan. 2.

Paul H. Comins was among the members of the football team of Governor Dummer Academy, South Byfield, to receive his letters at the annual Christmas dinner and football banquet held last evening at the academy.

Mr. Merton L. Scribner of Washington street, for many years in charge of the plant of the George W. Blanchard Laundry Co. on Main street suffered a shock a week ago Sunday. His condition is reported as satisfactory and it is anticipated that a rapid recovery is underway.

Miss Elizabeth Dutch, assisted by members of the Connecticut College Outing Club, was in charge of decorating the Christmas tree of Dr. Katherine Blunt, president of Connecticut College, on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 18. Miss Dutch, a senior at Connecticut College, is the daughter of Mr. Charles Dutch of 9 Herrick street, this town.

An automobile on fire in the garage of Mr. Louis Stern on Wedgemere avenue was the cause of an alarm from Box 59 Wednesday morning, shortly before 7 o'clock. The firemen found the car burning briskly and were obliged to use water in extinguishing it. It was almost completely wrecked. The blaze is thought to have started in the rear seat cushions and to have smouldered during the night, it being discovered when the garage was opened in the morning.

A slight automobile accident occurred Monday evening at 6 o'clock at the corner of Main street and Converse place when a Chevrolet truck owned by the New England Laundries and driven by Curtis N. Tholander of West Somerville was in collision with a Plymouth sedan driven by Clarence H. Young of Calumet road.

Tuesday night at 6:20 an auto accident was reported on Washington street near Swanton street. According to report, a Ford, driven by Mrs. Claire E. Boyle of 361 Washington street and a Dodge sedan driven by Beryl F. Quinn of Woburn, were in a collision. Mrs. Bernard Boyle of Oak street was a passenger in the Ford, and both ladies were shaken up. The two cars were damaged.

The Star Office will be open all day Saturday, Dec. 22.

A most attractive Christmas window about the theater is that of Horace Ford on Thompson street. Not content with the usual holiday display, a Santa Claus and a fireplace grouped about with gifts, makes a setting which is unique and original.

PALOMAR MOUNTAIN, BASE FOR THE WORLD'S LARGEST MIRROR

Search for a desirable location for an observatory in which to house the world's largest telescope, which will contain a 200-inch mirror, ended recently in the choice by scientists of Palomar Mountain, about 50 miles northeast of San Diego, Calif.

For several years astronomers have been studying the map of the United States for a new observatory site, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. They chose Palomar because, according to specialists, it is far enough from the desert on the east and the Pacific Ocean on the west to give promise of atmospheric conditions favorable for astronomical studies.

Palomar is not one of the giants among mountains of western America. In fact it is not as high as many of the peaks of the eastern United States, for it rises only 6126 feet above sea level. Nor is it even the highest mountain in Southern California.

It thrusts its rugged summit above the valleys of Cleveland National Forest, a tract 27 miles long and from 5 to 12 miles wide, comprising portions of Orange, Riverside and San Diego counties. Created in 1910 by a reorganization of several earlier forest reserves, Cleveland Forest, named for ex-President Cleveland, includes five mountains in addition to Palomar. The forest was created primarily for watershed protection. It supplies eight reservoirs with a capacity of 125 billion gallons. It contains more than 225,000,000 feet of saleable timber.

Popular Recreational Spot

Before the gold-hungry hordes of "Forty-Niners" moved their caravans across the western plains and through the passes of the Rockies, Palomar was a favored hunting ground among the Indians of the region. In 1831, Palomar was visited by a white man named Warner. He settled near its slopes, became a naturalized Mexican citizen—California then was Mexican—and a grant of land, including Palomar and its environs was made to him by the Mexican Government. From Warner, the Warner Hot Springs near Palomar got their name.

The summit of Palomar is blanketed with a thick growth of timber—cedars, spruces, pines and black oak, in whose shade each year thousands of wanderlusters hike and ride horseback over narrow, tortuous trails. Many pitch their camps in the brisk air of the summit. Through openings in the thick forest, mountain climbers are rewarded for their fatiguing trek by spectacular views of the country for miles around. Many miles of San Diego county, a veritable flower and vegetable garden, are at their feet. In some places one's viewpoint is atop a ridge whose sides tumble in steep grass-covered slopes for thousands of feet to the valleys below.

The 200-inch telescope mirror to be placed on Palomar will be twice the diameter of the mirror at the Mount Wilson (California) Observatory—at present the largest in the world—which has made possible many notable contributions to astronomy. The first attempt to cast the great glass disc for the mirror occurred in the spring of 1934 at Corning, New York. The pouring constituted one of the outstanding scientific feats of the year and was witnessed by thousands of scientists and laymen.

But the huge glass lens was found to have a slight imperfection, so plans have been made to pour a new one. When completed, the mirror will weigh about 18 tons, will reveal billions more stars than can be reflected by the Mount Wilson mirror, and will pierce space to 30 times the distance now possible.

MINNIE AND MICKEY MOUSE

Are coming to the Repertory Theatre on Saturday, Dec. 29 for an all-day performance. The Three Little Pigs, Pluto, the Pied Piper, the Babes in the Wood, the Grasshopper and the Ant, the Steeple Chase and Lullabye Land will all be there and Mickeys Whoopee Party, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. This is an opportunity to give a jolly party for children from 8 to 80 years old. Each performance will take about an hour and a half. Walt Disney has had an interesting career, starting as a commercial artist for a paper for farmers in Kansas City. He learned to draw cows beaming over a new advertisement for salt boxes, hens delighting over lay more eggs food, cartoons of Kansas City celebrities; then animated fairy stories. After several years at this, Disney, with $40 in his pocket arrived in Hollywood, then followed Oswald the Cat and Mickey Mouse. The first two Mickey Movies were silent, but as the talkies came to the front, Mickey began to dance and sing and now as we all know, is the most popular movie actor. Mickey's fan mail in three weeks was over 20,000 letters. There is no other movie character who is more universally loved than Mickey with perhaps the exception of Charlie Chaplin. In every country Mickey and the Three Little Pigs are sure of their welcome. Walt Disney has also taken great care in selecting the music for his Silly Symphonies music from Grieg, Brahms, Mendelssohn, Strauss, Offenbach and Mozart being used. Frank Churchill's song, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf" has probably carried more cheer with it than any popular song of the post depression years.

Don't forget to come to the Repertory Theatre, Huntington avenue, Boston, Saturday, Dec. 29, between 10 and 10.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

The cold weather which has more or less blanketed the country has decreased the supply of fresh fruits and vegetables and sharply increased their prices. Root vegetables are particularly good choices at this time. Cabbage and kale are hardy and are still plentiful and fairly low in price.

There will be plenty of citrus fruits, apples and nuts for holiday needs at moderate prices. There will also be an ample supply of turkeys, geese, ducks, and roasting chickens. They will be moderately priced.

Here are three menus, including a Christmas dinner, made up from seasonable foods.

Low Cost Dinner
Veal Pot Pie with Pastry Crust
Potatoes Carrots
Bread and Butter
Prune Whip
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Lamb Parsley Potatoes

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

One fellow here in fair Winchester is all the time mistaking laziness for patience.

Memorize this one carefully: Even the watch a man keeps on his tongue will run down occasionally.

How many Winchesterites remember when hearses were black, dismal looking affairs, with three poles about three feet high on top on each side, and the horses drawing the hearse were covered with heavy black nets?

And when the women of Winchester had their dresses buttoned down the back, beginning with a one inch standup collar and ending with a placket?

Yes, our Winchester dentists are the only individuals who can tell a woman when to open and shut her mouth, and get plumb away with it.

The well-dressed Winchesterite does not let his wife select his wearing apparel.

It isn't always the heaviest taxpayer who has the most money to loan.

One reason why the majority of women here in Winchester and elsewhere do not take any stock in the wisdom of Solomon is because they have heard that he had 700 wives.

There are people even here in fair Winchester who think that the barque of life has to be manned by a corkscrew.

Winchester is more attracted to a warm-hearted sinner than an arctic-souled saint.

We live in a mighty fast age. We know a couple here in Winchester who no more than returned from their honeymoon before they were planning for their divorce.

When he comes out of a restaurant the way one Winchester fellow holds a toothpick in his mouth one would think he was under the impression that it was dessert.

You can fool some of the people all the time, but there isn't a barber here in Winchester you can fool any of the time when you shave yourself.

We know a man here in Winchester who goes about apparently under the impression that if he smiled it would cause the crack of doom.

Gold is the greatest of all the mending metals when it comes to welding the pieces of a shattered heart.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

By Eugene Bertram Willard

A man's first thought should be of others and the last of himself. Yet how few men think of others as much as they do of themselves. Even this industrial depression through which we are going has not been wholly necessary—is it not possible that if our industrialists thought more of the welfare of humanity and less of the mad scramble to make money more people would be working today and fewer on the dole? Self is a thing we should fly from.

Mr. Maxwell, in his admirable book, "In Cotton Wool," shows us the frightful consequences of coddling self. There we see the exact opposite of self-renunciation. The only thing that stands in the way of self-conquest and self-mastery is evil—whether it be weakness, cowardice, selfishness or vice. We are told that a man's foe shall be those of his own household That is true in a very deep and intimate sense, for they are the foes that dwell in his own heart and soul. And the worst of them all is self.

The trouble with this old world is that so many people think of it as an easy and pleasant place in which there are no foes or temptations or hardships, and of life as a sort of holiday parade through a friendly country. This is why we find people who have gotten a false sense of peace and security that has resulted in a sore spiritual loss. This surely is not the proper conception of the way to live in the world if we expect something else in the next. Thank God, we do have men and women in and out of Winchester whose practical knowledge of life and the world, whose knowledge of their own souls, are such that they live to bless others.

Authority, experience, and a daily living in a troubled world, all go to show, not only that evil is here and a lot of it, but also that it must be opposed, exposed and renounced, and dealt with as a reality—for that is just what it is. "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Free from what, if not cussedness?

"Gates of Sorrow"

Bael Maadeb a body of water with a name meaning "gates of sorrow" is a strait connecting the Indian ocean and the Red sea. It separates the southeastern part of Arabia from the continent of Africa. Near the African coast are the volcanic islets, Eight Brothers. The strait offers so many dangers to small vessels that the name meaning gates of sorrow was given to it.

"THE FACTS OF THE MATTER!"

To the Editor of the Star:

In last week's issue of the Star there were two communications regarding the work around the Reservoirs. Mr. Rice took it upon himself to criticize in a sarcastic manner the methods being used in the care of the pine trees, which shows very little knowledge of the situation. Mr. Patrick Craughwell hearing rumors of the destruction of the pine trees, with his usual good sense, went and investigated and in his communication praises what the Board is doing.

The facts of the matter are that last fall while Mr. Kendall was with us, it was decided that the time had come when the limbs at the bottom of the trees should be trimmed and we applied to the E. R. A. for labor which, after careful examination by them, was granted. The trees are being trimmed in the same manner as of on all well cared for Water Sheds and is being done with the advice of the State Forester.

We also have had another E. R. A. project approved for work on the shores of the Reservoirs. There are being built stone walls around the edges of the shallow coves and the coves are being deepened and there will be less land exposed when the Reservoirs are drawn down. This work adds to the sanitary conditions and the beauty of the Reservoirs. We are very fortunate in being able to get this necessary work done without much expense to the Town. We shall be glad to give anyone, interested, information in regard to the Water Works and Sewers of the Town, enabling them to have an intelligent understanding of the problems if they will make known their desire to the Board.

Yours respectfully,
Edmund C. Sanderson,
Chairman Water & Sewer Board

THANKS FOR RADIO

Last Friday through the kindness of Mr. T. Price Wilson, Editor of the Star, an appeal was put in the paper for a radio for an old gentleman. Monday afternoon the appeal was answered by Mr. Arthur S. Kelley of Mystic Valley Parkway, who called the Star saying he would be glad to donate the radio. The writer of the appeal, with Fred Scholl, called for the radio and we had it delivered to the home of the man and if the donor had seen and heard the thanks of the man receiving the gift, he would have been fully repaid.

The Park Radio service, through Erskine Kelley, agreed to fix up the antenna without any cost or do anything else required to put the radio in working order, but when the radio was set up, it took the stations at once and about all that will have to be done is to place an antenna. Thanks again to the Star and to the two Mr. Kelleys.

OUTSTANDING ORCHESTRA AT YOUNG PEOPLE'S PARTY

What are you doing New Year's Eve?

Come to the big party in the First Congregational Church social hall. Sponsored by the young people, it is surely to be one of the outstanding social events of the season. The main activity will be dancing to new and excellent music, the Parkway orchestra. Besides this, there will be ping pong near at hand for those who tire of dancing. Refreshments? Of course, delicious ones that will put the finishing touch on an evening of fun-making.

Shortly before midnight, everyone will go to the candlelight chapel and hear Margaret Slattery as she ushers the New Year in. Those of you who have heard this speaker, know how splendid and dynamic everything she has to say is.

At 12:30, the party will be over, and you will be saying what a grand time you had.

Remember, 8:30 in the Congregational social hall. Will we see you there?

CHRISTMAS OPEN HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. George Brewster Kimball of West Newton, formerly of this town, held open house on the Sunday before Christmas and among the Winchester people who enjoyed their hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poinier, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wiggin, Mr. and Mrs. William Cole and their daughter, Miss Deutzia Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davy, Dr. and Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Billman, Mrs. Winifred Hart and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball are leaving this week for their winter home in Ojai, Calif.

LEAVES A SON AND DAUGHTER HERE

Frederick Franklin Stockwell, who died Saturday, at Somerville, left two children residing here in Winchester. One son, Ernest F. Stockwell, resides at 69 Wedgemere avenue and a daughter, Mrs. Edward E. Chick, also resides here. Mr. Stockwell, who resided on Kidder avenue, West Somerville, for the past 15 years, was one of the founders of Barbour, Stockwell Company, makers of street railway equipment. He was a prominent member of the I. O. O. F., and a 32d degree Mason. He was secretary of the New England Foundrymen's Association, treasurer of the New England Street Railway Club, president of the West Somerville Co-operative Bank and an honorary member of the National Metal Trades Association. The funeral services were held on Wednesday, with the interment in Mt. Auburn.

WINCHESTER'S NEEDY REMEMBERED AT CHRISTMAS

Many of Winchester's less fortunate families were remembered and gladdened at Christmas through the efforts of the Community Relief Committee, of which Fred H. Scholl was chairman; Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, treasurer; and Miss Nellie M. Sullivan, secretary. Seventy-five families were directly cared for by the committee who again issued gift certificates redeemable by the recipients at any local store for merchandise, either food, clothing or toys for the children. This plan was in operation last year and was found so successful that it was resumed this season.

In addition to the work of the committee, the Salvation Army furnished dinners for 17 Winchester families, 12 additional dinners being provided by Winchester Lodge of Elks. Six families received food, clothing and toys from the Winchester Emblem Club.

Winchester Chapter of the Red Cross furnished dinners for four families and the Community Relief Committee of the Women's Fortnightly Club provided shoes, rubbers, underwear and children's toys for five families.

Mr. Fortis Antipas of the Splendid Coach supplemented his Thanksgiving generosity by serving full course Christmas turkey dinners without charge to 50 persons, who presented slips signed by the chairman of the Community Relief Committee, Mr. Scholl.

In addition to the above, generous individuals throughout the town provided food, clothing and other cheer for needy friends, of which no record was made. It is also impossible for the committee to estimate the number of families caried for directly by the individual churches.

The committee is deeply grateful for the generous assistance given its efforts by the citizens of the town, both in the matter of contributions and in suggestions of families in need of assistance. It is sincerely hoped that no one in actual need was overlooked.

LEGION AUXILIARY DELIVERED TOYS

Members of the Auxiliary to Post 97, American Legion, under the direction of President Annie M. Hanlon, delivered a large quantity of toys to children of Winchester's less fortunate war veterans on the day before Christmas.

Many of the toys had been collected or donated by Legionnaires and repaired and renewed by the firemen at the Central Station who did a great deal in putting them in first class condition. The co-operative efforts of the three groups worked out to real advantage and gave many a youngster a much more happy Christmas than otherwise would have been the case.

ELITE BEAUTY SHOPPE SPONSORING BEAUTY AND POPULARITY CONTEST

The Elite Beauty and Barber Shoppe is holding a beauty and popularity contest in connection with the service it renders its patrons which is going to make a high school girl and boy happy when school closes in June.

At that time a prize of $15 is going to be awarded the girl adjudged the most beautiful in the Winchester High School with $10 going to the most popular high school boy.

A haircut, permanent, or in fact any purchase of 50 cents or more entitles the purchaser to vote for whomever he or she wishes for the prize, each multiple of 50 cents being good for a vote.

Slips will be given patrons and when filled out can be de deposited in sealed boxes which will not be opened until the closing of school in June. At that time they will be opened, either at the Star office or at the school by carefully chosen judges. Don't forget to ask for your vote slips when visiting the Elite. Help your friends to win a prize.

WEEK-END FIRES

Last Friday morning at 9:07 the Fire Department was called to the residence of Mr. George Black at 229 Mystic Valley Parkway, where there was a slight fire in the kitchen. At 2:57 Friday afternoon, Woburn Box 56 came in for a fire in the basement of a building at the corner of Crane's lane and Main street near the Winchester line. Engine 3 answered this call.

Sunday evening at 6:44 o'clock, there was a chimney fire at the home of Mr. A. K. Huckins at 246 Highland avenue.

ENTERTAINED FOOTBALL TEAM

Coach and Mrs. Wendall D. Mansfield entertained the letter men of this season's Winchester High School football team at their home on Stone avenue Wednesday evening. Assistant Coach Edward Bartlett of the high school faculty was also present and acted as master of ceremonies for the evening.

An informal discussion of especial interest to the players occupied only a part of the evening and was followed by the playing of "beano" and other games, prizes being won as follows: first prize, "Dave" Grosvenor; second prize, "Al" Gaum; booby, "Larry" Bairstow.

A delicious collation was served by Mrs. Mansfield and enthusiastically received by all present. It is reported that Ivor Olson, 200 pound tackle, had a slight memory lapse and as a consequence, failed to appear promptly for the party. He did, however, arrive in plenty of time to assist with the chocolate cake.

SING IN THE NEW YEAR

With the expansive and genial spirit of Christmas still upon us, the young people of the Baptist Church will prepare for the New Year at their regular service next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The inspiration of Christmas to higher thinking and living was expressed well last Sunday by a cantata and tableaux presented with the help of the young people.

The 7 o'clock meeting next Sunday will be more informal and Mr. Rushton will speak to the Christian Endeavor at 8 o'clock. A social hour will conclude the evening services this Sunday. The many varied plans in view for the coming year invite everyone of high school age or over to join in work for others and good times for others.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 2 at 2:30 p. m. in Waterfield Hall. As this is the day on which the Legislature convenes, Mr. Lodge will be unable to be present, but the club has been most fortunate in securing Mrs. A. J. George, who is a lecturer well known in Winchester and an old favorite with club members. Mrs. George will have for her subject, "Affairs at Home and Abroad." A delightful musical program has been arranged with Sophia H. Gardner, as soloist and Mary Ranten Witham, accompanist. Both these talented artists are so well known and such great favorites with Winchester audiences that further comment is unnecessary. The afternoon promises to be one of such outstanding merit that each member is urged to bring a guest.

HUBERT WEBSTER GODFREY

Hubert Webster Godfrey, sales manager for C. D. Parker Company at 150 Congress street, Boston, and widely known in brokerage circles in that city, died Wednesday morning, Dec. 26, at his home, 372 Highland avenue, after an illness of only a few hours with heart disease. He had not complained of illness and had spent Christmas Day with his family, apparently in the best of health. Shortly before midnight, he was stricken and died about 10 o'clock the next forenoon, his death coming as a severe shock to his family and many friends.

Mr Godfrey was the son of James and Ada D. (Edgecomb) Godfrey, and was born in 1886 at Everett. After completing his education in the Everett High School he entered business and was for a time associated with the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, later being identified with Lee, Higginson Company and the National City Company. He then formed and became a partner in the firm of Emerson, Godfrey Company, going into business for himself about five years ago at 50 Congress street under the firm name of H. W. Godfrey Company. He had been associated with C. D. Parker Company for a little more than two years.

Mr. Godfrey spent much of his life in Everett, and in that city on Sept. 10, 1910, married Miss Marion Bartlett. After a year's residence in Ridgewood, N. J., he came to Winchester about ten years ago and had since made his home here, holding membership in William Parkman Lodge of Masons and until recently, in the Winchester Country Club.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Bartlett E. Godfrey, a recent graduate of Bowdoin, and Robert F. Godfrey, a member of the Bowdoin freshman class; a sister, Mrs. Edith Ellerby of Birmingham, Mich., and a brother, Frederick Godfrey, of Orlando, Fla.

Funeral services were held this Friday afternoon in the late residence with Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church, officiating. Interment was in Glenwood Cemetery, Everett.

OPEN HOUSE ON NEW YEAR'S

Holding to the custom started many years ago, the Winchester Masonic Lodges, William Parkman, Mystic Valley and Royal Arch Chapter, will hold open house on New Year's Day in the Masonic quarters on Mt. Vernon street from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. Visiting Masons, as usual, are cordially invited to attend.

TONIGHT AND SATURDAY EVENINGS AT 8:15

The Big Minstrel Show of the Men's Club of First Congregational Church in the Parish House

A big social event of the season is the Men's Club Minstrel Show. Full of fun, clever jokes and snappy song hits,—a program of pep and originality. The entire cast is composed of members of the Men's Club, drilled by capable coaches.

There are eight clever end men, in original song hits, tambourine overture, and they appear in novel and amusing costumes. No one should miss this big show. The admission is 50 cents, and tickets are on sale by members of the Club or at F. E. Barnes' store, or at the door.

Tonight and Saturday evenings at 8:15.

GORDON GILLETT TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Gordon Gillett is home for the holidays from Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va. On Sunday evening, Dec. 30 at Grace Episcopal Church, Everett, he is to address the Young People's Fellowships from various churches in the diocese. This is to be at the regular evening service at 7 p. m.

CHRISTMAS PARTY AT LEGION HOUSE

The annual children's Christmas party under the auspices of Winchester Post, No 97, American Legion; its Ladies' Auxiliary and the Disabled Veterans' Service League was held on the afternoon of Monday in the Legion Headquarters.

More than 100 youthful guests assembled at the house and waited eagerly for the arrival of Santa Claus, while feasting their eyes on the gaily decorated and electrically lighted Christmas tree.

At 4 o'clock, a loud knocking at the door announced the arrival of St. Nicholas and with his arrival, the party really got under way. After shaking hands with the young folks, Santa got down to business, calling of children's names from a long list and presenting each with a fine gift, specially selected for its particular recepient and individually wrapped and marked.

In addition to the gifts, each child had ice cream and a bag of candy without which Christmas would indeed be an empty occasion. It is of interest that not a single child who had been invited failed to put in an appearance when his or her name was called. All were present and all had a wonderful time. Carols were sung by the children and grown-ups present with piano accompaniment by Mary Ranton Witham, choir director at the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church.

Comdr. John H. McCarthy of the Legion was on hand to personally oversee the party and several other Legionnaires lent a hand wherever possible. W. Allan Wilde, past Commander, in the role of Santa Claus, was the big hit of the party. Among the ladies of the Auxiliary who assisted, in addition to President Annie M. Hanlon, were Mrs. Archie DeMorris, Mrs. Bessie Pierce, Mrs. William Carroll, Mrs. Blanche Bennett, Mrs. Bert Garley, Mrs. Conrad Larson, Mrs. Fred Mitchell, Mrs. Kenneth Colgate, Mrs. J. Henry Miley, Mrs. Archibald T. Martin, Mrs. Nathaniel M. Nichols and Mrs. Clifford Ramsdell.

ENGLISH BOY CHORISTERS TO SING AT EPIPHANY

A treat is in store for Winchester music lovers on Tuesday evening, Jan. 1, when the famous English Boy Choristers will be in town to sing a recital of sacred music and carols at the Church of the Epiphany, commencing at 8 o'clock. The choristers are now on a good will tour of the United States and are soon to leave the eastern states, after singing in the principal cathedrals and churches, to fill engagements in the middle West. Naturally they are much in demand and Winchester may well consider itself fortunate to have the opportunity of hearing them sing in one of its own churches.

The English choirboys are chosen from prominent London churches and each is a member of the London Choir School. On their last tour they were honored in Washington by an invitation to the White House, where they were received by Mrs. Roosevelt. A similar distinction was bestowed upon them in Ottawa where they were invited to Government House where they were received by the Governor General and Lady Bessborough.

Their repertoire is carefully chosen and includes solos, duets and three and four part anthems by Arcadelt, Byrde, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Elgar, Brahms and other modern English composers. The boys are under the direction of Carlton Borrow, A. R. C. O.

The program for their appearance at the Church of the Epiphany follows in full:

Processional Hymn 72 — "O Come All Ye Faithful"
Opening Sentences
Apostles' Creed (Prayer Book, Page 29)
Prayers and Grace
Choristers. The recital will include numbers from the following list:

WINCHESTER YOUNG PEOPLE ATTENDED MACBETH

Winchester was well represented at the presentation of Shakespeare's Macbeth at the Colonial Theatre in Boston last Thursday evening.

One local group in attendance included Miss Ethel Knowlton and Mr. Robert Keeney of the high school faculty, the Misses Janet Spencer, Mary Worthen and Gretchen Cleaves, Richard Leghorn, Frank Porter, Peter Cornwall, Donald Tead, Robert Howe and Robert Thornton.

Others noted in the audience were the Misses Elizabeth Chamberlin, Henrietta Garner and Madeline Sawyer; also Mr. Raymond V. Hayward of the high school faculty and Amos Shepherd.

RHODES—BICKFORD

The marriage of Vera Bickford of 12 Rangely to Ivan F. Rhodes of Wakefield, was announced at a Christmas party on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Rhode's brother, Walter E. Bickford, 4 Washington avenue, Stoneham.

After Feb. 1, the couple will make their home at 539 Main street, Wakefield.

WATER DEPARTMENT FOREMAN TO RETIRE

Mr. John A. Hall of Holton street, foreman of the Water Department for more than 25 years, has been granted a pension by the town and will be retired from active work on Jan. 1.

He was the recipient this week of a commendatory letter from the members of the Water & Sewer Board and last evening in the Calumet Club was guest of honor at a dinner given by his associates in the Water Department.

Covers were laid for 20 at the dinner which was prepared and served by the Calumet Steward, Fred H. Scholl. Supt. Harry Dotten acted as toastmaster, and most of those present responded to toasts. Old timers told interesting anecdotes of early days in the department and all expressed the regret that Mr. Hall is no longer to be actively associated with them.

During the evening, Mr. Dotten, on behalf of the gathering, presented the retiring foreman with a handsome Gladstone bag, for which he expressed his thanks in a way that left no doubt of his appreciation.

After the dinner an informal entertainment program was enjoyed, many of those present contributing to its success. Perhaps the high lights were bag-pipe solos by Robert Titelah; Jewsharp selections by Warren Foley, Swedish songs by John Carlson and "Down East" songs by William Nowell.

ENTERTAINED ON SIXTH BIRTHDAY

Joy Eldredge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Eldredge and granddaughter of one of Winchester's remaining Grand Army Veterans, Mr. David L. Storey of Church street, entertained a group of her little friends last Saturday afternoon from 4 until 6:30 at her home, 5 Wildwood terrace on the occasion of her sixth birthday.

The table was decorated with a reproduction of the Nativity Crib and the children enjoyed themselves singing carols and playing games appropriate to the season.

Joy's guests included Ann Spaulding, June Preston, Mary Dean Snell, Nancy Davidson, Barbara Booth, Jean Craniton, Jason Dade, David West Eldredge and June Moffett.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The Building Commissioner has issued permits for the erection of buildings or alterations to property owned by the following for the week ending Thursday, Dec. 27:

Mrs. Pilusso, Winchester—reshingle dwelling at 834 Main street.

Mrs. Mary Miley, Winchester—reshingle dwelling at 63 Mystic Valley Parkway.

TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS WEDNESDAY

Two automobile accidents were reported to the police during the afternoon of Wednesday. The first took place at 1:20 when George A. Goodwin of 62 Circuit street, Malden, while driving north on Forest street, lost control of his model T Ford sedan, which struck a tree on the right hand side of the road and then continued to the left across the street and over the wall on the premises of Mrs. James Hinds. The car was so badly damaged it had to be towed away. Goodwin was uninjured.

At 2:30 o'clock, Vincent Tranfaglia of 62 Swanton street, Norwich University football player, was painfully injured when the Dodge sedan he was driving east on Swanton street across the main line bridge of the Boston & Maine Railroad, skidded and crossing the grass plot at the side of the road, struck a tree. Tranfaglia sustained abrasions to the nose and forehead and a general shaking up. He was treated for his injuries at the office of Dr. A. L. Maietta. The car was badly wrecked and was pushed by boys living in the neighborhood to the Swanton street service station.

WINCHESTER PLAYERS STAND WELL IN NEW ENGLAND TENNIS RATING

The New England tennis ranking gives an official estimate of the standing of Winchester players for 1934.

As almost always the lists of the two age classes for girls are composed of players in the vicinity of Boston. That is because tennis among the women and girls is far more developed within 20 miles of the state house than in all the rest of the district included in the New England Lawn Tennis Association, which contains the whole of New England except the southwest corner of Connecticut.

Of the 20 girls rated Winchester has 10. In the older class Sylvia Hatch is placed at No. 1 above Elena Ciecone of Newton, the Massachusetts Junior Champion in singles. That is due to Sylvia's victory over Elena at Tedesco and a far better showing made in summer tournaments.

Ruth Aseltine is No. 4 and Kay Parrot No. 5. Together they were runners-up in the State Junior doubles going out in the title round before Sylvia and Louise Harding. Ruth won the North Shore junior doubles with Elena for the second successive year. Kay Parrot had two notable wins, taking the North Shore junior mixed doubles and then going on to the Southern Maine championship at York to duplicate the feat.

Mary Boyden did not have as good a season as usual but played well enough to be rated No. 9. Frances Kelley, winner of the Junior singles at Duxbury and winner of the fourth annual interscholastic mixed doubles with Lorimer Walker for Winchester High, well deserves her place at No. 10.

Among the younger girls, who were under 15 last New Year's, Winchester is equally well represented. Ruth Bernard at 2 and Shirley White at 3 follow closely on the heels of "Baba" Madden who is at the top of the list. At 4 and 5 are Katherine Gilbert and Dorothy Kleeb, both of whom defeated Polly Morrill of Dedham in the fall competitions. Dorothy Bruno is No. 10 by virtue of her victories over Ruth Carter of Malden, holder of the North Shore younger girls' championship and Suzanne Reed, who was runnerup to "Baba" Madden in the May tournament at Longwood.

It is evident that in 1934 Winchester was the best place for girls' tennis in this part of the country.

The local boys found the going harder but nine of them have records of which the town may well be proud. Six of the high school boys scored enough points in the annual interscholastic tournament to give Winchester High a tie for first place with Attleboro High. They were Lorimer Walker, John Scully, Walter Josephson, Dean Carleton, William McGaragle and Robert Woodford. In addition two other Winchester boys, freshmen at Harvard and Yale respectively, are both rated near the top of the 1938 squads. They are William Gilpatric, Jr. of Harvard and Norman Dalrymple of Yale. The latter, captain of Andover last spring is, however, the only Winchester boy player who has a New England rating, he having been put at No. 7.

Russell Ellis, winner with Shirley White of the mixed doubles in the fall Longwood tournament, plays brilliantly and may be expected to be even better next season.

Just as soon as a group of Winchester boys concentrate on the technique of strokes as Lorimer Walker, Norman Dalrymple, William Gilpatrie, Jr. and Russell Ellis have already done, this town will become famous for fine tennis among the boys as it is already on the girls' side.

The chief danger of being high up is the disposition to run on one's reputation. Those who try that can only run in one direction, which is down hill. So long as enthusiasm for good tennis strokes continues and so long as spirited competition is provided, Winchester tennis will be getting better and better.

Monday afternoon at 2:30 a dog owned by Alice T. Callahan of 16 Eaton street was struck and killed at the corner of Eaton and Washington streets by an automobile, driven by Mrs. Gertrude Young of 206 Upland Mountain road, Montclair, N. J. [Journal, Wilton, N. H.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

A midnight show will be given at the Granada Theatre in Malden on New Year's Eve with eight acts of vaudeville and a feature picture as the program. This midnight show at the Granada is an annual affair with all seats reserved. The vaudeville bill is headlined by a spectacular miniature musical comedy with Carmen, Bell Brothers and Grace. Another big attraction is Alice O'Leary, a radio favorite of thousands. Haynes and Beck, one of the best comedy acts on the stage, Milford Trio, a novelty act, Fitzgibbon Brothers, "The Original Daffydills," and "The Saltzes" in a "Different Brand of Fun" are other attractions. Joe Kelso and Company in a melange of comedy, magic and fun, together with Sylvester French Troupe in a song and dance revue round out the eight act bill. The screen attraction for New Year's Eve only will be "Young and Beautiful" starring Judith Allen and William Haines, a lively comedy drama with a direct appeal to those in a mood to celebrate.

A gorgeous medley of girls, music and comedy is what the film fan will see in "College Rhythm" which opens at the Granada on Saturday. With Joe Penner, America's favorite radio star and a great supporting cast including Lanny Ross, Jack Oakie, Helen Mack, Lyda Roberti and Mary Brian, "College Rhythm" opens with a bang and keeps at top speed right to the climax. It is a mirthful farce, with lots of dancing and hit tunes, built around the hilarious rivalry of two college boys for the same maiden's hand.

"Lady By Choice" with Carole Lombard, May Robson, Walter Connolly and Roger Pryor will be the second attraction on the bill starting at the Granada on Saturday.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

Eddie Cantor in "Kid Millions" will open a seven day run at the Strand Theatre in Malden on Saturday. "Kid Millions" has everything in the way of entertainment. Rich comedy, gorgeous girls, catchy music and a closing sequence done in Technicolor which amazes the audience with its splendor. "Kid Millions" has more of a story than most of this star's previous hits, but the popular Eddie Cantor clowning and gags have not been overlooked and Eve Sully, a newcomer from vaudeville registers a big hit as a nut comedienne. Others who share the spotlight are Ethel Merman in comedy and song numbers and Warren Hymer as a fun maker par excellence. The love interest of the film is carried by Ann Sothern and George Murphy who also croon some of the many song successes of the piece. Of the 60 prize beauties who comprise this season's crop of Goldwyn Girls who prance in and out of the picture in the lavish song and dance ensembles staged by Seymour Felix, Janice Jarrett, an 18 year old girl from Texas, is considered the prize beauty of the lot.

"Ready for Love" with Richard Arlen, Ida Lupino and Marjorie Rambeau as the featured players, is the second attraction on the bill starting Saturday. Ida Lupino is a famous star of the English stage and cinema who in her first American picture is cast as a young and impetuous girl who upon her arrival in a small town through no fault of her own becomes involved in a scandal. Richard Arlen is the editor of the paper which starts the story. Later he discovers his mistake and does his best to make the townsfolk understand the girl is innocent of any wrong-doing.

DINNER AT WILTON, N. H.

A very enjoyable birthday dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Huber recently in honor of Mrs. Huber's father, George H. Hamilton, who was celebrating his 70th birthday. Mr. Hamilton has been in Wilton since last spring and has made many friends, especially among the Masons and the Odd Fellows. Relatives were present from Hampton Falls, Nelson and Concord. Mr. Hamilton was formerly a resident of Winchester, where he was a contractor and builder for 45 years.—[Wilton

CHRISTMAS AT THE GEORGE WASHINGTON SCHOOL

December has been a month of Christmas festivities at the George Washington School. On the 7th, the boys and girls of Miss Hatch's room presented to the school a dramatization of the story, "Why the Chimes Rang." This dramatization, was worked out two years ago by Miss Rich of the George Washington faculty. The play is given in three scenes; the first shows the home of two poor little boys; the second takes place outside the city gate and the third is the interior of a cathedral.

Working under difficulties the pupils presented an attractive city wall and gate, snow tipped with the cathedral spire just showing for Scene 2. The interior scene was richly worked out with stained glass windows against a purple background.

The boys and girls responsible for scenic effects were Harry Hodge, Craig Greiner, George Hatch, Marjorie Mahoney, Helen Carroll and Robert Moran.

Those taking part in the play were:

Poor ..... James Gomes
Little Brother ..... Vernon Hall
Old Woman ..... Barbara Keeler
Bishop ..... Charles Gannon
First Rich Man ..... George Hatch
Second Rich Man ..... Merle Clark
Author ..... Robert Cross
Artist ..... Orrelle Gibbons
Noble Lady ..... Anna Ferraro
King ..... Craig Greiner
Choir Singers—Helen Carroll, Janet Haywood, Vesta Murray, Barbara Wright, Marjorie Mahoney, Barbara Keeler, Barbara Anderson, Mary Metcalf.

Appropriate poems were recited by Barbara Wright and Janet Haywood.

The Christmas program given by Miss Meeker's sixth grade was very successful. Barbara Waugh announced that the first part would tell of the origin of various Christmas symbols.

In an interesting manner and appropriately costumed, Shirley Roth told of the meaning of the Christmas Spirit; Irma Provost told about the origin of using holly; Norma Paradis gave an interesting talk about the Christmas tree; Priscilla Stockwell carried a basket of Christmas gifts and recited a poem; Claudia Robinson sang with the other pupils a few of the Christmas carols; Constance Blaisdell told about the origin of the Christmas star; Barbara Callahan told about the origin of the Christmas candle and how it cheered weary travelers as they passed by, and Howard Swanson told us the origin of Santa Claus.

The second part of the program consisted of a play called, "The Happiest Christmas." Those who took part were:

Mrs. Jackson ..... Patsy Pierson
Polly ..... Bobby Griffiths
Betty ..... Alice Ralphs
Jane ..... Elizabeth Stone
Dad ..... Herman Provost

Scene three was a very impressive presentation of the manger scene, portraying the true meaning of Christmas. To appropriate music the shepherds slowly came down the aisle, ascended the stage and knelt in front of the manger.

In similar manner the Wise Men approached and made their offerings. This scene was carried out with so much reverence that silence reigned throughout the entire hall long after the scene was finished.

Manager Scene—True Meaning of Christmas
Shepherds—Norman Hunt, Fred Courtney, George Hickey
Kings—Robert Harris, Brooks Jakeman, Howard Swanson
Mary ..... Ruth Elliott
Joseph ..... Hartley Ralston
Angel ..... Vincent McPartland
Poem, Christmas Morn ..... Shirley Roth
Announcer ..... Barbara Waugh

The Mother's Club has charge of the final program of the month. This is their Christmas gift to the children of the school and all are looking forward to it.

The kindergarten is enjoying a huge Christmas tree so tall that it touches the ceiling. Everyday sees some new decoration added to it.

The teachers of the George Washington-Highland Schools were entertained at a delicious Christmas luncheon given at the charming home of Mrs. Leslie Sargent on Kenwin road.

COUNTRY CLUB WON FROM HOCKEY CLUB

Winchester Country Club won a 7—3 victory over the Winchester Hockey Club in a match played on the Country Club rink last Sunday morning. The Country Club players with more practice under the belts showed to better advantage than their opponents, but the game was not by any means too one sided to be interesting. Wadleigh, Carr and Kidder showed well for the winners, while Farrar and Collins looked good in the hockey club lineup. A large crowd of Country Club members and their guests were on hand for the game.

Following is the summary:

COUNTRY CLUB	HOCKEY CLUB
Brown, lw	c, Collins

"KID MILLIONS" AT THE UNIVERSITY

"Kid Millions" Eddie Cantor's fifth annual screen musical extravaganza, brings the pop-eyed comedian to the screen of the University Theatre for four days starting Sunday, as a boy Cinderella of the Brooklyn water front who becomes the heir to a fortune in buried treasure in the land of the Pyramids. Ann Sothern, Ethel Merman, Block and Sully, and this season's crop of Goldwyn girls prance along the Nile with Eddie in this fast-paced fun-packed tuneful tale of adventure in the harem of the Sheik and the tombs of his father.

"There's Always Tomorrow," adapted from the best-seller by Ursula Parrot, is the companion picture. Frank Morgan, Binnie Barnes and Lois Wilson head the cast.

"The Pursuit of Happiness," Broadway's sensational "bundling" comedy of the past season, starts Thursday. Francis Lederer and Joan Bennett are costarred and Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland head the supporting cast. It is a comedy of Revolutionary times and customs in love-making. Its hero is a shy but handsome Hessian, who falls in love with a pretty Puritan, and suffers some embarrassing experiences with the quaint custom of bundling before he finds romance, the end of his "pursuit of happiness."

"Three Hundred and Sixty-Five Nights in Hollywood," the companion feature, is a rip-roaring farce comedy of Hollywood life. Alice Faye and James Dunn are featured as a young visitor from Peoria with movie aspirations and a picture director who has had fame and fortune, but also a lot of bad luck.

WILL ASSIST IN PLAY

Three Winchester girls are taking part in the forthcoming dramatic production, "The Village Strategem" (L'Epreuve Villageoise) which is to be presented by the Grice Club of the Erskine School, Beacon street, Boston, where all three are students.

Miss Edith Roche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Roche of 2 Dartmouth street, is serving on the costumes committee.

Also serving on the costumes committee is Caroline Kellogg, daughter of Mrs. C. J. Kellogg of 16 Calumet road.

Miss Dawn Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Kelley of 47 Mystic Valley Parkway is the assistant stage manager of the "Village Strategem" which is to be held on Jan. 11 and 12. Miss Kelley is serving on the costumes crew and is singing in the chorus.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE

Another holiday week program will be presented beginning Saturday at the Bowdoin Square Theatre when two feature photoplays and a special holiday vaudeville bill will be included in the long entertainment. "Kid Millions" and "The White Parade" are the two feature pictures.

Eddie Cantor, the wide-eyed comedian, surrounded by some of the most beautiful girls ever gathered together in one picture is the star of "Kid Millions," and the entire rollicking cast pours barrels of humor into the many hilarious situations in which Eddie Cantor gets involved. As hilarious for that comedy is "The White Parade," a thrilling drama.

A show circus on the stage is also included in the holiday program. The special attraction was added to the usual stage fare for the youngsters and rounds out the program so that the whole entertainment is, on the whole family. Dogs, trick ponies, monkeys and other animals perform amazing feats under the direction of Big Bill Blomberg. Some 20 persons and 50 animals make up this huge show.

A new reel, comedy features and other added attractions will make up the long program. It will be particularly adapted for the youngsters' holiday from school.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Troop 8 had a Christmas party last Thursday, at which the last Scout of the year was invested. Twelve Scouts have been invested in this troop since fall. Members of the White Pine Patrol acted as hostesses, games were played, gifts exchanged and at the close of the afternoon, refreshments were served.

This Thursday the troop plans to attend the taffy-pull at Cedar Hill or if there is snow, they will have lunch at the cabin and coast.

Aviation Training Officers

Naval aviation officers are selected for aviation training upon a voluntary basis, after at least one year of duty at sea on a cruising ship. The enlisted pilots likewise volunteering are selected upon a basis of efficiency after a severe process of elimination.

Statue of Aphrodite

A statue of Aphrodite was recently dug up in Athens. The figure was carved in the Fourth century, B. C. Again excavations also reveal a bare ancient room with a well, and sonate dining room.

Bamboo Grass

Some bamboo grass is a foot in diameter at the base, and a hundred feet tall.

ST. PIERRE: FRENCH ISLE OF FISH AND FOG

Ten miles off the southern coast of Newfoundland, the lighthouses of St. Pierre and Miquelon Islands pierce the fog. Recently, St. Pierre, quaint French town on St. Pierre Island, glowed with flames. Governor Barrillot, returning from Miquelon Island, found the 118 year-old Government House in ruins.

St. Pierre has thrice been threatened with destruction by fire, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Fires of other years destroyed its cathedral, hospital, and courthouse. St. Pierre rebuilt them. St. Pierre will probably rebuild its Government House too, so its exposed little residents to maintain this tiny French colony in the face of obstacles.

Once Leading Fishing Port in World

Lighthouses, fog sirens, and whistle buoys guide ones approach to St. Pierre, which is muffled in fog over 100 days in the year. Outlying shoals, and rocks with such picturesque names as Groz-nez and Enfant Perdu make navigation to the island intricate in fair weather, dangerous in fog.

St. Pierre is the most important island in the Miquelon group, having in 1931 a population of 3,713 on its 10 square miles; while the other large islands, Great Miquelon and Little Miquelon, with a combined area of 83 square miles, had only 578 people.

St. Pierre has twice achieved prosperity: once, in 1884, as the leading fishing port in the world; more recently, as rum-runners' Paradise. At present, though unimportant economically, it is still valued by France as a training field for her seamen and therefore a strengthener of her navy.

Tenacity is the watchword of the Miquelon Islands. Though four times captured or ceded to the British, France has continued to hold against all comers these last remnants of her great North American empire. Twice England deported the islands' inhabitants to France, and each time, lured by the cod-fishing, most of the exiles returned.

Graves Blasted in Rocks

Abandoned barracks, numerous vacant houses, and fewer racks of drying fish attest the fact that the heyday of the islands is over. Discouraged by raw climate, infrequent sun, and land so rocky that graves are dug with dynamite, many residences have emigrated to the United States. Yet the remaining inhabitants cling loyally to this fog-damp scrap of France, determined to live on French soil, however, scanty. Undaunted, they supplement it with soil brought from Newfoundland, some even from France, on which they make brave attempts to raise grass, vegetables, and flowers. As the islands are treeless, they import lumber for houses and fences from Newfoundland. Food is expensive, because, with the exception of cod, the staple article of diet, it is practically all imported, much from the United States and Nova Scotia. Oranges, bananas, and eggs sometimes cost a franc each. Fresh butter from Cheticamp, Nova Scotia, (in French, of course) is a common sign. Cheticamp is only about 250 miles away.

The greatest setback Miquelon islanders received was when the Newfoundland Bait Act stopped their use of herring as bait. This struck a death blow at cod-fishing. But the islanders, not to be beaten, substituted capelin, squid, and periwinkle for herring and resumed their fishing, though on a much smaller scale.

A Miniature France

St. Pierre's destiny has long been entangled in cod lines. For at least 500 years Basque and Breton fishermen have used the island as a fishing station. It was named for the patron saint of fishermen as far back as 1536. In the 1880's, St. Pierre was at the height of its prosperity. It was then a lively town of 6000 inhabitants augmented each spring by 10,000 fishermen from St. Malo, Dieppe and other French ports. These arrived with barrels of wine and at the end of the fishing season, returned to France with barrels of codfish. The French fleet now operates from France, but a few French fishermen still put in at St. Pierre each season, some to winter there.

It is constant contact with these visitors that keeps the mother tongue pure, the habits and customs of France intact in this far off colony of hers. Although St. Pierre eats American foodstuffs and canned goods and even plays football, it is not Americanized. Asked how far they are from mainland, the St. Pierrais will tell you the distance not from the United States or British territory, but from France.

From the moment a visitor enters the harbor of St. Pierre and sees the life size Virgin in a niche in the cliff, the fishing boats all bearing the tricolor on their masthheads, he feels he is in France. Wooden sabots clatter along the quay. Whiskered sailors in Basque berets, in striped jerseys and crimson sashes, gather in smoke-filled cafes to drink French vermes, swap yarns, and play accordians. Even the cafes smack of France, bearing such names as Cafe du Printemps and Cafe Jonville.

Along the unpaved streets of the town come gendarmes in brilliant uniforms, long lines of geese, little girls in white veils, and two-wheeled carts drawn by dogs. Flowers, many of them brought from France, cluster on the window sills of the steep-roofed, white-plastered houses. St. Pierre's red letter day comes July 14 when the fall of the Bastille is celebrated with much flag-waving, military music and gunfire.

Site of Salt Lake City

The site of Salt Lake City first was seen by fur trappers, but the city was founded and grew through the efforts of the Mormons, under leadership of Brigham Young. Those assiduous workers founded the University of Utah and erected buildings which still grace what is now the state capital.

ASKS POLICE CO-OPERATION TO PREVENT COASTING FATALITIES

Dec. 19, 1934

To the Chief of Police:

Each year the coasting season takes its toll of lives among the children of this state. We are enclosing herewith statistics received from the Registry of Motor Vehicles for the period December 1933 to October 1934, setting forth the child coasting fatalities in the State during that time, showing a total of 18 children killed.

It is not fair to the child or to the motorist to permit coasting on streets that lead on to, or cross, heavily travelled roads. It is often impossible for a motorist to stop quickly on a slippery street and many of these coasting accidents could be avoided if the children were provided with a safe place to coast and prevented from coasting elsewhere.

The Police Department can do much to assist in reducing this hazard. A warning from a Police officer is much more effective than one from the parents.

Will you carefully consider the coasting problem in your community, and co-operate with us in trying to eliminate these accidents.

Very truly yours,
(Miss) Ruth E. LeDoux,
Field Supervisor
Massachusetts Automobile Rating and Accident Prevention Committee

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Important Gift to Scouts of Winchester

In another portion of the paper will be found the announcement of a gift of land by Mr. Franklin Lane, to the Boy Scouts of Winchester. On New Year's Day there will be held the first official hike to the new site. As many Scouts as possible are urged to come and if possible bring their parents with them. It is also hoped that the majority of Scout Leaders will be present and that troops may come in a body. The main expedition will leave the First Congregational Church yard at 11:45 a. m. Will any who can drive up, come to this place at this time to aid in furnishing transportation for any who may not otherwise have it?

Since it is just seven miles to the camp site, some boys wishing to pass their 14 mile hike may want to take this opportunity to do so. Any people from Winchester will be welcome at the camp at any time. There will be fires and fireplaces available, and it is suggested that as many as possible come prepared to cook their dinner out. Bring axes or hatchets with you if possible, as work may be started on some of the camp projects.

Directions for reaching the camp follow:

From Woburn go directly out Main street for a distance of about three miles. Just beyond the Walker Farm there is a fork in the main road. Keep to the right and take Locust street, the first street on the right beyond the fork. Locust street is followed for a distance of about two miles. Just after the road crosses a stream, there are two farm houses, and just beyond the second of these a wood road goes in to the left, which leads directly to the camp site.

Let us see what troop can have the largest number of Scouts and fathers present. If you can not come for the day, come any time that it may be possible.

Court of Honor

There will be a public court of honor at the high school on Friday, Jan. 4 at 7:45 p. m. It is hoped that there will be a very large turn out of Scouts and their parents. One of the events which will be largely counted in the scoring of Points will be the percentage of Scouts present from each troop.

The court of honor and presentation of awards is also going to take a different form at this meeting than it has previously.

Names of Continents

The two Americas are usually regarded as two separate land masses or continents. Similarly, physical geographical regards Europe and Asia as one great land mass. Eurasia, though politically they are separate continents. The great land mass around the South pole is generally considered a separate continent, Antarctica.

Is it smart, light, beautiful, easy to work in and equipped with MODERN GAS APPLIANCES? ★

★ Or is it dark, dreary, shabby, unhandy, and difficult in which to work for lack of modern equipment?

LOOK at it critically . . . more as if it was the kitchen in a house you intended to buy instead of your own familiar kitchen! You're accustomed to it, of course. You know its every nook and corner, and like all well known things, you probably aren't conscious of its bad points. But when you examine it closely, critically, aren't you emphatically impressed with the fact that it would be marvelous to have an entirely new kitchen, completely, modernly equipped?

NOW that a CASH LOAN Is Available to YOU Under the National Housing Act

. . . it is possible to realize your dreams . . . to have your kitchen completely modernized and equipped with every up-to-the-minute GAS appliance you need to make your work a pleasure, to save you time, temper, and money. A new automatic GAS range, a GAS refrigerator, automatic GAS water heating, a GAS incinerator, not to mention all the renovating of walls, lighting, floor, cabinets, plumbing and such things to give your new appliances the modern surroundings which they, and you, should have.

NO DOWN PAYMENT 3 YEARS TO REPAY

. . . not only can you borrow the money necessary to do your modernizing and renovating, but you may have enough to buy and pay for the GAS appliances too . . . thus you make NO DOWN PAYMENT and have 3 YEARS in which to repay your loan.

The opening gun on movies in Winchester seems to have been fired and the ammunition brought up for the barrage. Perhaps it might save wear and tear if the Town would simply move the Stoneham or Woburn Theatre here at once and end the attack.

That Richberg Johnson publicity is amusing. Mr. Richberg believes General Johnson is going to publish something about him in the Saturday Evening Post, that un-American magazine which is so rapidly growing in disfavor. He doesn't just seem to know what it is, but if it is published he will sue the Post. Genuine New Deal, hew-to-the-line statements!

We wonder whether it is a coincidence or just the result of America's cordial recognition of Russia, that has prompted authorities in the Soviet to send us a copy of their "widely circulated" newspaper, illustrative of the leading views on all questions of politics, economics and cultural construction, and invite our subscription. We take it, that if the Winchester Star is included in this list, the United States as a whole is pretty well covered by the request. Well we can't read Russian, and even the Star can give the publication a run on presswork, so we are not seriously interested in the publication. There may, however, be others who are, and possibly Russian may soon become an important subject in our high school courses.

One of our readers noting our apparent confusion relative to the devaluation of the dollar is endeavoring to help us straighten the matter out in our mind. He sends us the following concrete example. We haven't the space to give the details, but in brief it is as follows. A couple of college professors lived just a mile apart. They were accustomed to visit back and forth and it took each one of them just half an hour to walk the distance on pleasant days and evenings. On stormy days they generally took a taxi. One evening they were engaged in the discussion of grave and intricate problems and the matter of shortening the distance between the two houses came up. One of them suggested that if they should lengthen the mile from 5280 feet to 10,560 they would then live only half a mile apart. This sounded good to the other professor but he argued that it would still take them half an hour to walk the distance between the two houses. "All right," said the other, "why not make the hour 120 minutes instead of 60 and then it would take us only a quarter of an hour." This sounded good so they decided to try it. Then one of them suggested that if they made the pound 32 ounces instead of 16, the books and other things which they carried back and forth would weigh only half as much. Then the matter of taxi fare came up and they hit upon the plan of reducing the dollar from 100 cents to 50 cents and then it would cost them only half as much for taxi fare. Both of them are now in the insane asylum where they are doubtless working out similar and perhaps more intricate problems. Of course that makes the matter a little clearer in our mind but there are still one or two points which are still a bit confusing. You don't suppose, by any chance, that this fellow was taking us for a ride, do you?—[Bridgton (Me.) News.

SO WHAT?

For every one of the 15,300,000 persons who voted the Democratic ticket at the November election, there are nearly two on the federal government payroll, according to figures published this week.

The statistics show a total of 25,500,000 persons, one in every five in the country, are now depending on Uncle Sam for all, or most, of their support. The listing includes such items as relief, government employees, in jobs and on construction projects, and CCC enrolment.

In the November election the Democrats polled only 15,300,000 votes out of a total of 28,400,000. The Republicans polled 13,100,000.

THE DISCUSSION STARTS

Dec. 26, 1934

To the Editor of the Star:

From the viewpoint of a not too long resident of Winchester, we read your editorial on the movie situation, and we should like to have you carry the reasons against this proposition a little further. From the reading, we cannot help but feel your mind is very firm in one direction, and nothing under the sun would make you change.

From being a neighboring resident of Winchester for a good many years, we know the town has repeatedly voted down the project, and no doubt for good reasons, but if the plan is to be publicly aired once again, with the prospect of coming to a vote, we should like to know the objections.

We cannot help but agree with you that a request to publish plans, pictures, etc., of Winchester's coming movie house is a little previous, and would be in better taste to await some favorable action to show it to be a certainty.

Considering ourselves as being very conservative movie followers, with no selfish interests, we cannot help but wonder in an era of constant changes, just why Winchester apparently looks so coldly on this project and why some plan has not been advanced to allow of this form of inexpensive entertainment.

We have heard such remarks as it would bring an undesirable element from neighboring towns, but this we cannot believe, as they all have their own local theatres, and it would be added expense to travel outside their own town limits, to see something in the same class, as they are offered themselves.

At present we think many citizens who in the past have voted against this project, make numerous excursions for their own pleasure to neighboring play houses, and we wonder if these same people take in consideration that plenty of their own townspeople are unable to do this same thing, because of the extra expense it involves.

It is to be regretted that a project of this size could not be carried through by citizens of the town, as they should have the greatest amount of interest in seeing it was carried through for the best interests of the townspeople, but if this cannot be, surely, methods can be carried through to supervise, and carry the pictures along on a high standard.

We think Winchester to be one of the finest towns north of Boston, with very good management, and we would be the last to want to encourage anything which would turn out to be a menace.

Trusting you will feel free to write your mind, we shall be glad to hear from you, through the town's medium, the Star.

Yours truly,
R. P. Teele

FOR 1935

Into the year I would inject
Ideals, whose calibre reflect
A life, well worth the living;
And then in my own humble way
Strive faithfully both night and day
To give the best I'm giving.

To aid me in this one pursuit,
I would discard the bitter fruit
Of hatred every brand;
And garnish every deed and thought
With love, until I really ought
To have the thing in hand.

All selfish appetite and lust
I'd cremate thoroughly to dust,
And give right, right of way;
Forsake the things akin to flesh,
Breathe every day anew and fresh
Ideals for which I pray.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

One member was absent from the meeting of Dec. 27 and it is reasonably certain that he will make it a perfect day on the records. Which is a splendid way to close the old year and make ready for the new.

And we had the Woburn Club as guests at this meeting just to make the affair complete. We can invariably count on a highly successful occasion when Woburn visits Winchester or vice versa, but this time we wish to express especial appreciation for the privilege of entertaining our good neighbors. For an awkward situation had arisen because of the fact that each club had planned to entertain the other at approximately the same time and each had made tentative arrangements to that end. We realize that much credit belongs to Woburn, since their action in coming to the Winchester meeting was a graceful gesture which effectively forestalled any possible misunderstanding.

Delayed in transit but none the less welcome was a Christmas message from the Rotary Club of Winchester and District, England. The International Service Committee of that Club has thus made an effective contribution for promoting good will between distant peoples. We are confident that the ties of friendship will become stronger and stronger as time goes on.

Because of illness in his family, President Winn Brown of the Rotary Club of Woburn was unable to be present on Thursday. In his place, vice-president Elihu Lyman brought greetings as representative of our guests and in addition a special message of his own. We learn that it fell to Elihu's lot to become the victim of an experience which is decidedly too common in the development of modern civilization. It is not exactly pleasant for an unarmed man to argue about a pay roll with a technically perfect gunman. So Elihu did not argue. We should be most happy if the profound sympathy which we have for him could be of material assistance in making good his loss. Lacking this much-to-be-desired condition we will state emphatically our satisfaction after listening to Elihu's demonstration of the manner in which a brave man meets a dangerous situation.

Percy Bugbee, assistant managing director of the National Fire Protection Association was guest speaker at the current meeting. It is always pertinent to receive intelligent advice as to the best methods of combating the enormous loss which uncontrolled conflagrations inflict, particularly when the most of this loss is needless. Few are so well equipped to give such advice, as is Mr. Bugbee. We gratefully acknowledge his courtesy in performing this service for his fellow-Winchesterites.

Next Thursday, Jan. 3, we participate in a joint meeting at Woburn. May the writer suggest that, in view of the conspicuous efforts of the Woburn Club to extend every courtesy to us, common decency requires the fullest possible attendance of our members at Woburn on Jan. 3.

Percentage of attendance, Dec. 20—96.55 per cent.

HIGH WIND WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The high wind which arose during the late afternoon Wednesday assumed gale proportions during the night, but while apparently as heavy as any the town has experienced for several years, did on the whole little damage of a serious nature throughout town.

The most serious damage reported was at the home of Mrs. Cora M. Morgan at 420 Main street where a large section of tin roof, estimated to be about 25 feet square was torn from the house and hurled to earth not far from the Junior High School building. Considerable damage was done to a skylight and chimney of the house at the same time. Patrolman James E. Farrell discovered the section of roofing and notified Headquarters where Sergt. Edward W. O'Connell and Patrolman John Hanlon were dispatched to the scene to make necessary provisions to prevent accident and possible injury to the public.

Early Thursday morning the men of the Tree Department had to turn out and remove a large tree limb which had blown down across Church street not far from the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church. A mail box was blown down at the corner of Main and Salem streets, but was picked up and set in place by Patrolman John Boyle.

A large tree limb was blown down on Grove street in front of the home of Mr. Edward C. Mason and part of the chimney was damaged at the Symmes Grain Mill on Upper Main street.

The Fire Department was called at 9:02 Wednesday evening to put out a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. Charles F. Bacon at 31 Grove street. The high wind made the firemen's perch on the roof of the dwelling a precarious one and one heavy gust blew the helmet from the head of Fireman Walter Skerry to a point more than 200 feet from the dwelling.

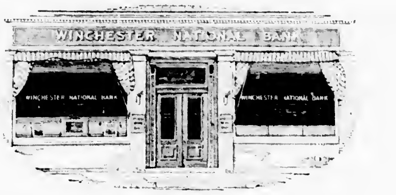

While the firemen were at the Bacon home a large pane of glass, apparently blown from the sash of a window or door was whirled by them and shivvered to bits while in the air. The men were unable to discover where the glass came from and the shattered particles also disappeared in the high wind. Shingles were said to be very prevalent in the North End, especially in the vicinity of Hemingway street where a large quantity removed from a dwelling being re-shingled and stacked in a neighboring yard were scattered about by the force of the gale.

MOTHERS' CLUB NOTES

Highland Chapter, George Washington School

At the Friday morning assembly in the George Washington School, a group of mothers introduced a unique innovation, entertaining the children themselves, with a Christmas pageant under the direction of Mrs. Elwell. (If the reporter's opinion is of any value, they did it royally, too!) The stage settings in charge of Mrs. Caldwell were beautiful, and most effectively arranged. Mrs. Sargent at the piano and Mrs. Drake with the violin, gave a real treat to music lovers. The voices of Marion Wright, Gertrude Murphy, Mary Sexton and Frances Shaw, blended with those of Messrs. Bennett, Felt and Jackson, made a beautiful choir, melodious and restful. Many a mother was seen furtively wiping away a tear, as the ever-appealing strains of the old Christmas carols were brought to them by this talented group of musicians.

Mrs. Elwell, as the Spirit of Christmas, introduced her audience to the different countries and their Christmas customs. First came Mrs. Browning as the shepherd, carrying a little lamb in her arms.

Italy's contribution to the pageant was depicted by "The Nativity," very well done by Mrs. McPartland, Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. Hiltman and Mrs. Dickerman. Mrs. Christine Thompson as the Madonna was simply adorable, and her pose so good that one little boy remarked, "She didn't look alive, mamma!"

France was represented by an impressive church scene at midnight mass, with Mrs. Goodwin, Mrs. Dingwell, Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Brissetti carrying lighted candles and singing "Bring a Torch." The church window in this scene is especially worthy of mention, having been drawn and painted by pupils of the 6th grade.

A beautifully lighted tree represented Germany, while the choir sang the well-known "Tannenbaum."

England's share was the rendition of two familiar carols, "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen" and "Good King Wenceslas," sung by the male members of the choir. Carol singing originated in England and is one of the lovely traditions that make Christmas so outstanding.

Very effective was the Scandinavian scene, a table set for the evening meal on Christmas eve, with lighted candles, coffee service, and all the rest. A group of women in native dress repeated the Swedish blessing. Mrs. Josephson, Mrs. Zimmerman, Mrs. Cusack, Mrs. Browning and Mrs. Chefalo made this one of the loveliest of pictures.

Of course the climax of the pageant came with America's contribution. Santa Claus himself, in a fur-decked sleigh, bells, whip and gifts, and only the reindeer themselves left to the imagination. Enthusiasm was at its height as he appeared and there was no doubt in anyone's mind as to who stole the show. As one mother remarked, "No question who is the patron saint of America." And young America sure appreciated his efforts. Boxes of candy were distributed at the close of the program.

Much credit is due Mrs. Dorothy Wells for her part in the pageant. It was a very finished performance and could easily bear repeating before a larger and more critical audience. Mrs. Elwell and her committee are to be congratulated for the success of the whole affair.

Club Luncheons

Two luncheons have been served recently by the Mothers' Club to the teachers of the Washington School. The hostesses for November were Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. Dingwell and Mrs. Christine Thompson. Eleven teachers were entertained at the home of Mrs. Tucker on Brookside avenue and all report a very enjoyable party.

Mrs. Sargent and Mrs. Kerrigan (kindergarten mothers of Kenwin road) entertained the teachers in December. Decorations and menu were in accordance with the Christmas season, which made it all very festive and gay. These homey affairs are delightful, both for mothers and for teachers, and serve to bring about a better acquaintance between teachers and parents.

The January luncheon will be in charge of Mrs. Paradis of Kenwin road and she will be assisted by Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Davidson.

HARRODSBURG: CRADLE OF AMERICA'S NEAR WEST

Harrodsburg, in the blue grass region of Kentucky, less than an hour's automobile ride southwest of Lexington, was honored President Roosevelt on Nov. 16 when he dedicated a replica of the original log settlement of Fort Harrod, and a monument commemorating the parts that General George Rogers Clark and other pioneers played in the winning of the West.

Harrodsburg was the cradle of the near West, the wilderness region lying just beyond the Allegheny Mountains, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Two years before the beginning of the American Revolution, James Harrod, intrepid Pennsylvanian, residing near what now is Millsboro, announced that he was going west. When he left,31 restless pioneers packed their knapsacks and headed with him for places then known to few American colonists.

In June of the same year they stopped on the banks of the Salt River, built log cabins and defenses to protect them from Indians, cleared land for tilling, and roughly surveyed their neighborhood. They named their settlement Harrodstown. It was the first permanent settlement made in "The Wilderness" by American colonists from east of the mountains, and their journey was the forerunner of America's great westward trek of later years.

Hardly had Harrod and his associates become familiar with their new home site when out of the East came two messengers—Daniel Boone was one of them—bearing summons from Lord Dunmore, Governor of Colonial Virginia, to join his forces in the Dunmore War against angry Indian tribes. Sixty-two days were consumed by these messengers in reaching the new settlement. Harrodstown or Fort Harrod then was in Lord Dunmore's domain. Every man answered the Dunmore summons and the settlement was deserted.

The little band put aside their muskets for axes, hammers, saws, and plows when they returned to their settlement in 1775. A building boom was staged. New cabins rose almost overnight; defenses were strengthened; and additional acres were put under cultivation. In a few months the settlement was known throughout the colonies as the safest place in the Wilderness against attack by savages. Men going west sought its shelter. When General George Rogers Clark campaigned against the British and their Indian allies, he used Harrodstown as his base of operations. Indians, stirred by British agents, attacked the settlement's stockade, but found it impregnable.

Until 1777, Harrodstown was a man's settlement. Then four mothers and their families, all in one party, braved the Wilderness Road through the Cumberland Gap of the Alleghenies. Mrs. Daniel Boone, one of the women, went to Boonesboro, a settlement established by her husband on the Kentucky River. The other three went to Harrodstown.

Though modern Harrodstown, now known as Harrodsburg, has only 1029 inhabitants, it may take pride in its illustrious history. It is a town of "firsts" among its Kentucky neighbors. The first school and Sunday School in what now is Kentucky were established there. The first white child born in Kentucky was born there. It was the seat of the first court in the Wilderness trying land cases. Horse racing, a favorite Kentucky pastime now, was first staged on a crude Harrodsburg track. The first woolen factory, grist mill, and factory for making pottery jars and jugs in the Wilderness were established in the town.

The replica of the old settlement, set in the Kentucky Pioneers Memorial State Park, is complete in every detail. Original furniture adorns some of the oak and walnut log cabins inside the stockade; an old spring has been reopened; trees have been planted to give the settlement the same aspect it had during the trying days of the Revolution when it played an important part in keeping British soldiers from entering the back door of Virginia.

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Dec. 30.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God" (Isaiah 52:10).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Jesus cried and said, He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on him that sent me. . . . I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness. . . . For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak" (John 12: 44, 46, 49).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Some individuals assimilate truth more readily than others, but any student, who adheres to the divine rules of Christian Science and imbibes the spirit of Christ, can demonstrate Christian Science, cast out error, heal the sick, and add continually to his store of spiritual understanding, potency, enlightenment, and success. . . . There is nothing difficult nor toilsome in this task, when the way is pointed out; but self-denial, sincerity, Christianity, and persistence alone win the prize, as they usually do in every department of life" (p. 462).

THINK FIRST of Your Own Community

This is your community. You live here. Probably you own a home or have business interests here. In some manner, what you have or what you earn comes from this community.

Therefore, you have a personal interest in the prosperity of your community. Also, you have a plain duty as a citizen to do what you can to promote local welfare.

You help when you buy from your neighborhood merchants. You help when you deposit money in the local bank, because the bank is the chief agency by which home money is kept circulating for home good.

One of the best ways to work for your own interests is to boost community interests.

THE BIG WIND

The big wind hit Winchester Wednesday night. Page "Cabe" Sanborn down on the Cape! "Cabe" delights to tell, on rare occasions, of the big wind at Seaconsett, when he had to make his way over the island by crawling on his hands and knees, and when he attempted to launch a canoe in the boiling waters it stood out straight in the air with him holding to one end. Cabe, we suppose, learned his lesson on that occasion, and doubtless was safe and snug inside his comfortable home last Wednesday night. The icy blasts, however, must have reminded him of his earlier experiences, if they shook his house as it did those here in Winchester.

MARRIED CHRISTMAS DAY

Miss Catherine Allen of Princeton, N. J., and Austin Judson Gould of Rochester, N. Y., were married on Christmas Day in the Church of the Epiphany by the rector, Rev. Dwight W. Hadley.

Justice Jesse W. Morton of the District Court at Woburn waived the five day law to permit the marriage. Mr. Gould is a native of Stillwater, Okla., and a research chemist. His bride is a social worker and was born in LaFayette, Ala.

LEAD: METAL OF MULTIPLE USES

Lead went as ballast to the stratosphere last summer, played an important role in the international yacht races, and took part in sea diving off the coast of Bermuda. All of which was pretty much in the day's work for this versatile of metals, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Lead was one of the first metals utilized by mankind, continues the bulletin. Primitive man early discovered that this opaque, blue-gray metal was easy to melt and beat into shape.

Plumber Means Roofer in England

The Old Testament records the Hebrews' use of lead. The Assyrians used it to secure bolts in building stones. The Egyptians utilized it as sinkers for their nets, figures for their temples, and for making glaze for their pottery. Roman water pipes found in Herculaneum and Pompeii, made of folded sheets of lead with the edges melted together, are in perfect condition today.

Lead long was known in America. Spanish gold-seekers found Indians mining lead ore in what is now Galena, Ill.

Because of its durability and resistance to weather conditions, lead early was utilized in covering European domes, spires and roofs, and in making gutters. Sir Christopher Wren considered it the ideal covering for spires. Lead roofs on houses and cathedrals were so common in England that modern English roofers are still called plumbers (from plumbum, Latin for lead). In time of war, some lead roofs were ripped off and moulded into bullets. St. David's Cathedral in Pembrokeshire, Southwest Wales, is one of the many British cathedrals that was thus temporarily despoiled.

Three Interesting Processes Furnish Lead Commodities

Although used extensively in printing and plumbing, in refining petroleum, and in manufacturing insecticides and certain colors, lead's most important use is in paint. Because of its strong adhesion to metal, red lead (red oxide of lead) is the standard protective paint for iron and steel. Where a lighter and more decorative paint is needed, white lead is admirable, since, exposed to weather, it lasts longer than any other pigment, with the possible exception of lampblack.

The United States produces and consumes more lead than any other country in the world. After the metal has been located in beds of shale, chiefly in Missouri, and smelted, it is manufactured into commodities by one of three processes. Slabs of lead, rolled between heavy rollers to sheets of desired thinness, are wrapped like rugs around a pole and shipped for use as linings for tanks holding corrosive acids, as coverings for roofs, as plates interposed for protection between the radium worker and his dangerous mineral, and as linings for X-ray laboratories.

Molten lead forced through pipes ranging in diameter from one-sixteenth of an inch to 12 inches, emerges as pipes varying in thickness and size from the thin tubes used to contain artists' colors, to casings for electric cables, and plumbers' pipes. Fed by two lead streams of unequal strength, lead [illegible] and twists as if by magic through the air to form the S[illegible] of water basins. Melted lead falling through a[illegible] forms "lead wool" used for caulking pipe joints.

A third method of utilizing lead is by die-casting, or pouring it into a mold to cool. Small articles, such as linotype slugs, toys, vacuum cleaner parts, and parts of automobiles and office machines on which there is little strain, are made by this method.

Daily Life Puts Lead to Multiple Uses

Next to iron and steel, lead is used in more different ways than any other known metal. The average American citizen hardly realizes what an important role lead plays in his life. The gasoline tank and radiator of his automobile are soldered with a lead alloy. Its storage batteries contain lead, and its steel springs are coated with the metal. Should he dent a fender, a mechanic may beat it into shape with a lead hammer, which unlike an iron one will not mark it. If he goes to his office by subway instead of automobile, he will still be benefitted by lead, for the metal anchors subway rails and turnstiles to the concrete platform and appears as solder in the cars.

If he goes fishing, his lines have lead sinkers. He might go in a sailboat with a lead keel and take soundings by dropping overboard a man's lead.

If he goes hunting, he will probably use shot made of lead. Should his horses hoofs crack, he would apply white lead to them.

The gardener finds lead even more useful. He ties up his vines with flexible lead wire. It does not rust like steel wire. He protects his orchard from moths by spraying it with lead arsenate, an insecticide only second in popularity to Paris Green. In his gardening, should he contract ivy poisoning, lead acetate will allay the inflammation.

The modern woman is greatly indebted to lead. Decks of it make her coat hang straight, and seal her luggage in transit. Lead puts an extra sparkle in her cut glass vases and synthetic diamonds. Her cloisonne enamel ware contains lead and her hammered bracelets were beaten on a soft lead anvil. She probably prizes an antique pewter tea set made of lead alloy. Her children eat candy from tin-coated lead foil. They paste paper dolls with library paste from collapsible tubes of lead alloy, and play with fire engines, soldiers, and animals die-cast from lead.

ALUMNI EDGED HIGH SCHOOL IN OPENING BASKETBALL GAME

The high school Alumni team edged the varsity in an exciting basketball game in the high school gymnasium last Friday evening, 28—25, to open the current season. The undergraduates put up a good game against their more experienced opponents and it was necessary to play an overtime period to decide the issue.

The high school might have won for they had a six point lead with only two minutes to go at the end of the game. Inexperience and over-anxiety may be charged with the loss of the game, though the graduates were quick to take advantage of openings offered them in those closing two minutes and deserve credit for their ability to make their baskets when they especially counted.

The undergraduates led at the half 12—7 and had an 18—13 lead at the end of the third period. With a couple of minutes to go, the score stood 23—17 with the high school in front, but at this point, the schoolboys cracked wide open and the Alumni tied the score.

A long cross court pass from outside was intercepted by "Joe" McKee, left uncovered in the high school back court, and it didn't take "Joe" long to give the ball a ride through the hoop. On a jump ball, "Lefty" Stuart [illegible] the strings to make the [illegible] 2[illegible] 21.

With [illegible] the ball was in play [illegible] and the [illegible] take of attempting [illegible] in front of their net. McKee was again "Johnny-on-the-[illegible]" [illegible] and sink the tying basket.

During the overtime, "Red" Noble counted once and McKee twice to give the graduates five points while the schoolboys were able to tally only two.

Between the halves of the first team game, the Alumni seconds defeated the high school seconds, 30—18. The schoolboys made a good showing on the whole against two clubs likely to be fully as strong as any they will meet this season.

FIREMEN AGAIN REPAIRED TOYS FOR CHRISTMAS

In accordance with their usual custom the permanent men at the Central Fire Station have been busy in their spare time repairing and renewing toys, sent in to them, for distribution to needy children throughout town.

Under the direction of Deputy Chief J. J. Gorman and Fireman Ray Hanscom, the toy makers have tinkered and painted to good purpose with the result that several loads of attractive toys and games have been taken out of the station to gladden the hearts of kiddies who otherwise might look in vain for something to play with on Christmas Day. The firemen wish to thank all those who sent in toys and hope there will be even more for them to work on next year.

COLLEGE CLUB STUDY GROUPS

The morning study group will start its program on Thursday, Jan. 10 and will meet once in two weeks for eight sessions from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. The group is again privileged to enjoy the use of the auditorium of the Winchester Public Library and has the helpful co-operation of Miss Cora Quimby, who is reserving a shelf in the library for books relating to the subject of study.

Interest this year is focussed on the economic, social and cultural life of women in foreign lands. The eight countries to be studied will probably be Belgium, Finland, Bulgaria, Turkey, Spain, Germany, the Philippines and Italy. It is planned to have as speaker at each meeting, a woman who is a native of the country under discussion and has come from there recently, one who will be thoroughly competent to speak interestingly and intelligently about women of her own land. There will be time for general discussion after each lecture.

A prepared bibliography will be sent to those who register for the course. Anyone interested in the subject, whether a member of the College Club or not, is invited to join the course.

Information about fees and further details may be obtained from Mrs. Frank M. Gunby, 12 Manchester road, tel. Win. 1223.

The evening group for husbands and wives will review recent books—fiction, history, biography, economic and social problems chosen by the individual members. It is expected that many of the subjects will inspire discussion similar to that which has characterized the evening group in previous years. The group is open also to couples outside the College Club membership. Because of the number already enrolled, this group will be divided into sections, meeting separately.

If there is sufficient interest, an evening group will also be organized to study the Scandinavian countries—their progress in the solution of modern social, economic and political problems.

For further information, address Mrs. Wm. E. Spaulding, 379 Main street, telephone Win. 0025-W.

The first meetings will be held the third week in January.

Those intending to enroll in any group are asked to do so as soon as possible.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

The Sunday dinner between Christmas and New Year's will probably be a modest one in most homes. Lamb, veal and pork are somewhat cheaper than they have been and any one of them offers good value. Beef remains rather high. Green vegetables are much higher so that potatoes, other root vegetables and salad greens are good choices.

Oranges, Navel oranges, grapefruit, apples and bananas are plentiful and relatively cheap. Use them for desserts, salads and fruit cocktails as well as breakfast fruits.

Oysters, salt and smoked fish make moderately priced fish dinners.

Here are three menus, including a New Year's dinner, made up from seasonable foods:

Low Cost Dinner
Roast Shoulder of Lamb
Boiled Rice Canned Peas
Bread and Butter
Apple Betty
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Pork Baked Sweet Potatoes
Panned Kale
Bread and Butter
Jellied Apple Sauce
Tea or Coffee Milk

New Year's Dinner
Fruit Cup or Clear Soup
Celery Carrot Sticks
Roast Fresh Ham Glazed Apples
Mashed Potatoes Yellow Turnips
Spinach Vinaigrette
Rolls and Butter
Frozen Fruit Pudding Wafers
Coffee

NEW CAMP SITE PRESENTED TO WINCHESTER BOY SCOUTS BY MR. LANE

The Winchester District Committee, Boy Scouts of America, is very much delighted to announce an unusual and very great gift to the boys of Winchester. Some years ago the late Mr. Charles A. Lane purchased a tract of land in the Town of Burlington, which was originally used for wood cutting. Mr. Lane was always very fond of this piece of property, and when it had fulfilled its purposes for such business, he retained it as a hobby.

Since Mr. Lane's death the property has been in the hands of his son, the present Selectman, Franklin Lane. Because of Mr. Lane's great interest in boys, camping, and Scouting, his son has decided that it would be very fitting to present this property to the Winchester Boy Scouts as an overnight camp site, craft, and nature center.

The land is located in Burlington, just north of the Woburn line, seven miles from Winchester Centre. It is two miles in from the main road, relatively isolated. The approach to the property is over a very attractive, small stream, from which the land rises to a considerable height, with a sunny southern exposure. The property consists of some 16 acres of woodland, and has many possibilities for development in the way of forestry, bridge building, and the like. The brook itself has been stocked with trout, and there is very likely the possibility that a swimming hole may be constructed.

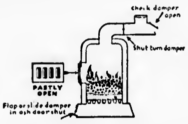

On New Year's Day there will be "open camp" for all present and former Winchester Scouts and their parents and Scout leaders who may be interested in seeing this site. Details regarding this may be found in the Scout news column.

The Winchester District Committee is extremely grateful to Mr. Franklin Lane for this most generous and thoughtful gift. It is hoped that the new camp may serve as a woodcraft and nature center for all Winchester people who may be interested in these activities, and that on many subsequent Saturday afternoons and holidays, there may be considerable groups leaving for Burlington with axes in hand, to participate in the enjoyment of establishing this new camp.

HEATING HINTS .. by John Barclay

ALTHOUGH banking the fire is a very simple operation, many people have trouble with it. Let me explain the method that I have found the most satisfactory.

First (and only if it is necessary to make room for fresh coal), gently shake the fire until you see the first red glow in the ashpit. Then with a shovel or hoe pull the live coals toward the front of the furnace, so that the fire bed slopes downward towards the back. Shovel the fresh coal carefully into the hollow thus formed. And, as in refueling, be sure to leave an exposed spot of live coals right in front of the fire door. This "hot spot" will act as a pilot light to ignite the gases given off by the fresh coal, preventing them from escaping into the house.

When banking the fire for the night, the Ashpit Damper should be closed and the Check Damper open. The Turn Damper should be left as nearly closed as possible. And remember, it should never be necessary to leave the fire door open when the fire is banked. If you follow this procedure, your fire will stay in for the night and will deliver ample heat when you open the drafts in the morning. (4)

MYSTIC THEATRE, MALDEN, ATTRACTIONS

"Chu Chin Chow," the intriguing Gaumont-British production, with its galaxy of beautiful girls, enthralling musical harmonies, fantastic dances of the mysterious East, and bizarre narrative of cruel bandits, love, romance, and golden treasure beyond the dreams of avarice, comes to the Mystic Theatre, Malden, on Saturday. In its original form on the stage this production established the world-breaking record of a five-year run at a London theatre, and played for three years on Broadway. It is not difficult to understand why, when one sees, "Chu Chin Chow" with its rich succession of episodes, its pomp and pageantry, its artfully beguiling atmosphere of romance, its color and design, and its enchanting musical harmonies and dancing. All these glories of enthralling entertainment are not merely equalled, but excelled by the screen production, thanks to the wider latitude of the camera as against the stage, for massed splendor of detail. The story is the age-old tale from the "Thousand and One Nights," of Arabian origin, "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," with certain variations with the beautiful slave girl, "Zahrat," played by Anna May Wong, the central figure, and rollicking, merry, wine-bibbing "Ali" contributing the comedy relief that interpolates peals of laughter in an atmosphere of thrills and inspiring love idyls.

"Fog Over Frisco," a mystery thriller, opens Saturday at the Mystic Malden, as the second attraction with Bette Davis, [illegible] Donald Woods, Margaret Lindsay, and [illegible] The story [illegible] of the [illegible] of international bond swindlers with headquarters in San Francisco, whose thefts are on a gigantic scale. The picture is one of fast action, full of suspense and with thrill following upon thrill. In addition to its melodramatic features there is a lively romance to give the production a touch of love interest. Bette Davis heads the large cast in the role of one of the leaders in the swindling game. Other well known players than those mentioned above include Arthur Byron, Robert Barrat, Irving Pichel, Alan Hale and Gordon Wescott.

Heligoland

Millions in House Boats

Because of over population in China, the land as far as possible must be used to grow the necessaries of life and thus millions of people are forced to live in house boats on the various rivers.

WHY 'blue coal' IS ALWAYS COLORED BLUE

REASON No. 15

Every ton of 'blue coal' is actually tinted a harmless blue. That's because the producers of 'blue coal' are proud of this higher quality Pennsylvania hard coal. They know it is better and they trade mark it so you can recognize it at a glance. You'll notice the difference with 'blue coal'—longer, steadier heat with little attention.

We, too, are proud to sell you 'blue coal'. Try a ton and see why! Phone us for prompt, clean delivery.

"I'm through with this job—WE'RE GOING TO HAVE A GENERAL ELECTRIC DISHWASHER"

A G-E Dishwasher washes all the dishes hygienically clean in 5 minutes and costs less than 1c a day to operate.

Instead of spending an hour or so in the kitchen after dinner, each evening is free to enjoy together in whatever way you choose. And there are "no more dishes in the sink!"

All the dishes—chinaware, glassware, silverware, pots and pans, too—are quickly placed in the soft rubber trays of the G-E Dishwasher—just as easily as stacking them on the kitchen table. A magic control is turned and in 5 minutes the dishwashing job is done! There is no breaking, no chipping of the most delicate pieces. The G-E even cleans and dries itself and human hands never touch dishwater.

Modernize your kitchen with a G-E Dishwasher and eliminate the daily dip, dip, dip of dainty hands into greasy dishwater—change monotonous routine into golden hours of leisure—abolish the unsanitary dishcloth. Under the new National Housing Act modernization funds are now available. Let us give you full information without obligation to you.

See this newest electric home servant demonstrated at our showrooms. Both portable and cabinet-sink models—a size for every kitchen.

"Kith and Kin"

"Kith and kin" are to be found among the old Anglo-Saxon words. Kith means known or acquainted with, while kin refers to tribe, family, clan, relatives, etc. Thus we derive the above expression which literally means "friends and relations."

Discovered Canada

John and Sebastian Cabot, brothers, discovered Canada in June, 1479. It was colonized in 1524 by a French expedition and in 1535 Jacques Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence to the present site of Montreal.

STRANGE TRANSPORTS CARRY WORLD'S PASSENGERS AND FREIGHT

Record-breaking streamline trains and giant airliners have recently been news sensations in America; Italy is still applauding an airminded son who sped through the air more than 400 miles an hour at a great time ago; and Great Britain is just waking down after celebrating the victory of two of her flyers who won the London-to-Melbourne air race.

Modern transportation, this. But one can still find types of transportation facilities, even in the world's largest cities and their rural neighborhoods, that were in use decades and even centuries ago.

Top-Hatted "Cabbies" Still Available

There is not a sizable town in the United States in which one cannot hail a taxi, and in many of them charter a plane; yet the top-hatted cabbie, whose pompous figure held sway over traffic on boulevards in the gay nineties, has not been entirely shelved, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. These "maximen" of another era have jealously watched as new traffic lights have been installed, traffic lanes have been painted to keep modern motorists from crashing bumpers and fenders, and streets have been widened and trees sacrificed to make room for more of their rivals; yet they still constitute something of a traffic problem.

Within sight of concrete, bi-million-an-hour highways, and less than 100 miles from Washington, D. C. and Annapolis, Maryland, ox-drawn vehicles still lumber along; while in the isolated mountain regions of the West, sure-footed burros and pack mules continue to be the only companions of many rugged prospectors.

Millions of visitors arrive at Atlantic City by automobile, airplane, and train, yet to see the "sights" along the Boardwalk, they hire three wheeled rolling chairs. Others arrive at Bermuda, aboard palatial steamships but take to bicycles to tour the island.

Riks-has, Sedan Chairs and Wheelbarrows

On the corners of modern, wide thoroughfares of Shanghai, Hong Kong and Canton, China, the traveler hails a riksha and weaves perilously through a maze of motor and pedestrian traffic. In the alleylike back streets of the native towns, however, he may prefer a sedan chair to avoid jostling men and women and stumbling over children to whom these mere byways are playgrounds.

What traveler leaves Durban, Natal, without employing a Zulu rikshaman? The dark-hued tribesman in gay-feathered headdress and scant clothing, is one of the colorful features of the South African city. In remote Szechwan Province, China, wheelbarrows, which are the local transports, have worn ruts in flagstone pavements; in Sumatra, if one goes native, he must travel in a Batalo-drawn cart whose thatched top is shaped like a sway-backed horse, pointed at each end. In Palermo, Sicily, the purely Sicilian way to get about town is by native cart, a two-wheeled vehicle on whose side panels are gayly depicted Bible scenes and Sicilian panoramas; and in Ireland, the Irish jaunting car on which passengers sit back to back and face outward lends atmosphere to a tour of the Emerald Isle.

Llamas still carry loads in the Andes, and elephants still are favored among the tiger hunters of India. In spite of progress in Belgium, the morning milk is still delivered by dogcart at many a doorstep, and dog sleds are yet the most dependable transportation in the icy wastes of the Arctic and Antarctic. The tired explorer enjoys comfortable travel in a hammocklike "chair" borne by native porters in central Africa; the mountaineers of northern India and western China employ the yak as their beast of burden; the camel still plods the caravan routes of north Africa, Arabia and central Asia; and the carabao (water buffalo) is the dependable draft-animal of the East Indian islands.

WASHINGTON MONUMENT TO GET FIRST BATH

The world's tallest and one of its most famous obelisks, the Washington Monument, which towers over the City of Washington, is framed in scaffolding in preparation for its first bath. Incidentally, the lofty structure will also have some of its age-worn wrinkles "ironed out" by stone masons at the same time.

A memorial to George Washington, the Monument had many "growing pains" from the time it was discussed in Congress shortly after the death of Washington in 1799 until its capstone was set in place Dec. 6, 1884, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Congress Fails to Act

Dec. 23, 1799, John Marshall, famous fellow-Virginian of George Washington, introduced a resolution in the United States House of Representatives providing that "a marble monument be erected by the United States in the City of Washington, and that the family of General Washington be requested to permit his body to be deposited under it." Martha Washington acceded to the provisions of the resolution; but nothing was done.

In 1816 and 1819 the memorial was discussed in the Halls of Congress and again in 1824 and 1825. And again, nothing was done to carry out the provisions of the resolution.

Displeased with the failure of Congress to erect a memorial, influential citizens of Washington organized in 1833 to promote the project. That body became the Washington National Monument Society, with Chief Justice John Marshall as its president. The Society, which financed construction of the shaft until it rose 154 feet, invited American artists to submit designs for a million-dollar edifice. Robert Mills won the competition, but his design was not accepted. It called for a circular colonaded building from the center of which rose a 500-foot obelisk.

Corner Stone Laid in 1848

In 1848, Congress passed a resolution authorizing the Washington Monument Society to erect a monument and authorized the President of the United States and officials of the Society to choose a suitable site. L'Enfant, in his plan of Washington had provided for an equestrian statue of Washington, but the spot then was a marsh. Thus the present site, only a few hundred feet away, was chosen.

On Independence Day 1848, amid colorful ceremonies, the corner stone, filled with historic documents, was laid. Slowly for six years the obelisk rose skyward. Then dissension in the Society and lack of funds caused construction to cease.

President Grant, in 1876, signed a bill which provided that the Government take over and complete the erection of the shaft. Engineers discovered, after careful examination, that the foundations were not sufficient for so lofty an obelisk so they began what was called at that time, "one of the most extensive engineering feats of the world"—rebuilding the Monument's foundations without damage to the structure. Then, stone by stone, the shaft rose until the pyramidal capstone was placed on Dec. 6, 1884.

The memorial was opened to the public Oct. 9, 1888. Lining its inner walls were placed stones presented by States, cities, fraternities, fire companies, lodges, and other organizations from all parts of the country. Stones from many foreign nations also have places in its walls.

The Monument rest slightly more than $1,000,000. It is 555 feet 5 1/8 inches high and stands on a base 55 feet square. The lower walls are of granite faced on the outside with marble. They are 15 feet thick up to about 500 feet; the upper walls, of marble only, are 18 inches thick. It is estimated that about 23,000 stones were used in the shaft's construction.

There are eight windows at the 504-foot level from which thousands of visitors annually view the Capital City and near-by Virginia and Maryland.

BANGKOK: COSMOPOLITAN SIAMESE CAPITAL

The possibility that King Prajadhipok of Siam, now in England, will abdicate his throne owing to unrest in Bangkok, the Siamese capital, centers international interest on that city of southeastern Asia.

As a capital city, Bangkok is not old, writes W. Robert Moore in a communication to the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. The new Rama I bridge, its enormous spans etched sharply against a background of colorful temples and waterfront shops, gives the city its date line. This 475-foot structure, first to link the two portions of the city, was dedicated in April 1932, in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the founding of Bangkok and the reign of the present Chakkri dynasty.

Only 152 Years Old

In the 152 years, Bangkok has seen many changes. Up and down the palaces and across the river the city has expanded; today it domiciles approximately 550,000 people. Well within the last half century, however, the Me Nam River, the leading commercial artery of the country, was still Bangkok's main street, and a system of canals formed its cross streets.

"Venice of the Orient," people called the city then. Many of the older buildings continue to face the river, rather than the network of roads that has been cut through the ever-growing city. Most of the floating houses, once a feature along the river banks and canals, now have disappeared, and in their stead are numerous two and three-story buildings lining the streets and alleys.

New Road, the city's main thoroughfare, is an indegent thing by day. All manner of buildings, from sun and rain-warped, open-front wooden shops to modern concrete structures, cluster along this famous avenue of commerce. For miles the road seems to wander aimlessly on, bending first one way and then the other, paralleling the sinuous course of the river. Far too narrow now for all the jinrikishas, trucks, automobiles, hand-drawn carts and bales of humanity that surge into it, the street is congested even more by tramcar lines.

Large Chinese Population

One is impressed by the number of Chinese shops and the throngs of Chinese people that are everywhere in the Siamese capital. On side streets one can step into veritable Chinatowns. Elsewhere one finds miniature Indias centered about the silk goods, gem and curio trade. As the visitor becomes more intimately acquainted with Siam, the answer to the foreign population becomes obvious. For centuries the Siamese have shown little inclination toward business, and have left it in the hands of outland people. More than 80 per cent of the Siamese are agriculturists, and the majority of the others are directly or indirectly connected with the Government service. Only slightly more than two per cent are engaged in industrial pursuits.

Several European business houses, marketing an incredible variety of goods, do a thriving trade in cosmopolitan Bangkok. Of course there are many Siamese stores, a few large, many small. Of the latter, the womenfolk often act as proprietors. It is sheer joy to go to a morning market to watch groups of Siamese women bargaining over prices of household commodities.

If Bangkok's business thoroughfares seem too narrow and congested, the same cannot be said of her outlying residential roads for they are wide avenues of asphalt or crushed rock, bordered with delightful canals. "Flame of the forest" trees, ablaze with red blossoms from April to June, or majestic rain trees canopied overhead, form stately Gothic arches for mile after mile.

What the capital's main street also lacks in interest beyond the ebb and flow of its contrasting traffic, is more than recompensed for by its gorgeous wats or temples. Within the walled-in enclosures of the temple areas the Siamese have poured out the abundance of their artistic skill and found expression for their love of colors.
